CATHOLIC PASTORAL EDITION

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY BIBLE

Dear Reader,

The Bible is the Word of God... but even if you had bought this book and read it with much attention, you cannot force God to hand over his message to you. God himself will introduce you to the Truth if you can meet certain requirements. The first one is to search with perseverance: the door will be opened to those who knock. Do not give up if you cannot understand at the beginning, but ask in prayer and you will receive light. Another condition to grasp the teaching of God is that you search for it together with your brothers and sisters as you participate in a Christian community.

If you have something to share, suggestions to give or doubts and questions to be clarified, please write to:

EPISCOPAL INTRODUCTION

The Church is born from the Word of God proclaimed and believed in. Personal and communitarian faith should be rooted in the reading and interiorization of the Word of God. On this premise does the Christian community become missionary, the sacraments become efficient and personal devotions and charitable works become really meaningful.

Something essential is lacking to Christian maturity when a person or a community ceases to read the Bible.

The Bible and God's people were born at the same time and have grown together. God's people needs the Bible, but the Bible has to be interpreted by the people of God. Our vision of God, of man and of the world stems from the Bible, but it is this vision that helps us understand the sacred book.

So the Bible is not a book just to be disseminated and left at the personal whims of anyone.

No one can make himself the owner of the Bible and its message. The believing community who listens to the Word of God is part of the Catholic, that is, Universal Church which has been instructed by the Spirit and enlightened by the great witnesses of the faith during the last twenty centuries. This is why introductions and commentaries accompany the biblical text. They help us get a more global vision of the Good News of God and its impact in a world which God continues to re-create and save among and with us.

The Second Vatican Council asks that the Word of God be available for all times, providing the faithful with necessary and adequate explanations so that they safely and profitably grow familiar with the Sacred Scriptures and be penetrated by the Spirit (DV 25, PO 4). It is in the spirit of the Council that we recommend this pastoral Bible, hoping and praying that this new version will gain acceptance among our faithful.

JESUS IS RISEN!

You who open the Bible are seeking Jesus. The Bible is not only a book for prayer or for our instruction. The Bible is the Word of God which communicates life to us.

The Cross of Jesus and his Resurrection are at the very center of the Bible. You for whom the road is difficult and who do not see the light at the end of the tunnel, learn from the Bible that you are walking toward the Resurrection, and understand who the risen Jesus is for you.

The Bible . . .

The Bible did not come down from heaven. The books it contains were not proclaimed from the clouds by some heavenly speaker, but rather they were patiently gathered throughout the centuries within the heart of Israel, the PEOPLE OF GOD, thanks to the faith of its most conscious minorities.

For some 18 centuries, from Abraham to Jesus, the people of Israel discovered ever more clearly that the One God had committed himself to them. The experiences of the national community, the warnings of those men – called prophets – who spoke on behalf of God, the concerns which developed among believers: all of them somehow went into these books. The religious leaders of Israel received books, selected and accredited them, then integrated them into the Sacred Book.

That was how the Old Testament of the Bible was formed. It is called testament because these books were like the most precious inheritance given by God to his chosen people.

After so many experiences there came a time of crisis for the people of Israel when God wanted to bring them at last to mature faith. And Jesus came for that purpose. The most transcendent experience in all of history was fulfilled in him – Jesus, his efforts to save the Jewish people from imminent destruction, his rejection, his death, and then, his resurrection, which became the final word of God.

The person of Jesus gave rise to the preaching of the church and to the books which were written in the community. The ones which were approved by those responsible in the church came to form the New Testament.

. . . and Tradition

The books of the Bible do not get their message through except to those who come to share the experience of the community where these books originated. There is a way of understanding the Bible which is peculiar to the people of God: this is what we call the Tradition of the people of God. Jesus received this tradition from his own family and from his people. Later, he taught his apostles a new way to understand this sacred history. This is why we speak of the Tradition of the apostles or the Tradition of the church.

To understand the Bible well, we cannot rely on just any preacher's interpretation. We must accept it in the same way as the Catholic church understands it – founded by the apostles and always faithful to their norms.

WHERE DO WE BEGIN OUR READING OF THE BIBLE?

The simplest way is to start with the Gospels where we meet Christ, who is the Light, the Truth and "the" Word of God.

Obviously, the Old Testament contains many important lessons. Yet, the person who reads them after having heard Christ, understands them better and discovers a different flavor in them.

Some people are accustomed to opening the Bible at random, thinking that the first paragraph they find will precisely give them the word they need at that moment. Certainly, God can answer their concerns in this way but he never committed himself to communicate with us in such a manner.

In any case it is advantageous to have read each book of the New Testament in its sequence at least once. It is good to begin with the Gospels. With regard to this, read the "Introduction to the Four Gospels" at the beginning of the New Testament.

The New Testament Includes —

THE FOUR GOSPELS. The word Gospel means Good News. These are the books in which Jesus' apostles wrote what they had seen and learned from him.

The book of the ACTS OF THE APOSTLES written by Luke who is also the author of the third Gospel follows.

Then, there are more than twenty LETTERS which the apostles addressed to the first Christian communities.

The Old Testament Includes —

HISTORICAL BOOKS. Here we see God's action in human history in order to liberate a people he wants to make his own. We see God teaching this people and giving meaning to their national history. Genesis, Exodus, Deuteronomy and the books of Samuel stand out among these books.

PROPHETIC BOOKS. God intervenes in history through his prophets whom he entrusted the task of communicating his word.

WISDOM BOOKS: They highlight the importance of an individual's formation and efforts in order to become a responsible person and a believer.

How to Use this Book

Each book of the Bible is divided into chapters, and each chapter into verses. Usually a book is quoted in an abbreviated form as for example, Mt means the Gospel according to Matthew. You will find these abbreviations in the index. Chapters are indicated by large numbers at the beginning of a paragraph and verses by small numbers in the margin.

To refer to a passage in the Bible, first you give the chapter, and then the verse. For example Jn 20:13 refers to John's gospel, chapter 20, verse 13; Lk 2:6-10 refers to Luke's Gospel, chapter 2, from verse 6 to 10.

The biblical text is found at the upper part of the page with the commentaries below in a different print. The signs ♦ ■ ○ + indicate to what paragraph of the text the commentary refers.

We use the italic type:

- In the New Testament for quotations from the Old Testament. For example in Mt 26:31; the evangelist quotes from the prophet Zechariah 13:7.
- In the Old Testament for various reasons which are indicated in the introduction of each book.

How to read and not to misunderstand the Bible

- 1 Do not think that you are the first to understand God's message and that there were no true Christians before you. This would be the way to have one more founder of those strange sects.
- 2 Do not think that whatever word of God you may find in the Bible has been said straight for you to solve your problem this very day. Each word was given by God to people living under concrete circumstances. Think of what their problem was and what God wanted them to understand. Then you may ask: What light does this message shed on the present time and circumstances?
- 3 God taught his people for more than fifteen centuries from Abraham to the apostles, and he did not teach everything from the beginning. Do not wonder, then, that Moses and even the Prophets ignored important things we are told of by the witnesses of Jesus who is the Word of God.
- 4 From the very first message which God gave his people, he had in mind the coming of his Son and the mystery of his cross and resurrection. All is to be understood in this light.
- 5 In the Bible, the most important things are taught clearly. However, some pages that actually have little to teach us were written in a sophisticated way according to an old literary style. Do not cling to some strange sentences to the point of forsaking what is clear and fundamental.
- 6 Read your Bible continually, not to learn what you do not know yet, but as a proof of your love and faithfulness to God. If you persevere, he shall give you the understanding of everything.

WHAT WAS IN THE WORLD BEFORE THE BIBLE?

The world had been in existence for a long time before God called Christ's ancestor, Abraham. Information given below shows how modern science – which still has a lot to discover – views the past history of the universe.

The age of creation

The Earth is no more than a grain of dust in the universe: a fragment of the Sun cooled off. Light, moving at a speed of 300,000 kilometers per second, needs a little over one second to go from the Earth to the Moon; it takes eight minutes to travel from the Sun to the Earth.

Other planets, like the Earth, likewise revolve around the Sun. Some, like Mars, are smaller than the Earth; others are larger. A ray of light emerging from the Sun takes seven hours to reach the most distant planet, Pluto. There ends the sun's power, seven billion kilometers away, which means nothing more than a stone's throw in the universe.

The Sun is a star like others, infinitely distant from other stars, so much that it takes three years for the sun's rays to reach the nearest star.

There are stars everywhere. Some are smaller than the Sun; others are much larger. They are numerous atomic furnaces with incredible heat at its core. Some, like the Earth, have cooled off and stopped shining.

In the same way as the Earth and the planets revolve around the Sun, so also some stars revolve around others. Grouped in families or colonies, they sometimes form clusters of ten thousand or more. When we say "grouped" it does not deny the fact that they are separated by enormous distances.

Seen from a great distance, the Sun and some billions of stars along with it would be no more than imperceptible dots; yet, together, they would appear like a luminous, flattened cloud, something like a disk or a wheel. This small universe, which a ray of light traverses from one extreme to the other in 300,000 years, is called The Galaxy.

Have we reached the farthest end of the world? Not yet; we have only covered a small area. Far away from this universe, or better, this Galaxy, others exist. Specialists say that the total number is at least five hundred million galaxies, some larger, others smaller than our own.

This universe is constantly changing. Some galaxies move away from others at a speed of thousands of kilometers per second. Stars, spatial dust, clusters of matter... the entire world appears to be like fragments emerging from a gigantic explosion. Experts dare to determine the approximate date when this atomic superbomb might have exploded: from ten to twenty billion years ago. That would be the age of creation.

An unfinished creation

For centuries most people thought that God had created everything in the beginning and that the universe had remained more or less the same afterwards: God had placed the sun, the earth and the stars in their proper place and they kept on turning in the same way. We have just seen that this idea no longer holds.

People also thought that, in the beginning, God had created "a" man, "a" horse, "a" sheep, "a" lion and that each one had had descendants similar to it. We now know that this is not so, but that God's creation is gradual and that new species appear.

We can take the growing child as a point of comparison. He is a creature of God at birth, but he grows, learns and becomes an adult. Being an adult will be very different from being a child. Yet, the adult is still God's creature and it is God who enabled him to grow.

The same thing happens with the big human family. In the beginning God did not create the beings we now know. Billions of years ago, the world of living beings was a "baby" world with primitive plants and animals which do not exist today. There were no four-legged animals, no birds, and naturally, there were no people. But from them, through a series of transformation and evolution, emerged other living beings – those we now know and who make up a world of living beings – better organized and more developed than those in the world in the beginning.

And thus, there was not "a" creation, but what was started followed its path with the energies that God had placed in it. This is the history we are going to summarize in a few lines.

The emergence of living beings

One or two billion years ago, when the earth was still hot and enveloped in thick clouds from which boiling showers were constantly falling, the first living beings appeared in the seas. They were minute beings, like microbes, which multiplied and evolved as soon as they appeared.

God had not created a collection of living beings destined to reproduce themselves in the same way. God was creating Life and Life was developing. It was not only the struggle for survival which made the weakest disappear and the better prepared remain. It was not chance alone which, in each species, gave rise to beings with characteristics different from those of their predecessors. There were spiritual forces at work within the living matter – creating new organs in every species, attempting to solve each problem in a thousand different ways such as developing organs for seeing, hearing, feeling, running, swimming, flying.

Life was the work of a free and intelligent God, and this uncontrollable Force was looking for the tools that would enable creatures to be freer and more intelligent. And the most effective tool was the brain. The most primitive beings had only a few nerve centres, but in one of these cores was formed a real control centre: the brain. Throughout five hundred million years the brain developed. There appeared new species with a larger and better structured brain. After the reptiles, mammals appeared, and among the latter were the "anthropomorphous," that is to say, animals of human form. Some are still in existence today and they form the most important group of apes. And these anthropomorphous, led by creative forces at the service of the divine plan, evolved in such a way that their brains and bodies could already be those of a free and intelligent being.

Some three million years ago there appeared a race already resembling today's man: they already knew how to cut stones in a very rudimentary way. Then, approximately a million years ago, the famous Pithecanthropus (Java man) had overcome the fear of fire inherent to animals, and was using fire. Was this a genuine man, that is to say, endowed with reason and freedom? We certainly do not know this.

Then, races very similar to ours appeared. From about 70,000 before Christ, signs of ongoing creativity appeared: progress in techniques, concern to bury the dead, the beginnings of art.

How had a real man emerged, or, how had he begun to be a free person, with a spirit in the image of God and thus immortal as God is? No one can answer that question. Such a man was the work of God in a very direct sense whatever his ancestors may have been, since his immortal soul that gave him intelligence, freedom and power was received from the divine Spirit.

Man's first steps

For many centuries man did not alter the face of the earth very much. His spirit was in God's image, but his body and his way of life scarcely differed from those anthropomorphous from whom he had emerged (let us not say "had been born," since his personhood truly comes from God). Families and human groups lived in a primitive way – lodging in caverns, hunting in the forests – as do some tribes still in existence today.

Slowly, man invented language and made weapons and instruments. He was not only interested in what was useful and visible. He was an artist. Underground, in the caverns and the grottos where these people celebrated their magic rituals far from daylight, they expressed their vision of the world by the animal figures they painted on the walls. Today we still marvel at their artistic genius.

Man was a religious being. He buried his dead with rituals destined to assure them of a happy life in another world. Being created in the image of God, his intelligence instinctively suggested that he would continue to live after death. However primitive he may have been, this man had a conscience, he was capable of loving and he was discovering something of God according to his ability. His beginnings, however, had been profoundly marked by violence and selfish instincts common to all living beings: sin was in him.

The first civilizations

About 10,000 years ago a change began to occur in humankind. People gathered together in greater numbers in the fertile plains. Within a few centuries they discovered how to cultivate land, to raise cattle, to mold and bake clay. There appeared villages which united to defend themselves and to make better use of the resources of the soil. The first civilization had been born.

After that, everything happened very quickly. Five centres of civilization appeared on the earth.

Three thousand five hundred years before Christ, in the geographical area called the Middle East where the biblical people would be born, two empires were being formed. One was Egypt and the other was Chaldea, the land from which Abraham would come centuries later. Chaldea perfected an irrigation system, constructed houses with baked clay walls, invented a writing system, had laws and a centralized administration. Egypt had also progressed. They constructed magnificent temples for their gods and built the Pyramids for the tombs of their Pharaohs.

Similarly in China and India, approximately twenty centuries before Christ and in Central America, ten centuries before Christ, other civilizations were born. Those of Central America, China and India developed separately since in those days it was very difficult to travel over the continents.

On the other hand, in the Middle East, Chaldea and Egypt were in contact with each other and the road leading from one country to the other passed through a small country which, later, would be called Palestine. Material progress was not enough to lead men to truth and justice. We need only recall that the most learned groups of those two countries were the priests of the idols, that slavery was considered quite normal and that women were the slaves of men.

Abraham's departure

Eighteen centuries before Christ a number of nomadic tribes left Chaldea with their flocks to go and live in Egypt. Among those tribes on the way to Egypt were some very insignificant families whose leader was named Abraham. For him, however, the march had a deeper meaning. God had called him and promised him an extraordinary reward: "Abraham, all the nations of the earth will be yours."

Summary and Dates of Sacred History

THE OLD TESTAMENT

The history of Israel can be divided into four main periods: the Patriarchs, the Exodus and the Conquest, the period of the Kings, and the Jewish Community after the exile.

The period of the Patriarchs

Before Israel became a nation, nomadic Amorite families were traveling with their flocks throughout Mesopotamia, Syria and Canaan, going even as far as Egypt. Israel remembered these remote ancestors, especially two of them:

1800-1700: Abraham.

Abraham had left Haran for Canaan on a promise from God that he would give him land and descendants in that country.

1600-1500: Jacob.

Jacob had received new blessings from God while he was trying to settle in Canaan.

The history of the Patriarchs is primarily a praise of genuine faith (see Heb 11:8-11): it is related in Genesis chapters 12-50.

Abraham, Jacob and their people were nomads, poor and uneducated. They would travel with their tents and their flocks as far as they could within the two great civilizations of that time: Mesopotamia and Egypt. God called them so that from them would emerge his people, his own instrument to bring the history of all humanity to maturity and to a happy end.

1250: Exodus of Moses.

This whole history is in Exodus chapters 1-20; 24; 32-34. Also in Numbers chapters 11-14 and 20-25.

Nomads were going in and out of Egypt. One of these groups fled from slavery under the leadership of Moses. The miracle with which they were favoured in crossing the Red Sea was for them the sign that God was liberating them in order to put them at his service. Moses was their guide and their prophet and he was teaching them about Yahweh.

The Covenant between Yahweh and Israel is agreed upon in Sinai: Among all the people of the earth, you will be my own people (Ex 19:6).

According to the Bible the Israelites spent 40 years in Kadesh: Nm 14.

In the oasis of Kadesh Moses' group joins others of the same race who adopt the Mosaic Law: the Only God, Jealous and Just does not tolerate any divine image. God's people will have to fight rather than make pacts with the civilization and the religion of the Canaanites.

See map p. 283

After Moses' death, Joshua, with part of Israel, conquers a portion of the land of Canaan. The members of the 12 tribes, still very independent, become aware of their identity in the following century, when the "Judges" lead them in their fights against the oppressors.

The period of the Kings

Nathan's prophecy in 2 Sam 7:14.

The arrival of the Philistines by sea, their occupation of the coast and their invasion of the Palestine valleys, force the Israelites to unite in order to preserve their independence. Following Saul, who dies at war, David conquers Palestine and the surrounding areas. When he captures Jerusalem, he makes it the centre of national unity. David lives as servant of 970-932: Solomon's Kingdom.

The oldest parts of the Bible in Gen, Ex and Samuel are written then.

931: the Schism

Yahweh and a prophet and he receives a promise from God for his descendants who will reign after him.

Solomon, David's son, builds the Jerusalem Temple. It will replace all the old sanctuaries. He transforms Israel into an organized and urbanized nation of settled people.

When Solomon dies, a schism or division of the kingdom takes place.

The Kingdom of Judah (to the South) with kings who are descendants of David, with its capital in Jerusalem and with the Temple.

Kings, priests and prophets lead the community in various ways, enabling the old faith to adapt to the new society.

Great prophets: Isaiah, Micah, Zephaniah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel promote a personal faith in the Living God, a faith which demands Justice and Sincerity. They recall God's promises to Israel: in the midst of their infidelities and trials, God leads them to a Kingdom of Justice with the King-Messiah who will be like a new David.

Finally, the Kingdom of Judah is destroyed by the Babylonians. Jerusalem and the temple are burned and the elite exiled to Babylon.

The Kingdom of Israel (to the North), larger and more prosperous, will suffer political instability and tensions between traditional faith and the temptations of modern life and the Canaanite religion.

Three great prophets: Elijah, Elisha and Hosea try to bring the people to Yahweh, with renewed fidelity.

Finally, the Kingdom of Israel is destroyed by the Assyrians; its capital Samaria is captured and the elite deported.

850-800: Elijah and Elisha prophesy during the wars with Aram.

740: Beginning of the prophesying of Isaiah who sees the fall of Samaria (722) and the siege and liberation of Jerusalem (690).

Time when a history of the prophetic spirit is written: Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings.

622: Discovery of Deuteronomy and reform of Josiah. Jeremiah prophesies from 626 to the destruction of Jerusalem in 587.

520-515: Construction of the second Temple.

450-400: Ezra imposes the Law and gathers the sacred books.

330: Alexander the Great takes over the Persian empire and introduces Greek culture.

200: Movement of the Hasmoneans, or pious ones.

167: Mattathias' rebellion.

160: Judas Maccabeus' death

The Jewish Community after the Exile

Cyrus, the founder of the Persian Empire, conquers Babylon and liberates the Jews who had been exiled there. The exiles reorganize in Jerusalem. There are no more kings and prophets are going to be scarce. Priests are in charge of the community. The Mosaic Law, in its final version written by Ezra, rules both civil and religious life. The Temple and worship justify the life of this "holy" people, who are different from other people, because they are God's people.

With the penetration of Greek culture, a cultural and religious crisis occurs. A minority, the "pious ones" (Hasidim) promote a reaffirmation of the Judaic religion and introduce belief in the resurrection of the dead.

The great persecution by the Syrians which the Jews endured aroused the energies of the entire nation. Armed resistance, under the leadership of the Maccabees, obtains religious peace. The Jews even succeed in becoming an independent nation again.

135-75: Independence and conquests.
63: Pompey captures Jerusalem.

40-4: Herod's rule.

250: Translation of the Bible into Greek – called Septuagint – for the Jews of the Diaspora in Alexandria (Egypt)

In the following century the struggle for power brings about the intervention of foreigners: the Roman Empire imposes its domination, in a disguised form during the reign of Herod the Great and more openly when he dies. This is the time of the birth of Jesus.

Meanwhile, a lot of Jews have emigrated to all the great cities of the Mediterranean world and of the Middle East. There they form communities bound by the observance of the Law, and they begin to spread faith in the One God.

Some Important Dates for THE NEW TESTAMENT

- 35 B.C. • Herod, proclaimed king by the Romans, eliminates the Hasmonean princes and murders the high priest Aristobulus, his brother-in-law. From that time on, the high priests hold power in their hands.
- 19 • Herod begins rebuilding the Temple.
- 8 • Roman census (Lk 2:1) which prompts the rebellion of Judas the Galilean (Acts 5:37) and of the Zealots.
- 6 • Probably the year of the birth of Jesus. In figuring out the beginning of the Christian era, there was an error of six years.
- 4 • Death of Herod (Mt 2:19). His son Archelaus leaves for Rome to be appointed king, but he only receives Judea. The other provinces are entrusted to tetrarchs (Lk 3:2 and 23:7).
- 6 A.D. • The emperor Augustus replaces Archelaus with a Roman procurator. Zealot terrorism in Galilee and repression.
- 14 • Tiberius, emperor, in Rome.
- 26 • Pontius Pilate comes to Judea as procurator.
- 27 • Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, marries Herodias, his brother's wife.
- 27 • In the fall, preaching of John the Baptist and beginning of Jesus' ministry (Lk 3:2).
- 28 • Jesus is in Jerusalem for the Passover (Jn 2:13 and 2:25).
- 29 • John is executed in the Maqueronte fortress.
- 30 • On the evening before Passover, Friday, April 7th, Jesus is crucified and he rises the day after the Sabbath (John 20:1).
- 36 • Stephen's death and Paul's conversion (Acts 7 and 9).
- 37 • Herod Agrippa, king of all of Palestine, except Judea.
- 44 • Herod has James killed; Peter, freed (Acts 12).
- 49 • The Council of Jerusalem frees Christians from the observance of the Law (Acts 15).
- 50 • Second mission of Paul. With Gallio in 52 (Acts 18:12).
- 52 • Felix, procurator of Judea.
- 53-58 • Third mission of Paul.
- 58 • Nero, emperor in Rome.
- 58 • James, brother of the Lord, leading the Jerusalem church; Paul is arrested in the Temple (Acts 22:18 and 27).
- 60 • Festus, procurator of Judea.
- 61-63 • Paul in Rome (Acts 28:17-31).
- 62 • James, stoned by order of the high priest.
- 64 • Burning of Rome and persecution against the Christians.
- 64 • Martyrdom of Peter in Rome (or 67?).

- 66 • The first Jewish revolts, the Jerusalem community takes refuge in Peleá (Lk 21:20-21).
- 67 • Martyrdom of Paul in Rome (or 64?).
- 67 • Beginning of the Jewish war which will last four years (Lk 21:22-24).
- 70 • Titus captures Jerusalem: burning of the Temple (Lk 21:6).

FROM THE APOSTLES TO US

Seventy generations of Christians separate us from the time of the apostles. To speak about the church is to speak about these brothers of ours: it is easy to criticize them or to think that they should have been better, but it is more difficult to know the world in which they lived, a world very different from ours, and to understand what they tried to accomplish under the inspiration of their faith.

Free people, virgins and martyrs

Christians of the first centuries rejoiced in feeling liberated: freed from pagan superstitions and also freed from their own fears and selfishness. But, they paid a high price for this freedom. In their days there was no law superior to the Emperor's will or to the customs of his people; yet, Christians placed Christ above human authorities and, being conscientious objectors, they were treated as evil-doers. Christian love and virginity were insults to the vices of the pagan world.

Therefore, Christians were persecuted. During three centuries there were repressions and martyrs, at times in one province of the empire, at times in another. In some periods all the forces of power were unleashed against Christians with the intention of wiping out the name of Christ. But the crowds who, for entertainment, would go to watch the tortures inflicted upon Christians came back ashamed of their own wickedness and convinced that authentic humanity was in the persecuted.

Meanwhile the Roman world was becoming decadent. Before they were vanquished by their enemies, the Romans' spiritual forces which had so exalted their empire, were weakening; the old beliefs were lifeless. In the year 315, Constantine, the emperor himself, asked to be baptized. And after him, the rulers were Christians. This was a decisive event for the church which became protected instead of being persecuted.

This triumph, however, brought along disadvantages which would be gauged with time. From then on the church had to be the spiritual force needed by the people of the Roman Empire. It replaced the false religions and opened up its doors for the crowds seeking baptism. The church was no longer restricted to believers baptized after being converted and tested. Rather the church had to be the educator of a "Christian people" who did not differ much from the previous "pagan people." What was gained in terms of numbers was lost in terms of quality. The "Christian" emperors were no different from their predecessors either. Just as they had been the supreme authority in the pagan religion, so now the emperors wanted to rule the church, to appoint and control its bishops: they protected the faith and controlled consciences.

On the other hand, when Christians were no longer considered underground or oppressed, they became more involved in worldly problems. How could they reconcile the culture of their time with faith? This was the period when the bishops, called the "holy fathers," gave an extensive presentation of the faith as they responded to the questions of their contemporaries. St. Augustine stood out among the best.

Some people prefer not to see the difficult aspects of faith. But those who dare to probe them, as should be done, do not always bother about errors. The heresy which spread the most and which almost dragged the church down was "Arianism." Due to their fear of dividing the one God, Arians denied that Christ was the Son, equal to the Father; they considered him to be only the first among beings in the whole of creation. Arian emperors would appoint Arian bishops. However, as Jesus had promised, the Holy Spirit preserved the faith of Christian people and the heresy faded away.

Seeing that the church was no longer the fervent community of the time of the martyrs, Christians looking for perfection in those days began to organize themselves in austere and demanding communities. They felt they had to separate themselves from a comfortable life to seek God with their whole soul. And so, first in the deserts of Egypt, then throughout the whole Christian world, there were monks and hermits. In the church, monks preserved the ideal of a perfect life, a life totally surrendered to Christ. Their life of mortification allowed them to know the deepest recesses of the human heart. And God, for his part, gave them the experience of transformation or divinization reserved for those who left everything for him.

The yeast in the dough

When the Roman Empire collapsed at the invasion of the barbarians, and was ruined, devastated and torn to pieces, it seemed as though it was the end of the world. (We always mention the Roman Empire not because it was the only inhabited place in the world but because, Christian preachers had not actually, or barely, gone beyond its boundaries.)

But, in reality, this destruction announced by John in Revelation marked the beginning of other times. The church did not collapse in the turmoil. Instead, it discovered a new task: to evangelize and educate people who, after the Barbarian invasions, had come back to a poorer society, very uncivilized and totally disorganized.

The only moral force or stable institution these people knew was the church. Many times the bishop had become the only "defender of the people" against the invaders. There was no one except the priests to educate the people; books about ancient culture were kept in monasteries along with Sacred Scriptures. The church was the soul of these primitive people, who were cruel, liberal and excessive in everything. While the church was always struggling to limit wars and revenge, to protect women and children and to develop a sense of constructive work, it also allowed superstitions and corruption within its ranks. It seemed at times that even the highest authorities, the Popes, were falling into the vices of the world... but what was sown in tears, flourished with time.

Just as in Sacred History where God had taught the primitive people of Israel, allowing many errors to be corrected only with time, so it was with what was called 'Christendom,' namely, those European people who were learning to be human, free and responsible. A new civilization was born: its culture, art and, above all, its ideals were products of their faith.

Catholics and Orthodox: The Schism

The Eastern part of the Roman Empire had resisted the Barbarian invasions. Little by little this part of the church, called Greek or Orthodox, which later would evangelize Russia, distanced itself from the Western part occupied by the Barbarians and led by the church of Rome. There were two churches, different in culture, language and religious practices in spite of keeping the same faith. And that was not bad. Both churches, however, sinned in paying more attention to their own customs than to the common faith. Thus, the Eastern church moved away from the Pope, Peter's successor in Rome.

Later the Turks, followers of Islam, conquered the rest of the Roman Empire in the East and there remained only a few Christian communities where the ancient churches of Syria, Palestine, Egypt... had flourished. Today, Greece, Rumania and Russia, above all, form the most important part of the Orthodox world.

The Church and the Bible

In 1460 Gutenberg's discoveries made the printing of books possible. Before that there were only expensive and rare books, written by hand. The average person could not have a Bible, not even a Gospel. The Bible was read in church and was the source of preaching. To make it more visible to the faithful, no church was built without adorning it everywhere with paintings, sculptures or stained-glass windows depicting biblical scenes.

From then on, anyone able to read could have the Sacred Scriptures. This technical discovery was going to precipitate a latent crisis in the church. For centuries the institutions of the church, its clergy and religious had built the culture and unity of the Christian world: being guides in politics as in spirituality, their material preoccupations had often been more important than their dedication to the Gospel. Many outstanding, religious and holy men had protested and asked for reforms. But there were no reforms. With the printing of the Bible many thought that the only way to reform the church was to give the Sacred Book to everyone so that by reading it, people would appreciate the original message and correct the errors and bad customs which had become entrenched in them.

When Martin Luther took the initiative of reforming the church by moving away from the official church, he undertook the translation of the Bible into German, the language of his people. Up until then the Bible had almost always been published in Latin.

This is because most priests in the church, unaware of the benefit from an individual reading of the Word of God, paid more attention to the possible danger for everyone feeling capable of understanding the Bible correctly if the Sacred Book were given to all. They were not totally wrong. As soon as Luther had translated the Bible, his followers began to fight among themselves and to establish opposed churches, each one certain of having the truth.

When, years later, the church did reform, it still did not promote enough interest in the Bible. Preachers and missionaries were teaching the Gospel, but everything was given to the people from above without arousing their interest to look for the truth on their own.

From the time of the apostles, believers have been preoccupied with passing the faith on to others. There were also missionaries who ventured among the hostile people, or people who spoke a different language, in order to preach the Gospel. But when all of Europe was more or less united under Christianity, and the cultural and social fields animated by the church, people felt that the missionary task had been achieved. What was there outside of the Christian nations? They would have answered: "Only the Moors." The Moors, that is, the Muslims were fierce enemies of the Christian nations. They did not think there were any other people beyond.

Some prophets like Francis of Assisi or Raymond Lull saw that it would be better to preach Christ among the Muslims than to fight them with arms. There were also some missionaries, like Juan de Montecorvino, who travelled all of Asia on foot all the way to China. But they were the exceptions. In those days which seem remote to us, the churches of Europe already had centuries of tradition; they had their culture, their own way of thinking about the faith and of living the Gospel. It was very difficult for men of that time to understand people from another culture and to pass the Gospel on to them in such a way that they could organize themselves into a church suited to their own temperament and according to their own idiosyncrasies. This is why the missions which the church established in these distant places did not prosper and the church became identified with European Christianity.

But when Marco Polo, Vasco de Gama and Christopher Columbus pierced the wall of ignorance surrounding Christianity, the church realized the true dimension of the world which had not received the Gospel yet: Africa, Asia and America. The first who sailed to far countries were merchants and adventurers – unobtrusive people who do not usually venture into such things. But as soon as they had discovered the new world, they would be accompanied by adventurers of the faith, people eager to win for Christ those who did not know him yet. Among those who left without weapons, with no preparation other than their faith, saints and martyrs were not lacking.

In Africa, mission and colonization progressed together. Christian faith could extend to those of animist religions. In their preaching, however, missionaries did not pay enough attention to cultural background so that the numerous baptisms did not mean that the depth of the African soul had been converted.

In great parts of Asia, especially in China and India, many missionaries were not prepared to undertake an evangelization starting from the knowledge of local culture and religion. The ignorance of such a long religious experience did not allow but the conversion of minorities, except in some places of India and Vietnam.

It seemed that the mission in America would be easy and fruitful. The Spaniards had destroyed the indigenous nations and, at times, ruined their culture. The natives did not resist the faith and, in various places, privileges were granted to those who became Christians. But under a thin layer of Catholic practices, the native people preserved their pagan beliefs. Most of them did not encounter Christ, nor did they convert to his message in a responsible way.

The rebellion of the laity

When we discussed Christianity, we said that the church had taken over many public services out of necessity for there were no civil or military authorities to take care of them. The clergy founded and managed schools and universities; the religious were in charge of public health – hospitals, hospices and orphanages. Monks colonized and developed uncultivated lands.

However, the time came when the most responsible among the leaders and intellectuals realized that all these tasks should be given back to civil authorities. Considering this they agreed with the Gospel which distinguishes between what belongs to Caesar and what belongs to God. But they had to confront traditional ideas. We are hardly convinced that we should relinquish our responsibility to someone else. This happened with church authorities to the point that the changes needed for decadent Christianity to give way to modern nations, lay institutions, and independent sciences were achieved through struggles. Everybody knows about the ridiculous suit against the physicist Galileo and the political conflicts which took place between popes and kings.

The Church and the modern world

In the last four centuries the world has experienced more crises, progress and changes than in all previous times. Christian faith had given the Europeans the energy, security and awareness of their mission in the universe which enabled them to create science, develop techniques and dominate other continents. Obviously, conquests and colonization sprang from motives very foreign to faith; but even so, they were completing the plan of God who, from the beginning, contemplated the reunion of all nations.

The church participated in this expansion. In the 19th century there were as many as 100,000 missionaries, priests and religious committed to evangelization and education in Asia, Africa and America.

What was most important, however, was occurring in Europe. The church was facing the modern culture which had emerged from the church itself but which, having become independent, was turning out to be its enemy. Learned minds commonly believed that their wisdom was capable of bringing about progress, happiness and peace to humanity and they saw nothing in the church but ignorance and prejudices. In short, they saw the church as the main obstacle to human liberation. Many dared to predict the death of Christianity before the 20th century.

This complex situation forced the church to let go of its security and to answer questions that were becoming more crucial. Christ had indeed entrusted the church with the truth and he continued to reign in his risen state. But the church had to discover and to prove again and again what this truth meant for modern people... and this was not the time for the church to rule but to serve in the midst of humiliations.

The great century of evangelization

The 20th century seems to have simplified the situation. On one hand, after three centuries of futile struggles, the church has realized that in losing its resources, its political power and its cultural monopoly, it has recovered its true mission, that is to be a source of love and unity in the world, the yeast in the dough.

The church represents only a minority in the world: some 700 million Catholics among four billion people on earth. Yet, they are – more than ever before – a minority concerned for all that is human, knowing that God's work consists in saving all that is human.

On the other hand, the secular culture that pretended to solve all human concerns without resorting to faith has seen its limitations, and later, its failure. The best thinkers admit that humanity is heading for chaos if people do not come back to faith, hope and a common vision of their destiny. Otherwise, the tensions between rich and poor, the conflict of ideologies, and the confusion of human wisdom will lead us straight to a universal confrontation.

In many parts of the world, the church, which had previously sided with the rulers, is persecuted. This is taking place in communist countries determined to eliminate all religions; this is happening in countries dominated by people of another religion, like Muslims or Hindus; and it is happening in the very societies which claim to be Christian, but which turn their backs on justice and respect for persons, as is the case in America.

Now, the church has a better understanding of what it means to give witness to Christ and to proclaim the Good News to the poor. It ceases to be an institution ruled by a higher class, the clergy, and it is again a community of communities. The church understands that disaster is approaching if people do not learn how to be reconciled; and reconciliation based on truth, justice and forgiveness is the fruit of evangelization. For those who do not dwell on thoughts of the inevitable mediocrity of most believers, on past errors or on the slowness of certain changes, this century is undoubtedly the great century for the evangelization of all the world.

Will there be other times after this one?

INDEX OF WORDS

(The numbers in bold type, like 32, refer to the index of biblical teaching)

Alleluia. Praise God! Among the Psalms are the Hallel, that is the Alleluia Psalms: Ps 111-118; Ps 135 and 136.

Amen. I believe! I agree! So be it!: 2 Cor 1:17-20; Rv 3:14.

Anathema. Consecration to God for total destruction (com. on Jos 6:1; 1 Sam 15; Dt 13: 13-18). Consecration to God in a definitive way (Lv 27:28).

Angels. Com. on Gen 16; Ex 33:12; Is 6:1; Ez 1; Rv 8:1. See 15.

Antichrist. see 254.

Apostles. The Twelve apostles of Jesus: Mk 3:13; Mt 10:1. Their call: Lk 5:1; Jn 1:35. Jesus forms them: Mk 1:14, 6:7, 9:33, 14:26; Mt 16:13, 16:21; Lk 9:1, 10:1, 22:24. See also 122 and 175. The apostles of the church: 240. The apostle in the world: 1 Cor 1:17, 4:1; 2 Cor 3:6; Rv 11.

Ark of the Covenant: Ex 25:10; 1 Sam 4; 2 Sam 6; 1 Kgs 8:6; Jer 3:16; 2 Mc 2; Rv 11:19.

Authority: Ex 18:13; 1 Sam 8, 12; Ez 34; Is 9, 10, 32; Mi 5, 7:10; Mt 23; Mk 9:33; Rom 13:1.

Brothers of Jesus: Mk 3:31, 6:3, 15:40; Jn 7:3; Acts 1:14, 1 Cor 9:5; Gal 1:19.

Baptism: see 144, 180 to 182.

Charisms: see 193 to 196.

Christ (or Messiah, or Anointed of God). Used to refer to Kings, David's sons (1 Sam 9:11), to priests (Ps 106:16) to Jesus (Is 61:1, Ps 2; Heb 1:9).

Circumcision: (Gen 17).

Comfort: Is 40, 49, 51; 2 Cor 1:3; Rv 1-3, 22.

Confirmation: 183.

Conversion: see 244.

Covenant: with Noah (Gen 8:20), with Abraham (Gen 15), with Israel (Ex 19 and 24). Renewal of the Covenant (Jos 24; 2 Kgs 23; Neh 9:38). Limits of the Old Covenant (Heb 8 and com. on Dt 30:15). Promise of the New Covenant (Is 42:6; Jer 31; Ez 34, 37; Hos 2; Mal 3:1). The New Covenant (Mk 14:24; Gal 3; 2 Cor 3:6; Heb 12:18). See Testament.

Creation: 10-12, 141. The new creation: 150 to 154, and Rev 21.

Decalogue: Ex 20:1; Dt 5:6.

Devil: In the Old Testament mental problems, temptations (1 Sam 16:14), errors and perversions of men (Dt 32:17) are attributed to demons. But gradually the person of the Devil (Tempter), or Satan (Accuser: Job 1) stands out, the one who brought death to men. Jesus speaks of the Evil one (Mt 5:37; 6:13; 12:43; 13:39; 25:41), he expels the unclean spirits (Lk 6:18; Mk 5), he confronts the Evil one (Mt 4). He rescues us from the power of the devil (Acts 10:38; Heb 2:14; Jn 12:31, 17:15; 1 Jn 2:13).

Essenes: see com. on Lk 1:57.

Fast: Is 58; Zec 7; Jl 1-2; 1 Mac 3:47; Acts 13:2; Mk 2:18; Mt 6:16. Jesus' fast: Mt 4; Ex 25-28, 1 Kgs 19:8.

Intercession: 230, 231, 234, 237, 238.

Judgment: 56, 145, 116, 255.

Justice: of God, that is, the intervention of God to establish a just order (Is 41:2, 45:8; Ps 85:11-14; 36, 54, 56, 88). Man's justice in God's eyes: see justification. Justice with one's neighbour: Ex 23:1-3, 225.

Justification or Righteousness: God makes just (or righteous), that is, he makes man holy by reconciling him (182, 202, 203).

Kerygma: early proclamation of the apostles.

Mercy of God: 39, 40, 43, 136, 161, 162, 223; of man: 54, 77, 87, 225, 228, 118.

Ministries. Clergy in the Old Testament (Nm 4; Heb 5-8; Nm 16). In the early church (186 and 195).

Mission: see 240 to 242.

Mystery. The saving plan of God for all nations (242). See Rom 16:25; Eph 1:9, 3:3; Col 1:25; 1 Tim 3:16; Rv 10:7.

Oath: Ex 20:7; Nm 5:14; Mt 5:33.

Pagans: see com. on Mk 7:24; Mt 23:31.

Paraclete: see com. on Jn 14:16 and 14:26, 15:26, 16:7.

BIBLICAL TEACHING

The Old Testament: GOD TEACHES HIS PEOPLE

	O	All God's relations with the created world manifest three aspects of the divine purpose: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> God loves humankind. Here we recognize his justice and generosity, and we speak preferentially of creation and providence. God chooses those who will be granted a closer relationship with through Christ. Here we recognize his mysterious and loving predestination. And we speak preferentially of grace and sanctification. God wants those who have received more from him to take part in the work of bringing salvation to the rest of humankind. In this this work of redemption Christ, the Chosen One and the Saviour of all stands out.
1^a God the creator. God of all people	10	The universe is the work of God: Gen 1; Is 44:24; Ps 8:4, 18:2, 32:6. God, creator of the heavens and the earth : Gen 1:1, 14:9, 22. God created from nothing: 2 Mc 7:28.
	11	God creates with wisdom: Ps 104:24. God creates through his wisdom: Prv 8:22; Wis 8:6; Sir 24:9; or through his Spirit: Ps 33:6, 104:30; Jdt 16:14. God creates with measure, number and weight: Wis 11:20. The apostles discover that this Wisdom is the Word or the Son of God: Jn 1:3; Col 1:16. Through him God plans the development of history: Heb 1:2. God brings creation to maturity by infusing his Spirit into it: Wis 1:1-7, 10, 11:20-12:2.
	12	God has created us through his Son: he makes us children "in him": Gal 3:26-29, 4:4-7; Eph 1:3-4. And gives the human person life through his word and his Wisdom: Dt 8:3; Prv 8:1-21; Lk 1:50-55. Examples in Ex 3; Jgs 6; 1 Kgs 19:6-8; Is 6:8; Jer 15:19-21. See also 153-156.
	14	God rules the universe: Ps 33, 96; Rv 4:1-10. He directs events for our good: Mt 6:31; Lk 12:5-7; Jn 16:23; Rom 8:28. God looks after all his creatures: Ps 104; Jon 4:11; Wis 11:23-26.
	15	Spiritual creatures called angels take part in the development of the universe and in the execution of the divine plans: Zec 1; Ex 23:23; Tb; Dn 3:49-11.
	16	God blessed humanity and its development: Gen 1:28. He renewed his blessing after the fall: Gen 8:21, 9. He is the God of all nations: Dt 33:3; Mal 1:11; and the saviour of all: Jon 4:11.
	17	God punishes man's sins (Ex 7:10), but he never ceases to love the human race: Gen 8:21.
	18	God gives signs to all men (Heb 14:17; Mt 2:1) and he also gives them prophets to interpret those signs: Nm 22-24; 1 Sam 6; Jonah. There are saints not belonging to the people of God: Enoch (Gen 5:23), Melchizedek (Gen 14:18), Job and Daniel (Ez 14:4).
	19	However, to achieve his work of salvation, not from outside but within the frame of history, and respecting the necessary stages, God chooses a people of his own through whom his promises will come to all the nations: Gen 12:3; Gal 3:8 and 14. See 37. All of Sacred History refers to this chosen minority. It manifests their mission and the inheritance God willed to grant to them. God who sends them is the same who loves them for all eternity. See com. on Lk 1, 38; Eph 1, 18 and 2, 7-10.
2. God gives his Covenant to Abraham	20	First step in Sacred History: God calls Abraham: Gen 12:1. God's call to Abraham includes a double promise: he will give him descendants (Gen 15:4; 18:10) and a land: Gen 12:7.
	21	God makes a Covenant with him. From then on he will be the God of Abraham and of his descendants for ever: Gen 15:18; 17:7; Is 51:2.
	22	This covenant makes Abraham (and his descendants), the servant of God and of his works in the world, so that God's blessing will come to all nations: Gen 12:3; 28:14.
	23	On various occasions Abraham demonstrates his faith in the promises of God for whom nothing is impossible: Gen 15:1-6; 22.
	24	God shows that he is pleased with Abraham's faith (Gen 15:6) and

		obedience (Gen 22:26; Jas 2:21) more than with the fulfilment of some religious practice (Rom 4:3-4 and 4:19-22). 25 Abraham's faith makes him a friend of God: Is 41:8; Dn 3:35; Jas 2:23, and he lives with God after death: Lk 20:38. 26 Because of his faith, Abraham becomes a person who counts in the eyes of God who takes him into account when he makes decisions: Gen 19:17-33; Is; 41:9, 43:1, 49:4. 27 Abraham's faith shows the way that all must follow from then on in order to receive God's promises: faith in the promises of God (Rom 4:20) who can even raise the dead: Heb 11:17-19. 28 The Covenant with Abraham is confirmed in his descendants (Gen 28:10; 32:23; 49:28). However, this covenant continues to be a gift of God which is given not to all of Abraham's children by family right, but to those whom God designates: Gen 21:12, 25:23; Rom 9:6-13.
3. Moses and the Exodus. God as Liberator and Just	30	God sees the sufferings of his people in Egypt (Ex 2:24 and 3:7) and he remembers his covenant with Abraham (Ex 2:24 and 3:16). God calls Moses (Ex 3:1 and 6:28) to liberate Israel. 31 In the Hebrew culture the liberator of a thing or a person is the one who buys it or takes it away from its/ his owner in order to make it/ his own. Israel is liberated from the power of the Egyptians in order to belong to God: Ex 3:10 and 3:12, 19:4 and 19:6, 20:2 and 20:3. 32 The God who liberates Israel teaches them his very Name, or a part of his mystery. The name with which Israel will invoke him: Yahweh: 1 am. Ex 3:14-15. See commentary on Ex 3:1 and Jn 8. Yahweh: the one who is, the one who brings into existence; the God who reckons with what is nothing and worthless in order to humble those who believe in them: 1 Sam 2:4-8; Ps 113:7; Rom 4:17; 1 Cor 4:17. See commentary on Ex 3 and 4. 33 Yahweh is the Only God (Dt 6:4) who cannot be portrayed without diminishing him (Ex 20:4): totally different from all that men can imagine or invent, namely, from all that can be seen (Dt 4:12). We know him only through his word (Dt 4:12; Jn 5:38). Against images: Dt 4:15 and com. on Is 46:5 and Bar 6. 34 God is holy (Am 4:2; Hos 11:9). Holiness means an irresistible and deep-seated vitality, an energy which devours and gives life at the same time. God is holy and holy is his name (Am 2:7; Lv 20:3; Is 57:15). No one can endure his presence when he comes near (Ex 19:16; Is 6:1). Man cannot see him: Ex 3:2, 33:20; Jn 1:18; Col 1:15; 1 Tim 1:17; com. on Gen 16:1. Man cannot judge his actions: Is 40:21; Ez 18:29; Job 38, 42; Rom 11:33; 1 Cor 2:9. 35 God is jealous (Ex 20:5): he cannot tolerate a stranger who comes and profanes what he has chosen or cared for, what he has chosen is already sanctified (Nm 17:1). He cannot stand to see his plans fail: Ez 36:22; Ex 32:12. He cannot cede his glory to another: Is 48:11. Devouring fire and jealous God: Dt 4:23; 1 Heb 12:29. 36 God is just. He forgives sin, but he does not leave it without punishment Ex 20:5; Jgs 2:13-22; 2 Sam 12; Jer 3; Hos 2,3. He brings sins into the open: Jos; 1 Kgs 21:20; Is 22:14; 2 Mc 12:38. God is just and his commands demand that we be just: Ex 20:1-17. See 50. 37 The only God, Holy, Jealous and Just, is a God who works in history and asks his people to do the same, differently from the other gods of nature (see com. on 1 Kgs 17). The God Liberator (Ex 14:15; 16; 17) also demand the conquest of the land of Canaan: Ex 34:11-13; Nm 14 and com. on Ex 32. From then on instead of only remembering the past, the religion of Israel will also look forward to new liberations (Jgs 4-6; 1 Sam 17; 2 Kgs 18-19; 1 Mc 4; Lk 1:73; Acts 1:6) and it will have new goals: Is 40-42; 65-66; Zec 8:20-23; Dn 7:26-27; Acts 1:8. 38 On Sinai God celebrates a Covenant with the people who will be his servant as he works in history: Is 49: 1-9; Ps 2; Ps 149:6-9. God makes them a people of priests and a consecrated nation: Ex 19:6, 24:3-11; 1 Pt 2:9. Renewal of the Covenant: Jos 8:30; Jos 24; 2 Kgs 23:21; Neh 8. He establishes a New Covenant: Jos 8:30; Jos 24; 2 Kgs 23:21; Neh 8. He establishes a New Covenant: Jer 31:31; Ezr 36:22; Mal 3:1. 39 Hebrew tradition will consider Moses as the first of the prophets (Dt 18:18-20, 34:10-12). It states that Moses was the first one to recognize

		the true face of God: Merciful and Clement , rich in Love and Fidelity: Ex 34:1-9.
4. Time of the Kings a) The first prophets teach that God is Love and Fidelity	40	Prophecy will develop in Israel from the time of David onwards. Prophets affirm that God is Love and Fidelity, especially in Deuteronomy. Love and Fidelity refrain of Psalm 89: verses 2, 3, 15, 25, 29, 34, 50. Dt 7:9; 2 Sam 2:6.
	41	Love (or Gift, or grace) of God for Israel . He chooses Israel who does not deserve it (Dt 7:7, 9:5, 10:15). He gives her the land (the land of Canaan) inheritance: Dt 4:1, 4:38, 6:10. He makes the Israelites his children: Dt 32:5-6; Hos 11:1; Is 1:2.
		He gives prosperity in the Land : Dt 7:12-15, 8:18-19. Israel will keep God's gifts if she obeys and loves God: Dt 4:40, 6:10-19, 11:12-21.
	42	If Israel fails God, he will take away their prosperity and their land: Dt 4:24-31, 28:15-68. But the ever-faithful God will convert Israel after punishing her: Dt 30:1-10. A remnant of Israel will be saved: see 1 Kgs 19:18 and 60:69. Israel's destiny: chosen, punished and renewed: Dt 32. Then I will love them : Hos 14:5.
	43	Love (or Gift) of God to David . He gives him the Kingdom and makes him his own: 2 Sam 7:12-16. In Israel, only kings were considered as God's children: 2 Sam 7:14; Ps 89:27-28; Ps 2:7. Because of his love for David, as ruler God looks after his descendants: 1 Kgs 8:25, 11:34.
		Because of their sins, they deserve to be rejected by God: Jer 22:24. But God, being merciful and faithful, will again establish a descendant of David as ruler (see 60-69).
	44	Fidelity or Truth : it is the same word in Hebrew and it is similar to amen which means: it is so! (2 Cor 2: 18-20). Every word of God is faithful and it will be fulfilled: 1 Kgs 8:26; Neh 9:33. God's faithfulness to Israel cannot be belied: Rom 11:28; 15:8.
	45	In politics, kings must respect the demands of the Covenant (Dt 17:16-20; 1 Kgs 13; 2 Kgs 9:6-10). While priests condemn disobeying the Law of God (2 Chr 26:16), prophets focus on all that betrays the spirit of the Covenant: 2 Chr 20:36; 2 Chr 25:15.
5. Time of the Kings b) The great prophets speak of Love, Justice	50	You will love God with your whole heart, your whole soul....: Dt 6:4. Love for God, an interior attitude, is worth more than worship : Hos 6:6 and costly sacrifices: Mi 6:7-8; Jer 2:2.
	51	True love comes from the knowledge of God : Is 1:3; Jer 31:34; Hos 2:22, 3:5. To know God is to recognize his actions in events: Is 1:1-6, 22:8-14, 28:23-29, 30, 31:1-9, 42:18-25; Jer 6:10-16; Am 4:4-13; and to listen to his prophets: Is 6:9-12, 8:11-18, 41:21-29; Jer 13:15-17; Am 5:6-8; Zec 7:9-12.
	52	Love and the knowledge of God will be the fruits of the New Covenant , profound gifts of God: Jer 31:31; and work of the Spirit : Ez 36:27-30; Jl 3:1-2; the covenant of God with the humble and the poor in Spirit: Zep 3:11.
	53	The Covenant must turn into a real marriage . Israel, the bride of Yahweh: Is 54:6, 10, 62:1-5. Israel compared to the unfaithful bride : Hos 2; Jer 2-3; Ez 16 and 23. The future wedding in Love and Fidelity: Hos 2:20-25; Jn 1:17; Rv 21:2-4, 21:9.
	54	God, Just and Holy demands social justice . Return to a society of equality and fraternity: Jer 34:8-19. The rich is an oppressor : Is 5:8-9; Mi 3:9-11; Mi 2:9. In equality: a source of violence: Is 5:7; Ez 22:23-25, 24:6-8; Am 5:7-13; Mi 2:1-5. Unjust laws : Is 10:1-2; Am 5:7.
	55	God detests the pride coming from the money: Is 2:6-22, 3:16-24. He detests the pride coming from power: Is 14:5-21, 36:22-29, 47; Hb 2:6-13.
	56	God prepares a destructive Judgment , called the Day of Yahweh : Is 1:24-28; Am 5:14-21; Zep 1:14-18, 3:1-8. A judgment which will reestablish justice: Is 2:1-5, 4:2-6; Ez 34; and will bring about final peace: Is 9:1-7, 11:1-9, 32:15-20. He prepares a City of Justice : Is 1:26, 60; Zec 8:1-17 and Triumph for the humble : Is 26:1-6; Zep 3:12-18, and Consolation for the oppressed : Is 61:1-3.
6. God the Redeemer and his Messiah	60	In the Bible the word Redemption means the same as Liberation . One liberates a thing or person that was under the power of another in order to make it/him one's own: It is somewhat like buying. See in Lv 25 the redemption of slaves and lands. More still in Ru 2:20, 3:13, 4.

	61 God the Redeemer frees his people from the power of foreigners: Jgs 2:13-17; Dt 4:34; Ex 20:1,3:8. After the first liberation from Egypt and many other liberations (Jgs 3:4; 1 Sam 7; 2 Kgs 19), it was becoming eminent during the time of the Exiles that a definitive liberation is nearing: Is 40,41:8,43:1-7. 62 God also led them to hope that by saying his people he would give peace to all the earth: Gen 12:3; Is 49:6. This hope took shape with King David: Israel believed they had found the perfect king in this anointed one (or Messiah). Gen 49:10; Nm 24:7 and 17 refer to him. 63 Later, they considered David and his descendants as being sacred and they hoped for the coming of a Messiah like David: Ps 132; Ps 72; Jer 30:9. But they also understood that the Messiah would surpass all the rulers of the earth and that he would establish a kingdom of justice and peace: Is 4:2, 9:1-7, 11:1-9; Ps 2; Ps 110. 64 During the Exile, the author of second part of Isaiah sees in the believing remnant of Israel the Servant of Yahweh, an instrument of his salvation: Is 49:1-6, 50:1-9, 52:13-53:12. 65 The figure of a Suffering Messiah also appears in Zec 12:10-12. In Dn 7:13 the Son of Man, who comes from God himself, was perhaps an image of the Holy People (7:27). Jesus, however, will consider it as announcing him: Mt 24:30 and 26:64. 66 Various biblical texts leave us in doubt. Will it not be God himself who will visit people to meet those who are waiting for him? Is 25:6-10; 7:12, 63:19; Zep 3:14-18; Zec 2:14-17. 67 When the Bible speaks of the Shepherd who will rule over Israel, it sometimes calls him the Messiah King (Jer 23:4; Mi 5:4; Zec 13:7), sometimes God (Is 40:1; Mi 7:14; Song of Songs 2:16; Ps 23:1; Ps 28:9, 80:2) and easily associates the one with the other (Ez 34:11-25).
7. Time of Judaism: the religion of the Law	70 The Law sometimes means all the laws of the Bible (Mt 22:36), or the Bible itself (Jn 12:34) or at times the Jewish religion (Gal 2:19). The Law and the Prophets, or The Law, the Prophets and the Psalms are two ways of referring to the Bible (Mt 7:12; Lk 24:44). 71 The Law reveals two basic demands: Justice and Holiness. Holiness, that is, respect toward God and the rules of purity. The first is found in the Ten Commandments of Moses (Ex 20:1-17) and the second in the commandments of Moses (Ex 20:1-17) and the second in the commandments of God expressed in Ex 34:10-26. Laws of Justice: Ex 21:22; Lv 19:10-18, 19:35-36; Dt 19 and 24. Laws of Holiness: Lv 17-18; Dt 23. 72 The Law was both the expression of God's will and of Jewish culture. In the Law, we find God's attempt to transform the customs of Israel and to educate believers: Ex 15:15; com. on Lv 8:11, 11:1, 24:17. 73 The law differentiates between ordinary days and days dedicated to God, the Sabbath: Gen 2:3; Ex 20:8, 23:12, 34:21; Nm 15:32; 28:9-10. New Moons: Nm 28:11-15. The three feasts of Passover, Weeks (Pentecost) and Tabernacles (or booths): Dt 16; Ex 23:14-17; Lv 23; Nm 28:11-31; Nm 29:1-6 and 12-39. Especially about Passover: Ex 12:1-17 and 43-51. The Day of Atonement: Lv 16; Nm 29:7. 74 The Law determines what is pure and impure, namely the requirements for participation in divine worship: Lv 15:31. Circumcision: Gen 17:9-14; Ex 12:48. Cleanliness in sexual life: Lv 21:1-8; Lv 15. Diseases: Lv 13:14. Contact with the dead and with unclean animals: Lv 11:24-40; Lv 21:1-12; Lv 17:15-16. On not mixing materials or harnessing animals of different species: Lv 19:19. 75 The Law forbids certain foods: Blood: Gen 9:4; Dt 12:16; Lv 17:10-14. Fat: Dt 14:21; Lv 7:22-25. 8. Wisdom teaching	80	In the Bible, Solomon is the first and the model of wisdom teachers: 1 Kgs 4:29-34; Sir 47:14. The dream and the judgment of Solomon: 1 Kgs 3. Various wisdom books written after him are attributed to him: Prv 1:1; Eccl 1:1; Wis 9:12.
	81	Wisdom means: practical intelligence to govern one's house and to achieve success: 1 Kgs 10:6; Ez 28:1-7. Then, the ability to put one's life in order according to the Law of God: Prv 16:1-11; Sir 15:1-3; 24:23-30.
	82	How to obtain wisdom? Wisdom is a gift of God: Sir 1:1; Wis 6:14-16, 9:1-6. It can be found in the sayings of wise men and in meditating on their proverbs: Prv 1:6, 13:20; Sir 6:34-36; in overcoming one's whims: Sir 11:1-10, 23:1-7; Prv 16:32; in perseverance in trials: Sir 2:1-14 and in studying: Sir 6:23-33; in meditating on the Law: Sir 32:7-24, 39:1-11, 51:17-21; Ps 119; and in reflecting on one's experience: Eccl 1:12-18, 2:1-11, Sir 34:9-11.
	83	Wise men ask: What is man? Almost all of the Old Testament was written by Jews of Hebraic culture and it expresses the concepts of that culture which, unlike ours, does not distinguish in man a spiritual part, or soul, and a material part, or body. Instead, they saw man as a whole and in speaking of flesh, body, and heart, they were referring to man's various aspects. Man is called flesh and blood since he is a mortal creature. He is called soul because he is a living being. Soul means breath (Gen 2:7 and 7:22) and the Jews readily identified breath with life (Ps 104:29). Moreover, they believed that life was in the blood (Lv 17:10-14). The spirit means openness to God. The heart refers to the inner man, not only his feelings, but also his mind and conscience. Very often we should translate my soul as: myself, my life, or I. Different from animals, man's soul receives something of the Spirit, or the breath of God (Gen 2:7). The spirit is both the spirit of man and the Spirit of God in man (Eccl 12:7). Man is free and responsible for his actions: Sir 15:11-21 and 17:3-14. Man is a sinner since his birth (Ps 51:7; Job 10 and 13). The weight of sin upon him is the result of the sin of his ancestors: he bears the consequences of their errors: Gen 3; Jer 31:29; Lam 5:7; Ps 106:6; Tb 3:3. The great evil for man is death: Job 14; Eccl 3:18-22, 6:1-10, 8:7; Sir 42:9-14.
	84	How must man and woman be? The equality of men and women is affirmed at the beginning of the Bible: see commentaries on Gen 1:26 and 2:20. However, this is contrary to the whole approach of Hebrew culture which is male-centered. The inferiority of women admitted by the Law (Dt 24:1; Nm 5:11; Lv 27:3-7), is accepted by wise men: Eccl 7:27-28. Women are seen as being responsible for men's sins (Prv 7:5-27); they must be watched (Sir 42:9-12, 25:15-26) and they are praised when they serve their husbands well: Prv 31:30-31; Sir 36:23-26. It is only in the Song of Songs that a woman's equality in love is recognized.
	85	Work and man's own effort are the conditions for his excellence: Prv 6:6-11, 27:23-27; Sir 7:15. Work keeps men occupied (especially slaves) and disciplined: Sir 33:25-28; yet it is not everything in life: Sir 2:4-11, 4:7-12.
	86	Regarding social relations, the social order with its distinctions between rich and poor, between kings and subjects, is accepted: Eccl 5:7-8, 4:1-3; Sir 8:1-3. The king is respected as God's representative: Prv 16:10 and 24:21. However, his company is dangerous (Eccl 8:2-4; Sir 13:9-10) and his whims are feared: Sir 16:12-15. Inferiors (slaves) as well as the young must be watched (Sir 33:25-30); their freedom cannot be trusted and they must be trained firmly: Sir 30:1-13.

	87 In order to please God man must be humble (Sir 10:6-26), merciful (Sir 28:1-7) and he must be generous with the poor (Job 30 and 31; Sir 4:1-10, 29:1-13).
	88 How does God reward the just? The wise people of the Old Testament did not know yet of the hereafter (Eccl 3:17-22, 8:7-8; Sir 17:27-30). Therefore, knowing that God is just, they made an effort to examine divine retribution in this life. God is just and he does not leave evil people unpunished (Job 18 and 20). God rewards his people, maybe not with money and a long life (Prv 10:22-30, 11:20-21; 13:21-23), but at least by giving them peace and security. He may test them (Job 36, Wis 3:1-6), but in the end God will reward them: Wis 3:5; Sir 1:23, 11:21-26. And yet, some point out many exceptions to this retribution: Job 21 and 24; Eccl 7:15-16, 8:11-14. See also 90-92.
	89 Wisdom of God and wisdom of man. Gradually wisdom writers realize in the Wisdom of God something distinct from God, though it is part of him: Prv 8:22 and 30. Through Wisdom, God created the world (Prv 8:22-30; Sir 24:3-4) and Wisdom shines forth in him: Sir 43. Wisdom guarantees the unfolding of the plan of salvation: Wis 10 and Sir 24:9-29. Wisdom completely surpasses the human mind (Job 9 and 28; Eccl 3:10) and it is only communicated through God's revelation (Bar 3:9-29 and 4:1-2; Sir 24:8-12 and 23-25). Wisdom is nourishment coming forth from the mouth of God : Dt 8:3; Prv 9:5; Sir 24:3 and 19; Ps 19:11 and 81:17.
9. The Resurrection and the hereafter	90 According to the teaching of Jesus (Lk 24:27) the whole Bible announced the Resurrection, for wherever the Bible speaks of the covenant of the living God with mortal man, it is understood that God means to share life with man forever: Ex 3:6 and Mk 12:26; Ps 16:11, 23:6, 73:25-26.
	91 But Old Testament believers, who only spoke of a sad and strange survival in Sheol, or the Place of the Dead, did not see that: Is 38:18-19; Ps 88:12-13, 115:17-18.
	92 The persecution at the time of the Maccabees forced them to reflect on the fate of the martyrs and it became obvious to them that there would be no justice of God if he did not raise (resuscitate) them to share a happy life with him. Since Hebrew culture did not make the distinction between body and soul (see 83), they said that man would emerge from dust, or that he would have life again on Judgment day: Dn 12:2; 2 Mac 7.
	93 At that same time Greek culture influenced Israel: Greeks saw in man something material, the body , and the soul (which gives life), often-times different from the spirit , in search of truth and good: 1 Thes 5:23. For this reason, Wisdom, the last of the Old Testament books, says that the soul (or the spirit) of man is immortal and it meets God at death: Wis 2 and 3. This conviction will later be found in all the books of the New Testament: Mt 10:28; 2 Cor 5:1-8.

The New Testament: THE FAITH OF THE APOSTLES

10. The person of Jesus. Jesus and Mary.	100 After speaking so many times through the prophets, God spoke one last time through his Son (Heb 1:1) when the fullness of time had come (Gal 4:4). Jesus is the only and eternal Son (Col 1:13-15), the Word who is in God and is God present to the Father (Jn 1:1; Rv 19:13).
	101 The Son of God became man (Jn 1:14). Jesus, true man and not an apparition, nor God disguised as man, took the form of a slave and died on the cross (Phil 2:6-11; Gal 4:4). Other than at the Transfiguration (Lk 9:32), the glory which was his as Son did not manifest itself in his humanity (Jn 1:15 and 17:5); rather Jesus wished to grow by means of suffering like any other man (Heb 5:7-8). From the start Jesus was conscious of who he was (Lk 2:49; Heb 10:5). It did not however mean that he knew everything (com. on Mk 6:2), for he discovered the demands of his mission gradually (com. on Lk 3:21; and 9:31).
	102 Jesus enters into our history. The Gospel situates his birth (Lk 2:1; Mt 2:12-1; Jn 7:42); the beginning of his public ministry (Lk 3:1-2; 3:22); his death at the time of Pilate, the governor, and Caiaaphas, the High Priest (Jn 11:49). He was born in Bethlehem, raised in Nazareth (Mt 2:23; Lk 4:16) where he worked; he never left to become the disciple of any master (Jn 7:15).

103		Jesus begins by preaching in the synagogues (Lk 4:15; Mk 1:21) and by initiating the Reign of God (Mk 1:15 and 110-118). He gathers crowds (Mt 5:1; 14:14). After a while a crisis takes place (Jn 6:66) and Jesus devotes himself to forming his disciples (Mk 9:30) who will become the nucleus of his Church (Mt 16:16; Lk 22:24-32). Then, he prepares for his death (130-138) crowned by his Resurrection (see 140-148).
104		Jesus performed miracles as the prophets had done but in a different way, as someone with divine authority (Mk 2:27, Mt 5:21, 5:28, 5:32. He easily puts himself in the place which belongs to God (Mk 2:1-12; Lk 7:36-50; Mk 8:34-38). He declares he is one with the Father (Mt 11:26-27; Jn 5:18, 8:58, 10:30, 10:37-38).
105		Jesus usually refused being called son of God (Mk 3:11, 5:7) because this title was traditionally given to the kings of Israel (2 Sam 7:14; Ps 89:27), and Jesus was son in a very different way. He preferred to be called Son of Man (Mt 26:64) referring to Daniel 7:13 (see 65). But, first, Peter (Mt 16:16) and, later, the Church recognized Jesus as the Son of God (Heb 9:20). See 140-145.
106		The eternal Son of the Father did not come down from heaven to human-kind, but he was born from a people, Israel, and from a woman (Gal 4:4) Mary, uniquely associated to the Father's divine plan (com. on Lk 1:26). The one who was to be welcomed by the "virgin of Israel" (Is 7:14; Zec 2:14, 9:9) was born of a virgin mother (Mt 1:18; Lk 1:26 and com. on Mk 6:1). Mary's faith and consent allowed the work of the Spirit to be accomplished in her (Lk 1:45).
107		Mary intervenes in the Gospel: for the sanctification of John the Baptist (Lk 1:39); at the beginning of Jesus' ministry (Jn 2; Cana) and in order to welcome us as adopted children (Jn 19:25). She is mentioned in the birth and infancy of Jesus (Lk 2; Mt 2). Two texts compels us to realize that her greatness does not come from having given physical birth to Jesus, but rather from her being the model of the believers. (Mk 3:31; Lk 11:27). Mary is also mentioned in the first nucleus of the church (Acts 1:14).
108		Here are some biblical texts which helps us express what Mary means to God and to the church: Gen 3:15; Is 7:14, Sg 4:12-16; Prv 8:22-31; Jdt 13:18-20, 16:9-10; Rev 12.
11. Jesus proclaims the Reign of God	110	Jesus begins by proclaiming a new age, announced by the prophets, the age of God's favour (Mk 1:14; Lk 4:21, 4:19).
	111	Jesus proclaims the Kingdom of God (or Kingdom of heaven : Mt 5:1 and com. of Mt 6:9). His miracle are signs that this Kingdom of God is already in the midst of men (Mt 11:26; Lk 17:21) with the power to cure all their ills: Mt 9:35.
	112	The Kingdom of God means that now God reveals himself as Father (Mt 6:1, 6:9, 6:18 ...) and he must be acknowledged as such by his children (Mt 11:26-27). The whole newness of the Kingdom lies in a new awareness of God (Jn 4:23), an awareness of the Father (Jn 7:28-29) and of the Son (Jn 17:3), erasing the old image of a punishing God (Lk 9:54 and 14:2; Jn 9:3) with mighty power (Mt 11:29; Jn 12:34-35) and very distant from men (Jn 14:8).
	113	The Kingdom of Heaven is proclaimed to the poor first (Lk 4:18, 6:20, 7:22). They are the first to enter it (Lk 16:9) and they will have a decisive role in the spreading of the Kingdom: Lk 12:32-34; 1 Cor 1:26; Jas 2:5-7. This is not because the poor are better but because the power of God is better manifested in human weakness (1 Sam 17; 1 Cor 1:29; 1 Mc 3:18; 2 Cor 12:9) and because God loves to save what was lost (Is 49:2; Lk 1:25, 19:10). He humbles the proud and raises the humble: Lk 16:15; 1 Sam 2:3-8.
	114	It is rather significant that the first promises of the Kingdom are addressed to a great king (2 Sam 7:13; 1 Kgs 8:24) and the last to the poor of Yahweh (Zep 3:12; Zec 9:9; Ps 132:15), the oppressed believers (Dn 3:30; 1 Mc 2:7) exploited by the rich and the opportunists (Ps 55, 58, 123:3). These poor welcome the Gospel better (Lk 2:8, 10:21, 4:18).
		The fact that God reigns does not mean that from then on men will leave him to act alone, but rather that they will act with more freedom because they are freed from prejudices (Mk 7:15; Acts 10:15 and 34) and laws (Lk 14:3; Col 2:16) and are concerned about making their talents grow (Mt 25:14-30).

	115	The salvation of men is not achieved from above by eradicating evil (Mt 13:24, 26:53): it is a seed sown among men (Mt 13:1, 13:31) that grows slowly (Mk 4:26), first within the person (Mk 4:14; Mt 13:44; Jn 3:3); and then becomes a visible reality (Mt 5:14; Lk 12:32) which is concretized in the church (Mt 16:18).
	116	The contemporaries of Jesus thought that the Kingdom would begin after the Judgment of God which would separate the good from the bad (Is 1:25-28, 4:2-5; Zep 1:14; Mal 3:1-2; Mt 3:9-12). Jesus states that the judgment is not for now (Mt 13:32; Acts 1:7): nonetheless, even now men are being judged by their attitude toward the Gospel (Jn 3:18-20, 12:46) and so are the nations. (Lk 10:13, 14:19; Mt 23:37)
	117	Jesus presents himself as the One sent by the Father (Jn 6:29, 10:36) and the apostles discover the unique relationship which unites him to the Father (Lk 11:1; Mk 1:35; Lk 6:12; Mk 14:37; Jn 4:31-34, 16:32). Jesus says: My Father (Mt 7:21, 10:32, 16:17; Mk 25:34) and your Father (Mt 5:16, 10:20). He never says Our Father .
	118	Jesus asks the Jews to recognize that they were living in an exceptional moment (Lk 12:54; Mt 11:21, 12:41) and that they had to overcome the crisis that divided them (Lk 12:57, 13:5) by accepting this new vision of God the Father and the primacy of mercy (Lk 15) and reconciliation (Mt 19:23).
	119	The great majority of the Jewish people did not respond to this call (Mt 12:45; Lk 13:34) and their fanatical religion brought them to the catastrophe foretold by Jesus (Mt 21:43, 22:7, 23:35-37; Lk 21:23 and 23:28-31).
12. Jesus prepares his church	120	The church (Acts 9:31) and the churches (Gal 1:22). The church of God (Acts 20:28) and the churches of God (1 Cor 11:6; 1 Thes 2:14). The church is the spiritual people of God. Church means the Assembly convened by God, or the Assembly of God's elect. They are also called the saints : the church of the saints: (1 Cor 14:33).
	121	To renew Israel and then to extend the Kingdom to all the nations (Mt 10:5, 15:24), Jesus plans his church founded on Peter (Mt 16:18) and the apostles (Mt 10:1). His people's lack of faith makes him think of the church as a new people of God, open to all nations (Mt 8:10; Jn 10; Mt 21:43, 22:1, 23:37) in which the Kingdom will be concretized (See com. on Mt 13:31).
	122	Jesus is followed by disciples who believe in him (Lk 6:17, 19:37). Among them he chooses those he wishes (Mk 3:13; Jn 15:16) to be his apostles (Mk 3:16). They will form the core of his church (Lk 22:28-30). Jesus asks self-sacrifice from them (Mk 8:34; Lk 9:57) and total fidelity to him (Mt 10:37; Lk 14:25).
	123	Jesus teaches them the foundations of co-existence in the church. The greatest will be the servant the others (Mk 10:43; Mt 18:6 and 10). No one will be called Father, Master or Teacher, but the authority will respect the fundamental equality of all and their direct relationship to God (Mt 23:8). The greatest Law will be love (Jn 13:34-35 and 15:12-14). Love will be expressed primarily in forgiveness (Mt 18:21 and 23) and in concern for unity (Jn 17:21). Church decisions will be ratified by God (Mt 16:19 and 18:18).
	124	The growth of the Kingdom in a world which rejects light will be a source of conflicts and will bring about persecutions to the church (Lk 12:49-53; Jn 15:18-25; Mk 13:13; Mt Rv 12:13-18). The first crisis will be the destruction of the Jewish nation (Mk 13:5-23, 13:28-31). See com. on Mt 24. Other crises will follow until the last one which will witness the return of Christ and the Judgment: Mt 16:27; Acts 3:21; 1 Thes 4:16; Mk 13:24-27; 2 Thes 2; Rv 19:11-21, 20:7.
13. The Sacrifice	130	The death of Jesus is not accidental. (Heb 10:5). From the start he prepared to face it (Mt 20:28; Jn 11:9, 12:27). He predicted it many times (Mk 8:31, 9:9, 10:32; Lk 13:31). He assumed full responsibility for it (Jn 10:28-30, 19:30), knowing that this Hour was the hour of his triumph (Jn 7:6-8, 12:31, 17:1-2).
	131	Jesus' sacrifice is like a second revelation of the justice of God (Rom 3:25-26) completing that of the Old Testament. The punishing God banished sinners (Gen 3:22-23); God-made-man heals evil people and accepts to be rejected by them (Jn 1:11; Mt 21:37). The liberating God demonstrated his sovereignty (Ex 15; Dn 4 and 5); Jesus chooses the last place in order to save (Mt 20:28).

132		Those who became victims of society have greater power to disturb us after their death. Jesus chooses the last place (Phil 2:8) in order to bring to repentance the very society which condemned him (Zec 12:10; Jn 19:37; Rv 1:7), and in so doing, he draws all people to himself (Jn 12:32).
133		Since the very beginning, men have offered sacrifices . The holocaust (that is when the victim is completely burned) expressed a person's total submission to God: Lv 1:1; 1 Sam 15:22; Ps 51:18; Heb 10:6-7. The blood poured out atoned for sins (Lv 5, 17:11; Heb 9:22). Victims which were eaten in a communion banquet made the participants share in divine holiness (1 Cor 10:18). The sacrifice of the lamb served to renew God's covenant with his people (Ex 12; Ps 50:5).
134		Jesus' death and resurrection constitute the new and final sacrifice that replaces all the previous ones (Heb 7:27, 9:25). This is why Jesus is called Lamb of God (Jn 1:29). His sacrifice is identified with the New Passover (Passover means: Passage) leading to holy and eternal life (Lk 12:50, 22:16; Rom 6:4; 1 Cor 5:7; com. on Mc 15:16).
135		The sacrifice of Jesus enabled him to reach his perfection and to receive the gifts that make him the Leader and the Head of all humanity (Is 53:11-12; Acts 2:33; Heb 2:10, 5:7). See 203.
136		With the pouring of his blood, his painful death obtains the forgiveness of sins for all people (Is 53:10; Mt 26:28; Rom 3:21, 5:9; 5:19, 8:3); it reconciles us with God (Rom 5:10, 5:20; 2 Cor 5:17; Col 1:21); it redeems us (1 Pt 1:18); it gives us freedom (Rom 7:4; Eph 1:17) and it begins a process that brings a solution to all the contradictions in the universe (Rom 8:19; Eph 2:16; Col 1:20).
137		The sacrifice of Christ reveals the love of God for us in the Father's great generosity (Rom 8:3; Jn 3:16; 1 Jn 4:10) as well as in the Son's obedience (Mk 14:36; Rom 5:6; 1 Jn 3:16). In Jesus' pierced heart (Jn 19:34) we contemplate the mystery of the love of God who wished to dazzle us with his capacity for total surrender in order to restore trust to his lost creation (Rom 5:8).
138		Jesus' death and resurrection teach us the meaning of our own life: the one who gives his life comes to a new birth (Lk 17:33; Jn 12:24-26, 16:21, 17:9). His death and resurrection point out to us the demands of genuine love (Jn 15:13) and of ministry (2 Cor 6:3-10, 12:14) as well as the value of our own trials (Jn 15:2; 2 Cor 12:9-10).
14. The Resurrection. Jesus Lord of History
140		Jesus is risen as he had said he would (Mk 9:9-10); according to the Scriptures (Lk 24:25-27; 1 Cor 15:4; Acts 2:30). The appearances of the risen Jesus in Jerusalem and in Galilee: (Mt 28; Mk 16; Lk 24; Jn 20 and 21; 1 Cor 15:5-8).
		The Resurrection has a double meaning: Jesus has returned to life (Lk 24:5; Acts 2:24) and Jesus has been glorified, or exalted (Jn 17:1; Acts 2:33, 3:13). Jesus' last appearance (or the Ascension) expresses this second aspect of the Resurrection (Mt 28:17-20; Lk 24:50, Acts 1:9).
141		In being raised, the humanity of Jesus is totally transformed by divine energy, receiving the fulness of life which the Father communicates to his Son (Jn 1:14, 17:1; Acts 2:32; Rom 1:3). Now Jesus is recognized as Son of God. Being the Son, splendour of the Father (Heb 1:1), Jesus, Son of God made man, is the manifestation of the invisible God in this created universe (Jn 14:9; Col 1:15) In him the promises of the Old Testament are fulfilled (Mt 12:41-42, 23:35-36; Jn 8:56; Rv 5). Now as man, he is the head of all creation (Col 1:18), above all creatures, whether material or spiritual (Heb 1:4-14).
142		Jesus has come from God (Jn 13:3, 16:27, 17:8) and returns to the Father through his death and resurrection (Jn 16:28) so that the filial relationship which unites him to the Father can come to perfection (Acts 2:33; Rom 1:4). To express her faith in Jesus, the Son of God made man, one God with the Father whom the church calls Lord . Of the two names denoting God – God and Lord – the church kept the first for the Father and the second for Christ (see Rom 10:9; Phil 1:11; com. on Jn 11:2, 13:2, 20:2).
143		Jesus replaces the figure of God-Alone with that of God-Communion . Communion between the Father and the Son (Jn 1:1, 1:18; com. on Jn

- 5:19; Mt 11:26; Jn 13:32, 17). A communion in the Holy Spirit (Jn 14:16, 15:26).
- 144 The church of the Apostles baptizes in the unique name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit (Mt 28:19) and acknowledges only one God in three Divine Persons which we call the Holy Trinity: 1 Cor 6:11, 12:4; 2 Cor 13:14; Rv 1.
- 145 The risen Jesus is now Lord of History: that is to say that he rules over and directs the material and spiritual forces, visible or invisible, which shape our history: Jn 12:31; Rv 1:18, 6; Col 1:18, 2:10 and com. on Mk 16:9. Paul shows Christ to be superior to the Heavenly powers which, in those days, were believed to be in charge of the fate and history of men (Eph 1:10-29; Col 1:16). This reign of Christ means that humanity has come of age (Gal 4:3-5).
- 146 From then on salvation takes place through the Name of Jesus, that is, through the divine power (Phil 2:9-10) which radiates from him (Acts 4:30; 1 Jn 2:12; com. on Mk 16:17). Every saving act proceeds at the same time from Christ and from the Spirit (1 Cor 12:4-6; 2 Cor 3:16-17) and is attributed to Christ the Lord or to his Spirit (Jn 6:35-36, 7:38-39; Mk 9:38; Lk 11:20; Eph 4:7 and 1 Cor 12:7).
15. The New Creation - the gift of the Spirit - the Mystery of Reconciliation
- 150 Jesus did not come only to correct man's sins, but to renew creation (Jn 5:20). This new creation is achieved through the gift of the Holy Spirit (1 Cor 15:45). Above all, this work means a resurrection of people and universal reconciliation (Jn 5:21).
- 151 Jesus' violation of the Sabbath (Mk 2:28; Jn 5:29) and the Sabbath replacement by Sunday (see com. on Acts 20:7) reveals his intention to rearrange the first creation which took place in 6 days (Jn 5:17 and com. on Gen 2:3; Rev 3:14). The fulfillment of what the prophets had announced (Is 25:6-10, 32:15-20, 65:17-19; Ez 37, 47:1-12). The death of Jesus expresses the death of all that preceded him (2 Cor 5:14; Gal 2:19). Sins are forgiven (Rom 6:10; Heb 9:28). The laws and forms of religion taught in the Bible itself are no longer valid (Rom 7:4; Gal 4:5, 5:4-6; Col 2:16).
- All distinctions of sex, class and nation are abolished (Gal 3:28, 6:15; 1 Cor 12:13; Col 3:11). We are new creatures (2 Cor 5:17; Gal 6:15; Col 1:15; Eph 2:10, 15) moving towards a perfection similar to that of God the Father's (Eph 4:24; Col 3:10). This new creation must embrace the whole universe: Rom 8:18-25.
- 152 The new creation especially implies revoking the laws of the Old Testament: they were no more than the shadow of the definitive realities (Col 2:17; Heb 8:5, 10:1; Mt 11:13) which begin with Christ. To rely on circumcision (Gal 5:2, 6:12) or on the other practices of the Law (Col 2:16; Rom 14:14-20) is to go backwards and to deny God's grace (Col 2:20; Gal 2:18). The person who wishes to be righteous in terms of practices and merits (Lk 18:9; Phil 3:7-9) loses genuine justice and holiness, the gift of God in Christ: Col 2:11; Phil 3:9.
- 153 The new creation is achieved through the gift of the Holy Spirit who gives life (Ps 104:30; Jn 6:63; Rom 8:2). Jesus' glorification had to precede the gift of the Spirit (Jn 7:37-39; Acts 2:32-33; Jn 16:7). The Spirit makes us free (Gal 4:7, 5:13-18), forgives our sins (Jn 20:22, 1 Cor 6:11). He makes us sons (Rom 8:14-17); he makes known to us God's mysterious designs (1 Cor 2:10-12; 1 Jn 2:20). The revelations of the Spirit in the church are the first fruits (Rom 8:23) and the assurance (Eph 1:14; 2 Cor 1:22, 5:5) of our complete transformation in the world to come (1 Jn 3:2-3; Rom 8:18).
- 154 The new creation does not know death, which is a consequence of sin (Rom 5:12; Rv 20:15, 21). It is true that the part of us which is called exterior man (2 Cor 4:16) or old man (Rom 6:6; Eph 4:22; Col 3:9) or flesh (2 Cor 4:11; Gal 6:8; Rom 8:3) moves toward death (Rom 8:10; 2 Cor 5:16, 13:4; 1 Pt 3:18). But the inner man (Rom 7:22; Eph 1:16) is alive through sharing in the Spirit (Rom 8:10-11).
- 155 The risen Jesus gives us the power of the resurrection (Jn 5:25; Col 2:12, 3:1; Rom 5:21, 6:6, 8:4) and he will raise us (Jn 5:28, 6:39-58, 11:25; Rom 8:10; Phil 3:20).
- 156 Jesus reveals the Mystery (Eph 3:3; Rv 10:7), that is the amazing plan which was kept secret (Eph 3:9; Rom 16:25; Col 1:26). The entire work of creation, salvation and sanctification had for its goal the praise of God's grace and generosity (Eph 1:6, 12). Everything was entrusted to the Beloved Son (Eph 1:1-6) and through him all men receive it. All peoples are called to form a single body in him (Eph 1:22, 3:5-6) and through him they come to share the very Glory of God (Col 1:27; Eph 2:6).

	157	This mysterious plan was initiated with the salvation of Israel (Rom 11:25) and it extends to the whole universe (Col 1:27). This Mystery d demands universal reconciliation in a world divided by nature, prejudices and sins (Eph 2:14-16; see 151: differences).
	158	The Apostles' ministry is to proclaim and extend this reconciliation (2 Cor 5:20-21; Rom 15:16) already announced by Jesus (Lk 4:19); the very religion of the New Testament consists in achieving this reconciliation (Rom 15:16).
	159	In this mission Jesus appears as the unique Mediator between God and men (1 Tim 2:5; Heb 9:15, 12:24) since he is the one who intercedes for them (Heb 2:17-18; 4:15-16) and obtains for them the blessings of the New covenant (Acts 13:34; Heb 9:11, 10:20).
16. Salvation through faith	160	We become part of the new creation as God's gift (Mt 11:27; Jn 6:43; Eph 2:8). This decisive step (Col 1: 12-13), our salvation is not the reward for our merit and good deeds (Rom 4; Phil 3:4-6), but it comes through faith (Rom 3:21; Phil 3:9).
	161	According to John, believing consists in recognizing the One sent by God (Jn 5:38; 6:29). It means recognizing the fact that God loves us first and forgives us (1 Jn 4:10; Jn 2:16). It means accepting God that we may be transformed and made holy (Jn 12:42-45); and recognizing that Jesus is the Christ (1 Jn 2:22-29, 5:1); namely, the Only Son who came from God and would return to God (Jn 6:62).
	162	According to Peter and Paul, to believe is to accept the love of God who delivered his Son for the sake of sinners (Rom 5:24-25; Gal 3:1). It means to acknowledge that God has raised the Son from the dead (Rom 4:23, 10:9) and made him Lord (Acts 2:36, 1 Cor 12:3; Phil 2:11). It means to accept that all the promises of God were fulfilled in him (2 Cor 1:20).
	163	Faith that saves is supported by the witness of the Scriptures (Acts 17:3, 18:28; Rom 16:26; 2 Pt 1:19) but it also means discovering a word which God speaks to us today (Heb 1:1 and com. on Mk 11:29). The contemporaries of Jesus had to recognize him as the One sent through the signs that he worked (Jn 6:26, 10:32, 15:24). Later, faith was supported by the testimony and the signs given by the Apostles (Mk 16:17; Acts 8:7; 1 Thes 1:5). Faith is never limited to accepting beliefs, but it sees God's plan (Mt 11:16-24; Lk 7:30) through present events (Lk 12:56, 19:44) and the prophetic voices of the church (Eph 3:5; 1 Thes 5:19).
	164	Faith integrates us to the people of God (Eph 2:19-22) through baptism (Mt 28:19; Mk 16:16; Col 2:11-13).
	165	Faith brings us to a state of holiness which the Bible calls justice, or righteousness, or justification (see com. on Rom 1:16; Rom 4-8; 1 Jn 2:1-6). It makes us pleasing to God, reconciled with him (Rom 5:1-2) and a reflection of God's image (Rom 8:28; Col 3:10; Eph 4:24). Faith introduces us to the Kingdom of his Son (Col 1:13) where we receive the first gift of the Spirit (Eph 1:13; 2 Cor 1:22). See 153-154.
17. The church of God	170	Jesus lays the groundwork for his church: see 120-124.
	171	The church did not originate from human will, but from God's eternal plan. The Mystery is concretized in the church, (Eph 3:5) that is, the saving plan of God who brings all people together under Christ, the only head (Eph 1:5-12.22). That is why the church is called holy because its destiny depends more upon God's plans than upon the initiatives of men.
	172	Christ, in taking the steps leading to its foundations, does not act upon his own initiative alone. He lets himself be guided by the Father (Jn 1:35-51; Mt 16:18; Lk 6:12; Acts 1:7; Jn 17:6, 17:9-12). The churches of Christ (Phlm 16). The church is subject to Christ who loves her and gives himself for her (Eph 5:24-25; Jn 17:19). The church of God which Jesus bought with his own blood (Acts 20:28). The church is his bride (Jn 3:29; Eph 5:27; Mt 22:2; Cor 11:1; Rv 21:2) and his body (Col 1:24; 1 Cor 12:12) and he is the head.

	174 The apostles' proclamation of the faith in the risen Jesus accompanies the pouring out of the Spirit (Jn 15:26-27; Acts 1:7-8) to establish the church (Acts 2:14-39; 1 Thes 1:5). The church is made up of all those who hear the call to conversion and who believe that they will receive forgiveness of their sins (Acts 2:38) and the gift of the Spirit (Acts 2:39) through faith in the saving power of Jesus and in baptism (See 181). 175 The church is founded on Peter and the apostles (Mt 16:18, 10:1). The faith of the church is the same as that of the apostles (1 Cor 15:11; 2 Pt 1:16-21). Those who accept the witness of the apostles and of their successors belong to the church (Jn 17:20, 20:21) and are accepted by them (1 Cor 14:38; 2 Cor 10:6, 13:10). We are in communion with God by being in communion with them (1 Jn 1:3). Christ is with them (Mt 28:20) so that their decisions may not be opposed to the divine plan (Mt 16:19, 18:18; Lk 10:16) despite the fact that they will fail in many ways (Gal 2:11; Acts 15:37, 21:20). The church will always be what the apostles made it (Lk 22:30; Rv 21:14). 176 The church is communion (Acts 2:4; Heb 13:16). The communion existing between the baptized and the Divine Persons (2 Cor 13:13; 1 Cor 1:9, 10:16) brings about communion among themselves (1 Jn 1:7) both in the spiritual (Acts 2:42; Phil 1:5, 2:1) and the material sense (Rom 15:27; Gal 6:6). 177 The church is the presence of divine Truth in our world (1 Tim 3:15). It is the manifestation of God's love (1 Cor 1:26; 2 Cor 4:7) and, despite the weakness of its members, it is a sign of God's saving presence (2 Cor 4) and God gives it strength (Rv 2:8, 3:8).
18. The sacraments of the church	180 The church is a communion of believers where God manifests himself (see com. on Mt 16:18). This is why we say that the church is a sacrament of God (see com. on Mt 18:1). Various rites of the church, called sacraments, come from Christ and his apostles; they express and make the saving action of God present. 181 Baptism with water and the Holy Spirit (Jn 3:5), with the Spirit and fire (Mt 3:11); with water along with the word (Eph 5:26) in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit (Mt 28:19) in the name of the Lord Jesus (Acts 2:38, 8:16). Baptism for the dead (1 Cor 15:29). Baptism and baptisms (Heb 6:2 and com. on Lk 3:7). 182 He who believes is baptized (Mk 16:16) to receive the forgiveness of his sins (Acts 2:38, 22:16). Baptism means death to a sinful past (Rom 6:3-9) and entrance into a risen life (Rom 6:4; Col 2:11-12). It is an interior purification (1 Pt 1:22) through Christ's blood (1 Pt 1:2). It is a new birth from above (Jn 3:8), a birth in the Spirit (Jn 3:6; Col 2:12). The only baptism in the one faith reunites us in a single body (1 Cor 12:13). Baptism introduces us into life "in Christ," into Christian life (Phil 4:1 ff.). See 200. 183 The imposition of the hands to confirm baptism and to confer the gifts of the Spirit (Acts 8:14, 19:6) a rite which cannot be performed by just any minister (Acts 8:14-17). See also Heb 6:2. 184 The power to forgive sins: see com. on Jas 5:16. The baptized person must fear weakening of faith and loss of hope with them: there is neither desire nor possibility to have sins forgiven again (Lk 13:7-9; Heb 6:4-8, 12:15). This is the kind of sin which leads to death (1 Jn 5:16). The church may exclude the sinner if he does not mend his ways (Mt 18:17; 1 Cor 5:11-13), and may ask God to give him a warning through physical punishment (1 Cor 4:4-5; Rv 2:22). 185 The anointing of the sick: practised by the missionaries of Jesus (Lk 10:1) and entrusted to the elders of the church (Jas 5:14). 186 The imposition of the hands to consecrate the ministers of the church (1 Tim 4:14, 5:22; 2 Tim 1:6). 187 Matrimony of Christians has its own demands (1 Cor 7:10-12 and com. on 1 Cor 11:2 and 1 Pt 3:1): it is a sacrament because it is an image and an active realization of Christ's union with the church (Eph 5:22-23). 188 The Eucharist, or the Lord's Supper (1 Cor 11:20) or the breaking of the bread (Acts 2:42, 20:7; 1 Cor 10:16). See the commentaries on the promise of the Eucharist (Jn 6:22-58), and its institution (Mk 14:12; 1 Cor 11:23). 189 Some passages of the Old Testament prefigure and clarify the meaning of the sacraments, especially: Baptism (Gen 6-7; Ex 14:15; Jos 3; 2 Kgs

		5; Is 12:1, 55:1; Zec 13:1; Ez 47:1); the Eucharist (Ex 12:16; 1 Kgs 19:5; Gen 14:14; Mal 1:11); Matrimony (Gen 1:26, 2:18; Tb 8:4-7, Song).
19. The Spirit in the church. Charisms and Ministries	190	The Holy Spirit (see 143 and 144) who proceeds from the Father (Jn 14:16, 15:26, 16:15) and is sent by the Son (Jn 14:16, 15:26, 16:7). The Spirit of God (1 Cor 2:11, 7:40; 1 Jn 4:2) and Spirit of Jesus (Acts 8:39, 13:16; 2 Cor 3:7; Gal 4:6; Rv 3:1).
	191	Already before Christ there was mention of the Spirit of Yahweh , a supernatural power given to liberators (Jgs 6:34, 11:29, 14:6), to prophets (Nm 11:25; Ez 37), to artists (Ex 31:3) and to wise men (Wis 1). An active power in creation (Gen 1:2; Ps 104:30 and com. on Jn 7:37).
	192	As a result of Jesus' glorification, the Spirit is given to believers (Jn 7:39. See 153 and Heb 9:17, 19:2; Rom 5:5; Gal 3:2; Eph 1:3; 1 Jn 3:24). Upon entrance into the church, the Spirit is received in the rite of the imposition of the hands (Acts 8:15; 19:6) which normally accompanies baptism (Acts 2:38; Ti 3:5; Jn 3:5). God can, however, make exceptions; he is not bound to the sacraments (Acts 10:45).
	193	The spirit is given to everyone according to the degree of Christ's gift (Rom 12:3; Eph 4:7; Heb 2:4) and he manifests his presence in different gifts (1 Cor 12:3, 12:7-11; Gal 3:5; Phil 1:19). These gifts of the Spirit make us members of one same body diversified (Rom 12:5-8) and organized (Eph 4:16).
	194	The spiritual gifts (often called charisms which means gifts: 1 Cor 1:7, 7:7, 12:31; 1 Pt 4:10) are for the good of the community (1 Cor 14:1-6, 14:19, 14:32). For this reason, they can also be called services (or ministries) and works (Rom 12:7; 1 Cor 12:5). Even though we know that the gifts and ministries are valid inasmuch as they encourage real love and communion (1 Cor 12:31; Eph 4:3), the most important of them are the apostolic ministries of the founders and those responsible for the churches (1 Cor 12:28; Eph 4:11).
	195	Regarding ruling ministries, see com. on Acts 14:21. Some more are called apostles , not only the Twelve (1 Cor 1:1; 9:1-6). The prophets (1 Cor 12:28; Eph 2:20, 3:5, 4:20; Rv 11:10, 16:6, 18:20). Apollos was most probably a prophet and so were Timothy and Titus (see com. on Acts 11:19, 13:1, 15:32; 1 Thes 5:19; Heb 7:1; 1 Tim 4:14; 2 Tim 1:6). The bishops (or inspectors) had an active part in the councils of presbyters (Acts 20:28; Phil 1:1; 1 Tim 3:1; Ti 1:7). The presbyters (or elders): Acts 11:30, 14:23, 15:2-23, 21:18; 1 Tim 5:19; Ti 1:5; Jas 5:14; 1 Pt 5:1. The deacons : Phil 1:1; 1 Tim 3:1 and com. on Acts 6.
	196	The spiritual gifts, however varied they may be, come from Christ, the only head, and they must be aimed at the unity of the growing body: Jn 17:21; Eph 2:18-22, 4:3, 4:12-13.
20. The Spirit and Christian Spirituality	200	Christian life was formerly called the way (Acts 9:2, 19:9, 16:17, 18:25; 2 Pt 2:2) and it was not based on special commands (Acts 15:18) to such an extent that Paul relates the demands of sexual morality to faith in Christ and not to any particular law (1 Cor 6:1; 1 Thes 4:2). 2 Christians of Jewish background spoke at times as if Jesus had confirmed the Law of the Old Testament (Jas 1:25, 2:12, 4:11), but usually they understood that the new Law proclaimed by Jesus (com. on Mt 5:17) replaced the Law of the Old Testament (Mt 5:22, 5:28 ...). The only command of love (Mt 22:39) replaces the many precepts of the Law of Moses (Mt 22:40; Rom 13:8; Gal 5:14).
	201	But we are also told that Christ freed us from all human law (and not only from the Judaic Law): Rom 7:4; Gal 4:5; Eph 2:15. We should understand, then, that in speaking of the Law of Christ, another meaning is given to the word law (Rom 2:27, 8:2). We do not place too much value on man's effort to fulfill the law (Mk 10:21, 10:27; Gal 2:16, 3:5) but we must invite him to allow himself to be guided by the Spirit (Lk 10:33; Rom 8:14; Gal 5:16) who, alone, can transform the heart (Ez 36:25; Rom 2:29) and make the fulfilment of the Law possible (Rom 8:4).
	202	Entrance into the church (see 192) makes us new creatures (2 Cor 5:17; Gal 6:15; Eph 4:24). Recreated in the Son (Eph 2:10); sons of the Father (Rom 8:15; Jn 1:13), the Spirit is already given to us in this life (Rom 12:11; Gal 4:6) as a foretaste of what definitive and holy life will be in heaven (Rom 8:11, 23; Eph 1:14). From now on we are in communion with the Three divine Persons (Jn 14:17; 1 Jn 1:3, 3:21-24, 4:15).

	203	Christian life presupposes the constant cooperation of man with God who acts in him through the Spirit. We have died to sin (Rom 6:11) and we must die to the works of the "flesh" (Rom 8:13). We have been renewed and we must walk along new paths (Rom 7:6). We have been made just and holy (Rom 6:2; 1 Cor 6:11) and we must walk as saints (Rom 6:13-19; Gal 5:25). We were liberated (Rom 6:14, 8:2) but we still have to liberate ourselves (1 Cor 7:15-23). God's love has been given to us (Rom 5:5; Jn 17:26) and we must persevere and grow in this love (Jn 15:9; 1 Cor 16:14; Phil 1:9; 1 Thes 3:12).
	204	The Christian's new life is energized through participation in the Eucharist (Jn 6:48-58), through good works (Jas 2:14-28; 1 Jn 3:18; 2 Thes 1:11; Ti 2:14, 3:8; Heb 10:24; 2 Pt 1:10) and through prayer (see 230). It is a source of happiness (Jn 16:24; Acts 13:52; Rom 14:17; 2 Cor 7:4; Gal 5:22; 1 Thes 1:6; 1 Pt 1:8), of freedom (Jn 8:32,36; 2 Cor 3:17; Gal 5:1; 2 Tim 1:7; 1 Pt 2:16) of peace (2 Cor 13:4; Gal 5:22; Eph 6:23), and of thanksgiving (Rom 14:6; Eph 5:20; Col 3:17, 1 Thes 5:18). With perseverance (Lk 8:15, 21:19; Rom 2:7, 5:3; Col 1:11; Heb 10:36; Jas 1:4) it produces a transformation of the whole being (Rom 12:2; 1 Thes 5:23) enabling one to deal with God as a son (Rom 8:15-17; 1 Jn 4:17-18) and to be a living stone of the spiritual building (Eph 2:22; 1 Pt 2:5).
	205	Christian life manifests itself, above all, in three powers which we usually call theological virtues , which is to say, that they come from God and are oriented to him: they are faith, hope and love: 1 Cor 13:13; Gal 5:5-6; Eph 1:15-16; Col 1:4-5; 1 Thes 1:3, 5:8.
21. Faith and Hope	210	Faith means: 1) the act of faith which, in conversion, obtains for us the holiness or justice proper to a Christian (see 165). 2) the gift of faith which achieves miracles: 1 Cor 13:2; Jas 1:5; Mk 11:20-24 and com.. 3) the first of the theological virtues (see 205 and 211) born of the first act of faith.
	211	Christian faith is submission to the word of God (Jn 12:44-46; Rom 10:14; 2 Tim 3:15, 4:3) as received from the prophets and Christ through the witness of the apostles (see 163). It accepts without adding or deleting (Dt 4:2; Rv 22:18) the entire faith (Ti 1:13, 3:10-11) preserved by the church as the Tradition of the Apostles : 1 Tim 4:6; 2 Tim 2:8, 3:14.
	212	A Christian has the same faith attitude as Old Testament believers (Rom 4:23-25; Heb 11). Now, however, the final words have come to us (Heb 1:1-2; Jn 3:31, 4:26) through the very person who is the Word of God (Jn 1:1,18; Heb 2:2-3). See 152. In the person of Jesus, God talks to us without parables or examples (Jn 16:25-29).
	213	Faith works through love (Gal 5:6) and it manifests itself in works of love (Jas 2:14; 1 Cor 13:13). Faith must grow (2 Cor 10:15; 2 Pt 3:18) along with the knowledge of God. With love, faith is the very attitude of someone who lives in the light (Rom 13:12; Eph 5:8; Col 1:12; 1 Jn 1:7, 2:9) and is light for the world (1 Thes 5:5).
	214	Hope is born of the faith in God's promises (Eph 3:5-10; Heb 3:14, 6:11-20; 1 Pt 5:9). We hope for what we do not see (Rom 8:4; Heb 11:1) and would not have dared imagine (1 Cor 2:9; 2 Pt 1:4). We believe that God is faithful (see 40-44). We have confidence in God who can sustain us in faith and love (Phil 2:12; 1 Thes 5:23; 2 Thes 3:3; 1 Cor 1:8). Hope means perseverance and constancy in our trials (see 204, 217).
	215	Israel hoped that God would give prosperity in their Land (see 42) and a Kingdom of Justice (see 56, 62). In proclaiming the Kingdom, Jesus reminds us that our hope is somewhat collective (Mt 22; Lk 22:28-30; Mt 25:31-40), but he also emphasizes the personal dimension of salvation (Mt 10:28,32), as faith in the resurrection develops (see 92-93). We hope to share God's glory . We will be like God because we will see him (1 Jn 3:2). We will rise together (1 Cor 15:23) to see God (1 Cor 13:12) and form a single body in Christ (Eph 2:16-22). Only in God will we find happiness (Mt 25:21; Rv 21:6), and humanity, its end (1 Cor 15:28; Rv 22:1-5). Such is our inheritance (Lk 18:18; 1 Pt 1:4).
	216	The Kingdom of God is already present in the person who lives in God's grace. Thus all the events in his life, even his material needs , are related to this Kingdom of God and to his own progress in Christian life. Being a child of God, he expects daily bread from the Father (Mt 6:11) and he asks for his own needs (Phil 4:6) and for the needs of the world (Lk 18:11), knowing that God will provide him with what is necessary so that, in his turn, he may give to others (2 Cor 9:9).

	217	Waiting for the coming of Christ is at the very center of Christian hope (Acts 1:11). Coming, called "parousia" which means, visit (Mt 24:27; 1 Cor 15:23; 1 Thes 3:13; 1 Jn 2:28; Rv 3:10) or manifestation (1 Tim 6:14; 2 Tim 1:10; Ti 2:13). This coming seemed very familiar to the early Christians (1 Thes 4:13; Heb 10:25-27; 1 Pt 4:7; Jas 5:8). This waiting means a vigilant attitude (Lk 12:32-48; Mt 25:1): being awake in order not to be submerged in worldly projects and greed (Lk 21:34; see com. on Mk 13:33). It makes us constant and persevering in trials (Phil 3:10; Rom 8:17; see 184) and persecutions (Heb 12:2; 2 Thes 3:5; Lk 21:19; Mt 10:22; Rv 2:10, 3:21; 1 Pt 3:14). It brings us happiness even in suffering (1 Pt 4: 18; Mt 5:11). It makes us sober (1 Thes 5:8) and detached (1 Cor 7:29; Ti 2:12; 1 Pt 1:13).
22. Love	220	Love is power coming from God. In God, love is identified with the inner communion of the Three divine Persons (see 143). God had revealed himself to Moses as He Who Is and as Merciful (see 32, 39). However, after knowing Christ, John says: God is love (1 Jn 4:8).
	221	In the Old Testament God's love was manifested as God communicated with men. Israel , seeing how God chose, guided it (Ps 89, 105, 106, 107; Is 63:7), forgave (Ex 32:11-14) and redeemed it (Is 40, 41) understood God's jealous love for his people (Is 5, 54:6-8). The prophets , as they became aware of the ever closer relationship between themselves and God, realized God's strong love (Ez 3:8; Mi 2:8), a tender (1 Kgs 19) and demanding (Jer 15:10, 20:7) love for his friends.
	222	Love for God is the first command for Israel (Dt 6:1, 30) and it will continue to be first for Christians (Mk 12:28).
	223	When Jesus came, he tried to reveal something of the unique love that the Father has for his Son (Jn 3:35, 5:20, 17:24; see 117). Jesus, in turn, responds to the Father's love with total surrender (Mk 1:35; Mt 11:25) in perfect accord to the Father's will (Heb 10:5; Jn 4:34, 6:38). He shows this divine love springing from his heart to his friends (Jn 11, 13:1, 15: 9-17, 18:8), to the marginalized (Mk 1:40), to sinners (Lk 7:36, 19:1), to his very enemies (Lk 23:22) and to all people (Mt 11:28; Acts 10:38); that they may also understand the love the Father has for them (see 137). We love Jesus by keeping his Word (Jn 14:15-23) and by renouncing everything in order to follow him (Mk 10:17-21; Lk 14:25).
	224	In his Passion and death Jesus reaches the culmination of love. Love for the Father, obeying him up to his death on the cross (Mt 26:39, 27:46; Heb 4:15), while the Father is silent he cares for and forgives men (Lk 23:28; Jn 19:26; Lk 23:34-43). Jesus gives everything to everyone (Mk 10:45, 14:24; 2 Cor 5:14).
	225	Love for others is mentioned in many Old Testament texts (Lv 19:18; Dt 10:8). However, in many places of the Law (Ex 20:12-17) and of the prophets (Am 1-2; Is 1:14-17, 10:2, 65:13; Jer 9:2-5; Ez 18:5-9; Mi 3:5) it is said that we cannot please God without respecting others; doing them justice , freeing them from oppression (Is 58) and attending to the most humble (Ex 22:20-26, 23:4-12; Jer 9:4, 22:15; Prv 14:21; Sir 4, 25:1; Wis 2:10).
	226	Jesus closely relates the two main commands (Mk 12:28-33). The love for one's neighbour is the basis of Christian morality (see 201 and 203) to the degree that it tries to imitate the love of the Father, perfect and merciful (Mt 5:48; Lk 6:36; Eph 5:1; 1 Jn 4:11) and it is a response to the love with which God first loved us (1 Jn 3:16, 4:10-19). Love is the power which the Holy Spirit communicated to us (Rom 5:5) and it is nourished by contemplating Christ's limitless love (Eph 3:18; 2 Cor 5:14).
	227	On the eve of his Passion, Jesus emphasizes brotherly love as his new command : Jn 13:12-15, 34-35, 15:9-13; 1 Jn 2:6-8.
	228	Christian love is a gift without bounds, leading us to serve one another (Gal 5:13). It goes to all without consideration of social barriers (Mk 2:13; Lk 10:29, 14:13; Gal 3:28). It is manifested in forgiveness (Mt 5:43, commentary and references; Mt 18:21) and it is not denied to enemies. It inspires us to make an effort to understand the other , to respect his ideas (Rom 12:15-18, 14:1-10), to bear his limitations (1 Cor 13). The love, which is able to give and to receive, builds up the church (1 Cor 8:1; Eph 4:16; see 196) and leads us to perfection (Phil 1:9).

23. Prayer

- 230 Throughout the Bible prayer is inseparable from action. The models of prayer are those who lead God's people. Moses' intercession for Israel (Ex 17:8, 32:11, 33:12; Nm 11:11, 14:13). Moses gives us a pattern for intercession: he reminds God of his faithfulness; his own honor forces him not to abandon Israel, but rather to forgive Israel. The prayer of David (2 Sam 7:18), Solomon (1 Kgs 8:22-60), Hezekiah (2 Kgs 19:15), Judas Maccabeus (1 Mc 5:33, 11:71; 2 Mc 8:29, 15:20), Esther (4:17), Judith (9:2). Penitential prayer of Ezra (9:6), Nehemiah (1:4), and Daniel (3:26, 9:4).
- 231 The prayer of intercession is peculiar to the prophets: their word and prayer bring about and prevent events. Thus, Abraham, called prophet because of his power of intercession: (Gen 20:7) praying for Sodom (Gen 18:22). Likewise, Elijah (1 Kgs 18:36), Amos (7:1), Jeremiah (10:23, 14:7, 37:3). The prophet feels divided between compassion for his chastised people (Jer 14:19, 8:18; Ex 9:8) and zeal for God betrayed (Jer 2:3; Ez 16). His prayer is a confrontation with God (Nm 17:6; Ez 13:5, 22:30).
- 232 Prayer is also the prophets' ongoing dialogue with God at the very root of their call (Ex 4:5-22, 17:4; Jer 12:1, 15:10, 20:7), coming face to face with God (Ex 33:18; 1 Kgs 19:9).
- 233 The Psalms are God's people's prayer book. Prayer flows from the very needs of the one who implores, not asking for heavenly things, but for the concrete help needed in this precise moment. Yet, prayer is always forgetting self in order to praise God: Ps 47, 81, 89, 95, 98, 113, 117, 135, never forgetting that his well being is in God, asking to see God and to dwell in his house (Ps 16:23, 27:7, 63:2, 65:5, 73:24).
- 234 Jesus prays (Mk 1:35; Mt 11:25; Lk 22:32, 23:33; Jn 11:42) especially before making important decisions (Lk 3:21, 6:12, 9:18-29, 23:46; Mk 14:36; Jn 8:29). See also Heb 5:7, 7:25. Jesus works his miracles for those who ask him with faith (Lk 7:1; Mk 10:46) and who persevere until he attends to them (Mt 7:24). He tells us that this is the way to ask from the Father (Lk 11:5-13; Mk 9:23, 11:22). But he also teaches us to ask first that the Father's will be done (Mt 6:10, 7:21, 12:50; Jn 4:34, 7:17). He tells us what we should ask of the Father and how to ask for it: the Our Father (Mt 6:9; Lk 11:1 and also Mt 6:5).
- 235 The prayer of the early church. In the Temple of the Jews (Lk 24:5; Acts 3:1; 5:12) with hands lifted up (1 Tim 2:8) or kneeling (Acts 9:40). Community prayer (Acts 1:14; see Mt 18:19) in difficult situations (Acts 4:24, 6:6, 12:5).
- 236 Paul's letters include invitations to pray (Eph 6:18; Col 1:3; 1 Thes 5:17; Rom 15:30; 1 Cor 7:15; 1 Tim 2:1, 5:5) and spontaneous thanksgiving (Rom 8:31, 11:33, 16:25; 2 Cor 1:3; Eph 1). For him the prayer of intercession is a struggle (see 231; Rom 16:30; Phil 1:30; Col 4:12 and com. on Col 2:1; see also com. on Gen 32:23). There is always a balance between supplication and thanksgiving (Phil 4:6).
- 237 Prayer in the name of Jesus is fitting for one who shares Jesus' mission and allows his Spirit to guide him (Jn 14:12-13, 16:23). It is the perfect prayer of one who has achieved self-renunciation; it is not guided by human greed (Jas 4:3) but inspired by the Spirit of adopted sons (Rom 8:15, 26). This prayer is addressed to the Father (Gal 4:6), making us desire with our whole being what the Father wants and what hastens his Kingdom. We ask for specific things (Mt 7:11), but in another sense it is the Holy Spirit whom we wait for (Lk 11:13). This prayer which is always heard brings joy (Jn 16:24).
- 238 Other texts: 1 Pt 3:7, 4:7; Jas 1:6, 5:16; Rv 5:8.

24. Mission and evangelization

- 240 The word mission means being sent (com. on Mt 10:1). Jesus is the One sent by the Father to bring the Good News to Israel (Jn 3:17, 4:34, 6:38, 9:4, 10:36, 17:18; Mt 15:24), to the poor and the afflicted (Is 61:1; com. on Mt 5:1; Lk 7:22). On leaving this earth Jesus sends forth the apostles (Jn 20:21; Mt 28:19; Acts 1:8) and authorizes them with signs of the Holy Spirit (Mk 16:17; com. on Lk 10:1). Apostle means one sent (Lk 6:13). After the Twelve, the church will keep on sending apostles and missionaries (com. on Lk 5:1). One must be sent by the church, just as the Twelve were sent by Christ (Mk 3:13; Acts 26:16, 13:2, 19:14).
- 241 The missionary task is the common work of the apostles and of the Holy Spirit (Jn 14:26; Lk 24:49; Acts 1:4) who will give witness together with

		them (Jn 15:26). The Spirit encourages the apostle (1 Pt 1:12), the apostle's words later bring the Spirit upon his hearers. Whoever receives the apostles receives the Father and the Son (Lk 10:16). 242 The missionaries announce the Gospel (that is the Good News). In the words of Jesus, the Good News means the coming of the Kingdom of God (see 110-116) and it is accompanied by the many cures that Jesus works (com. on Mt 9:35; Lk 7:22). In the words of the apostles, the Good News means the fulfillment of God's promises to Israel (Acts 13:32). It is the gift of forgiveness and the gift of the Spirit (Acts 2:38, 3:26, 10:43, 13:38). The Good News is all about the coming of Jesus (Mk 1:1) which brings us peace (Acts 10:36; Eph 2:14). For Paul the Gospel is God's plan of salvation for all men (Rom 15:9; Eph 3:6) which centers on the death and resurrection of Jesus (1 Cor 15:1). It is a power that is conquering the world (Rom 1:16; Col 1:6). 243 Preaching the Gospel, when it is welcomed, brings repentance (Acts 2:37-38, 3:19, 17:30, 26:20) and conversion (Mt 4:17; Mk 12 and 182). Man sees the sinful situation in which he was in a lost world (Acts 2:40; 3:26) and believes in the forgiveness God offers him through Christ (Acts 5:31 and 160-164). This conversion of the heart and of the innermost being is different from only giving up one's vices (see com. on Lk 3:7 and 7:24). It is the work of God (Ez 36; 1 Kgs 18:37; Rom 2:4). On the other hand, when preaching is rejected, people and societies are ruined (Mt 11:20, 12:41; Mk 16:16). 244 To evangelize is not only to announce the Gospel, but to make it Good News, which frees a person in concrete circumstances of his life (com. on Mt 28:16). The Gospel means a healing of the whole human person. Liberation from religious prejudices (Col 2:16-22; Gal 4:8-11) and from social barriers (Gal 2:11). It brings about a renewal of the whole culture and a radical criticism of the social order (1 Cor 7:17-24). It leads to maturity in judgment and in relationships with others (Eph 4:14, 22-32). 245 Those who announce the Gospel become witnesses of Christ (Acts 1:8; Jn 15:27); the faithful witness after Jesus (Rv 1:5, 3:14) who comes to the world to give testimony of what he has heard from the Father (Jn 1:18, 3:11) and of who he is (Jn 8:13; 1 Tim 6:13), the apostles, in their turn, give witness to him (Jn 15:17, 20:21). Through their testimony it is God who gives testimony (1 Jn 5:9). 246 Martyr, in Greek, means witness. Someone who has suffered and given his life to remain faithful to his testimony is called a martyr (Rv 2:13, 6:9, 11:3, 17:6; Mk 13:9 and com. on Mt 10:16). Due to the devil's hatred for the church, there will be many martyrs (Rv 17:6). They are the true victors of the world (Rv 12:11).
25. The future of the world, judgment and the Resurrection	250	The Kingdom of God develops in the world – the work of God – as yeast (Mt 13:33) capable of transforming and saving it (Jn 3:16). Yet, this world is in the power of the Evil one (see com on Jn 3:11; and Jn 5:19) due to the fall of man which alienated his freedom (Jn 8:34; Rom 8:18). In his death, Jesus somehow deprived the Evil one of his power (Mt 12:29; Jn 12:31). Yet, if we judge according to appearances, he (the Evil one) continues to have a lot of influence (Mt 16:18) and moves a powerful current opposed to truth and justice (Jn 3:19) and he hates, above all, the witnesses of Christ (Jn 15:18; Mt 10:16; Rv 12:17) and to his church (Rv 12:13). This hostile current is at times called "the world" (Jn 16:33). At times "world" refers to those who do not know their vocation as sons of God (Jn 14:19, 16:20, 17:23; 1 Cor 5:10). See also 1 Jn 2:15. 251 Believers are in the world without being of the world (Jn 17:15). The church is at the service of the world to bring it to its true goal (Mk 16:15; Col 1:20). It is not at the service of the world's designs (Jas 4:4) nor of human ideals of happiness, justice and peace, which are always limited (Lk 12:13, 51), and which forget the real situation of sinful man (Mt 4:1) and do not understand salvation through the cross (Mt 16:23; Lk 24:26; 1 Cor 1:20). 252 Yet, if we pay attention to the Old Testament, we discover a divine pedagogy. In order for man to understand his divine vocation, he needs to taste the goods of the earth and to struggle for human ideals (see com. on Gen 13:7; Ex 3:16; Introduction to 1 Kgs; com. on Mt 5:1), limited ideals which God will gradually help him to purify, bringing man to understand the mystery of the cross (see com. on Lk 24:13).

- 253 For his own growth as well as for the good of the world, the believer involves himself in the tasks of the world (Mt 25:14; 2 Thes 3:10; 1 Tim 4:3; Ti 3:8; com. on Mk 3:33) and in so doing he cooperates with God the Creator who continues to act and to create (com. on Gen 1:28; Jn 5:7).
The church can hope for a time of peace and the spread of the Gospel (Rv 20:1). Its influence will be manifest (com. on Mt 13:31) and all kinds of human institutions will be under its protection (Mt 13:32). Yet, there will be persecutions (see 251) besides scandals within the church (Mt 13:47). Against the church, the devil will favour false religions (Rv 13:11) and totalitarian regimes (Rv 13:2) and at times, will give the impression that he has won (Rv 11:7, 13:14-17).
- 254 After many a crisis, the time of the final confrontation will come (see 12 124) and the time of the Antichrist (2 Thes 2:3-9; 1 Jn 1:18) as the prelude of the coming of Christ (Mk 13:26) and of the Resurrection (1 Thes 5:15; 1 Cor 15).
- 255 What is our destiny after death? Man lives only once (1 Heb 9:27, 6:4-8; Lk 16:27) and his eternity is determined in this one life. Some books of the Old Testament already spoke about life beyond death: 83 and 90-93.
- 256 Our destiny is to be resurrected when Christ comes to judge the living and the dead. How shall we be after the resurrection? What kind of body and existence shall we have? See Lk 20: 27; 1 Cor 15 especially.
This existence above all will be sharing in the Glory of God, seeing him, loving him, being transformed into his likeness and made one spirit with him: 1 Cor 6:17, 13:13; 1 Jn 3:2.
However this existence is always pictured as a communitarian and happy life: Mt 22, 25:1-30; Lk 22:30.
- 257 Will those who die not live at all until the last day of Resurrection? This was a difficult question before Jesus came when the Jews had just come to believe in the resurrection of the dead: Dn 12:1-5 and 12:13. But the teaching of the New Testament is clear: Lk 23:43; 2 Cor 5:8; Phil 1:23; 1 Pet 4:6; Rev 14:3.
- 258 Scripture speaks in a figurative way of those who have definitely rejected God's love. We are used to speak of: hell, something as final as heaven will be for the elect: Mt 13:42; Mk 8:42; Lk 16:23; Rev 21:5.
- 259 No one can approach God without having been purified of all sin and impurity. What happens to all the believers who die in the grace of God but are also filled with imperfections and human desires? It has been a constant teaching of the church that purification takes place during death or after death: 2 Mac 13:43; 1 Cor 3:15.

INTRODUCTION TO GENESIS

Genesis means: The beginnings. In this book we are told about the ancestors of the people of Israel: chapters 12-50. We are also given a first vision of God's saving plan for the world: chapters 1-11.

Chapters 12-50

With chapter 12 begin the memories of the Patriarchs, that is to say, Israel's ancestors. At the beginning of this Sacred History, which would transform the world, there was a family of believers: Abraham and his sons. They were nomads, that is, people who did not own land, but who lived in tents. They were accompanied by their sheep and donkeys and were always looking for wells and pastures for their flocks. It was these nomads, despised by city and rural people, who received the promise of a Land and the Blessing for all the nations of the world.

Chapters 1-11

The first chapters of Genesis were written to teach us the meaning of history, and of the world in which we live. Why creation? What is man? Why death? These chapters do not deal with history in the modern sense of the word since they do not give a description of historical facts. Rather there are comparisons and stories which contain an always valid religious truth. People like Adam, Eve, Noah... stand for past and present people.

Who wrote Genesis?

There was not just a single author but several. At the time of King Solomon (10th century before Christ), an unknown writer, usually called Yahwist, wrote a first history of God's people which began with the story of Paradise. He may be the same man who wrote most of the history of David in the books of Samuel.

To write about Abraham, he had at his disposal many memories and legends which Israelites had passed on orally from generation to generation. For the first part of Genesis, not dealing strictly with history, he made use of the literature of the Babylonians who, for centuries, had poems referring to the first couple, paradise lost, the flood... The author used part of those but he also deeply transformed them, so that these stories, as comparisons, would express God's plans for his creation.

In the 9th century before Christ, another author, usually called Elohist, wrote from various memories of the patriarchs and of Moses, at times repeating what the Yahwist had related in a somewhat different way. Then, these two stories were combined mixing at times phrases from both authors when treating the same topic.

Much later, when the Jews returned from the Exile in Babylon (5th century before Christ), their priests added many paragraphs which we indicate here by italics. The priests were the authors of the poem about creation in seven days, which begins Genesis and the entire Bible.

1-In the beginning, when God began to create the heavens and the earth, 2 the earth had no form and was void; darkness was over the deep and the Spirit of God hovered over the waters

+ 1 ¹In the beginning, when God began to create the heavens and the earth, ²the earth had no form and was void; darkness was over the deep and the Spirit of God hovered over the waters.

³God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. ⁴God saw that the light was good and he separated the light from the darkness. ⁵God called the light 'Day' and the darkness 'Night'. There was evening and there was morning: the first day.

⁶God said, "Let there be a firm ceiling between the waters and let it separate waters from waters." ⁷So God made the ceiling and separated the waters below it from the waters above it. And so it was. ⁸God called the firm ceiling 'Sky'. There was evening and there was morning: the second day.

⁹God said, "Let the waters below the sky be gathered together in one place and let dry land appear." And so it was. ¹⁰God called the dry land 'Earth', and the waters gathered together he called 'Seas'. God saw that it was good.

¹¹God said, "Let the earth produce vegetation seed-bearing plants, fruit-trees bearing fruit with seed, each according to its kind, upon the earth." And so it was. ¹²The earth produced vegetation: plants bearing seed according to their kind and trees producing fruit which has seed, according to their kind. God saw that it was good. ¹³There was evening and there was morning: the third day.

9. Job 26, 8; Is 51, 10

+ This very famous poem contains fundamental teachings, but it is neither God's first word about his creation, nor his last.

It is not the first word, since it was written relatively late, after the time of the kings and the prophets.

It is not the last word, since in order to understand the profound meaning of creation, people had to know Christ, the perfect image of God, through whom the world was made. The mystery of God as Creator is fully revealed to us in Jn 1 and Eph 1.

SOME CLEAR ANSWERS ABOUT FUNDAMENTAL FAITH QUESTIONS

In the beginning. In the beginning there is God, not the world, or matter or nature, but Someone who decides to create everything (Is 43:10).

God said: let there be light: thus we must understand that all of God's creation is light. Nothing is created evil. Everything has its origin in God's Word, that is to say, in his decision. Everything is created as God wants it. And God saw that it was good. If something in the world seems evil to us, this might be because we are unable to understand it. If it is really evil it is because someone other than God intervened, man or the devil (Wis 1:14; 11:20; Sir 13:1; Jas 1:17).

First day, second day, third day. The poem lists all the categories of creatures existing in the world, and everything comes in its time: the most perfect creatures, with a fuller degree of life come after the lower creatures. God's work is ordered and infinite. Man, who will be the king of creation, appears last.

He created him in his image. In the midst of crawling animals whose faces are turned towards the earth, man walks erect and looks at the sky. Man alone studies, knows and loves. Man alone is conscious: see the magnificent commentary of Sir 17:1-13. But when the Bible says that God created man, of whom does it speak? Not of man alone, nor of woman alone, but of the couple. The image of God is not the individual a prisoner of his loneliness and pride, but the meeting of two people united in communion, who are thus, carriers of life. In a similar way God is Three Persons in the same being.

The Bible insists that God made man in his image and likeness: that is someone with whom he could strike up a friendship and have a dialogue. And the Bible will tell us how God commits himself to men.

Being the image of God, man is God's servant whom he has put in charge of ruling the world: Let them rule (Sir 17:4).

Increase in number and fill the earth. God created man so that his life would be fruitful. The first books of the Bible emphasize that God's great blessing consists in having numerous children. Later biblical writers saw that what was important was not the number of children but that they be good children (Wis 4:11). The Bible never mentions multiplying in an irresponsible way. If God dedicated six days to preparing the earth to welcome humans, no parents should bring children into the world without having thought about how they will be welcomed.

¹⁴God said, "Let there be lights in the ceiling of the sky to separate day from night and to serve as signs for the seasons, days and years;¹⁵ and let these lights in the sky shine above the earth." And so it was.¹⁶ God therefore made two great lights, the greater light to govern the day and the smaller light to govern the night; and God made the stars as well.¹⁷ God placed them in the ceiling of the sky to give light on the earth¹⁸ and to separate the light from the darkness. God saw that it was good.¹⁹ There was morning and evening: the fourth day.

²⁰God said, "Let the water teem with an abundance of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth under the ceiling of the sky."²¹ God created the great monsters of the sea and all living animals, those that teem in the waters, according to their kind, and every winged bird, according to its kind. God saw that it was good.

²²God blessed them saying, "Be fruitful and increase in number, fill the waters of the sea, and let the birds increase on the earth."²³ There was evening and morning: the fifth day.

²⁴God said, "Let the earth produce living animals according to their kind: cattle, creatures that move along the ground, wild animals according to their kind." So it was.

²⁵God created the wild animals according to their kind, and everything that creeps along the ground according to its kind. God saw that it was good.

²⁶God said, "Let us make man in educated and thus be able to discover within their own family the love of the Father.

The seventh day God rested. This does not mean that God was tired, nor does it mean that since then God looks at his creation from a distance. We must understand that all of God's creation and human work must flow into the eternal day when we will rest with God, sharing his happiness in heaven. See also the commentary on Ex 20:8.

DO NOT TAKE EVERYTHING LITERALLY

Some people believe that God dictated these pages and that the sacred author only took them down without changing a single letter of what God said. But this is not the way the Bible was written. God obviously assisted the author so that the poem would come out as God wished it and would be a lesson for people of all times. But this does not change the fact that the author wrote for his contemporaries and used images and expressions peculiar to their culture. When we read the Bible now we have to enter into that culture and understand those expressions to some extent, if we wish to really grasp the message of the author.

First day, second day. Should we think that God created the world in six days, similar to ours, including the first three days when the sun did not yet exist?

What, in fact, the author intends to present is a drama about creation during which the curtain falls several times and the actors change. God is depicted creating the universe which will be his Temple and he builds it solemnly, step-by-step, as in an orderly ritual. Everything and every living being is given a function.

The author spread the ritual over six days, so that the seventh day would coincide with the sabbath, which the Jews observed as a day of rest dedicated to God. God rested on the sabbath and was praised by his creation: such is the goal of the universe and humankind. The Israelites called that day sabbath or day of rest and they looked upon its observance as a pillar of their religion.

Let there be a ceiling between the waters (v. 6). In those days people did not know that the earth was a planet revolving around the sun. They thought the earth was flat, like a disk and planted on columns. They envisioned these columns as planted in lower waters which surrounded the earth and formed the oceans (see Job 38:4-10). Above was a great blue dome, heaven, or firmament on which the stars and the sun were fixed. Above this firmament were, as they believed, the higher waters from which the rain came.

Indeed, for them, this heaven was the abode of another world where God lived with his angels. In the Bible, heaven and earth refer to all that exists: both the world of visible things, and another better world, a spiritual one which cannot be seen.

God saw that it was good. The author does not deny the existence of evil in the world. For the Israelites, the sea and darkness were symbols of evil forces in the world. However, these forces were ordered and contained: the sea had its limits and night was overcome by light every day.

God said: Obviously God, who is spirit, does not have a mouth, nor does he speak in sounds.

The Highest Heavens

THE WORLD AS THE HEBREWS VIEWED IT

The ancient people viewed the earth as a round table whose pillars descended into the ocean. In the uppermost part were the Heavens among the Heavens, or the Highest Heavens, the dwelling place of God. The sun, the moon and the stars hung from a canopy called ceiling. The rain flowed from waters from above, on the ceiling or firmament. The place of the dead, or hell, was under the earth, and was connected to our world through thousands of openings which were the sepulchres of the dead.

This expression God said reminds us that the Creator gave us his word and his law.

I give you all kinds of plants and fruit trees. With these words the author expresses the ideal of a non-violent world in which not even animals would be killed. God does not wish the death of his creatures, but later, a concession will be made (Gen 9:3) because God takes into consideration the true condition of sinful men.

CREATION AND MODERN MAN

Many people see a contradiction between what the Bible says and what science discovers. In fact, modern science speaks more and more about the beginning of the universe (see The Age of Creation, p. 7) but it does not know how to explain it. And so, we can relax.

We have already explained the meaning of six days: it does not contradict the theory that the universe was formed over millions of centuries. And if someone wonders why the story does not follow a scientific description of creation, let us say that the Bible is God's word to inform our faith and is not meant to replace scientific investigation.

More frequently another objection is raised: in presenting God as the creator of the world and man as a creature, religion makes us used to a life of submission and resignation. The truth is different: when the Bible states that God creates everything and is before all things, it exalts man who comes from God and is no longer a product of chance.

The Bible liberates the human spirit. Ancient people believed that man's fate depended upon the gods' whims and they lived with resignation, under the weight of a destiny from which no one could escape. Their efforts to control their environment were paralyzed by the fear of offending these gods who controlled the forces of nature. The pagan legend of Prometheus is well known: he was punished for having discovered, "stolen" fire which belonged to the gods, and for giving it to men, his brothers.

The Bible, on the other hand, presents a man not afraid of the hidden power of the stars (they are "lamps" at God's service), nor of any curse in his destiny when he looks for the secrets of the universe. Was not the first man who walked on the moon a Christian?

The biblical account declares that man comes from God, not just the first man, but every person born in this world: we are not the chance product of some purely physical laws. God has arranged the events and the encounters through which our personality has been formed; he has acted through all the people who have awakened our spirit.

Man appears the sixth day: from that moment on, God gives in – in a way – to his favorite creature man. God continues his creation through the hands, the brain and the heart of man. Man works and also creates. Schools are built, books printed and social structures planned through which every person is called to develop his initiative and responsibility.

A PROPHETIC MESSAGE

When Genesis says in the beginning it refers to creation, or to all that appears outside of God himself. The Gospel (Jn 1:1) uses the words in the beginning to express what God is in himself.

This first page of the Old Testament is a prelude to the later and final revelation in the our image, to our likeness. Let them rule over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, over the cattle, over the wild animals, and over all creeping things that crawl along the ground." ²⁷ So God created man in his image; in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them. ²⁸ God blessed them and said to them, "Be fruitful and increase in number; fill the earth and subdue it, rule over the fish of the sea and the birds of the sky, over every living creature that moves on the ground.

²⁹ God said, "I have given you every seed-bearing plant which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree that bears fruit with seed. It will be for your food. ³⁰ To every wild animal, to every bird of the sky, to everything that creeps along the ground, to everything that has the breath of life, I give every green plant for food." So it was.

³¹ God saw all that he had made, and it was very good.

2 ¹ That was the way the sky and earth were created and all their vast array. ² By the seventh day the work God had done was completed, and he rested on the seventh day from all the work he had done. ³ And God blessed the seventh day and made it holy, because on that day he rested from all the work he had done in his creation. ⁴ These are the successive steps in the creation of the heavens and the earth.

Gospel. John says in the beginning and he tells us about the inner life of God, not subject to time, for God lives in that permanent fullness which we call eternity. There, there is neither before, nor after, neither duration, nor tiredness nor boredom.

In the beginning the Son of God is born of God, and the Spirit proceeds from the Father and the Son. But we know that this beginning still continues and does not pass away; when the Son and the Spirit return to the unity of the Father-God to enjoy the highest beatitude together, time will not have passed.

In the beginning God projected himself in his Son who is his Image and Reflection (Col 1:15 and Heb 1:3); also in the beginning the riches that the Father saw in his Son were distributed in the world.

Genesis says in the beginning and that means when creatures, space and time began, since before that there was nothing outside of God; there was not even a "before" since time does not exist.

In the beginning God said it all, or rather, he totally revealed himself in his Only Son, and this only Word radiated from eternal Love. Similarly, the creative word mentioned in Genesis proceeded from God's love. Then the Spirit became present in the world, pervading all creatures (Wis 7:23) to get them started and to encourage them also to come back to divine union.

When we relate this first chapter of Genesis to the first page of John's Gospel and to the beginning of the letter to the Ephesians, two ways of considering them open up for us. The first is to study human history which deserves to be called a sacred history in which God reveals his eternal plan to love us, to bring the human race to maturity and to reunite it to Christ, his Son made man. The other way is to interiorize the inner mystery of God, from whom the universe emerged, the mystery of his dazzling wealth, incomprehensible wisdom and irresistible love.

The spirit of God hovered over the waters ... to give creatures the creativity which allows them to cooperate with God. Mothers, especially, are aware that God co-creates with them in the secret of the body and soul. And it is through the Spirit that the creative works of artists, poets and of God's people spring forth.

He made man in his image and likeness. This refers to the person who lives in God's grace (Eph 2:15; 4:24). Yet our sins erase God's image in the individual as well as in society we are building, a society dominated by greed and violence. That is why the Son comes to his own (Jn 1:11) in order to restore this likeness.

In his image and likeness. This is one of the major declarations in the Bible. We would never seek a personal relationship with God if we were to see only his immensity or all that makes him different from us. How could the Infinite Being be concerned with the ants that we are in this vast universe? But the Bible speaks of likeness.

This means that we are not incapable of receiving the full Truth. God can give us his Word and we can understand something of it. Man is not hopelessly locked in the world of his own fantasies and illusions, he is also made for the Truth: he cannot always doubt.

It is also good to remember that we are like God in so far as we love him (1 Jn 3:1-6; 7-8) and o On the day that Yahweh God made the earth and the heavens,⁴ there was not yet on the earth any shrub of the fields, nor had any plant yet sprung up, for Yahweh God had not made it rain on the earth, and there was no man to till the earth,⁶ but a mist went up from the earth and watered the surface of the earth.

⁷ Then Yahweh God formed Man, dust drawn from the clay, and breathed into his nostrils a breath of life and Man became alive with breath.⁸ God planted a garden in Eden in the east and there he placed Man whom he had created.⁹ Yahweh God made grow out of the ground every kind of tree that is pleasing to see and good to eat, also the tree of Life in the middle of the garden and the tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil.

¹⁰ A river flowed from Eden to water the garden and from there it divided to form four mainstreams.¹¹ The name of the first river is Pishon. It is the one that flows around all the country of Havilah where there is gold, our growth in love brings us closer to the moment when we will be able to see God and live in union with him by sharing his own life.

Let him rule. Despite his frailty, the human being has been chosen by God to be the link between him and the universe. From the first moment of creation God planned that his Son would become man (Eph 1:14); God refers to Christ in the words of Psalm 8: What is man that you should remember him? You crowned him with glory. (See 1 Cor 15:24.)

God rested on the seventh day and made it holy. Creation does not end with the appearance of the "working man" but with the Rest that God has prepared for him (Heb 3:13). Jesus inaugurated this rest by rising the day after the sabbath; that is why the apostles chose Sunday for the weekly gathering of Christians, leaving the sabbath for the Jews who had not believed in Christ.

o Following the solemn song about the creation of the universe which fills the first chapter of Genesis, the Bible offers us a much older story: Man and Woman in the garden of Eden.

This story can be compared with Jesus' parables, especially the parables about the father waiting for the prodigal son's return, and about the king inviting people to share his banquet. Yahweh, the Holy God, is pictured as the owner of a marvellous garden (Eden means delights) where he likes to take a walk after the heat of the day (3:8). We do not have to imagine a huge stage: all we have here are two trees, Man and his companion. Animals only pass by to be subject to Man (that is the meaning of his naming them in 2:20), and the serpent-demon does not need much space since it takes shelter in the heart of Man. But, no matter how small the Eden of the human couple is, what takes place there will, in the end, determine the lot of the entire earth. Thus, at the beginning, the small fountain of Eden is seen as feeding the great rivers of the world, especially the Euphrates and the Gihon which are thousands of kilometers apart.

Should we speak of Adam or of Man? In Hebrew Adam means any human being. When the word is used as a proper name without the article (as for example in 5:1; 5:3), we say Adam. Here, however, the Bible says "the" Adam, that is Man. In this regard, let us recall the words of Origen, the great biblicist who, living in the 3rd century, wrote: "As to Adam and his sin, only those who know that in Hebrew Adam means man, will really understand the profound meaning of this story. In those passages presented as the story of Adam, Moses gives his teaching about human nature." Thus, Adam stands for the whole human race: you are Adam too.

This ingenuous and simple story is full of profound words and divine teachings. Notice how Yahweh, the good craftsman and artist that he is, works the clay with his own hands, looking at the one who is still unable to know him and preparing him to receive from his own "blowing" both breath and life. About breath of life, or the soul of man, see paragraph 83 in the index: Biblical Teaching.

Man lives, but through the grace of God whose breath constantly awakens him so that he will not fall asleep or fall back to where he came from – and then, of all the animals, he becomes the most intelligent, the most cruel and the most unsettled. Breath and spirit are words very close in meaning: the Spirit of God sustains man. Should the Spirit abandon man, within a few minutes, or generations, man would return to dust: Man, that is, you and me: as well as families, and societies. Therefore, philosophers note that after the 19th century with its great proclamations about the death of God, the 20th century is the century of the death of man, with its confusion and despair, with its wars and worldwide hunger.

Man will have to give back to God all that he received from him, in particular, his spirit. This ¹² and the gold of that country is good; bidellium and onyx stone are there.

¹⁵ Yahweh God took Man and placed him in the garden of Eden to till it and take care of it. ¹⁶ Then Yahweh God gave an order to Man saying, "You may eat of every tree in the garden, ¹⁷ but of the tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, you will not eat, for on the day you will eat of it, you will die."

17. Wis 1, 12; Rom 6, 23

means the death as well as the divinization of Man: see Jesus' example in Mt 27:50. In creating us, God did not think of death; rather he made us like him so that one day when we see God face to face, he can recognize himself in us and love himself through us, when we achieve being one spirit in him (1 Cor 6:17).

Man is placed in the garden to develop it: humankind will build itself up while working in the world, and it will toil for many centuries to become mature and to know what it is and what it can do. Yahweh takes a break and Man remains between two trees. On one hand is the tree of Life which Man may taste while in the garden. As long as he experiences life he knows he is in the truth. But, there is also the tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, namely, self-knowledge and knowledge of the world includes the taking over of all the products of science, technology, economy and sex in order to enjoy what seems good for him so he can be free and happy.

It is not good for man to be alone (2:18). God who does not know solitude, creates separate sexes in order to bring couples together in love, mutual surrender and shared enjoyment, and not because it is the only means he can choose to transmit life.

There was not a helper like him... (2:20). The parade of animals prepares us to discover the unique value of Woman. She will be man's companion, not his servant, and God takes her from the rib. Had he taken her from the upper part of the body or the lower part, one of the two would feel inferior to the other. Despite this teaching from God, the people of Israel were always male-centered. On this topic see Mal 2:15; Lk 8:1; 1 Cor 7:4; 7:10; Eph 5:31.

Adam fell asleep (2:21) so that God could achieve in him the second part of his work. To exist as an individual is one thing; but to live as a couple demands a kind of rebirth for both.

And the two are one flesh: a Hebrew expression to mean they form a single being.

They were naked without shame: that is, they were at peace with nature and with their own body. They did not experience rebellion from their instincts nor did they feel awkward before God.

THE BIBLE AND EVOLUTION

How do we reconcile this creation of man from the mud of the earth with what science says about the evolution of living beings and about the animal origin of the human race?

We have already given an answer in the commentary on the previous chapter in the section Creation and Modern Man. But now let us ask: Who wrote that page of the Bible about the first couple? One of the wise men around King Solomon. That was the time when the Israelites had just become a nation. The writers of Israel's first sacred books in composing were influenced by their own times and environment.

Let us be specific: they wrote the first books of the people of Israel. Fifteen or twenty centuries before, the great neighbouring nations of Egypt and Babylon already had their literature: legends, religious poems and proverbs. The wise men of Israel did not begin from zero, but took advantage of ancient literature which related how the gods had created the world, how they had become jealous of the happiness of humans, and brought a deluge over them, and how a clever snake had stolen the plant of immortality from men. Solomon's wise men used these stories as models, but they transformed the legends in order to speak of God and men correctly. If we ask now, as science does: how was the human race formed? How does it relate to other forms of animal life? The Word of God says nothing about that. God lets us investigate with our intelligence and this is what scientists do.

One final observation. What is amazing for us is that everyone receives from God the spirit which makes a person in the image of God. It is not so important that we owe our body to human parents while the first humans inherited theirs

²⁰ So Man gave names to all the cattle, the birds of the air and to every beast of the field. But he did not find among them a helper like himself.

²¹ Then Yahweh God caused a deep sleep to come over Man and he fell asleep. He took one of his ribs and filled its place with flesh. ²² The rib which Yahweh God had taken from Man he formed into a woman and brought her to the man. ²³ The man then said, "Now this is bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh. She shall be called woman because she was taken from man." ²⁴ That is why man leaves his father and mother and is attached to his wife, and with her becomes one flesh. ²⁵ Both the man and his wife were naked and were not ashamed.

3 ¹ Now the serpent was the most crafty of all the wild creatures that Yahweh God had made. from animal ancestors. God is the one who gave the impulse and orientation to the whole evolution of living beings so that Man would appear in the end, Man who in fact, is first in God's plan.

A PROPHETIC MESSAGE

We will never fully understand these paragraphs. At any rate, we cannot understand them well without having grasped that, "prophetically" they prepare for the revelation of Christ.

If Adam represents the whole human race, one in its origin and also in its destiny, then Christ is the authentic Adam. At creation God has his heart set on Christ since he planned that his own Son would come into the world and become a creature of flesh and blood in order to bring back to the Father not only the human race but the whole of creation.

"In Christ" God blessed this race in which each one appears with unique features, yet inseparable from the whole. He is concerned about saving our entire history; he teaches us from the beginning of our animal origins, brings our cultures to maturity and gathers us together in Christ. No doubt our first ancestor according to the flesh deserves at least a fond memory; but the one who communicates the Spirit to us and raises us before God is quite other (1 Cor 15:45-49).

This page also deals with the human couple, the authentic image of God in this world. God who in the Three Persons, Father, Son and Spirit forms one same Being in a single communion. This was "the law at the beginning" (Mt 19:8).

For most people, marriage is the providential way, the sacrament enabling them to prepare for the final encounter with God. Years of shared life, their efforts to listen to and understand each other and to make decisions together, their capacity to forgive and persevere in total faithfulness: these are the means which transform weak, irresponsible human creatures and make them grow.

God's creation of the couple also hints at the mystery of Christ and his coming to people as the groom (Mk 2:19). From the side of Adam asleep, Eve was born; from the side of Christ, dead on the cross, blood and water flowed (Jn 19:34) which means the birth of a church cleansed through the water of baptism and the blood of Christ (Eph 5:26, 31).

■ The simple friendship of man with God was lost through disobedience. Man freely became the enemy of God to whom he owed everything. From that moment on, man's life on earth would be one of struggle and suffering but he was promised victory over evil.

The story distinguishes three moments: temptation, sin and judgement. First we meet the Tempter, personified in the serpent: he is the enemy of God ready to poison his work.

Adam's sin is one of rebellion against God: man eats despite God's telling him: you shall not eat. Let us keep in mind that the Hebrews used the word eat to express the effort of a person who memorizes and repeats the sayings of wise men. One eats the fruits of wisdom (Prv 9:5; Sir 24:26). Man's sin consists in wanting to have a wisdom which does not come from God. And by wisdom we must understand also: money, success, happiness, long life as in 1 Kgs 3:11.

Some claim that the first sin was a sexual sin. The Bible says nothing to support that idea: on the contrary, it understands the sin of Adam, or of the human race, as a perversion of the mind: man wants to decide his own destiny. But in separating himself from God, he cuts off his own roots and destroys himself.

The sinner is always deceived. Two details express the irony of the devil's lie:

garden God said: You must not eat, and you must not touch it or you will die.⁴ The serpent said to the woman, "You will not die, ⁵but God knows that the day you eat it, your eyes will be opened and you will be like gods, knowing good and evil."

⁶The woman saw that the fruit was good to eat, and pleasant to the eyes, and ideal for gaining knowledge. She took its fruit and ate it and gave some to her husband who was with her. He ate it. ⁷Then their eyes were opened and both of them knew they were naked. So they sewed leaves of a fig tree together and made themselves loincloths.

⁸They heard the voice of Yahweh God walking in the garden, in the cool of the day, and they, the man and his wife, hid from Yahweh God among the trees of the garden.

⁹God called the man saying to him, "Where are you?" ¹⁰He said, "I heard your voice in the garden and I was afraid because I am naked, so I hid." ¹¹God said, "Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten of the tree I ordered you not to eat?" ¹²The man answered, "The woman you put with me gave me fruit from the tree and I ate it." ¹³God said to the woman, "What have you done?" The woman said, "The serpent deceived me and I ate."

The judgement of God

+ ¹⁴God said to the serpent, "Since you have done that, be cursed among – Your eyes will be opened: man expects to conquer Truth: he awakens not to find himself transformed into God but aware of his nakedness.

– You will know good and evil, that is, they alone will decide what suits them. In fact, they only achieve the bitter experience of sin.

They knew they were naked. Sinful man is not at ease with himself. The loincloth or whatever other adornment he may use to gain dignity is not enough to reconcile him with himself. He is unable to bear God's looking at him.

They hid from God. Fear of God is the consequence of sin. Sinful man invents a false image of God and sees him as jealous of man's freedom.

The forces of evil will preserve this erroneous image of God as a vengeful God, envious of man's happiness. There are even many "religious" people who really do not have much faith in Jesus' Father, and who fear this false God. When Scripture teaches us the fear of God, it refers to respect and obedience).

We have already mentioned that Adam represents the whole human race. Adam's sin of wanting to decide his own destiny, is also the sin of our present civilization. In the last centuries, Western civilization has been moved by faith in man's ability to solve all his problems: there has been an incredible development in science and technology and an industrial take-off. All of this, of bad in itself, has been perverted at the root by the illusion that man is self-sufficient.

Our present century has seen the failure of its humanism without God. Man no longer knows who he is, nor what is the meaning of his life. He has only succeeded in building an oppressive world. This failure reminds us that God created us to be his children and from the moment we renounce our vocation, we become Adam going to his death.

ADAM AND THE PRODIGAL SON

There are lots of places in the Bible which deal with how God looks on sinners. Perhaps the most important one is the parable of the Prodigal Son: Lk 15:11. This parable not only shows the misfortunes and forgiveness of a sinner, but portrays Man as the prodigal son. But, while in Genesis Adam is a rebellious servant whom God expels, in this parable man is the son and in the end he recovers his inheritance.

Adam does not know how he stands with God: is he creature, servant or friend? He does not know what abyss separates him from God and so, he thinks about becoming God's rival. But Jesus teaches us how to be sons who imitate the Father (Jn 5:19). Jesus is the Son and he makes us sons: that is how he frees us.

+ God's judgement indicates the new situation resulting from sin.

Man is expelled from Eden. Thus, the present life of man, who suffers and dies away from God, does not correspond to the divine plan. But God cursed the serpent, not man. The primitive plan has not failed: man will reach his end and share God's happiness, but that will only be achieved through Christ's redemption.

The punishment comes from nature which rebels against man. Man is the creature who, having everything to make him happy, ruins his most valuable undertakings. Contradictions and suffering accompany what is most precious in people's lives:

- giving birth and educating children:
- the relationship between husband and wife, with the stronger one dominating the other. From this comes the exploitation of women who have been "the largest exploited working class in the world" from the beginning.
- work becomes a cause of unhappiness. For some, work brings wealth but not an authentic self-realization. For others, work makes them part of the laboring class.

Let him not stretch out his hand ... God deprives man of the possibility of living forever and man falls back into the category of living beings who must be born, grow and die. This physical death is a blessing for sinners. How horrible it would be for men to live many years and become gradually more enslaved by their sins and limitations, more attached to materialism and more devoid of generosity and hope.

What would human existence be without sin? We would certainly have to leave this world, but death would be a happy and free surrender of our lives to God as happened with Mary and the saints. As it is, a sinner's death is a mystery of fear and insecurity and it appears to be punishment.

We must not forget, however, that Adam's weakness and death are part of God's saving plan. Our lives would be meaningless if it were not that within us there is an ongoing springing forth from our nature, which is that of Adam: animal and mortal - toward the holiness and incorruptibility of the other Adam, Christ.

Yet, Yahweh clothing Adam and Eve reminds us that in his mercy God stays with men and looks after them in the misfortunes which they bring upon themselves.

DO NOT TAKE EVERYTHING LITERALLY

We have already mentioned that the author of these pages took some characters from ancient tales, as for example, the serpent. He also preserved some strange expressions, like the following: the man has become like one of us ... in which it would seem that God is afraid of man's competition. The author did not feel it was necessary to clarify these ambiguous expressions which came directly from the pagan legend. The same goes for the cherubim and the flaming sword which referred to certain figures posted at the entrance to cities to keep the evil spirits away. Here, these figures show that humankind is under the wrath of God (Ept 2:3): that is to say that human beings cannot find happiness, nor can they encounter God until they humbly accept Jesus Christ, the one who freed us and who is the way to life.

ORIGINAL SIN

If we have been taught that because of Adam's fault we are all condemned to live far from God and to die, we might have doubts. So God who tells us not to punish anyone for the sins of his parents (Dt 24, 16) contradicts himself! If this passage has been presented to us as historical, that is to say as the history of the first man's sin, we might be confused by what science now affirms about man's origins. How could we attribute a sin of such serious consequences to primitive man barely beyond the animal stage?

But we have said that Adam stands for God made garments of skin for the man and his wife, and with these he clothed them.

²² Then Yahweh God said, "The man has now become like one of us, making himself judge of good and evil. Let him not stretch out his hand to take and eat from the tree of Life as well, and live forever."²³ So God cast him from the garden of Eden to till the soil from which he had been made.²⁴ And after having driven the man out, God posted cherubim and a flaming sword that kept turning at the east of the garden of Eden to guard the way to the tree of Life.

Cain and Abel

4 ¹Adam had intercourse with Eve his wife; she became pregnant and gave birth to a child. She named him Cain, for she said, "I have got a man with help from Yahweh."² She later gave birth to Abel, his Humankind. When we speak of original sin we mean:

- 1) that our sins are not the sins of isolated individuals: the sins of our ancestors and of our culture have conditioned and limited our freedom from the beginning.
- 2) that, profoundly marked by the demands of our body and feelings, which are aroused before the awakening of our reason, we usually affirm ourselves by being negative and rebellious towards the Law of God.
- 3) that human freedom involves a mystery which reason finds disturbing.

In the beginning we experience God as one who has power and authority over us; so our worship conceals rebellious feelings. This God (the God Adam deals with) is not the true loving and merciful Father.

Thus, between the time of the awakening of our reason and the time God manifests himself to us as a person, we necessarily go wrong, either in wanting to be independent, in rebelling against a God who sets laws for human behaviour or in remaining timid and resigned because we are afraid of using our freedom.

CHRIST AND THE SIN OF THE WORLD

To achieve true faith and surrender to the Father, we need to be prepared by God who comes to us personally, through His only Son, Christ. It is never we who love God first (1 Jn 4:10).

This is the mystery that Paul tries to explain in chapters 1 through 8 of his letter to the Romans. There he speaks powerfully of the sin of Adam, not to explain the universality of sin through the first man's fault, but to emphasize salvation through Christ: Jesus is the only authentic head of the human race and the only one who can bring it together. In speaking about Adam, Paul somehow wants to personify all of sinful humanity before its Saviour came.

Jesus "makes up for Adam's sin." This means that he does not come only to erase a collection of individual sins, but that his cross and Resurrection initiate a current of grace in the world and solidarity in goodness which bring humankind to the maturity it had to reach.

We say that baptism "erases original sin": this means that the filial relationship with God, begun at baptism, is the renunciation of and the solution to the false independence which imprisoned man in sin and death.

THE WOMAN - THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

In speaking of the woman's offspring, the author was thinking of people who struggle against evil and are constantly wounded, but victorious in the end.

But, later biblical writers referred it more and more to a conqueror, the Son of Man, the protagonist of the decisive battle.

The Woman is humankind, giving birth to the Saviour, to its Saviour and made fruitful through the grace of God (Is 45:8). Revelation 12 will also speak of the Woman. This figure refers to Mary as well as to the Church since both Mary and the Church have entered into the divine marriage: Jesus was born of Mary. In its turn, the Church is the mother of all those who are born of water and of the Spirit, and who become members of the Body of Christ, which gradually extends to all people.

In art Mary is represented as crushing the head of the serpent to express that God preserved her from the evil affecting our race. Even more: In her case, God did not want the lapse of time when human freedom is blind to take place between the first instant of her conception and the first manifestation of God the Father. So, from the beginning he prepared her with the fullness of his grace so that her entire life would be established and develop in a perfect filial spirit. This privilege of Mary is what we call her Immaculate Conception.

Mary is the perfect creature, inseparable from the Son of the Woman, Jesus Christ. God placed her amidst a multitude of sinners whom she was to help. A Woman (Jn 2:4; 19:26) is the model of all those who would be saved. Mary is the new Eve and the Mother of the disciples of Jesus (Jn 19:26).

brother. Abel was a shepherd and kept flocks, and Cain tilled the soil.

³It happened after a time that Cain brought fruits of the soil as an offering to Yahweh. ⁴Abel for his part brought the firstborn of his flock, and some fat as well. Now Yahweh was well pleased with Abel and his offering, ⁵but towards Cain and his offering he showed no pleasure. This made Cain very angry and downcast.

⁶Then Yahweh said to Cain, "Why are you angry and downcast? ⁷If you do right, why do you not look up? But if you are not doing what is right, sin is lurking at the door. It is striving to get you, but you must control it."

⁸Cain said to his brother Abel, "Let's go to the fields." Once there, Cain turned on his brother Abel and killed him. ⁹Yahweh said to Cain, "Where is your brother, Abel?" He answered, "I don't know; am I my brother's keeper?"

¹⁰Yahweh asked, "What have you done? Your brother's blood cries out to me from the ground. ¹¹Now be cursed and driven from the ground that has opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood that your hand has shed. ¹²When you till the soil, it will no longer yield you its produce. You will be a fugitive wandering on the earth."

¹³Cain said to Yahweh, "My punishment is greater than I can bear. ¹⁴See today you drive me from this land. I must hide from you and be a wanderer and a fugitive on the earth, and it will so happen that whoever meets me will kill me." ¹⁵Yahweh said to him, "Well then, whoever kills Cain, will suffer vengeance seven times." And Yahweh put a mark on Cain to prevent anyone who met him from killing him.

¹⁶Cain then went from Yahweh's presence and settled in the land off Nod, to the east of Eden.

The descendants of Cain and Seth

+ ¹⁷ Cain had intercourse with his wife: she conceived and gave birth to Enoch. As he was building a town, he called it by the name of his son, Enoch. ¹⁸A son, Irad, was born to Enoch. Irad became father of Mehujael, and Mehujael of Methuael, and Methuael of Lamech.

¹⁹Lamech had two wives, Adah and Zillah. ²⁰Adah gave birth to Jabel: he was father to those who live in tents and keep flocks. ²¹His brother was Jubal: he was father to all those who play the lyre and flute. ²²As for Zillah, she gave birth to Tubal-Cain, forger of

◆ The story of Cain, like the story of earthly Paradise, is not historical; it is a religious story which teaches us the depth of the human condition, by way of comparison. It shows violence as a decisive factor in our history, with its roots deep in the human heart (4:7) and its first victims those who, like Abel, are pleasing to God (4:5). Abel's spilled blood cries out to God (4:10) who does justice in his way, not as we would with vengeance and violence (4:15).

Originally Cain's story had nothing to do with the story of Adam and Eve and their descendants. The biblical author who took the story and placed it here, related it to the previous one by, fictitiously, making Cain become Adam's son. (There is, therefore, no room for stupid questions about whom Cain and Abel married: the Bible does not intend to relate the beginnings of the human race.)

of the Cainites (or Kenites: Jgs 1:16; 4:17) who became part of Israel. As often related in ancient legends, Cain, the founder of the tribe, had killed his brother, who could become his rival, since that was the only way to establish political authority. Later, a society with different functions saw the light (4:19-22); then Lamech became the spokesman of national pride (4:23); the people would learn how to get even with aggressors.

In borrowing this legend the biblical author gave it another meaning and inserted a dialogue between God and Cain as judgement on violence: "You pretended to act justly: wrong! You have committed a crime." It is like us saying: "You who pretend to serve the sacred interests of the nation, how long will you eliminate and expel those who do not agree with you?"

In the Bible, Abel is the first and the model of innocent victims who are murdered. This and all tools in bronze and iron. The sister of Tubal-Cain was Naamah.

²³ Lamech said to his wives:

"Adah and Zillah, hear my voice; wives of Lamech, listen to what I say, for I killed a man for wounding me and a boy for striking me.

²⁴ If Cain will be avenged seven times, then Lamech seventy-seven times."

²⁵ Adam again had intercourse with his wife and she gave birth to a son and named him Seth; for she said, "Yahweh has given me another child in place of Abel since Cain killed him." ²⁶ To Seth also a son was born and he called him Enosh. At that time people began to call on the name of Yahweh.

The descendants of Adam

5 ¹ This is the account of Adam's descendants. When God created Adam he made him in the likeness of God; ² male and female he created them; he blessed them and called them Man on the day they were created.

³ Adam was a hundred and thirty years old when he became father of a son born in his own likeness, in his own image; and he named him Seth. ⁴ After the birth of Seth, Adam lived for eight hundred years and had other sons and daughters. ⁵ Altogether Adam lived nine hundred and thirty years; then he died.

⁶ When Seth was a hundred and five, he became father of Enosh. ⁷ After the birth of Enosh, Seth lived eight hundred and seven years. He had other sons and daughters. ⁸ Altogether Seth lived nine hundred and twelve years; then he died.

⁹ When Enosh was ninety years old, he became the father of Kenan. ¹⁰ After the birth of Kenan, Enosh lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and he had other sons and daughters. ¹¹ Altogether Enosh lived nine hundred and five years; then he died.

¹² When Kenan was seventy years old, he became father of Mahalalel. ¹³ After the birth of Mahalalel, Kenan lived eight hundred and forty years, and he had other sons and daughters. ¹⁴ Altogether Kenan lived nine hundred and ten years; then he died.

¹⁵ When Mahalalel was sixty-five, he became the father of Jared. ¹⁶ After that, Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years, and had other sons and daughters. ¹⁷ All the days of Mahalalel were eight hundred and ninety-five years; then he died. ¹⁸ When Jared was a hundred and sixty-two, he became father of Enoch. ¹⁹ After the birth of Enoch, Jared lived eight hundred years, and he had other sons and daughters. ²⁰ Altogether Jared lived nine hundred and sixty-two years; then he died.

²¹ When Enoch was sixty-five, he became father of Methuselah. ²² After the birth of Methuselah, Enoch walked with God three hundred years, and he had other sons and daughters. ²³ In all Enoch lived three hundred and sixty-five years. ²⁴ After Enoch had walked with God, he disappeared because God took him up.

²⁸ Lamech was a hundred and eighty-two when he became father of a son ²⁹ and named him Noah, for he said, "He will console us in the hard toil and suffering of our hands, because of the soil that was cursed by Yahweh." ³⁰ After the birth of Noah, Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years and he had other sons and daughters. ³¹ In all Lamech lived seven hundred and seventy-seven years; then he died.

other passages suggest that they are eliminated because they are just people (Mt 23:35; Heb 11:4; Jn 8:44; 1 Jn 3:12).

+ The sacred authors inserted between the origins of the world and the start of their own history (the call to Abraham) what they knew about the past of men. They knew it in their own way through traditions and legends.

♦ Methuselah lived nine hundred sixty-nine years! The believing Israelites who wrote this text thought that their earliest ancestors were better than themselves. They also thought that since they had been better, they must have been rewarded with very long lives. Some numbers are symbolic: for example 777 and 365. These lists of ancestors gave the people of the period some idea of time and history, but they are still legends. We must not take all of this literally.

In this legendary list of the ancestors of humankind appears the name of Enoch the just one, whom God took up to heaven just as he did with Elijah (2 Kgs 2).

♦ In 6:1 we find a popular belief of the Israelites. The sons of God refer to the angels. Here we find an affirmation in the Bible that, at the be-

Sons of God and daughters of men

◆ 6 ¹ When men began to increase on the earth and daughters were born to them, ² the sons of God saw that men's daughters were very beautiful, so they married those they chose. ³ Yahweh then said, "My spirit will not remain in man forever, for he is flesh. His span of life will be one hundred and twenty years." ⁴ At that time there were giants on the earth, and afterwards as well, when the sons of God went to the daughters of men and had children by them. These were the heroes of old, men of renown.

The flood

■ ⁵ Yahweh saw how great was the wickedness of man on the earth and that evil was always the only thought of his heart. ⁶ Yahweh regretted having created man on the earth and his heart grieved. ⁷ He said, "I will destroy man whom I created and blot him out from the face of the earth, as well as the beasts, creeping creatures and birds, for I am sorry I made them." ⁸ But Noah was pleasing to God.

⁹ This is the story of Noah. Noah was a just man, blameless among the people of his time, a man who walked with God. ¹⁰ Noah became the father of three sons: Shem, Ham and Japheth. ¹¹ The earth became corrupt in God's sight and was full of violence. ¹² God saw the earth and saw it corrupt, for corrupt, indeed, was the way of all mortals.

¹³ Yahweh said to Noah, "I have in mind to destroy all people, for the earth is filled with violence because of them. This is why I will destroy them and with them the earth. ¹⁴ As for you, build an ark of cypress wood. You will make rooms in the ark and coat it with pitch inside and outside. ¹⁵ This is the way you will do it: the length of the ark, four hundred and fifty feet; the width, seventy-five feet; the height, forty-five feet. ¹⁶ You will put a roof on the ark and finish it within eighteen inches from the top. Put a door in the side of the ark and have lower, middle and upper decks. ¹⁷ I am about to bring floodwaters on the earth to destroy the earth to destroy all life under the heavens, every creature that has the breath of life. Everything on earth will perish, ¹⁸ but I will establish my covenant with you. You shall come into the ark, you, your wife, your sons and your sons' wives with you. ¹⁹ You shall bring into the ark two of every kind of living thing, male and female, to keep them alive with you. ²⁰ Of the birds, the animals and all creeping things on the ground, according to their kind, two of every sort shall come in to be kept alive with you.

²¹ Take with you every sort of food that is eaten. Make a store of it and it will be food for you and them."

²² And Noah did all as God had commanded him.

7 ¹ Yahweh said to Noah, "Go into the ark, you and all your household, for I see that you are just in this generation. ² Of all the clean animals, you are to take with you seven of each kind, male and female, and a pair of unclean animals, a male and a female. ³ In the same way for the birds of the air, take seven and seven, male and female, to keep their kind alive over all the earth, ⁴ for in seven days I will send rain on the earth for forty days and forty nights. I will blot out from the face of the earth all the living creatures I have created."

ginning of the world, the angels were tested and many of them fell. At a later time this legend about the giants would no longer be mentioned, but instead that of the fallen angels would be confirmed (Mt 25:41; Rv 12:4; 12:7).

We must remember that, while we believe that humanity improves and progresses, ancient people thought that their ancestors were stronger and better formed than themselves. When they spoke of the pride of man who intends to compete with God, they thought that it had been their ancestors' sin, but to us this arrogance seems more characteristic of future generations, who are conceived over technological development. The lesson, however, is clear: a superman – even if he believes himself to be the master of heaven – does not know the ways of God.

■ God is not prone to ecstasy or sadness as we are, but he is not indifferent to human wick-

⁷So Noah went into the ark with his children, his wife and his sons' wives to escape the waters of the flood. ⁸Clean animals and also unclean, birds, and all that crawls on the earth went into the ark with Noah; ⁹they went two and two, male and female, as God had commanded Noah. ¹⁰And after seven days the waters of the flood were over the earth.

¹³*On that same day Noah went into the ark, as well as Shem, Ham and Japheth, his sons, and his wife and his daughters-in-law. ¹⁴All the animals according to their kind also entered into the ark, all the cattle, all the creeping things that crawl on the earth and all the birds according to their kind; all that flies and everything with wings. ¹⁵They came to Noah in the ark, two by two, all creatures that had the breath of life in them. ¹⁶And they that went in were male and female just as God had commanded.*

Then Yahweh closed the door on Noah. ¹⁷The flood lasted for forty days on the earth. The waters rose and lifted the ark and raised it above the earth.

¹⁸*The waters rose and increased greatly on the earth and the ark floated on the surface of the waters.*

moved on the earth died: birds, cattle, animals, everything that swarmed on the earth - and all humankind.

²²All on the face of the earth that had the breath of life in its nostrils died. ²³Every living being on the face of the earth, men and animals, and creatures that crawl and the birds of the air were wiped off the earth. Only Noah was left and those that were with him in the ark.

8 ¹*The waters flooded the earth for one hundred and fifty days. ¹Then God remembered Noah and all the animals and cattle that were with him in the ark. God made a wind blow over the earth and the waters subsided.*

²Then the fountains of the deep and the floodgates of the heavens were closed and the downpour from the heavens held back.

³*The waters receded from the earth and after one hundred and fifty days the waters had abated. ⁴In the seventh month, in the seventeenth day of the month, the ark rested on Mount Ararat. ⁵The waters continued to recede until the tenth month. On the first day of the tenth month the mountain tops could be seen.*

⁸Then Noah let out the dove to see if the waters were receding from the earth. ⁹But the dove could not find a place to set its foot and flew back to edness. God does what is necessary to assure the future of his creation even when he must use radical means. Indeed, at times, it would seem that the only solution is to bring the actual world to the end.

According to Noah's story, this is God's intention with the Flood, except that God does not destroy everything. He saves Noah, the just one, so that a holy race may spring from him. Throughout sacred history God will bring the worst disasters on his unfaithful people, but he will always preserve a Remnant (Is 4:2-6; 6:13).

This is how God chooses Noah from all the sons of Adam; later he will choose Abraham from among Noah's descendants; then David from Abraham's sons and, finally, one of David's sons, Christ, the representative and Saviour of all men. The Bible brings out this contrast: while the sin of a single man, Adam, affects all people and frustrates the progress of civilization, God focuses all his attention on a single people, a single family, and a single man who will save everyone (Rom 5).

Like Noah, the believer is a person who will-him in the ark for the waters still covered the surface of the whole earth. So Noah stretched out his hand, took hold of it and brought it back to himself in the ark. ¹⁰He waited some more days and again sent the dove out from the ark. ¹¹This time the dove came back to him in the evening with a fresh olive branch in its beak.

Then Noah knew the waters had receded from the earth. ¹²He waited seven more days and let the dove loose, but it did not return to him any more.

¹³*In the year six hundred and one, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the waters dried up from the earth. Noah then removed the covering from the ark and looked out and saw that the surface of the earth was dry. ¹⁴On the twenty-seventh day of the second month, the earth was dry.*

¹⁵*Then God said to Noah, ¹⁶"Come out of the ark, you and your wife, your sons and their wives with you. ¹⁷Bring out with you all flesh, that is, all the animals who are with you, all things of flesh; birds, cattle and all that crawls on the earth. Let them abound on the earth, be fruitful and increase in number. ¹⁸So Noah went out, with his sons, his wife and his sons' wives with him. ¹⁹All the animals, all the birds, all that creeps on the earth, came out of the ark, one kind after another.*

²⁰Noah built an altar to Yahweh and, taking some of all the clean animals and all the clean birds, he offered burnt offerings on it. ²¹Yahweh smelled the pleasing aroma and said to himself: "Never again will I curse the earth because of man, even though his heart is set on evil from childhood; never again will I strike down every living creature as I have done.

²²As long as the earth lasts, seedtime and harvest cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night, shall not cease to be."

The new world order

9 ¹God blessed Noah and his sons and he said to them, "Be fruitful, multiply and fill the earth. ²Fear and dread of you will be in all the animals of the earth and in all the birds of the air, upon everything that creeps on the ground and all the fish of the sea. They are given to you. ³Everything that moves and lives shall be food for you; as I gave you the green plants, I have now given you everything. ⁴Only you shall not eat flesh with its life, that is its blood.

⁵But I will also demand a reckoning for your lifeblood. I will demand it from every ingly enters into God's plans and cooperates with him in the salvation of the world. It is not enough to say: "I have my faith." Will this faith of mine lead me to sacrifice myself to change the world? Compared with the negligent, the lazy and the corrupt, Noah, the man of faith, begins to work and he does not doubt or become discouraged while he is building his ridiculous and apparently useless boat.

The time comes when God eliminates the unprepared, those who preferred to enjoy the now rather than work for the future God pointed out to them. (Mt 3:9-12; Zeph 2:1-3; Mt 24:38).

Noah's story has its source in very old legends. It was put in writing for the first time in the days of King Solomon. At a much later date the Jewish priests added the paragraphs indicated here in smaller italics.

The story of the flood is recalled in several places in the New Testament (see 1 Pt 3:10; and 2 Pt 2:5). This story teaches us that God wants to renew our sinful world. For that to be accomplished, we need a process of purification and we need to revise not only our evil habits but even the very roots of our culture. To begin with, we must let go of our pride and admit that we need a Saviour.

In some way, the Church is this Ark which we enter through faith and baptism and where we are welcomed by Christ, the new Noah. It would obviously be wrong to lock ourselves in the Church as in a refuge of the saved and from there to condemn everything taking place in the world, forgetting that our mission is to save the world (Jn 3:17). Yet, we must not forget that the Church is the only hope of the world and not a single thing that man makes can enter the Kingdom without passing through purifying and destroying waters.

Never again, will I curse the earth because of man. With these words the Bible assures us that human errors and crimes cannot lead history to chaos. Not only will the sun give its warmth and the earth its bread, but in every century, humankind will find a solution to its problems.

* He who sheds the blood of man shall have his blood shed by man for in the image of God has God made man.

⁷As for you, be fruitful and increase. Abound on the earth and be master of it."

*God spoke to Noah and his son: ⁸"See I am making a covenant with you and with your descendants after you; ⁹also with every living animal with you: birds, cattle, that is, with every living creature of the earth that came out of the ark. ¹⁰I establish my covenant with you. Never again will all life be cut off by the waters of a flood, and never again will there be a flood to destroy the earth."

¹¹God said, "This is the sign of the covenant I make between me and you, and every animal living with you for all future generations. ¹²I set my bow in the clouds and it will be a sign of the covenant between me and the earth. ¹³When I bring clouds over the earth and the rainbow appears in the clouds, ¹⁴I will remember the covenant between me and you and every kind of living creature, so that never again will floodwaters destroy all flesh. ¹⁵When the rainbow is in the clouds, I will see it and remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of every kind that exists on the earth." ¹⁶God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant I have made between me and all that has life on the earth."

Noah and his sons

that is for all humankind) serves as a commentary on the previous promise. Let us note the following points:

Man is confirmed in his role as steward of creation (v. 2).

He may eat the flesh of animals (v. 3), but not their blood (compare with 1:29) because for the Hebrews blood was thought to contain the soul, that is the life of the living being. Thus, to eat the flesh of animals without draining their blood was considered as profaning the very sacredness of life (see Lv 17:10-24).

The covenant of God with men (v. 8) and with everything that came from the Ark, means that God is interested in everything made by men: their culture, inventions, and their legitimate ambitions. God is not only the God of believers, he is the God of everyone. God does

²⁴ When Noah awoke from his wine he knew what his youngest son had done to him. ²⁵ And he said, "Cursed be Canaan! He shall be his brothers' meanest slave!"

²⁶ He then added: "Blessed be Yahweh, God of Shem, let Canaan be his slave! ²⁷ May God extend (the territory of) Japheth, and may he live in the tents of Shem! And may Canaan be his slave!"

²⁸ Noah lived three hundred and fifty years after the flood. ²⁹ In all Noah lived for nine hundred and fifty years. Then he died.

The list of nations

+10 ¹ These are the descendants of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth; these are their sons who were born after the flood. ² Japheth's sons: Gomer, Magog, the Medes, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, Tiras. ³ Gomer's sons: Ashkenaz, Riphath, Togarmah. ⁴ Javan's sons: Elishah, Tarshish, the Kittim, the Dananites. ⁵ These were dispersed and peopled the islands of the nations.

These were Japheth's sons, according to their countries and each of their languages, according to their tribes and their nations.

not want merely to save souls: through human creativity God enables people to grow in awareness and responsibility and he prepares them for divine union through the Holy Spirit.

As long as we live in sin, God cannot reveal himself openly. Yet he gives us signs of his providence and goodness in daily events: this is what is meant when he invites them to look at the rainbow to remember his covenant with them (v. 12).

■ In primitive cultures, men seeking supernatural experiences have turned drunkenness into a sacred ritual. They believed there were vital forces in wine which would permit them to escape from the passage of time. The Bible takes these concerns and prefers to honor Noah rather than to condemn him.

+ Noah's three sons symbolically represent

Raamah, Sabteca. Raamah's sons: Sheba Dedan.

¹³ Misraim became the father of the people of Lud, of Anam, Lehab, Naphtuh,¹⁴ Pathros, Cushlul and Capthor, from which the Philistines came.

²⁰ These were Ham's sons, according to their tribes and languages, according to their countries and nations.

²¹ There were also children born to Shem, the ancestor of all the sons of Eber, who are the Hebrews, and the elder brother of Japheth.

²⁴ Arpachshad became the father of Shelah, and Shelah became the father of Eber.

²⁵ To Eber were born two sons: the first was called Peleg, because it was in his time that the earth was divided; and his brother was called Joktan.²⁶ Joktan became the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah,²⁷ Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah,²⁸ Obal, Abimael, Sheba,²⁹ Ophir, Havilah, Jobab; all these are sons of Joktan.³⁰ They occupied a stretch of country from Mesh in the direction of Sephar, to the eastern mountain range.

³² These were the tribes of Noah's sons, according to their descendants and their nations. From these came the dispersal of the nations over the earth, after the flood.

The tower of Babel

+ 11 ¹The whole world had one language and a common speech.² As people moved eastward, they found a plain in the country of Shinar where they settled.

³ They said to one another, "Come, let us make bricks and bake them in fire." They used brick for stone and bitumen for mortar.⁴ They said also, "Come, let us build ourselves a city and a tower with its top reaching heaven; so that we may become a great people and not be scattered over the face of the earth!"

the three human groups which the Israelites believed formed humankind:

- Their group, blessed by God, the Semites (including Arabs, among others). They called their ancestor Shem, meaning "the Name," the one who knows and keeps the Name, that is to say the Presence of God.
- Another group, Japheth, including the people of Europe, who were to form the empires of the Greeks and the Romans.
- The other group was that of the African people, especially Mizraim or Egypt and Cush or Ethiopia and also the Canaanites who occupied the Holy Land before its conquest by the Israelites. Since sexual immorality was quite frequent among the Canaanites, a lack of modesty is attributed to their ancestor Ham.

In this list of forefathers, names of legendary heroes are mixed with lists of people and cities as "sons" of this or that race. For example all those mentioned in verses 2-6 are people and tribes, not individuals.

+ It would be easy to show that the Tower of Babel story, reproduces in part, legend: about Babel, or Babylon, the most famous capital of the time, with its brick buildings and its strange, unfinished-looking towers. In 11:7 the biblical author retains an ambiguous expression from these pagan legends: when the gods were afraid before the arrogance of men who were threatening them in their celestial dwellings.

Obviously, this story condemns very real crimes committed in all times, but, just as in the case of the Flood, this is a comparison, parable, not history.

God has given the mission to occupy the land and make it fruitful. But, people prefer their own security to being creative and they see in national power a means to satisfy their pride. Rather than solving problems of injustice and ⁵Yahweh came down to see the city and the tower that the sons of man were building. ⁶and Yahweh said, "They are one people and they have one language. If they carry this through, nothing they decide to do from now on will be impossible. Come! Let us go down and confuse their language so that they will no longer understand each other."

⁸So Yahweh scattered them over all the earth and they stopped building the city. ⁹That is why it was called Babel, because there Yahweh confused the language of the whole earth and from there Yahweh scattered them over the whole face of the earth.

¹⁰These are Shem's descendants:

When Shem was a hundred years old he became the father of Arpachshad, two years after the flood. After the birth of Arpachshad, Shem lived five hundred years and he had more sons and daughters.

¹²When Arpachshad was thirty-five years old he became the father of Shelah. ¹³After the birth of Shelah, Arpachshad lived four hundred and three years and he had more sons and daughters.

¹⁴When Shelah was thirty years old he became the father of Eber. After the birth of Eber, ¹⁵Shelah lived four hundred and three years and he had more sons and daughters.

¹⁶When Eber was thirty-four years old he became the father of Peleg. After the birth of Peleg, ¹⁷Eber lived four hundred and thirty years and he had more sons and daughters.

¹⁸When Peleg was thirty years old he became the father of Reu; ¹⁹Peleg lived two hundred and nine years and he had more sons and daughters.

²⁰When Reu was thirty-two years old he became the father of Serug; ²¹Reu lived two hundred and seven years and he had more sons and daughters.

²²When Serug was thirty years old he became the father of Nahor. After the birth of Nahor, ²³Serug lived two hundred years and he had more sons and daughters.

²⁴When Nahor was twenty-nine years old he became the father of Terah. After the birth of Terah, ²⁵Nahor lived a hundred and nineteen years and he had more sons and daughters.

+ ²⁶When Terah was seventy years old he became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran.

²⁷These are Terah's descendants: Terah became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran.

Haran became the father of Lot. ²⁸Haran died before his father Terah in his native land, Ur of the Chaldeans. ²⁹Abram and Nahor both married: Abram's wife was called Sarai; Nahor's wife was called Milcah, the daughter of Haran, father of Milcah and Iscah. ³⁰Sarai was barren, having no child.

³¹Terah took his son Abram, his grandson Lot, the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram, and made them leave Ur of the Chaldeans to go to the land of Canaan. But on arrival in Haran they settled there. ³²Terah lived two hundred and five years; then he died in Haran.

misunderstanding existing in every society, they prefer to concentrate their efforts on accomplishing projects which will add to their prestige.

The great projects for which the legitimate rights of millions of slaves have been lightly sacrificed remain unfinished. Resentment and oppression have contributed to irreparable divisions for the following generation or the next century.

God alone can bring us together: the first promise to Abraham was that he would gather all the nations in his sons (Gen 12:3). When the Holy Spirit would come into the hearts of believers on Pentecost (Acts 2), he would enable them to understand one another in the unique language of love. The church to be born would include men from various nations and languages. While the sinful man work alone and develop an oppressive and sterile male-centered culture, the believer would willingly cooperate with God in creation and would care about people's bettering themselves through inter communication and communion in the same Spirit (Eph 2:14-22).

Some people wonder about the origin of human languages. Briefly, we can say that human languages are as ancient as humankind; but a language is something which is always evolving, and different languages developed inasmuch as people lived far away from one another and the different groups did not come in contact with each other.

+ Terah became the father of Abram. We must understand that the account of Abraham is not historical in every detail. It is like a faith book in which we are shown the most typical stages and trials which any believer goes through at one

SECOND PART OF GENESIS THE ANCESTORS OF THE PEOPLE OF GOD

The call of Abram

12 ¹Yahweh said to Abram, "Leave your country, your family and your father's house, for the land I will show you. ²I will make you into a great nation. I will bless you and make your name great, and you will be a blessing. ³I will bless those who bless you, and whoever curses you, I will curse, and in you all peoples of the earth will be blessed."

Abram was seventy-five years old when he left Haran. ⁵Abram took Sarai, his wife, his nephew Lot, all the possessions they had accumulated and the people they had acquired in Haran. They set out for the land of Canaan.

They arrived at Canaan. ⁶Abram travelled through the country as far as Shechem, to the oak of Moreh. At that time the Canaanites were in the land. ⁷Yahweh appeared to Abram and said, "To your descendants I will give this land." There he built an altar to Yahweh who had appeared to him.

⁸From there he went on to the mountains east of Bethel and pitched his tent, with Bethel to the west and Ai to the east. There also he built an altar to Yahweh and called on the name of Yahweh. ⁹Then Abram set out in the direction of Negeb.

■ ¹⁰There was famine in the land, and Abram went down to Egypt to stay there for some time, for the famine was severe in the land.

time or another in his life. We see these played out by Abraham.

All of us believe in "something" more or less. It reassures us but we do not become involved and that is why atheists say that religion is like opium. But, Biblical faith consists in believing in Someone who calls us to enter into a history which moves forward. And it is precisely in Abraham that this sort of faith appears.

o On a map we can easily see the arc formed by the fertile valleys of Mesopotamia and the plains of Canaan. Inside this arc there were tablelands and deserts where half-starved, nomadic tribes used to travel, always looking for pastures for their sheep and donkeys.

These nomads looked at the peasants and the city dwellers of the plains with envy; at times they would try to take over their land, though usually they came into contact only for some trading deal, or when they were called on to give some service.

These nomads belonged to the Amorites. Abraham was one of them. Abraham and his family migrated with their flocks from Ur to Haran (11:31) where they settled.

When Abraham is already old (v. 4) many groups around him are going South in search of better lands. Why should he follow them? His life is behind him and the worst part is that he does not have any sons. Will this man begin his life over again?

But God calls him: "You too, go; something is waiting for you." and Abraham leaves, just as in our own days, many immigrants are forced by economic circumstances to leave their own land, though they don't know where to go nor how their lives will turn out. All Abraham knows is that God is asking him to go and that God intends to give him something he has wanted during his whole life.

Leave for the land that I will show you. God promises him land and children and Abraham welcomes these promises. Even though he is old, in his heart he can still hope for the impossible and the openness of his soul, or this capacity to be renewed, is what pleases God. more than any good work.

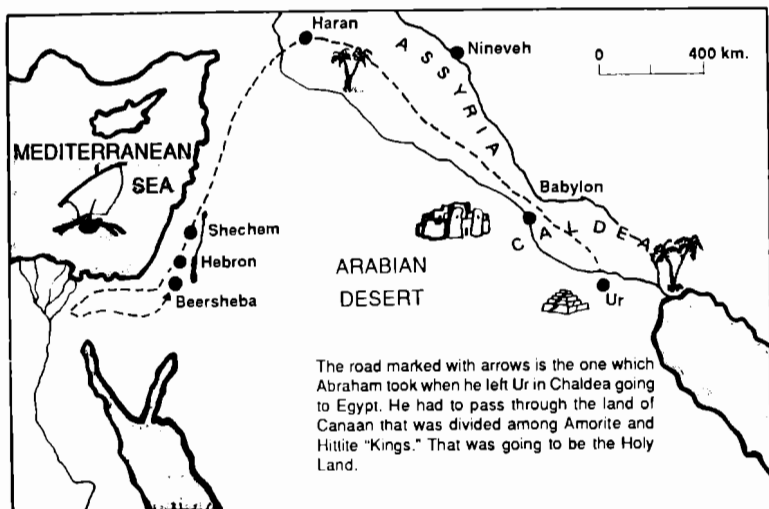

In you all people of the earth will be blessed. In a divided world, God has chosen a man who does not have his own land to begin the Kingdom in which he will gather all people. From then on, God will choose the poor and those whose lives are not secure, in order to save the world. To those, as to Abraham, God promises the final City (Heb 11:8).

I will make your name great. In fact, Abraham was as good as dead and his name was out to disappear and not be remembered by anyone, but God's call makes him spring forth from nothingness. He begins to be someone alive under the care of the living God (Mk 2:26).

AITH

Authentic faith, the faith of God's people, began with Abraham's departure.

1) Faith comes with the call from God. We do not deserve credit for our own faith and conversion. Abraham did not take the initiative to save and he did not invent a new way of serving God. God did not extend an invitation to which we could have answered "yes" or "no". God's call is imperative: and the same thing happens with the great prophets and saints. In this way, God frees them since, on account of sin, every person is born and lives as if he were in a foreign land. His own reality is hidden from him as long as he is not rooted in God and in communion with him. Our religions and ideologies, products of our culture, do not permit us to go beyond the limits of a world we made to suit ourselves. To become aware of our vocation we need God's call to us and we need to be willing to get out of our vicious circle.

2) Faith places us at the service of God whose work is to save humankind. In you all peoples of the earth will be blessed. It may be that at first God attracted us by granting us some personal favor, but later he shares with us his own plans for the salvation of the world. In order to follow Christ and become a member of his People, we must believe in the promise God made to this people: God destined us to be the heaven and the light of the world.

3) Faith demands a breaking away from past securities; it forces us to look ahead without grieving over the loss of whatever has served to provide for us the warmth and security of a mother's womb. People grow by overcoming successive "crises" in life; they leave their families, begin to work and they marry ... Faith enables us to look upon each "letting go" with optimism and it prepares us to face other more painful relinquishments which commit us more fully to God's service: faith is the great means by which humans reach maturity.

4) Unlike the "worldly" man who builds his life according to the criteria of human wisdom, thinking he knows where he is going, the believer seeks God's signs to find out where God wants to lead him. To the end of his days, he will raoh's officials saw her and praised her to Pharaoh. The woman was taken into Pharaoh's house ¹⁶and because of her he dealt well with Abram; he received sheep, cattle, donkeys, men-servants, maidservants, she-asses and camels.

¹⁷But Yahweh inflicted severe plagues on Pharaoh and his household because of Sarai. ¹⁸So Pharaoh summoned Abram and said, "What have you done to me? ¹⁹Why did you say: 'She's my sister,' so that I took her for my wife. Now, here is your wife! Take her and go!" ²⁰And Pharaoh gave orders to his men regarding Abram, and they sent him on his way, with his wife and all that was his.

13 ¹Abram went up from Egypt to the Negeb, he and his wife, with all he had and Lot with him. ²Now Abram was very rich in flocks, silver and gold. ³As he journeyed on, he went from the Negeb as far as Bethel, to the place where he first pitched his tent between Bethel and Ai ⁴at the spot where he had formerly made an altar and called on the Name of Yahweh.

Abram and Lot separate

⁷A quarrel arose between the herdsmen of Abram's flock and those of Lot. (The Canaanites and the Perizzites were living in the land at the time). ⁸Abram said to Lot, "Don't let there be a dispute between you and me, nor between my herdsmen and yours, since we are brothers!" Isn't the whole land there before you? Let us part company. If you go to the left, I will go to the right; if you go to the right, I will go to the left."

¹⁰Lot looked up and saw the whole valley of the Jordan: how well it was watered! Before Yahweh destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, this was like one of Yahweh's gardens, like the country of Egypt, on coming to Zoar. ¹¹Lot chose for himself all the Jordan valley and journeyed eastward. In this way they separated from each other. ¹²Abram settled in the country of Canaan while Lot lived among the towns of the plain and moved his tent as far as Sodom. ¹³Now the men of Sodom were wicked, sinning greatly against Yahweh.

¹⁴Yahweh said to Abram after Lot had left him, "Raise your eyes and look from where you are, towards the north, the south, the east and the west; ¹⁵all the land you see I will give to you and your descendants forever. ¹⁶I will make your descendants as the dust of wander in search of another kind of justice and a perfection which surpasses human perfection (Mt 5:20; Lk 12:32; Heb 11:13).

Abraham's children: see Mt 3:7; Jn 8:33; Acts 3:25; 13:26; Rom 4:13; Gal 3:8. Abram and Abraham: Gen 17:5.

■ Say that you are my sister so that they will treat me well on account of you. Some people are shocked at the low level of morality in those times, and in Abraham himself. When God called Abraham to make him his friend, he did not change him all at once. This moral change in his chosen people was to be accomplished over centuries: God is patient. Everything in its own time: we would do well to ponder this, since we tend to judge quickly.

◆ A quarrel occurs between Abraham's servants and those of Lot. Abraham values peace above his own interests and he allows Lot to choose his land.

If you go to the left, I will go to the right. Abraham already has the insight of faith. He still does not know that the land he is going to select is only an image of the mysterious land which is the kingdom of God within us. Yet, instead of being the one to choose, he lets Lot have the first option. He acts out of love without realizing it. Without trying, he has discovered the true land, man's heart, which is where the kingdom of God is realized. On the surface Lot chooses the better part, but in fact he loses it.

All the land that you see I will give to you.

he earth; if the grains of the dust can be counted, then your descendants may be counted. ¹⁷Come, travel through the length and breadth of the land, for it is to you that I am giving it."

¹⁸So Abram moved his tent and came to live by the oak of Mamre at Hebron. There he built an altar to Yahweh.

14 ¹At the time of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goiim, ²these kings made war on Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar). ³All these joined forces in the valley of Siddim (that is the Salt Sea). ⁴Twelve years they had been dominated by Chedorlaomer, but in the thirteenth year they rebelled. ⁵In the fourteenth year, Chedorlaomer and the king who were his allies, came and fought and subdued the Rephaim in Ashteroth-karnaim, the Zuzim in Ham, the Emin in Shaveh-kiriathaim ⁶ and the Horites in their Mount Seir as far as Elparan which is near the desert.

⁷They then turned back and came to the spring of Judgement (that is, Kadesh) and subdued all the country of the Amalekites, as well as that of Amorites who lived in Hazontamar. ⁸Then the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar) went out and took up battle positions in the valley of Siddim ⁹ against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, Tidal king of Goiim, Amraphel king of Shinar and Arioch king of Ellasar: four kings against five.

¹¹The enemy took all the possessions of Sodom and Gomorrah, all their provisions and went off. ¹²They also took Lot, the son of Abram's brother, who lived in Sodom, and his possessions and went off.

¹³One who escaped came to tell Abram the Hebrew who was living by the oak of Mamre the Amorite, the brother of Eshcol and of Aner: these were allies of Abram.

Abraham and Melchizedek

+ ¹⁴As soon as Abram heard that his brother had been taken away captive, he assembled and led forth his trained men born in his house, three hundred and eighteen men and set off in pursuit as far as Dan. ¹⁵He grouped his forces against them by night, he and his servants, and routed and followed them to Hobah, north of Damascus. ¹⁶Then he brought back all his possessions, his kinsman Lot and his possessions, together with the women and the people.

¹⁸Then Melchizedek, king of Salem, brought bread and wine; he was a priest of God Most High, ¹⁹and he ever. This is the land of Canaan, today's Palestine. It is a land flowing with milk and honey (Nm 13:27), that is to say, a land which is blessed with fertility. Abraham, however, will not yet own it himself: God only promises him that the land will be his. At the time it is occupied by the Canaanites.

It would be worthwhile to see why, for centuries, God formed people with the promise of a land they would have to conquer. It is because man cannot discover his dignity as a son of God if he is deprived of specific hopes such as land and a home. The human personality cannot develop unless a person has something to care for and to defend, something to fight for.

+ What is the origin of the legend in this chapter, a legend which was inserted much later into the history of Abraham? Did it come from the desire to add to Abraham's glory by attributing a military feat to him?

In any case, God, the author of the Bible, wanted this apparently unimportant story to convey two things:

Melchizedek was a priest of the Most High God. He had not received the word of God, as Abraham had; yet, in his own way he knew the one who had called Abraham and he also recognized Abraham. The people whom God calls are never isolated because they always meet some other friends of God. Abraham paid the tenth part, but he went away richer with the joy of having heard words which confirmed God's blessing on him from the lips of this stranger (see Lk 1:39).

blessed Abram saying, "Blessed be Abram by God Most High, maker of heaven and earth! ²⁰ And blessed be God Most High who has delivered your enemies into your hands!"

²¹ The king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the people and keep the goods for yourself." ²² Abram said to the king of Sodom, "I raise my hand to Yahweh God Most High, creator of heaven and earth, to swear ²³ that not one thread or thong of a sandal, or anything that is yours, would I take. Lest you say, 'Abram became rich at my expense,' ²⁴ I claim nothing for myself! Only what the young men have eaten and the share that is due to Aner, Eshcol and Mamre, the men who came with me."

God's covenant with Abram

◆15 ¹ After this the word of Yahweh was spoken to Abram in a vision: "Do not be afraid, Abram, I am your shield; your reward will be very great!"

where are your promises? I am still childless and all I have will go to Eliezer of Damascus. ³ You have given me no children, so a slave of mine will be my heir."

⁴ Then the word of Yahweh was spoken to him again, "Eliezer will not be your heir, but a child born of you (your own flesh and blood) will be your heir." ⁵ Then Yahweh brought him outside and said to him, "Look up at the sky and count the stars if you can. Your descendants will be like that."

⁶ Abram believed Yahweh who, because of this, held him to be an upright man. ⁷ And he said, "I am Yahweh who brought you from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land as your possession."

⁸ Then Abram asked, "My Lord, how am I to know that it shall be mine?" ⁹ Yahweh replied, "Bring me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtle dove and a young pigeon." ¹⁰ Abram brought all these animals, cut them in two, and laid each half facing its other half, but he did not cut the birds in Melchizedek brought bread and wine. What a strange person Melchizedek was! In Israel kings were not priests nor did they offer bread and wine in their sacrifices. But Psalm 110 and then the letter to the Hebrews (5:6 and chapter 7) see Melchizedek as a figure of Christ, the only Priest. Abraham, despite his greatness, only prepared for the coming of the one who would obtain the blessing promised by God for all the nations. Here Christ is foretold in a veiled form as the priest and king who consecrates the bread and wine.

◆ Lord God, I am still childless. At a certain age, a man begins to worry about what will remain of his life: his marriage, his children, his years of work. At that precise moment, Abraham proves his faith by believing in promises which are seemingly unattainable. Abraham's Covenant with God is the beginning of a reciprocal friendship.

Because of this Yahweh held him to be a just man. Not because you are a very good man or because you have helped your neighbour, or because you have served me for many years ... but because I told you: "Do not be afraid" and you have placed all your concerns in my hands.

On that day Yahweh made a covenant with Abram (v.18). Throughout the Bible a lot is written about the Covenant. What is the meaning of God making a covenant with men?

God loves all men and women and he wants to save them all even when they do not know him. But he also wants to bring the human race to maturity. For this to come about, at least a minority of people in the world must have encountered God in a personal way, since this meeting is the start of the most valuable experiences.

This is how, throughout history, God calls those whom he has chosen according to his plan and eternal selection. In making a pact or a covenant with them, he gives them the opportunity to enter into a life of faithfulness. They will know God as a living person and will deal with half. ¹¹The birds of prey came down upon them, but Abram drove them away.

¹²As the sun was going down, a deep sleep came over Abram, and a dreadful darkness took hold of him.

¹³Then Yahweh said to Abram, "Know for certain that your descendants will be exiles in a land that is not theirs. They will be slaves there, oppressed for four hundred years.

¹⁴But I will judge the nation that oppresses them, and after that, they will not leave empty-handed. ¹⁵As for yourself, you shall go to your fathers in peace, and be buried at a ripe old age. ¹⁶Your descendants of the fourth generation will come back here, for the wickedness of the Amorites has not yet deserved that I take the land from them."

¹⁷When the sun had set and darkness had fallen, a smoking firepot and a flaming torch passed between the halves of the victims. ¹⁸On that day Yahweh made a covenant with Abram, saying, "To your descendants I have given this country from the river of Egypt to the Great River, the Euphrates.

¹⁹The land of the Kenites, the Kenizzites, the Kadmonites, ²⁰the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim, ²¹the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites and the Jebusites."

Birth of Ishmael

■16 Sarai, Abram's wife had not borne him a child, but she had an Egyptian servant named Hagar, and she said to Abram, "Now, since Yahweh has kept me from having children, go to my servant; perhaps I shall have a child by her." Abram agreed to what Sarai said.

³Abram had been in the land of Canaan ten years when Sarai, his wife took Hagar, her Egyptian maid and gave her to Abram her husband, as wife. ⁴He went in to Hagar and she became pregnant.

When she was aware of this, she began to despise her mistress. ⁵Sarai said to Abram, "May this injury done to me be yours. I put my servant in your arms and now that she knows she is pregnant, I count for nothing in her eyes. Let Yahweh judge between me and you." ⁶Abram said to Sarai, "Your servant is in your power; do with her as you please." Then Sarai treated her so badly that she ran away.

Therefore in beginning his work of salvation in human history, God wants at least one man to share his secret and to know the depth of his designs: Abram believed Yahweh.

Through such faith, God's eternal decrees edges in the heart and mind of one believer and his is worth more than many good works. From that moment on a mysterious complicity will unite Abram and God forever: this is the Covenant.

God makes a Covenant with Abraham according to the customs of that time. When signing a pact, both parties would pass between the two halves of a sacrificed animal (see Jer 34:18). Abraham follows this ritual and as for God, there passes a fire which represents God. It is God who commits himself and who makes the promise.

Faith makes us friends of God: Hab 2:4; Rom 4:2; Gal 3:6; Heb 11:11.

■ Abraham is concerned that God's promise is not being fulfilled. This son whom God has promised to the old man, could he not perhaps have it with Hagar, his other wife? For the child to be considered a son of Sarai, would it not be enough for her to adopt him according to the customs of those days? God remains silent and lets Abraham solve these problems in the way his still primitive conscience tells him to.

But Abraham's plan fails: the heir that God promised him will not be a son conceived and born "according to the flesh," that is, by human means, but the son of a miracle. In this we see the freedom of God who prefers to fulfill his promises at the very time when they appear most impossible to achieve.

VISIONS AND ANGELS

What are we to think of these appearances of angels? Did they really happen or are these passages merely a way of speaking? Let us clarify the following:

o ⁷The angel of Yahweh found her near a spring in the wilderness ⁸and said to her, "Hagar, servant of Sarai, where have you come from and where are you going?" She said, "I'm running away from Sarai, my mistress." ⁹The angel of Yahweh said to her, "Go back to your mistress and humbly submit yourself to her." ¹⁰The angel of Yahweh said to her, "I will so increase your descendants, that they will be too numerous to be counted." ¹¹Then the angel of Yahweh said to her, "Now you are with child and you will have a son, and you shall name him Ishmael, for Yahweh has heard your distress. ¹²He shall be a wild ass of a man, his hand against everyone and everyone's hand against him, defiant towards all his brothers."

¹³Hagar called upon Yahweh who spoke to her, and said, "You are a God who sees." ¹⁴That is why this well is called the well of Lahai-roi. It is between Kadesh and Bered.

¹⁵Hagar gave birth to a son and Abram called the child Hagar bore him, Ishmael. ¹⁶Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar gave birth to Ishmael.

- We must not confuse angels and the Angel of Yahweh. Only in the last books of the Old Testament (and naturally in the New Testament) are angels mentioned with the meaning that we give them: spiritual creatures who have their place in the ordering of the world and in the salvation of humans as for example in Zec 1 and 2 and also in Dn 9:21 and 10:21. Ancient Israelites did, however, sometimes speak of the Angel of Yahweh, or a Messenger of Yahweh to express things which they could not explain but which indicated an intervention by intervention by God.

When an epidemic providentially destroyed the Assyrian army, it was attributed to the angel of Yahweh: see Is 37:36 and also 2 Sam 24:16. Since they knew that no one could see God, when someone had a vision, they spoke of the Angel of Yahweh: see Jgs 6:11.

- The whole Bible shows that God reveals himself in many different ways to those who seek him. He speaks through events; he enlightens the hearts of those who read his Word; he speaks through our intuition and our dreams; he speaks through visions or words, and sometimes, as in the case of the prophets, in a more direct manner, in an intimate and spiritual way.

- We cannot, however, take literally all that is said about visions or words received from God because ancient people did not express themselves the way we do. When a man was reflecting or was tempted by evil, they sometimes expressed this inner meditation as a dialogue with different characters and they would say that the devil or God dialogued with this man: see Jos 7:10 and 1 Kgs 3:4.

- It is quite possible that God did not act with ancient biblical people in the same way that he acts in our days. Now, after the coming of Christ, we have everything in him and in his church and we have no need of visions and appearances. God usually reserves them for those he leads on a special path. However, in the first centuries of biblical times, God revealed himself much more through those more visible but inferior ways.

o Go back to your mistress. This is a word of the Lord for so many people who suffer injustice, for girls who, in a liberal, class-conscious society, must accept humiliating tasks in order not to die of hunger with their parents; for the young people who, after a university education, realize that, except for a select few, modern society needs only sweepers and labourers.

Humbly submit yourself to her, not because her tyranny is just but because you, too, need to be freed from your arrogance. You are right in thinking that you are worth more than what society offers you, but if, through circumstances, the Lord humiliates you, trust in him and think that this humiliation prepares you for a greater mission than the one you were thinking about. If you remain conscious that God calls you to be a free person and one who frees others, he will give you the opportunity of doing it.

Lahai-roi can be translated as: the one who lives and sees.

be without blame! ²I will make a covenant between myself and you, and I will multiply your race." ³Abram fell face down and God said to him, ⁴"This is my covenant with you: you will be the father of a multitude of nations. ⁵No longer will you be called Abram, but Abraham, because I will make you the father of a multitude of nations. ⁶I will make you more and more famous; I will multiply your descendants; nations shall spring from you, kings shall be among your descendants. ⁷And I will establish a covenant, an everlasting covenant between myself and you and your descendants after you; from now on I will be your God and the God of your descendants after you, for generations to come. ⁸I will give to you and your descendants after you the land you are living in, all the land of Canaan, as an everlasting possession and I will be the God of your race."

◆ ⁹God said to Abraham, "For your part, you shall keep my covenant, you and your descendants after you, generation after generation. ¹⁰This is my covenant with you, that you will keep, you and your descendants after you: Every male among you shall be circumcised; ¹¹you shall circumcise your foreskin and that will be the sign of the covenant between me and you. ¹²When he is eight days old, every male among you will be circumcised, generation after generation; ¹³those born in your household or bought from a foreigner to be slaves. Whether born in your household or bought to be slaves, they must be circumcised. So my covenant will be written in your flesh as an everlasting covenant. ¹⁴Any uncircumcised male, who has not been circumcised in the flesh, will be cut off from his people for having broken my covenant."

¹⁵God said to Abraham, "As for Sarai, your wife, no longer are you to call her Sarai, but Sarah. ¹⁶I will bless her, and I will give you a son by her. I will bless her and from her will come nations: kings and peoples shall come from her."

¹⁷Then Abraham fell face down, and he laughed and said to himself, "Will a son be born to a man a hundred years old? And can Sarah who is ninety have a child?" ¹⁸And Abraham said to God, "If only you would accept Ishmael as yours!" ¹⁹But God said, "Not at all! It is Sarah, your wife, who will give birth to your son and you will name him Isaac."

◆ Circumcision, cutting of the skin called fore-skin of the male organ, was an ancient custom of Oriental people. It was one of those initiation rites which, among some people, mark the passage of an adolescent into adult society. Circumcision was a religious rite intended to ensure fertility.

Circumcision took on a new meaning for Israel: it was considered the distinct sign of their belonging to the chosen people. A foreigner could enter the religious community of Israel only by being circumcised.

My covenant will be written in your flesh. A married woman wears the ring her husband puts on her finger. Something similar happens to people who enter into a community: they like to have a sign of their membership in the community. Similarly, every male descendant of Abraham must have an indelible sign of his belonging to the chosen race: this sign is circumcision.

Yet, the prophets teach that the circumcision of the flesh is worth nothing without the circumcision of the heart, which means getting rid of one's vices. The external rite is worthless if one does not live what the sign expresses. See Jer 9:24; Dt 10:16; Gal 5:4; Phil 3:3; Rom 2:25.

For Christians "being circumcised or not" is irrelevant: Acts 11:3-15; 1 Cor 7:8; Gal 6:15. This particular obligation, as well as obligations regarding the Sabbath, abstinence from pork, the temple sacrifices and rituals were only valid until the coming of Christ and only for the Jewish people: Col 2:11 and 2:16-22.

Why do so many people who are indifferent to their faith baptize their children? Why do they come to receive ashes?

I will establish my covenant with him and his descendants after him forever. ²⁰ As for Ishmael, I heard you. I will bless him and make him fruitful, and I will multiply his race. He shall be the father of twelve princes and I will make of him a great nation. ²¹ But my covenant I will establish with Isaac, the child Sarah will have this time next year. ²² When he had finished speaking with Abraham, God went away from him.

²³ Abraham then took Ishmael, his son, as well as all those born in his house and all those he had bought to be slaves, all the males in the household of Abraham, and circumcised their foreskins that same day as God had told him. ²⁴ Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised, ²⁵ and his son, Ishmael, was thirteen. ²⁶ Abraham and his son Ishmael were both circumcised that same day. ²⁷ And every male in his household, whether born in his household or bought with money from a foreigner, was circumcised with him.

+18 ¹Yahweh appeared to Abraham near the oak of Mamre. Abraham was sitting at the entrance to his tent, in the heat of the day, ²when he looked up and saw three men standing nearby. When he saw them he ran from the entrance of the tent to meet them. He bowed to the ground ³and said, "My Lord, if I have found favour in your sight do not pass your servant by. ⁴Let a little water be brought. Wash your feet and then rest under the trees. ⁵I shall fetch some bread so that you can be refreshed and continue on your way, since you have come to your servant." They then said, "Do as you say." ⁶Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said to her, "Quick, take three measures of flour, knead it and make cakes."

⁷Abraham then ran to the herd, took a fine, tender calf, gave it to the servant who hurried to prepare it. ⁸He took butter and milk and together with the calf he had prepared laid it all before them. And while he remained standing, they ate. ⁹They then asked, "Where is Sarah, your wife?" Abraham answered, "She is in the tent." ¹⁰And the visitor said, "At this same time next year I will return and Sarah by then will have a son."

Now Sarah was behind him, listening at the entrance to the tent. ¹¹Abraham and Sarah were old, well on in years, and Sarah no longer had her monthly periods. ¹²Sarah laughed to herself saying, "Now that I am old and worn and my husband is an old man, am I to have this pleasure?" ¹³Yahweh said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh, saying: 'Am I really going to have a child now that I am old?' ¹⁴Is there anything that is impossible for God? At this same time next year I will return and Sarah by then will have a son."

¹⁵Sarah denied saying, "I did not

+ God's promises were meant for the descendants of Abraham; he, himself would never see their fulfillment. But God gave his friend a proof of what he was going to accomplish: Isaac was born in miraculous circumstances. It was logical to fear that Abraham's descendants would feel superior to other people and would think they were saved simply by belonging to his race (Lk 3:8). Indeed God acknowledged as heirs of Abraham only the direct descendants of Isaac: the son of a miracle, Sarah's son and not the sons born of slave women. In this we are taught that no one has any claim on God simply because of being born into a particular family. God's promises will be fulfilled for us to the extent that we imitate Abraham in his faith (Gal 4:21-31; Rom 4:13-17).

We marvel at this simple story: God, showing human traits, comes to ask for his friend's hospitality before he showers him with his favours. Commentators will not dare say whether it happened that way or it was merely a way of speaking, but the believer knows that this is the way God acts.

God does not appear alone but with two angels as if to dispel the image of a solitary God, common among those who still do not know about the mystery of the Three divine Persons.

Why did Sarah laugh? Sarah's laughing is another one of those popular explanations which the Bible supplies about names of places and of people; her son will be called Isaac, a name which sounds like "laughed" in Hebrew.

laugh," for she was afraid. But he said, "You did laugh."

Abraham intercedes for Sodom

16 The men went away and turned towards Sodom. Abraham walked with them to set them on their way. 17 And Yahweh said, "Can I conceal from Abraham what I am about to do?" 18 Abraham, in fact, is going to become a great and powerful nation and through him all the nations of the earth will be blessed, for I have chosen him to command his sons and his household after him to keep the way of the Lord by doing what is right and just, so that Yahweh may bring about for Abraham what he has promised him."

20 Then Yahweh said, "How great is the cry for justice against Sodom and Gomorrah! And how grievous is their sin! 21 I am going down to see if they have done all that they are charged with in the outcry that has reached me. If it is not so, I will know."

22 The men with him turned away and went towards Sodom, but Yahweh remained standing before Abraham. 23 Abraham went forward and said, "Will you really let the just perish with the wicked?" 24 Perhaps there are fifty good people in the town. Are you really going to let them perish? Would you not spare the place for the sake of these fifty righteous people? 25 It would not be at all like you to do such a thing and you can't let the good perish with the wicked, nor treat the good and the wicked alike. Far be it from you! Will not the judge of all the earth be just?" 26 Yahweh said, "If I find fifty good people in Sodom, I will spare the whole place for their sake."

27 Abraham spoke up again, "I know that I am very bold to speak like this to my Lord, I who am only dust and ashes! 28 But perhaps the number of the good is five less than fifty. Will you destroy the town because of five?" Yahweh replied, "I will not destroy the town if I find forty-five good people there." 29 Again Abraham said to him, "Perhaps there will be only forty." He answered, "For the sake of forty I will not do it." 30 Abraham went on, saying, "May my Lord not be angry, but let me speak. Maybe only thirty good people will be found in the town." Yahweh answered, "I will not destroy it if I find thirty there." 31 Abraham said, "Now that I have been so bold as to speak to my Lord, what if only twenty can be found?" He said, "For the sake of twenty I will not destroy the place."

32 But Abraham insisted, "May my Lord not be angry, but let me speak just once more. What if only ten can be found?" And Yahweh answered, "For the sake of ten good

Is there anything impossible for God? See Lk 1:37; 18:27; Mk 11:22.

16 Can I conceal from Abraham what I am about to do? When God makes us his friends he gives us responsibility for the world. Just as with friendship between people, friendship with God means sharing everything. God teaches us to think as he does and to act with him and he invites us to make requests.

We should not think that if we insist a lot in prayer, we will get whatever we ask for. If what we ask for is not good of us, God will not grant it. But God is pleased when we know how to struggle and to insist in order to obtain what he, himself, wants to give us in his mercy. He does not want to merely impose this but to grant it to those capable of wishing for it in the same way that he does. "I do not wish the wicked man's death, but rather that he change his evil ways and live" (Ez 33:11).

I know I am very bold to speak this way to my Lord. The boldness of Abraham who begins to bargain discretely and firmly demonstrates his faith. The old man converses with God just as he would with a friend in making a deal. Note how Abraham remains seated while the Lord is standing in front of him. This candid approach appeared as a lack of respect to those who read people, I will not destroy Sodom."³³ When Yahweh had finished speaking with Abraham, he left and Abraham went home.

The destruction of Sodom

■ 19 ¹When the two angel reached Sodom in the evening, Lot was sitting at the gate of the town. As soon as he saw them, he rose to meet them, bowed with his face to the ground, ²and said, "My lords, I pray you come to your servant's house to stay the night. Wash your feet and then in the morning you may rise early and go on your way." They said, "No, we will spend the night in the square."³ But so strongly did he insist that they went with him to his house; there he prepared a meal for them baking bread without yeast. This they ate.

⁴They had not yet gone to bed when men from the town surrounded the house; they were the men of Sodom, young and old, the entire population. ⁵They called Lot and said to him, "Where are the men who arrived here tonight? Send them out so that we may have sex with them."

⁶Lot went out to meet them, shut the door behind him and said, ⁷"I beg you, my brothers, don't do such a wicked thing. ⁸I have two daughters who are still virgins; let me bring them out to you; you may do with them as you please, but don't do anything to these men, for they have come to shelter under my roof."⁹ But they replied, "Get out of the way! This fellow is a foreigner and he wants to play the judge! Now we will do worse with you than with them." They pressed hard against Lot and drew near in order to break the door. ¹⁰But the men inside the house stretched out their hands to bring Lot inside and then shut the door. ¹¹As for those at the entrance to the house, they were struck with blindness, from the smallest to the largest, so that they were unable to find the door.

¹²The two men said to Lot, "Who is still here with you? Your sons-in-law? Get them out of the place; your sons, your daughters and all your people in the town. We are about to destroy this place. ¹³The cry for retribution against it is great before Yahweh who has sent us to destroy it."

¹⁴Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, those who were to marry his daughters, saying, "Hurry, leave, for Yahweh is about to destroy the town." But they took what he said as a joke.

¹⁵At daybreak the Angels urged Lot, saying, "Hurry! Take your wife and two daughters who are here, lest the Bible later; thus they changed the phrase: Abraham was standing to speak with Yahweh who was seated. Jesus said that he would wait on his faithful servants as a servant on his masters (Lk 12:37).

■ The salt of the Red Sea and the ruins of two cities destroyed by earthquakes: Sodom and Gomorrah – perhaps give food for thought. We must remember that in those days people looked upon catastrophes as punishments from God and upon prosperity as a blessing from God. Such was the origin of this story which teaches us some truths:

- respect for guests who must be welcomed as angels of the Lord.
- the horror of homosexuality.

Sodom and Gomorrah will remain tragic names in sacred history, and serve as proof that we must not make fun of God's judgements nor take them lightly. The prophets will recall this catastrophe when they threaten those who refuse to be converted (see Is 1:9; Ez 16:49) and so will Jesus (Mt 10:15; Lk 17:29).

The present story does not fail to emphasize – in Lot's case – that God never forgets a single one of his children, even when they are isolated in the midst of wickedness.

Lot's answer (v. 8) seems incredible to us, but, it coincides with ideas of those distant days when women were not considered as human persons. It seemed normal to sacrifice a daughter in order to save a friend. See something similar in Judges 19.

they perish because of the sin of the town." ¹⁶ As he hesitated, the men took him by the hand and his wife and two daughters with him, because Yahweh had mercy on him. And they led him outside the town.

¹⁷ When they were outside, the men said to him, "Flee for your life and don't look back and don't stop anywhere in the plain. Flee to the mountain lest you perish."

¹⁸ But Lot replied, "My lords, your servant has found favour with you, ¹⁹ and you have shown me great kindness in saving my life. But I cannot flee to the mountains for fear the disaster will overtake me and I die. See, there is a town near enough for me to flee to and it's a small one. ²⁰ Let me flee there: it is very small (that is why the town is called Zoar). So I will be safe." ²¹ And the angel answered, "I grant you this favour as well by not destroying the town you speak of. ²² But flee fast for I can do nothing until you arrive there."

²³ The sun had risen on the earth when Lot reached Zoar. ²⁴ Then Yahweh rained on Sodom and Gomorrah burning sulphur out of the heavens from Yahweh. ²⁵ And he completely destroyed those towns and all the valley and all the inhabitants of the towns and everything that grew there.

²⁷ Early next morning Abraham returned to the place where he had stood before Yahweh. ²⁸ He looked towards Sodom and Gomorrah and towards all the land of the valley and he saw smoke rising from the earth like the smoke from a furnace.

³⁰ Lot went up from Zoar and lived in the hills with his two daughters, because he was afraid to live in Zoar. He lived in a cave, he and his two daughters. ³¹ The elder said to the younger, "Our father is old and there is not a man in the country to lie with us as is the custom all over the world. ³² Come, let us make our father drunk with wine; we shall lie with him and have the race survive through our father." ³³ So they made their father drink wine that night and the elder went to lie with her father. He knew nothing of it, neither when she lay down nor when she left.

³⁴ The next day the elder daughter said to the younger, "Last night I lay with my father. Let us give him wine again tonight and you go and lie with him. In this way we shall continue the race through our father." ³⁵ Again that night they got their father to drink wine. The younger went and lay with him. He was aware of nothing, neither when she lay with him nor when she left. ³⁶ And the two daughters of Lot became pregnant by their father. ³⁷ The elder gave birth to a son and named him Moab. He was the ancestor of the Moabites who live today. ³⁸ The younger, also gave birth to a son and named him Ben-ammi. He is the ancestor of the Ammonites who exist to this day.

20 ¹ Abraham left there for the territory of the Negeb, and lived between Kadesh and Shur; and he stayed for a time in Gerar. ² Abraham had said of his wife, "She is my sister"; so Abimelech, king of Gerar, sent for Sarah and had her brought to him.

³ But God came to Abimelech in a dream at night. He said to him, "You are a dead man because of this woman you have taken, for she is a married woman." ⁴ But Abimelech had not gone near her, so he said, "My Lord, are you going to kill a pagan who acted with a good intention? ⁵ Didn't he say to me: 'She is my sister'? And she said to me: 'He is my brother.' I acted in the simplicity of my heart and with innocent hands." ⁶ God said to him in the dream, "I knew that you did that in the simplicity of your heart and I prevented you from sinning against me. That is why I did not let you touch her. ⁷ Now give the woman back to the man for he is a prophet; he will pray for you and you shall live. But if you do not give her back, know that you will surely die; you and all yours will die."

◆ We should remember that these are legendary traditions of the Israelites through which they attempted to explain the origins of different peoples and their connection with them. Since in age-old hatred separated the Israelites from the Ammonites and the Moabites, the present explanation was not meant to praise them.

■ The Israelites remembered the conflicts between their wandering ancestors and the people among whom they lived. The present event is related in three different parts of Genesis with and called all his officials and told them all these things. The officials were terrified. ⁹ Abimelech then called Abraham and said to him, "What have you done to us? In what way have I wronged you, for you to bring against me and my kingdom such a grave sin? You have done to me things that should not be done." ¹⁰ Abimelech said to Abraham, "Why did you act as you did?" ¹¹ Abraham said, "I thought there is no fear at all of God in this place and they will kill me because of my wife. ¹² Yet it is true that she is my sister, the daughter of my father, but not of my mother, and she became my wife. ¹³ So, when the gods made me wander far from my father's family, I said to her: Now, if you love me, I beg you to say that I am your brother wherever we go." ¹⁴ Abimelech then brought sheep and cattle, male and female slaves and gave them to Abraham, and he had Sarah returned to her husband. ¹⁵ And he told Abraham, "See, you have the run of my land; live wherever you please." ¹⁶ And to Sarah he said, "I am giving your brother a thousand silver coins. It will be as a protection for you, and an evidence for all those who are with you. So none of them will think ill of you." ¹⁷ Then Abraham prayed to God and God healed Abimelech, his wife and his servants, so that they were able to have children again. ¹⁸ For Yahweh had made it impossible for Abimelech's wife and maids to have more children, because of Abraham's wife, Sarah.

Birth of Isaac

21 ¹ Yahweh was kind to Sarah as he had said, and fulfilled his promise to her. ² Sarah became pregnant and bore a son to Abraham in his old age, at the very time Yahweh had promised. ³ Abraham gave the name Isaac to the son that Sarah bore him ⁴ and circumcised him when he was eight days old, as Yahweh had commanded. ⁵ Abraham was a hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him.

⁶ Sarah said, "God has brought me laughter and everyone who hears of this will laugh with me." ⁷ She added, "Who would have told Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? Yet I have given birth to a son for him in his old age."

¹¹ This matter distressed Abraham because it concerned his son, ¹² but God said to him, "Don't be worried about the boy and your maidservant. Listen to Sarah and do whatever she says, because the race which is called by your name will spring from Isaac."

different people as protagonists and in different circumstances (see 12:14 and 26:7). But a person reading these stories one after the other will notice some progress: on one hand, a greater tactfulness in speaking of their ancestor's behaviour; and also a clearer sense of sin.

• Yahweh was kind with Sarah as he had said. And so, after some years, God fulfills his promise to Abraham. Isaac is the son of the promise because he was born contrary to all human hope and to fulfill God's promise (see Gal 4:22; and Rom 9:7).

Sarah, in her old age, gave birth to Abraham's son. In the Bible we find some births which occur outside of the normal laws of nature: Samuel, Samson, John the Baptist...all are saviours. These births announce and prefigure the virginal birth of the Saviour, Jesus. They also anticipate the second birth which the church accomplishes through baptism.

So "the son of the promise" is born: see chapter 18.

■ There are problems in Abraham's family as in any other family, and God uses them to carry out his plan. It is good for Hagar to leave with her son so that Isaac may receive all of his father's care. Isaac will inherit, not something material for himself, but God's promises to his children. God steadfastly realizes his plans, but he does not trample on anyone: see how compassionate he is with Hagar.

Abraham had several wives, as important men in his community usually did. The Israelites kept on considering this custom as normal for many years. It was only gradually that God led them to discover the demands of marriage.

¹⁴Abraham rose early next morning and gave bread and a skin bag of water to Hagar. He put the child on her back and sent her away. She went off and wandered in the desert of Beersheba. ¹⁵When there was no more water in the skin, she pushed the boy under one of the bushes, ¹⁶and then went and sat down about a hundred yards away, for she thought, "I cannot bear to see my son die."

But as she sat there, the child began to wail. ¹⁷God heard him and the Angel of God called to Hagar from heaven and said, "What is the matter Hagar? Don't be afraid. God has heard the boy crying. ¹⁸Get up, pick the boy up and hold him safely, for I will make him into a great nation."¹⁹God then opened her eyes and she saw a well of water. She went and filled the skin and gave the boy a drink.

²¹He lived in the desert of Paran and his mother chose a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

²²At that time Abimelech came with Phicol, the commander of his army, to speak to Abraham, "God is with you in everything you do, ²³swear to me here before God that you will not deal falsely either with me or my descendants, but instead you will show to me and the country where you are living the same kindness that I have shown to you." ²⁴And Abraham said, "Yes, this I swear."

²⁵Then Abraham complained to Abimelech about a well that Abimelech's servants had seized. ²⁶Abimelech said, "I don't know who has done this; you did not tell me and I only heard about it today." ²⁷Abraham then took sheep and cattle and gave them to Abimelech and the two men made a treaty. ²⁸Abraham set aside seven ewe lambs from the flock. ²⁹Abimelech said to him, "Why have you put aside these seven ewe lambs?" ³⁰Abraham replied, "Accept these seven lambs from my hand as evidence that I dug this well." ³¹So the place was called Beersheba because the two men took an oath there. ³²After making the treaty at Beersheba, Abimelech went away with Phicol, the commander of his army, and returned to the land of the Philistines. ³³Abraham planted a tamarisk tree at Beersheba and there he called on Yahweh, the everlasting God. ³⁴And Abraham stayed in the land of the Philistines for a long time.

Sacrifice of Isaac

+ 22 ¹Some time later God tested Abraham and said to him, "Abraham!" And he answered, "Here I am." ²Then God said, "Take your son, your only son, Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moriah and offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains I shall point out to you."

³Abraham rose early next morning and saddled his donkey and took with him two of his young men and

+ God does not forget his friends but rather puts them to the test so that they can grow in faith. God saves his best gifts for those who remain faithful during times when he takes all hope away from them. In the course of his life Abraham had trusted in God's promises for his son. Now, would Abraham be willing to sacrifice his son and the promises? God has placed him on a road. What will Abraham do when the road appears closed?

After the test, Abraham would know that he loves his son in the same way God loves, because he chose God over his son. We know without doubt that God approves our dedication to a particular task if on some occasion we have shown that we are willing to let go even of that task, if God wills it so.

Likewise, when our hope in God's promises to us seems to fall to pieces, we need a lot of love to keep on seeking his will.

Among the Canaanites, the sacrifice of sons was a religious custom: they thought that in order to be legitimate fathers, they had to sacrifice their first male child to God. Abraham surely approved of these customs and so the sacrifice of his son did not appear as something inhuman to him, as it does to us. Yet it meant the his son Isaac. He chopped wood for the burnt offering and set out for the place to which God had directed him. ⁴On the third day Abraham looked up and saw the place in the distance, ⁵and he said to the young men, "Stay here with the donkey. The boy and I will go over there to worship and then we will come back to you."

⁶Abraham took the wood for the burnt offering and laid it on Isaac his son. He carried in his hand the fire and the knife. As the two of them went on together, ⁷Isaac spoke to Abraham, his father, "Father!" ⁸And Abraham replied, "Yes, my son?" Isaac said, "The fire and the wood are here, but where is the lamb for the sacrifice?" Abraham replied, "God himself will provide the lamb for the sacrifice."

They went on, the two of them together, ⁹until they came to the place to which God had directed them. When Abraham had built the altar and set the wood on it, he bound his son Isaac and laid him on the wood placed on the altar. ¹⁰He then stretched out his hand to seize the knife and slay his son. ¹¹But the Angel of Yahweh called to him from heaven, "Abraham! Abraham!" And he said, "Here I am." ¹²"Do not lay your hand on the boy; do not harm him, for now I know that you fear God, and for me you have not held back your only son."

¹³Abraham looked around and saw behind him a ram caught by its horns in a bush. He offered it as a burnt offering in place of his son. ¹⁴Abraham named the place 'The Lord will provide'. And the saying has lasted to this day.

¹⁵And the Angel of Yahweh called from heaven a second time, ¹⁶"By myself I have sworn, it is Yahweh who speaks, because you have done this and not held back your son, your only son, ¹⁷I will surely bless you and make your descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky and the sand on the seashore. Your descendants will take possession of the lands of their enemies. ¹⁸All the nations of the earth will be blessed through your descendants because you have obeyed me."

¹⁹So Abraham returned to his servants, and they set off together for Beersheba and it was there that Abraham stayed.

²⁰Some time after this Abraham was told that Milcah too, had borne children for Nahor, Abraham's brother: ²¹Uz, the firstborn, Buz, his brother, Kemuel the father of Aram, ²²Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph and Bethuel. ²³Bethuel became the father of Rebekah. These eight children Milcah gave Nahor, Abraham's brother. ²⁴He also had a concusacrifice of all his hopes. God asked for this sacrifice in such a demanding way so that Abraham could serve as the model for other fathers of whom God would ask the sacrifice of time and attention owed their own children in order to work with Christ and the church in the labour of saving their brothers. Surely, some of the apostles, like Peter, had to leave a wife and children, in order to follow Jesus (Mk 10:28).

When this text was written the sacrifice of a son did not seem so barbaric but later when believers among the Israelites had better-formed consciences, they thought such a sacrifice intolerable unless Isaac had consented: father and son united in the same sacrifice. Thus, they pre-figured Jesus' sacrifice on the cross. God the Father sacrificed his own Son to save sinners. Even if the terms sacrifice, suffering, love do not have the same meaning for God as they do for us, we must not think that an indifferent uncompassionate God demands sacrifices of us of which he has no experience (Rom 5:8; 8:31).

But no explanation can soothe our wounded sensibilities at seeing how God imposes on Abraham the most costly sacrifice for a father. Is there no other way to bring us to perfect love? Though Abraham is a believer and God's friend, he is also a sinful man and only surgery can purify his heart. Here, it is Abraham who dies, not Isaac; and yet through his sacrifice, Abraham achieves life (see Lk 17:38; Rom 4:17; Heb 11:19).

He offered the ram in place of his son. The conclusion teaches us that God condemns human sacrifice. Prophets will have to struggle for centuries against this established custom of the sacrifice of children (see Kgs 16:34).

bine, named Reumah, who gave birth to Tebah, Gaham, Tahash and Maacah.

The tomb of Abraham and Sarah

■23 ¹Sarah lived a hundred and twenty-seven years. ²She died at Kiriath-arba—that is Hebron—in the land of Canaan, and Abraham went in to weep and mourn for Sarah.

³Abraham left his dead one ⁴and spoke to the Hittites. ⁵"I am only a stranger among you; give me a burial place among you, so that I may bury my dead." ⁶The Hittites answered Abraham. ⁷"Hear us, my lord. You are God's prince among us; bury your dead in the best of our tombs; none of us would refuse you a tomb to bury your dead." ⁸Abraham rose and bowed to the Hittites, the people of the land, ⁹and then spoke to them. ¹⁰"If you are willing that I bury my dead, hear me and plead with Ephron, the son of Zohar, ¹¹to give me the cave of Machpelah belonging to him at the edge of his field. For the full price and in your presence, let him give it to me for a burial place." ¹²Now Ephron was there sitting among the Hittites, and he replied to Abraham in the hearing of all who were seated at the gate of the town. ¹³"No, my lord, listen! I give you the field and I give you the cave in it. In the presence of the sons of my people, I give it to you. Bury your dead there."

¹⁴Abraham bowed before the people of the land and spoke to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land. ¹⁵"Ah, if only you will listen to me, I will give you the price of the land. Accept it from me that I may bury my dead there." ¹⁶Ephron replied to Abraham, "My lord, hear me. ¹⁷Four hundred silver coins for a piece of land, is it not the right price for both of us? Bury your dead." ¹⁸Abraham agreed with Ephron and he weighed out for Ephron the silver he had insisted on in the hearing of the Hittites, four hundred silver coins, in merchants' coins.

¹⁹And so Ephron's field in Machpelah, to the east of Mamre, the field with the cave in it, and all the trees in the field, throughout its entire area, ²⁰was acquired by Abraham as his possession in the presence of the Hittites and of all who went in at the gate of their city. ²¹After this Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of Machpelah. ²²The unused field and the cave that is in it were given to Abraham as a possession for a burying place by the Hittites.

Eliezer finds a wife for Isaac

⁵The servant said to him, "Perhaps the woman will not want to follow me to this country. In that case should I take your son to the country you came from?" ⁶Abraham said to him, "In no way will you take my son back. ⁷For Yahweh, God of heaven and God of earth, who took me from my father's house and from the land of my birth, spoke to me and swore to me that he would give this country to my race. He will send his angel before you, that you may find a wife for my son. ⁸But if the woman is unwilling to follow you, you will be free of this oath. In

3. Dt. 3, 4

■ Abraham travels throughout Palestine without ever having a place of his own (6-7:9); he holds everything as a promise and that is why he is the model for believers who, until death, place their hopes in the promises of God. However, Sarah's death gives Abraham the opportunity, at least, to buy a place for her burial.

◆ You will not choose a wife from among the Canaanites for my son. Isaac is the "son of the promise" and faithfulness to this promise is Abraham's great concern. The marriage of his son to a Canaanite woman, whose people are accustomed to pagan worship, would endanger this faithfulness.

To belong to Abraham's family and to become the mother of the chosen people, Rebekah must also give up her home and her land.

Let her be the one you have chosen for Isaac. God guides those who seek to do his will above all when they marry; he will enable them to meet the person best suited to help them best realize this desire. This is the lesson in the book of Tobit.

any case you are not to take my son down there." ⁹ So the servant placed his hand under the thigh of Abraham, his master, and swore to him that he would do it.

¹² The steward then prayed, "Yahweh, God of my master Abraham, be with me and show your loving kindness to Abraham, my master. ¹³ See, I am standing at the spring while the girls of the city are coming to draw water. ¹⁴ Now I will ask them like this: 'Please tilt your pitcher that I may drink.' Now, the first girl who will say: 'Drink and I will water your camels as well'; let her be the one you have chosen for your servant Isaac. In this way I shall know you have shown kindness to my master."

¹⁵ He had not finished praying when Rebekah came out. She was the daughter of Bethuel, son of Milcah wife of Abraham's brother, Nahor. She had a pitcher on her shoulder. ¹⁶ The girl was very beautiful and a virgin for no man had lain with her. She went down to the well, filled her pitcher and came up again. ¹⁷ The servant ran to meet her and said, "Please let me drink a little water from your pitcher." ¹⁸ She said, "Drink, my lord!" and at once lowering her pitcher to her hand she let him drink. ¹⁹ When she had finished letting him drink, she said, "I am going to water your camels as well, until they have had enough." ²⁰ She hurried to empty her pitcher into the trough, and then ran again to draw water for all his camels, ²¹ while the man watched in silence to find out whether Yahweh was making his journey successful or not.

²² So when the camels had finished drinking the man took out a gold nosering weighing half a shekel and for her arms two gold bracelets weighing ten shekels. ²³ He then said, "Whose daughter are you? Please tell me! Is there room in your father's house where we can spend the night?"

²⁶ Then the man knelt and worshipped Yahweh ²⁷ saying, "Blessed be Yahweh, God of my master Abraham, who has not stopped showing kindness and faithfulness to my master. Yahweh has guided me to the house of my master's brother." ²⁸ The girl ran to her mother's house and related all these things. ²⁹ Now Rebekah had a brother named Laban and Laban ran out to the man, near the spring. ³⁰ As soon as he saw the ring and the bracelets on his sister's arms, as soon as he heard his sister Rebekah saying, "This is what the man said to me...", he came towards Abraham's steward who was standing near the camels by the spring. ³¹ He said to him, "Come in, you who are blessed by Yahweh. Why do you stay outside? I have prepared the house and there is room for your camels." ³² So the man entered the house and unloaded the camels. Straw and fodder were given to the camels and water to wash the feet of the man and of those who were with him. ³³ Then they gave him food to eat, but he said, "I won't eat until I have said what I have to say!" Laban said, "Speak!"

³⁴ Then he spoke like this, "I am the servant of Abraham. Yahweh has greatly blessed my master and he has become very rich. ³⁵ Yahweh has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, menservants and maidservants, camels and donkeys. ³⁶ Now Sarah, my master's wife, bore him a son in her old age; ³⁷ so my master has given him all he owns and he made me swear an oath saying: 'You will not choose a wife for my son from the daughters of these Canaanites in whose country I live; ³⁸ rather you will go to my father's house, to my kinsfolk and there you will choose a wife for my son.' ³⁹ I then said to my master, 'Perhaps the woman will not agree to come with me!' ⁴⁰ And his reply was: 'Yahweh, in whose presence I have walked, will send his angel with you and make your journey successful. You will choose a wife for my son from my own clan and from my father's house.' ⁴¹ This is what you have to do to be released from your oath. 'Whether they refuse you or not you will be free of the oath'.

⁴² So on arriving at the spring, I prayed, "Yahweh, God of my master, Abraham, if you wish my journey to be successful, let it happen like this: ⁴³ as I stand by the spring a girl will come to draw water and I will say to her: Let me drink a little from your pitcher. ⁴⁴ If she answers me: Yes, drink, and I will draw water for your camels as well, let it be that she is the wife Yahweh has chosen for my master's son.' I was still thinking this over, ⁴⁵ when Rebekah came out with a pitcher on her shoulder. She went down to the spring and drew water. I said to her, 'Please, let me drink!' ⁴⁶ She immediately lowered the pitcher and said, 'Drink! I will water your camels as well!' I drank and she watered the camels. ⁴⁷ I questioned her saying, 'Who is your father?' And she said, 'I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Nahor and Milcah.' I then put this ring through her nostril and bracelets on her arms. ⁴⁸ Then I knelt in worship and blessed Yahweh, God of my master, Abraham, who had led me to choose the daughter of my master's brother for his son. ⁴⁹ Now let me know whether you intend to show kindness and faithfulness to my master; if not, tell me and I shall know which way to turn."

has directed." ⁵² When Abraham's servant heard this answer, he bowed to the ground before Yahweh. ⁵³ He then took the gold and silver jewelry as well as the clothes and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave costly gifts to her brother and mother. ⁵⁴ They ate and drank, he and his companions, and spent the night there.

When they were up next morning, the servant said, "Let me return to my master." ⁵⁵ Rebekah's mother and brother replied, "Let the girl remain with us for a few days, about ten. After that she may go." ⁵⁶ He said, "Do not delay me; since Yahweh has made my journey successful, let me leave and return to my master." ⁵⁷ They then said, "Call the girl and ask her about it." ⁵⁸ They called and questioned Rebekah, "Do you want to leave with this man?" She said, "I will go." ⁵⁹ So they let Rebekah, their sister, go with her nurse and Abraham's servant and his men. ⁶⁰ They blessed Rebekah with these words,

"Sister of ours, may you increase to thousands upon thousands, may your descendants take possession of the cities of their enemies."

⁶¹ Then Rebekah and her maids got ready, mounted the camels and followed Abraham's servant. So it was that he departed bringing Rebekah.

⁶² Now Isaac had come from the well of Lahai-roi, for he was living in the Negeb. ⁶³ As Isaac went out in the early evening to meditate in the field, he looked up and saw camels coming. ⁶⁴ Rebekah also looked up and when she saw Isaac she alighted from her camel ⁶⁵ and said to the servant, "Who is this man in the field coming to meet us?" He replied, "It is my master!" She then covered her face with her veil. ⁶⁶ The servant related to Isaac all that he had done ⁶⁷ and Isaac brought Rebekah into the tent of Sarah, his mother. He made her his wife, and he loved her; and Isaac was comforted after his mother's death.

Abraham and his descendants

+ 25 ¹Abraham married another wife named Keturah. ²She love him Zimram, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak and Shuah. ³Jokshan was the father of Sheba and Dedan, and the sons of Dedan were the Asshurites, the Letushites, and the Leummmites. ⁴The sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoah, Abida and Eldaah. All these were descendants of Keturah.

⁵Abraham left everything he owned to Isaac. ⁶To the sons of his concubines Abraham gave presents, and as long as he lived he sent them away from his son Isaac, to the land of the east.

⁷Abraham had lived a hundred and seventy-five years. ⁸Then at a good old age Abraham breathed his last, an old man, after a full span of years, and was gathered to his ancestors. ⁹His sons, Isaac and Ishmael, buried him in the cave at Machpelah, ¹⁰in the field of Ephron the Hittite, son of Zohar. This was the field near Mamre that Abraham bought from the Hittites. Abraham and his wife, Sarah, were buried there. ¹¹After Abraham's death God blessed his son Isaac who lived near the well of Lahai-roi.

¹⁸His descendants lived in the territory stretching from Havilah to Shur, near the border of Egypt in the direction of Assyria. They have been fighting continually among themselves.

¹⁹This is the story of Isaac, son of Abraham. ²⁰Isaac was forty when he married Rebekah, daughter of Bethuel, the Aramean from Paddan-aram, the sister of Laban the Aramean.

The birth of Esau and Jacob

²¹Isaac prayed to Yahweh for his wife, because she could not have children. Yahweh heard Isaac's prayer and Rebekah, his wife, conceived. ²²As the children struggled together within her, she said, "If it is like this, why do I continue to live?" She went to consult Yahweh, ²³and Yahweh

+ Medan, Midian, Sheba, Dedan: these are names of tribes and peoples of Arabia. Since the Israelites considered them their relatives by race and language, they wanted them to be Abraham's descendants, also.

• At the beginning of chapter 12, we saw how the authors of Genesis depicted their ancestor Abraham as the father and model of believers. Yet, the Israelites preferred to call themselves "sons of Jacob." They portrayed him with more human and less idealized traits. If, indeed, they looked upon Abraham as a model, they recognized themselves better in Jacob, a clever and somewhat tricky man, though very firm in his faith.

God had committed himself to Abraham's descendants, but he freely picked the one among them who would benefit from the promises. The promises did not go to Isaac's elder son who, according to custom, should have inherited almost all the father's possessions.

There are two nations in your womb (v. 23). We must not forget that in this story, each character represents some people bearing the same name. Just as Jacob-Israel was considered the ancestor of the Israelites, so Esau or Edom (25:31) was considered the ancestor of the Edomites, neighbors and rivals of the Israelites.

These chapters show the freedom of God who chooses these people before those to be the instrument of his salvation; also, among the Israelites God chooses whom he wants to put in charge of a more or less transcendent mission.

In this chapter we are given three reasons for the rejection of Esau:

- A passage in chapter 25 shows Esau to be guilty: he himself scorned his sacred rights as eldest son.
- Another passage, 26:34, mentions his marriage to foreign women.
- A third passage (in chapter 27) shows how God takes advantage of one of Jacob's tricks to achieve his goals. The Israelites were not that scrupulous about lying. For them Jacob's trick only showed that he was determined to get God's promises by any means, and in so doing, he becomes deserving of these promises.

In Hebrews 12:16 Esau will be presented as an example of a godless person, one who sells said to her, "Two nations are in your womb, and two peoples will be born of you; one nation will be stronger than the other, and the elder shall serve the younger."

²⁹ Once when Jacob was making a stew, Esau came back from the country and he was famished; ³⁰ and he said to Jacob, "Let me have some of that red stew, for I am famished." That is why he was also called Edom. ³¹ Jacob said, "First sell me your right as the firstborn." ³² Esau said, "Since I am to die soon, what good is my right as the firstborn to me?" ³³ Then Jacob said, "Give me your oath first." So he swore to him and sold his firstborn-right to Jacob. ³⁴ Then Jacob gave him bread and the lentil stew. Esau ate and drank and then got up and went his way. So it was that Esau thought nothing of his right as the firstborn.

Events in Isaac's life

■ 26 ¹ There was a famine in the land - a second one after the famine that had taken place in the time of Abraham - and Isaac went to Gerar, the land of Abimelech, king of the Philistines. ² For Yahweh appeared to him and said, "Do not go down to Egypt; stay in the land I shall tell you of. ³ Remain in this land, and I will be with you and I will bless you. I will give all these lands to you and your race, and I shall keep the oath I swore to your father, Abraham. For I told him: ⁴ I will make your descendants as many as the stars in the heavens, and to them I will give all these lands; and through your descendants all nations in the world will be blessed ⁵ because you were obedient and kept my charge, my commandments, my decrees and my laws."

⁶ So Isaac stayed in Gerar. ⁷ When the men of that place questioned him about his wife, he replied, "She is my sister." He would not say, "She is my wife", for he was afraid and he thought "The men of this place might kill me because of Rebekah who is very beautiful."

⁸ When Isaac had been there a long time, it happened that Abimelech, looking out of a window, saw Isaac caressing his wife Rebekah. ⁹ Abimelech called Isaac and said, "So she really is your wife! Why did you tell me that God's blessing for a meal. We can easily think of so many men who - for a glass of wine or some privilege - sell their rights (e.g. by ceding their labor union's freedom) or sacrifice their children's future.

■ About verses 7-11, see 20:2.

In chapters 12-33 we become acquainted with two realities in the lives of the patriarchs: they are nomads who live in tents; they roam in search of water and dig wells (see 21:21-34).

They live in camping tents, that is to say, as transients without a permanent home. The Bible appreciates the work of men who build something lasting in this world. Those who found a home, plant a vineyard or build a house are praised (Dt 20:5-7) since all of this is connected with the creative mission of men and women. Yet, the Bible also remembers the nomadic life of Israel's forefathers as an ideal which should not be lost (Jer 35). The believer does not become attached to anything in this world...to family, homeland or lifestyle. He pitches his tent wherever he can expand his experience but he does not settle in any place. Living as a stranger in this world, it will be easier for him to encounter God who also passes as a stranger among us (in Jn 1:14 the exact translation should be: the Word pitched his tent among us). See Ex 33:7; 40:34; 2 Sam 7:7; Sir 24:14; 2 Cor 5:1-4; Pt 2:11.

The patriarchs dig wells. They do not find fountains of spring water in the desert, instead they must painfully dig the wells which make the desert fertile and provide drink for their flocks. At times the water runs out; at other times, the Philistines plug up their wells with dirt. All of this represents human effort to find wisdom; people are often left thirsty and there are always those who muddy the fountains of wisdom. And so people will run from one well to another until Christ gives them the spring water springing from the Rock which is himself. See Ex 17:1; Jn 4:5-10; 7:38; 1 Cor 10:4; Jer 2:13.

she was your sister?" Isaac said to him, "Because I thought that they might kill me on her account." ¹⁰ Then Abimelech said, "What is this you have done to us? One of my people could have slept with your wife and you would have brought guilt on us." ¹¹ So Abimelech gave an order to all the people: "Whoever molests this man or his wife will be put to death."

¹² Isaac sowed crops on this land and that same year he harvested a hundredfold. Yahweh blessed him ¹³ and he prospered. He continued to prosper until he was very rich. ¹⁴ He had flocks and herds and many servants so that the Philistines envied him. ¹⁵ All the wells dug by his father's servants in Abraham's time were stopped up by the Philistines and filled with earth. ¹⁶ Abimelech said to Isaac, "Go away from us for you are more powerful than we are." ¹⁷ So Isaac left that place and encamped in the Valley of Gerar and settled there.

²⁶ Abimelech went to him from Gerar together with Ahuzzath, his friend, and Phicol, the commander of his forces. ²⁷ Isaac said to him, "Why have you come after me seeing that you hate me and have sent me away?" ²⁸ They answered, "We have clearly seen that Yahweh is with you, so we said: Let peace be sworn between us and you, and let us make a treaty: ²⁹ you will do us no harm, just as we have not interfered with you, but always treated you well and sent you away in peace. We know that you have Yahweh's blessing."

³⁰ Isaac then made a feast for them and they ate and drank. ³¹ Next morning they rose early and swore an oath to each other. Isaac then set them on their way and they left him in peace.

³² That day Isaac's servants came and told him of the well they had dug: "We have found water." ³³ He called the well Shibeah and that is why the name of the town has been Beersheba to this day.

Jacob obtains the blessing by deceit

27 ¹ When Isaac was old and his eyes so weak that he could no longer see, he called Esau, his older son, and said to him, "My son." "Here I am," he answered. ² Isaac continued, "You see I am old and I don't know when I shall die; ³ so take your weapons, your bow and arrow, go out into the country and hunt some game for me. ⁴ Then prepare some of the savoury food I like and bring it to me so that I may eat and give you my blessing before I die."

⁵ Now Rebekah was listening when Isaac spoke to his son Esau. When Esau went into the country to hunt game and bring it back, ⁶ Rebekah said to her son Jacob, "I heard your father talking to your brother Esau: ⁷ Bring me some game and prepare food for me that I may eat and bless you before Yahweh before I die." ⁸ Now my son, listen and do what I command you. ⁹ Go to the flock and bring me two fine kids so that I can prepare for your father the food that he likes. ¹⁰ You will bring it to your father and he will eat it and give you his blessing before he dies."

smooth-skinned. ¹² Perhaps my father will feel me and I will seem to be tricking him and so bring a curse on myself instead of a blessing." ¹³ But his mother said, "Let the curse fall on me, my son! Only do what I tell you; go and get the kids for me." ¹⁴ So he went and got them and took them to his mother to prepare food that his father like. ¹⁵ Then Rebekah took the best clothes of her elder son Esau that she had in the house and put them on Jacob, her younger son. ¹⁶ With the goatskin she covered his hands and the smooth part of his neck. ¹⁷ and she handed to him the bread and food she had prepared.

¹⁸ He went to his father and said, 'Father!' He answered, "Yes, my son, who is it?" ¹⁹ and Jacob said to his father, "It is Esau, your firstborn; I have done what you told me to do; come, sit up and eat my game so that you may give me your blessing." ²⁰ Isaac said, "How quick you have been my son!" Jacob said, "Yahweh, your God, guided me." ²¹ Isaac said to Jacob, "Come near and let me feel you, my son, and know that it is you, Esau my son, or not."

²² When Jacob drew near to Isaac, his father felt him and said, "The voice is the voice of Jacob but the hands are the hands of Esau." ²³ He did not recognize him, for his hands were hairy like the hands of Esau his brother and so he blessed him. ²⁴ He asked, "Are you really my son Esau?" and Jacob answered, "I am." ²⁵ Isaac said, "Bring me some of your game, my son, so that I may eat and give you my blessing." So Jacob brought it to him and he ate. And he brought him wine and he drank. ²⁶ Then his father Isaac said to him, "Come near and kiss me, my son." ²⁷ So Jacob came near and kissed him.

Isaac then caught the smell of his clothes and blessed him, saying,

"The smell of my son is like the smell of a field which the Lord has blessed.

²⁸ May God give you of the dew of heaven; and of the richness of the earth;

and abundance of grain and wine.

²⁹ Let peoples serve you and nations bow down before you.
Be lord over your brothers, and let your mother's sons bow down to you.

Cursed be everyone that curses you and blessed be everyone

³⁴ On hearing his father's words, Esau gave a loud and bitter cry and said, "Bless me, too, father." ³⁵ But Isaac said, "Your brother came deceitfully and took your blessing." ³⁶ Esau said, "Is it because he is called Jacob that he has supplanted me twice? First he took my birthright and now he has taken my blessing." Then he asked, "Haven't you kept a blessing for me?" ³⁷ Isaac answered Esau, "I have made him your lord. I have given him all his brothers as servants; I have provided him with grain and wine. What can I do for you, my son?"

³⁹ Isaac then gave him this answer,

"Your dwelling place shall be far away from the richness of the earth, away from the dew of heaven above.

⁴⁰ You shall live by your sword, and you shall serve your brother;

but when you win your freedom you will throw off his yoke from your neck."

Jacob flees to the house of Laban

⁴¹ Now Esau continued to hate his brother because of the blessing his father had given him and he thought to himself, "The time of mourning for my father is near; I shall then kill my brother Jacob." ⁴² When Rebekah was told what her elder son had said, she sent and called her younger son, Jacob, and said to him, "Your brother Esau is consoling himself with the thought of killing you. ⁴³ Now my son, listen to me and flee to Laban, my brother, in Haran.

⁴⁴ You will stay with him for a time ⁴⁵ until your brother's fury has cooled; and when he has forgotten his anger and what you did to him, I will send someone to bring you back. Why should I lose both of you on the same day?"

28 ¹ Isaac summoned Jacob and blessed him and commanded him, "Do not marry a Canaanite woman. ² Go to Paddan-aram, to the house of Bethuel, your mother's father and choose a wife for yourself from the daughters of Laban, your mother's brother. ³ May God Almighty bless you and make you increase to become a group of nations. ⁴ May he grant you and your descendants the blessings of Abraham, so that you may take possession of the land where you live now, and that Yahweh gave to Abraham. ⁵ Isaac sent Jacob away and he went to Paddan-aram to Laban, the son of Bethuel, the Aramean, brother to Rebekah.

⁶ Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him to Paddan-aram to choose a wife for himself, and in blessing him had commanded him, "Do not marry a Canaanite woman." And in obedience to his father and mother, Jacob had gone to Paddan-aram. ⁸ So Esau understood how displeasing the Canaanite women were to his father Isaac. ⁹ So he went to Ishmael and chose a wife for himself besides those he already had - Mahalath, daughter of Ishmael, son of Abraham and sister of Nebaioth.

+ ¹⁰ Jacob left Beersheba and set out for Haran. ¹¹ When he reached a certain place and since the sun had set, he spent the night there. He took one of the stones that were there and using

+ Jacob left Beersheba and set out for Haran. Jacob goes to the land of his forefathers in search of work and a wife. On the road, he has a vision in which God renews his Covenant with him.

Unlike Abraham, whom God called when he was already old and who knew the value of life, Jacob is a man who becomes aware of his vocation gradually. First, he buys the rights of the firstborn from Esau whom he has judged and considered irresponsible; but he still does not know the price of God's blessing to his fathers. Then, his mother has to give him courage so that he can take the risk of stealing the blessing. He lets her persuade him and only afterwards does he understand the consequences of his action: he has to escape in order to save his life.

But, just when Jacob has to face the hazardous life of a foreigner and a fugitive, he meets God and for the first time he becomes conscious of his own responsibility: he is the bearer of God's promises to the world. People are responsible when they realize that they are accountable to others and they must answer for their actions.

Jacob understands that he will be accountable to the God who has chosen him.

Yahweh was in this place! Jacob, alone and defenseless, goes to sleep near a city inhabited by strangers. But God renews with him the promises made to his fathers and assures him of his protection: some day this land will be his.

This is the gate to heaven. Jacob has seen the heavens open and the angels of God forming a living bridge between heaven and earth: this is an image of the communion with God which people seek in vain with their various religions. These may give us some external knowledge of God and satisfy our religious instincts. But even if he interiorizes his search for God, sinful man cannot find him within himself: in a direct and personal encounter.

The only bridge between God and men is Christ: Son of God become man, both God and man. Later, in referring to this text (Jn 1:51) Jesus will declare that he is the Gate to heaven, because in him, God has embraced humanity.

He called it Bethel. Here, as in previous chapters, we find popular legends. Bethel!

¹²While Jacob was sleeping, he had a dream in which a ladder stood on the earth with its top reaching to heaven and on it were angels of God going up and coming down. ¹³And Yahweh was standing there near him and said, "I am Yahweh, the God of your father, Abraham, and the God of Isaac. The land on which you sleep, I give to you and your descendants.

¹⁴Your descendants will be numerous like the specks of dust of the earth and you will spread out to the west and the east, to the north and the south. Through you and your descendants all the nations of the earth will be blessed. ¹⁵See, I am with you and I will keep you safe wherever you go. I will bring you back to this land and not leave you until I have done what I promised."

¹⁶Jacob woke from his dream and said, "Truly Yahweh was in this place and I was not aware of it." ¹⁷He was afraid and said, "How full of awe is his place! It is nothing less than a house of God; it is the Gate to heaven!"

¹⁸Then Jacob rose early and took the stone he had put under his head and set it up as a pillar and poured oil on the top of it. ¹⁹He named that place Bethel although before that it was called Luz. ²⁰Then Jacob made a vow, "If Yahweh will be with me and keep me safe during this journey I am making, if he gives me bread to eat and clothes to wear, ²¹and if I return in peace to my father's house, then Yahweh will be my God. ²²This stone which I have set up as a pillar will be God's house, and of all that you give me, I will give back a tenth."

Jacob arrives at Laban's home

■ 29 ¹Jacob set out and came to the land of the people of the east. ²There he saw a well and lying beside the well were three flocks of sheep, for it was at this well that the flocks were watered, and a large stone covered the mouth of the well. ³Then when all the flocks gathered there, the shepherds rolled away the stone from the opening of the well, watered their flocks and replaced the stone at the mouth of the well. ⁴Jacob said to them, "Brothers, where are you from?" "We are from Haran," they replied. ⁵He then said, "Do you know Laban, Nahor's son?" "Yes, we know him," they replied. ⁶And Jacob asked, "Is he well?" "Yes, he is well," they said, "and here is Rachel, his daughter, coming with the sheep!" ⁷Jacob then said, "Look! The sun is still

DREAMS

All of us are impressed by dreams and we try to interpret them. Most of the time they do not announce anything but simply indicate what is going on within us, in our subconscious and disclose a bit of what we cannot now clearly about our own spirit. Psychology may use dreams to discover significant experiences or wounds suffered in the past.

Dreams may also indicate and express premonitions and intuitions. The Bible shows us God (or his angels) using dreams to communicate with us. In this, God accepts man as he is and takes into account his way of thinking.

When God intervenes through a dream, we know it by the consequences. Jesus says "The tree is known by its fruits." In such cases, it is God himself who gives the interpretation: we do not need to resort to anyone and God fills us with a sense of complete peace.

People whose faith has been purified and formed cannot attribute to dreams the same importance given them by the primitive people of biblical times. We also know that the Spirit of Darkness can disguise himself as an angel (2 Cor 2:10). When, in our days, large segments of humankind tend to lead their lives according to dreams, it has nothing to do with faith. In the very Bible itself, besides the condemnations of Dt 18:10, we can also read in Jer 29:8 his attack directed against those who induce the dreams they wish to have. See also Sir 24:1.

■ Chapters 29-31 present Jacob as an astute and enterprising worker who trusts in God's promises. He succeeds in the end, less because of his own efforts than because of God's blessing on his fathers.

high; it's not yet time for the flocks to be gathered together. Water the sheep and let them graze." ⁸ But they said, "We cannot do that until all the flocks are gathered together and the stone is rolled away from the mouth of the well; it's then we water the sheep."

⁹ He was still speaking when Rachel arrived with her father's flock, for she looked after them. ¹⁰ As soon as Jacob saw Rachel he went forward and rolled the stone from the mouth of the well and then watered Laban's flock. ¹¹ Then Jacob kissed Rachel and wept aloud.

¹² Jacob told Rachel he was her father's kinsman and Rebekah's son, and she ran and told her father. ¹³ As soon as Laban heard the news about Jacob being his sister's son, he ran to meet him; and after embracing and kissing him he brought him into his house. Jacob told Laban all that had happened ¹⁴ and Laban said to him, "Truly you are my bone and flesh!" And Jacob stayed there a month with him.

¹⁵ Laban said to Jacob, "Even if you are my kinsman, should you work for me for nothing? Tell me, what wages do you want?"

²⁰ To win Rachel, Jacob worked for seven years which seemed to him only a few days, because he loved her so much. ²¹ Jacob then said to Laban, "Give me my wife, for I have served my time and I want to lie with her." ²² So Laban gathered together all the people of the place and gave a feast. ²³ But when night came he took his daughter Leah and gave her to Jacob and he lay with her. ²⁴ Laban gave his slave girl Zilpah to Leah to be her maid.

²⁵ When morning came, there was Leah! And Jacob said to Laban, "What have you done to me? Haven't I worked with you for Rachel? Why have you deceived me?" ²⁶ Laban said, "It is not our custom to give the younger daughter before the firstborn. ²⁷ As soon as the marriage week is over, I will give you my younger daughter as well, but you must work with me for another seven years. ²⁸ Jacob agreed to this and when he completed the week with Leah, Laban gave him his daughter Rachel to be his wife.

Jacob's children

³¹ As Yahweh saw that Leah was not loved, he let her have children; but Rachel was barren. ³² Leah gave birth to a child and named him Reuben, for she said, "Because the Lord has seen my affliction; my husband is sure to love me now." ³³ She gave birth to another son and said, "Yahweh saw that I was neglected and has given me this son as well"; and she called him Simeon. ³⁴ Again she gave birth to a son and said, "This time my husband will be united to me because I have borne him three sons." That is why he was called Levi. ³⁵ She again gave birth to a son and said: "This time I will praise Yahweh." That is why she named him Judah. After that she had no more children.

30 ¹ When Rachel saw that she bore Jacob no children, she became jealous of her sister, and so she said to Jacob, "Give me sons or I shall die." ² Jacob became angry and said to her, "Is it my fault that God has deprived you of children?" ³ She then said, "Here is my servant Bilhah; sleep with her so that she may give birth on my knees; so the child will be mine." ⁴ And she gave Bilhah her servant as wife to Jacob. ⁵ She became pregnant and bore him a son. ⁶ Rachel then said, "God has done me justice! He has heard my prayer and given me a son. That is why she named him Dan." ⁷ Bilhah, Rachel's servant, bore a second son to Jacob. ⁸ And Rachel said, "I have had a mighty struggle with my sister and I have won!" And so she named her son Naphtali.

⁹ When Leah saw that she had stopped having children, she took her servant, Zilpah, and gave her to Jacob as a wife. ¹⁰ Zilpah gave birth to a son for Jacob. ¹¹ Leah said "How fortunate!" and named him Gad. ¹² Leah's servant bore a second son to Jacob. ¹³ Leah said, "How happy I am! Women will call me happy." So she named him Asher.

¹⁴ At the time of the wheat harvest, Reuben went out to the fields and found some mandrake plants which he brought to his mother, Leah. Rachel said to Leah, "Please give me some of your son's mandrakes." ¹⁵ But Leah replied, "Isn't it enough for you to have taken my husband? Now you want to take my son's mandrakes as well!" Rachel then said, "He will sleep with you tonight in return for your son's mandrakes."

¹⁶ In the evening when Jacob came in from the fields Leah went to meet him and said, "You will sleep with me tonight for I have hired you with my son's mandrakes!" So he slept with her that night. ¹⁷ Yahweh heard Leah, and she became pregnant and bore Jacob a fifth son. ¹⁸ Leah said, "God has given me my reward because I gave my maidservant to my husband." She named the child Issachar.

¹⁹ Leah bore another son to Jacob. ²⁰ Then she said, "God has offered me a beautiful gift; this time my husband will honour me for I have given him six children." She named the child Zebulun. ²¹ She later gave birth to a daughter and called her Dinah.

²² Then Yahweh remembered Rachel and let her have a child. ²³ She became pregnant and gave birth to a son. "Yahweh has taken away my shame," she said. ²⁴ And she called the child Joseph saying, "May Yahweh give me another son."

Other legends

²⁵ After Rachel had given birth to Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, "Let me go, so that I may return to my homeland. ²⁶ Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served you, and let me go, for you know how well I have served you." ²⁷ Laban said, "If I have won your friendship... I have learned from signs that Yahweh has blessed me because of you." ²⁸ He then added, "Say what you want for wages and I will pay you." ²⁹ Jacob said, "You know how well I have served you and how your cattle have prospered with me. ³⁰ For you had little when I came, but since I have been with you there has been a considerable increase and Yahweh has blessed you. But now, when am I to do something for my own household?" Laban asked, "what shall I give you?"

Jacob replied, "You will give me nothing, but if you do for me what I ask, I will continue to pasture and look after your flock. ³¹ Today I shall go through your flock removing from it every black lamb, and the spotted and speckled among the goats; these shall be my wages. ³² My honesty will answer for me later, when you come to look into my wages. Any goat among my herd that is not spotted or speckled, any lamb found among the sheep in my possession that is not black will be counted as stolen." Laban said, "Agreed, it will be as you say."

³³ That same day Laban put aside the he-goats that were streaked, every one that had white on it, and all the black sheep. These he handed over to his sons. ³⁴ and he put a distance of a three days' journey between himself and Jacob. So Jacob looked after the rest of Laban's flock.

³⁷ Jacob then gathered fresh branches of poplar, almond and plane. He peeled white streaks in them, letting the white of the stems be seen. ³⁸ Then he placed the branches he had peeled in front of the channels of the watering troughs where the animals came to drink and where they could be clearly seen by the animals. And as they mated there in front of the branches when they came to drink, ³⁹ the animals produced streaked, spotted and speckled young. ⁴⁰ He put the sheep apart but made the rest face the streaked and dark coloured animals that belonged to Laban. In this way he built up droves of his own and did not add them to Laban's flock. ⁴¹ Whenever the stronger of the ewes were breeding, Jacob put the branches in the channels in front of the eyes of the ewes so that they would mate there among the branches. ⁴² But for the feebler ewes he did not put them there so that the feebler were for Laban and the more robust for Jacob. ⁴³ In this way he became extremely rich with a great number of sheep, maidservants and menservants, camels and donkeys.

31 ¹ Jacob learned that the sons of Laban were saying, "Jacob has taken everything our father owned, and it is at our father's expense that he has accumulated this fortune." ² Jacob understood from Laban's expression that his attitude towards him was no longer the same.

³ Then Yahweh said to Jacob, "Go back to your homeland, the country of your kinsmen. I will be with you." ⁴ Jacob had Rachel and Leah called to the field where his flocks were. ⁵ There he said to them, "I see that your father no longer looks kindly on me, but the God of my father has been with me. ⁶ You yourselves know that I have served your father with all my strength. ⁷ But your father has not been straight with me, changing my wages ten times. But God has not allowed him to do me harm. ⁸ Whenever he said: 'The spotted ones will be your wages,' then all the ewes had spotted lambs. And whenever he said: 'The streaked ones will be your wages,' then all the ewes produced streaked lambs.

⁹ It is God who has taken your father's livestock in that way and has given it to me. ¹⁰ For, in the breeding season, when I was looking up, I saw in a dream that the rams mating with the ewes were streaked, spotted or speckled.

¹¹ And the angel in the dream said to me: 'Jacob.' 'Here I am,' I replied. ¹² He then said: 'Look up and see that all the rams mating with the ewes are streaked, spotted or speckled. I have seen all that Laban has done to you.' ¹³ I am the God who appeared to you at Bethel where you anointed a pillar and vowed to me by oath. Now get ready, leave this country and return to the land of your birth."

¹⁴ Then Rachel and Leah replied, "Have we still any share in the inheritance of our father's estate?" ¹⁵ Haven't we been regarded by him as foreigners since he has sold us, and well and truly used up our money? ¹⁶ Surely all the fortune that God has taken from our father belongs to us and to our children. So do then all that God has told you."

¹⁷ So Jacob got ready and put his children and his wives on camels. ¹⁸ He also took with him all his livestock and all that he had accumulated (the livestock he had acquired at Paddan-aram) to return to his father Isaac in the land of Canaan. ¹⁹ In that moment Rachel took advantage of Laban. While he was shearing his sheep she stole her father's family gods.

²⁰ So Jacob tricked Laban in not letting him know he was running away. ²¹ He fled with all he had, and after crossing the river Euphrates he made for the hill country of Gilead.

²² Three days later Laban heard that Jacob had fled. ²³ Taking his brothers with him, he followed Jacob for seven days and caught up with him in the hill country of Gilead. ²⁴ God appeared to Laban in a dream at night and said to him, "Be careful not to say anything – either good or bad – to Jacob." ²⁵ Jacob had pitched his tent in the hill country of Gilead when Laban overtook him. Laban and his brothers also encamped on the hills of Gilead. ²⁶ Then Laban said to Jacob, "What have you done, tricking me and carrying my daughters off like prisoners of war?"

²⁷ Why did you run away secretly and cheat me? Why didn't you tell me? I could have sent you off with joy and singing and the music of tambourine and harp. ²⁸ You didn't even let me kiss my grandchildren and daughters goodbye. You have done a foolish thing ²⁹ and I have power to harm you, but last night the God of your father warned me saying: 'Be careful not say anything – good or evil – to Jacob.' ³⁰ Now if you have gone off because you were planning to return to your father's house, why did you steal my gods?"

³¹ Jacob replied to Laban, "It was because I was afraid you would take your daughters from me! ³² But whoever is found in possession of your gods will not live. In the presence of our relations see for yourself if anything that belongs to you is here with me and, if so, take it." Now Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen the gods.

³³ Laban entered Jacob's tent, then Leah's and then the tent of the two maidservants, but he found nothing. When Laban came out of Leah's tent, he entered the tent of Rachel.

³⁴ Rachel had taken the gods, but put them into the camel's saddle, and sat on them. Laban felt all about the tent but did not find them. ³⁵ Rachel said to her father, "Do not be angry with me, my lord, if I do not stand in your presence, for I am having my period." So he searched but did not find the gods.

³⁸ During the twenty years I have been with you, your ewes and your she-goats have not miscarried and I haven't eaten any of the rams from your flocks. ³⁹ I haven't brought you any animal torn by a wild beast. I suffered the loss and you demanded payment from me for whatever was stolen by day or night. ⁴⁰ During the day I have been stifled by the heat and at night I have suffered from the cold, and sleep has left my eyes. ⁴¹ It's twenty years that I've been with you. I worked fourteen years for your two daughters and six years for your flocks, and ten times you have altered my wages. ⁴² If the God of my father Abraham and the Fearsome God of Isaac had not been with me, you would have sent me away empty-handed. But God has seen my hardship and the toil of my hands and last night he passed sentence."

⁴⁵ Jacob took a stone and set it up as a pillar. ⁴⁶ He then said to his kinsmen, "Collect stones." So they gathered stones and piled them up, and they ate there by the pile. ⁴⁷ Laban called it Jegar-sahadutha, and Jacob called it, Galeed. ⁴⁸ Laban said, "This pile of stones is a witness between you and me today." That is why it was called Galeed; ⁴⁹ and it was also known as Mizpah because Laban had said,

"May Yahweh watch between me and you when we are no longer in sight of each other.⁵⁰ If you harm my daughters or take other wives besides my daughters, even though no man is with us, remember that God is witness between you and me."

⁵¹ Then Laban said to Jacob, "Here is the pile and the pillar which I have set between you and me.⁵² This pile and this pillar will witness that I will not pass beyond this pile to harm you and that you will not pass beyond this pile and pillar to harm me.⁵³ May the God of Abraham and the God of Nahor judge between us!" So Jacob swore by the Fearful God of his father Isaac.⁵⁴ Jacob also offered a sacrifice on the mountain and invited his brothers to the meal. After they had eaten, they spent the night there.

² As for Jacob, he went on his way and met Angels of God.³ On seeing them Jacob exclaimed, "This is God's camp," and he named the place Mahanaim.⁴ And going on his way, he sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, the country of Edom.

Jacob's struggle with God

⁶ The messenger returned and said to Jacob, "We went to your brother Esau and he is already coming to meet you with four hundred men."

♦ God's blessings are with the fugitive Jacob. He works untiringly and after fifteen years he has two wives, many children and countless possessions. It is at this time that he returns to his homeland and gets ready to face Esau, his brother and rival. Jacob was full of fear and distressed. In his anguish Jacob prays to God, precisely to remind him of his promise and his "faithfulness", that is to say, all that God has done for him and his fathers. God responds to him in his own way a somewhat mysterious way in the vision at night.

o A man wrestled with him until dawn. It is a struggle between God and Jacob. God accepts defeat and confirms his blessing on Jacob.

⁷ Jacob was full of fear and distressed. He then divided the people with him and the flocks, the herds and camels into two camps, ⁸ thinking, "If Esau attacks one camp, the other will escape."

⁹ And Jacob said, "God of my father Abraham and my father Isaac, Yahweh, who said to me: 'Return to your country, to your fatherland, and I will make you prosper,' ¹⁰ I am unworthy of the kindness and faithfulness you have shown to me, for with only my staff I crossed the Jordan and now I have enough to form two companies. ¹¹ Deliver me from the hands of my brother Esau for I am afraid lest he come and kill us all, even the mothers and their children. ¹² Yet it was you who said: I will be good to you and make your descendants like the sand on the seashore, so many that they cannot be counted." ¹³ So Jacob spent the night there.

Then he took what he had with him, a present for his brother Esau: ¹⁴ two hundred she-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, ¹⁵ thirty camels in milk and their calves, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty she-asses and ten male donkeys. ¹⁶ He put them in the care of his servants, each herd by itself, and said to his servants, "Go ahead of me and leave a space between each herd." ¹⁷ He instructed the leader, "When my brother Esau meets you and asks, 'To whom do you belong? And where are you going? Who is the owner of the animals you are driving?' ¹⁸ Then you shall Occasionally we discover ourselves better in sleep than when we are awake. This is what happens with Jacob in his night struggle with God. He understands that his labours and trials have been more than a confrontation with society and men; they have been a wrestling with God. God promises success but he will not grant it until Jacob exhaust all his strength.

Because Jacob understands better the reason for so many trials and delays, he personally addresses the one who blocks his way and who, alone, can change Esau's disposition. Jacob becomes strong against God; he does not ask for a favor, a little help, but instead he demands that he keep his promises: I will not let you go until you have given me your blessing.

say: They belong to your servant Jacob. It is a present he is sending to my lord Esau. He himself is coming along behind us!"

¹⁹Jacob ordered the second and third servants and all who were following the herds in the same way, "That is what you shall say to Esau when you meet him: ²⁰Your servant Jacob is following!" For he thought to himself, "I may pacify him with the present I sent ahead, so that when I meet him face to face, he may perhaps receive me kindly." ²¹So the present went ahead of him, but he himself spent that night in the camp.

²²That same night Jacob got up and taking his two wives, his two maidservants and his eleven sons, crossed the ford of the Jabbok. ²³He took them and sent them across the stream and likewise everything he had. ²⁴And Jacob was left alone.

Then a man wrestled with him until daybreak. ²⁵When the man saw that he could not get the better of Jacob, he struck him in the socket of his hip and dislocated it as he wrestled with him.

²⁶The man said, "Let me go, for day is breaking." But Jacob said, "I will not let you go until you have given me your blessing." ²⁷The man then said, "What is your name?" "Jacob" was the reply. ²⁸He answered, "You will no longer be called Jacob, but Israel, for you have been strong-with-God as you have been with men and have prevailed."

²⁹Then Jacob asked him, "What is your name?" He answered, "Why do you ask my name?" And he blessed him there. ³⁰So Jacob called the place Peniel, saying, "I have seen God face to face and survived." ³¹The sun rose as he passed through Peniel, limping because of his hip.

³²That is why to this day the Israelites do not eat the sciatic nerve which is in the hip socket because the sciatic nerve in Jacob's hip had been touched.

The meeting of Esau and Jacob

33 ¹Jacob looked up and saw that Esau was coming with four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel and the two maidservants. ²He then put the maidservants in front with their children, then Leah with her children and Rachel and Joseph last of all. ³He himself went on before them and bowed to the ground seven times until he came near his brother.

⁴Esau ran to meet him, took him in his arms, kissed him; and both wept. ⁵Esau looked up and seeing the women and the children said, "Who

Jacob's prayer does not show the resigned attitude characteristic of a believer, according to some. Praying does not consist only in accepting God's will as a thing written in advance in heaven, or in asking for the strength to accept it: praying consists also in putting pressure on God, confident in his promises and knowing that he listens to us. If we could not have some part in the divine decisions concerning us and the governing of the world, the Covenant would be a fraud.

At the crossroads of life, pressed between the possibilities of becoming stagnant or surpassing himself, the believer knows that God will bring him beyond if he asks for it with faith.

He dislocated his hip. Jacob faces God when, after a long exile, he wants to force his entrance into the Promised Land. In fact, to enter this Land is simply to enter into the mystery of God who wants to share his life with us, and this is impossible for the person who feels strong, sure of himself and of his ways. Therefore, when we are about to enter, God tests us. Whatever blow, or misfortune or crisis we may be going through, it leaves us wounded and like strangers in this world. Jacob enters the Promised Land with a limp because Jesus also keeps the Land for those who weep, those who thirst for justice, those who are not violent.

You will be called Israel. He does not lose the name of Jacob nor its meaning: the Activist, the Trickster. Yet at the same time he will be Israel: Strong with God. Jacob-Israel will be the name of the people of God. Throughout their history, Israel will never stop sinning and God will make them bend many times; yet, God will always allow himself to be conquered and he will forgive people when they remind him of his promises.

After Jacob's victory, events must be under God's plans. Esau does not oppose Jacob's return to the land of his ancestors.

the gate of their city and spoke to their fellow citizens, ²¹"These men are peaceful. Let them settle here and move around freely. The land is vast enough for them. We shall marry their daughters and give our daughters in marriage to them. ²²But on one condition will these men agree to live with us and become one people with us, and that is, that every male be as they are and be circumcised. ²³If we agree with them, their flocks, their possessions, their cattle will be ours. Let's do what they ask and they will settle with us." ²⁴All those who went out to the gate of the city agreed with Hamor and Shechem and every male was circumcised.

²⁵Three days later when they were still in pain, two of Jacob's sons, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, taking their swords, entered and took the town by surprise ²⁶and slew Hamor and Shechem and all the males. They took Dinah from Shechem's house and went off.

³⁰Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, "You have brought trouble on me, making me hateful to the people of this land, the Canaanites and the Perizzites. I have only a few men and if the others unite against me and attack me, I shall be destroyed, myself and my household. ³¹But their reply was, "Is it right for him to treat our sister as a prostitute?"

Jacob at Bethel

+35 ¹God said to Jacob, "Go up to Bethel and settle there. Build an altar there to God who appeared to you when you were fleeing from your brother Esau." ²Jacob said to his family and to all those who were with him, "Get rid of the foreign gods you have with you, purify yourselves and change your clothes. ³We will then go up to Bethel. There I will make an altar to God who helped me when I was in trouble and who was with me during my journey."

+ One cannot live one's faith in isolation; thus Jacob begins to form a community by first requiring that his people get rid of their idols: when they take this concrete and visible step which is a great sacrifice for them, they become the first community capable of giving witness to the world, of faith in the one God.

⁶When Jacob and all those with him came to Luz in Canaan – which is Bethel – ⁷he built an altar there and called the place El-bethel because it was there that God had shown himself to him when he was fleeing from his brother. ⁸At that time Rebekah's nurse, Deborah, died and was buried below Bethel near the oak. That is why it was called the Oak of Tears.

⁹God appeared again to Jacob when he arrived from Paddan-aram and blessed him ¹⁰and said to him, "Your name is Jacob, but no longer will you be called Jacob for Israel will be your name." ¹¹So he was called Israel. ¹²Then God said to him, "Be fruitful and grow in number! A nation or rather a group of nations will come from you. ¹³The land I gave to Abraham and Isaac I will give to you and to your descendants after you." ¹⁴Then God left him.

¹⁵Jacob called the place where God had spoken to him, Bethel.

¹⁶They moved on from Bethel and were still some distance from Ephrath when Rachel gave birth and the delivery was very difficult. ¹⁷When she was in great pain the midwife said to her, "Courage! For now you will have another son." ¹⁸And as she breathed her last – for she was dying – she called him Benoni (which means: son of my pain), but his father named him Benjamin. ¹⁹So Rachel died and was buried on the way to Ephrath – that is Bethlehem – ²⁰and Jacob placed a pillar over her tomb which marks the place of the tomb to this day.

²¹Israel journeyed on and pitched his tent beyond Migdal-eder. ²²While Israel was living in that region, it happened that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah, his father's concubine, and Israel heard of it.

The twelve sons of Jacob

■ Jacob had twelve sons. ²³By Leah:

■ We mentioned that the Bible preserves some memories of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in legends (see 11:16). Outside of those three, it has been proven that the other names such as Reuben, Simeon, Judah... are not referring to real people. Wandering tribes had their own way of recording the events of the past. They created

Reuben, Jacob's eldest son, then Simeon, Levi, Juda, Issachar and Zebulun. ²⁴ The sons by Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin. ²⁵ The sons by Bilhah, Rachel's slave girl: Dan and Naphtali. ²⁶ The sons by Zilpah, Leah's slave girl: Gad and Asher. These were the sons born to Jacob in Paddan-aram.

²⁷ Jacob came home to his father Isaac at Mamre or Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron) where Abraham and Isaac had lived. ²⁸ After living a hundred and eighty years. ²⁹ Isaac breathed his last and was gathered to his people at a good old age. His sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

Esau the father of the Edomites

36 ¹ These are the descendants of Esau, that is, Edom. Esau married women of Canaan: ² Adah, the daughter of Elon the Hittite, Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the son of Zibeon the Horite. ³ Basemath, the daughter of Ishmael and sister of Nebaioth. ⁴ Adah bore to Esau Eliphaz, Basemath bore Reuel. ⁵ Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jalam and Korah. These are the sons of Esau born to him in the land of Canaan.

¹⁰ These are the names of Esau's sons: Eliphaz the son of Adah, Esau's wife, and Reuel the son of Basemath, Esau's wife.

¹¹ The sons of Eliphaz were: Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam, Kenaz. ¹² Eliphaz son of Esau had Timna for concubine and she bore him

Amalek. These are the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.

¹³ These are the sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, Mizzah. These are the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

¹⁵ These are the chiefs of the sons of Esau.

The sons of Eliphaz, firstborn of Esau: chief Teman, chief Omar, chief Zepho, ¹⁶ chief Kenaz, chief Gatam, chief Amalek. These are the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom. These are the sons of Adah.

¹⁹ These are the sons of Esau. This is Edom and these are their chiefs.

stories in which each tribe was represented by a person of the same name. So, for example, if twelve tribes had merged into a single people: they would express that by saying that 12 ancestors with the names of those tribes, were the sons of only one father, Jacob-Israel! Moreover, as four of those tribes, those of Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah formed a different group from the tribes of Joseph and Benjamin, the members of the first group were considered to be the sons of Leah, one of Jacob's wives and the others, sons of Jacob's other wife, Rachel.

The story in chapter 34 refers to a violent episode when the tribes of Simeon and Levi were in conflict with the people of Shechem. (Shechem is a city, not a person). We must interpret what is said of "Laban, the Aramaean" (chapter 31) and of Judah and his sons (26:30 and 36:1) in a similar way.

This explains why, ever since ancient times, biblical experts have interpreted many things in the history of the patriarchs symbolically.

Twelve tribes made up the people of Israel and they always wanted to remember this number which was considered sacred (see chapter 48). Jesus will later remember this ancient structure of the people of God when he establishes his church as the new people of God and chooses twelve apostles to lead it.

37 ¹ Jacob lived in the land where his father had settled, in the land of Canaan. ² This is the history of Jacob's family.

Joseph and his brothers

o Joseph, a young man of seventeen, was shepherding the flock with his brothers, the sons of Bilhah and the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives. Joseph informed his father of the bad reputation they had. ³ Now Israel loved Joseph more than any of his other children, for he was the son of his old age and he had a coat with long sleeves made for him. ⁴ His brothers who saw that their father loved him more than he loved them, hated him and could no longer speak to him in a friendly way.

⁵ Joseph had a dream which, when he told it to his brothers, made them hate him the more: ⁶ "Listen to the dream I had. ⁷ We were binding sheaves in the field when my sheaf rose and stood up and your sheaves gathered round and bowed down to my sheaf." ⁸ His brothers said to him, "So you want to rule us or lord it over us!" They hated him even more because of his dreams and what he said.

⁹ Joseph had another dream which he told to his brothers, "I saw the sun, the moon and seven stars bowing down before me." ¹⁰ When he told this to his father and brothers his father rebuked him, "What is this dream of yours? Are all of us, myself, your mother and your brothers to bow to the ground before you?" ¹¹ His brothers were jealous of him but his father kept in mind what he had said.

Joseph sold by his brothers

+ ¹² His brothers had gone to pasture their father's flock at Shechem, ¹³ and Israel said to Joseph, "Your brothers are pasturing the flock at Shechem; come along, I'll send you to them." Joseph replied, "Here I am." ¹⁴ Then his father said, "Go and see if all is well with your brothers and with the flock; then come back and tell me." Jacob sent him from the valley of Hebron and Joseph arrived at Schechem.

8. Ex 2, 14; 1 S 10, 27; Ps 118, 22; Lk 19, 14

11. Dn 7, 28; Lk 2, 19

o The story of Joseph begins here and continues until the end of Genesis as a kind of transition between the Patriarchs and the events of Exodus which follow.

Joseph, next to the last of Jacob's sons, is shown as the most important of the twelve brothers. The dreams of the young Joseph tell us that what will happen to him will not be pure coincidence, but rather will serve God's plans: through him God will save the whole family.

The long and moving story of Joseph, who is sold by his brothers and then becomes their saviour, is the first image of the Passion, Death and Resurrection of Christ in the Bible.

Jacob loved him for he was a child of his old age: The son most loved and also the most delicate. Among his crude and unscrupulous brothers, Joseph shows nobility: from his youth this child of shepherds reveals that a great future awaits him.

¹⁵A man met him as he was wandering through the countryside and said to him, "What are you looking for?" ¹⁶He replied, "I'm looking for my brothers, please tell me where they are pasturing the flock." ¹⁷The man said, "They have gone from here, for I heard them say: Let's go to Dothan!" So Joseph went off after his brothers and found them at Dothan.

¹⁸They saw him in the distance and before he reached them, they plotted to kill him. ¹⁹They said to one another, "Here comes the specialist in dreams! ²⁰Now's the time! Let's kill him and throw him into a well. We'll say a wild animal devoured him. Then we'll see what his dreams were all about!" ²¹But Reuben heard this and tried to save him from their hands ²²saying, "Let us not kill him; shed no blood! Throw him in this well in the wilderness, but do him no violence." This he said to save him from them and take him back to his father.

²³So as soon as Joseph arrived, they stripped him of his long-sleeved coat that he wore ²⁴and then took him and threw him in the well. Now the well was empty, without water.

²⁵They were sitting for a meal when they looked up and saw a caravan of Ishmaelites coming from Gilead, their camels laden with spices, balm and myrrh, which they were taking down to Egypt. ²⁶Judah then said to his brothers, "What do we gain by killing our brother and hiding his blood?" ²⁷Come! We'll sell him to the Ishmaelites and not lay our hands on him, for he is our brother and our own flesh!" His brothers agreed to this.

²⁸So when the Midianite merchants came along they pulled Joseph up and lifted him out of the well. For twenty pieces of silver they sold Joseph to the Midianites, who took him with them to Egypt. ²⁹When Reuben went back to the well, Joseph was no longer there. He tore his clothes ³⁰and returned to his brothers and said, "The boy has disappeared, and what am I to do?"

³¹They then took Joseph's coat, killed a goat and dipped the coat in its blood. ³²They sent the long-sleeved coat and had it taken to their father, saying, "This we have found; see if it is your son's coat or not." ³³He recognized it and said, "It is my son's coat. Joseph has been attacked by a wild animal and torn to pieces." ³⁴Jacob then tore his garments, put on sackcloth and mourned his son for a long time. ³⁵All his sons and daughters came to comfort him but he refused to be consoled saying, "No, I shall go down to the land of Shadows, mourning for my son." Thus his father wept for him.

³⁶Meanwhile the Midianites sold Joseph in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and the commander of the guard.

The story of Judah and Tamar

◆ 38 ¹It happened at this time that Judah left his brothers and went to stay with an Adullamite by the name of Hirah. ²There Judah saw the daughter of a Canaanite called Shua. He married her ³and she gave

Two of the twelve tribes stand out: the tribe of Judah and that of Joseph. See the commentary on Joshua 13 on this subject. That is why the traditions about the "patriarchs," or fathers, mention especially these two sons of Jacob.

+ Envy in brothers reaches madness and crime. God lets the brothers follow opposite paths, some good, others evil but that does not mean that those who are "good" abandon and forget those following "evil" ways. Joseph will save his brothers.

◆ In the following event, the patriarch Judah does not appear in a very favorable role according to our Christian ideas. Yet, in those days of very primitive customs and morality, the Bible does not insist so much on the aspect of sexual birth to a son whom he called Er. ⁴ She had another child and called him Onan. ⁵ And then she had a third child whom she called Shelah. She was at Chezib when she gave birth to him.

¹⁵ Judah saw her and as her face was veiled he took her for a prostitute. ¹⁶ He went over to her on the roadside and said, "Allow me to sleep with you," for he didn't know she was his daughter-in-law. She asked, "What will you give me to sleep with you?" ¹⁷ He said, "I will send you a kid from my flock." She replied, "Will you give me a pledge till you send it?" ¹⁸ "What pledge shall I give you?" he asked.

She answered, "Give me your seal, your cord and the staff in your hand." So he gave them to her and slept with her; ¹⁹ then she rose and left him and, taking off her veil, she put on her widow's clothes. And she became pregnant.

²⁰ When Judah sent the kid by his friend, the Adullamite, to recover the pledge from the woman, he did not find her. ²¹ So he questioned the local people, "Where is the prostitute who was by the road at Enaim?" "There has been no prostitute there," they said. ²² He returned to Judah and said, "I didn't find her and even the local people said that there was no prostitute there." ²³ Judah then said, "Let her keep it all for herself lest the people finally laugh at us. At least I sent her the kid even if you didn't find her."

morality, but rather on the duty to have sons so that God's promises to their ancestors could become effective.

Onan's sin consists in having refused to father a son who, later, would not belong to him (see Ruth 3:7 about the obligation to give a child to the widow of one's brother).

Tamar's nobility lies in her determination, by all means, to have a son who would bear the name of her first husband, Er, and who would, therefore be Judah's heir. It is rare for women to figure in the Bible, but when they do appear, it is often to give men a lesson in being human. Here, after the event by which Tamar enters into his life, Judah begins to reflect, which is something new for him.

Tamar appears in the list of the ancestors of Jesus (Mt 1:3).

■ After his misfortune Joseph behaves as a model of honesty, faithfulness and perseverance. In the Bible, he is the first of the humiliated, just ones who look to God for their reward.

In the Bible there were many liberators and saviours before the coming of the Son of God, the Saviour. They were all tested before succeeding and many were despised by their people.

The story about Joseph and Potiphar's wife is a lesson in genuine manliness. The Bible views faithfulness and respect for marriage as one of the virtues of authentic men.

Pharaoh, commander of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him from the Ismaelites who had brought him there. ²Yahweh blessed Joseph while he lived in the house of his master, the Egyptian, and everything went right for him.

Now Joseph was a handsome man and well-built. ⁷After some time his master's wife kept noticing him and said, "Sleep with me." ⁸But he refused and said to her, "With me in charge, my master has no concern about anything in the house and has entrusted to me all that he has. ⁹He is no more master in this house than I am and he refuses me nothing, except yourself, of course, because you are his wife. How then could I do such an evil thing and sin against God?" ¹⁰Now although day after day she spoke to Joseph, he would not agree to sleep with her or give himself to her.

¹¹It happened that one day, when he entered the house to attend to his duties, none of the servants were in the house. ¹²Then Potiphar's wife caught hold of Joseph by his cloak saying, "Come to bed with me." But Joseph left his cloak in her hands and ran out of the house. ¹³As soon as he had run out of the house, ¹⁴she called her servants and said, "Look, a Hebrew has been brought here to make fun of us; he came here to lie with me; so I screamed ¹⁵and when he heard me scream he left his cloak with me and ran out of the house." ¹⁶Then she kept the cloak by her until the master came home. ¹⁷She then told her story, "That Hebrew slave of yours came to make sport of me ¹⁸but when I screamed, he left his cloak with me and ran out of the house."

¹⁹When his master heard what his wife told him, "This is how your servant treated me," he blazed with anger. ²⁰He took Joseph and put him in the Royal Prison where the king's prisoners were kept. But while Joseph was in prison ²¹Yahweh was with him and showed him kindness so that he was well-liked by the warden of the prison. ²²The warden put him in charge of all the prisoners and made him responsible for all that was done there. ²³The warden did not interfere with anything that was under Joseph's care, because Yahweh was with him and gave him success in everything he did.

Joseph interprets the dreams

40 ¹Some time after this it happened that the cupbearer of the king of Egypt, who prepared the drinks for Pharaoh, and his chief baker, offended their lord. ²Pharaoh was angry with his two officers ³and put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, in the prison where Joseph was kept. ⁴So the captain of the guard appointed Joseph to attend to their needs, for they were under arrest for some time.

⁵One night both of them dreamed, each one his own dream, and each dream had its own meaning. As the two officers were with Joseph in custody in his master's house, ⁶when Joseph came to them the next morning, he saw that they were troubled. ⁷So he questioned them, "Why do you look sad today?" ⁸They answered, "Both of us have had a dream, but there is no one to interpret them." Then Joseph said to them, "Is it not God who interprets dreams? Tell me what they were."

there were three branches. As it grew and flowered, its clusters ripened into grapes. ¹¹ Pharaoh's cup was in my hand and I took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup and placed the cup in his hand."

¹² Joseph said to him, "Here's the interpretation: the three branches are three days. ¹³ Within three days Pharaoh will release you and restore you to your office and you will place Pharaoh's cup in his hand as before when you were his cupbearer. ¹⁴ But when things go well with you, remember me and be kind enough to speak my name to Pharaoh and get me out of this place, ¹⁵ for I was, in fact, kidnapped from the land of the Hebrews and even here I have done nothing to deserve imprisonment."

¹⁶ The chief baker, seeing that the interpretation was favourable, said to Joseph, "In my dream I had on my head three baskets of cakes. ¹⁷ In the top basket there were all kinds of baked food for Pharaoh, but the birds were eating it from the basket above my head." ¹⁸ Joseph said, "The three baskets are three days, ¹⁹ and before three days have passed Pharaoh will take off your head and hang you on a tree and the birds will eat your flesh."

²⁰ It so happened that on the third day, Pharaoh's birthday, he made a feast for all his officers and remembered the chief cupbearer and the chief baker. ²¹ The cupbearer was restored to his office and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand; ²² but the chief baker was hanged, as Joseph had interpreted to them.

The dreams of Pharaoh

+ 41 ¹After two whole years Pharaoh dreamed that he was standing by the Nile ²when seven cows, sleek and fat, were coming up from the Nile and beginning to feed among the rushes. ³Behind them came seven other cows, lean and scraggy that stood beside the cows already there. ⁴These devoured the sleek and fat cows. Then Pharaoh awoke.

⁵He fell asleep again and had a second dream. He saw growing on one stalk seven ears of corn that were full and ripe. ⁶And after these, there sprouted seven more ears of corn that were small and scorched by the east wind. ⁷Now the small ears of corn swallowed the plump and ripe ones. Then Pharaoh awoke.

⁸In the morning he was uneasy and called all the magicians and wise men in Egypt. He told his dreams to them but not one among them was able to interpret his dreams. ⁹Then the chief cupbearer spoke to Pharaoh, "This reminds me of my wrongs. ¹⁰Pharaoh was angry with his servants and had me put in custody in the house of the captain of the guard and with me the chief baker. ¹¹Once on the same night we both had a dream, each with its own meaning. ¹²With us was a young Hebrew, a servant of the captain of the guard. When we told him our dreams he interpreted them giving to each one its own meaning. ¹³What he interpreted for us happened. I was restored to my office and the chief baker was hanged."

¹⁴Pharaoh then had Joseph summoned. They took him quickly from the prison, shaved him, changed his clothes and he presented himself to Pharaoh. ¹⁵Then Pharaoh addressed him, "I have had a dream which no one can explain; now I have heard that when you hear a dream you are able to interpret it." ¹⁶Joseph replied, "It's not I but God who will give Pharaoh a favourable answer." ¹⁷Pharaoh then began telling his dream.

"I was beside the Nile ¹⁸when seven fine cows, sleek and fat, came up from the river and began to feed in the rushes. ¹⁹Then seven other cows came up behind them. These were poor, scraggy and lean. I had never seen any so ugly

+ These dreams and the events accompanying them give us a vivid picture of the drama that Egypt was undergoing with rains, irrigation and droughts. Hebrew tradition credits Joseph for organizing the storage of surplus grain in Egypt with a view to the drought. Joseph's faithfulness and the fact that God never failed him are emphasized.

in all the land of Egypt. ²⁰ The thin, gaunt cows ate up the seven fat cows, ²¹ but after eating them, it was as if they had not eaten them at all because they remained as lean and scraggy as they were before. And then I woke. ²² I also saw in my dream seven ears of corn growing on one stalk, full and ripe. ²³ Then, after them, there sprouted seven ears of corn that were hard and small and withered by the east wind. ²⁴ The withered ears of corn swallowed the good ears. I told this to the magicians but none of them could explain its meaning."

²⁵ Then Joseph said, "Pharaoh's dream is one and the same. Yahweh has just revealed to Pharaoh what he will do. ²⁶ The seven fat cows are seven years and the seven good ears as well. It's one dream! ²⁷ The seven lean cows coming after them are seven years as are the seven withered ears of corn scorched by the east wind, and they are seven years of famine. ²⁸ As I said to Pharaoh, God is revealing to him what he is about to do. ²⁹ There will be seven years of plenty throughout the land of Egypt, ³⁰ but they will be followed by seven years of famine. Then the time of abundance will be forgotten and famine will exhaust the land. ³¹ So severe will the famine be that no one will remember the time of plenty."

³² If the dream has been repeated twice for Pharaoh it is because God has so determined and will soon make it happen. ³³ Now it is for Pharaoh to choose an intelligent and wise man and set him over the land of Egypt. Pharaoh could have supervisors in the land and could levy a tax of one fifth of the produce of the land during the seven years of plenty. ³⁵ They must gather up all the food of these productive years that are coming and, by the authority of Pharaoh, store grain for food in the towns and keep it. ³⁶ This food will be a reserve for the seven years of famine coming to the land of Egypt so that the people will not die."

Joseph, the head minister

³⁷ The proposal of Joseph pleased Pharaoh and his ministers, and Pharaoh asked them, ³⁸ "Where shall we find such a man possessed with the spirit of God?" ³⁹ And to Joseph he said, "Since it is to you that God has made known all this, there can be no one as intelligent and wise as you. ⁴⁰ You shall be over my house, and all my people will obey your orders. Only I myself will be greater than you."

⁴¹ So Pharaoh said to Joseph, "See, I have put you in charge of the whole land of Egypt." ⁴² He then took the signet ring from his finger and put it on Joseph's finger. He clothed him in fine linen and put a gold chain around his neck. ⁴³ He had him ride in the chariot that was second only to his and they cried out before him. "Make way." Thus he was put in charge of the whole land of Egypt.

⁴⁴ Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh! Without your consent no one is to raise hand or foot in the whole land of Egypt." ⁴⁵ Pharaoh named Joseph Zaphenath-paneah and gave him in marriage Asenath, the daughter of Potiphera, priest of On. After that Joseph travelled throughout the land of Egypt. ⁴⁶ Joseph was thirty years old when he was summoned to the presence of Pharaoh, King of Egypt. After taking his leave of Pharaoh he journeyed through the entire land of Egypt.

⁵¹Joseph called the first Manasseh, for he said, "God has made me forget all my hardship and all my father's house."⁵²He called the second by the name of Ephraim, for he said, "God has given me children in the land of my sorrow."

⁵³When the seven years of plenty throughout the land of Egypt came to an end, ⁵⁴the seven years of famine began as Joseph had foretold. There was famine in all the countries but bread was to be had in every part of Egypt. ⁵⁵When the land of Egypt began to suffer from the famine, the people came to Pharaoh for bread. But Pharaoh told all the Egyptians, "Go to Joseph and do as he tells you."

⁵⁶When the famine had spread throughout the land, Joseph opened all the storehouses and sold grain to the Egyptians for the famine was indeed severe over the land. ⁵⁷As the famine had worsened throughout the whole world, people came from other countries to buy grain from Joseph.

The sons of Jacob go down to Egypt

o 42 ¹When Jacob heard there was wheat in Egypt he said to his sons, "Why do you stand looking at one another? ²I've heard there is grain in Egypt, so go down and buy some for us so that we may stay alive and not die!" ³Joseph's brothers – ten of them – went down to Egypt to buy wheat ⁴but Jacob did not send Benjamin, Joseph's brother, for he said, "Something might happen to him."

⁵So the sons of Israel were among those going to buy grain, for there was famine in Canaan. ⁶It was Joseph, as governor of the land, who sold the grain to all the people. When his brothers arrived they bowed before him, with their faces to the ground. ⁷Joseph recognized his brothers but did not make himself known and, instead, said harshly to them, "Where do you come from?" And they answered, "We come from the land of Canaan to buy grain for food."

⁸Joseph had recognized his brothers but they had not recognize him. ⁹And he remembered the dreams he once had concerning them. He told them, "You are spies, and it is to discover the weak points of the land that you have come." ¹⁰They said, "No, my lord, your servants have come to buy grain for food. ¹¹We are all sons of the same man. We are honest men; your servants are not spies."¹²Joseph replied, "No, it is to find out the weak points of the country that you have come." ¹³They said, "Your servants are twelve brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; the youngest is today with our father and the other is no more." ¹⁴But Joseph insisted, "It's just as I said, you are spies!" ¹⁵And this will be proved. By the life of Pharaoh you will not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. ¹⁶One of you is to go and fetch your brother. The others will be imprisoned while I verify whether you are telling the truth. If not, then as true as Pharaoh lives, you are spies." ¹⁷And so he put them all in prison for three days.

¹⁸On the third day Joseph said to them, "I will help you to save yourselves, for I am a man who fears God. ¹⁹If you are sincere, let one of your brothers remain prisoner in the house of the guard where you now are, and the rest of you take the grain to save your families from famine. ²⁰Then you will bring back your youngest brother; so the truth of what you say will be proved and your lives spared." They did as they were ordered ²¹and said among themselves, "Alas! We are guilty because of the way we treated our brother when he pleaded with us for mercy, but we didn't listen. That is why this trouble has come upon us."

²²Reuben answered them, "Didn't I tell you not to sin against the boy, but you did not listen and now we are brought to account for his blood." ²³Now they did not know that Joseph understood them as there was an interpreter between them. ²⁴As for Joseph, he withdrew and wept. When he came back, he spoke to them and took Simeon and had him bound and put in prison while they looked on.

³⁰"The man who is governor of the country spoke harshly to us and treated us as spies, but we said: 'We are honest men, not spies. We were twelve brothers, sons of the same father; one is no more and the youngest is with our father in the land of Canaan.' ³³Then the man who is lord of the land said: By this I will know if you are honest. Leave one of your brothers here; take grain to save your families from the famine and go. ³⁴Bring back your youngest brother and let me see you are not spies but honest men. Then I shall release your brother and you can trade in the land."

³⁵Now, when they emptied their sacks, each one found his money bag in his sack. When they saw this, they were afraid and their father as well. ³⁶Jacob their father said to them, "You are taking my children from me. Joseph has gone; Simeon has gone and now you are taking Benjamin. I have all this to bear!"

³⁷Then Reuben said to his father, "You may have the lives of my two sons if I do not bring him back to you. Entrust him to me and I shall see that he comes back." ³⁸But Jacob said, "My son will not go with you, for his brother is dead and he alone is left. If he were to meet with some misfortune on the way, you would send my grey head to the land of Shadows in sorrow."

The second journey to Egypt

43 ¹Now the lack of food was severe in the land, ²and when they had eaten the grain they brought from Egypt, their father said to them, "Go down again and buy us a little food." ³But Judah said to him, "The man solemnly warned us that our brother had to come with us. ⁴If you send our brother with us, we will go down and buy food for you; ⁵but if you don't send him, we will not go, for the man said: You will not be admitted to my presence if your brother is not with you." ⁶Israel then said, "Why did you bring this misery on me by letting the man know you have another brother?" ⁷They replied, "The man questioned us carefully about ourselves and our kinsfolk saying: 'Is your father still alive? Have you another brother?' And so we answered these questions. Could we have known that he would tell us to bring our brother?"

⁸Judah then said to Israel his father, "Send the boy with me. Let us go so that we, you and our children may live and not die. ⁹I will guarantee his safety. If I do not bring him back and set him here before you, I will bear the blame forever. ¹⁰If we hadn't delayed for so long we could have been there and back twice over."

¹¹Israel their father said to them, "If it must be so, then do this: take some choice products of the land in your bags and a gift for the man – some balm, a little honey, gum, myrrh, pistachio nuts and almonds. ¹²Take double the money with you and you will repay what was put in your sacks; it may have been a mistake. ¹³Take your brother and go back to the man. ¹⁴May God Almighty grant you mercy in his presence, so that he will allow you to bring back your other brother and Benjamin. As for myself if I am bereaved of my children, then bereaved I shall have to be."

¹⁵The men took the gift and the double amount of money as well. And taking Benjamin they set off and went down to Egypt and were admitted to the presence of Joseph.

¹⁶When Joseph saw that Benjamin was with them, he said to his steward, "Bring these men to my house. Have an animal slaughtered and a meal prepared, for these men will eat with me at noon." ¹⁷The steward did as Joseph directed and brought the men to Joseph's house.

¹⁸They were afraid and said to each other, "It's because of the money that was placed in our sacks the last time, that we are brought in. He wants to attack and overpower us and have us as slaves and take our donkeys."

¹⁹So they approached Joseph's steward and spoke to him at the door of the house. ²⁰"By your leave, sir, we came down here the first time to buy food, ²¹and when we reached a lodging place and opened our sacks, we found in the mouth of the sacks each one's money to the full weight. We have brought it back with us ²²as well as additional money to buy food. We don't know who put the money in our sacks." ²³The steward said, "Be at peace! Don't be afraid. Your God, the God of your father put a treasure in your grain sacks. Your money reached me safely." He then brought Simeon out to them.

²⁶When Joseph came into the house, they offered him the gift they had with them and bowed to the ground before him. ²⁷He asked them how they were and said, "Is your father well, the old man you spoke about? Is he still alive?" ²⁸They answered, "Your servant our father is well and is still alive." ²⁹He looked up and saw his brother Benjamin, the son of his own mother, and said, "Is this your youngest brother, the one you told me about?" And he added, "God be good to you, my son!" ³⁰So deeply moved was Joseph, on seeing his brother, that he wanted to cry and went out quickly and wept in his own private room. ³¹After he had washed his face and come out, controlling himself, he said, "Serve the meal." ³²He was served separately and so were they, and the Egyptians as well, for the Egyptians cannot share a meal with Hebrews; for the Egyptians this would be a shame.³³ They were seated opposite him in the order of their ages from the eldest to the youngest and they looked at each other in astonishment.

³⁴ Joseph had portions from his own dish taken to them and Benjamin's portion was five times more than that of the others. So they feasted with him and were happy.

Joseph's cup in Benjamin's sack

44 ¹ Now Joseph gave this order to his steward. "Fill the men's sacks with as much food as they can carry and put back each man's silver in the mouth of his sack.² and put my cup, the silver cup with the money for the grain in the sack of the youngest." The steward did as Joseph had directed.

⁶ When he caught up with them he repeated these words.⁷ They said to him, "Why does my lord speak like that? Far be it from your servants to do such a thing."⁸ The money we found in the mouths of our sacks, we brought back to you from the land of Canaan! How then could we have stolen silver or gold from your lord's house?⁹ If one of your servants is found with the object, he will die and we too will become my lord's slaves."¹⁰ "Very well then," he said, "it will be as you say. The one who is found to have the cup will become my master's slave; the rest of you will go free."¹¹ Then each one quickly lowered his sack to the ground and opened it.¹² And he searched, beginning with the eldest and ending with the youngest. And the cup was found in Benjamin's sack.¹³ Then they tore their clothes and, reloading their donkeys, they returned to the city.

¹⁴ Joseph was still in the house when Judah and his brothers returned and they threw themselves on the ground before him.¹⁵ Joseph said to them, "What have you done? Didn't you know that a man such as I am is able to divine?"

²³ You then told us that if our youngest brother did not come with us, we would not be admitted to your presence.²⁴ All this we said to our father on returning there.²⁵ So when he told us to come back and buy a little food,²⁶ we said: 'We cannot go down again unless our youngest brother is with us. We shall not be admitted to the lord's presence unless our brother is with us.'²⁷ Then my father said: 'You know that my wife had two children. ²⁸ One went away from me and has surely been torn to pieces since I have not seen him any more. ²⁹ If you take this one from me and something happens to him you will bring my gray hair in sorrow to the grave.' ³⁰ Now I can't return to my father without the boy, for my father loves him very much. If he sees that the boy is not there, ³¹ he will die and we will have sent the gray hairs of our father in sorrow to the grave.

³² Now I, your servant, guaranteed the boy's safety and said to my father: 'If I do not bring him back, I will bear the blame before you all my life.' ³³ So now let me take the place of the boy and stay here as slave and let the boy go with his brothers, ³⁴ for I can't return to my father without the boy. Do not let me see the misery that would be too much for my father."

Joseph reveals himself

45 ¹ Now Joseph could no longer control his feelings in the presence of all those standing by and he called out, "Leave my presence, everyone!" And only his brothers were with him when Joseph made himself known to them. ² He wept so loudly that the Egyptians heard and the news spread through Pharaoh's house.

³ Joseph said to his brothers, "I am Joseph. Is my father still alive?" And his brothers could not answer because they were terrified at seeing him. ⁴ Joseph said, "Come closer," and they drew nearer. "I am Joseph your brother, yes, it's me, the one you sold to the Egyptians. ⁵ Now don't grieve and reproach yourselves for selling me, because God has sent me before you to save your lives. ⁶ It's two years since famine has been in the land and there will be another five years without tilling and without harvest. ⁷ God has sent me ahead of you to make our race survive there and to save many of you. ⁸ So it was not you but God who sent me here, and made me a father to Pharaoh and lord of his household, and ruler also of all the land of Egypt. ⁹ Go back quickly to my father and say to him: 'Joseph your son sends you this message: God has made me lord of all Egypt; so come down to me without delay; ¹⁰ you shall live in the land of Goshen and you shall be near me, you, your children and grandchildren, your flocks and your herds, all that you have. ¹¹ And there I will provide for you (for there will be five more years of famine) lest you and your household and all who belong to you, be in need. ¹² Now you can see for yourselves, and your brother Benjamin can see that it is I myself who speak to you. ¹³ You will tell my father of the glory I have in Egypt and of all that you have seen. Go quickly and bring my father down here."

¹⁷ Pharaoh told Joseph, "Let your brothers load their beasts, return to the land of Canaan ¹⁸ and bring their father and their families back to me. I will give you the best of the land of Egypt and you will enjoy the fat of the land! ¹⁹ As for yourself give them this order: Take wagons from the land of Egypt for your little ones and for your wives; get your father and come! ²⁰ Never mind the things you leave there, for the best in all Egypt is yours!

told him: "Joseph is alive and he is the ruler of all Egypt!" Jacob was stunned for he could not believe them.²⁷ But they told him all that Joseph had said and showed him the wagons that Joseph had sent to carry him. Then Jacob's spirit revived and he said,²⁸ "It's enough, my son Joseph is alive; I will go and see him before I die."

Jacob goes down to Egypt

+46 Israel left with all he owned and reached Beersheba where he offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac.² God spoke to Israel in visions that he had during the night. "Jacob! Jacob!" "Here I am, he said."³ "I am God, the God of your father. Do not be afraid to go to Egypt, for there I will make you into a great nation."⁴ "I will go with you to Egypt and I will bring you back again and Joseph's hand will close your eyes."

Reuben, Jacob's firstborn,⁹ and the sons of Reuben: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.¹⁰ The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, whose mother was a Canaanite.¹¹ The sons of Levi: Gershon, Canath, and Merari.¹² The sons of Judah: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah (but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan); and the sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul.¹³ The sons of Issachar: Tola, Puvah, Job, and Shimron.¹⁴ The sons of Zebulun: Sered, Elon, and Ahilel.¹⁵ These are the sons of Leah, Jacob's wife, who were born in Paddan-aram, together with his daughter Dinah; altogether his sons and his daughters numbered thirty-three.¹⁶ The sons of Gad: Ziphion, Haggai, Jumi, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Areli.¹⁷ The sons of Asher: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriath, with their sister. And the sons of Beriath: Jeber and Malchiel.¹⁸ These are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter; and Jacob was their father—sixteen persons.¹⁹ The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife: Joseph and Benjamin.²⁰ And to Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, whose mother was Asenath, the daughter of Potiphera, the priest of On.²¹ And the sons of Benjamin: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim, and Ard.²² (these are the sons of Rachel—fourteen persons).²³ The sons of Dan: Hushim.²⁴ The sons of Naphtali: Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem.²⁵ (these are the sons of Bilhah whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, and Jacob was their father—seven persons in all).

²⁶ The total number of all the persons who came to Egypt with Jacob, all who were of his own blood, not counting the wives of his sons, was sixty-six.²⁷ With the two sons born to Joseph in Egypt, the total number of Jacob's household that came to Egypt was seventy.

Jacob meets Joseph

³¹ After that Joseph said to his brothers and all his father's family, "I will go and give the news to Pharaoh and tell him that my brothers and my father's family who were in the land of Canaan have come to me.³² I will also tell him that you are shepherds, keeping livestock, and have brought your flocks and cattle and all your belongings."³³ So when Pharaoh summons you and says: "What is your occupation?"³⁴ you will say: "Your servants keep flocks and herds: it has been so since our youth, and for our fathers before us." Then you will settle in the land of Goshen, for the Egyptians detest all shepherds."

47 Joseph went and told Pharaoh. "My father and brothers with their sheep and cattle and all their possessions have come from the land of Canaan to Goshen."² He then presented five of his brothers to Pharaoh.³ Pharaoh asked, "What are your occupations?"

with their flocks and which God had promised to them. They are going to remain in Egypt for several centuries until Moses leads them back to the land of the promises. This long delay was part of God's plan.

and they replied, "Your servants are shepherds as were our fathers before us.⁴ We have come to settle in the land for there is no more pasture for our sheep, so severe is the famine in the land of Canaan. And now we pray you, may we stay in the land of Goshen?"⁵ Pharaoh then spoke to Joseph, "Your father and your brothers have come to you.⁶ The land of Egypt is before you; let your father and brothers settle in the best part; let them settle in Goshen, and if among them there are capable men, put them in charge of my cattle."

The sons of Jacob in Egypt

⁷ Joseph brought in Jacob his father and presented him to Pharaoh^{*} who then asked him, "How old are you?"⁸ Jacob replied, "The years of my wanderings are one hundred and thirty. Brief and difficult have been the years of my life, and not as many as those of my fathers."⁹ Then Jacob blessed Pharaoh and withdrew from his presence.

¹¹ So Joseph had his father and brothers settled giving them property in the best part of Egypt, in the land of Rameses as Pharaoh had commanded. ¹² Joseph provided his father, his brothers and his father's entire household with food according to the number of their dependents.

■ ¹³ Now so severe was the famine that no bread was to be had in all the land. Both Egypt and Canaan were exhausted because of the famine. ¹⁴ Joseph then collected all the money that had been given to buy bread in the lands of Egypt and Canaan. All this money Joseph took to Pharaoh's house.

¹⁵ When all the money of the people of Egypt and Canaan had gone, all Egypt came to Joseph saying, "Give us bread! Why must we die before your eyes, for want of money?" ¹⁶ Joseph told them, "Give me your cattle to pay for bread since you have no money." ¹⁷ So they brought their livestock and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for their horses, sheep and cattle and even their donkeys. In what way he supplied them with food for that year.

¹⁸ The following year they came again to him and said, "We will not hide from our lord that all our money has gone and that our cattle now belongs to you. All that is left to us are our persons and our land. ¹⁹ Why should we die while you look on, ourselves and our land? So buy us and our land for bread; we shall be in bondage to you and Pharaoh. Give us grain that we may live and not die and our land remain desolate."

²⁰ So it was that Joseph acquired all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; all the Egyptians sold their fields, so cruelly hard-pressed were they by the famine. Pharaoh became owner of the land²¹ and Joseph reduced the people to servitude from one end of Egypt to the other.²² Only the land of the priests he did not buy, because by a decree of Pharaoh they lived on what has been given to them by Pharaoh. For that reason they did not sell the land that belonged to them.

²³ Then Joseph said to the people, "Now that I have bought you and your land for Pharaoh, here is seed for you to sow the land. ²⁴ At harvest time you will give a fifth to Pharaoh, and four fifths will be yours for seed for sowing, for food for yourselves and your families." ²⁵ They said, "You have saved our lives. If it please my lord, we shall be Pharaoh's serfs." ²⁶ So Joseph introduced a statute that remains to this day, whereby a fifth of the produce goes to Pharaoh. Only the land of the priests did not become Pharaoh's.

²⁸ Jacob lived for one hundred and forty-seven years, seventeen of them in the land of Egypt.

²⁹ When his life was drawing to a close he called for his son Joseph and said to him, "If you wish to be faithful and kind to me, place your hand under my thigh and promise me that you will not bury me in Egypt!" ³⁰ But when I rest with my fathers, carry me out of Egypt and bury me in their tomb." Joseph said, "I will do as you say." ³¹ Jacob insisted, "Swear to it!" He swore to him and Israel fell back on his pillow.

◆ 48 ¹ Some time later, when Joseph was told that his father was ill, he took with him his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim. ² So they told Jacob that Joseph his son had come. Then Israel, mustering his strength, sat up in bed.

■ In Egypt, the land belonged to the Pharaoh: a very strict administration allowed him to require part of the crop from all the farmers. Here this administration is attributed to Joseph.

³ And he said to Joseph, "God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the land of Canaan and blessed me ⁴ saying, 'I will make you fruitful and increase your number, and I will make of you a group of nations, and I will give this land to you and to your descendants after you as an everlasting possession.' ⁵ From now on your two sons who were born in Egypt, before I came to you here, are mine! Ephraim and Manasseh shall be mine just as Reuben and Simeon are mine. ⁶ Only the children born after them will be yours and the land they inherit shall be known by the names of Ephraim and Manasseh. ⁷ When I was returning from Paddan, to my sorrow Rachel died on the journey at some distance from Ephrath, and I buried her there on the way to Ephrath, that is Bethlehem."

²⁰ He blessed them that day in these words: "Through you Israel will bestow this blessing: May God make you like Ephraim and Manasseh!"

So he placed Ephraim ahead of Manasseh. ²¹ Then Israel said to Joseph, "I am going to die. God will be with you and he will bring you back to the land of your fathers. ²² And to you, over and above what goes to your brothers, I give a mountain slope that I took from the Amorites with my sword and my bow."

The blessing of Jacob

o 49 ¹ Jacob then called his sons and said,

² "Gather round, sons of Jacob. And listen to your father Israel!"

Manasseh will be considered as two sons of Jacob to replace Joseph. Jacob's blessing, like the blessing of Isaac, his father, goes to the younger son and not to the elder. God favours whom he wishes, and is not bound to regard the right of succession, or the parents' wishes.

o Jacob's blessings do not go to his sons but to the twelve tribes bearing their names. The future destiny of these tribes will vary greatly. Jacob's blessing is a way of saying that these destinies were known to God beforehand and that they were part of his plan of salvation which benefits everyone, but does not give the same gift to everyone.

The two tribes of Judah and Joseph stand out. For Judah there is a prophecy that his tribe will dominate the others until the coming of the Saviour "the one who will be in charge." In fact, the kings of the people of God, and after them, Jesus himself, will come from the tribe of Judah. Judah then becomes the one who receives the promises made to Abraham and Jacob.

The prophecy for Joseph deals with greatness and material prosperity.

Your father's sons shall bow before you.

You return from the prey, my son!

Like a lion he stoops and crouches, and like a lioness, who dares to rouse

The death and funeral of Jacob

²⁸ These are all the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is what his father said when he blessed them, giving each one a special and appropriate blessing. ²⁹ He then gave them these instructions: "I am soon to be gathered to my people; bury me near my fathers, in the cave in the field of Ephron, the Hittite; ³⁰ in the cave in the field of Machpelah, to the east of Mamre in Canaan, the field that Abraham bought from Ephron the Hittite as a burial place. ³¹ It was there that Abraham and his wife Sarah were buried. There they buried Leah. ³² The field and the cave in it were purchased from the Hittites."

³³ When Jacob had given these instructions to his sons, he drew his feet up into the bed; he breathed his last and was gathered to his people.

50 ¹ Joseph threw himself on his father, wept over him and kissed him. ² Then as Joseph had instructed them, his physicians embalmed Israel his father. ³ This took a full forty days, the length of time required for embalming. the Egyptians mourned him for seventy days.

⁴ When the days of mourning were over,
Joseph spoke to Pharaoh's household, "If you wish to show me kindness, please let Pharaoh know ⁵ that when my father was dying he made me swear that I would bury him in the tomb he had made ready for himself in Canaan. Ask him to let me go up and bury my father. I will come back again." ⁶ Pharaoh said, "Go and bury your father as he made you swear to do."

⁷ Joseph went up to bury his father and with him went all Pharaoh's officials, the elders of his household and all the elders of Egypt, ⁸ as well as all belonging to the household of Joseph, his brothers and his father's household. Only their children, their flocks and herds were left in the land of Goshen. ⁹ With the chariots and horsemen that went up with him it was a very imposing caravan. ¹⁰ When they came to the threshing floor of Atad, near the Jordan, they carried out a solemn and long lamentation and there Joseph mourned his father for seven days. ¹¹ When the Canaanites witnessed this mourning they said, "This is a solemn mourning ceremony of the Egyptians." That is why this place which is east of the Jordan was called Abel Mizraim.

The last years of Joseph

+ 15 When Joseph's brothers realized that their father was dead they said, "What if Joseph turns against us in hate because of the evil we did him?" ¹⁶ So they sent word to Joseph saying, "Before he died your father told us to say this to you: ¹⁷ Please forgive the crime and the sin of your brothers in doing evil to you.

Forgive the crime of the servants of your father's God." When he was given the message, Joseph wept. ¹⁸ His brothers went and threw themselves down before him. "We are your slaves," they said. ¹⁹ But Joseph reassured them, "Don't be afraid! Am I in the place of God?" ²⁰ You intended to do me harm, but God intended to turn it to good in order to bring about what is happening today – the survival of many people. ²¹ So have no fear! I will provide for you and your little ones." In this way he touched their hearts and consoled them.

²⁴ Then Joseph said to his brothers, "I am going to die, but God will surely remember you and take you from this country to the land he promised to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." ²⁵ Joseph then made the sons of Israel swear, saying, "When God comes to bring you out from here, carry my bones with you." ²⁶ Joseph died at the age of one hundred and ten; they embalmed him and laid him in a coffin in Egypt.

+ Note how Jacob and Joseph die: believers of ancient times were still ignorant of the resurrection of the dead. They lived the lives God gave them on this earth to the fullest; they were aided by the conviction that in their faithfulness to their mission, they were labouring for a better world which their children would see. The long and happy years that God had given them after their trials led them to understand that God was just and generous with all people.

Yet, while they did not hope for a life beyond, they were lacking a great deal to be fulfilled persons. They thought that when a man died, part of his spirit went to live below the earth next to his fathers in a place from which God was absent as were the worries and noises of the living. God their friend and faithful defender allowed them to be lost forever! They must have had to repress their longing and silence their doubts to convince themselves that such a thing was just and good.

Their efforts to be resigned made them serious, conscientious men, subject to the mysterious will of God: but in exchange they were not given the happiness and spontaneity of children and a passionate love for their Saviour. In that, they were not very different from good atheists or people of good faith though poorly informed, who live without faith in the resurrection.

The Exodus is the liberation from Egypt. This, in the Bible, is the great deed of God: the liberation from the land of slavery to the land of promise. God liberates his people "with great power, with a strong arm and outstretched hand" opening a way in the sea.

The Exodus is the heart of the Old Testament and what gives it significance is that it shows us a God who liberates people. How is it that many people (non-believers) say: "Fear creates gods." And Lenin adds in his book, Socialism and Religion, "Religion teaches patience and resignation to those who toil during a lifetime of misery, and puts them to sleep with the hope of heavenly reward."

But it is not so. In the Exodus, God does not come to instill fear, he listens to the cry of the oppressed – giving them trust, awakening in them the hope of a real and total liberation and raising a generous leader for them. The Exodus is the model of all genuine human liberation.

To understand this liberation of the people of God, it is necessary to recall the historical situation at that time.

Historical Data

Five centuries had passed since Abraham's time. At one time the Egyptians had been routed by invaders coming from Asia who brought with them numerous nomads of the desert (see the story of Joseph). When the Egyptians could re-establish their own kings, these nomads were treated less considerably by the Egyptians, and many of them fled to avoid taxes or forced labour. Some were expelled (Ex. 12:31); others escaped under cover of night. (Ex. 12:38).

One of these groups, pursued by a detachment of Egyptian charioteers, was protected by an extraordinary intervention of God: the Israelites saw the Egyptians dead on the seabanks (Ex. 14:30). This miracle of the Crossing of the Red Sea, was effective because the man who directed the fugitives was Moses, God's prophet. He was capable of interpreting this divine work: Yahweh, the one and only God, had chosen Israel to be his people, and taken them from the slavery of Egypt to make them a holy people among the rest of the peoples.

The Exodus, or liberation from Egypt, initiated the history of the people of God. Moses and his own people remained a good time in the oasis of Sinai. There, Moses gave them the Law of Yahweh with its basic commandments: – Yahweh, a jealous God would not permit Israel to retain any of its traditional gods; instead, they were to serve him exclusively.

- Yahweh who surpassed the ideas that men had of him would not permit them to represent him under any image: "You shall not make images of God."
- Yahweh entrusted them the mission of conquering the land of Canaan to Israel.

The long history of the People of God began with the Exodus. This initial experience made other experiences possible which some day would culminate in the coming of the Saviour.

The Book of Exodus

The Book of Exodus was written by the same people who wrote Genesis. (See the introduction to Genesis regarding the Yahwist, the Eloist and the Priests.)

Do we have to believe that everything happened as related in Exodus? One has to make distinction. The ancient writer (the Bible scholars call him the Yahwist) composed his story from various documents of great historical value, although at times, happenings were described with some poetical amplification. Subsequent writers, however, took much liberty with the story and were concerned, above all, with gaining new religious insights from these ancient happenings which God had chosen for Israel in order to educate and liberate it.

Throughout the ages the Biblical writers commented again and again on the Exodus event, always with the purpose of showing their people how God continued to guide them to new liberations (Is. 43:16-19). In the same way, we recognize in the Exodus, the foreshadowing of the actual struggles of the People of God, the Church, vis-a-vis violence, alienations and fears.

1 'Here are the names of the sons of Israel who came to Egypt with Jacob, each with his family: ²Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah, ³Issachar, Zebulun and Benjamin, ⁴Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher. ⁵These descendants of Jacob numbered seventy in all; apart from these, Joseph was already in Egypt.

⁶Then Joseph died as did all his brothers and all that generation. ⁷The sons of Israel were fruitful and kept increasing. To such an extent did they multiply and grow in strength that the land teemed with them.

The Hebrews reduced to slavery

⁸Then a new king who had not known Joseph came to power ⁹and said to his people, "The Israelites are more numerous and stronger than we are. ¹⁰Let us deal warily with them lest they increase still more and, in case of war, side with our enemy, fight against us and escape from the land."

¹¹So they set taskmasters over them to oppress them with forced labour. In that way they built the storage towns of Pithom and Rameses. ¹²But the more they oppressed the Hebrews the more they increased and spread, until the Egyptians dreaded the Israelites ¹³and became ruthless in making them work. ¹⁴They made life bitter for them in hard labour with bricks and mortar and with all kinds of work in the fields. In all their work the Egyptians treated them harshly.

¹⁵Then the king of Egypt gave orders to the Hebrew midwives — one of whom was called Shiprah and the other Puah — ¹⁶that when they attended Hebrew women who were on the birthstool and saw that it was a boy, they were to kill it, but if it was a girl they were to let it live. ¹⁷But the midwives feared God and did not do as the king of Egypt commanded but let the children live. ¹⁸The king called o For centuries a great part of humanity has lived under oppression. Historians speak little of humanity's life of suffering. Rebelliousness was scarce since the great majority were resigned, and even came to believe that slavery was a normal situation for them. But God willed to intervene, at least once, in a manifest form to liberate the Hebrew people. This was the first step in the history of the People of God.

The Bible traces in bold strokes the sub-human conditions of the Hebrews in Egypt:

- The Egyptian lords were afraid of a people who, according to them, grew in irresponsibility (v. 10 & 12);
- They imposed hard work on the Israelites in order to build and defend a society which did not promote their welfare or recognize their rights (v. 11);
- Exploitation and oppression went hand in hand with inhuman labour and political repression enforced by the Egyptian overseers;

the midwives and said, "Why have you acted like that and let the children live?" ¹⁹The midwives replied, "Because the Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women. They are vigorous and give birth even before a midwife arrives."

²⁰God blessed the midwives, and the people increased and became even more numerous. ²¹Because the midwives revered God, he made them mothers of families.

²²Pharaoh then gave this order to all the people: "Every infant boy born to the Hebrews must be thrown into the Nile, but every girl may live."

Moses saved from the river

2 ¹Now a man belonging to the clan of Levi married a woman of his own tribe. ²She gave birth to a boy and, seeing that he was a beautiful child, she kept him hidden for three months. ³As she could not conceal him any longer, she made a basket out of papyrus leaves and coated it with tar and pitch. She then laid the child in the basket and placed it among the reeds near the bank of the Nile; ⁴but the sister of the child kept at a distance to see what would happen to him.

⁵Now the daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe in the Nile; her attendants meanwhile walked along the bank. When she saw the basket among the reeds, she sent her maid-servant to fetch it. ⁶She opened the basket and saw the child — a boy, and he was crying! She felt sorry for him, for she thought: "This is one of the Hebrew children."

⁷Then the sister of the child said to Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and get one of the Hebrew women to nurse the baby for you?" ⁸Pharaoh's daughter agreed, and the girl went to call the mother of the child. ⁹Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take the child and nurse him for me and I will pay you." So the woman took the child and nursed him ¹⁰and, when the child had grown, she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter who adopted him as her son. And she named him Moses to recall that she had drawn him out of the water.

Moses discovers his people

– Finally, an alien authority imposed drastic population control on the Israelites. (v. 16)

Situations of oppression can be found in 1 Mac 1:2; Mac 4:2; Mac 6; Is. 5:8; Am 5:10; Ex. 34; Mi 2:1; Job 24. 2:1; 25:9; Lam. 3:3.

Who were Shiprah and Puah? These are names of Egyptian women, who because of their compassion for the oppressed people, made mockery of the king's order and refused to execute what their conscience condemned.

+ The liberation of the Hebrew people begins with a simple, solitary act – that of a mother risking her life to save her son.

Her action is the manifestation of a mother's love. It is the rebellion of a conscience that refuses to obey an inhuman law. It is the act of faith of a mother who anticipates the wonderful future that God opens to a newly-born life, knowing also that children are the future of her people. (See Hebrews 11:21.)

Historians explain that the details of this story were inspired by the legend of King Sargon, who was saved from drowning when he was a boy. Perhaps. But Israel knew that Moses had been saved from the common fate of the Hebrews.

God prolongs this first liberating act. He gives the boy the opportunity to receive in the Pharaoh's court an education which he would never have received within his own family. It was necessary for the future liberator of slaves to have an experience of liberty. The Hebrew slaves, on the other hand, had no knowledge of what it means to be a free person.

■ Moses lived a prince's life. Nevertheless, he went to meet his brothers who lived in poorer conditions.

He noticed how heavily they were burdened. He did not respond like many culturally privileged who, rather than acting in solidarity with their people, act contrary to their interests.

his fellow Hebrews. He noticed how heavily they were burdened and he saw an Egyptian striking a Hebrew, one of his own people. ¹²He looked around and seeing no one, he killed the Egyptian and hid him in the sand.

¹³When he went out the next day he saw two Hebrews quarrelling. Moses said to the man in the wrong, "Why are you striking a fellow countryman?" ¹⁴But he answered, "Who has set you prince and judge over us? Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian?" Moses was afraid and thought, "What I did must be known."

¹⁵When Pharaoh heard about it he tried to kill Moses, but Moses fled from Pharaoh and went to live in the land of Midian. There he sat down by a well.

Moses in Midian

◆ ¹⁶A priest of Midian had seven daughters. They came to draw water and fill the troughs to water their father's sheep. ¹⁷Some shepherds came and drove them away; but Moses went to their help and watered the sheep.

¹⁸When the girls returned to their father Reuel, he asked them, "Why have you come back so early today?"

¹⁹They said, "An Egyptian protected us from the shepherds, and even drew water for us and watered the sheep."

²⁰The man said, "Where is he? Why did you leave him there? Call him and offer him a meal."

²¹Moses agreed to stay with the man and he gave Moses his daughter Zipporah in marriage. ²²She had a child and Moses named him Gershom, to recall that he had been a guest in a strange land.

God remembers Israel

○ ²³It happened during that long period of time that the king of Egypt died. The sons of Israel groaned under their slavery; they cried to God for help and from their bondage their cry ascended to God. ²⁴God heard their sigh and remembered his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

e.g. through the export of capital and brain rain). Moses did not deliberately close his eyes, like those who deny their humble beginnings or reject solidarity with their companions in order to be admitted to higher circles and be respected by those who are socially superior.

Immediately, Moses sides with his brothers, but on the following day, he discovers another aspect of evil: his brothers are not innocent victims. The oppression they suffer has something to do with the violence, the evil and the responsibility which exists among them. They are not respected by the Egyptians, but neither are they concerned about meriting this respect. At this time Moses does not know what to do and prefers to flee.

Moses has taken the first step on the way that will lead to the liberation of his people. Likewise, one who is able to share the lot of the privileged, prefers to put himself at the service of the needy, without knowing it, a follower of Christ, as Heb 11:25 says: "By faith, Moses refused to be called son of a daughter of Pharaoh. He preferred to share in the bad treatment of the people of God, rather than to know the passing pleasure of sin; hence he considered the humiliation of Christ more precious than the treasures of Egypt."

Thus we see that the Bible values efforts made in favour of human dignity, and the efforts of youth, workers and all people in their struggle for development and for a more active participation in the building of their future.

But we must also understand that the liberation God will bring about is, at the same time, a liberation from structures of oppression and the awakening of man regarding his own sin.

◆ As a shepherd in the desert, Moses learns the raw life, poor and free, like that of Abraham. He lives among the Midianites, who are more or less descendants of the father of the believers (Gen 25:2). Thus, then, Moses receives from his father-in-law, Reuel, also called Jethro (3:1), the traditions about Abraham and his faith in the one and only God.

○ They cried out to God and God heard their cry. At times, people do not even have the spirit to hope in God, but even if they may have forgotten the promises, God does not forget them. God looks on his sons and daughters, and his love remains alive.

The Bible tells us that there is such a thing as ²⁵ God looked upon the sons of Israel and revealed himself to them.

The burning bush

+ 3 ¹ Moses pastured the sheep of Jethro his father-in-law, priest of Midian. One day he led the flock to the far side of the desert and came to Horeb, the Mountain of God.

² The Angel of Yahweh appeared to him by means of a flame of fire in the middle of a bush. Moses saw that although the bush was on fire it did not burn up. ³ Moses thought, "I will go and see this amazing sight, why is the bush not burning up?"

⁴ Yahweh saw that Moses was drawing near to look, and God called to him from the middle of the bush,

"Moses! Moses!" He replied, "Here I am." ⁵ Yahweh said to him, "Do not come near; take off your sandals because the place where you are standing is holy ground." ⁶ And God continued, "I am the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob."

Moses hid his face lest his eyes look on God. ⁷ Yahweh said, "I have seen the humiliation of my people in Egypt and I hear their cry when they are cruelly treated by their taskmasters. I know their suffering. ⁸ I have come down to free them from the power of the Egyptians and to bring them up from that land to a beautiful spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey.

God's time, and that we cannot pretend to achieve things according to human schedules. In spite of the fact that we can hasten the hour of God with our prayers and the generosity of our submission, time and the moments belong to him (Heb 1:7).

God's delay: 2 Mac 6:12; Hab 1:2; Sir 35:19; Ps 44; Mk 4:26; Lk 18:1; Rev 6:11.

+ God waits several years and then calls Moses when he is already a mature man. He calls him at a time when Moses has chosen the paths of father of a family and shepherd of sheep. He does this in the desert where Moses has apparently isolated himself from the misfortunes of his brothers and, day after day, wastes the opportunity of helping his people. Thus, many times God waits on a person in this or that desert of his life. During those times, apparently so empty, God prepares his servant while heart and generosity remain intact.

The Angel of Yahweh appeared to him by means of a fire. The Angel of Yahweh (we know this is one way of saying Yahweh God himself: see Apparitions and Angels, Gen 16:1), presents himself as a fire that catches the eye but burns him who tries to come too close. On seeing it, Moses does what anyone would do when entering a sacred place: take off your sandals, in order not to bring before God the dust of ordinary existence. Thus we are reminded that man cannot approach God without divesting himself of his concerns and earthly desires.

I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. He who calls Moses is the one whom his ancestors worshipped, calling him different names – but all of them had been invited to share in the same plan of salvation.

I will be with you. This is the comforting word that is read in the Bible every time God calls someone to a mission. Jos 1:5; Jdg 6:12; Mt 28:20; Lk 1:28.

Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh? Moses is no longer the enthusiastic young man who assaulted the Egyptian foreman: as a mature man he understands that this mission exceeds his strength and he is afraid to put himself totally in God's hands. But the divine call is not a voice that sounds and passes by: God has made himself the master of Moses' heart.

I am sending you to Pharaoh. Thus begins Moses' mission, which, until the end of his life, will demand of him total submission. Knowing with all certainty that God sends him, Moses will be able to persevere in the midst of the worst difficulties. After delivering Israel from Egypt, God will, almost by force, impose their destiny upon them, which is to be the chosen people of God.

God speaks of bringing Israel to the land flowing with milk and honey, the land promised to Abraham. He does not fix the time nor give details but, at least, he foretells an event that will prove the authenticity of the mission: someday, Israel, poor but free, will arrive with Moses at Mount Horeb (or Mount Sinai) to meet God and receive his life-giving words.

ideas about God and who search for the meaning of their destiny in darkness, Israel is to be the people who know God according to the truth, and who, because of this, know wherein lies the true greatness of man. Moses, who will become the prophet and educator of Israel, is first to receive the knowledge of the One, Holy and Just God, who desires to be served by free persons.

By this name they shall call upon me (v. 15), it is evident that every name depends on the particular language in which it has its own meaning. God reveals to the Hebrews a name: Yahweh, which in their language is interpreted as: He is. If he had spoken to another people, God would have given another name which would have had meaning for them.

Yahweh means at the same time: He is and He causes to exist. Let us understand that God's acts and causes to exist that which he knows. This name is directly related to the saying by God in 14: I am who am and I am.

I am. This is the God who Lives and Sees (Gen 16: 13). When he wants to manifest something of his own mystery, he lets blazing fire (Ezk 1: 4; Hab 3: 4), windstorm and thunder (Ex 19: 6; 1K 19: 11; Ps 18, 9-17), and the waves of the sea go before him. All these are nothing more than images that protect, like a cloud (2 K 8: 10), God's mystery which is infinitely more profound. This mystery transcends and reaches beyond not only human sight but the mind of any human or angelic creature.

Every creature receives existence from God, but God exists in himself and depends on no one and nothing whatsoever. God is One, and none of those who receive existence from him can add anything to God. Thus, then, God is and he causes to exist the one who knows him. This revelation is critical for understanding the whole Bible and it should be remembered when believers say rather simply, "God is Love; God is Goodness," and forget that this alone would be false if it were not first affirmed that: God is Who Is. If God were only the Almighty, we would think only of prostrating ourselves before him. If he were only Goodness, we would not understand why he lets us suffer. But no, he said: I Am Who Am. God is a wholly active and perfectly free Person; and he calls us to be persons who exist in truth. Hence, God created a world in which we could act responsibly. God does not impose good. He prefers that, through our experiences and our errors, we come to discover where the true good is.

To worship God does not mean, as some believe, to lie prostrate before him, but rather to approach him face to face. God wants to be served by persons who, in turn, free others.

In presenting himself as a Person, the one true God has said the most essential thing. In these beginnings he could not speak more precisely and reveal the mystery of the Divine Persons in the same God: this would be the task of Jesus (Mt 28: 9; Jn 1: 18-19). Hence, for centuries, the Israelites retained the figure of a Sovereign God who guided them with authority.

Yahweh or Jehovah? In the last centuries before Jesus' coming, the Israelites, out of respect, would not pronounce the name of Yahweh. Hence, Yahweh was changed to Yehowah in the Bible, a term which had no meaning nor was it pronounced, but on seeing it, the reader would know that he should not say Yahweh, but Eäonah, or Lord. (They had put into the sacred consonants YHWH of Yahweh the three vowels e, o, a of Edonah).

God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob appeared to me and said: I have seen and taken account of how the Egyptians have treated you, ¹⁷and I mean to bring you out of all this oppression in Egypt and take you to the land of the Canaanites, a land flowing with milk and honey.'

¹⁸The elders of Israel will listen to you and, with them, you shall go to the palace of the king of Egypt and say to him: 'The God of the Hebrews, Yahweh, has met with us. Now let us go a three days' journey into the wilderness to sacrifice to Yahweh our God.'

¹⁹I well know that the king of the Egyptians will not allow you to go unless he is forced to do so. ²⁰I will therefore stretch out my hand and strike Egypt in extraordinary ways, after which he will let you go. ²¹And I will make the Egyptians treat my people well when you leave; you will not go empty-handed. ²²Each woman will ask her neighbour, and any Egypttian woman staying in her house, to lend her ornaments of silver and gold, and clothing. With these you will clothe your sons and daughters, and in this way you will plunder the Egyptians."

Moses granted miraculous powers

■ 4 ¹Moses replied to Yahweh. "What if they will not believe me or listen to me? Maybe they will say: 'That's not true. Yahweh did not appear to you.'"

²Yahweh then asked him, "What is that in your right hand?" "A staff," he replied. ³God said, "Throw it to the ground." He threw it and it became a serpent; and Moses drew back from it. ⁴Yahweh said, "Take it by the tail." Moses took it and it was again a staff in his hand. ⁵Then Yahweh said, "With such signs they may believe that Yahweh, the God of your fathers, appeared to you."

⁶Again Yahweh said to him, "Put your hand on your chest." He put his Yahweh has met with us. Invoking religious motives (to offer sacrifices) could not hide the fact that the only objective of the Hebrew slaves was to liberate themselves from the oppression that they suffered. All this happened at a time when there was no social or political problem that was not expressed in religious terms (Ex 17:16; Num 25:16).

But today, some ask: "Does the Bible speak to us of liberation in the sense of human and political, or does it rather propose a spiritual liberation?" In truth, this opposition is artificial. Experience teaches us that in order to save one's neighbour, neither material help nor political change nor prayer is sufficient. What is important is that persons rise to new life. To do this, they themselves must confront and solve the real problems of their common life – material, educational or political – starting with a more lucid vision of reality as God sees it, and with a more authentic love which is spiritual.

I mean to bring you out of this oppression. God, who exists, is concerned with those who still do not exist in truth. We say that God saves human persons; and so we suppose that these are real persons and not undeveloped persons without liberty, or responsibility or recognized dignity. Salvation is not the washing of souls but the restoration of the human person in all his dimensions – individual, family and social. When speaking of liberation, the Bible always refers to a total liberation of the human person. Persons are saved and liberated by liberating and saving others. We could study Exodus as a Life of Moses, and see that he was saved – or that he grew as a person and as a believer – to the extent that he was taking charge of his material and spiritual tasks, at once as leader liberator of his brothers.

■ They will not believe me. It is always difficult for the marginalized to unite and put their confidence in the one who can uplift them. But it will cost Israel even more to follow a path to liberation that is slow and so opposed to human wisdom. Moses usually does not care what people think, but acts with the authority of God. This is why he receives power to perform miracles which prove his authority.

All this is adapted to the world in which Moses lived. We find here the type of portents that were attributed to Egyptian sorcerers.

♦ Your brother Aaron will speak for you. Perhaps Moses wants to flee from the call of God; perhaps he feels inferior because he does hand on his chest and when he took it away his hand was covered with leprosy, white as snow. ⁷And God said, "Put your hand back on your chest." So he put it back, and when he took it away again, his hand was healthy like the rest of his body.

⁸Yahweh added, "If they don't believe you and are not convinced by the first sign, they will believe you when they see the second. ⁹But if these two signs are not enough to make them believe you, take some water from the Nile and pour it on the ground; and the water from the river will turn into blood."

Aaron, interpreter of Moses

◆ ¹⁰Moses said to Yahweh, "But, my Lord, never have I been a fluent speaker either before or after you have spoken to me. I cannot find words to express what I want to say." ¹¹Yahweh said to him, "Who gave man a mouth? Who makes him dumb or deaf, with sight or blind? Is it not I, Yahweh? ¹²Go now. I will be on your lips and will inspire what you say."

¹³But Moses insisted, "My Lord, I pray you, why not send someone else?" ¹⁴At this Yahweh became angry with Moses and said, "Haven't you Aaron, your brother, the Levite? I know he speaks well. Look! he is coming to meet you, ¹⁵and he will be glad when he sees you. You will speak to him and tell him what I have told you to say. And when you tell him, or when he speaks, I will be with you and teach you what you have to say. ¹⁶Aaron will speak for you as a prophet speaks for his god. ¹⁷And with this staff in your hand you will work miraculous signs."

Moses returns to Egypt

○ ¹⁸Then Moses went back to Jethro, his father-in-law, and said to him, "I am going back to my brothers in Egypt to see if they are still alive." Jethro said to Moses, "Go in peace!"

²⁰Moses took with him his wife and his sons. He put them on a donkey and set off for Egypt, holding in his hand the staff of God.

²¹Yahweh said to Moses, "You are returning to Egypt and you will perform all the miraculous signs that I have empowered you to do, in the presence of Pharaoh. I will, however, make him stubborn so that he will not let the people go. ²²You shall then say to Pharaoh: 'This is Yahweh's message: Israel is my firstborn son, ²³and I said to you: Let my son go that he may worship me. But you have refused to let him go and, because of this, I will take the life of your firstborn son."

²⁴At a lodging place on the way, the Angel of Yahweh approached Moses and tried to kill him. ²⁵But not have the human qualities that seem essential in a leader, but God will send him the assistance he needs since he himself has given him the mission.

To better understand the role played by Aaron in these events, let us recall that in former times the Jewish priests, "descendants of Aaron," were those who preserved and taught the religion of Moses. In making Aaron Moses' brother and spokesman, these priests claimed for themselves the authority of Moses (Mt 23:2, Mk 1:44).

○ Moses appears to be gravely sick: his wife thinks it is because he has not been circumcised. Therefore, according to the thinking of that time, she circumcises his son instead of him.

+ The word of God is not as easily heard in the offices of the capital as in the desert. Pharaoh's responses and decisions seem to be the model which many contemporary directors and admin-

Zipporah took a flint stone and cut her son's foreskin and, with it, she touched the feet of Moses, saying, "You are now my husband by blood!"²⁶ And the Angel left him. Zipporah said 'husband by blood' because of the circumcision.

Moses meets Aaron

²⁷Yahweh said to Aaron, "Go into the desert and meet your brother, Moses." So Aaron went and met him at the Mountain of God and kissed him.²⁸ Moses related to Aaron all that Yahweh had said to him and all the signs he had commanded him to perform.²⁹ Moses and Aaron assembled all the elders of the Israelites³⁰ and Aaron told them everything that Yahweh had said to Moses. He also performed all the signs before the people and they believed him.³¹ When they heard that Yahweh had visited the people of Israel and had seen their suffering, they bowed to the ground and worshipped him.

Moses speaks with Pharaoh

+ 5 ¹After this Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and said, "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel says: 'Let my people go that they may hold a feast for me in the desert.'" ²Pharaoh replied, "Who is Yahweh that I should listen to his voice and let Israel go? I do not know Yahweh and I will not let Israel go." ³They then said, "The God of the Hebrews has met with us. Allow us to make a three days' journey to the desert. There we shall offer sacrifices to Yahweh, our God, lest he punish us with the plague or the sword." ⁴The king of Egypt said to them, "Moses and Aaron, why do you take people away from their work? Get back to your tasks. ⁵The people are now numerous and you are asking them to interrupt their work."

⁶That same day Pharaoh gave the following order to the taskmasters of the people and to the Israelite foremen, ⁷"You will no longer supply the people with straw for making bricks. Let them go and find it themselves; ⁸but you will exact from them the same number of bricks as before, not one less. They are lazy and that is why they are crying out to go and sacrifice to their God. ⁹Make the work harder for the people that they may disregard all these lies."

First difficulties

¹⁰The slave drivers and their Israelite foremen went out and said to the people, "Pharaoh will not give you any more straw. ¹¹Go and get it yourselves wherever you can find it, but the amount of work done must be the same as before."

¹²The people scattered throughout Egypt to gather stubble to use for straw. ¹³The taskmasters kept pressing them, saying, "Complete the work required of you each day, as you did when you had straw." ¹⁴The taskmasters beat the Israelite foremen they had placed over the people saying, "Why haven't your people completed istrators imitate. Moses and Aaron receive a negative response and later face the mistrust of their companions.

Throughout the story, we find the same opposition from those who did not want to take any initiative to liberate themselves, and did not trust in its success. They paid no attention to the leaders working for their good. Martin Luther King, shortly before his death, said with sadness that he was shocked by the indifference of the Blacks; he felt alone in struggling for the cause of his own people. In the sixteenth century, Fray Bartolome de las Casas, for his protest on behalf of Latin American Indians, met with criticism from other religious.

the same amount of work as before?"

¹⁹The Israelite foremen felt they were in great trouble. ²⁰They met Moses and Aaron who were waiting for them ²¹and said to them, "May Yahweh look upon you and judge you, because you have made us hateful to Pharaoh and his ministers, and placed in his hand a sword to kill us."

²²Moses then turned to Yahweh and said, "O Lord! Why have you treated your people so badly? Why did you send me? ²³From the time I spoke to Pharaoh in your name, he has brought trouble on this people and you have done nothing to rescue them!"

6 ¹Yahweh said to Moses, "Now you will see that I will overcome him and oblige him to let you go, even force him to drive you out of his land."

Another narrative of the call of Moses

■ ²God spoke to Moses saying, "I am Yahweh! ³I appeared to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob as God Almighty, but I did not make myself known to them by the name of Yahweh. ⁴I established my covenant with them promising to give them the land of Canaan, in which they lived as strangers. ⁵and now I remember my covenant as I hear the groaning of the Israelites enslaved by the Egyptians.

⁶Therefore say this to them: 'I am Yahweh. I will take you away from the burden of Egypt and free you from its bondage; I will redeem you with wonderful deeds and with the blows of my powerful hand.' ⁷I will take you for my people and I will be your God who delivered you from the slavery of the Egyptians. ⁸I will bring you to the land I swore I would give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and I will give it to you as your own possession. I am Yahweh."

⁹This is how Moses spoke to the people of Israel but they did not listen, so discouraged were they by their cruel slavery.

¹⁰Yahweh spoke to Moses saying, ¹¹"Go and speak to Pharaoh, king of Egypt and tell him to let the people of Israel leave the country." ¹²But Moses said, "If the sons of Israel paid no attention to me, how then will Pharaoh listen to me, a man who has difficulty in expressing himself?" ¹³But Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron and ordered them, and Pharaoh as well, to bring the people of Israel out of Egypt.

The forefathers of Moses and Aaron

¹⁴These were the heads of the tribes:

Sons of Reuben, Israel's firstborn: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi; these are the families of Reuben.

¹⁵Sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, son of a Canaanite woman; these are the families of Simeon.

¹⁶These are the sons of Levi with their descendants: Gershon, Kohath and Merari. Levi lived a hundred and thirty-seven years. ¹⁷Sons of Gershon: Libni and Shimei and their descendants.

¹⁸Sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. Kohath lived for a hundred and thirty-three years.

¹⁹Sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These are the descendants of Levi with their families.

²⁰Amram married Jochebed, his aunt, who gave him two sons, Aaron and Moses. Amram lived a hundred and thirty-seven years.

berating work, provided that Moses would have faith and would persevere.

Notice the embarrassment of those trusted Israelites who supervised the people on behalf of the Egyptian authorities.

■ We said in the beginning of this book that different accounts of the same events were put together. Here begins a later and more summarized story of Moses' call. It gives a list of his ancestors. The Jewish priests attribute to Moses a life of 120 years, that is, of three generations – a symbolic and perfect number:

- 40 years old upon leaving Egypt
- 80 years old when he met God
- 120 years old at his death.

²¹The sons of Izhar were: Korah, Nepheg and Zichri.

²²The sons of Uzziel: Mishael, Elzaphan and Sithri.

²³Aaron married Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, and she bore him Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

²⁴The sons of Korah: Assir, Elkanah and Abiasaph. These are the families of the Korahites.

²⁵Eleazar, son of Aaron, married one of Putiel's daughters and Phinehas was their son.

These are the heads of the families of the Levites according to their clans.

²⁷It was they who spoke with Pharaoh, king of Egypt, about bringing the sons of Israel out of Egypt. Yes, it was Moses and Aaron.

²⁸When Yahweh spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, ²⁹he said, "I am Yahweh. Say to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all that I tell you." ³⁰But Moses replied, "I am a poor speaker and why would Pharaoh listen to me?"

Announcement of the plagues

7 ¹Yahweh said to Moses, "See, I have made you like a god in Pharaoh's eyes; and Aaron, your brother, will be your prophet. ²You will tell Aaron all that I command you, and he will tell Pharaoh to let the people of Israel leave the country. ³But I will make him stubborn and although I multiply my signs and miracles, ⁴he will not listen to you. Then I will use my power and lead my armies, my people, the sons of Israel out of Egypt by means of great punishments. ⁵Then will the Egyptians know that I am Yahweh when they see with what power I bring the people of Israel out of their country."

⁶Moses and Aaron did exactly what Yahweh had commanded. ⁷Moses was eighty and Aaron eighty-three when they spoke to Pharaoh.

⁸Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron saying, ⁹"When Pharaoh speaks to you and tells you to perform a miracle to prove the truth of what you say, you will say to Aaron: 'Take your staff and throw it down before Pharaoh, and it will become a snake.'"

¹⁰Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and did what Yahweh had commanded. Aaron threw his staff before Pharaoh and his ministers, and it became a snake. ¹¹Pharaoh then summoned wise men and magicians, and they, too, the magicians of Egypt, did the same by means of their secret arts. ¹²Each one threw his staff down and the staffs became serpents. But Aaron's staff swallowed the staffs of the magicians. ¹³However, Pharaoh was obstinate and he did not listen to them, as Yahweh had said.

The plagues of Egypt

◆ ¹⁴Yahweh said to Moses, "Pharaoh is stubborn; he has refused to let the people leave. ¹⁵So you will go to Pharaoh in the morning, when he goes to the water. Wait for him on the bank of the river and hold in your hand the staff that turned into a serpent. ¹⁶You will say to him, 'Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews, sent me to say to you: 'Let my people go to worship me in the desert; but so far you have not listened.' ¹⁷By this you shall learn that I am Yahweh: Look, I will strike the waters of the Nile with the staff I have in my hand, and they will turn into blood! ¹⁸The fish in the river will die and the Nile will become foul, and the Egyptians will no longer be able to drink its water."

¹⁹Yahweh said to Moses, "Say to Aaron: 'Take your staff and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, rivers, canals, ponds and pools of water; and they will turn into blood. There will be blood throughout Egypt, even in vessels of wood and stone.' ²⁰Moses and Aaron did as Yahweh had commanded.

Aaron raised his staff and struck the waters of the Nile, in the presence of Pharaoh and his ministers, and all ◆ Here we have the plagues of Egypt. The paragraphs which come from the most ancient story narrate 7 plagues. The other story, the Eloist's, gives 9. The third story adds the plague of ulcers.

The biblical writers knew that the power of evil also performs miracles to obscure the interventions of God. Note these details: 7:11-12; 8:3; 8:14; 9:10.

Chapter 10 describes the reactions of people who recognize the signs of God without arriving at true conversion.

Referring to the plagues or misfortunes of Egypt, the modern reader will ask three things:

- Did these stupendous miracles to bring harm upon the Egyptians really happen?
- If these plagues were merely natural phenomena, should we consider any misfortune as a punishment of God?

the water in the Nile turned to blood. "The fish in the river died and the Nile was contaminated so that the Egyptians could no longer drink the water of the Nile.

There was blood all over the country of Egypt. "The Egyptian magicians, however, could do the same with their secret crafts, and Pharaoh remained unmoved; and, as Yahweh had foretold, he would not listen to Moses and Aaron.

²³ Pharaoh returned to his house as if nothing of importance had happened. ²⁴ And yet all the Egyptians were digging near the Nile for water to drink because they could not drink from the river.

The second plague: the frogs

8 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses, "Say to Aaron: 'Stretch out your hand with your staff over the rivers, canals and ponds of Egypt' and cause frogs to cover all the country of Egypt." ³ The magicians of Egypt did the same by means of their secret formulas, and they brought frogs over the land of Egypt!

⁴ Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Ask Yahweh to remove the frogs from me and my people and I will send your people to sacrifice to Yahweh." ⁵ But Moses replied, "Let me know, please, when I am to make the petition for you, your officials and your people that you may be rid of frogs except in the Nile." ⁶ Pharaoh answered, "Tomorrow"; and Moses said, "Right, and that you may know that there is no one like Yahweh, our God," the frogs will disappear from you and your house, your servants and your people; only in the Nile will they remain." ⁸ With this Moses and Aaron left Pharaoh.

Then Moses called on Yahweh concerning the frogs that he had inflicted on Pharaoh. ⁹ Yahweh did as Moses had promised Pharaoh and the frogs died in the houses, the farms and the fields. ¹⁰ The people piled them in heaps and the land was filled with a foul smell. ¹¹ Now that relief had come, Pharaoh became even more stubborn and would not listen, just as Yahweh had foretold.

The third plague: the mosquitoes

¹² Yahweh said to Moses, "Tell Aaron to strike the dust of the earth with his staff and turn it into mosquitoes throughout the land." ¹³ Aaron did this; he struck the dust of the earth which turned into mosquitoes that tormented men and animals. All the dust of the earth all over Egypt turned into mosquitoes. ¹⁴ But when the magicians tried, by means of their secret formulas, to drive away the mosquitoes, they were not able to do so, and the mosquitoes kept tormenting men and animals. ¹⁵ The magicians said to Pharaoh, "This is the finger of God"; but Pharaoh was unmoved and did not listen, as Yahweh had foretold.

The fourth plague: the horseflies

¹⁶ Yahweh said to Moses, "Rise early in the morning and go to Pharaoh, when he is on his way to the river. Say to him: This is Yahweh's message: Let my people go and worship me. ¹⁷ If you refuse to let them go, I will send horseflies on you, on your officials and on your people and your houses. The houses of the Egyptians will be filled with horseflies and even the ground on which they are built. ¹⁸ But on that day I will spare the land of Goshen – Was the Egyptian peasant or citizen responsible for the politics of Pharaoh and did he deserve to be punished?

With regard to the first question, we know that for centuries, these stories were narrated and amplified by the Israelites. They were meant to show that through these natural misfortunes common in Egypt: the locusts, the Red Nile, frogs – God manifested his will to Pharaoh.

With regard to the second, see the commentary on Luke 13:1. God warns us through signs. National leaders, if they would open their eyes to the evils that afflict their country, would realize that injustices will be paid for dearly.

With regard to the third question, let us not forget that the sacred authors shared the culture of their times. They were not concerned about whether it was the Egyptians or Pharaoh himself who had sinned in opposing Moses. They only saw that they opposed God's design and must therefore be vanquished; that is what they expressed with the word "punished." They were not concerned about the fate of the Egyptian peasant. For them, Egypt represented the unjust Power, and Pharaoh, the Enemy of God.

where my people are. No horseflies will be there and by this you may know that I, Yahweh, am in the land. ¹⁹ I will make a distinction between my people and your people. By tomorrow this will have happened."

²⁰ Yahweh did this and dense swarms of horseflies invaded Pharaoh's house and the houses of all his people and devastated the whole country.

²¹ Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Go and sacrifice to your God in this country." ²² But Moses replied, "That would not be right. We offer to our God animals which are sacred for the Egyptians. If we were to offer in their presence a sacrifice which offends the Egyptians, wouldn't they stone us?"

²³ We must make a three days' journey into the desert and there we will sacrifice to Yahweh, our God, as he commands."

²⁴ Pharaoh replied, "I will let you go and sacrifice to your God in the desert, but on condition that you do not go far. And pray to God for me!"

²⁵ Moses said, "I am leaving you and I will pray to Yahweh for you, and tomorrow the horseflies will leave you, your officials and your people, but do not continue to deceive us by refusing to let the people go to the desert."

²⁸ But Pharaoh was relentless and refused to let the people go.

The fifth plague: death of Egyptian livestock

9 ¹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and say to him, 'This is the message of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews: Let my people go and offer sacrifices to me. ² If you refuse to let them go and hold them back any longer, ³ the hand of Yahweh will bring a terrible plague on your horses, your donkeys and your camels, on your cattle and your sheep. ⁴ But Yahweh will make a distinction between the livestock of Israel and that of Egypt. Nothing belonging to the people of Israel will die."

⁵ Yahweh then fixed a time and said, "It will be done tomorrow." ⁶ Yahweh did this the following day; all the livestock belonging to the Egyptians died, but not one owned by the Israelites died. ⁷ Pharaoh made enquiries and in fact found that none of the cattle belonging to the Israelites had died. But Pharaoh remained adamant and did not let the people go.

The sixth plague: the boils

⁸ Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, "Take two handfuls of ashes from the brick oven and let Moses throw it up in the air in front of Pharaoh's eyes. ⁹ It will become fine dust all over Egypt and bring festering boils on men and animals." ¹⁰ So they took ashes from the oven and, in the presence of Pharaoh, Moses threw it up in the air and it brought festering boils on men and animals. ¹¹ And the magicians could not stand before Moses because they had boils like all the other Egyptians.

¹² But Yahweh made Pharaoh stubborn and he did not listen to Moses and Aaron as Yahweh had foretold.

The seventh plague: the hail

¹³ Yahweh said to Moses, "Rise early: present yourself to Pharaoh and say to him: This is the message of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews: Send my people away to worship me! ¹⁴ because this time I will send the full force of my plagues against you, your ministers and your people, that you may know there is no one like me in the whole world. ¹⁵ For had I wished, I could have raised my hand against you and your people, and with a similar pestilence wiped you from the face of the earth. ¹⁶ But this is why I have let you live: that you may witness my power and that my name may be celebrated throughout the earth. ¹⁷ Are you still set against my people leaving the country? ¹⁸ Tomorrow at this time I will send very heavy hail such as has never been in Egypt from the day of its foundation. ¹⁹ So now let all your livestock and all that you have in the fields take shelter, because when the hail falls on all that remains in the fields, whether men or animals, they will die." ²⁰ Those among Pharaoh's officials who believed Yahweh's word hurried to bring their slaves and cattle inside; ²¹ but those who paid no attention to Yahweh's warning left their slaves and their cattle in the fields.

²² Then Yahweh said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand towards heaven and let hail fall throughout Egypt on men and animals, and all that grows in the field." ²³ Moses stretched out his staff towards heaven and Yahweh sent thunder and hail; lightning struck the earth ²⁴ and Yahweh rained hail on the land of Egypt: lightning flashed in the midst of the hail. It was very heavy hail such as had never been known in all Egypt from the time it had first become a nation.

²⁵ Throughout Egypt the hail struck everything in the fields, both men and animals. It beat down everything growing in the fields and felled every tree. ²⁶ But where the Israelites lived there was no hail.

²⁹ Moses said to him, "As soon as I leave the town I will lift my hands towards Yahweh; the thunder will cease and there will be no more hail, and you will know that the earth is Yahweh's. ³⁰ But as for you and your officials, I know that you don't yet fear Yahweh, our God." ³¹ The flax and the barley were ruined, as the barley was almost ripe and the flax was in flower. ³² but the wheat and the spelt which are late crops were not destroyed.

³³ Moses left Pharaoh and went out of the city and raised his hands towards Yahweh. The thunder and hail ceased and it stopped raining. ³⁴ Pharaoh, seeing that there was no rain and that the thunder and hail had ceased, sinned yet again. ³⁵ He and his ministers remained unyielding and would not let the Israelites go, just as Yahweh had foretold through Moses.

10 ¹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh for I have made him stubborn and his ministers as well, in order to show my signs among them, ² and that you may tell your grandchildren how I dealt harshly with the Egyptians and about the signs I worked among them, and that you may know that I am Yahweh."

³ Moses went with Aaron and said to Pharaoh, "This is the word of Yahweh, the God of the Hebrews: How much longer will you refuse to submit to me? Let my people go and worship me. ⁴ If you refuse to let my people go, I will bring locusts into your country ⁵ and they will completely cover the surface of the land. They will devour what was left after the hail as well as every tree in the fields. ⁶ They will fill your house and the houses of your ministers and all the houses in Egypt, something your fathers and their fathers before them have never seen from ancient times to this day." Having said this, Moses turned away and left Pharaoh's presence.

⁷ Pharaoh's ministers said to him, "For how long will this man be a snare to us? Let the men go and worship Yahweh, their God. Don't you realize that Egypt is ruined?"

¹² Yahweh said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand and bring locusts to the land of Egypt. Let them eat every plant in the land, everything that was left after the hail." ¹³ So Moses stretched out his staff over the land of Egypt. All that day and night Yahweh brought an east wind over the land and in the morning the east wind brought the locusts. ¹⁴ They came and settled on the land in such quantities as had never been seen before and will never be seen again. ¹⁵ They covered the surface of the earth and darkened the light of the sun. They devoured all the vegetation in the land and all the fruit of the trees left after the hail. Nothing green remained, neither tree nor plant of the field, in all the land of Egypt.

¹⁶ Because of all this Pharaoh hastened to summon Moses and Aaron and said to them, "I have sinned against Yahweh, your God, and against you. ¹⁷ Forgive my sin, I pray you, at least for once and ask Yahweh, your God, for a final favour: to rid me of this deadly plague."

²⁰ But Yahweh let Pharaoh be stubborn and he would not allow the Israelites to leave.

The ninth plague: the darkness

²¹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Stretch your hand towards heaven and let darkness descend on the land of Egypt, a darkness so dense that

o I have made him stubborn. The Bible does not deny that man is responsible for his acts: Pharaoh is the one who hardens his heart. However, the Bible stresses that nothing happens except what God allows and that he allows what serves his own plans. That is what the writer means with this expression: I have made him stubborn or, better, I have let him be stubborn. Let us understand, "My plans are better realized with opposition from Pharaoh."

it can be felt." ²² Moses stretched out his hand towards heaven and instantly black darkness covered the land of Egypt for three days.

²³ They could not see each other and they could not move about for three days, but where the sons of Israel lived, there was light. ²⁴ Pharaoh summoned Moses and said, "Go and worship Yahweh, you and your children with you; leave only your flocks and herds behind!"

²⁶ No! Our cattle to the last hoof must also go with us, for it is from our livestock that we will choose the victims we will offer to Yahweh. Moreover we shall not know which ones we must sacrifice until we arrive at that place."

²⁷ But Yahweh let Pharaoh be stubborn and Pharaoh would not let them go.

²⁸ Pharaoh said to Moses, "Get out of my sight! Take care! Never come before me again, for the day you do, you will die!" ²⁹ Moses said, "It is as you say, I shall never come before you again."

The tenth plague: the death of the firstborn

+ 11 'Yahweh said to Moses, "I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and Egypt. After that he will send you away and even drive you away completely. ² Speak to the people and tell them that both men and women are to ask their neighbours for articles of silver and gold."

³ Yahweh disposed the Egyptians favourably towards the people. Moses, moreover, was regarded as a person of importance in Egypt both by Pharaoh's ministers and by the people.

⁴ Moses said, "This is Yahweh's message: 'About midnight, I shall go through Egypt ⁵ and all the firstborn in Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who is heir to the throne, to the firstborn of the servant behind the mill and the firstborn of the animals.

⁶ There will be great wailing throughout all Egypt, such as has never been before and never will be again. ⁷ But among the Israelites not a dog will howl for the death of either man or beast. This is that you may understand that Yahweh makes a distinction between Egypt and Israel.

⁸ All these ministers of yours will come down to me and bow before me saying, 'Go, you and all who follow you!' After that I will leave." And turning in anger he left Pharaoh.

⁹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Pharaoh will not listen to you, and so the wonders that I do in Egypt will be multiplied."

¹⁰ Moses and Aaron had worked all these marvels in the presence of Pharaoh, but Yahweh had made Pharaoh obstinate and he would not let the people of Israel leave his country.

o 12 'Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt and said, ² "This month is to be the beginning of all months, the first month of your year. ³ Speak to the community of Israel and say to them:

On the tenth day of this month each man is to take a lamb, a lamb for each house. ⁴ If the family is too small for a lamb, they must join with a neighbour, the nearest to the house, according to the number of persons and to what each one can eat.

⁵ You will select a perfect lamb without blemish, a male born during the present year, taken from the sheep

+ All the firstborn shall die. The tenth plague nears: the "Angel of Yahweh" will make the sons of the Egyptians die. Very possibly, as in 2 Kings 19:25, this was some epidemic or plague. At this very time the meal of the paschal lamb will be celebrated.

o Each man is to take a lamb. The ancestors of the Hebrews, when wandering with their flocks before they stayed in Egypt, celebrated each year the Pasch of the Lamb, the traditional feast of the shepherds. They sacrificed it on the first moon of spring (12:2) a critical period for or goats. ⁶Then you will keep it until the fourteenth day of the month.

On that evening all the people will slaughter their lambs ⁷and take some of the blood to put on the doorposts and on top of the doorframes of the houses where you eat.

⁸That night you will eat the flesh roasted at the fire with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

¹¹And this is how you will eat: with a belt round your waist, sandals on your feet and a staff in your hand. You shall eat hastily for it is a passover in honour of Yahweh. ¹²On that night I shall go through Egypt and strike every firstborn in Egypt, men and animals; and I will even bring judgement on all the gods of Egypt, I, 'ahweh! ¹³The blood on your houses will be the sign that you are there. I will see the blood and pass over you;

and you will escape the mortal plague when I strike Egypt.

¹⁴This is a day you are to remember and celebrate in honour of Yahweh. It is to be kept as a festival day all generations forever.

The feast of the unleavened bread

+ ¹⁵For seven days you are to eat unleavened bread. From the first day you are to remove all leaven from your houses, for if anyone eats leavened bread from the first to the seventh day he shall be cut off from Israel.

¹⁶On the first day there will be a sacred reunion and another on the seventh. No work is to be done on these days except what is necessary in the preparation of food.

¹⁷Celebrate the feast of unleavened bread, because on that day I brought your armies out of Egypt. Celebrate it in future generations as an everlasting ordinance. ¹⁸In the first month, from the fourteenth day in the evening to the twenty-first, you are to eat unleavened bread.

¹⁹For seven days there will be no leaven in your houses. Anyone who eats what is leavened will be cut off from the community of Israel whether foreigner or native born.

²⁰Nothing leavened is to be eaten; only unleavened bread is to be eaten."

◆ ²¹Moses called all the elders of Israel and said to them, "Select and he ewes which had just given birth. The lamb set aside for the feast was kept for several days in the same places where the people were (12:6) so that it could be better identified with the family and carry the sins of all its members. Later, the ramping tents were sprinkled with its blood to drive away the "deadly" spirits that threatened people and animals.

I will see the blood, and pass over. The Israelites, like the rest of the people of their time, had a terrible image of God and believed they could not placate this violent God except through sacrifices and blood (Heb 9:22). Only with time did they discover that these sacrifices were a very imperfect form of worship (Is 1:11; Psalms 40:7 and 51:18).

Henceforth, the Israelite families would consider their firstborn as belonging and consecrated to Yahweh (Ex 13:1), for they had been saved from the plague. According to this law, Jesus, the firstborn of Mary and of God, would be presented in the Temple (Lk 2:22).

It is the Passover for Yahweh. (12:27). This feast of pagan origin will acquire a new meaning: the blood of the lamb seals Yahweh's covenant with the people whom he chose from among the other peoples. Henceforth, the Passover will be the feast of Israel's independence, and God will allow that Jesus to die and rise again in the days of the Passover. The death of Jesus seals God's New Covenant with humanity (Lk 22:20).

Each Mass recalls the death and resurrection of Christ, the Lamb of God. Would that these Masses bring together believers who are aware of having been liberated and are committed to the task of liberating the whole of humanity.

+ When, centuries later, Israel was no longer an agricultural people, it was traditional to celebrate yearly, in the spring, a week-long feast during which they ate unleavened bread. This feast was of pagan origin but the Jewish priests, instead of fighting against this practice, preferred to combine it with the feast of the Passover and give it a new meaning by relating it to the Liberation from Egypt. This unleavened bread would call to mind the hurried flight when the Israelites lacked time to leaven their bread.

take one animal for each family and slaughter the Passover lamb. ²² Take a twig of hyssop dipped in its blood and sprinkle the blood on the doorposts and the top of the doorframe: since then on no one will go out of the door of the house before morning. ²³ Because Yahweh will pass through to strike Egypt and when he sees the blood on the lintel and the doorposts, he will pass over the door and not allow the destroyer to enter your houses and kill.

²⁴ You and your descendants shall observe these instructions as an everlasting ordinance; ²⁵ you will carry out this ceremony when you enter the land that Yahweh will give you, as he promised. ²⁶ And when your children ask you: 'What does this ceremony mean?' ²⁷ you will tell them: 'It is the sacrifice of the Passover for Yahweh who passed over the houses of the Israelites when he struck Egypt and spared our houses.'

When the people heard this they bowed down and worshiped. ²⁸ Then they went away and did what Yahweh had ordered Moses and Aaron.

Death of the firstborn

²⁹ It happened that in the middle of the night Yahweh struck down all the firstborn in Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh, heir to the throne, to the firstborn of the prisoner in the dungeon and the firstborn of all the animals. ³⁰ Pharaoh, his officials and all the Egyptians got up in the night and there was loud wailing in Egypt for there was no house without a death.

³¹ Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron in the night and said, "Get up and go from among my people, you and the people of Israel. Go and worship Yahweh as he told you! ³² Take your sheep and your cattle, as you told me, and go! provided that the blessing be for me as well." ³³ The Egyptians too, pressed the people to leave the country in all haste. For they said, "If they don't go, we are all going to die."

³⁴ So the Israelites carried away on their shoulders the dough which had not yet risen, and their kneading bowls wrapped in their cloaks. ³⁵ They did as Moses had instructed them and borrowed from the Egyptians articles of gold and silver and clothes. ³⁶ Yahweh made the Egyptians agree the petitions of his people and give them what they asked for. In this way they plundered the Egyptians.

■ People of all descriptions (38). The wandering Israelites did not have the appearance of a holy people. There were those who, for diverse reasons, had decided to leave with kept watch to bring Israel out of Egypt. This night is for Yahweh, and the sons of Israel are to keep vigil on this night, year after year, for all time.

Ordinances for the passover

⁴³ Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, "These are the precepts for the celebration of the Passover. No foreigner is to eat it, ⁴⁴ except the slave who has been circumcised after having been bought. ⁴⁵ He may eat it. But not so the temporary resident or the hired worker. ⁴⁶ The lamb must be eaten inside the house and nothing of it shall be taken outside. Do not break any of its bones. ⁴⁷ All the community of Israel will observe this rite.

⁴⁸ If a guest is staying with you and wants to celebrate the Passover of Yahweh, he must have all the males in his household circumcised. Then he may take part like one born in the land, but no uncircumcised man may participate. ⁴⁹ The law is the same for the native and the stranger living with you."

⁵⁰ All the people of Israel did as Yahweh had commanded Moses and Aaron, ⁵¹ and that same day Yahweh brought out the sons of Israel and their armies from the land of Egypt.

Offering of the firstborn

13 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses saying, ² "Consecrate to me every firstborn: he first to leave the womb among the sons of Israel, whether of man or beast, is mine."

o ⁴ The day you left was in the month of Abib. ⁵ When Yahweh brings you to the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Jivites and the Jebusites — a land flowing with milk and honey which he swore to your fathers to give you — you will carry out this ceremony.

⁶ For seven days you will eat unleavened bread and on the seventh day you will hold a feast in honour of Yahweh. ⁷ You will eat unleavened bread for seven days and no leavened bread is to be seen among you or anywhere throughout all your territory. ⁸ On that day you will tell your son: 'I do this because of what Yahweh did for me when I came out of Egypt.'

⁹ This ceremony will be for you as a sign on your hand and a reminder on your forehead, so that Yahweh's law may be ever on your lips, for it was with great power that Yahweh brought you out of Egypt. ¹⁰ Because of this you will observe this ordinance at the appointed time from year to year.

¹¹ When Yahweh brings you to the land of the Canaanites and gives it to you, as he swore to you and your fathers, ¹² you are to give over to Yahweh all that first opens the womb, and every firstborn of your cattle as well. These firstborn males are for Yahweh.

¹³ Every firstborn donkey will be redeemed by a lamb, and if you do not redeem it, you are to break its neck. Every firstborn among your sons you are to redeem. ¹⁴ When in the future your son questions you as to what it means you will say: 'Yahweh, by his power brought us out of Egypt from the house of slavery. ¹⁵ As Pharaoh stubbornly refused to let us go, Yahweh slew every firstborn in Egypt, of man and beast. That is why I sacrifice to Yahweh all the males of my cattle that first open the womb, but the firstborn of my sons, I redeem.'

¹⁶ It will be as a sign on your hand and a charm between your eyes, reminding you that the power of Yahweh brought us out of Egypt.

The departure

¹⁷ It happened that when Pharaoh sent the people away, God did not lead them through the land of the Philistines, although it was nearer, for God thought that the people might lose heart if they were faced with the prospect of a battle and would return to Egypt. ¹⁸ God therefore led the people by the way of the

Six hundred thousand. This fabulous number is only intended to express the religious importance of this departure. In reality, those who left with Moses could not have been more than some two hundred persons, including wives and sons. Let us not forget that these were shepherds who could not survive with less than ten animals per person. A group of two hundred persons required some two thousand sheep and oxen. The wells of Sinai and their oases did not permit the transit of more numerous flocks.

¹⁹ Moses took with him the bones of Joseph for he had made the sons of Israel swear saying, "God will surely remember you and then you will carry my bones with you away from here."

²⁰ They moved on from Succoth and encamped at Etham bordering the wilderness.

²¹ By day Yahweh went before them in a pillar of cloud to guide them along the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, enabling them to travel day and night. ²² Neither the cloud by day nor the fire by night, disappeared from the sight of the people.

The Egyptians pursue the Israelites

14 ¹ Then Yahweh said to Moses, ² "Tell the people of Israel to turn back and encamp in front of Pihahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, facing Baalzephon. You will encamp opposite this place and near the sea." ³ So Pharaoh will think that the people of Israel have lost their way, and the wilderness has closed in on them. ⁴ Then I will make Pharaoh's heart stubborn so that he will pursue you. And I will draw glory for myself at the cost of Pharaoh and his army, and the Egyptians shall know that I am Yahweh!"

And the Israelites did as they had been instructed.

◆ ⁵ The king of Egypt was told that the people had fled; then Pharaoh and his ministers changed their minds with regard to the people. "What have we done," they said, "in allowing Israel to go and be free of our service?" ⁶ Pharaoh prepared his chariot and took his army with him. ⁷ There were six hundred of his best chariots; indeed he took all the Egyptian chariots, each one with his warriors.

"Yahweh had hardened the mind of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who set out in pursuit of the Israelites as they marched forth triumphantly." The Egyptians—all the chariots and horses of Pharaoh, his horsemen and his army—gave chase and caught up with them when they had encamped by the sea near Pihahiroth, facing Baalzephon.

¹⁰ The Israelites saw the Egyptians marching after them: Pharaoh was drawing near. They were terrified and cried out to Yahweh. ¹¹ Then they said to Moses, "Were there no tombs in Egypt? Why have you brought us to

◆ On the very night on which they have sacrificed the Passover Lamb, the Hebrews depart. The Egyptians pursue and overtake them when they are reaching the marshes along the Red Sea (13:17). Here will take place the most prominent event in sacred history before Jesus comes. God opens the way for his people and saves them, while their enemies drown in the sea.

Have no fear. Stay where you are. This is the attitude of the man of faith when he sees the discouragement of his brothers. Moses believes that God will not abandon those who set forth on the way to freedom. Moses answers as if he has seen the invisible (Heb 11:27), and his faith puts into motion God's intervention.

Yahweh made a strong east wind blow. Several pictures and films have presented this happening with fantastic images. In fact, the oldest biblical story about this is very imprecise. It does not say that the Israelites crossed the sea but that they saw their pursuers dead on the seabanks (14:30).

God's intervention was perhaps very moderate: a landslide a sudden rising of the waters? It was sufficient to save the pursued. But this intervention by Providence, as with so many others in history, would not have changed anything had not God's prophet Moses been there to tell the meaning of this event: Yahweh liberates Israel to make it his own people.

This is what the later account, (printed in smaller letters) wants to teach us when it relates this crossing of the sea in such a triumphalistic way. Here Moses' men passed in well-ordered file between two walls of water! A band of fugitives? Absolutely! They were the armies of Yahweh (12:41), countless people (12:37) winning the liberation of the world. With them, the God of the poor was beginning to remake the world.

The liberation of Israel remains as a model for all those who, after Moses, have struggled to uplift their brothers and make of them free men in a more just world. In the history of Christianity, we find other victories, great and small, that have made possible the progress of God's Kingdom and Justice. In these cases, too, there were groups committed to a liberating task, who, without arms, faced Pharaoh and his chariots, his officers, politicians and bureaucrats.

Those who cross to the other shore are not the same as before: the existence of the People:

ne desert to die? ¹²What have you lone by bringing us out of Egypt? sn't this what we said when we were n Egypt: Let us work for the Egyptians. Far better serve Egypt than to lie in the desert!"

¹³Moses said to the people, "Have o fear! Stay where you are and see ne work Yahweh will do to save you oday. The Egyptians whom you see oday, you will never see again! 'Yahweh will fight for you and all ou have to do is to keep still."

¹⁵*Yahweh said to Moses, "Why do you cry me? Tell the people of Israel to go forward. You will raise your staff and stretch your and over the sea and divide it to let the raelites go dryfoot through the sea."* ¹⁷*I will so arden the minds of the Egyptians that they ill follow you.* ¹⁸*And I will have glory at the pense of Pharaoh, his army, his chariots and rsemen. The Egyptians will know that I am ahweh when I gain glory for myself at the cost f Pharaoh and his army!"*

¹⁹The Angel of God who had gone head of the Israelites now placed imself behind them. The pillar of loud changed its position ²⁰from the ont to the rear, between the camps of e Israelites and the Egyptians. For ne army the cloud provided light, for e other darkness so that throughout e night the armies drew no closer to ach other. ²¹Moses stretched his and over the sea and Yahweh made strong east wind blow all night and ry up the sea.

The waters divided ²²and the sons of rael went on dry ground through the middle of the sea, with the waters forming a wall to their right and to their left. ²³*The Egyptians followed them and all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots and horsemen moved forward in the middle of the sea.*

²⁴It happened that in the morning watch, Yahweh in the pillar of cloud and fire, looked towards the Egyptian camp and threw it into confusion. ²⁵He so clogged their chariot wheels that they could hardly move. Then the Egyptians said, "Let us flee from the Israelites for Yahweh is fighting for them against Egypt."

At daybreak the sea returned to its place. As the Egyptians tried to flee, Yahweh swept them into the middle of the sea.

³⁰On that day Yahweh delivered Israel from the power of the Egyptians and Israel saw the Egyptians lying dead on the seashore. ³¹They understood what wonders Yahweh had done for them against Egypt, and the people feared Yahweh. They believed in Yahweh and in Moses, his servant.

the surging waters stood firm in heap;

I will divide the spoil and make a feast of it.
I shall draw my sword and my hand will destroy them."

in strength you led them to your holy house.

+ The first canticle of Moses is a shout of joyful thanksgiving. It is at the same time a profession of faith. The psalmist says: "Happy are the people who know how to praise."

The liberated people have no reason to glory in themselves at this victory which belonged to God and to Moses, the man of faith. It is proper for them only to give thanks to God.

Revelation will recall this canticle (Rev 15:31) in the canticle of the elect and martyrs of Christ, saved from their weakness and crowned with glory.

The ancient religions (and also modern people) celebrate feasts in accordance with the rhythm of nature: feasts of the moon, of summer, of rain, of birth. On the other hand, the feasts in the Bible celebrate the marvels which God did to save them. If it is good to praise God for the wonders of nature, even more should we recognize him in the events of history. Let us give thanks to God, before anything else, for the great and small events that show his Reign coming among us.

■ The Israelites definitely left behind the most brilliant and impressive civilization of their times, with its products, irrigation camps and prestigious culture. Had they not left, they would have disappeared as a people. But now Moses makes them take the way towards freedom. Like any nation or social class that achieves its independence, they have to become responsible for their own destiny. Moses knows that freedom is not a continual joy: this is but the beginning of a difficult way involving sacrifice. On this way, however, God manifests his Providence which allows us to walk with self-confidence. Unexpected wonders may happen but God is not concerned with multiplying his miracles in order to better the welfare of his own.

The fugitives who dare to penetrate the desert territories of Sinai, have reasons to be worried: they are threatened by hunger, thirst, and the inhabitants of the desert. In the following pages, the author graphically describes these dangers and recalls certain interventions by Providence. But he relates the story with much liberty, adapting these teachings to his contemporaries who were continually tempted by the easy life, were avaricious and attracted by the promises of foreign countries in which they would have lost their own identity and mission.

²⁷ Then they came to Elim where there are twelve springs and seventy palm trees, and there they pitched their camp beside the water.

² In the desert the whole community of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron³ and said to them, "If only we had died by the hand of Yahweh in Egypt when we sat down to cauldrons of meat and ate all the bread we wanted, whereas you have brought us to this desert to let the whole assembly die of starvation!"

⁴ Yahweh then said to Moses, "Now I am going to rain down bread from heaven for you. Each day the people are to gather what is needed for that day. In this way I will test them to see if they will follow my Teaching or not."⁵ On the sixth day when they prepare what they have brought in, they will find that there is twice as much as they gather each day."

⁶ Then Moses and Aaron said to the people of Israel, "In the evening you will know that it was Yahweh who brought you out of Egypt,⁷ and in the morning you will see the Glory of Yahweh. For he has heard your grumbling against him, because: who are we that you should grumble against us?"

⁸ In the evening Yahweh will give you meat to eat and in the morning bread to satisfy your hunger, because Yahweh heard your grumbling. You are not grumbling against us but against Yahweh, for who are we?"

¹¹ Then Yahweh spoke to Moses, "I have heard the complaints of Israel. Speak to them and say: Between the two evenings you will eat meat, and in the morning you will have bread to your heart's content; then you to consider that the infirmities of each one are due to his own sins. Likewise, natural plagues cannot be attributed directly to our sins, but God knows how to protect us from them when it suits him.

◆ The whole community grumbled at Moses and Aaron – an irresponsible attitude of people unable to face their destiny; they constantly criticize those who take the initiative for the good of everyone.

Yahweh will give you meat ... God provided food for his people just when they lacked everything. Numerous flocks of birds, tired from a long flight, fell at the side of the encampment. Another unexpected food, the manna, was also found. This manna was probably the resin that at times comes out abundantly from the bram-bles of the desert. In a most desperate moment, this help was, for Israel, the proof that God had not abandoned them. This event is also related in Num 11:4.

By this, we understand that the daily bread is a gift of God. When he invites us to take a difficult path, he is committed to helping us and to giving us first the bread we need. This is why he helps those who, through their own initiative and courage, create and distribute to all people the goods they need.

With time, the narration of this event was amplified. Some biblical texts seem to mean that God sent the manna daily during 40 years: Ex 16:35; Jos 5:12; Psalms 78:24; Wisdom 16:20. These exaggerations are a way of praising God but they have no historical value.

The Bible is simplifying reality when it presents to us a beautiful picture of the Exodus of an entire nation. Historians have proven that several nomadic groups went in and out of Egypt during those years, and the people liberated with Moses was one of them. Biblical narratives, however, seem to mix-up two different groups.

The first group was apparently expelled from Egypt because of a pestilence (the tenth plague) around 1400 BC. This group might have gone out through the road of the fortresses going across that coast land where "quails came up and covered the camp" (Ex 16:13; Num 11:31). Then they came to the oasis of Kadesh, where they remained for a long time until the other group arrived. People from the tribes of Ruben, Simeon, Levi and Judah were in this caravan and they entered Palestine through the south road.

The second group left with Moses, fleeing by night, in the year 1260 BC. They took the road of the fugitive slaves around the south of Sinai. They witnessed the crossing of the Red Sea. Then they arrived at Horeb passing through the region where tamarisk trees grew. These trees produced the manna (Ex 16:14; Num 11:7). After staying in Kadesh this group, joined by the tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh and Benjamin, could have entered Palestine through the east, crossing the Jordan with Joshua (Jos 3).

shall know that I am Yahweh, your God!"

¹³In the evening quails came up and covered the camp. And in the morning, dew had fallen around the camp. ¹⁴When the dew lifted there was on the surface of the desert a thin crust like hoarfrost. ¹⁵The people of Israel on seeing it said to one another, "What is it?" for they didn't know what it was. Moses told them, "It is the bread that Yahweh has given you to eat."

¹⁷This the people of Israel did. They gathered it, some more, others less. ¹⁸But when they measured it with an omer, he that had gathered more didn't have too much while the man who had gathered less didn't have too little. Each one had as much as he needed.

Give us our daily bread

¹⁹And Moses said to them, "Let no one leave any of it till the morning."

²⁰But they did not listen to Moses and some of them left it till morning. It bred worms and became foul, and Moses was angry with them.

²¹Every morning each one gathered as much as he could eat, and when the sun grew hot it melted.

²²On the sixth day they gathered the double amount of bread, two omers each, and the leader of the people came to tell Moses.

²³He said to them, "This is what Yahweh commanded: Tomorrow you shall rest, for that day is a Rest — or sabbath — sacred to Yahweh. ²⁴Bake today what you have to bake and boil what you have to boil, and you shall put aside what is left over to be kept till the next day."

So they put it aside until morning as Moses had ordered and its smell was not foul and it was free of maggots. ²⁵And Moses said, "Eat it today, for this is a day of Rest — or sabbath — in honour of Yahweh. Today you will not find it in the fields. ²⁶For six days you will gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none."

²⁷Some of the people went out on the seventh day but found none. ²⁸Then Yahweh said to Moses, "How long will you refuse to obey my commands and my laws? ²⁹Yahweh has given you this Restingday! That is why on the sixth day he gave you bread for two days. Let everyone stay where he is, and no one go out of his place on the seventh day." ³⁰And so the people rested on the seventh day.

³¹The people of Israel called this food manna. It was white like coriander seed and it tasted like wafers made with honey.

³²And Moses said, "This is what Yahweh commanded: Take a measure of manna and keep it for future generations to let them see the bread I gave you to eat in the desert when I brought you out of Egypt." ³³Then Moses said to Aaron, "Take a jar and fill it with a measure of manna and place it before Yahweh for your descendants." ³⁴Accordingly Aaron put a full measure of manna in the jar as Yahweh had commanded Moses and placed it before the slabs of divine statement to be kept there.

³⁵The people of Israel ate the manna until they came to an inhabited land. They ate it for forty years up to the time they reached the border of Canaan.

Water from the rock

This gift of the bread which came from heaven is mentioned in two different commentaries in later pages of the Bible. In Dt 8:3: "I gave you manna to eat, to show you that man does not live on bread alone but that every word that comes from the mouth of God is life for man." See Commentary on Mark 6:34. Later, in the Gospel, the manna is an image of the true bread from heaven, Christ, which is given as food of life in the Eucharist: see Com on Jn 6.

o God puts Israel to the test in the desert: For how long will these common people be willing to follow an uncommon destiny? How far will their faith go? Israel also tempts God, that is, they ask him for signs because they do not have total confidence in him. They demand miracles: "If you are with us, show it, here and now."

manded, and encamped at Rephidim. But there was no water to drink.

²The people complained to Moses and said, "Give us water to drink." But Moses replied, "Why do you find fault with me? Why do you put Yahweh to the test?"

³But the people thirsted for water there and grumbled against Moses, "Why did you make us leave Egypt to have us die of thirst with our children and our cattle?"

⁴So Moses cried to Yahweh, "What shall I do with the people? They are almost ready to stone me!"

⁵Yahweh said to Moses, "Go ahead of the people and take with you the elders of Israel. Bring with you the staff with which you struck the Nile, and go. ⁶I will stand there before you on the rock at Horeb. You will strike the rock and water will flow from it and the people will drink." Moses did this in the presence of the elders of Israel.

⁷The place was called Massah and Meribah because of the complaints of the Israelites, who tested Yahweh saying, "Is Yahweh with us or not?"

Victory over Amalek

■ "When the Israelites were at Rephidim, the Amalekites came and attacked them. ⁹So Moses said to Joshua, "Choose some of our men and go out to fight the Amalekites in the morning. As for me, I will stand with God's staff in my hand at the top of the hill."

¹²As Moses' arms grew weary they placed a stone for him to sit on while Aaron and Hur on either side held up his arms which remained steadily raised until sunset. ¹³For his part Joshua mowed down with the sword Amalek and his people.

¹⁴Yahweh then instructed Moses, "Write this in a book as something to be remembered, and make it known in the hearing of Joshua that I will wipe out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven."

¹⁵After that Moses built an altar and called it 'Yahweh is my banner', ¹⁶for he said, "hands were lifted up to the throne of Yahweh. Yahweh will be at war with the Amalekites from generation to generation."

Meeting with Jethro

18 ¹Jethro, the priest of Midian, father-in-law of Moses, heard all that God had done for Moses and for Israel his people when Yahweh brought Israel out of Egypt.

²After Moses had sent away Zipporah, his wife, Jethro, his father-in-law, received her ³and her two sons. The first Moses had called Gershom, to remember that he had been a

Moses, too, was put to the test in this place; see the same act related in Num 20.

In later times, the Jewish tradition saw in this rock a figure of God, the fountain of life, who was present among his people; the miraculous rock which accompanied them in their wanderings (see 1 Cor 10:40). God is the impenetrable Rock that retains its secret until it allows itself to be wounded and from its own wound life pours forth. Let us understand that man, sinner as he is, has lost real knowledge of God and for this reason cannot find him. But God becomes weak in the person of Jesus who, on dying, reveals the secret of God's love and compassion for us. The Gospel emphasizes that from the heart of Jesus, wounded by the lance, flowed forth blood and water, an image of the Holy Spirit, (Jn 7:37 and 19:34).

■ The victory over Amalek completes these experiences of the Divine Providence. Joshua directs the battle, but Moses with his rod lifted, works wonders. From God comes the victory.

In this story, the Christian tradition has always recognized an image of prayer that obtains victories from God.

The prophets' mission is not just to speak, but guest in a foreign land, ⁴and the other Eliezer, for he said, "The God of my father came to my help and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh."

⁵So Jethro came with Moses' wife and sons in the desert where the people had encamped at the mountain of God.

⁶Moses was told, "Your father-in-law Jethro is here. He has come with your wife and her two sons."⁷ So Moses went out to meet his father-in-law and bowing low before him, he kissed him, and when each had enquired about the other's health, they entered the tent. ⁸Moses then told his father-in-law all that Yahweh had done to Pharaoh and Egypt for the sake of Israel and all the difficulties they had met with on the way and how Yahweh had saved them.

⁹Jethro rejoiced at all Yahweh's goodness to Israel in freeing them from the power of Egypt and he said, ¹⁰"Blessed be Yahweh who has delivered you from the power of Egypt and Pharaoh, and has rescued the people from the grip of Egypt. ¹¹I know now that Yahweh is greater than all the gods, for he delivered his people when they were being oppressed."

¹²Then Jethro brought a burnt offering and other sacrifices to offer to God; and Aaron came with all the elders of Israel to share this meal with Moses' father-in-law in the presence of God.

Appointment of judges

◆ ¹³The next day Moses took his seat to administer justice for the people who stood around him from morning till night.

¹⁴His father-in-law, seeing all the work of Moses for the people, said to him, "What is this you are doing for the people? Why do you alone sit and judge while all the people stand around you from morning till night?"¹⁵ Moses answered, "It is the people who come to me to know God's will. ¹⁶When there is a dispute they bring it to me to decide between the two parties, and I teach them God's decrees and laws."

¹⁷Jethro replied, "What you are doing is not good. ¹⁸You and your people will wear yourselves out, for the work is too heavy and you cannot do it alone. ¹⁹Now listen to the advice I am going to give you and God be with you. You will be the people's representative before God and bring their cases to him. ²⁰You will teach them the statutes and laws and the way they must live and what they must do. ²¹But choose among the people, capable, God-fearing men, men of truth who hate a bribe, and appoint them as leaders for groups of a thousand, a hundred, fifty and ten.

²²They will administer justice at all times, bringing to your attention only those case of major importance, while they deal with all those of lesser importance. That will ease your burden since they will be sharing it with you. ²³If you do this, God will guide you and you will be able to cope with this duty; and all these people will go away happy."

²⁴Moses followed his father-in-law's advice and did as he said. ²⁵He chose capable men from among the Israelites and placed them as leaders for groups of a thousand, a hundred, fifty and ten. ²⁶They administered justice at all times, bringing difficult cases to Moses but judging all other cases themselves.

also to be an intercessor before God: 1 Sam 7:7; Jer 7:16; Ex 22:30.

◆ The Hebrews and the other fugitives who left Egypt with Moses had to organize themselves. God did not dictate to them what they should do. Partly, they created the institutions they needed. Partly, they adapted those of other peoples. In the present case, they followed the example of the Midianites (Moses' father-in-law was a Midianite priest).

Moses, like other unquestioned leaders, needs time to realize that everything will work out better if he shares his responsibilities with others. Fortunately, he has become accustomed to listening to God, so that he also knows how to listen to his relatives.

The people go to Moses as their prophet and judge. He solves the conflicts and allows people to consult him about what they ought to do or not do, so that their projects will be blessed by

Preparing for the Covenant

o 19 ¹Exactly two months after the Israelites had left Egypt, they arrived at the wilderness of Sinai. ²They arrived there coming from Rephidim and camped in the wilderness of Sinai.

³The Israelites camped there in front of the mountain, but Moses went up to God and Yahweh called to him from the mountain, saying, "This is what you are to say and to explain to the Israelites: ⁴You have seen what I did to the Egyptians and how I carried you on eagle's wings and brought you to myself. ⁵Now if you listen to me and keep my covenant, you shall be my very own possession among all the nations. For all the earth is mine, ⁶but you will be for me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation."

And he added, "This is what you are to say to the people of Israel."

⁷So Moses went and summoned all the elders of the people and related to them all that Yahweh had commanded him to say. ⁸All the people responded with one voice, "All that Yahweh has said, we will do." Moses then brought back to Yahweh the people's response.

⁹Yahweh spoke to Moses, "I am going to come to you in a dense cloud so that the people may hear me speaking with you and have trust in you always." Then Moses related to Yahweh what the people had said.

¹⁰Again Yahweh spoke to Moses, "Go to the people and purify them today and tomorrow; let them wash their garments ¹¹and be ready for the third day. For on the third day Yahweh will come down on Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people. ¹²You will fix a limit for the people round about, saying: 'Take care not to go up to the mountain or touch its base. Whoever touches the mountain will die. ¹³No hand shall touch him but he will be shot down by arrows; be it man or beast he shall not live.' Only when the ram's horn sounds may some of them go up to the mountain."

¹⁴Moses came down from the mountain to the people and purified them, and they washed their gar-

God and be successful. The judges whom he chooses are priests and "elders," that is, leaders who will govern the people of Israel.

o The Israelites had come to know God, both in the circumstances of their liberation and in the trials of the desert. In this way they had been prepared for the encounter intended by Yahweh when he called Moses in the desert at Horeb or Sinai (Ex 3, 12). The time had come to accept freely God's design to make of them his people forever.

All the earth is mine. God is the God of every person and the saviour of all, be they Christians or not. Nevertheless, he has decided to direct history and make it mature from within, through a people whom he has chosen to pass through critical experiences.

A holy nation, this means, consecrated to me. Israel will be the kingdom whose only king is Yahweh. So the efforts of Israel's rulers should be directed towards justice. The Israelites are free men who belong only to God; hence, they should not allow themselves to be contaminated by idols, impure customs and the false values of other peoples.

You will be for me a kingdom of priests. In any religion, the priest is one who approaches God and receives communications. Israel, as a whole, has this privilege of knowing God and approaching him in a way that other peoples cannot. Israel receives God's promises for all men; God sends prophets to Israel so that the people may see with greater clarity than anyone else the requirements of justice and fraternity.

This covenant is concretized at the foot of Mt. Sinai, in one of the most impressive places that can be imagined. Moses and the elders, that is, the representatives of the people, climb the mountain in the middle of a tremendous electrical storm, while the thunder roars amidst the ravines. The cleanliness of their robes, the prohibition against coming too close, their abstinence has prepared their spirits to feel the ments. ¹⁵He then said to the people, "Be ready in three days and abstain from sexual relations."

¹⁶On the morning of the third day there was thunder and lightning and a dense cloud over the mountain, and a very loud trumpet blast was heard. All the people in the camp trembled. ¹⁷Moses then made the people leave the camp to meet God and stand at the foot of the mountain.

¹⁸Mount Sinai was completely covered in smoke because Yahweh had come down in fire, and the smoke rose as from a furnace. The whole mountain shook violently,¹⁹ while the blast of the trumpet became louder and louder. Moses spoke and God replied in thunder.

²⁰ When Yahweh had come down to the summit of Mount Sinai, God called Moses who went to the summit ²¹ where Yahweh said to him, "Go down and give this warning to the people, lest they rush to see Yahweh and many of them perish. ²² Even the priests who come near Yahweh must purify themselves lest Yahweh break out against them."

²³Moses answered Yahweh, "The people cannot ascend Mount Sinai because you, yourself, ordered us to put limits around the mountain, and set it apart as holy." ²⁴Yahweh replied, "Go down and bring up Aaron with you, but do not let the priests and the people break through to come up to Yahweh or he will break out against them."

²⁵ So Moses went down to the people and said to them...

The Decalogue

+20 ¹God spoke all these words. ²He said, "I am Yahweh your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery.

– ³Do not have other gods before me.

– ⁴Do not make yourself a carved image or any likeness of anything in Power of God: no one can come close to God.

All this helps us understand what Jesus wanted to say during the last Supper with his apostles, when he spoke of the new covenant, (Mk 14:24). In the prayer that followed, he asked that the believers might be the new People consecrated to God, priests of God in the midst of the world: Jn 17, 1 Pt 2:3; Rev 1: 6 and 5: 10.

In the Bible, the word "the Law" is used to designate all the laws that related to the Covenant made at Mount Sinai.

The Law indicates, by itself, something weighty. The Hebrews had thrown off the yoke of slavery, but they could not progress without a Law. The educators of any child impose a discipline to form his will, to tame his whims, to train his generosity. Likewise, the people of Israel needed to submit to a Law for a long time before they would become mature enough to receive the Spirit. Submissive to the Law, they would discover how often they offend God.

Don't forget that here we speak of the preparation for the Covenant. The Covenant account is concluded in Chapter 24, after the laws given in chapters 20-23 that interrupt the account.

+ Moses went to the summit of Mount Sinai to receive the laus from God ... and the text presents to us two bodies of laws. The first, the shorter, contains the ten commandments. The second or the longer one was written after the time of Moses and comes from the time when the Israelites were established in Canaan; it is called the Code of the Covenant. (Chapters 20:20 - 23:33).

I am Yahweh, your God. Important as the Ten Commandments or Decalogue are, what is still more important is the manner of presenting them. These two precepts: do not kill, do not steal, are taught in any civilized society. But here, Yahweh, the living and only God, speaks with authority of one who has liberated Israel from its slavery and now wants to put it at his own service. And because he wants to make them free citizens of a free country, he imposes fundamental laws without which they will revert to slavery.

To begin with, God must be recognized as One, Holy, and Jealous: v. 3-11.

Do not have other gods before me. Yahweh is a jealous God, different from the gods of other people who allow rival divinities to set up shops side by side with them and answer petitions heaven, or on the earth beneath, or in the waters under the earth; ⁵you shall not bow down to them or serve them. For I, Yahweh your God, am a jealous God; for the sin of the fathers, when they rebel against me, I punish the sons, the grandsons and the great-grandsons; ⁶but I show steadfast love until the thousandth generation for those who love me and keep my commandments.

– ⁷Do not take the name of Yahweh your God in vain for Yahweh will not leave unpunished anyone who takes his name in vain.

– ⁸Remember the sabbath day and keep it holy. ⁹For six days you will labour and do all your work, ¹⁰but the seventh day is a sabbath for Yahweh your God. Do no work that day, neither you, nor your son, nor your daughter nor your servants, men or women, nor your animals, nor the stranger who is staying with you. ¹¹For in six days Yahweh made the heavens and the earth and the sea and which they themselves cannot oblige. As people say, "If God does not listen to me in such a church, I will go to ask in another." Then we have one god for war, another for rain, another for mothers with child. All these are gods for people who see in religion the means of obtaining healings and benefits. In this we see a kind of faith which hopes to obtain the maximum from God. Yahweh, however, is not "at the service of Israel," and not at our service; rather, it is we who are to serve God.

We cannot serve unconditionally anyone or anything; neither can we follow an ideology that contradicts his words, nor a love that does not respect his commandments.

I punish sons, grandchildren... It would be an error to think that "the God of the Old Testament holds grudges." He only tells irresponsible people that although they quickly forget the evil they have committed, he will not leave them in peace until they have made reparation (Hos 6:1-6).

I punish children, grandchildren... is like saying: I will purify you by means of the suffering of everything that sin has corrupted in you and your community.

Do not make an image of what is on the earth. Here are prohibited any images of creatures which might become gods and compete with the only One – and which require a worship (expressed in deeds and lifestyle) which was prohibited by God's Law. In that time the Canaan gods were honoured with sacred prostitution: idols and immorality went together. The prohibition of images is linked to the former: do not have another god before me.

Notwithstanding the prohibition against images, the Bible arranges that the Ark of God will rest among images: two cherubim or angels that covered it with their wings (1 K 6:23-28). How do you explain this contradiction? The answer is very simple: The cherubim were not considered gods and did not demand a separate worship; they were spirit servants of God. In the same manner, the Church today approves statues of Mary and of the saints, who are not gods but servants of the One God. We do not ask them for something that God does not want to give. Only He is Good (Lk 18:19) and from him proceeds all good (James 1:17). To give an example, we do not serve Mary by another way of living that would not be in imitation of Christ. We do not expect from her anything but what the Father himself decides to give us through her mediation.

But it is also prohibited to make representations of Yahweh. That is because God surpasses everything we can imagine or think about him. In that sense, the Bible prohibits us also from forming God to our own way of thinking. We are inclined to imagine God according to our own concepts, and so the faith of many wears away when God does not direct events in the way they thought he should.

Why, then, do we paint pictures of Jesus? Simply because centuries after these first teachings of God to Moses, God came to us in the person of his son. In his person, we have seen God-made-man and if we keep the picture of our dear ones, why not remember Jesus as his apostles saw him? Moses was not able to foresee this and therefore could not speak of it.

IDOLS & IDOLATRY: see com on 1K 17; Is 30:22; Ezk 23:5.

The Hebrews called Sabbath, that is, Rest, the last day of the week. They sanctified it mainly by the suspension of all activities.

On the seventh day Yahweh rested. In Dt 5:15 a somewhat different reason is given. See also Gen 2:2-3 and the commentary.

We know that Jesus was raised on the day following the sabbath. That is why the apostles, conscious that his Resurrection initiated new times, established this Day of the Lord (on Sunday) as the Christian holy day, or rest, or sabbath. See Acts 20:1; 1 Cor 16:2; Rev 1:10. The sabbatists who nowadays want to observe the Jewish day, forget that Jesus and the apostles all that is in them, but on the seventh day he rested; that is why Yahweh has blessed the sabbath day and made it holy.

¹⁸In the meantime, all the people witnessed the thunder and lightning and heard the blast of the trumpet and saw the mountain smoking. They trembled with fear and kept at a distance.

¹⁹Then they said to Moses, "You, yourself, speak to us and we shall listen. But do not have God speak to us, lest we die." ²⁰Moses answered the people, "Do not be afraid, for God has come to test you, so that the fear of God may be with you, and that you may not sin again." ²¹So the people kept at a distance while Moses went forward to the cloud where God was.

The Code of the Covenant

■ ²²Yahweh spoke to Moses, "Say this to the people of Israel: 'You have seen for yourselves that I have spoken to you from the heavens. ²³Do not make any gods of silver or gold to stand beside me.

²⁴For me you are to make an altar of earth, and on it you will sacrifice burnt offerings and peace offerings, your sheep and your cattle. In every place where you come to remember my name, I will come to you and bless you. ²⁵If you build an altar of stone, do not make it of cut stones, for you will defile it by using tools on it. ²⁶And you will not ascend my altar on steps lest you expose your nakedness on it.

had authority to interpret and to reform the laws of Moses. They came from God, of course, but not directly (see Acts 7:38; Gal 3:19; Heb 2:2). See also Mt 5:27-28 and 31-32. So the sabbatists deserve the warnings of the Bible itself in Gal 5:4; Col 2:16.

In modern times, the workers had to fight so that Sunday would be recognized as a holiday. Perhaps those who easily work even on Sundays do not see the importance of rest for human and Christian life. In spite of the fact that Jesus, in the Gospel, reacted against the too rigorous observance of the sabbath (Mt 12, Jn 5), the weekly rest corresponds to the will of God.

Do not take the name of Yahweh in vain. There are four ways of invoking the name of Yahweh in vain:

- Using it, as was done before, for magic formulas, like wishing to take the power of God by force. There are still people who use the Bible and Christian prayers as a means to work miracles.
- Swearing by his name and not fulfilling the oath (Sir 23:9 and Mt 5:33).
- Blaspheming, that is, insulting the name of Yahweh, which incurred condemnation to death (Lev 25:10).
- Pronouncing or invoking the name of God without an important reason.

Honour your father. See Sir 3:2.

Do not steal. So that there may be trust and unity within a community, it is necessary that everyone show the greatest respect for the rights of his neighbour, that he pay his debts and refrain from taking what he finds at hand. However, this commandment should not be invoked to justify any type of private ownership. The Bible teaches that the earth belongs to God and whoever occupies it is only its administrator. The goods of the earth are to be shared with all and if someone has to sell his inheritance, the buyer is to return it to him at the end of 49 years. The Bible does not agree that some group may take possession of the national wealth and leave the masses in poverty (see Lev 25:13).

The Ten Commandments are commented on in the New Testament: Mt 5:22; 5:33; 5:27; Mk 7:10; Lk 18:20; Rom 7:7; 13:9; James 2:11.

■ The decalogue (that is, the Ten Commandments) needs to be applied to concrete reality to direct people's lives. When the Israelites were installed in Palestine and passed from the wandering life of shepherds to the settled life of farmers, they made a body of laws which we find in chapter 20:22 to 23:19. It is called "The Code of the Covenant." Very possibly, it was solemnly adopted by the twelve tribes when they were slave, the owner of the slave shall be paid thirty pieces of silver and the ox will be stoned.

³³ When a man leaves a pit uncovered or when he digs a pit and leaves it open and an ox or a donkey falls into it, ³⁴ the owner of the pit will make compensation to the owner of the animal by paying him money, but he may keep the dead animal.

³⁵ When a man's ox injures the ox of his neighbour and it dies, they will sell the live ox and share both the money and the meat of the dead animal. ³⁶ Or if it is known that the ox has been in the habit of goring and its owner has not kept it in, he must make good the loss by giving his neighbor a live ox but the dead ox will be his.

22 ¹ If a thief is caught breaking into a house and receives a mortal blow, the man who struck him will not be guilty of his death, ² but if it happened after dawn he will be guilty of murder. The thief must make full restitution. If he cannot do this he must be sold for what he has stolen. ³ If what has been stolen is found alive in his possession, be it ox, donkey or sheep, he must pay double.

⁶ If a man gives money or goods to another to keep for him, and they are stolen, the thief, if he is found, shall pay back double. ⁷ Should the thief not be found, the man who owns the house must swear before the judges that he has not stolen the other man's property.

⁹ If a man entrusts to his neighbour his donkey, cow, sheep or other animal, and the animal dies or is injured, or is carried off without being seen, ¹⁰ an oath before Yahweh shall prove that the man has not stolen the other's property. The owner of the animal shall accept the oath and the other shall not make restitution. ¹¹ But if the animal has been stolen from him, restitution shall be made. ¹² If the animal was killed by wild beasts, the man must bring the remains as evidence but shall not pay anything.

¹⁵ If a man seduces a virgin who is not betrothed and lies with her, he shall pay the "bride price" and marry her. ¹⁶ If her father refuses to give her to him, he shall pay money equal to that for a virgin given in marriage.

¹⁷ You shall not allow a sorceress to live. ¹⁸ Whoever has sexual relations with a beast shall die.

¹⁹ Whoever sacrifices to any god other than Yahweh shall die.

²⁰ You shall not wrong or oppress a stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

²⁴ If you lend money to any of my people who are poor, do not act like a moneylender and do not charge him interest.

²⁵ If ever you take a person's cloak as a pledge, you must give it back to him by sunset, ²⁶ for it is all the covering he has for his body. In what else will he sleep? And when he cries to me I will hear him, for I am full of pity.

²⁷ Do not revile God or curse a ruler of your people.

²⁸ Do not delay in giving me my share of your wheat and your wine.

You shall give to me the firstborn of your sons. ²⁹ It shall be the same for your cattle and sheep. The firstborn shall stay with its mother for seven days; on the eighth day you shall give it to me.

³⁰ You are to be men consecrated to my service. Do not eat flesh that has been torn by wild animals; let it be given to the dogs.

23 ¹ Do not make false statements. And do not join hands with the wicked by being a malicious witness.

² Do not follow the majority when they do evil, or when they pervert justice in a lawsuit. ³ Do not be partial not even to the poor.

⁴ If you see your enemy's ox or donkey going astray, take it back to him.

⁷ Keep away from lies.

Do not slay the innocent or the just, for I will not forgive the wicked.

⁸ And do not take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the eyes of the clear-sighted and perverts the sentence of the just.

¹⁰ For six years you will sow your fields and reap their produce. ¹¹ but in the seventh you will let the land rest and lie fallow. The poor may eat what it produces and what they leave the wild animals will eat. It will be the same for your vineyard and your olive grove.

¹³ Pay attention to all that I tell you and do not call upon other gods; don't let their names be heard on your lips.

¹⁴ Three times each year you shall celebrate a feast in my honour. ¹⁵ You shall keep the feast of Unleavened Bread, as I commanded you, and eat unleavened bread for seven days at the appointed time in the month of Abib, for it was then that you left Egypt. And do not come to me empty-handed.

¹⁶ You shall keep the feast of the Harvest, with the feast of the first harvest of what you sowed in your fields.

Then the feast of Ingathering at the end of the year when you gather in the fruit of your labour in the fields.

¹⁹ The first of the first fruits of your soil you will bring to the house of Yahweh, your God. Do not boil a kid in its mother's milk.

■ ²⁰ See, I am sending an Angel before you to keep you safe on the way and bring you to the place I have made ready.

²¹ Be on your guard in his presence and listen to him; do not resist him for he will not pardon your wrong-doing, for my name is in him.

²² If you listen to him and do what I say, I will be enemy to your enemies and the opponent of your opponents.

²³ My Angel will go before you and bring you to the land of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hivites and the Jebusites; all these I will destroy.

²⁵ If you serve Yahweh, your God, he will bless your bread and your

■ See I send my angel before you. It is very difficult to speak adequately of God's Providence for us. Am I to say every moment: "This is the work of God?" Here the Bible speaks of the "angel" that God sent before Israel. It is a way of saying that God protected and guided his own people, availing himself of countless, visible and invisible intermediaries.

Smash their sacred stones. Any community liberated from false gods, that is from fears and water — and I will keep sickness away from you. ²⁶ No woman among you will miscarry or be barren. I will fulfill the number of your days.

²⁷ Now I will send my terror ahead of you and throw into confusion all the people you encounter; I will make all your enemies turn and flee before you.

²⁹ I will not drive them out in a single year lest the land become a desert and the wild beasts increase and molest you. ³⁰ I will drive them out before you little by little until your number increase and you are able to take possession of the land.

³¹ I will fix your boundaries from the Red Sea to the sea of the Philistines and from the Wilderness to the Euphrates; for I will deliver into your power the inhabitants of the land and I will drive them out before you.

24 ¹ Then he said to Moses, "Go up to Yahweh, you, Aaron, Nadab and Abihu with seventy of the elders of Israel, and let them worship from a distance. ² Moses alone shall go forward to Yahweh but not the others, nor shall the people go up with him."

false values imposed by custom and propaganda, will see the blessings of God on their interests and concerns.

◆ The most important events of the Bible are at times the most briefly related. At the foot of Mt. Sinai the Covenant which would govern the life of Israel was signed.

Two scenes depict the celebration of the Covenant. First, Moses and the elders of Israel witness the Glory of Yahweh over Mount Sinai. Later, on Moses' return, the people seal the Covenant by means of a solemn sacrifice.

Moses went up with the seventy elders. The Covenant was something of such supremacy, that it was not fitting that the commitment of the people be guaranteed only by the spiritual experiences of Moses. Seventy witnesses would be able to relate what they had seen. They climb up the mountain, impressive in its aloneness, the blue transparency of the sky, the brilliance of the sun — all these prepared them to see the Glory of God. Yahweh became present and they saw him

Conclusion of the Covenant

◆ ³ Moses came and told the people all the words of Yahweh and all his laws. The people replied with one voice: "Everything that Yahweh has said, we shall do."

⁴ Moses wrote down all the words of Yahweh, then rose early in the morning and built an altar at the foot of the mountain with twelve raised stones for the twelve tribes of Israel.

⁵ He then sent young men from among the sons of Israel to offer burnt offerings and sacrifice bullocks as peace offerings to Yahweh.

⁶ And Moses took half the blood and put it in basins; and with the other half of the blood he sprinkled the altar.

⁷ He then took the Book of the Covenant and read it in the hearing of the people. They said, "All that Yahweh said we shall do and obey."

⁸ Moses then took the blood and sprinkled it on the people saying, "Here is the blood of the covenant that Yahweh made with you in accordance with all these words."

⁹ Then Moses went up with Aaron, in some way, in a mysterious experience, in so far as men can meet the living God. "Whom no one has ever seen." (Jn 1:18).

Here is the blood of the Covenant ... According to the custom of the time, both parties to the contract were sprinkled with the blood of the victims. Since the altar represented Yahweh, it received this sprinkled blood on his behalf. These details would have to be remembered when Jesus later declares at the Last Supper, "This is the blood of the Covenant which will be shed for the multitude" (Mk 14:24).

With the slabs of stone, the people will guard the memory of the meeting at Sinai. Together with other remembrances of the time in the desert, these would be kept in a vessel of precious wood called the Ark of the Covenant.

With the passage of time, the people of Israel would forget the commitment from which the Slabs of the Law originated. They would consider the Ark as a miraculous object providing Nadab, Abihou and the seventy elders of Israel. ¹⁰ They saw the God of Israel. Under his feet there was what seemed like a pavement of sapphire, clear as the sky itself. ¹¹ And he let not his hand overpower these chosen men from among the sons of Israel; they looked on God and ate and drank.

Moses is given the Law

¹² Yahweh said to Moses, "Come up to me on the mountain and stay there. I will give you the slabs of stone, the Law and the commandments which I have written for their instruction."

¹³ So Moses arose with his servant,

Joshua, and before going up the mountain of God, ¹⁴ Moses said to the elders, "Remain here until we come back to you. Aaron and Hur are with you; let whoever has a dispute to settle, go to them."

¹⁸ And Moses entered the cloud and went up the mountain.

o Moses stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

THE HOLY TENT (1st PART)

◆ 25 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² Tell the sons of Israel to set aside a contribution for me: you shall accept this contribution from every man who gives from the heart.

³ The things you shall accept from them are these: gold, silver, and bronze, ⁴ purple cloth of violet shade and red, crimson cloth, fine linen, goats' hair; ⁵ rams' skins dyed red, fine leather, acacia wood; ⁶ oil for the lamps, them with God's protection (1 Sam 4:4). Therefore the Ark would lose its original significance and God would permit it to disappear in the midst of the national catastrophe. Likewise, our miraculous statues will disappear and our famous temples will remain empty when we no longer remember the demanding presence of Christ in our midst.

According to the oldest account, Moses wrote on the Slabs of Stone while God dictated (Ex 34:28). Later stories amplified the event, as usual, and said: the writing was God's (31:19; 32:16).

o The continuation of this reading is found in chapters 30-32. Chapters 32-34 were artificially put in the place they now occupy in the Bible for the purpose of separating chapters 25-31, wherein Yahweh orders the construction of the Sanctuary, from chapters 35-40, wherein Moses constructs the Sanctuary.

◆ From now on Israel's mission is to serve Yahweh. Religious worship is not everything, since Yahweh asks that they serve him by fulfilling all their human duties according to justice; however, it is an indispensable part of the service of God. Every people and every age have rites, signs and language to celebrate religious worship. The rites of the Old Testament no longer interest us. Chapters 25-40 of the Exodus which refer to the Sanctuary of the Desert, have little interest for us. However, on reading them, we will discover something of the mentality and faith of Israel.

Centuries after Moses' time, the traditions of the Hebrew people recalled how, in the desert, the Ark of God was kept in a tent. The Ark was a box of precious wood that contained the Tablets of Stone on which the Law had been engraved, together with a little manna and other remembrances of the wonders God performed in the desert.

When the priests of Israel wrote these present chapters, the people of God had a wonderful Temple in Jerusalem where the Ark was kept. It pleased them to think that the Tent of the desert had some similarity with the Temple; deliberately, they gave it dimensions half the size of the Temple of Jerusalem and they thought that Moses had fabricated that tent, following in detail instructions from God.

⁷⁻⁸ For they must build me a sanctuary so that I may dwell among them, ⁹ and you shall make the tabernacle and its furnishings following exactly the pattern I shall show you.

¹⁷ Further, you are to make the mercy Seat of pure gold, two and a half cubits long, and one and a half cubits wide. ¹⁸ For the two ends of the mercy Seat you are to make two golden cherubim of hammered gold. ¹⁹ Make the first cherub for one end and the second for the other, and fasten them to the two ends of the cover so that they may make one piece with it. ²⁰ The cherubim are to have their wings spread upward so that they overshadow the mercy Seat. They must face one another, their faces towards the mercy Seat. ²¹ You must place the mercy seat on the top of the ark. Inside the ark you must place the stone tablets that I shall give you. ²² There I shall come to meet you; there, from above the mercy Seat from between the two cherubim on it, I shall give you all my commands for the people of Israel.

The table and the lampstands

³⁰ On the table, before me, you must place the bread of continual offering.

³¹ You are to make a lampstand of pure gold; the lampstand must be of hammered gold, both its base and stem. Its decorative flowers, including buds and petals, must be of one piece with it. ³² Six branches must extend from its sides, three from one side, three from the other. ³³ Each of the six branches of the lampstand is to have three decorative flowers shaped like almond blossoms, each with its bud and petals. ³⁴ The lampstand itself is to have four decorative flowers shaped like almond blossoms, each with its bud and petals, thus: ³⁵ one bud under the first two branches extending from the lampstand, one under the next pair, one under the last pair: corresponding to the six branches extending from the lampstand. ³⁶ The buds and the branches must be of one piece with the lampstand, and the whole made from a single piece of pure hammered gold. ³⁷ Then you are to make lamps for it, seven of them, and set them so that they throw their light toward the front of it. ³⁸ Tongs for extinguishing the burning lamps and trays must be of pure gold. ³⁹ You are to use seventy-five pounds of pure gold for making the lampstand and all its accessories. ⁴⁰ See that you make them according to the pattern shown you on the mountain.

The Holy Tent

26 ¹ The Holy Tent itself you are to make with ten sheets of fine twined linen, of purple wool, violet shade and red, and of crimson wool; you are to have these sheets finely embroidered with angels. ² The length of a single sheet is to be twenty-eight cubits, its width four cubits, all the sheets to be of the same size. ³ Five of the sheets must be sewed together, and the other five, also. ⁴ You must attach loops of violet wool to the border of the last sheet in one set, and do the same for the border of the last sheet in the other set. ⁵ You are to put fifty loops on the first sheet and, matching them one by one, fifty loops on the border of the last sheet in the second set. ⁶ And you are to make fifty gold clasps to draw the sheets together. In this way the Holy Tent will be a unified whole.

⁷ You are to make sheets of goats' hair to form a cover over the Holy Tent. There will be eleven sheets. ⁸ The length of a single sheet is to be thirty cubits, its width four cubits, the eleven sheets to be all of the same size. ⁹ You must sew five of these sheets together into one sheet, the remaining six into another; the sixth you will fold double over the front of the cover.

¹⁰ You must attach fifty loops to the border of the last sheet in one set, and do the same for the border of the last sheet in the second set.

¹² One sheet will be left over, half of which is to hang over the back of the Holy Tent.

¹³ This extra cubit is to hang over the sides of the Holy Tent as a covering for it.

¹⁴ For the Holy Tent you will make further coverings, one of rams' skins dyed red, and to spread over this, another covering of fine leather.

¹⁵ You are to make frames of acacia wood for the Holy Tent which will stand upright.

¹⁶ Each board is to be ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide. ¹⁷ Each board shall have two arms that shall serve to fasten the boards in line; for all the frames of the Holy Tent you must do this. ¹⁸ There will be twenty boards for the southern side of the Holy Tent. ¹⁹ You are to make forty silver bases for putting under the twenty boards thus: two bases under the first board to receive its two matching arms, and so on for the other boards. ²⁰ The other side of the tabernacle, on the north, is to have also twenty boards ²¹ supported by forty silver bases, two bases under each board. ²² For the back of the Holy Tent on the west, you must make six boards, ²³ and also two boards for the corners at the back of the Holy Tent. ²⁴ These boards must be joined at the bottom and also at the top, up to the level of the first ring; and the same for the two boards that are to form the two corners.

silver bases. ³³ You must hang the veil from the clasps and there behind the veil you must place the ark of the Statement and the veil will serve to separate the Holy Place from the Holy of Holies. ³⁴ The mercy Seat you must place on top of the ark inside the Holy of Holies. ³⁵ Outside the veil, you shall set the table and the lampstand on the south side of the Holy Tent, opposite the table, for the table will be on the north side. ³⁶ Finally, for the entrance to the Tent you are to make a curtain of purple wool, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. ³⁷ And you shall have for this curtain five posts of acacia wood covered with gold, with gold hooks; for these you are to cast five bronze bases.

27 ¹ You are to make an altar out of acacia wood, a square five cubits long and five cubits wide, its height to be three cubits. ² At its four corners you are to put horns, the horns to be of one piece with it, covering it with bronze. ³ For the service of the altar you are to make pans for the ashes for burning the fat, as well as shovels, sprinkling basins, fire pans; you must make all the vessels for the altar out of bronze. ⁴ You are also to make a grating for it of bronze network, and on the four corners of this put four bronze rings. ⁵ You shall set it under the altar's ledge, below, so that it reaches halfway up the altar. ⁶ And for the carrying of the altar you are to make poles of acacia wood and cover them with bronze. ⁷ These are to be passed through the rings, so that they are on either side of the altar when it is carried. ⁸ You are to make the altar hollow, of boards; in the same way that was shown to you on the mountain.

⁹ You are to make also the court of the Holy Tent. The hangings of the court on the side facing south are to be of fine twined linen, one hundred cubits long for one side. ¹⁰ Their twenty bronze posts are to be set in the twenty bronze bases and to have hooks and rods of silver. ¹¹ So too for the northern side there are to be hangings one hundred cubits long, and twenty posts set in twenty bases, with their hooks and rods of silver. ¹² Across the width of the court, on the western side, there are to be fifty cubits of hangings, carried on ten posts set in ten bases. ¹³ The width of the court on the eastern side facing the sunrise is to be fifty cubits. ¹⁴ On one side of the gateway there are to be fifteen cubits of hangings, carried on three posts set in three bases. ¹⁵ On the other side of the gateway there are also to be fifteen cubits of hangings, carried on three posts set in three bases. ¹⁶ The gateway to the court is to consist of a curtain twenty cubits wide made of purple wool, violet shade and red, of crimson wool and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer, carried on four posts set in their four bases. ¹⁷ All the posts enclosing the court are to be connected by silver rods: their hooks are to be of silver, their bases of bronze. ¹⁸ The length of the court is to be one hundred cubits, its width fifty cubits, its height five cubits. All the hangings are to be made of fine twined linen, and their bases of bronze. ¹⁹ All the furnishings for whatever use in the tabernacle, all the pegs of it and of the court, must be of bronze.

²⁰ You are to command the people of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for the light, and to keep a flame burning there perpetually. ²¹ Aaron and his sons are to set this flame in the Tent of Meeting, outside the veil that is before the Statement. It must burn there before Yahweh from evening to morning perpetually. This command is to be kept forever by the people of Israel.

The priestly vestments

28 ¹ Set apart of the sons of Israel your brother Aaron and his sons, and summon them to be priests in my service: Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. ² For Aaron your brother you are to make sacred vestments to give him dignity and magnificence. ³ You are to instruct all the ablest craftsmen, to make Aaron's vestments for his consecration to my priesthood. ⁴ These are the vestments they must make: Breastpiece, Ephod, robe, embroidered tunic, turban and belt. Your brother Aaron and his sons shall wear these sacred vestments when they serve me as priests. ⁵ For these vestments you shall use gold, purple wool, violet shade and red, crimson wool, and fine twined linen.

⁶ They are to make the Ephod of gold, purple wool, violet shade and red, crimson wool and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. ⁷ It must have two shoulder straps fitted to it to join its two ends together. ⁸ The woven band on it to hold it on is to be of similar workmanship and to form one piece with it: this must be of gold thread, purple wool, violet shade and red, crimson wool, and fine twined linen. ⁹ You will then take two precious stones and engrave them with the names of the sons of Israel, ¹⁰ six of their names on one stone, the remaining six on the other, in the order of their birth. ¹¹ With the art of a jeweler, of an engraver of seals, you are to engrave the two stones with the names of the sons of Israel, and mount them in settings of gold mesh. ¹² You are to fasten the two stones commemorating the sons of Israel to the shoulder straps of the Ephod. In this way Aaron will bear their names on his shoulders in the presence of Yahweh, that he may remember them. ¹³ You must also make golden rosettes, ¹⁴ and two chains of pure gold twisted like cord: you are to attach these cordlike chains to the rosettes.

¹⁵ You are to make the Breastpiece of judgement, finely embroidered, of the same workmanship as the apron. You are to make it of gold, purple wool, violet shade and red, crimson wool, and fine twined linen. ¹⁶ It is to be square and doubled over nine inches wide. ¹⁷ In this you are to set four rows of stones: sard, topaz, carbuncle, for the first row; ¹⁸ emerald, sapphire, diamond for the second row; ¹⁹ for the third row hyacinth, ruby, amethyst; ²⁰ and for the fourth row, beryl, onyx, jasper. These are to be mounted in gold settings. ²¹ There are to be twelve according to the number of the sons of Israel whose names are engraved on them. They are to be engraved like seals, each with the name of one of the twelve tribes.

²² For the Breastpiece you will make chains of pure gold twisted like cords, ²³ and also two gold rings and fix them to its two upper corners. ²⁴ You must fasten the two gold cords to the two rings fixed on the corners of the Breastpiece. ²⁵ The other two ends of the cords you must fasten to the two rosettes, so that they will be attached to the shoulder straps of the Ephod, on the front. ²⁶ You are to make two gold rings and fix them to the two lower corners of the Breastpiece, on the inner hem, next to the Ephod, on the front. ²⁷ You are to make two more gold rings and fix them low down on the front of the two shoulder pieces of the Ephod, close to the seam, above the woven band of the Ephod. ²⁸ You must secure the Breastpiece by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through its rings and those of the Ephod, so that the Breastpiece will sit above the woven band and not come apart from the Ephod.

²⁹ So when Aaron enters the sanctuary wearing the Breastpiece of judgement, he will bear the names of the sons of Israel on his breast to call them to mind continually in the presence of Yahweh. ³⁰ In the Breastpiece of judgement you will put the Urim and the Thummim by means of which he takes the decisions for the Israelites. Aaron shall have

³¹ You are to make the robe of the Ephod entirely of violet-purple. ³² In the center it must have an opening for the head, the opening to have around it a border woven like the neck of a shirt to keep the robe from being torn. ³³ You shall decorate the lower hem with pomegranates of purple wool, violet shade and red, crimson wool, and fine twined linen. ³⁴ and you shall fit gold bells between: gold bells and pomegranates will be alternately all around the lower hem of the robe. ³⁵ Aaron is to wear this robe when he serves before God, so that the tinkling of the bells will be heard whenever he enters the sanctuary and goes into Yahweh's presence, or leaves it: if he does not, he will die.

³⁶ You are to make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it 'Consecrated to the Lord.' ³⁷ You will tie this to the front of the headpiece with a ribbon of violet-purple. ³⁸ Aaron is to wear it on his forehead, and so take on himself any sins which the sons of Israel may have committed in any of their sacred offerings. Aaron must always wear this plate on his forehead, to draw down on the Israelites the goodwill of Yahweh.

⁴⁰ You are to make shirt and belt and head-dress for the sons of Aaron to make them dignified and beautiful.

⁴¹ You will put all these ornaments on your brother Aaron and his sons. You will then anoint and invest and consecrate them to serve me in the priesthood. ⁴² You are to make them linen shorts to cover their nakedness from waist to thigh. ⁴³ Aaron and his sons must wear these when they go into the Tent of Meeting and when they approach the altar to serve the sanctuary, as a precaution against being guilty of some fault that would mean death. This is a permanent rule for Aaron and for his descendants after him.

29 ¹ This is the ceremony you must use when you consecrate them to serve me in the priesthood. Take one young bull and two rams without any defects, ² unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers spread with oil, made from fine wheat flour. ³ You must put these things into a basket and present them in the basket, at the same time as the young bull and the two rams.

the basket of unleavened bread placed before Yahweh,²⁴ and put it all into Aaron's hands and those of his sons and make the gesture of offering before Yahweh.²⁵ Then you are to take them back and burn them on the altar, on top of the burnt offering, as a sweet-smelling offering which pleases Yahweh.

²⁶ You are to take the breast of the ram and make the gesture of offering before Yahweh; this is to be your own portion.²⁷ You are to consecrate the breast that has been thus offered, as also the thigh that is set aside — the breast, that is, which has been offered and the thigh that has been set aside from the ram.

²⁸ This, by perpetual law, will be the portion that Aaron and his sons are to receive from the sons of Israel, since it is the portion set aside, a portion the sons of Israel are to set aside from their communion sacrifices, the portion they owe to Yahweh.

³⁶ On each day of this week you are also to offer a bull as a sacrifice for sin, in atonement; by offering an atonement sacrifice for sin, you will take away sin from the altar; then you must anoint it, and so consecrate it.³⁷ For seven days you are to repeat the atonement sacrifice for the altar and consecrate it. So it will be extremely holy, and whatever touches it will become holy.

ning twilight; do this with the same amounts of flour, olive oil and wine as in the morning. This is a sweet-smelling offering which pleases Yahweh.⁴² This is to be a continual offering from generation to generation, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting in the presence of Yahweh.

That is where I shall meet you and speak to you.⁴³ There I will teach the people of Israel, and this place will be consecrated by the presence of my glory.⁴⁴ In this way I will consecrate the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and Aaron too, and his sons, to be priests in my service.⁴⁵ For I will remain with the people of Israel, and I will be their God.⁴⁶ And so they will know that it is I, their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt to live among them: I, their God.

The incense, the water and the anointing oil

30 ¹ You must make an altar on which to burn incense; you are to make it out of acacia wood.² It is to be one cubit long, and one cubit wide — that is to say, square — and to stand two cubits high; its horns are to be one piece with it.³ The top of the altar, its surrounding sides, and its horns, are to be covered with pure gold, and decorated with a gold edge all around.⁴ You are to put two gold rings on it, below the edge on its two opposite sides; these are to hold the poles used for carrying it.⁵ These poles you must make of acacia wood and cover with gold.⁶ You are to set up the altar before the veil that protects the ark of the Statement opposite the ark and the mercy Seat from where I speak to you.

⁷ On this altar Aaron must burn fragrant incense each morning when he prepares the lamps,⁸ and in the evening twilight when Aaron puts the lamps back, he must burn it again. You must make these offerings of incense before Yahweh unfaithfully from generation to generation.⁹ You must not offer unholy incense on this altar or animal or grain offering, or pour out any wine offering on it.¹⁰ Once a year Aaron is to perform the ceremony of atonement; he shall do this atonement with the blood of offering to take away sins. And you shall do the same once a year in the generations to come. This ceremony will be extremely holy in the eyes of Yahweh.

¹¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said,¹² "When you take a census and make a register of the people of Israel, each is to pay Yahweh a ransom for his life, so that no disaster comes on them when the census is being made."

¹³ Everyone subject to the census must pay the required amount of money, weighed according to the official standard, and this shall be set aside for Yahweh. ¹⁴ Everyone subject to the census, that is to say of twenty years and over, must pay the sum set aside for Yahweh. ¹⁵ The rich man is not to give more, nor the poor man less, when they pay this amount for their lives. ¹⁶ You will use this ransom money given to you by the people of Israel for the upkeep of the Tent of Meeting. It will remind Yahweh of the people of Israel and will be the ransom for your lives."

¹⁷ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ¹⁸ "You must also make a bronze basin on a stand, for washing. You must place it between the Tent of Meeting and the altar and put water in it. ¹⁹ In this, Aaron and his sons must wash their hands and feet. ²⁰ When they are about to enter the Tent of Meeting they must wash in water lest they die, and when they have to approach the altar for their service, to burn the offering burned in honor of Yahweh, ²¹ they must wash their hands and feet lest they die. This is a lasting rule for them, for Aaron and for his descendants from generation to generation."

²² Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ²³ "Take the choicest spices: twelve pounds of liquid myrrh, six pounds of sweet-smelling cinnamon, six pounds of scented cane and twelve pounds ²⁴ of cassia (all weighed according to the official standard) and one gallon of olive oil. ²⁵ These you are to make into a holy oil for anointing, such a blend as the perfumer might make. ²⁶ With it you are to anoint the Tent of Meeting and the ark of the Statement, ²⁷ the table and all its furnishings, the lampstand and all its accessories, ²⁸ the altar of incense, the altar of burnt offering with all its furnishings, and the basin with its stand. ²⁹ In this way you shall consecrate ³⁰ them and they will remain extremely holy; and whatever touches them will become holy. You must anoint Aaron and his sons and consecrate them, so that they may be priests in my service. ³¹ Then you are to say to the people of Israel: You must hold this anointing oil holy from generation to generation. ³² It is not to be poured on the bodies of common men, nor are you to make any other oil of the same mixture. It is a holy thing and you must consider it holy. ³³ Whoever makes any like it or uses it on a layman shall be outlawed from his people."

might make, salted, pure, and holy. ³⁶ Crush a part of it into a fine powder, and put some of this in front of the ark of the Statement in the Tent of Meeting, the place appointed for my meetings with you. You must regard it as most holy. ³⁷ You are not to make any incense like it for your own use. You must hold it to be a holy thing, reserved for Yahweh. ³⁸ Whoever copies it for use as perfume shall be outlawed from his people."

The craftsmen for the sanctuary

31 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² "See, I have chosen Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. ³ I have filled him with the spirit of God and given him understanding, skill, and ability for every kind of craft: ⁴ for the art of designing and working in gold and silver and bronze; ⁵ for cutting stones to be set, for carving in wood, for every kind of craft. ⁶ Here and now I give him a partner, Oholiab son of Ahisamach, one of the tribe of Dan; and to all the men that have skill I have given more, for them to carry out all that I have commanded you: ⁷ the Tent of Meeting; the ark of Statement and the mercy Seat that is on top of the ark, ⁸ and all the furniture of the Holy Tent; the table and its furnishings; the pure lampstand and all its accessories; the altar of incense; ⁹ the altar of burnt offering with all its furnishings; the basin with its stand; ¹⁰ the beautiful priestly vestments, that is, the sacred vestment of Aaron the priest and the vestments of his sons, for the priestly functions; ¹¹ the anointing oil and the fragrant incense for the sanctuary. In this they are to do exactly as I have directed you."

The sabbath rest

¹² Yahweh said to Moses, ¹³ "Speak to the people of Israel and say: 'You shall keep my sabbaths carefully, because the sabbath is a sign between myself and you from generation to generation to show that it is I, Yahweh, who have made you my own people. ¹⁴ You must keep the sabbath, then; it is to be held sacred by you. Whoever does not keep it, but works on that day, must be put to death. ¹⁵ Work is to be done for six days, but the seventh day must be a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever does any work on the sabbath day must be put to death. ¹⁶ The people of Israel are to keep the sabbath, observing it from generation to generation: this is a lasting covenant. ¹⁷ Between myself and the people of Israel the sabbath is a sign forever, since in six days Yahweh made the heavens and earth, but on the seventh day he rested and drew breath."

THE MOLTEN CALF

¹⁸ When Yahweh had finished speaking to Moses about all these things, he gave him the two slabs of the Statement, slabs of stone written with the finger of God.

+ 32 ¹ When the people saw that Moses was so long in coming down from the mountain they assembled around Aaron and said to him, "Come, make us gods to walk ahead of us; as for this Moses who brought us out of Egypt, we don't know what has happened to him."

² And Aaron said to them, "Take the gold earrings from your wives, your sons and daughters and bring them to me." ³ So all the people took off their earrings and brought them to Aaron. ⁴ He took what they gave him and with a graving tool made it into a molten calf.

They then said, "These are your gods, O Israel, who brought you out of Egypt."

⁵ Now, when Aaron saw this, he built an altar before the molten calf and cried out, "Tomorrow will be a feastday for Yahweh."

⁷ Then Yahweh said to Moses, "Go down at once, for your people, whom you brought up from the land of Egypt, have corrupted themselves. ⁸ They have quickly turned from the way I commanded them and have made for themselves a molten calf; they have bowed down before it and sacrificed to it and said: 'These are your gods, Israel, who brought you out of Egypt.'"

⁹ And Yahweh said to Moses, "I see that these people are a stiff-necked people. ¹⁰ Now just leave me that my anger may blaze against them. I will destroy them, but of you I will make a great nation."

¹¹ But Moses calmed the anger of Yahweh, his God, and said, "Why, O Yahweh should your anger burst against your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with

+ Just as Adam disobeys from the beginning, so too does Israel. After receiving the Law. The difficult relationship between Israel and its God now begins. He threatens, punishes and, after that, pardons.

Moses is frightened this first time: he thinks that by using drastic measures, he will make Israel return to the right path and the people will be made more responsible. But the years pass and the people continue to sin. Therefore, later prophets will become convinced that a Law does not suffice for mortal man, he needs a new heart: See the new covenant in Jer 31:31.

Make us gods. The Israelites have not really accepted Yahweh, the demanding and challenging God who commands them to conquer the promised land. They wish to return to their old religion which merely requires feasts and rites. The golden calf they invent out of wood covered with gold (which Moses will burn), is the traditional figure of the Canaanite god El, a habitually good-natured god who puts at ease the minds of the fearful believers.

Their sin, then, is not only in making an image of God, but, even more, in making a god which suits them. It is the same sin that many believers commit today when they become indignant because the Church asks them to fight for peace and justice.

I will destroy them, but of you I will make a great nation. When the people's fidelity fails, Yahweh asks Moses for an exceptional proof of his own fidelity. He suggests that his own descendants could very well form a new people of God to replace these irresponsible ones. But: Moses has understood that this cannot be and should not be: God will never withdraw his promises to Israel. So Moses must sacrifice himself to the end to save these sinners. He will seek neither salvation nor spiritual gifts for his own descendants at the expense of the people who received the Covenant.

Moses succeeds and obtains pardon for Israel. God permits him to stand before Yahweh to such great power and with a mighty hand? ¹²Let not the Egyptians say: 'Yahweh brought them out with evil intent, for he wanted to kill them in the mountains and wipe them from the face of the earth.' Turn away from the heat of your anger; change your mind and do not bring disaster on your people. ¹³Remember your servants, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and he promise you swore to them: I will multiply your descendants like the stars of heaven, and all this land I spoke about I will give to them as an everlasting inheritance."

¹⁵Moses then returned and came down from the mountain carrying in his hand the two slabs of the Statute, slabs written on both sides, back and front. ¹⁶These slabs were the work of God and the writing graven on the slabs was the writing of God.

¹⁷When Joshua heard the noise of the people who were shouting he said to Moses, "There is a sound of war in the camp." ¹⁸But Moses answered, "It is not a victory song, nor the cry of defeat that I hear, but the sound of singing."

¹⁹When he drew near to the camp and saw the calf and the dancing, his anger burst forth and he threw the slabs from his hands and shattered them against the base of the mountain. ²⁰Then he seized the calf they had made and burned it in the fire, grinding it into a powder that he scattered over the surface of the water, and this he made the Israelites drink.

²¹Moses said to Aaron, "What did these people do to you to let you bring such a great sin on them?"

²²And Aaron said, "Don't let your anger be roused. You know this people and how evil they are. ²³They said to me: 'Make us gods to go before us: as for this Moses, the man who brought us out of Egypt, we don't know what has happened to him.' ²⁴I then said to them that whoever had gold was to give it over to me. I threw it in the fire and out came this calf!"

²⁵Moses saw that the people were out of control, for Aaron had let them run wild, to a point that would make them an easy prey for their opponents.

²⁶Then Moses stood at the gate of the camp and said, "All those for Yahweh, come to me." And all the sons of Levi rallied round him.

²⁷Then he said to them, "This is what Yahweh, the God of Israel commands: Let each one carry a sword at to appease his anger (Psalm 106:23). In various parts of the Bible, Moses will be presented as an intercessor who had authority to ask in the name of his people, and who was, thus, the anticipated figure of Jesus, the only Mediator and intercessor.

On going down, Moses hears the irresponsible answer of Aaron who lays the blame on the people. Aaron has acted like an opportunist, not anxious to please the people, but quickly forgetting the mission he has received from God, not from the people. Let us recall that Aaron was the patron and model of the Jewish priests. The priests who wrote these pages kept the teaching of Moses and claimed his authority at they were humble enough to present Aaron, their ancestor, as a common and sinful man, whose acts were not equal to his high status.

The unfaithful people will not easily pay for their sin. The different accounts mixed in this chapter do not agree regarding what happened. Verse 35 makes us think of a punishment like the pest. Verses 25-29 indicate that not all participated in the rebellion. The men of the tribe of Levi were more faithful and helped Moses to re-establish his authority: they started killing the guilty ones. Because of this Yahweh gives you the blessing this day: because their zeal for God made them despise any feeling of fellowship "according to the flesh."

Many details in this story came from those who wrote these pages centuries later. They were influenced by what happened in the sanctuaries of Bethel and of Dan, where King Jeroboam had yearling calves placed to represent Yahweh (1 K 12:26).

his side. Go back and forth from door to door and don't hesitate to kill even your brothers, your companions and your relatives."

²⁸ The Levites did what Moses had ordered and that day about three thousand men fell.

²⁹ Moses then said, "From now on your hands are consecrated to Yahweh for each of you has been against his son and his brother. Because of this, Yahweh gives you today his blessing."

Moses intercedes for the people

³⁰ The next day Moses said to the people, "You have committed a very grave sin, but now I am going up to Yahweh; perhaps I will obtain pardon for your sin."

³¹ So Moses went towards Yahweh and said, "Ah! This people has committed a very great sin; they made a god out of gold. ³² And now please forgive their sin ... if not, blot me out of the book you have written."

³³ Yahweh said to Moses, "Whoever has sinned against me, him I will blot out from my book. ³⁴ Go now! Lead the people where I told you. My Angel will walk before you and on the day of punishment I will punish them for their sin." ³⁵ And so Yahweh punished the people with a plague because of the calf Aaron had made for them.

The mercy of Yahweh for the people

33 ¹Yahweh said to Moses, "Go now! Leave this place, you and the people you brought out from the land of Egypt and go to the land I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob when I said: 'I will give it to your descendants.' ²I will send an Angel before you to drive out the Canaanites, the Amorites, the Hittites and the Perizzites, the Hivites and the Jebusites. ³But I will not go with you to this land flowing with milk and honey, for you are a stiff-necked people and I might destroy you on the way."

⁴ When the people heard these distressing words they were very sad and none of them put on any ornaments.

⁵ Yahweh then said to Moses, "Say to the sons of Israel: 'You are a stiff-necked people. If I were to go with you, even for a moment, I would destroy you! Now, take off your ornaments that I may know what I shall do to you.'

⁶ And so the Israelites gave up their ornaments before leaving Mount Horeb.

The Tent of Meeting

• The tent called "The Tent of Meeting" was the first temple of God in the midst of his people. Note that it is placed outside the encampment, at some distance, and only after the people have sinned is it spoken of. God no longer deals directly with Israel, but through the intermediary of his Angel (32:34 and 33:32) and he isolates himself in some way in this temple, because their hearts cannot receive him.

If God stays at a distance and does not clearly manifest his presence, he does so not so much to punish us as to adapt himself to our lack of readiness: it would be a terrible thing to feel God's presence before having entirely surrendered to him.

◆ God has come down from Sinai to speak to his people. However, he does not communicate in a personal way with those sinful men who are still beginning the first stage of their life of

¹⁴ Yahweh said, "My Face will go with you and I will give you rest." ¹⁵ And Moses said, "If your Face does not come with us, do not take us from here. ¹⁶ And how will anyone here know that you look kindly on me and my people? Will it not be because you go with us? In that way, myself and your people will be distinguished from every other nation on the face of the earth."

¹⁷ Yahweh then said to Moses, "What you have said I will do, for I look kindly on you and I have known you by name."

Yahweh passes before Moses

+ ¹⁸ Moses said, "Then let me see your Glory." ¹⁹ And He said "I will make all my goodness pass before you and proclaim the name of Yahweh before you. For I am gracious to whom I want to be gracious and I am merciful to whom I want to be merciful."

²⁰ Then Yahweh said, "You cannot see my face because man cannot see me and live." ²¹ And he added, "See this place near me; you shall stand on the rock ²² and when my Glory passes I will put you in a hollow of the rock and cover you with my hand until I have passed by. ²³ Then I will take away my hand and you shall see my back, but my face shall not be seen."

34 ¹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Cut two slabs of stone like the first, and I will write on the slabs the words that were on the former slabs that you broke.

² Be ready in the morning and come up to Mount Sinai and wait for me on the top of the mountain. ³ No one will go up with you and no one is to be seen anywhere on the mountain. Even the sheep and the cattle are not to graze near the mountain."

faith, in which obedience to the Law is primary. God communicates instead with Moses, face to face (33:1), that is spirit to spirit. This is different from inferior communications like dreams, visions and apparitions: Num 12:6.

The people agree to being accompanied by the Angel of Yahweh, that is, to count on his help and providence. Moses, however, thirsts for another kind of presence, since his role as chief and prophet has set him apart from his brothers and has placed him in great solitude. He desires the Face of God to be with him, that is, a personal presence by means of which God makes known his intentions.

Later Moses insists: may your face accompany us. That is: may God make himself known to his people also, so that they may be not only a people protected by God, but a holy people who know God. The answer is positive, yet only with the passing of time will God make himself known with greater generosity. Jesus will ask for this knowledge for all those who compose his Church (Jn 17).

+ This paragraph is one of the most profound in the entire Bible. It speaks to us in a figurative way of how God agrees to make himself known in a personal and direct way.

Let me see your glory. In reality God does not let himself be seen, but he himself will pronounce his Name, that is, he will let his Power and Glory be impressed on the one who wants to see him.

You will stand on the rock. That is, you will wait for me here in solitude, detached, alert and available for the moment I wish, since I give my favours to whomever I wish.

I will cover you with my hand. When God wants to favour someone with mystical union, he becomes master of his mind for a more or less long time. Then he removes from him every word, every idea and every remembrance, and keeps him by force in an emptiness, in which he clings solely to the presence of God, as if dead to everything outside: I will put you in the hollow of the rock. And thus he will remain until the Lord has passed by. Then I will take away my hand. Then you will realize that you have been within God.

Yahweh, then, pronounces his Name, leaving it engraved in the depths of the spirit, and this Name is none other than the knowledge and experience of his infinite mercy. Upon ending this time of total union with the Lord, Moses no longer has any ambition or personal desire: it

⁵ And Yahweh came down in a cloud and stood there with him, and Moses called on the name of Yahweh.

⁸ Moses hastened to bow down to the ground and worship. ⁹He then said, "If you really look kindly on me, my Lord, please come and walk in our midst and even though we are a stiff-necked people, pardon our wickedness and our sin and make us yours."

The law of the Covenant

¹⁰ Yahweh said, "I am making a covenant with you; in the presence of all the people I will do marvels never yet done in any land or nation so that all the people among whom you live may see how awesome is the work of Yahweh that I will do for you.

¹⁴ Do not worship another god, for Yahweh whose name is jealous, is a jealous God! ¹⁵ So make no treaty with those who live in the land, for they prostitute themselves to their gods and sacrifice to them. If not, they will invite you and you will eat their sacrifices. ¹⁶ Then you take their daughters for your sons and as those daughters prostitute themselves to their gods, they will lead your sons to do the same.

¹⁸ Keep the feast of Unleavened Bread; for seven days in the month of Abib you are to eat unleavened bread for that was the month you went out of Egypt.

²¹ You shall work for six days and rest on the seventh day; even at the time of ploughing and harvesting you shall rest.

²⁶ Bring the very best of the firstfruits of your soil to the house of Yahweh, your God.

Do not boil a kid in the milk of its mother."

²⁷ Then Yahweh said to Moses, "Write down these words, for these are the requirements of the covenant that I have made with you and with Israel."

only matters that God's plan to entrust to men the divine inheritance be realized.

^o There is another very old text, considered by Israel as one of those which better expressed the demands of God in celebrating the Covenant.

In the first generations after Moses, there was not "one" decalogue, but several groups of commandments put down at varied times and in various places. Each of them was meant to express the requirements of the Covenant and the rules of Moses. The most well known is in chapter 20 but here is found another and more ancient one.

While the first, "our" decalogue, gives priority to justice, these Ten Commandments of chapter 34, about rites and feasts, helped the Israelites keep their religious identity among pagan and foreign people.

In the ancient times at least two accounts of Moses' ascent up Mount Sinai were kept.

This possibly explains why in the actual text of the Bible, Moses goes up a second time after having broken the slabs of stones. This literary fiction was a way of keeping the two accounts of the ascent of Moses as well as the two most important decalogues.

²⁸ Moses remained there with Yahweh forty days and forty nights without eating or drinking water. He wrote on the slabs the words of the Covenant — the Ten Commandments.

Moses comes down from the mountain

+ ²⁹When Moses came down from Mount Sinai, with the two slabs of the testament in his hands, he was not aware that the skin of his face was radiant after speaking with Yahweh.

³⁰Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw that Moses' face was radiant and they were afraid to go near him. ³¹But Moses called them, and Aaron with all the leaders of the community drew near, and Moses spoke to them. ³²Afterwards all the Israelites came near and he told them all that Yahweh had commanded him on Mount Sinai. ³³When Moses had finished speaking with them, he put a veil over his face.

o ³⁴Whenever Moses went before Yahweh to speak with him, he took off the veil until he came out again. And when he came out and told them what he had been commanded, ³⁵the Israelites saw that his face was radiant. Moses would then replace the veil over his face until he went again to speak with Yahweh.

THE HOLY TENT (2nd PART)

35 ¹Moses assembled the whole community of the people of Israel and said to them, "This is what Yahweh has ordered to be done: ²Work is to be done for six days, but the seventh is to be a holy day for you, a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever does any work on that day shall be put to death. ³You must not light a fire on the sabbath day in any of your homes."

The materials are collected

⁴Moses spoke to the whole community of the people of Israel. "This is what Yahweh has commanded: ⁵Set aside a contribution for Yahweh out of your possessions. Let all give willingly and bring this contribution for Yahweh: gold, silver, and bronze; ⁶purple wool, of violet shade and red, crimson wool, fine linen, goats' hair, ⁷rams' skins dyed red and fine leather, acacia wood, ⁸oil for the light, spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense; ⁹precious stones and gems to be set in Ephod and Breastpiece. ¹⁰Let all the most skilled craftsmen among you come and make all that Yahweh has commanded: ¹¹the Holy Tent, its tent and its covering, its hooks and its frames, its crossbars, its posts, and its bases; ¹²the ark with its poles, the mercy Seat on the ark and the veil that screens it; ¹³the table with its poles and all the furnishings for it, and the loaves of offering; ¹⁴the lampstand for the light, with its accessories, its lamps, and the oil for the light; ¹⁵the altar of incense with its poles, the anointing oil, the fragrant incense, and the screen for the entrance to the Holy Tent; ¹⁶the altar of burnt offering with its bronze grating, its poles, and all the furnishings for it, the basin and its stand; ¹⁷the hangings of the court, its posts, its bases, and the screen for the gateway to the court; ¹⁸the pegs of the Holy Tent and of the court, together with their cords; ¹⁹the beautiful priestly vestments for service in the sanctuary, that is, the sacred vestments for Aaron the priest and the vestments of his sons for the priestly functions."

²⁰Then the whole community of Israel withdrew from Moses' presence. ²¹And all those who wanted to give came, bringing their contribution for Yahweh for making the Tent of Meeting, for all its functions and for the sacred vestments.²² They came, men and women, all giving willingly, bringing brooches, rings, bracelets, necklaces, gold things of every kind, all those who had vowed to Yahweh some article of gold.²³ All those who happened to own purple wool, of violet shade or red, crimson wool, fine linen, goats' hair, rams' skins dyed red, or fine leather, brought them.²⁴ All who could contribute to the collection of silver and bronze brought their contribution for Yahweh. And all who happened to own acacia wood, suitable for any of the work to be done, brought it.²⁵ All the skilled women set their hands to spinning, and brought purple wool, of violet shade and red, crimson wool and fine linen, from what they had spun.²⁶ All the women willingly used their special skill and spun the goats' hair.²⁷ The leaders brought precious stones and gems to be set in Ephod and Breastpiece,²⁸ and the spices and oil for the light, for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense.²⁹ All the men and women of Israel who wanted to contribute to all the work that Yahweh had ordered through Moses to be done brought their free offering to Yahweh.

³⁰ Moses said to the people of Israel, "See, Yahweh has chosen Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah.³¹ He has filled him with the spirit of God and given him understanding, skill, and ability for every kind of craft:³² for the art of designing and working in gold and silver and bronze;³³ for cutting stones to be set, for carving in wood, for every kind of craft.³⁴ And to him and Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, he has given the gift of teaching.³⁵ He has filled them with skill to carry out all the crafts of engraver, weaver of fine linen, embroiderer in purple wool, of violet shade and red, in crimson wool and fine linen, as well as of the common weaver; they are able to do work of all kinds, and are skillful designers."

36 ¹ Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen to whom Yahweh had given skill and understanding to carry out all that was required for the building of the sanctuary, did their work exactly as Yahweh had directed.

² Moses then called Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen to whom Yahweh had given ability and who offered to do the work.³ They received from Moses all that the people of Israel had brought as contributions for the work of building the sanctuary.⁴ In the meantime the people continued each morning to bring their offerings.⁵ So the skilled craftsmen, busy with the various works on the sanctuary, all left their work and went to tell Moses, "The people are bringing more than what is needed for the work which Yahweh has told us to do."⁶ Moses then sent this command throughout the camp: "Let no one, man or woman, do anything more toward the collection for the sanctuary." So the people were stopped from bringing any more;⁷ the material they had was enough, and more than enough, to complete all the work.

²⁰ The Holy Tent was made with boards of acacia wood, which stood upright.²¹ Each board was ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide.²² Each board was fitted with two matching arms; this they did for all the boards of the Holy Tent.²³ They made twenty boards for the southern side,²⁴ with forty silver bases to put under the twenty boards: two bases under the first board to receive its two matching arms, and so on for the other boards.²⁵ For the other side on the north, they made twenty boards²⁶ and forty silver bases, two bases under each board.²⁷ For the back on the west, they made six boards.²⁸ And they made two boards for the corners at the back of the Holy Tent.²⁹ These boards were joined at the bot-bottom and also at the top, up to the level of the first ring; this they did with the two boards that were to form the two corners.³⁰ In this way there were eight boards with their sixteen silver bases; two bases under each board.³¹ They made crossbars of acacia wood: five to hold the boards together that were to form one side of the Holy Tent,³² five on the other side to hold the boards that were to form the northern side.³³ They made the middle bar, fixed halfway up, to run from one end to the other.³⁴ They covered the boards with gold, and put gold rings on them to take the crossbars which they covered with gold.

37 Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, one and a half cubits wide, one and a half cubits high.² He covered it, inside and out, with pure gold, and decorated it all around with a gold edge.³ He cast four gold rings for the ark, attaching them to its four feet: two rings on one side and two rings on the other.⁴ He also made poles of acacia wood covering them with gold;⁵ and he passed the poles through the rings on the sides of the ark, for carrying it.⁶ Also he made of pure gold the mercy Seat, two and a half cubits long, one and a half cubits wide.⁷ For the two ends of the mercy Seat he made two golden Cherubim of hammered gold,⁸ the first Cherub for one end and the second for the other, and fastened them to the two ends of the mercy Seat so that they made one piece with it.⁹ The Cherubim had their wings spread upward so that they overshadowed the mercy Seat. They faced one another.

wood and covered them with gold; these were for carrying the table.¹⁶ He made furnishings of pure gold for the table: dishes, cups, jars and bowls to be used for the wine offerings.

¹⁷ He made the lampstand of pure gold, and made the lampstand, base and stem, of hammered gold. Its decorative flowers including buds and petals were of one piece with it.¹⁸ Six branches extended from the sides of it, three from one side, three from the other.¹⁹ The first branch carried three decorative flowers shaped like almond blossoms, each with its bud and petals; the second branch, too, carried three decorative flowers shaped like almond blossoms, each with its bud and petals, and similarly all six branches extending from the lampstand.

²⁵ He made the altar of incense out of acacia wood. It was one cubit long, and one cubit wide that is to say, square — and two cubits high; its horns were one piece with it.²⁶ The top of it, its surrounding sides, and its horns, he covered with pure gold, and decorated it all around with a gold edge.²⁷ He fixed two gold rings to it below the edge on its two opposite sides, to hold the poles used for carrying it.²⁸ These poles he made of acacia wood and covered them with gold.²⁹ He also made the sacred anointing oil and the pure, fragrant incense, blending it as perfumers do.

38 He made the altar of burnt offering out of acacia wood, a square five cubits long and five cubits wide, and three cubits high.² At its four corners he put horns, the horns being of one piece with it, and covered it with bronze.³ He made all the altar vessels: pans for the ashes, shovels, sprinkling basins, hooks, fire pans; he made all the vessels for the altar out of bronze.⁴ He made a grating for it of bronze network which he set under the ledge, below, so that it reached halfway up the altar.⁵ He cast four rings and fixed them on the four corners of the bronze grating to hold the poles.⁶ He made the poles of acacia wood and covered them with bronze⁷ and placed them through the rings on the sides of the altar for carrying it. He made the altar hollow, of boards.

²⁴ The amount of gold used in the work — the entire work for the sanctuary — (this was gold consecrated by offering) weighed 2,195 pounds, weighed according to the official standard. ²⁵ The silver collected when the census of the community was taken weighed 7,550 pounds, weighed according to the official standard. ²⁶ Everyone of twenty years and over included in the census paid the required amount. These numbered six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. ²⁷ The 7,500 pounds of silver were used for casting the one hundred bases for the sanctuary and the veil, 75 pounds for each base. ²⁸ With the remaining 50 pounds of silver he made the hooks for the posts, the plating for their tops, and their rods. ²⁹ The bronze consecrated by offering amounted to 5,310 pounds. ³⁰ and with this he made the bases for the entrance of the Tent of Meeting, the bronze altar with its grating of bronze and all the furnishings for it, ³¹ the bases for the enclosure of the court, those for the gateway to the court, all the pegs for the Holy Tent, and all the pegs for the court enclosure.

39 ¹ From the purple wool, violet shade and red, the crimson wool, and the fine linen they made beautiful priestly vestments for service in the sanctuary. They made the sacred vestments for service for Aaron, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

nade two gold rosettes and two gold rings,⁷ and they fastened the two gold cords to the two rings fixed on the corners of the breastpiece.¹⁸ The other two ends of the cords they fastened to the two rosettes; they were thus attached to the shoulder straps of the Ephod, on the front.¹⁹ They made two gold rings and fixed them to the lower corners of the breastpiece, on the inner hem, next to the Ephod.²⁰ And they made two more gold rings and fixed them low down on the front of the two shoulder straps of the Ephod, close to the seam, above the woven band of the apron.¹ They secured the Breastpiece by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through its rings and nose of the apron, so that the Breastpiece could sit above the woven band and not come apart from the Ephod, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

³⁰ They also made the plate, the holy plate of pure gold, and engraved on it "Consecrated to Yahweh," as a man engraves a seal.³¹ They tied to this a ribbon of violet-purple to secure it to the top of the turban, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

covering of fine leather, and the screening veil;³⁵ the ark of the Statement with its poles and the mercy Seat;³⁶ the table with all its furnishings, and the loaves of offering;³⁷ the lampstand of pure gold with its lamps — the lamps that were to be set on it — and all its accessories; the oil, too, for the light;³⁸ the golden altar, the anointing oil, the fragrant incense, the curtain for the entrance to the tent;³⁹ the bronze altar with its grating of bronze, its poles and all its furnishings; the basin and its stand;⁴⁰ hangings of the court with their posts and bases, and the curtain for the gateway to the court, its cords, its pegs, and all the furniture for the service in the Holy Tent, the Tent of Meeting;⁴¹ the beautiful priestly vestments for service in the sanctuary, that is, the sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and the vestments for his sons for the priestly functions.⁴² The Israelites had done all the work exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses.

⁴³ Moses examined the whole work, and he could see they had done it as Yahweh had directed him. And Moses blessed them.

The sanctuary erected and consecrated

40 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² "On the first day of the first month you are to erect the Holy Tent, the Tent of Meeting,³ and place the ark of the Statement in it, screening it with the veil.⁴ Bring in the lampstand, too, and set up its lamps.⁵ Place the golden altar of incense in front of the ark of the Statement, and set up the screen at the entrance of the Holy Tent.⁶ Place the altar for burnt offerings in front of the entrance to the Holy Tent, the Tent of Meeting.⁷ Place the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and fill it with water.⁸ Set up the enclosure of the court and hang the curtain at the gateway of the court.⁹ Then, taking the sacred oil, anoint the Holy Tent and everything in it, consecrating it with its furniture, to make it a holy place.¹⁰ Anoint the altar for burnt offerings with all its furnishings; and consecrate the altar which henceforth will be a most holy thing.¹¹ Anoint the basin with its stand, and consecrate it.¹² Bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting and see that they bathe.¹³ Then clothe Aaron with the priestly garments and anoint and consecrate him, to serve me in the priesthood.¹⁴ Next, bring his sons and clothe them with shirts,

■ The cloud is a sign of God's presence. Centuries later, when the Temple is inaugurated, the cloud will also fill it (2 K 8:10). The cloud will cover Jesus in his Transfiguration and will hide him in his Ascension.

The cloud accompanies the People in the desert. God is with them in a veiled but real way.

¹⁶ Moses did this; he did exactly as Yahweh had commanded him. ¹⁷ The Holy Tent was set up on the first day of the first month in the second year. ¹⁸ Moses set up the Holy Tent. He fixed the bases for it, put up its frames, put its crossbars in position, set up its posts. ¹⁹ He spread the tent over the Holy Tent and on top of this the covering for the tent, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²⁰ He took the State-ment and placed it inside the ark. He set the poles to the ark in place and put the mercy Seat on it. ²¹ He brought the ark into the Holy Tent and put the screening veil in place; thus he screened the ark of Yahweh, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²² He placed the table in the Tent of Meeting, on the north side of the Holy Tent, outside the veil, ²³ and on it arranged the loaves before Yahweh, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²⁴ He put the lampstand in the Tent of Meeting, opposite the table, on the southern side of the Holy Tent, ²⁵ and he set up the lamps before Yahweh, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²⁶ He put the golden altar in the Tent of Meeting in front of the veil, ²⁷ and on it burned fragrant incense, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ²⁸ Then he put the screen at the entrance to the Holy Tent. ²⁹ Then he put the altar for the burnt offerings at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and on it offered the burnt offering and grain offering, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ³⁰ He put the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and filled it with water. ³¹ This was for Aaron and his sons to wash their hands and feet: ³² whenever they entered the Tent of Meeting or approached the altar they washed, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ³³ Moses then set up the court around the Holy Tent and the altar and placed the screen at the gateway to the court. Thus Moses completed the work.

■ ³⁴ Then the cloud covered the Tent of Meeting and the Glory of Yahweh filled the Holy Tent. ³⁵ Moses could not enter the Tent of Meeting because of the cloud that rested on it and because of the Glory of Yahweh that filled the Holy Tent.

INTRODUCTION TO LEVITICUS

When the child Jesus was forty days old he was presented in the Temple "according to the law of Moses." They offered for him "a pair of turtledoves as it is written in the law." We could multiply examples showing that Jesus was born into a people who had a very organized religion, with religious authorities, feasts, and very precise ideas about what was pleasing to God. These laws and rituals formed a strictly codified framework which left no room for anarchy.

In Israel, as in all primitive societies, religion was closely united with the social order and culture (thus priests were qualified to diagnose leprosy). For this reason primitive societies were conservative: they thought that God had fixed the prevailing social order and that it should always be kept as it was. However, in Israel, unlike the other nations, priests and prophets were aware that history was not static. Civil and religious laws were more developed than in any other country. But, by Christ's time, conservatism had managed to prevail, leading;

1 ¹Yahweh called Moses, and from the Tent of Meeting addressed him, saying,

²"Speak to the people of Israel; say to them: When anyone brings an offering of an animal to Yahweh it can be from either his cattle or sheep or goats.

⁸Then the sons of Aaron, the priests, are to put the pieces, the head and the fat on the wood on the altar fire. ⁹The man shall wash the internal organs and legs in water, and the priest is to burn all of it on the altar. This will be a burnt offering and its sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh.

¹⁰If his offering is an animal out of the flock, a lamb or a goat offered as a burnt offering, he is to offer a male without any defect.

¹¹He shall kill it on the north side of the altar before Yahweh, and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall pour out the blood on the sides of the altar. ¹²Then he is to quarter it, and the priest is to arrange the quarters, as well as the head and the fat, on the wood on the altar fire.

¹³The man shall wash the internal organs and legs in water, and the priest shall burn all of it

1. Ex 25, 22

Jesus to denounce any religion which concentrates only on traditions and customs. Later Paul would state that this law was peculiar to the Jewish culture and that it should not be imposed on people of other races following their conversion to Christ.

These laws, however, appear in the Bible and we will benefit from reading about them:

- We will see how, for centuries, God taught his people by using their own culture. These laws were not dictated by God from heaven; they were developed by the priests in charge of the religious behavior of the people.
- These laws and practices are very old at times even old-fashioned, but to the Christian reading them with faith, they can provide new insights into what God is asking of us today.

Most of the laws of the Bible are found in Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy. Leviticus owes its name to the fact that it contains laws which the priests of the tribe of Levi had to know, practice and teach. It has three major parts:

- Laws about sacrifices, chapters 1-8.
- Laws regarding what is ritually pure or impure, chapters 11-15.
- Law of holiness, chapters 17-26.

on the altar. This will be a burnt offering and its sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh.

¹⁴ If the man is offering a bird as a burnt offering, he is to offer a turtledove or a young pigeon. ¹⁵ The priest shall offer it at the altar and wring off its head, which he is to burn on the altar; then its blood is to be drained out on the side of the altar. ¹⁶ Then he shall remove the crop and the feathers; these he is to throw on the eastern side of the altar, where the ashes from the fat are placed. ¹⁷ He is to divide it in two halves with a wing on each side, but without separating the two parts. Then the priest shall burn it on the altar, on the wood that is on the fire. This will be a burnt offering and its sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh.

The grain offering

2 ¹ If anyone offers Yahweh a grain offering, his offering is to be fine flour on which he is to pour wine and put incense. ² He shall bring it to the sons of Aaron, the priests; he is to take a handful of the fine flour and oil and all the incense, and the priest shall burn it on the altar as a memorial, a burnt offering whose sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh. ³ The remainder of the grain offering belongs to Aaron and his sons; this is a most holy share for it comes from the burnt offerings of Yahweh.

⁵ If your offering is a grain offering fried on the griddle, the fine flour mixed with oil is to have no leavening. ⁶ You must break it in pieces and pour oil over it. It is a grain offering. ⁷ If your offering is a grain offering cooked in the pan, the fine flour is to be prepared in oil. ⁸ You must bring to Yahweh the grain offering that has been thus prepared, presenting it to the priest, who is to bring it to the altar. ⁹ The priest shall take part of this offering and burn it on the altar to recall before Yahweh the person who is offering it. And it will be an offering whose sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh. ¹⁰ The remainder of the grain offering belongs to Aaron and his sons; this is a most holy share of Yahweh's burnt offering.

o Yahweh spoke to Moses. Each law is introduced by this expression, giving the impression that Moses had dictated these laws that were introduced in fact centuries later. But, this is a literary form which means that the law embodies the spirit of what God taught Moses on Sinai, in spite of the fact that it was written at a much later time.

The Hebrews practiced the rituals and customs of their ancestors. Since they were shepherds they used to offer their animals in sacrifice. Later on, in Canaan, the Israelites found other sacrifices and customs among the pagan Canaanites and they adopted some of them. Yet, the revelation granted to Moses on Sinai provided them with criteria to judge new or old forms of worship:

- God is the only God, the Invisible One who needs nothing but asks that his followers serve him.
- Yahweh is the Holy God, totally different from every creature, and Israel, consecrated to God, must remain "holy" and apart from other nations.
- The Lord demands justice; therefore, ritual "purity" must reflect interior sanctity.

The Jewish people had only one sanctuary, the Temple of Jerusalem, and people came from everywhere to offer sacrifices there. The Temple, built by King Solomon (see 1 Kgs 6) was not a very large building (some 25 meters in length by 15 in width) and only the priests went inside. The people used to gather in the paved patios. In the main patio was a large altar made of solid stones, the altar of holocausts, or of totally burned victims. On some occasions, part of the blood was poured on another, much smaller, altar inside the Temple.

There were various types of sacrifices and for most of them, the priests used to receive part of the victim in payment; the other part would be eaten by the donors in a communion banquet. But, in the holocaust nothing was eaten because everything was offered to God as a sign of perfect submission.

Like other ancient people, the Israelites believed that the life of every being was in the blood (see Gen 9:5). Thus, the blood belonged to God and no one could eat or drink it. By offering the blood of the sacrificed animal, the Israelites were clearly expressing that with it, they were offering their own lives to God (Lev 17:11). It is not without good reason that Jesus wanted to die by shedding his blood, for this would clearly show the total surrender of his life out of obedience to the Father and out of love for his brothers. From the Jewish sacrifices the letter to the Hebrews draws the following lesson which was fulfilled in Jesus' passion: "there is no forgiveness of sins without the shedding of blood" (Heb 9:22).

We should note the frequent use of the expression "without blemish." The prophets would scold the people who did not observe this command (Mal 18:13). We give God just anything out of our surplus, and not the best of what we have.

¹¹ None of the grain offering that you offer to Yahweh is to be prepared with yeast for you must never burn yeast or honey as a burnt offering for Yahweh. ¹² You may offer them up to Yahweh, as an offering of firstfruits, but they must not go up as a sweet-smelling odor to please Yahweh. ¹³ You must salt every grain offering that you offer, and you must never fail to put on your grain offering the salt of the Covenant with your God: to every offering you are to join an offering of salt to Yahweh your God. ¹⁴ If you offer Yahweh a grain offering of firstfruits, it may be from either roasted corn or bread made from ground corn. ¹⁵ You are to add oil to it and put incense on it; it is a grain offering ¹⁶ and the priest is to burn part of the bread and oil (together with all the incense) as a burnt offering for Yahweh.

The peace offering

3 ¹ If anyone offers a peace sacrifice, offering from his cattle, male or female, whatever he offers before Yahweh must be without any defect. ² He is to lay his hand on the victim's head and kill it at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. Then the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall pour out the blood on the sides of the altar. ³ Then he is to offer the following as a burnt offering for Yahweh: the fat that covers the internal organs, all the fat that is on the internal organs, ⁴ the two kidneys, the fat on them and on the loins, the best part which he is to remove from the liver and kidneys. ⁵ The sons of Aaron shall burn all this on the altar along with the burnt offering, on the wood on the fire. It will be a burnt offering and its sweet-smelling odor will please Yahweh.

+ Next come the sin offerings. It is not a question of real sin, the inner sin (Mt 5:22) coming from man (Mt 7:20) but of faults against the laws regarding worship. In verses 22 and 27, we even read: if one sins without intending to do so. This constitutes another kind of fault, a matter of carelessness, which does not even deserve the name "sin" in the present sense of the word: what is done in ignorance and without evil intention cannot be a sin. Examples of such sins are given in 5:1-13.

the fat, all the tail taken off near the backbone, the fat that covers the internal organs, all the fat that is on the internal organs, ¹⁰ the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, the best part which he will remove from the liver and kidneys. ¹¹ The priest shall burn this part on the altar as food, as a burnt offering for Yahweh.

¹⁷ All the fat belongs to Yahweh. This is a law forever for all your descendants, wherever they may live: never eat either fat or blood."

Offering for an unintentional sin

4 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: ² "Speak to the people of Israel and say: Anyone may sin without intending to do so against any of the commandments of Yahweh and do one of the forbidden things; in such a case:

³ If the one who sins is the anointed priest, his sin defiles the people. Then, for the sin which he has committed, he is to offer to Yahweh a young bull, an animal from the herd without any defect, as a sacrifice for sin. ⁴ He is to bring the bull before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and lay his hand on its head and kill it before Yahweh. ⁵ Then the anointed priest shall take a little of the blood of the bull and take it into the Tent of Meeting. ⁶ He shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it over the veil of the sanctuary seven times, before Yahweh. ⁷ Then the priest shall put a little of the blood of the bull on the corners of

But in 5:20-26 we deal with other faults which require an offering in reparation because these are real sins. The Bible does not confuse the two.

How must we understand sinning inadvertently? According to St. Paul (Rom 7:7; 4:15) the purpose of the law was to bring sin to light; the commandments reveal what sin is. This power of evil is active in us even when we are not aware of it. The law forces us to open our eyes and to admit that we are sinners.

the altar of incense that sends up smoke before Yahweh in the Tent of Meeting and he is to pour all the rest of the bull's blood at the foot of the altar for burnt offerings that is at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

¹³ If the whole community of Israel has sinned without intending to do so, and, without being aware of it, has done something that is forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, ¹⁴ the community is to offer a young bull as sacrifice for sin, an animal of the herd without any defect, as soon as the sin of which they have been guilty is discovered. The animal must be brought before the Tent of Meeting: ¹⁵ the elders of the community shall lay their hands on the bull's head before Yahweh, and it must be killed before Yahweh.

¹⁹ Then the priest shall remove all the fat from the animal and burn it on the altar. ²⁰ He shall do the same thing with this bull as he did with the bull for the sacrifice of sin. When the priest has performed the sacrifice for the people's sin, they will be forgiven. ²¹ The priest must have the bull taken out of the camp and burn it as he burned the first one. This is the sacrifice for the sin of the community.

a male without any defect. ²⁴ He is to lay his hand on the goat's head and kill it in the place where the animals for the burnt offerings are killed. This is a sacrifice for sin: ²⁵ the priest shall take a little of the goat's blood on his finger and put it on the corners of the altar for burnt offerings. Then he shall pour out its blood at the foot of the altar for burnt offering ²⁶ and burn all the fat on the altar, as with the fat in the peace offering. This is how the priest is to offer the sacrifice for the sin of this leader to free him from his sin, and he will be forgiven.

²⁷ If one of the people sins without intending to do so and makes himself guilty by doing something forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, ²⁸ and after that he recalls it or anyone calls his attention to the sin he has committed, he is to bring a goat as an offering, a female without any defect. ²⁹ He is to lay his hand on the goat's head and kill it in the place where the animals for the burnt offerings are killed. ³⁰ The priest shall take a little of the goat's blood on his finger and put it on the corners of the altar for burnt offerings. Then he shall pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. ³¹ He shall remove all the fat, as the fat was removed for the peace offering, and the priest shall burn it on the altar as a sweet-smelling sacrifice pleasing to Yahweh. This is how the priest is to offer the sacrifice for the man's sin, and he will be forgiven.

³² If anyone wishes to bring a lamb as an offering for this kind of sacrifice, he is to bring a female without any defect. ³³ He is to lay his hand on the lamb's head and kill it as a sacrifice for sin in the place where the animals for the burnt offerings are killed. ³⁴ The priest shall take a little of the blood of this sacrifice on his finger and put it on the corners of the altar for burnt offerings. Then he shall pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. ³⁵ He shall remove its fat as was done for the sheep in the peace offering, and the priest shall burn it all on the altar, in addition to the burnt offering for Yahweh. This is how the priest is to offer the sacrifice for the man's sin, and he will be forgiven.

5 ¹ Sacrifice for sin is required in the following cases:

A man should have come forward to give evidence in court when officially summoned; but he did not speak and give information about something he had seen or heard; and so he is guilty.

² Or else he accidentally touches something unclean, whatever it may be – the dead body of an unclean animal, wild or tame; or the dead body of one of the unclean beings that swarm – and so without realizing it, he becomes unclean, and guilty.

³ Or else he accidentally touches something human uncleanness, whatever it may be, and contact with it makes him unclean; so he becomes guilty as soon as he realizes what he has done.

⁴ Or else a man makes a careless vow to do either evil or good in any of those matters on which a man may swear unthinkingly; he does not notice it, then, but when he realizes it later, he becomes guilty.

⁷ If a man cannot afford a sheep or a goat, he shall offer to Yahweh, as payment for the sin he has committed, two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one for a sacrifice for sin and the other for a burnt offering. ⁸ He will bring them to the priest who is to offer first the one intended for the sacrifice for sin. The priest shall wring its neck, without removing the head. ⁹ He shall sprinkle the side of the altar with the victim's blood, and then drain out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. This is a sacrifice for sin. ¹⁰ Of the other bird he is to make a burnt offering according to the regulations. When the priest offers the sacrifice for the man's sin, he will be forgiven.

¹¹ If this man cannot afford two turtledoves or two young pigeons, he is to bring two pounds of flour as an offering for the sin committed; but he shall not mix oil with it or put incense on it, for it is a sacrifice for sin. ¹² He is to bring it to the priest, who is to take a handful of it to be put on the burnt offering for Yahweh in order to recall this man to Yahweh. This is a sacrifice for sin. ¹³ This is how the priest is to offer the sacrifice for the sin the man committed in any of these cases, and he will be forgiven. In this case, as in the case of a grain offering, the rest of the flour belongs to the priest.

¹⁵ If anyone is guilty of unintentionally cheating by failing to hand over the payments that are sacred to Yahweh, he is to bring to Yahweh as a sacrifice of payment a ram with no defects. This ram is to be valued according to the official standard. This is a sacrifice of repayment. ¹⁶ He must make the payments he has failed to hand over, pay an extra fifth as well, and give it to the priest. The priest shall offer the ram as a sacrifice for the man's sin and he will be forgiven.

¹⁷ If anyone sins and does one of the things forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh without realizing it, he is guilty and must pay the penalty for his fault. ¹⁸ As a sacrifice of repayment he is to bring to the priest a ram without any defect. Its value will be according to the official standard. The priest shall offer the sacrifice for the sin he has committed without realizing it and he will be forgiven. ¹⁹ This is a sacrifice of repayment for the man who was guilty in the eyes of Yahweh.

Sacrifices for evil-doing

²⁰ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

²¹ "This refers to the man who sins against Yahweh by not returning to his neighbour a deposit or a security, or withholding something due to him or cheating him; ²² and also to the one who finds lost property and swears he has not found it; and also to the man who swears falsely in one of the cases in which people usually swear. ²³ In all these cases the man who sins and becomes guilty is to give back what he has taken or demanded that does not belong to him: the deposit entrusted to him, the lost property that he found, ²⁴ or any object about which he has sworn untruthfully. He must repay the owner in full and give an extra fifth as well on the day when he is found guilty. ²⁵ Then he is to bring a ram without any defect to Yahweh as a sacrifice of repayment. ²⁶ The priest shall offer the sacrifice for the man's sin and he will be forgiven, whatever the act of which he became guilty."

Priesthood and sacrifice

6 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: ² "Give these regulations to Aaron and his sons. This is the regulation for burnt offerings: the burnt offering shall stay on the altar

■ Among so many laws dealing with cooking, note the following details:

6:5: The fire must never be put out. A lamb was offered as a holocaust daily in the morning and in the afternoon.

6:20: What is offered to God belongs to him and becomes as if totally permeated by the Holiness of God.

6:22-23: In order for the sacrifice to be effective, the meat – which through the sacrifice was made holy – must be eaten. In this way the priest is assured of a livelihood.

all night until morning and the fire is to be kept burning.

⁷ This is the regulation for the grain offering: One of the priests, a son of Aaron, is to bring it into the presence of Yahweh in front of the altar; ⁸ he is to take a handful of the fine flour (with the oil and incense which have been added to it) and burn it on the altar as a memorial, to recall to Yahweh the person making the offering so that it becomes a sweet-smelling odor pleasing to Yahweh. ⁹ After that, the remainder is to be given to Aaron and his sons; they shall eat it in the form of unleavened loaves. They are to eat it in a sacred place within the courtyard of the Tent of Meeting. ¹⁰ The share I give them of my burnt offering must not be baked with yeast. It is most holy, like the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of repayment. ¹¹ All the males of Aaron's family may eat this part of Yahweh's burnt offering – this is a law forever for all your descendants. Everything that touches the offering becomes consecrated as well.

¹³ "This is the offering that Aaron and his sons are to make to Yahweh on the day of their anointing as priests: two pounds of flour as a daily offering, half in the morning and half in the evening. ¹⁴ It must be fried on the griddle and mixed with oil; you must bring the paste as a grain offering in several pieces, offering them as a sweet-smelling odor pleasing to Yahweh. ¹⁵ Every descendant of Aaron who succeeds him as high priest shall do the same. This is a law forever. This grain offering shall be completely burned as a sacrifice for Yahweh. ¹⁶ Every grain offering made by a priest must be a total sacrifice; none of it is to be eaten."

The victim for the sacrifice is to be killed before Yahweh in the place where the animals for the burnt offerings are killed. It is a most holy offering. ¹⁹ The priest who offers this sacrifice is to eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place within the courtyard of the Tent of Meeting. ²⁰ Everything that touches the flesh of this animal will become consecrated; if any of the blood splashes on clothing, the stain must be cleaned in some holy place. ²¹ The clay pot in which the meat is cooked must be broken; if a bronze pot has been used for the cooking, it must be scrubbed and thoroughly rinsed with water. ²² Any male who is a priest may eat the meat. It is a most holy thing. ²³ But no one may eat any part of the animals offered for sin, whenever any of the blood is brought into the Tent and used in the sacrifice to take away sin. The meat must be thrown on the fire.

The sacrifice of repayment

² It is a most holy offering. The animal for this offering is to be killed in the place where the animals for the burnt offerings are killed, and the priest must pour out the blood on the sides of the altar. ³ Then he is to offer all the fat: the tail, the fat that covers the internal organs, ⁴ the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, and the best part which he will remove from the liver and kidneys. ⁵ The priest must burn these pieces on the altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh. This is a sacrifice of repayment. ⁶ Any male who is a priest may eat it, but it must be eaten in a holy place because it is a most holy thing.

⁷ As with the sacrifice for sin, so with the sacrifice of repayment; the regulation is the same for both. The offering which he has used in the sacrifice for sin belongs to the priest.

⁸ The skin of the animal presented by a man to the priest is to be offered as a burnt offering belongs to the priest. ⁹ Every grain offering baked in the oven, every grain offering fried in the pan or on the griddle shall belong to the priest who offered it. ¹⁰ Every grain offering, mixed with oil or dry, is to belong to all the sons of Aaron equally.

The peace offering

¹¹ This is the regulation for the peace offering presented to Yahweh:

¹² If it is offered as a thanksgiving offering, there must be added to it an offering of unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers spread with oil, and fine flour in the form of cakes mixed with oil. ¹³ This offering, then, must be added to the loaves of leavened bread and to the thanksgiving offering. ¹⁴ One of the cakes of this offering is to be presented as an offering to Yahweh: it shall belong to the priest who pours out the blood of the peace offering. ¹⁵ The flesh of the animal must be eaten on the day when the offering is made; nothing must remain until the next morning.

¹⁶ If the animal is presented before Yahweh as a sacrifice freely offered, it is to be eaten on the day it is offered and also on the following day; ¹⁷ but on the third day whatever remains of the animal's flesh must be thrown on the fire. ¹⁸ If the meat offered as a peace offering is eaten on the third day, the man who has offered it shall not be accepted nor receive credit for it, for it is defiled meat, and the man who eats it should suffer the penalty of his fault.

²⁰ Anyone who is clean may eat meat of the peace offering, but whoever eats the meat of a peace offering presented to Yahweh even though he is unclean shall be cut off from his people. ²¹ If anyone touches anything unclean, whether human or animal, or any crawling creature, and then eats the meat of a peace offering presented to Yahweh, this man shall be cut off from his people."

²² Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, ²³ "Speak to the people of Israel and say to them:

You must not eat the fat of ox, sheep or goat. ²⁴ The fat of an animal that has died a natural death or been killed by a wild animal may be used for any other purpose, but you must not eat it. ²⁵ Anyone who eats the fat of an animal offered as a burnt offering to Yahweh shall be cut off from his people.

◆ With the detailed description of Aaron's consecration by his brother Moses, Leviticus teaches the ceremony for consecration of the High Priest.

Vestments, ornaments and purifications express the sacred character of the man "taken from among men to represent them before God and to offer sacrifices for them" (Hb 5:11).

These rituals did not come down from heaven; rather they reflect the religious mentality of the times. For those people there were two kinds of people and things in the world: those belonging to God, that is, sacred and others not belonging to God, that is, profane. Some were considered clean, others unclean; some were said to be

The priests' share

²⁸ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, ²⁹ "Speak to the people of Israel and say to them:

Anyone who offers a peace offering to Yahweh is to bring himself the part of his sacrifice that is offered to Yahweh. ³⁰ He is to bring Yahweh's burnt offering, that is, the fat that is near the breast and also the breast, with his own hands. Then he will make the gesture of offering before Yahweh. ³¹ The priest shall burn the fat on the altar, and the breast shall belong to Aaron and his sons. ³² You must set aside and give to the priest the right hind leg from your peace offering. ³³ The right hind leg shall be the share of the son of Aaron who offers the blood and fat of the peace offering. ³⁴ Thus, I keep back this breast and hind leg out of every peace offering presented by the sons of Israel, and give these to Aaron the priest and to his sons: this is a law for the sons of Israel forever."

³⁷ Such is the regulation for burnt offerings, grain offerings, sacrifices for sin, sacrifices of repayment, ordination and peace offerings. ³⁸ This is what Yahweh commanded Moses on Mount Sinai when he told the people of Israel to make their offerings to Yahweh in the wilderness of Sinai.

Ordination ceremonies

◆ ⁸ ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: ² "Take Aaron, his sons with him, and the vestments, the anointing oil, the bull for the sacrifice for sin, the two rams and the basket of unleavened bread. ³ Then call the whole com-

"holy," and others to "carry a sin," which simply meant they could not be used in worship.

God took into account the primitive mentality of the people of those times and educated them little by little. With time, they would discover that sin is not some external blemish, or defect, but man's fault. The prophets first, and then the Gospels, would state that sin is what comes from man.

Priests were consecrated through an anointing with oil. Kings would also be consecrated by an anointing. Priests and kings would thus be the anointed of God, expressed by the word Mesiah in Hebrew, and Christ in Greek. The High Priest was called the Christ of God: this prefigmunity together at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting."

¹⁰ Then Moses took the anointing oil and anointed the Holy Tent and everything in it, to consecrate them. ¹¹ He sprinkled the altar seven times, and anointed the altar and its furnishings, the basin and its stand, to dedicate them all to Yahweh. ¹² Then he ordained Aaron by pouring the anointing oil on his head.

³¹ Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons, "Cook the meat at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and eat it there, and also the bread for the sacrifice of priestly ordination that is in the basket, as I commanded, when I said: Aaron and his sons are to eat it. ³² What remains of the meat and bread you will burn. ³³ For seven days you must not leave the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, until the time of your ordination is over, for your hands will be consecrated for seven days. ³⁴ All that we have done today is the rite of atonement for you as Yahweh has commanded us to do ³⁵ and for seven days, day and night, you must remain at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, doing what Yahweh has commanded, lest you die. For this is the commandment I received." ³⁶ And Aaron and his sons did everything that Yahweh had commanded through Moses.

9 ¹On the eighth day Moses called Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel. ²He said to Aaron, "Take a calf to offer a sacrifice for sin, and a ram for a burnt offering, both without any defect, and bring them before Yahweh. ³Then say to the people of Israel, 'Take a goat to be offered as a sacrifice for sin, and as burnt offering a calf and a lamb both one year old and without any defect, and for peace offering an ox and a ram to be slaughtered before Yahweh; and finally a grain offering mixed with oil. For Yahweh will appear to you today.'"

⁴They brought what Moses had commanded in front of the Tent of Meeting; then he whole community gathered and stood before Yahweh. ⁵Moses said, "This is what Yahweh has commanded to be done, so that his glory may appear to you." ⁷Moses then said to Aaron, "Go to the altar and offer your sacrifice for sin and your burnt offering to take away your sins. Then present the people's offering to take away their sins as Yahweh has commanded."

¹⁵He then presented the people's offering. He took the goat for the people's sacrifice for sin, killed it and offered it as a sacrifice for sin in the same way as the first. ¹⁶Then he had the animal for the burnt offering brought forward and offered it according to the regulations. ¹⁷Next he had the grain offering brought forward, took a handful of it and burned it on the altar in addition to the morning burnt offering.

¹⁸Finally, he slaughtered the ox and the ram as a peace offering for the people. Aaron's sons handed him the blood and he poured it out on the sides of the altar. ¹⁹The fat of the ox and of the ram – the tail, the fatty covering, the kidneys, the best part of the liver – ²⁰all of this he laid on the breasts and burned it all on the altar. ²¹With the breasts and the right hind leg Aaron made the gesture of offering by waving them as Yahweh had commanded.

²²Then Aaron raised his hands toward the people and blessed them. Having thus performed the sacrifice for sin, the burnt offering and the peace offering, ²³he came down and entered the Tent of Meeting with Moses. Then they came out together to bless the people and the Glory of Yahweh appeared to the whole people – ²⁴a flame leaped forth from before Yahweh and consumed the burnt offering and the fat that was on the altar. At this sight the people shouted for joy and fell on their faces.

The story of Nadab and Abihu

+10 ¹Nadab and Abihu, sons of Aaron, each took his censer, put fire in it and incense on the fire, and presented unlawful fire before Yahweh, fire which he had not commanded them to present. ²Then from Yahweh's presence a flame leaped out and burned them to death in the presence of Yahweh. ³And Moses said to Aaron, "That is what Yahweh meant when he said:

"I will show my holiness through those who approach me, and before all the people I will show my glory."

And Aaron had to remain silent.

⁴Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, and said to them, "Come and take the corpses of your brothers far away from the sanctuary, out of the camp." ⁵They came and carried them away, still in their shirts, out of the camp as Moses had commanded.

⁶Moses said to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, "Do not leave your hair uncombed nor tear your clothes to show that you are mourning; lest you die and the punishment extend to the whole community. All the people of Israel shall mourn the death of your brothers, who died because of Yahweh's fire." ⁷But you shall not leave the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, lest you die; for the anointing oil of Yahweh is on you." And they obeyed Moses.

⁸Yahweh spoke to Aaron; he said:

bodies of one of these animals will be unclean until evening. ²⁶ The same with animals that have hoofs, unless their hoofs are divided and they chew the cud; ²⁷ and also four-footed animals which walk on the flat of their feet. Anyone who picks up their dead bodies must wash his clothing and will be unclean until evening.

²⁸ These are the small animals crawling on the ground that shall be unclean for you: rats, mice and several kinds of lizards. ²⁹ The gecko, the chameleon, the agama, the skink and the mole. ³¹ Anyone who touches them when they are dead will be unclean until evening.

³² Anything on which the dead body of any of these creatures falls becomes unclean: wooden utensil, clothing, skin, sackcloth—any utensil at all. It must be dipped in water and it will remain unclean until evening; then it will be clean. ³³ If the creature falls into a clay pot, the pot must be broken; whatever the pot contains is unclean. ³⁴ Any food on which water from such a pot has poured will be unclean. Anything on which the dead body of such a creature may fall will be unclean; if it is a clay oven or oven, this must be broken; for they are clean and you must treat them as unclean. A spring or cistern for collecting water remains clean; but whoever touches the dead body becomes unclean. ³⁷ If one of their dead bodies falls on any seed whatever, the seed will remain clean; ³⁸ but if the seed has been tilled, and such a dead body falls on it, then you must consider it unclean.

³⁹ If one of the animals that you use as food dies, then anyone who touches the dead body will be unclean until evening; ⁴⁰ anyone who eats the meat of the dead animal must wash his clothing and will be unclean until the evening. And anyone who picks up the dead body will also be unclean until the evening and has to wash his clothing.

⁴³ Do not defile yourselves with any swarming creature that might defile you. ⁴⁴ For I am Yahweh your God. Take the way of holiness and be holy, for I am holy.

Do not make yourselves unclean with any of the creatures that swarm on the ground, ⁴⁵ for I am Yahweh who brought you from the land of Egypt, that I might be your God. Be holy because I am holy.

⁴⁶ This is the law for animals and birds and for every living creature that moves in the water or that crawls on the ground. ⁴⁷ Let everyone distinguish between the clean and the unclean, between creatures that may be eaten and creatures that may not.

Purification of a woman after childbirth some marriages fail in spite of mutual love because strength of character is lacking or because, as children, the spouses were not given necessary disciplined education to make them responsible.

Thus the Bible, with its instructions concerning appearances (Rom 2:28) and the flesh (Phil 3), helped to prepare a people who would love God in a more responsible way.

Many of the laws, whose purpose escapes us, served mainly to make God's people different from others in terms of their meals, feasts and their customs.

Israelites, often established in the midst of other people, were not to mix with their pagan neighbors: the law, by regulating their lives in every detail, prevented them from adopting the customs of others and prevented them from adopting their thinking, as well. Although it is an interior attitude which must differentiate the believer from others, external discipline helps him become aware of his own spirit. The Old Testament's laws addressed a people who had not yet come to religious maturity and for that reason imposed on them a different way of life. These laws began to be strictly observed from the time of Ezra and were followed by the Jewish community of the last centuries before Christ. Neh 13 illustrates the danger they were exposed to in being separated from other people.

In Jesus' time the Jews were clinging excessively to these prescriptions which were originally certain external requirements only for those wishing to take part in religious acts. Jesus criticized this confusion of legal purity with purity of conscience (Mk 7:15).

11:6 The Bible is not a book that teaches science.

+ Primitive people often contrast the "pure" and noble blood of a male, shed in wars, to the "impure" flow of blood during a woman's period. Therefore, childbirth and a woman's periods preoccupy men (they are the ones who impose the rules and make the laws) and they require purification rituals.

In this we see how, although they are part of the word of God, the rules of the Old Testament were adapted to ancient times and to the criteria of the people of Israel. God's people were aware of this, which they expressed in their own way by saying that the Law was planned by angels: Acts period. ³ On the eighth day the child is to be circumcised; ⁴ then she shall wait for thirty-three days to be purified of her bleeding. She shall not touch anything that is consecrated nor enter the sanctuary until the days of her purification are completed.

⁶ And when the days of her purification are completed whether for a son or daughter, she shall bring to the priest at the door of the Tent of Meeting, a lamb born that year for a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove for a sin offering. ⁷ The priest shall then offer it to Yahweh to make atonement for her and she shall be cleansed from the flow of her blood.

This is the Law for the woman who gives birth to a child, male or female. ⁸ But if she cannot offer a lamb, she shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, the one for a burnt offering, the other for a sin offering. The priest shall make atonement for her and she will be purified.

A regulation for lepers

13 ¹ Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, ² "If someone has a boil, an inflammation or a sore on his skin which could develop into leprosy, he must be brought to Aaron the priest, or to one of the priests, his descendants. ³ The priest shall examine him and if the hair on the sore has turned white and the sore appears to be deeper than the surrounding skin, then it is indeed the sore of leprosy. When the priest sees this, he shall declare that person unclean.

⁴ But if the sore is white and does not appear to be deeper than the skin around it and the hairs have not turned white, the priest is to isolate the sick person for seven days. ⁵ On the seventh day the priest shall again examine him. If he sees that the sore looks the same and has not spread on the skin, he shall isolate the sick person for another seven days and once more examine him on the seventh day. ⁶ If the sore has faded and has not spread on the skin, the priest shall declare that person clean: it was only eczema.

⁷ But if the sore spreads over the skin after the sick person has been examined by the priest and declared clean, then he must present himself again to the priest. ⁸ After examining him and finding that the sore has spread over the skin, the priest must declare him unclean: it is leprosy.

⁹ When a leprous disease strikes a man, he must be taken to the priest. ¹⁰ who must examine him, and if he finds on the skin a whitish swelling which turns the hairs white and an ulcer is forming, ¹¹ then it is leprosy in the skin and the priest must declare him unclean. It is useless to isolate him for a time; he is unclean.

¹² But if the leprosy spreads all through the skin, if it covers him entirely from head to foot so far as the priest can see, ¹³ then the priest must examine the sick person and, if he finds that the leprosy covers his whole body, declare the sick person clean. Since it has all turned white, he is clean. ¹⁴ But as soon as an open sore appears on him, he will be unclean. ¹⁵ After examining the sore, the priest is to declare him unclean: the open sore is leprous. ¹⁶ But if the sore becomes white again, the man must go to the priest. ¹⁷ The priest shall examine him and, if he finds that the disease has turned white, he shall declare the sick person clean: he is clean.

Jesus and his mother submitted themselves to these rituals (Lk 2:21).

■ In cases of leprosy, a frightful and contagious disease, the sick person was required to live apart from the community. A leper was considered "unclean," meaning that he could not participate in public or religious life (see what is said in 8:1 and 11:1).

At a time when misfortunes were thought to be divine punishment, leprosy was seen as a sign of a divine curse. The people easily believed that the leper excluded from the community was actually unclean in God's eyes.

Among their obligations, priests had to diagnose leprosy and prescribe the isolation of lepers. They were also responsible for verifying cures and for allowing lepers to return to their families. This is what Jesus recalled when he healed lepers (Mk 1:43).

Sacrifices for the purification of lepers were part of ancient folk ways. The mysterious "sin" which, according to them, had caused leprosy, was transferred to two birds (14:5). One of them was killed so that the sin would disappear with the bird. And for more assurance, the other bird was released to take far away that same sin now dissolved in the dead bird's blood (14:6-7).

the skin, but it is lighter in color, he shall isolate the sick person for seven days.²² If the disease has indeed spread over the skin, he shall declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy.²³ But if the shiny spot remains unchanged and has not spread, then it is only the par of a boil and the priest is to declare the man clean.

24 If someone has had a burn, and on the burn an ulcer forms, a shiny spot reddish white or whitish in color, ²⁵ then the priest must examine it. If he finds that the hairs in that spot have turned white and it seems to be deeper than the surrounding skin, this means that leprosy has broken out in the burn. The priest shall declare the man unclean: it is a case of leprosy. ²⁶ If on the other hand the priest on examination does not find white hair on the mark and it is not deeper than the surrounding skin, but is light in color, then the priest shall isolate him for seven days. ²⁷ On the seventh day he shall examine him, and if the disease has spread on the skin, he shall declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy. ²⁸ If the mark is still unchanged and has not spread over the skin, but instead is light in color, this means that it is only a swelling due to the burn. The priest shall declare the man clean: it is merely a burn scar.

30 If a man or woman has a sore on the head or chin, 30 the priest must examine this sore; and if it seems to be deeper than the surrounding skin, with the hair on it yellow and thin, he must declare the sick person unclean. It is a leprosy of the skin disease, that is to say, leprosy of the head or chin. 31 If on examining this case the priest finds no spot which seems deeper than the surrounding skin, and no yellow hair, he shall isolate the person for seven days. 32 He shall examine the infected part on the seventh day, and if he finds that the disease has not spread, that the hair on it is not yellow, and that there is no spot which seems deeper than the surrounding skin, 33 the sick person will shave his hair, all except the part affected with the disease, and the priest is to isolate him again for seven days. 34 He must examine the infected part on the seventh day, and if he finds that it has not spread over the skin, and that there is no spot which seems deeper than the surrounding skin, the priest shall declare the sick person clean. After washing his clothes he will be clean. 35 But if after this purification the disease does spread over the skin, 36 the priest must examine him; if he finds that it has indeed spread over the skin, this means that the sick person is unclean, and there is no need to look and see whether the hair is yellow.

Whereas if, so far as he can see, the disease has not spread and dark hair is beginning to grow on it, this means that the sick person is cured. He is clean, and the priest is to declare him clean.

⁴⁵ A person infected with leprosy must wear torn clothing and leave his hair uncombed; he must cover his upper lip and cry, "Unclean, unclean." ⁴⁶ As long as the disease lasts he must be unclean; and therefore he must live away from others: he must live outside the camp.

Mildew

⁵⁶ But if on examination the priest finds that the mildew has faded after washing, he is to cut it out of the clothing, leather, textile material or covering. ⁵⁷ But if the mildew reappears on the same clothing, textile material, covering or leather article whatever it may be, this means that the mildew is spreading again and the owner must destroy the article by fire. ⁵⁸ The clothing, textile material, covering or leather article whatever it may be, from which the mildew disappears after washing, is to be clean after it has been washed a second time.

⁵⁹ Such is the law for a case of leprosy in a linen or woollen garment, in textile material, in clothing or in anything of skin – for judging whether it is clean or unclean."

Purification from leprosy

14 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses: ² "This shall be the law for the leper on the day of his purification.

He shall be brought to the priest ³ and the priest shall take him outside the camp and examine him. And if the person has been healed from leprosy, ⁴ the priest shall order two live, clean birds, cedar wood, scarlet yarn and hyssop for the one who is to be cleansed. ⁵ The priest shall also give orders that one of the birds be slain on an earthenware pot over fresh water. ⁶ He shall take the live bird and also the cedar wood, the crimson yarn and the hyssop, and he will plunge them together, including the live bird, in the blood of the bird that was slain over fresh water. ⁷ Then he will sprinkle the one to be purified seven times. After that he shall declare him clean and he shall let the live bird go free over the open fields.

⁸ The person to be purified must wash his clothes and shave off all his hair and bathe himself in water; then he will be clean. After this he may enter the camp but he must stay outside his tent for seven days. ⁹ On the seventh day he shall shave off all the hair on his head, chin and eyebrows. He shall wash his clothes, bathe himself in water and then he will be clean.

¹⁰ On the eighth day he is to take two lambs and a yearling ewe lamb, all without defect, and three-tenths of a measure of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering and a log of oil. ¹¹ The priest who declares him clean shall present the man to be purified and his offerings before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. ¹² The priest will then take the first lamb and present it as a guilt offering together with the log of oil. He shall wave them before Yahweh. ¹³ He shall slaughter the male lamb in the place where they slaughter the sin offering and the burnt offering – the holy place. For the guilt offering like the sin offering belongs to the priest; it is most holy.

²¹ If the leper is poor and cannot afford all this, he shall take only one lamb for the guilt offering to be offered with the gesture of offering in the rite of atonement. And for the grain offering he will bring only one tenth of wheaten flour mixed with oil, and the log of oil, ²² and finally two turtledoves or two young pigeons – if he can afford them – one to be used as a sacrifice for sin and the other for the burnt offering. ²³ On the eighth day he must bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting before Yahweh, for his purification.

hid with the blood of the guilt offering. ²⁹ The remainder of the oil in the palm of his hand he must put on the head of the man who is being purified, performing the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh. ³⁰ Of the two turtledoves or two young pigeons – if he can afford them – he is to offer ³¹ a sacrifice for sin with one, and with the other a burnt offering together with a grain offering – if he can afford them. In this way the priest will have performed before Yahweh the rite of atonement over the person who is being purified.

"Leprosy" in houses

³³ Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said:

³⁴ "When you reach the land of Canaan, which I am giving you as your inheritance, if a strike a house with mildew in the land you are to possess, ³⁵ the owner must come and warn the priest; he must say, 'I have seen something like mildew in the house.' ³⁶ The priest is to give orders for the house to be emptied before he goes to examine the infection; thus nothing in the house will be declared unclean. Then the priest must go and look at the house; ³⁷ and if on examination he finds reddish or greenish spots that appear to be eating into the wall, ³⁸ the priest is to go out of the house, to the floor, and shut it up for seven days. ³⁹ On the seventh day he shall go back again and if on examination he finds that the infection has spread over the walls of the house, ⁴⁰ he shall give orders for the affected stones to be removed and thrown into some unclean place outside the town. ⁴¹ Then he shall have all the inside of the house scraped, and the plaster that comes off must be emptied out into an unclean place outside the town. ⁴² The stones must be replaced by new ones and the house given a new coat of plaster.

⁴³ If the infection spreads again after the stones have been removed and the house scraped and replastered, ⁴⁴ the priest is to come and examine it. If he finds that the infection has spread, this means that mildew is affecting the house: it is unclean. ⁴⁵ It must be pulled down and the stones, woodwork and all the plaster be taken to an unclean place outside the town.

⁴⁶ Anyone who enters the house while it is closed will be unclean until evening. ⁴⁷ Anyone who sleeps there must wash his clothing. ⁴⁸ But if the priest finds, when he comes to examine the infection, that it has not spread in the house since it was plastered, he is to declare the house clean, for the infection is cured.

⁵⁴ Such is the law for all cases ⁵⁵ of dreaded skin diseases, mildew of clothing and houses, ⁵⁶ swellings, scabs and shiny spots. It defines the cases when things are unclean and when they are clean. ⁵⁷ Such is the law on leprosy."

Sexual impurities

◆15 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said,

² "Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:

³ When a man has a discharge from his body, that discharge makes him unclean. The rules about his uncleanness are:

Whether his body allows the discharge to flow or whether it retains it, he is unclean.

⁶ Anyone who sits on a seat where the man

◆ In all primitive people we find a sacredness surrounding everything related to sex and birth. That is the origin, somehow, of these prescriptions about sexual purity and impurity. It would be wrong to interpret them as if sexual relations were impure in themselves; they are only so when the demands of genuine love are not respected.

The Canaanites, among whom the Israelites settled, yielded to the forces of nature which they thought to be divine, and sexual orgies accompanied all their religious feasts. For the Israelites, however, the many purifications concerning sexual life were recalling that sex was part of human nature as God created it and that its drives had to be subject to the Law of God. The baptized person is guided by other considerations: 1 Cor 6 and 7.

has sat must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.⁷ Anyone who touches the body of a man so affected must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.⁸ If the sick man spits on someone who is clean, that person must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.

⁹ Any saddle the sick man travels on will be unclean.¹⁰ All those who touch any object that may be under him will be unclean until evening. Anyone who picks up such an object must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.

¹³ When the man suffering from a discharge is cured, he must allow seven days for his purification. He must wash his clothing and take a bath in running water and he will be clean.¹⁴ On the eighth day he must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and come before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and give them to the priest.¹⁵ The priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin with one of them, and with the other a burnt offering. So the priest will perform the rite of atonement before Yahweh for the man's discharge.

¹⁶ When a man has a seminal discharge, he must bathe his whole body with water and he shall be unclean until evening.¹⁷ Any clothing or leather touched by a seminal discharge must be washed and it will be unclean until evening.¹⁸ When a woman has slept with a man, both of them must take a bath and they will be unclean until evening.

¹⁹ When a woman has a discharge of blood, and blood flows from her body, this uncleanness of her monthly periods shall last for seven days. Anyone who touches her will be unclean until evening.²⁰ Any bed she lies on will be unclean; any seat she sits on will be unclean.

²¹ Anyone who touches her bed must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.²² Anyone who touches any seat she has sat on must wash his clothing and take a bath and will be unclean until evening.²³ If there is anything on the bed or the chair on which she sat, anyone who touches it will be unclean until evening.

²⁴ If a man sleeps with a woman who is unclean because of her monthly period, he shall be unclean for seven days. Any bed he lies on will be unclean.

²⁸ When she is cured of her flow, she will let seven days pass; then she will be clean.²⁹ On the eighth day she is to take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.³⁰ With one of them the priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin and with the other a burnt offering. This is the way in which the priest will perform the rite of atonement over her before Yahweh for the flow that made her unclean.

³² Such is the law concerning a man with a discharge, anyone made unclean by a seminal discharge, a woman unclean because of her monthly periods, a man or a woman with discharge, a man who sleeps with an unclean woman."

The great joy of atonement

o16 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses after the death of the two sons of Aaron who died when they approached the presence of Yahweh.

²Yahweh said to Moses, "Tell your brother, Aaron, not to enter at any time he pleases the Most Holy Place inside the veil, before the mercy Seat which is on the ark, lest he die, for I appear in the cloud over the mercy Seat.

³This is how Aaron will enter the Holy Place with a bullock for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering.⁴ He is to put on the o The ceremony for the feast of Atonement was very expressive: one of two he-goats was set aside to carry the punishment for sin and therefore had to die; the other was sent off toward Azazel. Symbolically the he-goat bore the sins of the people.

The Letter to the Hebrews, chapters 9 and 10, recalls these Jewish rituals when it mentions the forgiveness of sins that Christ won through his death and resurrection.

sacred linen tunic and linen undergarments next to his body; he is to have the linen sash around him and wear the linen turban. These are sacred garments, so he must bathe in water before he puts them on.

⁵ The assembly of the sons of Israel has to give him two male goats for a sin offering and one ram for a burnt offering. ⁶ Then Aaron shall offer the bullock for a sin offering for himself to make atonement for himself and for his household. ⁷ He shall take the two male goats and present them to Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. ⁸ He is to cast lots for the two goats, one lot for Yahweh and one lot for Azazel. ⁹ Aaron shall offer the goat on which the lot fell for Yahweh as a sin offering. ¹⁰ But the goat on which the lot fell for Azazel will be placed alive before Yahweh to make atonement by being sent into the wilderness as a scapegoat.

¹¹ Aaron will then bring the bullock as a sin offering for himself to make atonement for himself and his household and he shall slaughter the bullock for the sin offering which is for himself. ¹² Then he shall take a censer full of coals from the fire above the altar before Yahweh and two handfuls of powdered, fragrant incense and take them inside the veil. ¹³ He shall put the incense on the fire before Yahweh and the cloud of incense will cover the mercy Seat that is on the ark of the Statement, so that he will not die. ¹⁴ He will take the blood of the bullock and sprinkle it with his finger on the mercy Seat to the east and also in front of the mercy Seat he shall sprinkle blood seven times. ¹⁵ Then he shall slay the goat for the sin offering of the people and take its blood inside the veil and do with its blood what he did with the blood of the bullock. He shall sprinkle it on the mercy Seat and in front of it. ¹⁶ In this way he shall make atonement for the Holy Place because of the uncleanness of the Israelites and because of all their sins. And he shall do the same for the Tent of Meeting which stands among them in the midst of all their uncleanness.

¹⁷ No one shall be in the Tent of Meeting from the time Aaron goes to make atonement until he comes out. After he has made atonement for himself, for his household and for the whole assembly of Israel, ¹⁸ he shall go out to the altar before Yahweh and make atonement for it. Then he shall take some of the bullock's blood and some of the goat's blood and put it on the horns of the altar on all sides. ¹⁹ He shall sprinkle it with blood seven times, and cleanse it and consecrate it from the uncleanness of the Israelites.

²⁶ The man who releases the scapegoat shall wash his clothes and bathe himself with water, after which he may re-enter the camp. ²⁷ The bullock of the sin offering and the goat of the sin offering whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall be brought outside the camp and they shall burn their hides, their flesh and their dung in the fire. ²⁸ The one who burns them shall wash his clothes and bathe himself in water, after which he may re-enter the camp.

²⁹ This shall be a lasting ordinance for you: on the tenth day of the seventh month you must deny yourselves and do no work – neither the native nor the stranger living among you – ³⁰ for on this day atonement will be made for you to cleanse you. You shall be cleansed of your sins before Yahweh. ³¹ It is a sabbath of solemn rest when you must deny yourselves. It is a lasting ordinance. ³² The priest who is anointed and ordained to succeed his father will make atonement. He shall put on the linen garments, the holy garments, ³³ and will make atonement for the Holy Place, for the Tent of Meeting and for the altar. He shall also make atonement for the priests and all the people of the assembly. ³⁴ This shall be for you a lasting ordinance to make atonement for the people of Israel once a year, because of all their sins."

And Moses did as Yahweh commanded him.

15. Heb 9, 12

27. Heb 13, 11

In 16:29-34 it is again said that these commands will be the everlasting law: how do we explain that the church cancelled them when Christ came? Paul explains this in Gal 3-5.

THE LAW OF HOLINESS

+17 ¹Yahweh said to Moses, ²"Speak to Aaron, his sons and all the Israelites and say to them: This is what Yahweh has commanded: ³Any man from the house of Israel who kills an ox, or a lamb or a goat in the camp or outside the camp ⁴and does not bring it to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting to make an offering of it to Yahweh before the tabernacle of Yahweh – that man shall be considered guilty of bloodshed. He has shed blood and he shall be cut off from among his people.

⁵The reason for this ordinance is so that the sons of Israel may bring the sacrifices that they used to slay in the fields to Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, to the priests, and sacrifice them as sacrifices of peace to Yahweh.

⁶The priest shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting and burn the fat as a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh. ⁷This way they shall no longer slay their sacrifices for the goat idols to whom they prostituted themselves.

This is to be a lasting ordinance for them in the generations to come.

You shall not eat blood

⁸Then you shall give them this ordinance: Any man from the house of Israel or any alien living among them who offers a burnt offering or sacrifice ⁹and does not bring it to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting to sacrifice it to Yahweh, that man shall be cut off from his people.

¹⁰If any man from the house of Israel or any alien living among them eats blood, I will set my face against that person and I will cut him off from among his people. ¹¹For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you to rescue your life on the altar. Offered blood makes atonement because of the life within it. That is why I said to the sons of Israel: No one among you shall eat blood, nor may any alien who lives among you eat blood.

¹²If any Israelite or any alien living among you snares in hunting any beast or bird that may be eaten, ¹³he shall pour out its blood and cover it with dust. ¹⁴For the blood of every creature contains its life and I have therefore said to the people of Israel: You are not to eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is within its blood; whoever eats it shall be cut off.

¹⁵And every person who eats an animal that dies or that is torn by wild beasts, whether he be a native or an alien shall wash his clothes and bathe in water and remain unclean until evening; then he will be purified. ¹⁶But if he does not wash his clothes or bathe his body he shall carry his guilt."

The law of holiness

■ 18 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ²"Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: I am Yahweh, your God.

³You shall not do what is done in the land of Egypt where you used to live, nor shall you do what is done in the land of Canaan where I am bringing you; you shall not follow their practices. ⁴My practices instead you will follow, and you will carry out my ordinances; I am Yahweh your God.

+ In this chapter, we have the beginning of the Law of Holiness, or, the law of a people consecrated to God.

The law about blood was a way of instructing about and instilling a sense of the sacred meaning of life. This is summarized in chapter 17.

Just as most primitive people, the Hebrews believed that life was in the blood. Therefore, blood is sacred, even the blood of animals, and it can only be offered to God (see Gen 9:5). If it was not offered on the altar, it must be poured on the ground, but it must not be consumed.

Even in the time of Christ, the Jews felt such a repulsion for blood that, for some years, Christians coming from other nations had to observe that law in order not to scandalize their Jewish brothers (Acts 15).

Verse 11 explains why Christ chose a death in which he shed his blood. Whenever we read "Christ saved us through his blood," we must understand "through the offering of his life."

■ The Law of Holiness continues with more sexual prohibitions. These bans, now seen by so many people as outdated prejudices, are, in fact, basic to human dignity in the sense that they submit whims to a law. They are also at the root of married fidelity and of mutual respect between the members of the same family.

As was mentioned in chapter 15, the Canaanites did not know these bases of human culture (you shall not do what is done in the land of Canaan) and the Israelites saw in such rules a moral responsibility closely related to their Covenant with Yahweh which had made ⁵ Keep my practices and ordinances, for whoever keeps them finds life; I am Yahweh.

⁶ None of you shall have sexual intercourse with a blood relative; I am Yahweh.

⁷ Do not have intercourse with your father or your mother.

⁸ Do not have intercourse with your father's wife; respect your father.

¹⁰ Do not have intercourse with your granddaughter; that would dishonour you.

¹¹ Do not have intercourse with a half sister; she, too, is your sister.

¹² Do not have intercourse with an aunt, whether she is your father's sister ¹³ or your mother's sister.

¹⁴ Do not have intercourse with your uncle's wife; she, too, is your aunt.

¹⁵ Do not have intercourse with your daughter-in-law ¹⁶ or with your brother's wife.

¹⁷ Do not have intercourse with both a woman and her daughter or her granddaughter; they are blood relatives; that is wickedness.

¹⁸ While your wife is living, do not take her sister as a wife so that you make her jealous.

¹⁹ Do not have intercourse with a woman during her monthly period.

²⁰ Do not have intercourse with your neighbour's wife and defile yourself with her.

²¹ Do not give any of your children to be sacrificed to Molech and do not profane the name of your God; I am Yahweh.

²² Do not lie with a man as one lies with a woman; it is an abomination.

²³ Also do not have sexual relations with an animal; that is infamous.

²⁶ You shall keep my laws and decrees, and you shall not do any of these abominations, neither the native nor the alien living among you. ²⁷ Recall the people who did all these things before you in these lands and became defiled. ²⁸ If you defile the land it will vomit you out as it did the nations before you. ²⁹ The one who does any of these abominations shall be cut off from his people.

³⁰ Keep my laws and do not follow any of these abominable customs which were practised before you, so as not to defile yourselves by them; I am Yahweh, your God."

19 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ²"Speak to the entire assembly of the people of Israel and say to them: Be holy for I, Yahweh, your God, am holy. ³Each of you must revere his mother and father; and you shall keep my sabbaths; I am Yahweh, your God.

⁴ Do not turn to idols or make for yourselves molten gods; I am Yahweh, your God.

⁵ When you offer a sacrifice of peace offering to Yahweh, sacrifice it so that you may be accepted. ⁶It shall be eaten on the day you offer it or on the next day. And whatever remains shall be burned on the third day. ⁷If it is eaten on the third day it is unclean and will not be accepted. ⁸Whoever eats it will pay for his sin, for he has profaned a holy thing of Yahweh and this person shall be cut off from his people.

them into a holy people different from all the other people.

Do not give any of your children to be burned (v. 21). This, too, was done in Canaan. Where instincts rule, there is no respect for life. It was among God's people that the dignity of the human person was discovered. Cannibalism was being practiced among the most refined groups of China. Among most ancient peoples, a father had the right to destroy a newborn, not to mention the right to offer human sacrifices.

Lest the land vomit you (v. 27). In the Promised Land the Israelites have to live according to the laws of Yahweh; if they do not observe them, they will be exiled. This stay in the promised land is a sign in the Bible. See in particular Dt chap. 8. Paul recalls this in Gal 5:21.

limits of your field or gather the gleanings after your harvest. ¹⁰ Do not strip your vineyard bare and do not gather the grapes that have fallen; leave them for the needy and the stranger. I am Yahweh, your God.

¹¹ Do not steal or lie or deceive one another. ¹² Do not swear falsely by my name so as to profane the name of your God; I am Yahweh.

¹⁹ Keep my decrees. You shall not let your cattle breed with another kind. You shall not sow your field with two kinds of seed and you shall not wear clothing made of two different materials.

²⁰ If a man lies with a woman who is a slave promised to another man, and she has not been ransomed or given her freedom, there shall be punishment. They shall not be put to death because she was not free, ²¹ but he shall bring a ram as a guilt offering to Yahweh for himself, to the door of the Tent of Meeting. ²² The priest is to make atonement for him before Yahweh with the ram of the guilt offering, and the sin he has committed will be forgiven.

²³ When you enter the land and plant all kinds of trees for food, you shall count the fruit as unclean. For three years it shall be unclean for you and it must not be eaten. ²⁴ In the fourth year all the fruit shall be holy, an offering of praise to the Lord. ²⁵ But in the fifth year you may eat of the fruit, that its yield may increase for you. I am Yahweh, your God.

³⁰ Keep my sabbaths and revere my sanctuary. I am Yahweh.

³¹ Do not turn to mediums or spiritists for you will be defiled by them. I am Yahweh, your God.

³³ When a stranger stays with you in your land, do him no wrong. ³⁴ He shall be to you as ♦ Among so many laws which show the still primitive level of God's people, we marvel to find some prescriptions teaching deeply human attitudes often lacking in us.

These prescriptions, addressed to a people of small farmers, must be interpreted in order to adapt them to the circumstances of our present lives.

They teach us that "right of ownership" is not absolute and that it never justifies oppression of the poor, nor does it excuse us from helping them. We are ordered to care for our brothers, assuring everyone what is necessary in order to live.

Do not seek revenge, but love your neighbour as yourself. Here, neighbour means the brother of the same race. They must be loved and there must be solidarity with them because God embraces all those who belong to his people with the same love.

This was written six centuries before Jesus. He was to give the word neighbour a much broader meaning (Lk 10:25), teaching us universal love (Mt 5:43).

• Various customs of pagan religions were also forbidden. Mediums and fortune-tellers were also forbidden just as in Dt 18:10.

The stranger shall be as the native among you. You will note that the Bible, which forbids sharing with pagan foreigners, always insists on respecting the alien living in Israel. Along with widows and orphans, foreigners are the most defenseless and they must be protected.

the native among you. Love him as yourself for you have been strangers in the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh, your God.

¹⁵ Do no wrong in judgement or in measurement of weight or quantity. ¹⁶ Use honest scales and honest weights for liquids and solids. I am Yahweh, your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁷ You shall keep all my laws and all my decrees and follow them. I am Yahweh."

Some punishments

+ 20 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses ² saying, "To the sons of Israel you shall say this:

Any man from the people of Israel or from among the aliens living in Israel who gives any of his children for the Molech sacrifice, shall be put to death. The people of the land shall stone him. ³ I shall set my face against that man and cut him off from among his people, for by giving his children to Molech he has defiled my sanctuary and profaned my holy name. ⁴ And if the people of the land hide their eyes from what that man does and do not put him to death, ⁵ then I will set my face against them and against their family and cut them off from their people. I will do the same to all who follow him in prostituting themselves to Molech.

⁶ I will set my face against the person who turns to mediums and spiritists and prostitutes himself by following them, and I will cut him off from his people.

⁷ Take the way of holiness so that you be holy for I am Yahweh, your God. ⁸ You shall keep my laws and practise them. I, Yahweh, your God am the one who makes you holy. ⁹ The man who curses his father or mother shall be put to death. He has cursed his father or mother. He himself shall account for his blood.

¹⁰ If a man commits adultery with another man's wife, the wife of his neighbour, both the adulterer and the adulteress shall be put to death. ¹¹ If a man lies with his father's wife, he has dishonoured his father, both of them shall be put to death. They themselves shall account for their blood. ¹² If a man sleeps with his daughter-in-law both of them shall be put to death for they have committed incest. They themselves shall account for their blood.

¹³ When a man lies with a man as one lies with a woman, both have committed a detestable act and they shall be put to death. They themselves shall account for their blood.

¹⁴ It is wicked for a man to marry both a woman and her mother. He and they must be burned in the fire so that there may be no wickedness among you.

¹⁵ A man who has sexual relations with an animal must be put to death and the animal killed. ¹⁶ If a woman approaches an animal to mate with it, kill the woman and the animal. They shall be put to death. They themselves shall account for their blood.

²² Keep, therefore, all my decrees and laws and act according to them so that the land where I am bringing you to live may not vomit you out of it. ²³ You shall not follow the customs of the nations I shall drive out before you. I felt hatred for them for they did all these things. ²⁴ Because of this I said to you: You will possess their land and it is I who give it to you as your possession, a land flowing with milk and honey.

I, Yahweh, your God have set you apart from the nations. ²⁵ You must therefore make a distinction between the clean beast and the unclean, between the clean and unclean bird and you shall not defile yourselves by animal or by bird or by anything that creeps along the ground, which I have separated from you as unclean.

+ This chapter lists the penalties corresponding to the previously listed faults. In some cases, human justice punishes. In others, people are threatened with God's curse.

Chapters 21 and 22 deal with the responsibilities and privileges of the priests. All these details may seem too external and foreign to the authentic sanctity which the priestly office requires. But, in those days, these prescriptions were valuable teaching and they still teach us about the sacredness of serving the Lord.

²⁶ You are to be holy for me as I am holy, Yahweh, your God, and I have set you apart from the nations to be mine.

²⁷ Now a man or a woman who is a spiritist shall be put to death; he or she shall be stoned and they shall account for their own blood."

21 ¹ Yahweh said to Moses, "Speak to the priests, sons of Aaron and tell them that not one of them shall make himself unclean for a dead person among his people ² except for those relatives nearest to him, that is for his mother, father, son, daughter or brother, ³ or for an unmarried sister who is dependent on him because she has had no husband. For her, he may make himself unclean. ⁴ As a husband he must not make himself unclean for his family-in-law and so profane himself. ⁵ They shall not make tonsures on their heads nor shave off the edges of their beards, nor make any cuts in their flesh. ⁶ They shall be holy to their God and not profane the name of their God, for it is they who present offerings by fire, the bread of their God, so they shall be holy. ⁷ They must not marry women unclean by prostitution or a woman divorced by her husband, for the priest is holy to his God. ⁸ You shall regard the priest as holy for he offers up the food of your God. Holy he shall be for you because I, Yahweh, am holy who makes you holy.

¹⁰ The high priest, the one among his brothers on whose head the anointing oil has been poured, and who has been consecrated to wear the garments, shall not uncover his head or tear his clothes. ¹¹ He shall not go near any dead person or defile himself either for his father or his mother. ¹² He shall not leave the sanctuary nor profane the sanctuary of his God for he has on him the consecration of the anointing oil of his God. I am Yahweh.

¹³ The woman he marries must be a virgin. ¹⁴ He shall not take as wife a widow or a divorced woman or a woman defiled by prostitution, but only a virgin of his own people, ¹⁵ that he may not defile his children among his people. I am Yahweh who makes him holy."

¹⁶ Yahweh said to Moses, ¹⁷ "Say to Aaron: No man among your descendants in future generations who has a defect shall approach to offer the bread of his God. ¹⁸ No man who has a defect may come near, no man who is blind or lame, disfigured or deformed ¹⁹ or who has a broken foot or hand, ²⁰ or is a hunchback or dwarf, or who has an eye defect or eczema or scabs or damaged testicles. ²¹ The descendant of Aaron the priest who has a defect shall not approach to offer the burnt offering to Yahweh. He must not approach to offer the bread of his God because of the defect he has. ²² He may eat the bread of his God, both the most holy and the holy, ²³ but he may not go as far as the veil or advance towards the altar because he has a defect. Let him not defile my sanctuary, for it is I, Yahweh, who make them holy."

22 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: ² "Tell Aaron and his sons when they have to abstain from the holy offerings of the people of Israel, lest they profane my holy name; for I am the one who makes them holy. I am Yahweh. ³ Tell them this:

Anyone of your descendants, in any generation, who in a state of uncleanness approaches the holy offerings consecrated to Yahweh by the people of Israel, shall be outlawed from my presence. I am Yahweh.

⁴ Anyone of Aaron's line who is afflicted with leprosy or a discharge must not eat holy things until he is clean. Anyone who touches something made unclean by a dead body, or has a seminal discharge, ⁵ or is made unclean by touching either some creeping thing or some man who has communicated to him his own uncleanness of whatever kind, ⁶ in short, anyone who has had any such contact shall be unclean until evening, and must not eat holy things until he has taken a bath. ⁷ At sunset he will be clean and may then eat holy things, for these are his food.

¹² If a priest's daughter marries someone who is not a priest, she must not eat the holy portion set aside; ¹³ but if she is widowed or divorced and, being childless, has had to return to her father's house as when she was young, she may eat her father's food. No lay person may eat it; ¹⁴ if someone does eat a holy thing unintentionally, he shall restore it to the priest with one fifth added.

¹⁵ They must not profane the holy offerings which the people of Israel have set aside for Yahweh. ¹⁶ If they ate of them, they would have to pay a guilt offering. I am Yahweh, who have sanctified these offerings."

¹⁸ "Tell this to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the people of Israel:

²¹ If anyone offers to Yahweh a peace offering either to fulfill a vow or as a voluntary offering, the animal – from the herd or from the flock – will not please Yahweh unless it be without any defect. ²² You must not offer to Yahweh an animal that is blind, lame, mutilated, ulcerous, or suffering from skin disease or a sore. No part of such an animal shall be laid on the altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh.

²³ As a voluntary offering, you may offer a bull or a lamb that is underdeveloped or deformed; but such will not be accepted in payment of a vow. ²⁴ Don't offer to Yahweh an animal if its testicles have been bruised, crushed, removed or cut. This is not permitted in your land, ²⁵ and you are not to accept any such from the hands of a stranger, to offer as food for your God. Their deformity is a defect and they would not make you acceptable."

²⁶ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

²⁷ "A calf, lamb, or kid shall stay with its mother seven days after birth. From the eighth day it will be acceptable as a burnt offering to Yahweh. ²⁸ No animal, whether cow or ewe, shall be slaughtered on the same day as its young.

²⁹ If you offer Yahweh a sacrifice of thanksgiving, do it so that Yahweh may be pleased. ³⁰ You must eat it the same day, and nothing should be left till the morning. I am Yahweh.

Final exhortation

³¹ You must keep my commands and put them into practice. I am Yahweh. ³² You must not profane my holy name, so that I may be proclaimed holy among the people of Israel. I, Yahweh who sanctify you. ³³ I who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God, I am Yahweh."

The annual feasts

■ 23 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses, ² "Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: You shall proclaim holy assemblies on the appointed feasts of Yahweh, which are these:

³ After six days in which work shall be done, there is a sabbath of complete rest on the seventh day, a holy assembly when no work shall be done; it is a sabbath to Yahweh in all your houses.

⁴ Then there are the appointed feasts of Yahweh at the times fixed for them, when you are to proclaim holy assemblies.

⁵ At twilight on the fourteenth day of the first month is Yahweh's Passover. ⁶ And on the fifteenth day of this month it is Yahweh's feast of Unleavened Bread. For seven days you shall eat bread without leaven. ⁷ On the first day there will be a sacred assembly and no work of a worker shall be done. ⁸ For seven days you shall present an offering by fire to Yahweh and on the seventh day you shall hold a sacred assembly and do no work of a worker."

■ Here we are dealing with the feasts or "days" of Yahweh. God's people gather not only to celebrate their joys and sorrows: God is the one who summons them for his feasts through those responsible for his church (do not forget that church means: assembly).

The weekly day of rest (in Hebrew, sabbath means rest) is the first of these sacred encounters with God (v. 3).

Then come the three great feasts of Israel:

- The week of unleavened bread, which began with the Passover and recalled the departure from Egypt (9-14).
- The feast of the seven weeks, or Pentecost (which means fiftieth day) which was connected with the remembrance of the Law given on Sinai (15-21).

- The feast of Tabernacles, or of booths, to recall the years in the desert (33-34).

As to the day of Atonement, the yearly asking for forgiveness for the people's sins (26-32) it was celebrated for a while along with the New Year, or during the feast of Tabernacles until it became fixed on a special day.

◆ Below we single out the offering of the sheaf of the first fruits, during the feast of unleavened bread, marking the beginning of the harvest.

God does not need anything. If he does ask something from us it is because we need to give

Offering of the first sheaf

◆ ⁹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ¹⁰ "Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: When you enter the land that I will give you and you reap its harvest you will bring to the priest a sheaf, the firstfruits of your harvest ¹¹ and he shall wave the sheaf before Yahweh for you to be accepted; on the day after the sabbath the priest shall wave it.

¹² The day when you wave the sheaf you shall sacrifice a lamb without defect, born that year, as a burnt offering to Yahweh. ¹³ And the grain offering with it shall be two tenths of a measure of fine flour mixed with oil, an offering by fire to Yahweh, a sweet-smelling offering, with its drink offering of a quarter of a measure of wine.

¹⁴ You shall eat neither bread nor grain, whether roasted or new until the very day you bring the offering to your God. This is to be an everlasting ordinance for all generations in all your families.

¹⁵ From the day after the sabbath, on which you bring the sheaf of offering, you are to count seven full weeks. ¹⁶ The day after the seventh sabbath will be the fiftieth day and then you are to offer Yahweh a new offering. ¹⁷ You must bring bread from your houses to present with the gesture of offering – two loaves, made of two tenths of wheaten flour baked with leaven; these are firstfruits for Yahweh. ¹⁸ In addition to the bread you must offer seven one-year-old lambs without any defect, a young bull and two rams, as a burnt offering to Yahweh together with a grain offering and drink offering, as a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh.

¹⁹ You are also to offer a goat as a sacrifice for sin, and two one-year-old lambs as a peace offering. ²⁰ The priest shall present them before Yahweh with the gesture of offering, in addition to the bread of the firstfruits. These, and the two lambs, are holy things for Yahweh, and will belong to the priest.

²¹ This same day you are to hold an assembly; this shall be a sacred assembly for you; you will do no work of a worker. This is a perpetual law for your descendants wherever you live.

²² When you gather the harvest in your country, you are not to harvest to the very end of your field, and you are not to gather the gleanings of the harvest. You are to leave them for the poor and the stranger. I am Yahweh your God."

²⁴ "Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: The first day of the seventh month shall be a day of rest for you, a sacred assembly proclaimed with trumpet call. ²⁵ You must not do any work of a worker and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh."

²⁶ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: ²⁷ "The tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. You are to hold a sacred assembly. You must fast, and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. ²⁸ You are not to do any work that day, for it is the Day of Atonement, on which the rite of atonement will be performed over you before Yahweh your God. ²⁹ Indeed, anyone who fails to fast that day shall be outlawed from his people; ³⁰ anyone who works that day I will remove from his people. ³¹ No work must be done – this is a perpetual law for your descendants wherever you live. ³² This is to be a day of sabbath rest for you. You must fast; on the evening of the ninth day of the month, from this to the following evening, you must cease to work."

³³ Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

³⁴ "Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of Tents for Yahweh, lasting seven days. ³⁵ The first day you shall hold an assembly; you must do no work of a worker. ³⁶ For seven days you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. On the eighth day you are to hold a sacred assembly and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. It is a day of solemn assembly in which you shall do no work of a worker.

of ourselves to be truly human. There is no feast, no shared happiness, no soothed heart if something is not sacrificed.

Titling or the tenth part of the fruits offered to God and which will serve to feed the Levites and the poor becomes spiritual wealth for the people of the Bible.

The first sheaf offered to God may also mean the first part of the workday given to God: the first contribution of the month given to assist a companion in need: the first moment of rest which spouses together offer to the Lord; it means each believer's cooperation in church affairs to make it free before the powerful.

³⁷ These are the appointed feasts of Yahweh in which you are to proclaim holy assemblies for the purpose of offering offerings by fire, burnt offerings, grain offerings and drink offerings to Yahweh, according to the ritual of each day, ³⁸ besides the sabbaths of Yahweh and the presents, and the votive and voluntary gifts that you make to Yahweh.

³⁹ On the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have harvested the produce of the land, you are to celebrate the feast of Yahweh for seven days. On the first and eighth days there shall be a complete rest. ⁴⁰ On the first day you shall take choice fruits, palm branches, boughs of leafy trees and willows from the riverbank, and for seven days you shall rejoice in the presence of Yahweh your God. ⁴¹ You are to celebrate a feast for Yahweh in this way for seven days every year. This is a perpetual law for your descendants.

⁴² You are to keep this feast in the seventh month. For seven days you are to live in tents and shelters: all natives of Israel must live in tents and shelters, ⁴³ so that your descendants may know that I made the sons of Israel live in tents when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God."

24 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² "Command the Israelites to bring you oil from pressed olives for the light, that a lamp may be kept burning continually. ³ Aaron shall keep the flame in order from evening until morning in the Tent of Meeting, outside the veil of the Statement. It shall be a lasting ordinance for all generations. ⁴ He shall set the lamps on the pure gold lampstand to burn continually before Yahweh.

⁵ Then you shall take fine flour and make twelve cakes, two-tenths of a measure in each cake. ⁶ Place them in two rows, six in each, on the pure gold table before Yahweh. ⁷ On each row put pure frankincense, so that the bread may be a memorial, as an offering by fire to Yahweh. ⁸ Every sabbath Aaron shall set the bread in order before Yahweh on behalf of the Israelites as a lasting covenant. ⁹ The bread will be for Aaron and his sons: they are to consider it as a most holy portion of the sacrifices by fire to Yahweh and they shall eat it in a holy place. This is a lasting law."

The blasphemy

¹⁰ The son of an Israelite woman quarrelled with a man of Israel in the camp and ¹¹ the son of the Israelite woman blasphemed the name of Yahweh with a curse, so they brought him to Moses. (His mother was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri of the tribe of Dan). ¹² They put him under guard until a decision from Yahweh would be made known.

¹³ Yahweh said to Moses, "Take the man who has cursed out of the camp. ¹⁴ All who have heard him curse will lay their hands on his head and the entire assembly shall stone him to death. ¹⁵ Then say this to the sons of Israel: The man who curses God shall pay for his sin ¹⁶ and whoever blasphemes the name of Yahweh shall be put to death. The whole assembly shall stone him, the alien like the native shall be put to death when he blasphemes the Name.

The law of retaliation

¹⁷ Whoever kills a man shall be put to death.

¹⁸ Whoever kills an animal shall make up the loss, life for life. ¹⁹ If a man injures his neighbour, as he has done, shall it be done to him. ²⁰ Fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, just as he has injured another so shall it be done to him. ²¹ He who kills a beast shall make up for it, and he who kills a man shall be put to death.

²² There shall be one law, the same for the alien and the native, for I am Yahweh, your God."

²³ So Moses spoke to the Israelites and they brought the man who had cursed outside the camp and stoned him. In this way the Israelites did as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

The sabbatical year and jubilee

+25 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai: ² "Speak to the Israelites and tell them: When you

o Eye for eye. In 24:19 we have the so-called "Law of Talion." This law seems cruel. It appears to accept vengeance as normal. But, in fact, it was an attempt to limit violent impulses such as resentment or the desire for retaliation. This is why this law established that an enemy will only be hurt in proportion to the harm suffered: an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. This was a way of civilizing people who were quite far from the Christian ideal. Forgiveness, as Christ preached, is something radically new.

+ The land needs a rest. We know how, in our days, many fields have been exhausted by over-enter the land I am giving you, let the land rest for Yahweh every seventh year. ³For six years you shall sow your field, prune your vineyard and harvest the produce, ⁴but in the seventh year the land shall have a rest, or sabbath, a sabbath for Yahweh. You shall not sow your field nor prune your vineyard; ⁵you shall not reap the aftergrowth of your harvest nor gather the grapes of your uncultivated vines.

This shall be a year of rest for the land, ⁶but whatever it produces of itself will provide food for you, for your male and female slaves, for your hired servant and for the stranger who lives with you.

⁸When seven sabbaths of years have passed, that is, seven times seven years, there shall be the time of the seven weeks of years, that is forty-nine years. ⁹Then on the tenth day of the seventh month sound the trumpet loudly. On this Day of Atonement sound the trumpet all through the land. ¹⁰Keep holy the fiftieth year and proclaim freedom for all the inhabitants of the land. It shall be a jubilation year for you when each one shall recover his family property. ¹¹In this fiftieth year, your year of Jubilee, you shall neither sow nor reap the aftergrowth, nor gather the grapes from the uncultivated vines, ¹²because this Jubilee year shall be holy for you, and you shall eat what the field yields of itself without cultivation.

¹³In this year of Jubilee each of you shall recover his own property.

¹⁴When you sell something to your neighbour or buy something from him, do not wrong one another.

¹⁵According to the number of years after the Jubilee, you shall buy it from your neighbour and according to the number of years left for harvesting use. People want to produce more and more and they demand that the land give more than it can give. Nowadays, people also make demands on machines, their workers, and even on their own health: they mistreat themselves and everybody else because they lack trust in God.

God commands that the land be given a rest. The sabbatical year (or the year of rest) occurs every seven years. Besides being beneficial in terms of the productivity of the land, the sabbatical year enables the Israelites to dedicate themselves to religious, cultural or community activities. This provides a slowing down of the feverish involvement in work which often becomes totally alienating for people.

If this sabbatical year occur in times of need, or after an invasion, we can see that it will be very difficult to observe this prescription (see 1 Mac 6:49). Yet, God himself promised to help those who faithfully observe it (23:30), which anticipated what the Gospel says in Matthew 6:23.

Every fifty years a Jubilee year is to be celebrated: its value is even more sacred. The word Jubilee does not come from jubilation, but both words come from the Hebrew yobel or ram's horn which was used to proclaim this holy year. That year, all slaves had to be liberated: all mortgaged fields and houses would return to their owners without payment from them.

This has a profound meaning. God does not allow anyone to accumulate the goods of others. This text offers an ideal contrary to economic liberalism which allows anyone to become rich and powerful by monopolizing the means of production which others need. It also is a condemnation of the laws of international trade which always favor the most developed countries.

The land is mine (23). Try saying that to the large landowner or even to the small landowner! This statement was no less shocking at the time it was written. But, what will those who want to adapt Christian faith to a secular world say now?

You are strangers and guests of mine. The people surrounding Israel boasted of having lived in the same country and of owning it ever since the creation of the world. But, for the Israelite, the land is the heritage he received from the Lord. In the long chapters of Deuteronomy and Joshua which relate the conquest of the Holy Land and its distribution, the land is always seen as inheritance. It is the inheritance that God gives to the tribes of his people. The land, then, belongs to each of the tribes, and so, along with private property, there are also lands belonging to the community, lands which are distributed periodically.

crops he shall sell to you. ¹⁶ When the years are many the price shall be greater and when the years are few the price shall be less, for it is the number of crops that he is selling to you. ¹⁷ So you shall not wrong one another but you shall fear your God, for I am Yahweh, your God.

¹⁸ Carry out my precepts and obey my laws. In that way you will live securely in the land. ¹⁹ The land will give its fruit so that you may have food in abundance and live securely.

²⁰ But if you ask: 'What will we eat in the seventh year if we do not sow or gather crops?' see that ²¹ I will send you my blessing in the sixth year that it may produce enough for three years. ²² So in the eighth year the remains of the old crop will provide you with what to sow and to eat until the harvest of the ninth year is ready.

²⁵ When your brother becomes poor and sells his property, his nearest relative is to come and buy back what his relative has sold. ²⁶ If the man has no relatives to buy back his property, but later has sufficient means to redeem it, ²⁷ he will calculate the value for the years since he sold it and refund the balance to the man to whom he sold it and in that way he shall recover his property. ²⁸ But if he does not find the means to repay him, what has been sold shall remain with the buyer until the Jubilee year when it must be given back to its original owner.

³² As for the towns of the Levites, the houses which belong to them have a permanent right of redemption. ³³ Whatever belongs to the Levites may be redeemed. A house sold in a city of their possession returns at the time of the Jubilee, for the houses in the towns of the Levites are their possession among the Levites. ³⁴ The field also belonging to their towns must not be sold forever; it is their permanent possession.

How to share with our neighbour

■ ³⁵ If your brother becomes poor and is unable to support himself, help him that he may continue to live with you, at least as a stranger and a guest.

³⁶ Do not take interest from him, but fear your God, so that your brother may continue to live among you. ³⁷ Do not give him your silver at interest nor your food for gain.

35. Dt 15, 7

■ These paragraphs were written by Jewish priests with high ideals, but in the framework of a primitive economy which does not exist any longer. They led to important consequences when capitalism emerged in the thirteenth to the fifteenth century after Christ.

Do not give your silver at interest. This is the law of solidarity and fraternal love. But it does not work on a large scale when people are trying to find the capital necessary for economic development. Individuals with savings will not be convinced to invest if they are not given some incentive and neither will the socialist governments loan without interest.

Such distinctions had not been made when the first capitalist firms were born.

The promoters of capitalism in its beginnings felt alienated from the Church. And thus they were Jews marginalized from Christian society and subject to many obstacles in the exercise of various professions who often played the role of moneylenders, a profession forbidden to Christians. And so they were hated by Christians, noble or otherwise, who were their debtors: they avenged themselves by killing Jews or weighing them down with taxes, and Jews, in their turn, demanded greater interest in order to live.

³⁸ I am Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of Egypt to give you the land of the Canaanites and to be your God.

⁴⁴ As for the male and female slaves, it is from the nations around you that you are to buy them. ⁴⁵ You may also buy from among the aliens who live with you and from their families, born in your land, and they may be your property. ⁴⁶ So you may leave them to your children as inherited possessions and make them slaves for life. But regarding your Israelite brothers, you must not rule over them harshly.

shall correspond to the number of years. If many years remain, he shall be reckoned at the price of a hired servant, according to the number of years. ⁵¹ If many years remain, he shall refund out of the price paid for him, according to the remaining time. ⁵² If only a few years remain until the Jubilee year, he will calculate and refund accordingly. ⁵³ He shall be with him as a servant hired year by year and he shall not be harshly dealt with.

⁵⁴ If he is redeemed in any of these ways, he shall be released in the Jubilee year, he and his sons with him.

⁵⁵ For it is to me that the sons of Israel are servants; they are my servants whom I brought out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh, your God.

26 ¹ You shall not make for yourselves idols or set up an image or pillar or carved stone in your land to bow before it for I am Yahweh, your God.

² You shall keep my sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary. I am Yahweh.

Promises of God

◆ ³ If you walk according to my precepts and obey my commandments, if you carry them out, ⁴ I will give you rain in its season and the land will yield its produce, the trees in the field their fruit; ⁵ the threshing time will last to vintage time and the vintage till sowing time. You will have food in abundance and you will live securely in your land.

⁶ I will give you peace in your country and you will sleep without anyone disturbing you. I will banish

◆ The law of God is a law of life. When men do not follow it, they destroy themselves. Here God requires of his people justice, kindness and respect for life: he requires this in words which they understand and he also promises blessings or misfortunes in the material sphere.

The end of this chapter, written during the exile, describes the decadence of the Jewish people just before their exile. This destruction was, in some sense, "God's punishment;" but it was also the consequence of their faults, because any society which disregards the foundations of moral life is digging its own grave.

This chapter puts into opposition peace and fruitfulness on the one hand, and on the other, insecurity, waste and division when people do not listen to God:

- injustice breeds violence;
- the love of money destroys the sense of the common good;
- sexual license weakens the sense of sacrifice;
- the young do not find their place in society, and those who are not satisfied rebel against it, because they lack a goal in life;
- national resources are wasted on luxury and on repressive forces;
- the economy is ruined because people exploit human and natural resources.

Such people come to the point of eating the flesh of their own children.

the wild beast and keep the sword of war from passing through the land.⁷ You will rout your enemies and they will fall before your sword;⁸ five of you will pursue a hundred of them and a hundred of you ten thousand of them, and they will fall before you by the sword.

⁹ I will turn towards you to make your families fruitful and your people numerous, and I will strengthen my covenant with you.¹⁰ When you are still eating from the old harvest you will have to discard what is stored to make place for the new.¹¹ I will make my Dwelling among you and I will not reject you.¹² I will walk among you; I will be your God and you will be my people.¹³ I am Yahweh, your God who brought you out of Egypt to be their slaves no longer. I have broken the bars of your yoke letting you walk erect.

Curses

¹⁴ But if you do not heed me and keep my commandments,¹⁵ if you reject my precepts and ignore my decrees, refusing to obey all my commandments and so break my covenant,¹⁶ I, in turn, will do this: I will bring upon you terror, a tuberculosis and fever, weakening your eyes and draining your life. In vain will you sow, for your enemies will eat it.¹⁷ I will turn away from you until you are beaten by your enemies. Those who hate you shall rule over you and you shall flee when no one pursues you.

¹⁸ If after all this you do not obey me, I will continue to punish you sevenfold for your sins.¹⁹ I will break the pride of your power; I will make your sky like iron and your earth like bronze.²⁰ Your strength shall be spent in vain; your land will give no produce and the trees no fruit.²¹ If you defy me and are unwilling to obey me, I will bring seven times as many plagues on you for your sins.²² I will let loose the wild animals and they will rob you of your children and destroy your cattle and make you so few that your roads will be deserted.

tile towards you and strike you seven times for your sins.²⁵ The sword I will bring against you, and with the sword I will avenge my covenant with you; and when you gather together in your cities I will send pestilence on you and you shall be delivered into enemy hands.²⁶ When I cut off your supply of bread and ten women bake bread in one oven and bring back rationed bread, you will eat and not be satisfied.

²⁷ But if with all that you do not obey me and remain defiant towards me,²⁸ I will go against you in fury and punish you sevenfold for your sins.²⁹ You shall eat the flesh of your sons and the flesh of your daughters.³⁰ I will destroy your high places and cut down your incense altars; I will cast your corpses on those of your idols and I shall hate you.³¹ I will lay waste your cities and make desolate your sanctuaries and no longer shall I relish your sweet-smelling offerings.³² I will make the land desolate so that your enemies who settle in it will be astonished.³³ I will scatter you among the nations and unsheathe the sword behind you, as your land becomes desolate and your cities lie in ruins.

³⁶ As for those of you who are left, I will make them faint-hearted in the land of their enemies. The sound of a wind-blown leaf will chase them and even when no one pursues them,³⁷ they will flee as from the sword and will fall. They will stumble against each other as if running from the sword even when they are not pursued, and you will be unable to stand up before your enemies.³⁸ You shall perish among the nations and die in the land of your enemies.

³⁹ Those among you who remain will rot away because of their wickedness in the land of your enemies and because of the wickedness of their fathers they will rot away with them.⁴⁰ Then they will confess their sins and the sins of their fathers. They will admit that their treacheries and their hostility towards me⁴¹ made me hostile, towards them and caused me to bring them to the land of their enemies, and then their uncircumcised hearts may become humble and they will accept the punishment for their sin.⁴² Then I will remember my covenant with Abraham as well, and I will remember the land.

⁴³ For the land will be abandoned by them and it shall observe its sabbath; it will be desolate without them, while they pay for their sin because they spurned my ordinances and ignored my statutes.

⁴⁴ Yet even so, when they are in the land of their enemies I will not reject them or ignore them to the point of destroying them and breaking my covenant with them, for I am Yahweh, their God. ⁴⁵ For their sake I will remember my covenant with their forefathers whom I brought out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God. I am Yahweh."

⁴⁶ These are the statutes, the ordinances and the laws that Yahweh established between himself and the sons of Israel, through Moses, on Mount Sinai.

Vows and promises

27 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² "Tell the sons of Israel about the fixed price for those who have to be ransomed because of a vow.

⁹ As for an animal suitable for offering to Yahweh, any such animal given to Yahweh is holy. ¹⁰ It cannot be exchanged or a substitute offered – good for bad, bad for good. If one animal is substituted for another, both of them shall belong to Yahweh. ¹¹ If it is an unclean animal, and not suitable for offering to Yahweh, whatever it may be it must be presented to the priest ¹² and he shall set a price for it, judging it good or bad. ¹³ You must abide by his price. The person who wishes to buy it back must add one fifth to the price set.

¹⁴ If a man dedicates his house to Yahweh, the priest shall set a price for it, judging whether its value is great or little. You must abide by the priest's price. ¹⁵ If the man who has vowed his house wishes to buy it back, he must add one fifth to the price and it shall be given back to him.

¹⁶ If a man dedicates one of the fields of his patrimony to Yahweh, its value shall be calculated according to its productivity, at the rate of fifty silver coins to one bushel of barley.

¹⁷ If he dedicates the field during the Jubilee year, he must stand by this price. ¹⁸ But if he dedicates it after the Jubilee, the priest shall calculate the price on the basis of the number of years still to run until the next Jubilee and the price shall be reduced accordingly.

²² If he dedicates to Yahweh a field which he has bought, but which is not part of his patrimony, ²³ the priest shall assess the price on the basis of the number of years still to run before the Jubilee year; and the man shall pay this sum the same day, as for a thing dedicated to Yahweh. ²⁴ In the Jubilee year, the field shall return to the seller, to the man to whose patrimony the land belongs. ²⁵ All prices must be made according to the official sanctuary standards at the rate of twenty gerahs to one silver piece.

³² In all tithes of flock or herd, the tenth animal of all that pass under the herdsman's staff shall be a thing dedicated to Yahweh: ³³ there must be no picking out of good and bad, no substitution. If substitution takes place, both the animal and its substitute shall be things dedicated without possibility of buying them back."

³⁴ These are the commandments that Yahweh laid down for Moses on Mount Sinai, for the people of Israel.

This book is called "Numbers" because it begins by listing the numbers of a census of the Hebrew people. What was said in the introduction of Leviticus applies here too: the census, vents and Yahweh's statements to Moses are simply a way of presenting laws which were put together or edited later by the priests of Israel.

Nevertheless, chapters 11-14 and 20-25 should be looked at separately: there we find various traditions and very ancient memories related to the time in the desert; they complete what we read in the book of Exodus.

The census of Israel

1 Yahweh spoke to Moses, in the desert of Sinai, in the Tent of Meeting, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after their departure from the land of Egypt. He said:

²"Take a census of the whole community of Israel, by clans and families, taking a count of the names of all the males, head by head. ³You and Aaron will enlist all men of Israel, twenty years of age and over, able to give military service. ⁴From each tribe you shall take a man, the head of his family, to help you in this.

¹⁴For Gad, Eliasaph son of Reuel. ¹⁵For Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan."

¹⁶These men were elected by public acclamation; they were leaders of their ancestral clans, chiefs of Israel's hosts.

¹⁷Moses and Aaron took these men who had been named, ¹⁸and on the first day of the second month they called together the whole community. The sons of Israel listed their names according to their clans and families, and one by one the names of all men of twenty years and over were recorded and counted. ¹⁹As Yahweh had commanded, Moses took a census of them in the desert of Sinai.

²⁰When the tribe of Reuben, Israel's first-born, had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ²¹The total of these for the tribe of Reuben was 46,500.

²²When the tribe of Simeon had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one.

o What is the meaning of this census, with its many repetitions and orderly arrangement of the camps of the twelve tribes? It looks somewhat like scenes of a play: Israel appears as an orderly people, Yahweh's armies on their way to conquer the Promised Land. First come the men of the tribe of Levi, or the Levites, responsible for worship: thus we know that this is a "holy" people, consecrated to God.

²³ The total of these for the tribe of Simeon was 59,300.

²⁴ When the tribe of Gad had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service were recorded one by one. ²⁵ The total of these for the tribe of Gad was 45,650.

²⁶ When the tribe of Judah had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ²⁷ The total of these for the tribe of Judah was 74,600.

²⁸ When the tribe of Issachar had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service were recorded one by one. ²⁹ The total of these for the tribe of Issachar was 54,400.

³⁰ When the tribe of Zebulun had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ³¹ The total of these for the tribe of Zebulun was 57,400.

³² The descendants of Joseph: when the tribe of Ephraim had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ³³ The total of these for the tribe of Ephraim was 40,500. ³⁴ When the tribe of Manasseh had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ³⁵ The total of these for the tribe of Manasseh was 32,200.

³⁶ When the tribe of Benjamin had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ³⁷ The total of these for the tribe of Benjamin was 35,400.

³⁸ When the tribe of Dan had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service were recorded one by one. ³⁹ The total of these for the tribe of Dan was 62,700.

⁴⁰ When the tribe of Asher had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one. ⁴¹ The total of these for the tribe of Asher was 41,500.

⁴² When the tribe of Naphtali had been listed by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, able to give military service, were recorded one by one.

⁴³ The total of these for the tribe of Naphtali was 53,400.

⁴⁶ Altogether the full total was 603,550.

⁵² The sons of Israel are to set up their tents in formation each man with his own group and under his own banner. ⁵³ But the Levites are to set up their tents around the Holy Tent of the Testimony, lest God's anger fall on the whole community of Israel. The Levites will take care of the Holy Tent of the Testimony."

⁵⁴ The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

Israel's armies

2 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said: ² The Israelites are to camp, every man by his own banner, under the flag of his tribe. They are to camp all around the Holy Tent of the Testimony, but at some distance from it.

⁵ Encamped next to him:

The tribe of Issachar. Leader of the sons of Issachar: Nethanel son of Zuar. ⁶ His command: 54,400 men.

⁷ The tribe of Zebulun. Leader of the sons of Zebulun: Eliab son of Helon. ⁸ His command: 57,400.

⁹ The assembled strength of the camp of Judah numbers in all 186,400. These are to be first in marching.

¹⁰ On the south side, the banner of the camp of Reuben, in battle formation. Leader of the sons of Reuben: Elizur son of Shedeur. ¹¹His command: 46,500 men.

¹²Beside him shall camp: the tribe of Simeon. Leader of the sons of Simeon: Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai. ¹³His command: 59,300 men.

¹⁴The tribe of Gad. Leader of the sons of Gad: Eliasaph son of Reuel. ¹⁵His command: 45,650 men.

¹⁶The assembled strength of the camp of Reuben numbers in all 151,450. They are to be second in order of marching.

¹⁸On the west side, the banner of the camp of Ephraim, in battle formation. Leader of the sons of Ephraim: Elishama son of Ammihud. ¹⁹His command: 40,500 men.

²⁰Next to him: the tribe of Manasseh. Leader of the tribe of Manasseh: Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. ²¹His command: 32,200 men.

²²The tribe of Benjamin. Leader of the sons of Benjamin: Abidan son of Gideon. ²³His command: 35,400 men.

²⁴The assembled strength of the camp of Ephraim numbers in all 108,100. They are to be third in order of marching.

²⁵On the north side, the banner of the camp of Dan, in battle formation. Leader of the sons of Dan: Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai. ²⁶His command: 62,700 men.

²⁷Beside him shall camp ²⁸the tribe of Asher. Leader of the sons of Asher: Pagiel son of Ochran. His command: 41,500 men.

²⁹The tribe of Naphtali. Leader of the sons of Naphtali: Ahira son of Enan. ³⁰His command: 53,400 men.

³¹The assembled strength of the camp of Dan numbers in all 157,600. They are to be last in order of marching.

³²Such was the total count of the sons of Israel when the census was made according to tribes. The full count of the entire camp, grouped under the various commands, is 603,550. ³³The Levites, as Yahweh had commanded Moses, were not included in this census of the sons of Israel.

³⁴The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had commanded Moses. This was how they camped, grouped by banners. This was how they broke camp, each in his own clan, every man with his own family.

The tribe of Levi

+3 ¹These are the descendants of Aaron and Moses, at the time when Yahweh spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai.

²These are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab the eldest, then Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

⁵Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:

⁶"Call for the tribe of Levi and appoint them as servants to Aaron the priest. ⁷They are to perform the duties that are laid on him and on the entire community before the Tent of Meeting, in their service of the Holy Tent. ⁸They shall take care of the furnishings for the Tent of Meeting, and serve in the Holy Tent

4. Lev 10

+ Chapters 3, 4 and 8 refer to the priests or Levites.

At the time of Abraham, each family head was 'priest' for his own group: he himself was responsible for the sacrifices (Gen 15:10), sacred rituals (Gen 28:18); he gave blessings on behalf of God (Gen 27:27).

Certainly, Moses appointed men in charge of the celebration of worship and of teaching Yahweh's laws to Israel. The group called the tribe of Levi, perhaps a tribe of warriors at first, was responsible for this mission. In the episode of the Golden Calf they supported Moses in restoring order.

Still, heads of families as well as priests kept on celebrating without laws or control (Jgs 17).

David and Solomon established the Jewish clergy: from then on, only men from the tribe of Levi would be priests. It was perhaps with Josiah's reform that a distinction was made among the Levites. Those of a higher rank were called priests and those of a lower rank Levites (see 2 Kgs 22:8). Those who returned to Jerusalem at Josiah's command and were forbidden to officiate in the Temple may have been the first "Levites" of a lower rank, while the Jerusalem clergy saw their privileges confirmed. They, the "priests" of the Temple began to form a superior class and, to differentiate themselves within the tribe of Levi, they pretended to be descendants of Aaron, Moses' brother.

The Levites represent the firstborn of Israel, the ones whom Yahweh saved in the first Passover, when the firstborn of Egypt died. Since they were saved by Yahweh, from that time on they belonged to God.

as representatives of the sons of Israel. ⁹ You are to give the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they are given to him by the sons of Israel.

¹⁰ You are to enroll also Aaron and his sons, and they are to carry out the priestly duty. But any layman who comes near is to be put to death."

¹² "I myself have chosen the Levites from among the sons of Israel, in place of the firstborn, those who open the mother's womb among the sons of Israel; the Levites therefore belong to me, ¹³ for every firstborn belongs to me. On the day I struck all the firstborn of the Egyptians, I consecrated for my own all the firstborn of Israel, of both man and beast. They are mine; I am Yahweh."

¹⁴ Yahweh spoke to Moses in the desert of Sinai. He said: ¹⁵ "You are to take a census of the sons of Levi by families and clans; all the males of the age of one month and over must be counted." ¹⁶ Moses took his census, as Yahweh had ordered. ¹⁷ These are the names of the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

²⁸ Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to 8,300. They were in charge of the sanctuary. ²⁹ The Kohathite clans camped on the south side of the Holy Tent. ³⁰ The leader of the Kohathite clans was Elizaphan son of Uzziel. ³¹ They were in charge of the ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the sacred vessels used in the liturgy, and the screen.

³² The chief of the Levite leaders was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest. He was the head of all those who were in charge of the sanctuary.

³³ From Merari are descended the Mahlite and the Mushite clans; these are the Merarite clans. ³⁴ Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to 6,200. ³⁵ The leader of the Merarite clans was Zuriel, son of Abihail. They camped on the north side of the Holy Tent. ³⁶ The sons of Merari were in charge of the framework of the Holy Tent, with its crossbars, posts and bases, all its fittings, ³⁷ and also the posts around the court, with their bases, pegs and ropes.

³⁸ Finally, on the east side, facing the Holy Tent and the Tent of Meeting, toward the sunrise, was the camp of Moses and Aaron and his sons, who had charge of the sanctuary for the people of Israel. Anyone else coming near was to be put to death.

"Take a census of all the firstborn among the sons of Israel, all the males from the age of one month and over; take a census of them by name. ⁴¹ Then you will take the Levites for me, Yahweh, instead of the firstborn of Israel; in the same way you will give me their cattle instead of the firstborn cattle of the sons of Israel."

⁴² As Yahweh commanded, Moses took a census of all the firstborn of the sons of Israel. ⁴³ The total count, by name, of the firstborn from the age of one month and over came to 22,273.

⁴⁵ "Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn of Israel's sons, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; the Levites shall be my own. ⁴⁶ But you have to buy back the 273 of the firstborn of the sons of Israel who outnumber the Levites. ⁴⁷ So for each one you are to pay five pieces of silver, according to the official standard, ⁴⁸ and you shall give this money to Aaron and his sons."

⁴⁹ Moses received the 1,365 pieces of silver as ransom from those who were left when the rest had been redeemed by the Levites. ⁵⁰ From the firstborn of the Israelites he received one thousand three hundred and sixty five pieces of silver according to the sanctuary standard. ⁵¹ And he gave them to Aaron and his sons as Yahweh had ordered.

The Levite families: the Kohathites

4 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said: ²"Take a census of those Levites who are sons of Kohath, by sub-clans and families ³count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those able to give military service who will be given tasks in the Tent of Meeting.

⁴These are the duties of the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting: they are to have charge of the most holy things. ⁵When it is time to move from the camp, Aaron and his sons are to come and take down the veil of the screen. With it they shall cover up the ark of the Statement. ⁶On top of this they shall put a covering of fine leather, and spread over the whole a cloth all of violet. Then they are to fix the poles to the ark.

⁷Over the offertory table they are to spread a violet cloth and put on it the dishes, cups, bowls and jars for the wine offering; the bread offered to the Lord shall be perpetually on it. ⁸Over these they shall spread a cloth of scarlet and cover the whole with a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to the table.

¹¹Over the golden altar they must spread a violet cloth, and cover that with a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to it.

¹²They are also to take all the other objects used in the service of the sanctuary. They must put them all on a violet cloth, cover them with a covering of fine leather and place them together on the carrying frame.

¹³When they have removed the ashes from the altar, they must spread a scarlet cloth over it, ¹⁴and place on this all the objects used in the service at the altar: the fire pans, hooks, shovels, sprinkling basins and all the altar vessels. Over the whole they must spread a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to it.

¹⁵When Aaron and his sons have finished covering all the sacred objects and all the equipment in preparation for moving from camp, the sons of Kohath are to come to carry the sacred things, but without touching any of them; otherwise they would die. This is the duty given to the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting. ¹⁶Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, is to watch over the oil for the light, the sweet-smelling incense, the grain offerings and the anointing oil; he must watch over the whole Holy Tent and everything in it: the sacred objects and their equipment."

¹⁷Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said: ¹⁸"Do not let the families of Kohath be cut off from the number of the Levites. ¹⁹This is what you shall do for them, lest they die when they approach the most holy things: Aaron and his sons must go in and assign to each of them, his task. ²⁰In this way they can go in and yet not look, even for a moment, on any of the holy things; if they do, they will die."

The Gershonite families

²¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and said to him:

²²"Take a census also of the sons of Gershon, by families and sub-clans; ²³count the men between thirty and fifty years of age,

1. Ex 25

23. Lev 13, 45; Dt 23, 11

■ In Israel, every male born into the tribe of Levi was automatically a priest. Besides, each family of that tribe was destined for some form of service. This is the lesson taught in the description of the census taking of the tribe of Levi. The Levites, consecrated to God's service on a permanent basis and for their whole lives (and that of their sons) were, by their very presence, reminding Israel that they were a people destined for the service of God.

This clergy of Israel existed as such at the time of Christ. But later the early church would not give the Levites a privileged task, since Jesus had not been one of them, but had been born from the tribe of Judah.

The early Church had various ministries or services: bishops, presbyters, deacons. But the Church was very aware that all the baptized came to faith through a divine vocation (or call) and were consecrated to God (1 Cor 1:2). Now, when the number of Christians increased, the Church began to be confused with entire populations. Were children who had been baptized automatically called by God? Could people who were officially Christians, but had not chosen Christ and were not concerned about the Gospel, be considered consecrated to God?

So, for centuries of Christianity, the Church came to be somewhat like what people of Israel had been. The clergy became the authentic people consecrated to God and his service, and the dignity of all the baptized was forgotten. The clergy was constituted a class above the Christian people, as had occurred in Israel, and once again the word priest was used to refer to them.

Expel from the camp... (5:11). Let us not forget that all of this was written in figurative language. The camp stood for the Holy Place, for the Temple. It was a way of saying which people were not allowed to enter the Temple.

those able to give military service, who will be given tasks in the Tent of Meeting.

²⁷ They are to be responsible for these things. These are the duties of the sons of Gershon. Their functions and their tasks are to be carried out under the direction of Aaron and his sons: you must see that they fulfill their duties. ²⁸ Such shall be the duties of the Gershonites in the Tent of Meeting. Their work will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

²⁹ You are to count the sons of Merari, by sub-clans and families. ³⁰ Count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those able to give military service, who will be given tasks in the Tent of Meeting.

³³ These are the duties of the Merarite clans. All their duties in the Tent of Meeting will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest."

Census of the Levites

³⁸ A census was taken of the sons of Gershon, ³⁹ by sub-clans and families, of every man between thirty and fifty years of age able to give military service and to be given tasks in the Tent of Meeting. ⁴⁰ The total was 2,630 men. ⁴¹ This was the number of the Gershonites, of all those who were given tasks in the Tent of Meeting, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the Lord's command.

⁴² A census was taken of the sons of Merari, by sub-clans and families, ⁴³ of every man between thirty and fifty years of age, able to give military service and to be given tasks in the Tent of Meeting. ⁴⁴ The total was 3,200 men. ⁴⁵ This was the number of the Merarites whom Moses and Aaron counted at the Lord's command through Moses.

⁴⁶ The total number of Levites, counted according to clans and families – ⁴⁷ all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, able to give military service and to be given tasks of carrying burdens in the Tent of Meeting – amounted to 8,580. ⁴⁸ At Yahweh's command given through Moses, the census was taken to assign to every man his duty and his task; they were numbered as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

5 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ² "Order the Israelites to put out of the camp all lepers, and all who suffer from a contagious infection, or who have become unclean by touching a corpse. ³ Man or woman, you must put them out and forbid them to return to the camp. The Israelites must not allow the camp where I dwell among them to become unclean in this way."

⁴ The Israelites did so: they put them out of the camp. The Israelites did as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

If anyone commits a fault against another person, and thus is unfaithful to Yahweh, ⁷ that person must confess the sin committed and give back in full the amount which was taken plus 20% more. Payment is to be made to the person who was wronged.

⁸ If, however, that person has died and there is no near relative to whom the ill-gotten goods can be returned, this payment owed to Yahweh shall be given to the priest, in addition to the ram of atonement with which the priest makes atonement for the guilty person. ⁹ For of everything consecrated by Israelites and brought to the priest he has a right to the share set aside. ¹⁰ Whatever a person consecrates is his own; whatever is given to the priest belongs to the priest."

If anyone has a wife who goes astray and is unfaithful to him, ¹³ sleeping with some other man without the husband's knowledge, and she disgraces herself in secret in this way, without any witness against her, and without anyone catching her in the act; ¹⁴ then, perhaps the spirit of jealousy will come over the husband and make him jealous for the wife who has disgraced herself. But perhaps the spirit of jealousy comes upon the husband, and makes him jealous of his wife even though she is innocent. ¹⁵ In these cases the man must bring his wife before the priest, and on her behalf make an offering of two pounds of barley flour. He is not to pour oil on it or put incense on it, because this is an offering for jealousy; a memorial offering to record a fault.

¹⁶ The priest is then to bring the woman forward and stand her before Yahweh. ¹⁷ Then he shall take living water in an earthen jar, and on the water throw dust that he has taken from the floor of the Holy Tent. ¹⁸ After he has placed the woman before Yahweh, he shall loosen her hair and put in her hands the commemorative offering (that is, the offering for jealousy). In his own hands the priest will hold the bowl containing bitter water that brings a curse.

¹⁹ He is then to make the woman agree to an oath. He shall say to her: If it is not true that a man has slept with you, that you have gone astray and disgraced yourself while under your husband's authority, then may this water of bitterness and cursing do you no harm. ²⁰ But if it is true that you have gone astray, ²¹ may Yahweh make of you an example and a curse among your people, making your breast shrink and your stomach swell! ²² May this water of cursing enter your body to swell your stomach and to shrink your breast! The woman must answer: Amen! Amen!

²⁵ The priest shall then take the offering for jealousy from the woman's hands, and hold it up before Yahweh with a gesture of offering, and so carry it up to the altar. ²⁶ He shall take a handful of the flour as a memorial, and burn it on the altar.

He shall then make the woman drink the water. ²⁷ After he has made her drink it, if it is true that she has disgraced herself, deceiving her husband, then the water of cursing that goes into her shall indeed be bitter: her belly will swell and her breast shrink, and she will be a curse among her people. ²⁸ But if she has not disgraced herself and is clean, then she will go unharmed and will bear children.

²⁹ This is the law in cases of jealousy, when a woman has gone astray and disgraced herself while under her husband's authority, ³⁰ or when a spirit of jealousy has come over a man and made him jealous for his wife. When a husband brings such a woman before Yahweh, the priest must apply this law to her in full. ³¹ The husband shall be guiltless, but the woman must bear the punishment for her sin."

The Nazirites

◆6 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses, "Speak to the people of Israel ² and say to them: When either a man or a woman makes a special vow, the vow of a Nazirite, to dedicate himself to Yahweh, ³ he shall abstain from wine and strong drink. He shall not drink vinegar made from wine or strong drink; nor shall he drink the juice of the grape or eat fresh or dried grapes. ⁴ All the time he lives as a Nazirite he shall eat nothing produced by the grapevine, from the pips to the skin.

⁹ If someone suddenly dies near him, his dedicated head is defiled. He then shall be purified on the seventh day and shave his head on that day. ¹⁰ Then on the eighth day he shall bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.¹¹ The priest shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering; so he shall make atonement for his sin because of the dead person.¹² And that same day the Nazirite shall again consecrate his head and bring a yearling lamb as a guilt offering. The time of his consecration begins again from that day. The former days are not valid for his separation has been defiled.

◆ The Nazirites were men who consecrated themselves to God for a while or for life. Samson was a Nazirite (Jgs 13.5) and John the Baptist may have been one also (see Lk 1:15). There were also Nazirites among the first Christians of Jewish descent (Acts 21:23). See also Paul's vow

(Acts 18:18).

We do not know of any religious congregations in Israel as we now have in the Church. Therefore the law concerning the Nazirites enabled any believer to dedicate himself to God in a personal way.

¹³ This is the ritual regarding the Nazirite on the day when his period of consecration is completed. He is to be led to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting;¹⁴ and must make his offering to Yahweh: a one-year-old male lamb without any defects for burnt offering, a one-year-old lamb without any defects for sacrifice for sin; a ram without any defects for peace offering,¹⁵ and a basket of unleavened loaves made of fine flour mixed with oil, and of unleavened wafers spread with oil, with the required offerings of grain and wine.¹⁶ When he has brought all this before Yahweh, the priest must offer the sacrifice for sin and the burnt offering for the Nazirite.¹⁷ Then he shall offer the peace offering with the ram and the unleavened bread in the basket, and finally the priest shall offer the accompanying offerings of grain and wine.¹⁸ Then the Nazirite shall shave off his consecrated hair at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and put it in the fire of peace offering.¹⁹ The priest is to take the shoulder of the ram, as soon as it is cooked, with an unleavened cake from the basket, and an unleavened wafer. He is to put them into the hands of the Nazirite who has just shaved off his hair.²⁰ With them he must make the gesture of offering before Yahweh; as it is a holy thing, it belongs by law to the priest, in addition to the breast that has been presented and the leg of the ram that has been set aside. After this the Nazirite may once more drink wine.

²¹ Such is the ritual for the Nazirite, if, besides the hair, he has also vowed a personal offering to Yahweh, he must fulfill the vow he has made, in addition to what the ritual prescribes for his hair."

o ²² Then Yahweh spoke to Moses saying, ²³ "Speak to Aaron and his sons and say to them: This is how you shall bless the people of Israel; you shall say:

²⁴ May Yahweh bless you and keep you!

²⁵ May Yahweh let his face shine on you, and be gracious to you!

²⁶ May Yahweh look kindly on you, and give you his peace!

²⁷ In that way shall they invoke my name on the people of Israel and I will bless them."

Offering of wagons

7 ¹ On the day Moses finished setting up the Holy Tent, he anointed and consecrated it with all its furniture, as well as the altar and all its equipment. When he had anointed and consecrated it all,² the leaders of Israel made an offering; these were the heads of the clans, who were leaders of tribes and had supervised the census.³ They brought their offering before Yahweh: six covered wagons and twelve oxen, one wagon for every two leaders and one ox each. They brought them before the Holy Tent.⁴ Yahweh then spoke to Moses and said, ⁵ "Accept these from them, and let them be set apart for the service of the Tent of Meeting. You are to give them to the Levites, to each as his duties require."

⁶ Moses took the wagons and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites.⁷ To the sons of Gershon he gave two wagons and four oxen for the duties they had to perform.⁸ To the sons of Merari he gave four wagons and eight oxen, for the duties they had to perform under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.⁹ But to the sons of Kohath he gave none at all, because the sacred duty given to them had to be carried on their shoulders.

¹⁰ The leaders then made an offering for the dedication of the altar, on the day it was anointed. They brought their offering before the altar,¹¹ and Yahweh said to Moses, "Let the leaders each bring an offering each day for a period of twelve days for the dedication of the altar."

incense. ¹⁵ one young bull, one ram and one male one-year-old lamb for the burnt offering; ¹⁶ one goat for the sacrifice for sin; ¹⁷ and, for the peace offering: two oxen, five rams, five goats, and five male one-year-old lambs. This was the offering of Nahshon son of Amminadab.

old lamb for the burnt offering; ⁶⁴ one goat for the sacrifice for sin, ⁶⁵ and, for the peace offering: two oxen, five rams, five goats, and five male one-year-old lambs. This was the offering of Abidan son of Gideon.

⁸⁴ These were the offerings made by the leaders of Israel for the dedication of the altar on the day it was anointed: twelve silver bowls, twelve silver sprinkling bowls, and twelve golden bowls. ⁸⁵ Each silver bowl weighed 50 ounces, and each sprinkling bowl 30 ounces, the silver of these objects weighing in all 60 pounds. ⁸⁶ The twelve golden bowls filled with incense weighed 4 ounces each, the gold of these bowls weighing in all 48 ounces.

⁸⁷ The sum total of animals for the burnt offering: twelve bulls, twelve rams, twelve male one-year-old lambs, together with their accompanying grain offering. For the sacrifice for sin, twelve goats. ⁸⁸ The sum total of animals for the peace offering: twenty-four bulls, sixty rams, sixty goats, and sixty male one-year-old lambs.

These were the offerings for the dedication of the altar, after it had been anointed.

8 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ² "Say this to Aaron: Set up the lamps, so that the seven lamps throw their light toward the front of the lampstand."

³ Aaron set up the lamps to the front of the lampstand, as the Lord had commanded Moses. ⁴ This lampstand was made of hammered gold; from its stem to its petals, it was of hammered gold. This lampstand had been made according to the pattern Yahweh had shown to Moses.

The Levites are offered to Yahweh

⁵ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ⁶ "Separate the Levites from the other Israelites and purify them. ⁷ You shall sprinkle them with the water of purification, and they shall shave their bodies all over and wash their clothing. They will then be clean. ⁸ They shall next take a young bull, with the accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you shall take a second young bull for a sacrifice for sin. ⁹ Then bring the Levites before the Tent of Meeting, and call together the whole community of Israel. ¹⁰ When you have brought the Levites before Yahweh, the sons of Israel must lay their hands on them. ¹¹ Aaron shall then offer the Levites, and make the gesture of offering waving them before Yahweh on behalf of the Israelites. From that time, they will be dedicated to the service of Yahweh.

him. ¹⁴ So you shall set the Levites apart from the rest of the sons of Israel, so that they may be mine. ¹⁵ The Levites may begin their ministry in the Tent of Meeting when you have purified them and offered them with the gesture of offering. ¹⁶ They are given me from among all the sons of Israel. They are to replace all the firstborn of all the sons of Israel. I have taken them for my own. ¹⁷ For all the firstborn among the sons of Israel, man and beast, belong to me: the day I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I consecrated them to myself. ¹⁸ and now, in place of all the firstborn among the sons of Israel, I have taken the Levites. ¹⁹ But now I give them to Aaron and his sons from among the sons of Israel and they will minister in the Tent of Meeting on behalf of the sons of Israel, and perform the rite of atonement over them, so that none of the sons of Israel may be struck down for approaching the sanctuary."

²³ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ²⁴ "This concerns the Levites. The Levite shall exercise his ministry and do his duties in the Tent of Meeting from the age of twenty-four onward. ²⁵ After the age of fifty, he is no longer bound to the ministry; he shall have no further duties; ²⁶ but he can still help his brothers to perform the services in the Tent of Meeting, though he himself will no longer have any ministry. See that this is the rule for the ministry of the Levites."

Date of the Passover

9 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the second year after the exodus from Egypt, in the first month. He said:

² "Let the sons of Israel keep the Passover at its appointed time. ³ The fourteenth day of this month, between the two evenings, is the appointed time for you to keep it. Then you must celebrate the Passover according to all the laws and customs proper to it."

⁴ So Moses gave orders for the sons of Israel to celebrate the Passover. ⁵ They celebrated it in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings. The people of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

⁶ It happened that some men had become unclean by touching a dead body and they could not celebrate the Passover that day. They came the same day to Moses and Aaron, ⁷ and said to them, "We have become unclean by touching a dead body. Why should we be forbidden to celebrate the sacrifice to Yahweh at the proper time with the rest of the Israelites?" ⁸ Moses answered them, "Wait there till I hear what Yahweh tells me about you."

⁹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ¹⁰ "Say this to the Israelites: If anyone, among you or your descendants, becomes unclean by touching a dead body or is far away on a journey, he can still celebrate the Passover for Yahweh. ¹¹ He shall do it one month later instead, on the fourteenth day, between the two evenings. Then you shall celebrate it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs; ¹² nothing of the victim must be left over until morning, nor must they break any of its bones: You shall keep all the regulations of the Passover. ¹³ But anyone who is clean and not away on a journey, and who fails to celebrate the Passover, shall be cut off from his people because he did not bring the offering to Yahweh at its appointed time. So he must suffer the punishment for his sin.

¹⁴ "If a stranger is living among you and wants to celebrate the Passover for Yahweh, he must celebrate it in accordance with the laws and customs of the Passover. There is to be only one law among you, for settler and native alike."

By means of the cloud, God leads his people

¹⁵ On the day the Holy Tent, that is the Tent of Meeting, was set up, the Cloud covered it. At nightfall the Cloud took the appearance of fire over the Holy Tent and remained so until the morning. ¹⁶ The Cloud covered it continually in daytime and at night it looked like fire.

The people remained in camp as long as the Cloud rested on the Holy Tent. ¹⁹ As long as the Cloud stayed above the Holy Tent the Israelites obeyed Yahweh and did not move on.

²⁰ Whether the Cloud happened to stay for many days above the Holy Tent or only one day, they camped at Yahweh's command and moved on at Yahweh's command. ²¹ If the Cloud happened to remain only from evening to morning, they moved on when it lifted the next morning. Or, if it stayed for a whole day and night, they moved on only when it lifted. ²² Sometimes it stayed there for two days, a month, or a year; however long the Cloud stayed above the Holy Tent, the Israelites remained in camp in the same place, and when it lifted they moved on. ²³ At Yahweh's command they camped, and at Yahweh's command they moved on. They obeyed Yahweh's command given through Moses.

10 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ² "Make two trumpets of hammered silver that you shall use for calling the people together, and for sounding the order to move on. ³ Whenever both trumpets are sounded, the whole community is to gather around you, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. ⁴ But if only one trumpet is sounded, then only the leaders, the chiefs of clans are to gather around you.

⁹ When you are in your own land and are to go to war against an enemy who oppresses you, you shall sound the trumpet shrilly so Yahweh your God will remember you, and you will be delivered from your enemies.

¹⁰ On joyful occasions, on your festival and new moon feast, you will sound the trumpet at the time of your burnt offering and your communion sacrifices, and they will call you to the remembrance of your God. I am Yahweh your God."

Israel's armies in ordered array

²⁸ Such was the order of march for the Israelites, in battle formation. ²⁹ So they set out.

MEMORIES OF THE DESERT (1st PART)

+ ²⁹ Moses said to Hobab, son of Moses' father-in-law, Reuel the Midianite, "We are setting out for the land which Yahweh has promised to give us. Come with us, and we will treat you well, for Yahweh has promised happiness to Israel." He answered, ³⁰ "I will not come with you. I would rather go to my own land and my own family." Moses replied, ³¹ "Do not leave us, for you know where we can camp in the desert, and so you will be our eyes."

³³ They moved on from the Mountain of Yahweh, a three days' journey, and for three days the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh went before them, ³⁴ seeking out a resting place for them.

Yahweh's cloud was over them by day when they left the camp. ³⁵ Whenever the Ark left, Moses would say, "Arise, Yahweh, and let your enemies be scattered and let those who hate you flee before you." ³⁶ And when it came to rest, he would say, "Come back, Yahweh, to the multitude – the armies of Israel."

11 ¹ Now the people were seeking a quarrel against Yahweh. Yahweh heard and his anger was aroused. A fire from Yahweh flared out against them and burned the outer part of the camp. ² Then the people cried out to Moses and he interceded for them to Yahweh and the fire died out. ³ They called the place Taberah, because the fire of Yahweh was inflamed against them.

⁴ Now the rabble that was among them had greedy desires and even the Israelites wept and said, "Who will give us meat to eat?" ⁵ We remember the fish we ate without cost in Egypt, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions and garlic. ⁶ Now our appetite is gone; there's nothing to look at, nothing but manna."

⁷ Now the manna was like coriander seed and had the appearance of bedellium. ⁸ The people went about gathering it up and then ground it between millstones or pounded it in a mortar. They boiled it in a pot and made cakes with it which tasted like cakes made with oil. ⁹ As soon as dew fell at night in the camp, the manna came with it.

This displeased Moses. ¹¹ Then Moses said to Yahweh, "Why have you treated your servant so badly? Is it because you do not love me that you burdened me with this people?" ¹² Did I conceive all these people and did I give them birth? And now you want me to carry them in my bosom as a nurse carries an infant, to the land you promised on oath to their fathers? ¹³ Where would I get meat for all these people, when they cry to me saying: 'Give us meat that we may eat?' ¹⁴ I cannot, myself alone, carry all these people; the burden is too heavy for me. ¹⁵ Kill me rather than treat me like this, I beg of you, if you look kindly on me, and let me not live in distress."

¹⁶ Yahweh said to Moses, "Assemble seventy men from the elders of Israel whom you recognize as elders and men of authority over them and bring them to the Tent of Meeting and let them take their stand there with you. ¹⁷ I shall come down to speak with you and I shall take some of the spirit that is in you and put it in them. From now on they will share with you the burden of the people so that no longer will you bear it alone.

¹⁸ You shall say to the people of Israel: Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow and you shall eat meat, for you have wept in the hearing of Yahweh, saying: Who will give us meat to eat? For it was well with us in Egypt!

+ This is the beginning of a series of ancient traditions which form the essence of chapters 11-14. In this section we use the normal print for these ancient stories and italics for the parts coming from the priests-editors of the book of Numbers.

- In this chapter two traditions are merged:
 - One referring to the quails and the manna, similar to what we have in Exodus 16.
 - The other, about the gift of the "spirit of Yahweh" to the elders, that is to the leaders of Israel.

Yahweh will give you meat and ¹⁹ you shall eat, not only one day, or two, or five or ten or twenty days ²⁰ but a whole month until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes loathsome to you. For you have rejected Yahweh who is in your midst and have wept before him saying: Why did we ever leave Egypt?"

²¹ And Moses said, "The people I am with are six hundred thousand on foot and yet you say, 'I will give them meat and they shall eat it for a whole month!'" ²² Will sheep and cattle be slaughtered in sufficient number for them?"

²³ And Yahweh said to Moses, "Is Yahweh's arm shortened? Now you shall see whether or not my word is true."

The spirit given to the elders

◆ ²⁴ Moses then went out and told the people what Yahweh had said. He assembled seventy men from among the elders and placed them round about the Tent. ²⁵ Yahweh came down in the cloud and spoke to him. He took some of the spirit that was upon him and put it on the seventy elders. Now when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied. But this they did not do again.

²⁶ Two men had remained in the camp; the name of one was Eldad, the name of the other Medad. However the spirit came on them for they were among those who were registered though they had not gone out to the Tent. As they prophesied inside the camp, ²⁷ a young man ran and told Moses, "Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp." ²⁸ Joshua, the son of Nun, who ministered to Moses from his youth said, "My lord Moses, stop them!"

²⁹ But Moses said to him, "Are you jealous on my behalf? Would that all Yahweh's people were prophets and that Yahweh would send his spirit upon them!" ³⁰ Then Moses and all the elders of the people returned to the camp.

³² The people spent that day, the whole night and all the next day gathering the quail. He who gathered the least had ten homers; and they spread them out for themselves around the camp. ³³ The meat was still between their teeth when already the anger of Yahweh was

◆ The first awareness that the Israelites had of the Spirit of God came to them through the prophets' deeds. The prophets were men who knew something of God's secrets, men with whom God had shared some of his wisdom, men who on certain occasions possessed an irresistible power. By the way the prophets acted, the Israelites came to understand that God communicated his spirit like a violent and sudden wind (in Hebrew the same word ruah means spirit and wind).

In order to better understand this story, it would help to compare it with 1 Sam 10:1-3 and 19:18-14.

This story teaches us that the Spirit acts in many varied ways (see 1 Cor 12 and 14). It is one thing to say and do strange things, to speak in tongues, etc.; it is quite another and more important to have received the responsibility to guide and teach God's people. From Moses, God's representative (who did not speak in tongues nor prophesy while in a trance), the Spirit was poured out on the inspired ones.

The episode of Eldad and Medad also shows that God does not always give his Spirit through the official channels. It is true that Eldad and Medad were on the list, but they were not near Moses. The same way the authorities of the people of God should not be surprised if, at times, the Spirit is given where they are not and without asking their permission: such will be the case with Cornelius (Acts 10) and Paul (Acts 9).

Would that all Yahweh's people were prophets. (see Joel 3:1 and Acts 2:17).

kindled against the people and he struck them with a very severe plague.

³⁴ That place was named Kibroth-hattaavah because there they buried these greedy people. ³⁵ From Kibroth-hattaavah the people moved on towards Hazeroth where they remained.

Miriam and Aaron challenge Moses

12 ¹ Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses because of the Cushite woman he had married ² and they said, "Has Yahweh only spoken through Moses? Has he not also spoken through us?" And Yahweh heard.

³ Now Moses was a very humble man, more humble than any man on the face of the earth. ⁴ Yet suddenly Yahweh said to Moses, Aaron and Miriam, "Come out, all three of you, to the Tent of Meeting." The three of them came out.

⁵ Yahweh came down in the pillar of cloud and, standing at the door of the Tent, called Aaron and Miriam. They both went out and ⁶ he said, "Listen carefully to what I say,

If there is a prophet among you, I reveal myself to him in a vision and I speak to him in a dream.

⁸ To him I speak face to face, openly, and not in riddles, and he sees the presence of Yahweh.

Why then did you not fear to speak against my servant, against Moses?"

⁹ Yahweh became angry with them and he departed.

¹⁰ The cloud moved away from above the Tent and Miriam was there white as snow with leprosy. Aaron turned towards Miriam and he saw that she was leprous. ¹¹ And he said to Moses, "My lord, I beg you, do not charge us with this sin that we have foolishly committed. ¹² Let her not be like the stillborn whose flesh is half-eaten when he comes from his mother's womb."

¹³ Then Moses cried to Yahweh, "Heal her, O God, I beg of you." ¹⁴ But Yahweh said to Moses, "If her father spat in her face, would she not hide in shame for seven days? Let her then be confined outside the camp for seven days; only then shall she be admitted again."

¹⁵ And so Miriam was confined for seven days outside the camp and the people did not move on until she had been re-admitted.

¹⁶ After that the people set out from Hazeroth and camped in the wilderness of Paran.

Moses sends scouts to explore the Promised Land

13 ¹ Yahweh then spoke to Moses, saying, ² "Send men to explore the land of Canaan that I am giving to the sons of Israel; send one man from each of the ancestral tribes, all of them leaders."

o In the Gospel Jesus would declare that no prophet is accepted by his own family (see Mk 6.4). Miriam and Aaron, the "brothers" of Moses, criticized what he was doing and they may have been right. However, it was an attempt to make themselves equal to Moses and God intervened to defend his prophet. God's answer clarifies two things:

- Moses has a special place in revelation: he is to establish the foundations of faith in a Liberating, Just, Holy and Merciful God and no prophet will be able to change that afterward. What is more, prophets will have to be accepted by the leaders of God's people who are Moses' successors.

- To him I speak face to face. Visions and dreams can be one of God's ways of revealing himself to prophets, though these ways are of an inferior nature, since all kinds of spirits may be involved and they may even be illusions from the devil. In the case of Moses and the major prophets, God communicated from spirit to spirit. Taking over their freedom, he transformed and sanctified them.

Moses was a very humble man, a clear sign that he had encountered God.

³So Moses sent these men from the wilderness of Paran as Yahweh commanded. All were leaders among the Israelites ⁴and these were their names: from the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur; ⁵from the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori; ⁶from the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh; ⁷from the tribe of Issachar, Igal; ⁸from the sons of Joseph and from the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea the son of Nun; ⁹from the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu; ¹⁰from the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi; ¹¹from the sons of Joseph and from the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi; ¹²from the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli; ¹³from the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael; ¹⁴from the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi; ¹⁵from the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Mahci.

+ ¹⁶These are the names of the men sent by Moses to explore the country. But Hoshea, the son of Nun, Moses called Joshua.

¹⁷So Moses sent them to explore the land of Canaan and said to them, "Go up by the south and then into the hill country ¹⁸and see what the land is like, whether the people there are strong or weak, many or few. ¹⁹See also whether the land they live in is good or barren. See what their cities are like, if they are open camps or fortresses. ²⁰See if the soil is fertile or poor, if the land is wooded or not. Be courageous and take some of the fruit of the land." It was the season for early grapes.

²¹They went up and surveyed the land from the wilderness of Zin to Rehob near the entrance of Hamath.

²²They went up by the south and reached Hebron, an old city which had been built seven years before Zoan in Egypt; the Anakites, Ahiman, Sheshai and Talmi were living there.

²³And they came to the valley of Eshcol where they cut down a branch with a cluster of grapes. Two of them carried this by means of a pole. They also brought pomegranates and figs. ²⁴Because of the cluster that the sons of Israel had cut, they called that place the Valley of Eshcol.

²⁵After forty days of exploration, they returned. ²⁶They went and met Moses, Aaron and the whole community of Israelites in the wilderness of Paran at Kadesh. They gave an account to them and the whole community and showed them the fruit of this land. ²⁷And they said,

"We entered the land where you sent us, truly a land flowing with milk and honey and here is the fruit. ²⁸But how strong are the people who inhabit the land! The cities are fortified with walls and bars, and we even saw there descendants of the Anakites. ²⁹Amalekites live in the region of the Negeb; Hittites, Jebusites and Amorites live in the hill country; the Canaanites are by the sea and along the banks of the Jordan."

³⁰Caleb then quieted the people who rose up against Moses and said, "We should go up and take over the land, for we shall surely overcome it."

27. Ex 3, 8

+ In those days, the land promised to the Hebrews was called Canaan. Later, it would be called Israel since the Israelites became its owners. Its name would also be Palestine. In their dreams they looked upon this land as a paradise. They cut a branch with a cluster of grapes which two of them carried on a pole. This fabulous detail shows a beautiful land "of milk and honey." This image is used by today's Israelites as the emblem of their country.

However, when the explorers return and stress how difficult it will be to conquer the land, the people become discouraged. The Bible is full of God's marvelous promises to his people, but God does not want to give us things without any effort on our part.

Here, the Bible describes one of the great sins of Israel, as in Ex 32. It would not have been difficult for Israel to believe in Yahweh if he had not required that they conquer the land, a challenge which frightened them. In the same way today, many Christians filled with spiritual fervor get scared when the Church asks them to commit themselves to the task of justice and reconciliation in every area of the world.

³¹But the men who had gone up with him said, "We cannot advance against these people for they are stronger than we are."

³²And they spread a bad report about the land that they had explored, saying to the Israelites, "The land we went through to explore is a land that devours its inhabitants and all the people we saw there are men of great size. ³³We even saw giants (these giants were the Anakites). We felt like grasshoppers before them, and to them we must have seemed the same."

Rebellion at Kadesh

■ 14 ¹Then all the community broke out in loud cries and wept during the night. ²All the people grumbled against Aaron and Moses; and the whole congregation said to them, "Would that we had died in Egypt or died in the wilderness. ³Why is Yahweh bringing us to this country where we shall fall under the sword, and our women and little children become part of the plunder? Would it not be better for us to return to Egypt?" ⁴And they said to one another, "Let us choose a leader and return to Egypt."

from those who had explored the country, tore their clothes ⁷and then spoke to the whole community of Israel, saying, "The land we went through to explore is, indeed, a very good land. ⁸If Yahweh is pleased with us, he will lead us to this land and give it to us, a land flowing with milk and honey. ⁹Only do not rebel against Yahweh, and don't be afraid of the people of the land for they will be bread for us; their protection is withdrawn and Yahweh is with us. Have no fear of them!"

¹⁰All the community spoke of stoning them when the Glory of Yahweh appeared before all the people of Israel in the Tent of Meeting.

"Yahweh said to Moses, "How long will this people spurn me? How long will they refuse to believe me, in spite of the signs I performed among them? ¹²I will strike them with a plague and destroy them, and then I will make of you a greater and more powerful nation than they are."

¹³And Moses said to Yahweh, "The Egyptians know that you have brought out this people from their midst by your power. ¹⁴and they told it to the inhabitants of the land. They know that you, Yahweh, are in the midst of your people, and that they have seen you face to face. They know that your cloud stands with your people and that you go before

■ We can recall experiences very similar to this rebellion.

Fear is a bad adviser: it turns cowards into violent people.

Mediocre people kill the prophets either to preserve their peace, or to return "to the slavery of Egypt."

Yet, God comes to the rescue of the person who confronts the crowds for the sake of God.

How long will this people refuse to believe me. These words are also meant for all those who say in the face of alcoholism, graft and corruption, favoritism: nothing can be done. Such people are not constructive: they discourage others and are anti-Christian.

Pardon then the sin of this people. Once again Moses appears in his role as intercessor. In his intimate relationship with the Lord, Moses has learned that God is rich in kindness and mercy.

God forgives, but this does not exempt people from having to pay the price of their errors. The rebellion of Kadesh and the following defeat are the reason why the Hebrews will be delayed in entering Canaan. For years they will be confined in Kadesh and those who do not want to become involved in the conquest of the land will die there.

them in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. ¹⁵ And now you would destroy this people at one go!

Then the nations that have heard of you will say: ¹⁶ Yahweh was not able to bring this people to the land he had promised them in oath, so he slaughtered them in the desert. ¹⁷ Now let your power be seen, my Lord. For, according to your words, ¹⁸ you are slow to anger and rich in steadfast love: you forgive sin and rebellion, yet you do not declare innocent those who are guilty, but you punish children to the third and fourth generation for the wickedness of their fathers. ¹⁹ Pardon then, I pray you, the sin of this people according to the greatness of your mercy just as you have pardoned them from Egypt even until now."

²⁰ Then Yahweh said, "I pardon them as you have pleaded, ²¹ but as truly as I live and the Glory of Yahweh fills the earth, ²² I swear that they will not see the land I promised to their fathers. For all these have seen my Glory and the signs I have performed in Egypt and in the desert, and yet have put me to the test ten times and have not heeded my voice. ²³ Only my servant Caleb will enter it, ²⁴ because he has a different spirit and because he has followed me faithfully. I will bring him to the land where he has already been and his descendants shall possess it, ²⁵ while the Amalekites and the Canaanites will remain in the valley.

So you shall turn tomorrow and leave for the desert by way of the Red Sea."

²⁶ Then Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron saying, ²⁷ "How long will this wicked community grumble against me?" I have heard the grumbings of the people of Israel against me. ²⁸ Say to them: As truly as I live, it is Yahweh who speaks, I will do to you what you have said in my hearing. ²⁹ All of you of twenty years or more, numbered in the census, who grumbled against me, your corpses will fall in the desert. ³⁰ You will not enter the land where I swore to settle you, except Caleb, son of Jephunneh and Joshua, son of Nun. ³¹ But your children, whom you said would be part of the plunder, them I will bring and they will know the land that you have rejected. ³² Your corpses will fall in the desert ³³ and your sons will wander with their flocks for forty years in the desert, bearing the guilt of your faithlessness till the last of you lies dead in the desert.

³⁴ According to the number of days spent in exploring the land – forty days, for every day a year – for forty years you shall bear the guilt of your sins and you shall know what it is to oppose me. ³⁵ I, Yahweh, have spoken. Surely this is what I will do to this wicked community that has conspired against me. In this wilderness they shall be destroyed and this is where they shall die."

³⁶ The men sent by Moses to explore the land and who on their return had made the community grumble against him, ³⁷ those men who wickedly spread a bad report on the land, died of a plague before Yahweh. ³⁸ Only Joshua, son of Nun, and Caleb, son of Jephunneh, survived out of those who went to explore the land.

³⁹ When Moses related this to the Israelites, the people mourned bitterly. ⁴⁰ They rose early in the morning and went up to the mountain saying, "Here we are! We have sinned but now we are ready to go to the place that Yahweh spoke of." ⁴¹ But Moses said, "Why are you going to disobey Yahweh's command? You will not succeed. ⁴² Do not go up, for Yahweh is not with you, lest you be struck down by your enemies. ⁴³ The Amalekites and the Canaanites are there ahead of you and you will fall by the sword, for you turned away from following Yahweh and he will not be with you."

⁴⁴ They insisted on going up to the top of the mountain but neither the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh nor Moses moved from the inside of the camp. ⁴⁵ Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites who lived in the hill country came down and defeated them, beating them back as far as Hormah.

MORE LAWS

15 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ²"Tell this to the people of Israel: This is a rule for you when you have entered the land I give to you. ³When you make a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh, either as a burnt offering or in payment of a vow, or as a voluntary gift, or on the occasion of one of your solemn feasts, whoever takes from his herds and flocks for a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh ⁴ shall bring also, as a gift to Yahweh, a grain offering of two pounds of fine flour mixed with two pints of oil. ⁵ He shall also make a wine offering, two pints for each lamb, in addition to the burnt offering or sacrifice. ⁶ For a man, he shall make a grain offering of four pounds of fine flour mixed with three pints of oil, ⁷ and a wine offering of three pints of wine, offering it as a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh. ⁸ If he offers a bull as a burnt offering or sacrifice, in payment of a vow or as a peace offering to Yahweh, ⁹ he shall offer also a grain offering of six pounds of fine flour mixed with four pints of oil, ¹⁰ and a wine offering of four pints of wine, as a burnt offering, sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh. ¹¹ This must be done for every bull, every ram, every lamb or goat. ¹² Whatever the number of victims you have for sacrifice, you must do the same for each of them.

¹³ This must be done by every man of your people who makes a burnt offering, as a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh. ¹⁴ If any stranger living among you, or among your descendants, will also make a burnt offering, as a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh: just as you act, so must the stranger do. ¹⁵ There shall be only one law for you and for the foreigner among you. This is a law that shall bind your descendants forever before Yahweh: you and the stranger are alike. ¹⁶ There is to be the same law, and the same regulation for you and for the stranger who lives among you."

¹⁷ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ¹⁸ "Speak to the people of Israel and say to them: 'When you have entered the land to which I am bringing you, ¹⁹ and you eat the bread of this country, you shall set aside a share for Yahweh. ²⁰ You must set aside one loaf as the first fruits of your grain, and set this offering aside like the one set aside from your threshing. ²¹ You are to set aside for Yahweh a share of the best of your flour, and your descendants are to do the same, from generation to generation.

²² If without meaning to do so, you fail in any of these commands that Yahweh has given to Moses ²³ and that Yahweh has commanded you through Moses, this is what you have to do, you and your descendants. ²⁴ If it is an unintentional fault of the community, the community as a whole must make a burnt offering of a young bull, a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh, with the required offering of flour and wine, and a he-goat must be offered as a sacrifice for sin. ²⁵ The priest must perform the ceremony of atonement over the entire community of Israel, and pardon will be given, since it was an unintentional fault and they have brought their offering as a burnt offering to Yahweh, not counting their sacrifice for sin for their unintentional fault. ²⁶ The entire community of Israel will be forgiven, as also the stranger who lives among them, since the entire people have sinned without meaning to do so.

1. Ex 29, 40; Lev 2, 1

27. Lev 4, 27

◆ In chapters 15-19 we again have laws and customs of Israel.

- 15:17: Instructions about offering the first batch of bread, or the first loaves from flour of the harvest. The people of God will be a well-trained and courteous people: they will not eat without giving thanks nor serve themselves first, but will offer the first part to the Levite or the poor, which means offering it to God.

15:37: The purple cord can be compared to the badges which many people wear today: an external sign which is good insofar as it corresponds to an interior disposition. Jesus accepted this prescription (Mt 9:20) but he criticized those who wore these tassels only for show (Mt 23:5).

Breaking the sabbath

³² While the people of Israel were in the wilderness, a man was caught gathering wood on the sabbath day. ³³ Those who caught him gathering wood brought him before Moses, Aaron and the whole community. ³⁴ He was kept under guard because the penalty he should undergo had not yet been decided. ³⁵ Yahweh said to Moses, "This man must be put to death: the whole community shall stone him outside the camp." ³⁶ The whole community took him outside the camp and stoned him till he was dead, as Yahweh had commanded Moses.

³⁷ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ³⁸ "Speak to the people of Israel and tell them to put a fringe on the hems of their garments and a violet cord on this fringe. ³⁹ You must then have a fringe, and the sight of it will remind you of all the commands of Yahweh. You are then to put them into practice, and no longer follow the desires of your heart and your eyes, which would lead you to go astray. ⁴⁰ So you will remember all my commandments to put them into practice, and you will be consecrated to your God. ⁴¹ It is I, Yahweh your God, who have brought you out of the land of Egypt so that I may be your God, I, Yahweh, your God."

Pretensions of Korah; rebellion of Dathan and Abiram

16 ¹ Korah, son of Izhar, son of Kohath, from the tribe of Levi – and also Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab, son of Peleth, from the tribe of Reuben – rebelled against Moses. ² Two hundred fifty Israelites followed him; all were well known leaders in the community and members of the council.

³ They came together and addressed Moses and Aaron saying, "It is enough! The whole community are consecrated to Yahweh and he lives among them. Why then, do you set yourselves over the community of Yahweh?"

⁴ When Moses heard this, he threw himself face downward on the ground. ⁵ Then he said to Korah and all his followers, "Tomorrow morning Yahweh will make known who belongs to him and who is consecrated to him, and he will let them come near him." ⁶ You Korah with all your followers, take your censers tomorrow. ⁷ Then you will fill them with burning coals and put incense in them before Yahweh, and Yahweh will indicate the one who is holy. Sons of Levi, you have gone too far!"

⁸ Moses said to Korah, "Listen to me now, you sons of Levi. ⁹ Is it not enough for you that the God of Israel has set you apart from the rest of the community of Israel, and called you close to himself for service in the Holy Tent of Yahweh, to stand before this community and perform the sacred service on their behalf? ¹⁰ He has called you to be near him, you and all your brother Levites with you, and now you want the office of priesthood as well! ¹¹ What is the misdeed of Aaron that you complain against him? It is against Yahweh himself that you and your followers have rebelled."

¹² Moses sent messengers to summon Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, but they said, "We will not come up. ¹³ Is it not enough that you have brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey to die in the o The whole community is sacred and Yahweh lives among them. This is true but there is a hierarchy which comes from God. This is the lesson in this chapter and Paul will recall it later: "One cannot claim the honour of being a priest: he must be called by God as Aaron was" (Heb 5:4).

Several stories are combined in this text:

- in the first, the Levite Korah claimed for himself the privileges of the priests, sons of Aaron; and fire from heaven devoured him along with his two hundred partisans;
- in the second, Dathan and Abiram, from the tribe of Reuben, rebelled against Moses and the earth swallowed them up.

wilderness? Do you also want to lord it over us?" ¹⁴You did not bring us into a land flowing with milk and honey, nor give us an inheritance of fields and vineyards. Do you suppose that all these people are blind? We will not come."

¹⁵Moses then became angry and said to Yahweh, "Do not look favourably on their offering. I have not taken a single donkey, nor have I harmed any of them."

¹⁸So every man took his censer and put incense in it and they stood at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting with Moses and Aaron. ¹⁹Korah assembled all the community against them at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting and the Glory of Yahweh appeared to all the community.

²⁰Then Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron, ²¹"Stand aside from this community so that I may immediately destroy them." ²²They fell on their faces and said, "God, God of the spirits of all mortals, for one man's sin will you become angry with the whole congregation?"

²³Yahweh answered Moses, ²⁴"Speak to the community and say this: Move away from the tents of Korah, Dathan and Abiram."

²⁵Moses got up and went towards Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed them. ²⁶He spoke to the community saying, "Move away from the tents of these wicked men and touch nothing that belongs to them lest you perish because of all their sins." ²⁷They withdrew from the area near the tents of Korah, Dathan and Abiram; they came out and were standing with their wives, their sons and little ones.

◆ ²⁸Then Moses said, "By this you shall know that Yahweh sent me to do all these deeds and that it is not my doing. ²⁹If these men die a natural death, merely suffering the fate of all men, then Yahweh has not sent me. ³⁰But if Yahweh works a miracle and the earth, opening its mouth, swallows them, together with all they possess, and they descend alive to Sheol, you will know that these men have rejected Yahweh."

³⁵A fire then came forth from Yahweh and consumed the 250 men who were offering incense.

+17 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses saying, ²"Tell Eleazar, son of Aaron, the priest to take the censers from the blaze and scatter the fire some distance away, for the censers are now holy ³because these men sinned at the cost of their lives. Let the censers be made into plates to cover the altar, because they have been offered before Yahweh and are sacred. Let them be a sign to the Israelites."

⁴So Eleazar the priest, took the bronze censers of those men who were burned during the offering and had them hammered out to make a covering for the altar ⁵ and to serve as a reminder to the sons of Israel that no one who is not a priest, a descendant of Aaron, should draw near to burn incense before Yahweh, lest he become like Korah and his followers, just as Yahweh had said to Eleazer through Moses.

Aaron pleads for the people

⁶ On the following day, the entire community of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron, saying, "You have brought death to the people of Yahweh."⁷ As the community was rising together against Moses and Aaron, they turned toward the Tent of Meeting; and there was the Cloud covering it, and the Glory of Yahweh appeared.⁸ And Moses and Aaron went to the door of the Tent of Meeting.

⁹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ¹⁰ "Stand away from this community; I am going to destroy them here and now." The two of them threw themselves face downward on the ground. ¹¹ Then Moses said to Aaron, "Take the firepan, fill it with burning coals from the altar, put incense in it and hurry to the community to ask the mercy of Yahweh for them. The anger has come down from Yahweh and the terrible disease has begun."¹² Aaron did as Moses said and ran among the community, but the terrible disease was already at work among them. He put in the incense and asked for the mercy of Yahweh on the people. ¹³ Then he stood between the living and the dead, and the terrible disease stopped. ¹⁴ There were 14,700 victims of the terrible disease, not counting those who died because of Korah. ¹⁵ Then Aaron came back to Moses at the Tent of Meeting; the terrible disease had been stopped.

²¹ Moses spoke to the Israelites, and each of their leaders gave him a stick, twelve sticks in all for their tribes; and Aaron's stick was among them. ²² Moses placed them before Yahweh in the Tent of the Meeting. ²³ On the following day, Moses came to the Tent of the Testimony and there, already sprouting, was Aaron's stick, standing for the tribe of Levi. Buds had opened, flowers had blossomed, and almonds had already ripened. ²⁴ Moses took all the sticks away from before Yahweh and brought them back to all the people of Israel; they examined them and each one took back his own stick.

²⁵ Then Yahweh said to Moses, "Put back Aaron's stick before the Ark and keep it as a sign to these rebels, so that I will no longer hear their complaints and they may not die."²⁶ Moses did as Yahweh had commanded.

Atonement: the duty of the priesthood

²⁷ The people of Israel said to Moses, "We are lost! We are all to die! ²⁸ Anyone who draws near the Holy Tent of Yahweh dies! Are we doomed to die to the last one?"

18 ¹ Then Yahweh said to Aaron: "You and your sons, and your whole family shall be responsible for the sanctuary. You and your sons with you shall suffer the guilt for any faults committed while serving as priests in the Holy Tent. ² Let your brothers of the tribe of Levi, your father's tribe, come with you too. They are to join you and serve you, yourselves and your sons, before the Tent of the Statement. ³ They are to be at your service and the service of the whole Tent. But let them not come near the sacred vessels or the altar, lest they die and you as well. ⁴ They are to help you, they are to take charge of the Tent of Meeting for the entire ministry of the Tent, and no layman shall come near you.

⁵ Let you yourselves take charge of the sanctuary and the altar, and my anger will never again fall on the Israelites. ⁶ I myself have chosen your relatives, the Levites, from among the Israelites as a gift to you. They will belong to Yahweh, to serve at the Tent of Meeting. ⁷ But you and your sons will undertake the priestly duties in all that concerns the altar and all the sacred things that lie behind the veil. You will perform the worship services, the duties of which I entrust to your priesthood. But the layman who comes near shall die."

1. Heb 7, 25

+ Various miracles show Aaron's authority, and the effectiveness of his prayer because he is a priest chosen by God. Aaron's staff (17:23) images the fruitfulness that God grants to every action done in response to his command and to every person who dedicates himself to him (Jer 17:8; Ps 92:15).

The priests' share

⁸ Yahweh said to Aaron: "I myself have given you all that is set aside for me, from every offering of the people of Israel. I give it to you and to your sons as your share forever. ⁹ This is what shall be yours of the most holy things, of the consecrated food: every offering that the Israelites give back to me, whether it be a grain offering or a sacrifice for sin or a sacrifice of repayment is a thing most holy; it shall belong to you and your sons. ¹⁰ You may eat these most holy things. Every male may eat them. You are to consider them sacred.

¹¹ To you also shall belong all the firstfruits that are set aside and offered by the Israelites; this I give to you, as well as to your sons and daughters, forever. Every person in your house who is clean may eat it. ¹² All the best of the oil, all the best of the wine and wheat, the firstfruits given by them to Yahweh, these I give to you. ¹³ All the first harvest of their land which they bring to Yahweh shall be yours. Every person in your house who is clean may eat them. ¹⁴ Everything in Israel which has been dedicated to me shall be yours. ¹⁵ Every firstborn brought to Yahweh shall be yours, the firstborn of all living creatures, whether child or animal. Nevertheless, you must make the people buy back the firstborn child and the firstborn of an unclean animal. ¹⁶ They must buy back the child in the month in which it is born at the price of five pieces of silver according to the official standard. ¹⁷ The firstborn of cow, sheep and goat – these alone you shall not buy back. They are holy: you must sprinkle their blood on the altar and burn the fat as a burnt offering, a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh; ¹⁸ the meat shall be yours, together with the breast that has been presented with the gesture of offering, and the right hind leg. ¹⁹ All that the Israelites set aside for Yahweh from the holy things, this I give to you, and to your sons and daughters, forever. This is a covenant of salt, an everlasting covenant before Yahweh, for you and your descendants after you."

The Levites' share

²⁰ Yahweh said to Aaron: "You shall have no property in the land of Israel, no share of it shall be yours. It is I who will be your share and your inheritance among the people of Israel.

²¹ See, to the Levites I give as their inheritance all the tithes collected in Israel, in return for their services, for the ministry they render in the Tent of Meeting. ²² In this way the Israelites will no longer go near the Tent of Meeting; this sin would carry the death to them.

²³ The Levites will take care of the Tent of Meeting, and have the full responsibility for it. This is a law forever for all your descendants: because of this the Levites are to have no inheritance among the Israelites. ²⁴ The tithe that the people of Israel set aside for Yahweh, I give to the Levites for their inheritance. For this reason I have told them that they are to have no inheritance among the people of Israel."

²⁶ "You are to say to the Levites: When you receive the tithe that the people of Israel must pay and which I am giving you as your inheritance, you are to set aside a part of this as a special contribution for Yahweh. ²⁷ This will take the place of the offerings of new grain and new wine that all the people have to give me. ²⁸ Thus you too will set aside a share for Yahweh, of all the tithes you receive from the Israelites, and you will give to Aaron the priest this part you have set aside for Yahweh. ²⁹ Out of all the gifts you receive you will set aside the best as a share for Yahweh.

³⁰ This best part that the Levites set aside shall be credited to you as an offering of the threshing floor and the wine press. ³¹ You may eat them anywhere, you and your families; this is your payment for serving in the Tent of Meeting. ³² You will not be guilty of any sin because of this, as long as you have presented the best part to Yahweh. You will not eat any of the gifts before the best part is offered. In this way you will not defile the sacred gifts of the Israelites and you will not die."

The ashes of the red cow

19 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said: ²"This is a regulation and a law that Yahweh gives to you. Say to the people of Israel that they are to bring you a red cow which has no defects and has never been made to work. ³You will give it to Eleazar the priest so that it may be taken outside the

■ The letter to the Hebrews refers particularly to this chapter when it speaks of the sacrifices of the Old Testament which could not really give interior purity to men and were only announcing the perfect sacrifice of Christ (see Hb 9:13; and 13:11).

Verses 17-21 deal with water for purification. Many people used water in their religious rituals. Here we see how the Jews used it.

After washing us through baptism, the Church also uses holy water. The Church does not attribute magical power to it but is aware that camp and slaughtered in his presence. ⁴ Then Eleazar the priest is to take some of the cow's blood on his finger, and sprinkle this blood seven times toward the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. ⁵ The cow shall then be burned in his presence; including hide, flesh, blood, and the intestines too. ⁶ Then the priest is to take cedar wood, a twig of hyssop leaves and a red cord, and throw them on the fire where the cow is burning. ⁷ Finally he shall wash his clothing and bathe his body in water, after which he may go back to the camp, but he will remain unclean until evening. ⁸ The man who has burned the cow shall also wash his clothing and bathe his body in water and will remain unclean until evening. ⁹ A clean man shall gather up the ashes of the cow and put them outside the camp, in a clean place. They must be kept for the community of Israel to prepare the water of purification.

¹⁰ The man who has gathered up the ashes of the cow shall wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening. This will be a law forever, for the people of Israel as well as for the stranger living among them.

¹¹ Anyone who touches a corpse of any person whatsoever, will be unclean for seven days. ¹² He shall purify himself with these waters on the third and the seventh day, and he will be clean; but if he does not purify himself on the third and the seventh day he will not be clean. ¹³ Anyone who touches a dead person, the body of a man that has died, and has not purified himself, defiles the Holy Tent of Yahweh; such a person must be cut off from Israel because the waters for purification have not flowed over him; he is unclean, and his uncleanness remains in him.

¹⁴ This is the law when a person dies in a house. Anyone who goes into the house, or anyone who is already there, becomes unclean for seven days. ¹⁵ Equally unclean shall be every open jar and pot in the house that has not been closed with a lid or fastening.

¹⁶ Anyone in the open country who touches a person who has been killed, or a person who had died, or human bones or a tomb, becomes unclean for seven days.

¹⁹ The clean man shall sprinkle water on the unclean on the third and the seventh days. So, on the seventh day the unclean is cleansed; he shall wash his clothes and bathe himself on this day and in the evening he will become clean. ²⁰ But if the unclean man does not cleanse himself, he shall be cut off from the assembly, lest he defile the sanctuary of Yahweh. As long as the water of purification has not been thrown upon him, he is unclean.

²¹ This shall be a lasting ordinance for you. The man who sprinkles the water of purification shall wash his clothes and those who touch this water are unclean until the evening. ²² Whatever the unclean person touches shall be unclean and whoever touches it shall be unclean until evening."

MEMORIES OF THE DESERT (2nd PART)

You did not trust me

◆20 ¹ The whole congregation of Israel came to the wilderness of Zin in the first month and the people stayed in Kadesh. Miriam died and was buried there.

² Now there was no water for the community, and the people gathered together against Moses and Aaron. ³ They disputed with Moses saying, "Would that we had perished with our kinsmen in the presence of Yahweh!

visible signs help bring about proper dispositions in us: the sign of the cross with holy water, made attentively and with faith, helps us put aside our daily preoccupations at the entrance to the church.

◆ With chapters 20-25 we return to ancient traditions concerning the desert events. Once again in this section, we will use normal print for the ancient story and italics for paragraphs added by the priests.

place? It's no place for grain or figs or vines or pomegranates and there's not even water for drinking."

⁶Moses and Aaron fled from the assembly to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting and fell on their faces. Then the Glory of Yahweh appeared and Yahweh spoke to Moses. ⁸"Take your rod and assemble the community, you and Aaron, your brother. In their presence command the rock to give forth water and you will make water gush from the rock for the community and their livestock to drink."

⁹So Moses took the rod from before Yahweh as he had been ordered.

¹⁰Then Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly in front of the rock and said to them, "Listen, you rebels, shall we bring water for you from this rock?" ¹¹Moses raised his hand and struck the rock twice with his rod. And then water in abundance gushed out for the community and their livestock to drink.

¹²But Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, "You did not trust me nor treat me as the Holy One in the sight of the Israelites; because of that you shall not lead this community into the land that I am giving you."

¹³It was at the waters of Meribah that the sons of Israel quarreled with Yahweh and where he showed his holiness to them.

Edom refuses right of way

¹⁴Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom, and they said to him, "This is the petition of your brother Israel: you know the trials we had to suffer. ¹⁵Our fathers went down to Egypt and we lived there for a long time. But the Egyptians treated us badly as they did our fathers. ¹⁶Then we cried to Yahweh and he listened to us. He sent an angel to bring us out of Egypt and now we are in Kadesh, the town which is on the borders of your territory. ¹⁷We want you to let us pass through your land. We will not cross any fields or vineyards, or drink any water from the wells, but we will keep to the king's road without turning to right or left until we are out of your land."

¹⁸Edom answered, "You shall not pass through my land. If you do, I will come out to attack you." ¹⁹The Israelites then said, "We will keep to the road and we will even pay for the water we and our cattle drink. We ask only for your permission to pass through with our sheep."

²⁰Edom answered, "You shall not pass through." And the Edomites marched out to meet Israel with many armed men and a strong army. ²¹It was so, as Edom refused to let Israel pass through his land, and Israel had to turn away.

Death of Aaron

²²The Israelites set out from Kadesh and the whole community came to Mount Hor.

²⁷Moses did as Yahweh ordered. In the sight of the whole community they went up Mount Hor. ²⁸There Moses stripped Aaron of

11. 1 Cor 10: 4; Jn 7: 38 12. Dt 1: 37; Num 106: 32

The event related at the beginning seems to be the same as the one in Ex 17:1. You did not trust me. This reproach is somewhat mysterious: nevertheless, Moses' sin seems to be in his answer of verse 10. He did not dare say: "Yahweh will make water spring forth from this rock," but instead, as if doubting, he said: Shall we bring water from this rock? The prophet was supposed to give a command to the rock and not to dialogue with the people.

Thus, in the life of their greatest prophet, the Jewish people saw the wounds of sin and lack of faith. The Bible adds that because he did not trust God in that place, Moses did not have the joy of bringing Israel to the land of Canaan. This, in fact, contains a much more profound lesson: Moses could not introduce Israel to their real homeland and neither could he, himself, come to it, without having been redeemed by another.

As Paul reminds us: "All have sinned and are deprived of the glory of God" (Rom 3:23) and all need Christ.

Another example of materialism can be noted in 20:5.

14. Jdg 11: 16 16. Ex 23: 20 28. 33, 38; Ex 29: 29

his garments and put them on Eleazar his son, and Aaron died there on top of the mountain. ²⁹When the Israelites saw that Aaron had died, the whole community wept for him for thirty days.

21 ¹ When the Canaanite king of Arad, in the Negeb, heard that Israel was coming by the way of Atharim, he attacked Israel and took some prisoners. ² Then Israel made this vow to Yahweh, "If you put these people into my hand, I will consecrate their towns by anathema." ³ Yahweh heard the voice of Israel and delivered the Canaanites into their hands. They were wiped out and their towns were destroyed according to the anathema. Because of this that place was named Hormah.

The bronze serpent

⁴ From Mount Hor they set out by the Red Sea road to go around the land of Edom. The people was discouraged by the journey ⁵ and began to complain against God and Moses, "Why have you brought us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? There is neither bread nor water here and we are disgusted with this tasteless manna."

⁶ Yahweh then sent fiery serpents against them. They bit the people and many of the Israelites died. ⁷ Then the people came to Moses and said, "We have sinned, speaking against Yahweh and against you. Plead with Yahweh to take the serpents away."

Moses pleaded for the people ⁸ and Yahweh said to him, "Make a fiery serpent and set it on a standard; whoever has been bitten and then looks at it shall live."

⁹ So Moses made a bronze serpent and set it on a standard. Whenever a man was bitten, he looked towards the bronze serpent and he lived.

Towards Transjordan

¹⁰ The Israelites set out and camped at Oboth, ¹¹ Then they left Oboth and camped at Iye-abarim, in the wilderness that borders Moab, toward the sunrise. ¹² They set out from there and camped in the Valley of Zered. ¹³ They set out from there and camped beyond the Arnon. This valley in the desert begins in the land of the Amorites and is on the border of Moab, between the Moabites and the Amorites. ¹⁴ Because of this, it is written in the book of the Wars of Yahweh: Waheb, by Suphah, and the Valley of Arnon ¹⁵ and the slope of the ravine that runs down to Ar along the border of Moab.

¹⁶ From there they went on to Beer. This is the well of which Yahweh said to Moses, "Call the people together and I will give them water." ¹⁷ Then it was that Israel sang this song, "Let the water spring! Sing out for the well; ¹⁸ the well sunk by princes, the well dug by the leaders of the people with their sticks, with their staves."

From the desert they went to Mattanah: ¹⁹ from Mattanah to Nahaliel; from Nahaliel to Bamoth; ²⁰ from Bamoth to the valley that gives on to the country of Moab, toward the heights of Pisgah which looks down on the desert.

Conquest of Transjordan

²¹ Israel sent this message to Sihon, king of the Amorites, ²² "We want to pass through your land. We will not cross any fields or vineyards or drink any water from the wells. We

1. 33, 40; Jdg 1, 16 5. Ex 14, 11 6. 1 Cor 10, 9 8. 2 K 18, 4; Jn 3, 14 10. Dt 2, 26

¹² Whoever looks at it shall live: another prophetic statement. Sinners will not have to follow strict prescriptions: let them merely look with faith at the sign God sends for their healing. Jesus will say: "Just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so the Son of Man must be lifted up (on the cross) so that he who believes in him will have eternal life" (Jn 3:14).

The story of the serpent in the Bible is one of those images with a hidden meaning, and people had to wait for the day when Christ would give them meaning. The same happens with the story of Melchizedek (Gen 14) and the story of Joseph.

The same is true in our lives; in our past there have been some incidents which we did not understand at that time. Why did this happen to me? Some day, the light of Christ will reveal the meaning.

will keep to the king's road until we are out of your land."

²³But Sihon refused to let Israel pass through his land. He gathered all his people, marched into the desert to meet Israel and reached Jahaz. There he gave battle to Israel. ²⁴But Israel struck him down and conquered his country from the Arnon to the Jabbok, as far as the Ammonites' land. ²⁵Israel occupied all the cities and the towns of the Amorites, including Heshbon and the towns depending on it.

²⁶Heshbon was the capital of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab and captured from him all this territory as far as the Arnon. ²⁷Because of this the poets continue singing this song: "Courage, Heshbon, city of Sihon, well built and well founded! ²⁸A fire came out of Heshbon, a flame from the city of Sihon. It devoured Ar of Moab and the Baals of the high places of Moab. ²⁹Woe to you, Moab! You are lost, people of Chemosh! Your sons have fled; your daughters were taken captive. ³⁰For Sihon, king of the Amorites, has destroyed Heshbon. The little children and the women were brought as far as Dibon and Nophah, the men were taken as far as Medeba."

³¹When the Israelites settled in the country of the Amorites, ³²Moses sent spies to explore Jazer. Israel took this city with all the towns depending on it, and the Amorites who lived there were eliminated.

³³After that the Israelites turned and went up to Bashan. Og, king of Bashan, set out with all his people to meet them and gave them battle in Edrei. ³⁴Then Yahweh said to Moses, "Do not be afraid of him, for I have given him into your hands with all his people and his land. You shall deal with him as you did with Sihon, king of the Amorites who lived in Heshbon." ³⁵The Israelites killed him, his sons and all his people to the last. And they took possession of his land.

22 ¹Then the Israelites journeyed on and camped in the plains of Moab along the Jordan opposite Jericho.

The story of Balaam

■ ²Now Balak, the son of Zippor, saw all that the Israelites had done to the Amorites. ³And the Moabites were afraid of Israel, because it was a very numerous people. In fact, they were terrified. ⁴So the Moabites said to the elders of Midian, "Look, this horde is destroying everything around us as easily as the ox eats the grass of the field."

So Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab at the time, ⁵sent messengers to summon Balaam, son of Beor at Pethor, near the Euphrates in the land of the Amawites. Balak said, "A people has come out of Egypt; they cover the face of the earth and are settling opposite me. ⁶Come and put a curse on these people because they are too powerful for me. Then perhaps I may be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land, for I well know that those you bless are indeed

+ After their years of confinement in Kadesh were over, the Israelites together with Moses started their march toward the land of Canaan which they had to conquer.

They surrounded the country to the south and the east and temporarily settled in the territories east of the Jordan. Two victories occurred there and, once again, the Israelites saw that God saves his people. In Psalm 136, after praising God "who made them cross the Red Sea because his love is everlasting" they recall that "he struck great kings to death, Sihon, king of the Amorites, and Og, king of Bashan."

■ Here begins the very meaningful story of Balaam, developed in the form of a legend. When they set out on the way to freedom, the people of God faced several enemies as well as their own cowardice about the sacrifices asked of them. But an even greater danger threatens them now without their knowing it: Balaam is coming from Babylon, land of sorcerers, to bring curses upon them, not from God but from the devil. Everyone knows, though we may use more modern words to express this curse – that our own demons can lead us to disaster: to civil war or economic failure.

In the rest of the Bible we read how God reminded the Israelites of the way he protected them in the Balaam incident: not only did God shield them from their visible human enemies, but also from invisible ones which neither men nor rulers could foresee or detain (see Joshua 24:9 and Micah 6:5).

I did not want to sin, but I did not know you were on the road (22:34). What a likeable sorcerer Balaam is. He is obstinate in his crooked projects until he discovers that God himself blocks his way!

blessed and those you curse are cursed."

⁷The elders of Moab and Midian set out, taking with them the fee for divination. They went to Balaam and gave him Balak's message. ⁸Balaam said to them, "Stay here tonight and I will give you whatever answer Yahweh will have given me." So the Moabite elders stayed in Balaam's house.

⁹God came to Balaam and asked him, "Who are these men with you?"

¹⁰Balaam said to God, "Balak, son of Zippor, king of Moab, sent them to me with this message: ¹¹A people has come out of Egypt and covers the face of the earth. Now come and put a curse on them for me. Perhaps I shall then be able to fight and drive them away." ¹²But God said to Balaam, "Do not go with them; you must not put a curse on them because they are blessed."

¹³Next morning Balaam got up and said to the elders of Balak, "Return to your country for Yahweh has refused to let me go with you." ¹⁴So the Moabite elders returned to Balak and said, "Balaam refused to come with us."

¹⁵Balak sent other leaders, more numerous and more distinguished than the first. ¹⁶They went to Balaam and said, "This is what Balak, son of Zippor says: Do not refuse to come to me; ¹⁷I will greatly honour you; whatever you ask of me I will do for you. Please come and lay a curse on this people for me."

¹⁸Balaam answered the servants of Balak, "Even if Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold I could not do anything great or small beyond the command of Yahweh, my God. ¹⁹Now you, too, stay here tonight as the others did, till I wait for what else Yahweh may tell me."

²⁰God came to Balaam at night and said, "If these men have come to summon you, go with them, but you may only do what I tell you." ²¹Balaam got up next morning, saddled his donkey and went with the Moabite leaders.

Balaam's donkey

²⁸But now Yahweh opened the mouth of the donkey and she said to Balaam, "What have I done to you to make you beat me three times?"

²⁹Balaam answered, "You have made a fool of me. If I had a sword just now I would kill you." ³⁰And the donkey said to Balaam, "Am I not your own donkey that you have ridden to this day? Have I ever dared to do this to you?" He said, "No!"

³¹Then Yahweh opened Balaam's eyes and he saw Yahweh's angel standing on the road with a drawn sword. He bowed and fell downward, his face to the ground.

³²Yahweh's angel said to him, "Why did you strike your donkey three times? I have come here to oppose you because you are going a wrong way. ³³The donkey saw me and turned away three times. Otherwise I would have killed you, but not her."

³⁴And Balaam said to Yahweh's angel, "I did not want to sin. I did not know you were posted against me on the road. But if this journey displeases you I will go back."

³⁵Yahweh's angel said to Balaam, "Go with these men, but you may say only what I tell you." So Balaam went on with Balak's men.

Balaam and Balak

³⁶When Balak heard that Balaam had come, he went to meet him at the boundary city of Moab on the Arnon border. ³⁷Then Balak said to Balaam, "I sent an urgent summons to you; why didn't you come? Did you think I would not pay you well enough?"

³⁸Balaam then said to Balak, "Now I have come to you; but what can I say? Only what Yahweh puts on my lips."

³⁹So Balaam went with Balak and they came to Kiriath-huzoth. ⁴⁰There Balak sacrificed cattle and sheep and gave some to Balaam and the leaders who were with him. ⁴¹Next morning Balak took Balaam up to the high places of Baal and from there he saw some of the people of Israel.

¹Balaam said, "Build me seven altars here and prepare seven bullocks and seven rams for me." ²Balak did just as Balaam had ordered and Balak and Balaam offered up a bullock and a ram on each altar. ³Balaam said to Balak, "Stand here beside your offering while I go aside. Perhaps Yahweh will meet me and whatever he lets me see I will tell you." So he went to a barren hill.

⁴God met Balaam who said, "I have prepared the seven altars and on each altar I have offered a bullock and a ram." ⁵Yahweh then put a message on Balaam's lips and said, "Go back to Balak and give him this message." ⁶Balaam returned and found Balak standing beside his offering, together with the leaders of Moab. ⁷Then Balaam pronounced his oracle:

"From Aram, Balak has brought me, the king of Moab from the eastern mountains: Come, curse Jacob for me!

Come, denounce Israel! ⁸How can I curse him whom God has not cursed? How can I denounce him whom God has not denounced?"

⁹From the peak of the crags I see him, from the heights I behold him. I see a people that lives apart, a people different from all the nations.

¹⁰Who can count the dust of Jacob, or number the fourth part of Israel? Let me die the death of the upright and may my end be like theirs!"

¹¹Then Balak said to Balaam, "What have you done to me? I took you to curse my enemies and you have actually blessed them."

¹²And Balaam answered, "Must I not take care to say what Yahweh puts on my lips?"

¹³Balak said to him, "Come with me to another place where you will see them. You will not see all of them, only the tail end, and there you shall curse them for me." ¹⁴So he took him to the field of Zophim, to the top of Pisgah and built seven altars and offered a bullock and a ram on each altar. ¹⁵Balaam said to Balak, "Stay here beside your burnt offering while I go and meet Yahweh over there."

¹⁶Yahweh met Balaam and put words on his lips and said, "Go back to Balak and give him this message." ¹⁷He returned and found Balak posted beside his burnt offering with the leaders of Moab. Balak asked, "What did Yahweh say?" ¹⁸Balaam then pronounced his oracle,

"Be ready to hear, Balak; listen to me, son of Zippor. ¹⁹God is not a man that he should lie, nor a son of man that he should repent. Has he said he will do something and will not do it? Has he promised something and not fulfilled it?"

²⁰See, I have received a command to bless: when he has blessed I cannot change it. ²¹He has not seen misfortune in Jacob or observed misery in Israel. Yahweh, their God is with them, and the shout of a king among them.

²²God has brought them out of Egypt; he is for them like the horns of a wild ox. ²³There are no diviners or magicians in Israel. But it shall be made known to them what God will do with them.

²⁴Behold a people that rises like a lioness, that rouses itself like a lion. It shall not lie down before it devours its prey, and drinks the blood of its victims."

²⁵Balak said to Balaam, "Even though you cannot curse them, do not bless them." ²⁶But Balaam answered, "Did I not tell you that whatever Yahweh says, I will do?" ²⁷And

Balak said to Balaam, "Come, I will take you to another place. Perhaps it is God's will that you curse them for me there."

²⁸ Then Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor which overlooks the wasteland, ²⁹ and Balaam said to Balak, "Build seven altars for me here and prepare seven bullocks and seven rams." ³⁰ Balak did just as Balaam ordered and offered a bullock and a ram on each altar.

Balaam's blessing

24 ¹ But Balaam saw that Yahweh did willingly bless Israel. He did not seek out signs as he had done before, but turned towards the desert. ² He looked up and saw Israel camping, tribe by tribe; and the spirit of God came upon him ³ and he uttered his song:

"Word of Balaam, son of Beor, the seer, the one who hears the words of God, ⁴ and beholds the vision of the Almighty, in ecstasy, with eyes unveiled.

⁵ How goodly are your tents, Jacob, your encampments, Israel!

⁶ Like valleys stretching far, like gardens beside a stream, like aloes planted by Yahweh, like cedars beside the waters.

⁸ His God brought him out of Egypt and fights for him like the horns of a wild ox.

He devours the carcasses of his enemies and crushes their bones in pieces.

⁹ He lies like a lion, or like a lioness; who dares rouse him?

Blessed is he who blesses you!

And cursed is he who curses you!"

¹⁰ Balak's anger burned against Balaam: he beat his hands together and said, "I called you to curse my enemy and you have blessed him three times! ¹¹ So flee to your place now. I said I would greatly reward you but Yahweh has taken off your reward."

¹² Balaam said to Balak, "Did I not tell your messengers: ¹³ though Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not do anything, good or bad, of my own accord beyond Yahweh's command. What Yahweh speaks, I speak. ¹⁴ Now, before I return to my people, come that I may warn you what this people will do to your people in the days to come."

+ ¹⁵ Then Balaam pronounced his oracle:

"Word of Balaam, son of Beor, the seer,

¹⁶ the one who hears the words of God, who has knowledge from the Most High, and sees the vision of the Almighty, in ecstasy, with eyes unveiled.

¹⁷ I see a figure, but not really.

I behold him but not near.

A star shall come forth from Jacob, he rises with the staff in his hand; he shatters the forehead of Moab and tears down all the sons of Sheth.

¹⁸ He conquers the land of Edom, and takes the cities of his enemies. Israel grows strong;

¹⁹ Jacob reaches to the first place."

²⁰ Then Balaam looked to Amalek's country; he said, "Amalek, the first of the nations, will finally meet with destruction."

²⁵ Then Balaam rose and set out on his journey home while Balak also went on his way.

Israel's licentiousness in Baal Peor

25 ¹ Israel settled at Shittim and the men began to enjoy themselves with the Moabite women and to have sex with them. ² These women invited the people to the sacrifices of

+ This prophecy shows us how God wants to proclaim the marvelous destiny of his people to the whole world, even through Balaam's mouth. We single out the most famous of the poems, or prophecies of Balaam (24:15-19) announcing the star of Jacob. This star referred to king

David, chosen by God to begin the Rule of God in Israel. Through him we recognize another one, Christ, the truly chosen one of God.

♦ Sexual licentiousness is not without effect on a people's welfare. It is not a question of their gods. There the people ate and bowed down before their gods.

³ The Israelites prostituted themselves to the god of Peor, so Yahweh became angry against them ⁴ He said to Moses, "Take all the leaders of these people and hang them in broad daylight before Yahweh, so that his fierce anger may turn away from Israel." ⁵ So Moses told the Israelite judges, "Each of you shall slay any of your men who have joined in worshipping the Baal of Peor."

¹⁰ Yahweh spoke to Moses, ¹¹ "Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, has turned away the strikes of my anger from the sons of Israel, zealous as he was for me; he has defended my honour among you. Because of this, I did not feel zealous for my honour so that I should destroy the people of Israel.

¹² Therefore tell him that I am making with him a covenant of friendship. ¹³ I grant to him and his descendants that they be my priests forever, because he was zealous for his God and made atonement for the sons of Israel."

o ¹⁴ The Israelite slain with the Midianite woman was Zimri, son of Salu, a leader of a Simeonite family. ¹⁵ And the name of the Midianite woman who was slain was Cozbi, daughter of Zur, a tribal chief of a Midianite family.

¹⁶ Yahweh said to Moses, ¹⁷ "Attack the Midianites and crush them, ¹⁸ for they have been your enemies, deceiving you with regard to Peor and with regard to Cozbi, their kinswoman, daughter of a Midianite leader, who was slain on the day of the plague because of Peor."

After the plague, it happened that . . .

private morality, but it weighs heavily on the social development insofar as it is related to the level of responsibility and capacity for self-sacrifice. In the Bible, the struggle against sexual immorality always goes hand in hand with faithfulness to God.

When the Israelites took the land of Canaan over, the pagan cults of that country were a constant temptation for them. One of the most common practices of these cults consisted in having relations with prostitutes consecrated to the god Baal. As a lesson, we are told here that the people had already fallen into that sin at the time of Moses, and also what the punishment was. To unite with a prostitute was to be united with the god Baal, and the only God does not tolerate such treason: a double prostitution, the physical one and the infidelity of man betraying his Saviour.

He was zealous for his God: he was not afraid of being called a puritan, a man with outdated ideas, with an intolerant mind. He did not resign himself to laughing and taking pictures.

o Here conclude the ancient traditions referring to the time of Moses. Yet, in Deuteronomy 34, we find the remembrance of Moses' death.

LAWS AND FEASTS

The second census

26 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and to Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest. He said: ²"Take a census of all the community of Israel, by families: all those of twenty years and over, able to give military service." ³So Moses and Eleazar the priest enlisted the people in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite Jericho as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ⁴They counted the men twenty years and over among the Israelites who had come out of the land of Egypt.

⁵Reuben, the firstborn of Israel. The tribe of Reuben: for Hanoch, the Hanochite clan; for Pallu, the Palluite clan; ⁶for Hezron, the Hezronite clan; for Carmi, the Carmite clan. ⁷These were the Reubenite clans. They numbered 43,730 men.

²³The tribe of Issachar, by clans: for Tola, the Tolaite clan; for Puvah, the Puvite clan; ²⁴for Jashub, the Jashubite clan; for Shimron, the Shimronite clan. ²⁵These were the clans of Issachar. They numbered 64,300 men.

²⁶The tribe of Zebulun by clans: for Sered, the Seredite clan; for Elon, the Elonite clan; for Jahleel, the Jahleelite clan. ²⁷These were the clans of Zebulun. They numbered 60,500 men.

²⁸The tribe of Joseph, by clans: Manassch and Ephraim.

³⁵The tribe of Ephraim by clans: for Shuthelah, the Shuthelahite clan; for Becher, the Becherite clan; for Tahan, the Tahanite clan.

³⁶These are the sons of Shuthelah: for Eran, the Eranite clan. ³⁷These were the clans of Ephraim. They numbered 32,500 men.

These were the descendants of Joseph, by clans.

⁴²The tribe of Dan, by clans: for Shuham, the Shuhamite clan. ⁴³All the Shuhamite clans numbered 64,400 men.

⁴⁸The tribe of Naphtali, by clans: for Jahzeel, the Jahzeelite clan; for Guni, the Gunite clan; ⁴⁹for Jezer, the Jezerite clan; for Shillel, the Shillemite clan. ⁵⁰The clans of Naphtali numbered 45,400 men.

⁵¹The sons of Israel numbered in all 601,730 men.

⁵²Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ⁵³"The land is to be divided among the tribes as a heritage, according to the number of those registered. ⁵⁴To a tribe large in number you are to give a large area of land; to a small one in number, a small area; to each the heritage will be in proportion to the number registered.⁵⁵ The dividing of the land is, however, to be done by lot.⁵⁶ Each tribe is to receive its inheritance according to the number of men registered."

⁵⁸ These are the Levite subclans: the Libnites, the Hebronites, the Mahlites, the Mushites, the Kohathites. Kohath was the father of Amram.⁵⁹ who married Jochebed, descendant of Levi, born in Egypt. She bore Aaron, Moses and Miriam their sister.⁶⁰ Aaron was the father of Nadab and Abihu. Eleazar and Ithamar.⁶¹ Nadab and Abihu died when they offered unlawful fire before Yahweh.

⁶² Altogether there were registered 23,000 males of one month and over. They were listed separately from the rest of the Israelites, because they would receive no property in Israel.

27 Then the daughters of Zelophehad came forward. Zelophehad was the son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, son of Joseph. These are the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah.¹ They appeared before Moses, before Eleazar the priest, and before the leaders and the whole community, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and said,² "Our father died in the desert. He was not one of those who rebelled against Yahweh, nor among the followers of Korah; but he died for his own sin as all the people and he did not leave any sons.³ Why must our father's name disappear from among his clan? Since he had no son, give us some property among our father's relatives."

people of Israel. If a man dies without sons, his inheritance is to be given to his daughter.⁷ If he has no daughters, the inheritance is to go to his brothers.⁸ If he has no brothers, it is to go to his father's brothers.⁹ If his father has no brothers, it is to go to the member of his clan who is most nearly related: he is to hold it as his own property. This shall be a law for the people of Israel, as Yahweh has commanded Moses."

Joshua succeeds Moses

¹² Yahweh said to Moses, "Climb this mountain of the Abarim range, and look on the land I give to the Israelites.¹³ After you have seen it, you will die, as Aaron your brother did.¹⁴ For you both rebelled against my command in the desert of Zin when the community complained against me, when I commanded you to proclaim my holy power before their eyes in the matter of the water." (These are the waters of Meribah of Kadesh, in the desert of Zin).

¹⁵ Moses said to Yahweh,¹⁶ "May Yahweh, God of the spirits that give life to all living creatures, appoint a leader for this community,¹⁷ who shall go out and come in at their head, who shall lead them out and bring them in; so that the community of Yahweh may not be like sheep without a shepherd."¹⁸ Yahweh answered Moses, "Take Joshua, son of Nun, a man in whom the Spirit dwells, and lay your hands on him.¹⁹ Then bring him before Eleazar, the priest, and the whole community, to instruct him in their presence²⁰ and to give him a share of your authority, so that the whole community of the sons of Israel may obey him.²¹ Eleazar the priest shall consult me for him and tell him my decisions by means of the Urim and Thummin. Then Joshua will direct all the Israelites, the whole community, in all their affairs."

²² Moses did as Yahweh had commanded. He took Joshua and brought him before Eleazar the priest and the whole community,²³ laid his hands on him and instructed him, as Yahweh had directed through Moses.

28 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said,¹ "Give the sons of Israel this command: Take care to bring the food offerings, my sweet-smelling offerings at the times I have appointed.

² Say to them: These are the burnt offerings you must offer to Yahweh:

out any defects. ⁴ The first lamb you must offer in the morning, the second in the evening, ⁵ together with a grain offering of two pounds of fine flour mixed with two pints of purest oil. ⁶ This is the everlasting burnt offering which was first offered at Mount Sinai as a sweet-smelling offering for Yahweh. ⁷ The accompanying wine offering to be poured out at the altar is two pints of wine for each lamb. ⁸ The second lamb you must offer in the evening; do this in the same way as the morning offering, together with the wine offering.

The sabbath sacrifice

⁹ On the sabbath day, you must offer two one-year-old lambs without any defect, and four pounds of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, as well as the accompanying wine offering. ¹⁰ This burnt offering is to be offered every sabbath in addition to the daily offering with its accompanying wine offering.

The new moon sacrifice

¹¹ At the beginning of each of your months you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh: two young bulls, one ram and seven one-year-old lambs without any defect; ¹² for each bull a grain offering of six pounds of fine flour mixed with oil; ¹³ for each lamb, four pounds of fine flour mixed with oil. These burnt offerings are sweet-smelling offerings to Yahweh. ¹⁴ The accompanying wine offering is four pints of wine for a bull, three pints for a ram, two pints for a lamb. This must be the monthly burnt offering, month after month, every month of the year. ¹⁵ In addition to the daily burnt offering, a he-goat must be offered to Yahweh, as a sacrifice for sin, with its accompanying wine offering.

¹⁶ The fourteenth day of the first month is the Passover of Yahweh, ¹⁷ and the fifteenth day of this month is a feast day. For seven days unleavened bread must be eaten. ¹⁸ On the first day you shall gather for worship and not to do work of a worker. ¹⁹ You shall offer to Yahweh a burnt offering: two young bulls, a ram, seven one-year-old sheep without any defect. ²⁰ The accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil is to be six pounds for the bull, four pounds for the ram, ²¹ and two pounds for each of the seven lambs. ²² There must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for the atonement over you. ²³ This must be done in addition to the daily morning offering. ²⁴ You must do this every day for seven days. It is a food, a burnt offering, a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh, it is to be offered in addition to the daily offering and its accompanying wine offering. ²⁵ On the seventh day you shall gather for worship and not do work of a worker.

The Feast of Weeks

²⁶ On the first day of the harvest, when you make your offering of new fruits to Yahweh at your Feast of Weeks, you are to gather for worship; you must do no work of workers. ²⁷ You must offer as a burnt offering; two young bulls, one ram, seven one-year-old lambs. ²⁸ The accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil is to be six pounds for each bull, ²⁹ four pounds for the ram, and two pounds for each of the seven lambs. ³⁰ There must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for the atonement over you. ³¹ This must be done in addition to the daily offering and its accompanying wine offering.

The New Year Festival

29 ¹ In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall gather for worship and do no work of a worker. It shall be a day on which you sound the trumpets. ² You must offer as a burnt offering: one young bull, one ram, seven one-year-old lambs without any defect. ³ The accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil is to be six pounds for the bull, four pounds for the ram, ⁴ and two pounds for each of the seven lambs. ⁵ There must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for the atonement over you. ⁶ All this must be done in addition to the monthly burnt offering with its grain offering, the daily offering with its grain offering, and the accompanying wine offering according to the law, as a burnt offering and sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh.

The Day of Atonement

⁷ On the tenth day of this seventh month, you shall gather for worship. You must fast and do no work of a worker. ⁸ You must offer a burnt offering and a sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh: one young bull, one ram, and seven one-year-old lambs of your choice without any defect. ⁹ The accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil is to be six pounds for the bull, four pounds for the ram, ¹⁰ and two pounds for each of the seven lambs. ¹¹ A he-goat must be offered for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the sacrifice for the feast of Atonement, and to the daily burnt offering with its accompanying grain offering and wine offerings.

The Feast of the Tent

¹²On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you are to gather for worship and do no work of a worker, and for the space of seven days you are to celebrate a feast for Yahweh. ¹³You must offer as a burnt offering and sweet-smelling offering to Yahweh: thirteen young bulls, two rams, fourteen one-year-old lambs without any defect. ¹⁴The accompanying grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil is to be six pounds for each of the thirteen bulls, four pounds for each of the two rams, ¹⁵two pounds for each of the fourteen lambs; ¹⁶also one he-goat as a sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the daily burnt offering and its grain offering and wine offering.

²⁹On the sixth day: eight bulls, two rams, fourteen one-year-old lambs without any defect; ³⁰the accompanying grain offering and wine offering, as required, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; ³¹also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the daily burnt offering with its grain offering and wine offering.

³⁹This is what you are to do for Yahweh at your solemn feasts, besides whatever burnt offerings, grain offerings and wine offerings you present as your free-will offerings."

Rules about vows

30 ¹Moses told the people of Israel exactly what Yahweh had commanded him.

²Moses spoke to the leaders of the tribes of Israel. He said, "This is what Yahweh has commanded:

⁴If a woman makes a vow to give something to the Lord or a solemn promise to abstain from something while she is still young and lives in her father's house, ⁵and if he hears about this vow or promise made by her and says nothing to her about it, she must do whatever she has promised. ⁶But if the father on the day he learns of it expresses his disapproval of it, then she is not required to keep her promise. Yahweh will not hold her to her promise, since her father has expressed his disapproval.

⁷⁸If a woman makes a vow before being married or makes a solemn promise to abstain from something, either deliberately or without giving it much thought, she must do everything she vowed even after she marries if her husband learns of it and says nothing about it. ⁹But if on the day he learns of it he expresses his disapproval to her, she is not required to keep her promise. Yahweh will not hold her to it. ¹⁰Any vow of a widow or of a divorced woman, or any pledge to which she binds herself is valid.

¹¹If she has made a vow or a solemn promise to abstain from something while in her husband's house, ¹²and if when the husband learns of it he says nothing to her and does not express disapproval to her, then she must do what ever she has vowed or solemnly promised to abstain from. ¹³But if the husband forbids it on the day he learns of it, she is not required to do whatever she has vowed or solemnly promised. Yahweh will not hold her to it.

¹⁴Any vow or solemn promise to abstain from something that the wife makes, must be allowed or forbidden by the husband. ¹⁵If by the following day the husband has said nothing to her, it means that he approves or allows her vow, whatever it may be, or her solemn promise, whatever it may be. He confirms the vows of his wife by saying nothing on the day he learns of them. ¹⁶But if he forbids them a long time after he learned of them, then he must suffer what results from the wife's failure to fulfill the vow or solemn promise."

¹⁷These are the laws given by Yahweh to Moses, concerning the relationship between man and wife, and between a father and his daughter while still young and living in her father's home.

The holy war against Midian

31 ¹Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ²"Fully avenge the Israelites for what they have suffered from the Midianites. After that you will be joined to your people."

³Moses said to the people, "Let some of you go off to the war and attack the Midianites, for you have to carry out Yahweh's vengeance. ⁴Put a thousand men in the field from each of the tribes of Israel."

⁵In this way the Israelites provided twelve thousand men equipped for war, one thousand from each tribe. ⁶Moses put them in the field, one thousand from each tribe, with Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest, to go with them carrying the sacred vessels and the trumpets for sounding the alarm.

⁷They attacked the Midianites, as Yahweh had commanded Moses, and they put every male to death. ⁸And further, they killed the kings of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, the five Midianite kings; they also put Balaam son of Beor to the sword. ⁹The sons of Israel took the Midianite women captive with their young children, and took for themselves all their cattle, all their flocks and all their goods. ¹⁰They set fire to the towns where they lived and all their camps. ¹¹Then, taking all the spoils, all that they had captured, man and beast, ¹²they brought the captives and the spoils to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the community of the sons of Israel, at the camp in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan River opposite Jericho.

¹³Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the community went out of the camp to meet them. ¹⁴Moses was angry with the commanders of the army, the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds, who had come back from this battle. ¹⁵He said, "Why have you spared the lives of all the women?" ¹⁶These were the very ones who, on Balaam's advice, tempted the people of Israel and made them unfaithful to Yahweh at Peor: hence the epidemic which struck the community of Israel. ¹⁷So kill all the male children. Kill also all the women who have slept with a man. ¹⁸Spare the lives only of the young girls who have not slept with a man, and take them for yourselves. ¹⁹As for you, you must camp for seven days outside the camp, all of you who have killed a man or touched a corpse. Purify yourselves, you and your prisoners, on the third and seventh days; ²⁰purify also all clothing, everything made of skin, everything woven of goats' hair and everything made of wood."

²¹Eleazar, the priest, said to the soldiers who had come back from this battle, "These are the regulations given by Yahweh to Moses. ²²The gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin and lead, everything that is not melted by fire, must be passed through the fire to become clean, and also be purified by the water for purification. ²³But whatever would be melted by fire you must pass through water.

²⁴On the seventh day you will wash your

◆ The present chapter refers to the "holy war." It is important to remember that all of this was written in the 7th to the 6th century before Christ, when Israel no longer had the means of attacking any other people (see the commentary on Joshua 6 to that effect). The killing of women is not described in this fictitious episode... The author of the story was not a cruel man and he only wanted to insist on how dangerous it was for the Israelites to marry or go near women of pagan nations.

clothes and then be clean. You may then come back to the camp."

²⁵Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: ²⁶"With Eleazar, the priest, and the heads of families in the community, count the prizes of battle and the captives, man and beast." ²⁷Then share out the spoils, half and half, between those who fought the battle and the rest of the community. ²⁸As Yahweh's share you will set aside, from the share of the soldiers who took part in the battle, one out of every 500 persons, oxen, donkeys and sheep. ²⁹These are to be taken from the half share which is their due, and given to Eleazar, the priest, as an offering to Yahweh. ³⁰From the half which is due to the community of Israel, you will take one out of every fifty persons, oxen, donkeys, sheep, and all other animals, and give them to the Levites who have charge of the Holy Tent of Yahweh."

³¹Moses and Eleazar, the priest, did as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ³²The prizes of battle, the remainder of the spoil captured by the soldiers, came to 675,000 head of sheep and goats, ³³72,000 head of cattle, ³⁴61,000 donkeys, ³⁵and, in persons, women who had never slept with a man, 32,000 in all. ³⁶The half assigned to those who had taken part in the war amounted to 337,500 head of sheep and goats, ³⁷of which Yahweh's share was 675; ³⁸36,000 head of cattle, of which Yahweh's share was seventy-two; ³⁹30,500 donkeys, of which Yahweh's share was sixty-one, ⁴⁰and 16,000 persons, of which Yahweh's share was thirty-two. ⁴¹Moses gave Eleazar, the priest, the share set aside for Yahweh, in accordance with Yahweh's instructions to Moses.

⁴⁸Then the officers of the army, the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds, came to Moses ⁴⁹and said, "Your servants have numbered the soldiers under their command; not one is missing. ⁵⁰And further, we bring as an offering for Yahweh the gold ornaments we have found, armlets and bracelets, signet rings, earrings and necklaces, to make atonement for ourselves before Yahweh." ⁵¹Moses and Eleazar, the priest, accepted this gold from them, all this jewelry. ⁵²This offering of gold given by them to Yahweh weighed over 400 pounds, all given by the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds.

⁵³Each of the soldiers took his own loot. ⁵⁴But Moses and Eleazar, the priest, received the gold from the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and carried it to the Tent of Meeting as a reminder to Yahweh of the people of Israel.

The Israelites settle in Transjordan

32 ¹The tribes of Reuben and Gad owned great herds of fine cattle. Now they saw that the country of Jazer and Gilead was a good land for raising livestock. ²Because of this they went to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and the leaders of the community, and said to them, ³"The land around Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo and Beon, ⁴which Yahweh has conquered in the sight of the community of Israel, is good land for raising cattle, and we have livestock. ⁵If we have deserved your friendship, give us this land for our own; do not make us cross the Jordan River."

⁶Moses replied, "Shall you stay here while your brothers are off to the war? ⁷Why do you discourage the people of Israel from entering the land that Yahweh has given them?" ⁸This is what your fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to inspect the land. ⁹They went up as far as the Valley of Eshcol and inspected the land; but they kept the people of Israel from entering the land Yahweh had given them. ¹⁰Because of this Yahweh was angry that day and swore this oath, ¹¹"These men of twenty years and over, who came out from Egypt, will never see the land that I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. For they have not followed me faithfully, ¹²except Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, and Joshua son of o Not all the Israelites left Kadesh, the oasis in the desert where they stayed "forty years," as one people. The traditional image of the Israelites leaving as a united group to conquer the land of Canaan is more poetic than historical. These men were independent and each group wandered freely with their flocks except for the most difficult times when they gathered as happened with Moses. Some left Kadesh before and after Moses: the most important group was the one who went to Gilead, on the other side of the Jordan. There they settled peacefully in the midst of other nations.

32:20-22 emphasizes solidarity among the Israelites.

Nun: these indeed have followed Yahweh faithfully.¹³ The anger of Yahweh blazed out against Israel and he made them wander in the desert for forty years, until the generation that offended Yahweh had all disappeared.¹⁴ And now, will you do as your fathers did? You, new generation of sinful people, will you add still more to the burning anger of Yahweh against Israel! ¹⁵If you turn away from him, he will make your roaming in the desert still longer, and all this people will perish because of you."

¹⁶But they explained their purpose to Moses. "We would like only to build sheepfolds here for our flocks and towns for our young children.¹⁷ Then we ourselves will take up arms to lead the people of Israel until we have brought them to the place appointed for them: only our young children will stay in the fortified towns, safe from the inhabitants of the country.¹⁸ As for us we will not return to our homes until every one of the Israelites has taken possession of his inheritance.¹⁹ For we shall have no inheritance with them on the other bank of the Jordan River or beyond, since our inheritance has fallen to us here, east of the Jordan."

²⁰Moses said to them, "If you mean what you have said, if you are prepared to go to battle in the presence of Yahweh,²¹ and if all your fighting men cross the Jordan River under the command of Yahweh, until he has defeated all his enemies,²² then, once Yahweh has taken possession of the land, you may go back; you shall be free of your obligation toward Yahweh and Israel, and this country shall be your inheritance before Yahweh.²³ But if you do not, you will sin against Yahweh, and you can be sure that your sin will follow you.²⁴ Build towns, then, for your young children and fenced places for your sheep; but do what you have promised."

²⁵The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben said to Moses, "Your servants will do as you order, sir.²⁶ Our children, our wives, our sheep and all our livestock will stay in the towns of Gilead,²⁷ but we, every man armed for war, will cross over the Jordan before Yahweh to fight as you have ordered."

²⁸Then Moses gave instructions about them to Eleazar, the priest, to Joshua, son of Nun, and to the other leaders of Israel.²⁹ Moses said to them, "If the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, all who are armed for battle, cross the Jordan before Yahweh to fight with you, then once you have conquered the land, you will give them the country of Gilead for their possession.³⁰ But if they do not cross over and go into battle with you, then they must have their possessions among you in the land of Canaan."

³¹The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben replied, "What Yahweh has said to us, we will do.³² We will cross into the land of Canaan and go into battle under Yahweh's command; but our inheritance shall be beyond the Jordan."

³³Moses gave to the tribes of Gad and Reuben and to half the tribe of Manasseh, the territory of Sihon, king of the Amorites, as well as that of Og, king of Bashan, and all the land and towns surrounding them.

³⁴The sons of Gad built Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, ³⁵Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, ³⁶Beth-nimrah, Beth-haran, fortified towns, and fenced places for the sheep.

³⁷The sons of Reuben built Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriatihaim, ³⁸Nebo, Baal-meon (their names were changed), and Sibmah. They gave names to the towns they had built.

³⁹The sons of Machir son of Manasseh went to Gilead. They conquered it and drove out the Amorites who were there.⁴⁰ Moses gave Gilead to Machir son of Manasseh, and he settled there.⁴¹ Jair son of Manasseh attacked and captured some villages and called them villages of Jair.⁴² Nobah attacked and captured Kenath with its outlying villages, and called it Nobah after himself.

The stages of the Exodus

33 ¹Here are the stages of the journey of the people of Israel when they left the land of Egypt by divisions, under the leadership of Moses and Aaron.² Moses followed Yahweh's instructions and wrote down the starting place for each stage of the journey. Here are the stages or, better, the starting places.

between Bethha-jeshimoth and Abel-hash-shittim, in the plains of Moab.

⁵⁰ Yahweh spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan River opposite Jericho. He said: ⁵¹ "Say this to the people of Israel: 'When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, ⁵² you must drive out all the inhabitants of the country. You must destroy their stones, and their idols and all their places of worship. ⁵³ You will take possession of this land and settle in it for I have given it to you for your own. ⁵⁴ You are to divide it by drawing lots among your clans. To a large clan you will give a larger piece of property, to a small clan a smaller one. Where the lot falls for each, that will be his. Make this division according to tribes.

⁵⁵ But if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the country, then those you have allowed to remain will be as splinters in your eyes and thorns in your side; they will harass you in the land where you are to live ⁵⁶ and I will treat you as I meant to treat them."

The boundaries of Canaan

34 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ² "Give the people of Israel this order: 'When you go into the land of Canaan, this territory will be your inheritance. This is the land of Canaan with its boundaries:

³ The southern part of your country will stretch from the wilderness of Zin along the borders of Edom. It will start on the east at the southern end of the Salt Sea. ⁴ It will then turn south toward the Ascent of the Scorpions and go through Zin as far as Kadeshbarnea. Then it will go northwest toward Hazar-addar and pass through Azmon. ⁵ From Azmon the boundary will turn toward the valley at the border of Egypt and end at the Big Sea (the Mediterranean Sea).

⁶ The Big Sea will be your western boundary. ⁷ For your northern boundary you will draw a line from the Big Sea to Mount Hor, ⁸ then from Mount Hor you will draw a line to the Pass of Hamath, and the boundary will end at at Zedad. ⁹ From there it will go on to Ziphron and end at Hazar-enan. This will be your northern boundary.

¹⁰ You will then draw your eastern boundary from Hazar-enan to Shepham. ¹¹ The boundary will go south from Shepham toward Riblah on the east side of Ain and on to the hills on the eastern shore of Lake Galilee. ¹² The boundary will then follow the Jordan and end at the Dead Sea. This will be your land with the boundaries surrounding it."

¹³ Moses then gave this instruction to the people of Israel: "This is the land you are to divide by lot, which Yahweh has commanded to be given to the remaining nine and a half tribes. ¹⁴ The tribe of Reuben and the tribe of Gad with its clans and also the half tribe of Manasseh have already been given their land ¹⁵ beyond the Jordan opposite Jericho, to the east, toward the sunrise."

For the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh; ²⁰ for the tribe of Simeon, Shemuel son of Ammihud; ²¹ for the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon; ²² for the tribe of Dan, the leader of Bukki son of Jogli; ²³ for the tribe of Manasseh, the leader Hanniel son of Ephod; ²⁴ and for the tribe of Ephraim, the leader Kemuel son of Shipthan; ²⁵ for the tribe of Zebulun, the leader Elizaphan son of Parnach; ²⁶ for the tribe of Issachar, the leader Paltiel, son of Azzan; ²⁷ for the tribe of Asher, the leader Ahihud son of Shelomi; ²⁸ for the tribe of Naphtali, the leader Pedahel son of Ammihud." ²⁹ These are the men whom Yahweh commanded to divide the land of Canaan among the tribes of Israel as their inheritance.

The share of the Levites

35 ¹ Yahweh spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite Jericho. He said:

² "Tell the people of Israel to give to the Levites, out of the property they possess, towns in which to live and pasture land around the towns. ³ They will live in the towns and the surrounding pasture land is to be for their cattle and all their animals. ⁴ The pasture land surrounding the towns that you give to the Levites shall extend from the walls of the towns 500 yards in each direction, ⁵ so that there is a square area measuring 1,000 yards on each side, with the town in the middle. ⁶ The towns you give to the Levites will be the six refuge towns to which a person can escape who causes another's death: and you are to give them forty-two more towns. ⁷ Altogether you will give forty-eight towns to the Levites, towns together with their pasture lands. ⁸ You will take these towns from the property of the sons of Israel, taking more towns from the tribes who own more, and less from tribes who own less. Every tribe will give towns to the Levites in proportion to the land they themselves have received."

Cities of refuge

⁹ Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:

¹⁰ "Say this to the people of Israel: When you cross the Jordan River and reach the land of Canaan, ¹¹ you are to select towns which you will make into towns of refuge to which a person who has killed someone accidentally may escape. ¹² In these towns they will be safe from the dead person's relative who wants revenge, so that the killer may not die without being brought to trial before the community. ¹³ The towns you give will serve you as six cities of refuge: ¹⁴ the three that you give beyond yond the Jordan and the three that you give in the land of Canaan are to be cities of refuge. ¹⁵ These six towns will be a refuge for the people of Israel as well as for the stranger and the foreigner among you, where anyone who has killed accidentally may find safety.

¹⁶⁻¹⁸ But if the killer has struck someone with an iron object, or with a stone or wooden instrument and has killed that person, he is a murderer and must be put to death. ¹⁹ The dead person's nearest relative must put the murderer to death. When he finds him he must kill him.

²⁰ If a person hates someone and causes his death by pushing him down or by throwing something at him ²¹ or by hitting him with his fist, he is a murderer and is to be put to death. The dead person's nearest relative must put him to death when he finds him. ²² If, however, a person has accidentally killed someone whom he does not hate, either by pushing him down or throwing him down or throwing something at him ²³ or, without looking, has thrown a stone that kills someone, ²⁴ then the community shall judge in favor of the one who caused death rather than in favor of the dead person's relative who seeks revenge. ²⁵ They will send the person who killed someone accidentally back to the city of refuge where he went for safety, and there he must stay until the death of the high priest. ²⁶ If the killer should leave the city of refuge to which he had gone for safety ²⁷ and the dead person's nearest relative meets him outside the city of refuge, the relative may kill him without fear of punishment ²⁸ since the killer should stay in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest. Only after the death of the high priest is he free to go back to his own home. ²⁹ These regulations are for you and your descendants whenever you may be.

³⁰In case of murder, the accused may be found guilty and put to death only on the evidence of two or more witnesses; the evidence of only one witness is not enough to uphold an accusation of murder. ³¹You shall not accept payment to save the life of a murderer condemned to death; he must die. ³²Nor are you to accept payment from anyone who wishes to leave his city of refuge to return and live in his own home before the death of the high priest. ³³You must not defile the land you live in. Murder defiles the land and there is no other atonement for the land where blood has been shed than through the blood of the murderer. ³⁴You must not defile the land you live in, the land in which I live; for I, Yahweh, live among the people of Israel."

A wife's inheritance

36 ¹Then the heads of families in the clan of Gilead, son of Machir, grandson of Manasseh, one of the clans of Joseph, came forward. They spoke before Moses and the heads of the families of Israel ² and said:

"Yahweh has commanded you to give the land to the people of Israel, sharing it out by drawing lots; and Yahweh has commanded you to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. ³Now, if they marry someone from another tribe in Israel, their property will be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers. The property of the tribe to which they will belong will be increased, while the property given to us will be decreased. ⁴And when the jubilee year comes, the property of these women will be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they then belong, and lost to the inheritance of our own tribe."

⁵Moses, at Yahweh's command, gave the following ruling to the people of Israel. He said:

"The tribe of Joseph is right. ⁶This is Yahweh's decision for the daughters of Zelophehad: They may marry whom they please, but they must marry into a clan of their father's tribe. ⁷The property of the people of Israel is not to be transferred from tribe to tribe; the property of every Israelite is to remain attached to his own tribe. ⁸Every woman who has inherited property in one of the tribes of Israel must marry into a clan of her own tribe, so that each Israelite may inherit the property of his ancestors. ⁹No property may be transferred from one tribe to another: every tribe of Israel will always keep its own property."

¹⁰The daughters of Zelophehad did as Yahweh had commanded Moses. ¹¹Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah and Noah, daughters of Zelophehad, married the sons of their father's brothers. ¹²Since they married into the clans of Manasseh, son of Joseph, their property remained with the tribe of their father's clan.

¹³These are the commandments and laws that Yahweh gave to the people of Israel through Moses in the plains of Moab near the Jordan opposite Jericho.

INTRODUCTION

Deuteronomy means second law. It was so named because this law is recorded in the Bible after all the laws found in the books of Leviticus and Numbers. Nevertheless, it was written before those books. It was the first attempt at unifying commands and customs to give Israel the Law in which it would find life.

Deuteronomy was welcomed by the people of Israel and their shepherds as the word of God and the teaching of Moses, but the authors were priests and prophets who summarized in these pages the experience they had acquired throughout their history.

When Deuteronomy was edited in the 7th century before Christ, more than five hundred years had passed since Moses' encounter with God. The land of Canaan had been conquered, the Kingdom of David and Solomon had been established, then, divided. The largest and most prosperous area, to the north, called the Kingdom of Israel, had ceased to exist and the same destiny was, at that time, threatening the Kingdom of Judah, the southern province.

It was then that this Law of Yahweh became known, a law which revealed to the people the cause of their defeats and which offered them an opportunity for salvation. Forgotten in the Temple during the persecution of Manasseh, its discovery in 622 (2 Kgs 22) was at the root of Josiah's reform.

Moses and Deuteronomy

As happens in other books of the Bible, the authors of Deuteronomy placed on the lips of Moses the very discourses they wanted to address to their people. In a fictitious way, they imagine that before his death, Moses foresaw the tragic fate of his people after him. They attribute to Moses the warnings and the laws which could still save Israel. Deuteronomy, in fact, uses the preaching of the prophets concerning justice and love: it is the first effort ever made in the world to establish a responsible and fraternal society.

Love of God and the Promised Land

Moses had ordered the conquest of the land of Canaan. Deuteronomy says that since this land is a gift from God, Israel must obey the Law in order to keep the land.

Moses had spoken only of serving God. Deuteronomy now makes known the great laws of the love of God.

God is the one who loves first. God does not give his love indiscriminately to everyone, but loves especially those whom he chooses to serve him (Dt 7:6-8). And the proof that he has chosen Israel is found in the supernatural interventions of God in their favor, when he took them out of Egypt (Dt 4:32-40).

Israel must respond to God with love from the heart (which was not found in the ten commandments). See Dt 6:1-9.

The Israelites must preserve solidarity; they must be able to love and forgive each other (Dt 15). They must also be united around the only Temple in Jerusalem (Dt 12).

The way to love God is to love him faithfully: Dt 13.

1 ¹These are the words that Moses spoke to all Israel, at the other side of the Jordan River, in the Arabah desert. They were facing Suf, between Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth and Dizahab. ²From Mount Horeb to Kadesh-Barnaa they had had a journey of eleven days through the mountains of Seir. ³But now it was the first day of the tenth month of the fortieth year after they left Egypt, when Moses told the children of Israel all that Yahweh had commanded him regarding them.

⁴After defeating Sihon, the king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, and Og, the king of Bashan who ruled in Ashtaroth and in Edrei, ⁵Moses began to establish this law. They were in the land of Moab, at the other side of the Jordan.

First discourse of Moses: the judges

⁶Moses said: "Yahweh, our God, spoke to me at Mount Horeb: 'You have stayed long enough at this mountain. ⁷Leave this place and go into the territory of the Amorites and to its neighbouring peoples in the Arabah, the Mountains, the Lowlands, the Negeb and the seacoast, into the land of Canaan and Lebanon up to the great Euphrates River.

⁸Look at the land which I have set apart for you: you will take possession of it and live in the land which Yahweh swore to give to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and to all their descendants.'

⁹I said to you at that time: 'I alone cannot be responsible for all of you.' ¹⁰Yahweh, your God, has multiplied you, and now, you are as numerous as the stars in heaven. ¹¹Yahweh, the God of your fathers, has increased you a thousand times more and has blessed you just as he promised.

¹²But how can I alone resolve all your problems and disputes? ¹³Look for intelligent, keen-sighted and experienced men from each of your tribes, and I will place them over the people.

¹⁴And you answered: 'What you ask us to do is right.' ¹⁵Thus, I chose from among the heads of your tribes wise and experienced men and placed them over you as leaders of the thousands, hundreds, fifties, and tens, and also as secretaries for each tribe. ¹⁶And I gave this order to the judges: 'Attend to the complaints of your brothers, and decide the lawsuit between an Israelite and his brother, or between an Israelite and the foreigners who live in your midst.

¹⁷Do not be influenced by anyone when you judge, but listen to the poor and the rich alike, to the powerful as well as the weak, and do not be afraid of anyone because you act in place of God. And if there arises a very difficult case for you, refer this to me and I will attend to it.'

¹⁸At that time, I established what you had to do.

Rebellion at Kadesh

¹⁹Finally, having left Horeb, we passed through that wide and terrible desert that we saw, on the way to the hill country of the Amorites, as Yahweh had commanded us, and arriving at Kadesh-Barnaa, ²⁰I said to you:

'We have come to the mountain of the Amorites which Yahweh, our God, gives us. ²¹Look, Israel, at the land which Yahweh gives you; take possession of that which was promised to your fathers. Do not be afraid or discouraged.'

²²Then all of you gathered around me and said to me: 'Better send some men before us to explore the land and map out the roads leading to the cities where we are to go.'

²³That was a good suggestion, so I took twelve men from among you, one from each tribe, ²⁴who set out and climbed the mountains on foot until they came to the Valley of the

Each nation has its laws, the fruit of a long experience of the people and of the reflection of their leaders. The laws of Israel were formed in the same way, but the experience of Israel was different from that of any other nation.

From the beginning, Israel experienced both the pride of being a free people and the responsibility of living as the people of God. As can be seen in Exodus, God liberated them so that they could serve him.

Thus, as an introduction to the laws of Israel, the authors of Deuteronomy place on Moses' lips a long speech in which Israel is reminded of its first experience. These first chapters do not repeat the departure from Egypt itself, but deal with the events in the desert and especially with what happened in Kadesh, the oasis in the southern part of Palestine, where the Israelites remained for "forty years."

The first chapter recalls the establishment of judges: Moses being the first legislator of his people, those who came after him always referred to his authority. This chapter also deals with the rebellion at Kadesh: at the outset of their history Israel found out how costly it was to oppose God's wise guidance.

Chapters three and four tell about the arrival in the Promised Land: Yahweh is the one who brought them there and they must pay attention to him if they wish to continue to live freely in their nation.

Grapevines. ²⁵ And once there, they took with them the fruits of the valley, and upon their return recounted to us what they had seen. They told us: 'The land which Yahweh gives us is a good land.'

²⁶ Nevertheless, you did not want to go up into the mountains but rebelled against the commands of Yahweh. ²⁷ And you began to murmur in your tents: 'Yahweh does not like us; he made us leave Egypt to turn us over to the Amorites who in turn will kill us all. ²⁸ Where shall we go? The messengers have frightened us with what they told us: The people who live in the land are greater and taller than us. The cities are great and are fortified with high walls. We have seen giants there as in times past.'

²⁹ Then I said to you: 'Have no fear and do not be afraid of them. ³⁰ Yahweh who leads you will likewise fight for you as he did in Egypt. ³¹ You have also seen what he did in the desert where he carried you all the way just as a father carries his son, until we came to this place.'

³² But still you would not believe Yahweh, our God, ³³ who went before you in all your journeys, and has instructed you where to set up camp; by night he has shown you the way with fire and by day with a cloud.

³⁴ And when Yahweh heard the rumblings of your complaints, he was angry and he swore: ³⁵ Not one from this perverse generation will see the beautiful land which I swore to give to your fathers ³⁶ except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh. He shall see it and I will give him and his children the land upon which he trod because he has faithfully followed Yahweh.

³⁷ Yahweh was angry with me as well because of your fault, and he said to me: 'Neither will you enter there; ³⁸ but your assistant, Joshua, the son of Nun, will enter. Encourage him because he will be the one to give Israel its inheritance. ³⁹ Your children will enter there; to them will I give the land, and they will possess it although you feared they would become the prey of your enemies. ⁴⁰ But as for you, go back into the desert by the Red Sea.'

⁴¹ And you answered me: 'We have sinned against Yahweh, our God. Now, we will go and fight as he has commanded us.' So each one took his weapons and thought it easy to climb the mountains. ⁴² But Yahweh told me: 'Tell them not to go and fight because I am not with them, or else they will be defeated by the enemy.'

⁴³ I told you about this but you did not listen. You disobeyed the order of Yahweh and went up to the mountains instead. ⁴⁴ Then the Amorites who live on those mountains came out to meet you; they pursued you like bees from Seir to Hormah, and killed you by the sword. ⁴⁵ And you returned with much weeping in the presence of Yahweh who did not want to hear you nor to listen to your voice. ⁴⁶ So you were to remain at Kadesh for many days; and you know how long it was.

Through the desert

2 ¹ We, therefore, turned back and set out towards the desert by the way leading to the Red Sea, as Yahweh had commanded me, and we walked around the mountains of Seir for a long time.

² Then, Yahweh said to me: ³ 'You have been going around these mountains for a long time; now, go north. ⁴ Give this command to the people: You are to pass through the territory of your brothers, the children of Esau, who live in Seir. They will be afraid of you, ⁵ but be very careful that you do not attack them because I will not give you even the parcel of land on which you stand. Know that I have given to Esau the mountains of Seir as a possession. ⁶ You shall buy food and water from them with your silver. ⁷ Think of all the blessings that Yahweh has bestowed on us in all our work and how he has protected us in our journey through the desert. Yahweh has been with you for forty years, and never have you been in want.

⁸ So we passed through the land of our brothers, the children of Esau who live in Seir. We went away from the road of the Arabah that led to Elath and Ezion-geber, and we took the road going into the desert of Moab.

⁹ Then Yahweh said to me: 'Do not attack Moab or provoke them to fight since I will not give you any of their land. Know that I have given Ar to the children of Lot as a possession.'

¹⁰ (The Emim formerly lived there – a great and numerous people, and tall as the Anakim. ¹¹ And just like the Anakim, they were also known as giants, but the Moabites called them Emim. ¹² And the Horites also used to live in Seir but the children of Esau drove them out, killed them and settled in their place, as Israel did in the land they possess and which Yahweh gave them.)

¹³ And now rise up and pass through the brook of Zered.'

We then went to the brook of Zered. ¹⁴ We walked for thirty-eight years from Kadesh Barnea until we crossed the brook, until the entire generation of the men old enough to fight had perished just as Yahweh said. ¹⁵ Even the hand of Yahweh was against them, dealing them their death in the camps until all of them perished.

¹⁶ When finally all those who were old enough to fight died, ¹⁷ Yahweh said to me: ¹⁸ "Today you will pass through the frontiers of Moab, facing the city of Ar, ¹⁹ and you will meet these people. Do not attack or defy them, since I will not give you any of the land of the Ammonites. Know that I have given that land to the children of Lot."

²⁰ (This land was also considered the land of the giants who formerly lived there and whom the Ammonites called Zummim.

²¹ They were a great and numerous people, tall and of enormous stature, similar to the Anakim. But Yahweh destroyed them through the hand of the Ammonites, and in their place ²² he made the Ammonites to dwell in the land, just as he had done with the people of Esau who dwell in Seir, destroying the Horites and giving their land to the Ammonites who possess it up to this very day. ²³ He dealt in the same manner with the Avvim who lived in the camps as far as Gaza. They were expelled by the Caphtorim who killed them and occupied their place.)

²⁴ Rise up and go to the brook of Arnon. Look, I give into your hands Sihon the Amorite, the king of Heshbon, and all his land. ²⁵ Begin, right at this moment, to occupy his land and fight. And I, on my part, will begin to instill among all the peoples under heaven the dread and fear of you. They will tremble when they hear your name: they will tremble like a woman in childbirth and they will lose courage when they face you.

Victory over Sihon and Og

²⁶ From the desert of Kedemoth, I sent messengers to Sihon, the king of Heshbon, with these words of peace: ²⁷ "I wish to pass through your land but I will go only by the road without turning aside either to the right or to the left. ²⁸ We ask you to sell us food for money that we may eat, and water that we may drink. And let us only pass through as the children of Esau who live in Seir and the Moabites who dwell in Ar did for us, ²⁹ until we come to the Jordan and enter the land which Yahweh, our God, gives to us."

³⁰ But Sihon, the king of Heshbon, would not let us pass through his land, and Yahweh made him stubborn so that our God might give him into our hands.

³¹ And Yahweh said to me: "You have to know that I have begun to give Sihon and his land over to you; begin conquering his land."

³² Then, Sihon came out with all his men to meet us in battle at Jahaz. ³³ And Yahweh, our God, gave him over to us and we defeated him together with his sons and all his men. ³⁴ At that time we captured all their cities and pronounced an anathema over them, killing all their inhabitants, men, women and children without sparing anyone, ³⁵ except the animals which were part of the plunder of the cities you have occupied.

3 ¹ On turning back, we went the other way to Bashan. Og, the king of Bashan, and all his people came out to fight us in Edrei. ² Then Yahweh said to me: "Do not be afraid because I am giving him into your hands together with his people and his land, that you may do to him what you did to Sihon, the Amorite king who lived in Heshbon." ³ And Yahweh gave Og, the king of Bashan, and all his people into our hands; and sparing no one, we killed everyone by the sword.

¹² Then, we took possession of that land. I gave to the tribes of Reuben and Gad half of the mountains of Galaad with their cities, from Arnon. ¹³ And I gave to half of Manasseh's tribe the other half of the kingdom of Galaad and the whole kingdom of Og, or Bashan with the whole of the Argob region. The whole land of Bashan was called the land of the giants.

¹⁸ Then I gave you these orders: "Yahweh, our God, has given you this land to own. ¹⁹ But only your women, your children and your livestock, your numerous livestock, will remain in the cities which I have given you. ²⁰ All the strong men will be in charge of their Israelite brothers until Yahweh gives them a place where they can rest as he has given you, and they too possess the land which I will give you at the other side of the Jordan. Then each one of you will return to his own inheritance which I have given you."

²¹ I also gave the following order to Joshua: "You have seen with your own eyes what Yahweh has done with those two kings, and you will do the same to the kingdoms where you shall go. ²² Do not be afraid because Yahweh will fight for you."

²³ Then I asked Yahweh: ²⁴ "Yahweh, my Lord, you have begun to manifest your greatness and the power of your hand. For what god, in the heavens and on the earth can do such works and deeds as you have done? ²⁵ Do let me go and see that splendid land at the other side of the Jordan, those mountains without comparison and Lebanon, too."

²⁶ But because of your fault, Yahweh was angry with me and did not hear me. And Yahweh said to me: "It is enough, speak no more of this to me, ²⁷ but climb to the top of Mount Pisgah and from there look to the west and to the north, to the south, and to the east. You shall see the land, but you shall not cross over the Jordan. ²⁸ Give your orders to Joshua, encourage him and strengthen him because he will be the one to bring this people across and distribute to them the land which you see."

²⁹ We, then, remained in the valley opposite Bethpeor.

The Law: true wisdom

4 ¹ And now, Israel, listen to the norms and laws which I teach that you may put them into practice. And you will live and enter and take possession of the land which Yahweh, the God of your fathers, gives you.

² Do not add anything to what I command you nor take anything away from it. But keep the commandments of Yahweh, your God, as I

+ Moses draws a lesson from past experience and to convince us to observe God's law, he invites us to keep our eyes open: You who were faithful to Yahweh are still alive today while the others are dead. In the midst of the many "dead" who fret and fight among themselves in the world, the believer is alive. And also: Is there a nation whose laws are as just as this law?

Yet, there are times in life in which temptations afflict us and it appears to us that, if we were to abandon the divine order, we would find happiness; but happiness is found through God's law and it does not require our approval: Do not add anything nor take anything away.

Is there a nation whose gods are as near as Yahweh? The gods are false friends and projections of our imagination: we play with them and try to win them over so that our plans may be achieved. God, on the other hand, is present in all of his mystery, so present and yet beyond reach. Despite the fact that we do not see him, we recognize him with all certitude and whenever he comes close to us, he leaves us secure.

The whole Bible insists on the reality, and the historical value of such interventions. Do not forget these things which your eyes have seen (verse 9). It is true that the story of Moses was written centuries later and many episodes of the Israelites wandering through the desert were made into legends. But legends about the manna, the cloud and the crossing of the sea would not have arisen if the Israelite community had not experienced God's providence and his strong hand on these occasions.

Many times, we ourselves discover that God has intervened in very ordinary things but, even though we cannot doubt it, we do not know how command you.³ You have seen with your own eyes what Yahweh has done with Baal-peor and with those who served him. Yahweh has destroyed them.⁴ But you who have been faithful to Yahweh, your God, are all alive today.

⁵ See, as Yahweh, my God, ordered me, I am teaching you the norms and the laws that you may put them into practice in the land you are going to enter and have as your own. If you observe and practise them, other peoples will regard you as wise and intelligent. When they come to know of all these laws, they will say, "There is no people as wise and as intelligent as this great nation."⁶ For in truth, is there a nation as great as ours, whose gods are as near to it as Yahweh, our God, is to us whenever we call upon him? And is there a nation as great as ours whose norms and laws are as just as this Law which I give you today?

⁹ But be careful and pay great attention. Do not forget these things which your very eyes have seen nor let them depart from your heart. But on the contrary, teach them to your children and to your children's children.

■ ¹⁰ You were in the presence of Yahweh at Mount Horeb when he spoke to me, "Gather the people before me that they may hear my words. So they will fear me as long as they live in that land¹¹ and will teach these words to their children."

Then you came nearer and stood at the foot of the mountain. It was burning in flames reaching up to heaven amid the dense fog and the dark clouds.¹² And Yahweh spoke to you from the midst of the fire. You heard the sound of words but did not see any figure; you only heard a voice.¹³ And Yahweh spoke to you that you might know his Covenant in which he commanded you to keep his ten commandments, which he had written on two slabs of stone.¹⁴ And as for me, he commanded me to teach you the norms and laws that you might put them into practice in the land which is going to be yours.

¹⁵ Think well about what you are to do. You did not see any form on that day when Yahweh spoke to you at Mount Horeb from the midst of the fire.¹⁶ Therefore, do not become corrupted; do not make an idol or a god carved in the form of a man or a woman,¹⁷ or in the form of any animal that lives on the earth, or of any kind of bird that flies in the sky,¹⁸ or of any to express what happened in such a way that others might see it as we do. This is what happened with Israel: they related things in a more marvelous way than they actually occurred, because they could not recall all the details of an event, perhaps very ordinary, in which God had clearly manifested himself.

A person who reads the Bible without sharing the faith which gives it life, thinks reports of the supernatural things are pure imagination and come from a primitive mentality. On the contrary, the person who has known the presence of God in the world, understands that Israel had more than enough reasons to believe that God had chosen it.

Finally, if there had not been real interventions of God, the Bible would only be expressing the beliefs of a people who "recognized" the hand of God in ordinary events and considered to be "words of God" what the prophets wrote thinking that such should be God's thoughts. It would be very strange that such illusions could have given rise to the religious, spiritual and cultural movement which has made the greatest impact on human history from a liberating perspective.

■ Moses remembers the experience of Sinai (also called Mount Horeb) because faith is rooted in an experience. When Paul tries to confirm in their faith Christians who are tempted to lose their way, he will remind them of the mystical experience they had when they entered the Church (Gal 3:1; Heb 12:18).

reptile that crawls on the earth, or of any fish that lives in the water under the earth. ¹⁹ When you look at the heavens and you see the sun, the moon, the stars, and all the heavenly bodies, do not prostrate yourselves to adore and serve them as gods. ²⁰ Yahweh, your God, has left those for the rest of the peoples, but he has chosen you and has brought you from the fiery crucible, that is Egypt, to be his own people as you are now.

²¹ Through your fault, Yahweh became angry with me and he swore that I would not cross the Jordan nor enter into the beautiful land which he gives you as an inheritance. ²² I will die in this land and not be able to cross the Jordan. You, in turn, will cross over and possess that beautiful land. ²³ So, be careful not to forget the Covenant which Yahweh has made with you and do not make any kind of idols, as Yahweh, your God, has commanded you. ²⁴ Know that Yahweh, your God, is a devouring fire, Yahweh is a jealous God.

♦ ²⁵ When you have children and grandchildren and have grown old in the land, do not be corrupted by having idols and doing that which offends Yahweh. If you irritate him, you will perish from the land which is going to be yours after crossing the Jordan. ²⁶ Heaven and earth are witness to my warning: you will all be destroyed.

²⁷ Yahweh will scatter you among the peoples and only a few of you will remain among the nations where Yahweh will bring you. ²⁸ There you will be obliged to serve their gods, gods made by human hands, gods of wood and stone, which do not see nor hear, nor eat or feel. ²⁹ There you will look for Yahweh, your God, and you will encounter him if you search for him with all your heart and with all your soul. ³⁰ When this happens in the last days, you will return to Yahweh, and you will hear his voice in the midst of your anguish. ³¹ Because Yahweh, your God, is a merciful God who does not reject you, nor destroy

You did not see any figure; you only heard a voice (verse 12). Note the contrast between seeing and hearing: here we have the contrast between false worship and authentic faith.

In false cults men create their own gods (ancient or modern gods, such as a leader or an ideology) in accordance with their own way of seeing and understanding the meaning of existence. People paint their own gods and fabricate their own truth according to their own mind which notices only what is visible, immediately effective, what can be enjoyed and used.

On the contrary, true faith is rooted in the word heard: see Rom 10:14-17. Happy are those who believe though they have not seen! We believe in a truth which the people of God, the Church transmits to us. And even if we have personal visions and revelations, no Christian can depend on them unless he has been assured by authorized people, that these really come from God.

Do not make idols, that is, a god carved... (verse 16). We are back to the ban on making any image of God. See the commentary on Ex 20:4. Whether it be the image of some created force (like the sun) or the picture of some leader or the symbol of some group (homeland, party... nothing that is created can be considered divine. It is also forbidden to make images of God because he is Holy, that is, he is not like anything that men can think of or imagine.

Do not prostrate yourselves to adore and serve them as gods. Obviously, today, less speak of adoring anything or anyone. Yet adoring is the same as surrendering oneself. Many persons serve political gods or the alienating idols of consumerism.

♦ These lines remind us of the story of the prodigal son (Lk 15). Because Israel was the chosen people, they had a greater responsibility. Their land was a gift from God and they would lose it if they abandoned him. Then, the Israelites were living according to the First Covenant on Sinai. They expected material gifts, prosperity, lands and peace from God. Yahweh did not show them any other punishment than an eventual exile: leaving this marvelous land. But there was also the promise: there you will look for Yahweh, your God.

to you all, nor forget the Covenant he swore to your fathers.

Chosen by God

o ³² Ask of the times past. Inquire from the day when God created man on earth. Ask from one end of the world to the other: Has there ever been a thing as extraordinary as this? ³³ Has a thing like this been heard of before? Has there ever been a people who remained alive after having heard the voice of the living God as you did after hearing him speak from the midst of the fire?

³⁴ Never has there been a God who went out to look for a people and take them out from among the other people by the strength of trials and signs, by wonders and by war, with a firm hand and an outstretched arm. Never has there been any deed as tremendous as those done for you by Yahweh in Egypt, which you saw with your own eyes.

³⁵ You saw this that you might know that Yahweh is God and that there is no other besides him. ³⁶ He made you hear his voice from heaven that you might fear him. And you have seen on the earth a great fire, and from the midst of the fire, you heard his words. ³⁷ Because of the love he had for your fathers, he chose their descendants after them, and he has made you leave Egypt with his help and power. ³⁸ He expelled before you peoples more numerous and stronger than you, and he has made you occupy their land: today he has given this to you as an inheritance.³⁹ Know, therefore, today and try to be convinced that Yahweh is the only God of heaven and earth, and that there is no other.

⁴⁰ Observe the laws and the commandments that I command you today, and everything will be well with you and your children after you. So you will live long in the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you forever."

Second discourse of Moses

+ ⁴¹ Moses designated three cities at the other side of the Jordan, ⁴² on the east, where one who involuntarily kills his neighbor may find refuge, one who has never been his enemy before. He should flee into one of those cities and so save himself.

⁴³ These are the cities: Bezer on the desert plateau for the tribe of Reuben, Ramoth in Gilead for the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan for the tribe of Manasseh.

This Sihon, who lived in Heshbon, was defeated by Moses and the children of Israel after their departure from Egypt ⁴⁷ and they took possession of his land, as they had done with Og, the king of Bashan. The two Amorite kings ruled at the east of the Jordan, ⁴⁸ from Aroer at the boundary of the brook of Arnon, up to Mount Sirion, also called Hermon ⁴⁹ that is, the whole plain to o Never were there such great deeds (34). See the commentary on 4:9.

There are many people who think that what the Bible mainly teaches is "to believe in God." This expression lends itself to a lot of confusion. Biblical faith is not in believing that God exists, or that God is powerful, or that God can help us. Instead, what is important is that God chose Israel for a unique mission in the world, that God is the only God and that Israel was different from all the other nations.

+ Here begins the second "discourse of Moses."

In chapter 5:1-22, the Decalogue (the ten commandments) is presented for a second time and in a way very similar to what is in Exodus 20:2.

5:23-31 emphasizes God's will to find a man who could appear before him in the name of all the people. The glory of Moses consisted in his being a sort of mediator, or representative of Israel.

5:29: the purpose of God's Law is to make us happy. In that God's fatherly love is revealed.

the east of the Jordan up to the Dead Sea at the foot of Mount Pisgah.

The Ten Commandments

5 ¹ Moses gathered the whole of Israel and said to them: "Listen, Israel, to the laws and norms which I teach you this day. Learn them and be careful to put them into practice. ² Yahweh, our God, has made a covenant with us in Horeb, and his covenant ³ was not only with our fathers, but with us as well who are all alive here today. ⁴ Yahweh spoke with us face to face from the midst of the fire in the mountain. ⁵ And I stood between Yahweh and you to transmit his word to you, since you could not go up the mountain for fear of the great fire. These were his words:

¹² Take care to keep holy the sabbath day, as Yahweh, your God, commands you. ¹³ You have six days to work and do your tasks. ¹⁴ But the seventh day is the Day of Rest in honour of Yahweh, your God. Do not do any work, you or your child, or your servant, or your ox, or your donkey, or any of your animals. Neither will the foreigner who lives in your land work. Your servant will rest just like you. ¹⁵ Remember that you were once enslaved in the land of Egypt from where Yahweh, your God, brought you out with his powerful hand and outstretched arm. For that reason, Yahweh, your God, commands you to observe the sabbath.

¹⁶ Honour your father and your mother as Yahweh, your God, has commanded, and you will live long and it will be well with you in the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you.

¹⁷ Do not kill.

¹⁸ Do not commit adultery.

¹⁹ Do not steal.

²⁰ Do not give false testimony against your neighbour.

²¹ Do not desire the wife of your neighbor.

Do not covet the house of your neighbor, or his field, or his servant, or his ox, or his donkey, or anything that is his. ²² These are the words that Yahweh said to the whole assembly on the mountain when he spoke from the midst of the fire and the thick cloud. When he finished speaking, he wrote them on the two slabs of stone which he gave to me. ²³ You heard that voice in the midst of darkness, while the mountain was becoming resplendent. Then all the heads of the tribes together with the elders gathered around me ²⁴ and said: 'See, Yahweh has shown us his glory and greatness, and we have heard his voice from the midst of the fire. We now know that the word of Yahweh is life for man. ²⁵ We are, nevertheless, going to die devoured by this terrible fire if we do not keep listening to the voice of Yahweh, our God.

²⁷ Better that you go nearer to hear all the things that Yahweh, our God, will say to you. Then tell these to us that we may put them into practice."

²⁸ Yahweh heard your words and said to me, "I have heard what this people said and they have spoken well. ²⁹ May they always have the same spirit, fear me and observe all my precepts that all may go well with you and with your children for all time. ³⁰ Rise up and tell them to return to their tents in the fields.

³¹ But as for you, remain here with me that I may teach you all the commandments, precepts and laws which you have to teach that they may put them into practice in the land that I will give them as a possession."

³² Observe and carry out the things that Yahweh has commanded us. Do not turn aside from them either to the right or to the left.

³³ Follow all the way which Yahweh has marked out for you, and you will live and be happy and you will live long in the land you are going to conquer.

³ Listen, then, Israel, observe these commandments and put them into practice. If you do this, you will be well and you will multiply in this land flowing with milk and honey, as Yahweh, the God of your fathers, promised you.

⁴ Listen, Israel: Yahweh, our God, is One Yahweh. ⁵ And you shall love Yahweh, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul and with all your strength. ⁶ Engrave in your heart the commandments that I pass on to you today. ⁷ Repeat them over and over to your children, speak of them when you are at home and when you travel, when you lie down and when you rise. ⁸ Brand them on your hand as a sign, and keep them always before your eyes. ⁹ Engrave them on your doorposts and on your city gates.

¹⁰ Do not forget Yahweh when he has led you into the land which he promised to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; for he will give you great and prosperous cities which you did not build, ¹¹ houses filled with everything good which you did not provide, wells which you did not dig, vineyards and olive groves which you did not plant. So when you have eaten and have been satisfied, ¹² do not forget Yahweh who took you out from Egypt where you were enslaved. ¹³ Fear Yahweh, your God, serve him and call on his Name when you have to swear an oath.

¹⁴ Do not go after other gods; do not serve any of the gods of the nations around you, ¹⁵ because your God, who is in your midst, is a jealous God. And when he burns in anger, you shall disappear from the face of the earth. ¹⁶ You shall not put Yahweh, your God, to the test, as you did in the desert.

¹⁷ Observe the precepts, the commandments and the norms that Yahweh has commanded you. ¹⁸ You shall do what is right and good in the eyes of Yahweh that you may be happy and may come to possess the splendid land which he swore to your fathers ¹⁹ he would give you after having destroyed all your enemies before you.

most important command. See Mk 12:28 and its commentary.

You shall love Yahweh with all your heart. In those remote times the love of God was not totally unselfish. Israel knew that by responding to the love of God who chose them, they were on the right path and God would reward the people with peace and material prosperity.

Engrave these commandments in your heart: keep them present in your mind in order to organize your thinking and to be able to judge everything according to these standards.

Repeat them to your children: knowing that you are responsible for their faith.

Write them on your hands or, let them guide your actions.

Keep them before your eyes so that you will not remember them when it is too late, when all you can do is moan over your mistakes.

Engrave them on your city gates, or let them guide your economic and social life.

Yahweh is a jealous God: see Ex 20:5.

Do not forget Yahweh after you get your fill. All of modern civilization seems to have forgotten this. Men feel in charge of science, technology and the world. Still more serious: many are resigned to losing themselves in their attempt to control the universe.

◆ The Israelites celebrated Passover every year. Every family observed the rites of that feast in a religious banquet. When they were gathered deeds. ²² And we have seen the great and wonderful things, the awesome marvels he has done against Pharaoh and all his people. ²³ And he took us out from there to lead us into the land which he promised to our fathers. ²⁴ Yahweh has commanded us to put into practice all these precepts and to fear him, our God. ²⁵ Because of this, we are happy and alive today, and we shall be perfect in his eyes if we observe and practise these commandments as he has told us to do.

7 ¹ When Yahweh, your God, has brought you into the land where you are going and which you will conquer; when he drives away before you many peoples – the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Amorites and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites – seven nations that are much more numerous and more powerful than you; ² when he has given them into your hand and you defeat them, you will destroy them all according to the law of anathema.

³ Do not make any covenant with them or have compassion on them, ⁴ Do not intermarry with them, giving your daughters to their sons, or taking their daughters for your sons, because they will seduce your children to abandon me and adore strange gods for which the anger of Yahweh will burn against you, and then he would destroy you. ⁵ On the contrary, this is what you must do: destroy their altars and break their images into pieces, demolish their sacred pillars and burn their idols.

How God rewards his faithful ones

⁶ You are a people consecrated to Yahweh, your God. Yahweh has chosen you from among all the peoples on the face of the earth, that you may be his own people. ⁷ Yahweh has bound himself to you and has chosen you, not because you are the most numerous among all the peoples (on the contrary, you are the least). ⁸ Rather, he has chosen you because of his love for you and to fulfill the oath he made to your fathers. Therefore, with a firm hand Yahweh brought you out from slavery in Egypt, from the power of Pharaoh.

⁹ So know that Yahweh, your God, is the true and faithful God. He keeps his Covenant, and his mercy reaches to the thousandth generation for those who love him and fulfill his commandments, ¹⁰ but he punishes in their own persons those who hate him and he strikes them without delay.

¹¹ So keep the commandments, the norms and the laws that today I command you to practise. ¹² If you observe these norms, if you keep and practise them, Yahweh will be faithful to his Covenant and will show you the love he promised to your fathers. ¹³ He will love you, bless you and multiply you.

He will bless you with many children and abundant harvests: wheat, wine and oil; he will multiply the young of your cattle and of your sheep in the land he promised your fathers he would give you.

¹⁴ You shall be more favored than all the peoples; there will be no sterile male or female among your people or in your livestock. ¹⁵ Yahweh will remove from you all infirmities, he will not let any of the plagues of Egypt which you have known fall upon you. But he will inflict them upon those who hate you.

around the table one of the children would ask the father: "Father, what are we about to do?" Then, the father would answer: "Our ancestors were in Egypt as the Pharaoh's slaves ...". We find this creed, the proclamation of the faith of Israel in the following lines. It is not enough for the Israelites to "believe that there is a God," they have to recall God's favors in the past in order to thank him.

So, too, Christians always look to the past to recall God's favors toward them and toward all humankind. The heart of prayer in the Church is the Mass wherein we thank God for the salvation of the world through the death and resurrection of Christ.

The material promises made to Israel are an image of God's promises to the Church which no longer hopes for crops and sheep, but instead for more believers and for the growth of Christ in them.

¹⁶ So, destroy all the peoples which Yahweh, your God, will put in your power. Do not have pity on them or serve their gods that they may not be the cause of your ruin.

¹⁷ Perhaps you will say in your heart: "These nations are more numerous than I am, how then am I going to drive them away?"

¹⁸ Do not be afraid, remember what Yahweh, your God, has done with Pharaoh and with the Egyptians, ¹⁹ those terrible plagues which you saw with your eyes and the marvels and signs, the strong hand and outstretched arm with which Yahweh, your God, has freed you. ²⁰ He will do the same with all the people whom you fear. Yahweh will even send wasps to destroy those who remain and hide themselves to escape from you.

²³ Yahweh, your God, will give these people over to you and he will fill them with fear until they all perish. ²⁴ Yahweh will give their kings into your hands that you may strike out their name from under heaven, and nothing will stand before you until you have destroyed them. ²⁵ Burn the images of their gods and do not covet the gold or silver that covers them. ²⁶ None of these shall enter your house, for as they are accursed, the curse might return to you. Regard these as abominable because they are indeed "anathema" or accursed.

Do not forget God when you have everything

8 Be careful to fulfill all the commandments which I give you today, that you may live and increase, and conquer the land which Yahweh promised on oath to your fathers.

² Remember the way that Yahweh, your God, brought you through the desert for forty years. He made you experience want, to test you and know what was in your heart, whether you would keep his commandments or not.

⁶ Observe the commandments of Yahweh, your God; follow his ways and revere him. ⁷ For Yahweh, your God, will bring you into that good land, a land of streams and rivers, of subterranean waters that gush forth in the valleys and mountains, ⁸ a land of wheat and barley, of grapes and figs, of pomegranates and olives, a land of oil and honey. ⁹ A land where the bread you eat is not rationed and where you will lack nothing, a land with iron in stones and copper mines in the mountains.

¹¹ So take care that you do not forget Yahweh, your God, by neglecting the commandments, norms and laws that I give you today. ¹² And when you have eaten and have been satisfied, when you have built comfortable homes and live in them, ¹³ when your livestock have multiplied, when you have silver and gold in abundance, and an increase of good things of every kind, ¹⁴ then do not let your heart become proud and do not forget Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, the house of slavery. ¹⁵ It is he who has led you across this great and terrible desert, full of fiery serpents and scorpions, an arid land where there is no water. But for you he made water gush forth from the hardest rock. ¹⁶ And he fed you in the desert with manna which your fathers did not know.

He made you experience want and put you to the test, so that it would be for your good later on. ¹⁷ lest you say, "With my own strength I have attained all these good things." ¹⁸ Remember Yahweh, your God, the one who gave you power to become prosperous, as you are today, in fulfillment of the Covenant he promised under oath to your fathers.

¹⁹ But if you forget Yahweh and follow other gods, if you put them homage and bow

5. 1-6 shows the meaning of the wandering in the desert: a time of testing for Israel. Israel was poor and yet God's help was never lacking.

He gave you manna to eat, to show you that man lives not on bread alone, but that everything coming from the mouth of God is life for men. The manna they were given was the sign of another food needed by men and which comes from the mouth of God: his Word (see commentary on Ex 16:16).

before them, I warn you right now that you will surely perish.²⁰ In the same way that Yahweh destroyed the nations that stood in your way, so will he destroy you if you disobey Yahweh, your God.

9 ¹ Listen, Israel: you are to cross the Jordan today to drive away greater and stronger nations than yourself, nations with grand cities whose walls reach up to heaven.² They are a great people, they are tall – the Anakites whom you have seen and of whom you heard it said that nothing can overcome them.³ But today you will see Yahweh, your God, crossing the Jordan before you. He will destroy them all and he will subject them to you. Then, you will seize the land from them and make them perish, as Yahweh promised you.

⁴ When Yahweh, your God, has destroyed them in your presence, do not think that "Yahweh brought me to this land and gave it to me because of my own goodness." Yahweh drove those nations out because of their wickedness.⁵ It is not by your merits nor because you are good that you will conquer the land: Yahweh will deprive them of the land because they have done evil, and also to fulfill the promise he swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

You are a stiff-necked people

o ⁶ Know, therefore, that Yahweh has given you your inheritance, this excellent land, not by any merit of yours since you are a rebellious people.⁷ Remember and do not forget that it was because of your fault that Yahweh became angry with you in the desert, for you have been rebellious towards Yahweh from the day you left Egypt until you arrived here.

⁸ Then at Horeb, you provoked his anger and he wished to destroy you.⁹ When I went up the mountain to receive the slabs of stone, the tables of the Covenant that Yahweh made with you, I stayed on the mountain for forty days and forty nights without eating or drinking.¹⁰ And Yahweh gave me the two slabs of stone written with his finger, containing all the words that he told you on the mountain, from the midst of the fire, on the day of the Assembly.

¹¹ And when Yahweh gave me the two slabs of stone, the tables of the Covenant, at the end of the forty days and forty nights,¹² he said to me: "Go down from this mountain at once because your people whom you brought out of Egypt have become corrupt, they have suddenly abandoned the way that you taught them and they have made an idol for themselves."

¹³ And Yahweh also said to me: "I see this people; it is a rebellious people.¹⁴ Let me alone and I will destroy them and wipe out their name from under heaven. And out of you, I will make another people more numerous and greater than they."¹⁵ I, therefore, went down from the mountain, from the summit which was burning, holding in my hands the two tables of the Covenant.¹⁶ And I saw that you had sinned against Yahweh, your God, and that you had made a molten calf.¹⁷ How suddenly had you turned aside from the way which Yahweh had taught you! Holding the two slabs with both hands, I hurled them down and broke them into pieces in the sight of all.

¹⁸ Then I fell prostrate before Yahweh and, as before, I passed forty days and forty nights without eating or drinking, for the sin which you had committed by doing evil in the sight of Yahweh and arousing his anger.¹⁹ I was afraid that the wrath and anger of Yahweh against you had reached the point that he wanted to destroy you. And Yahweh listened to me, once more.

²⁰ Yahweh was also very angry with Aaron and he was ready to destroy him. In the same way, I interceded for Aaron also.²¹ Regarding the sin, that calf which you had made – I threw it in the fire, broke it into pieces and ground it until it was fine as dust. Then I threw the dust into the brook that flows down from the mountain.

²² At Taberah and at Massah, and at Kibroth-hattavah, you provoked the wrath of Yahweh.²³ And when he wanted you to leave Kadesh-barnea saying, "Go up and take possession of the land that I have given you," you rebelled again. You did not believe Yahweh nor did you want to listen to his voice.²⁴ You have been rebellious against Yahweh since the day that I have known you.

²⁵ So, I lay prostrate before Yahweh for forty days and forty nights because he said he

o Israel is a rebellious people. This is the way we translate the biblical expression: "stiff-necked people," or difficult to lead. Is this only a reproach? From the very beginning Israel was an independent people, with a passion for freedom; they never worshipped their leaders but were always arguing and fighting with everyone, including their God. Those of us who know the parable of the prodigal son, know why God so loved these people, and why, even now, they continue to be the "firstborn son" of God among all the nations of the earth.

would destroy you. ²⁶ I prayed to Yahweh and said to him: "O Lord God, do not destroy your people and your inheritance, whom you redeemed with your might, whom you brought out of Egypt with the strength of your hand. ²⁷ Remember your servants, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; do not look on the stubbornness of this people, or on their wickedness, or on their sins, ²⁸ that it may not be said in the land from which you brought them out: 'Yahweh was not able to bring them to the land which he had promised them. He does not like them, so he brought them out of Egypt to slay them in the desert.' ²⁹ Do not forget that they are your people and your possession whom you brought out of Egypt with your great power and outstretched arm."

10 ¹ At that time, Yahweh said to me, "Make two slabs of stone like the first ones and come up to me. And make an ark of wood also. ² I shall write on the slabs the words that were on the first slabs which you broke. Then you shall put them in the ark."

³ So I made an ark of acacia wood, and made two slabs of stone like the first. And I climbed up the mountain carrying these. ⁴ He wrote on the slabs, just as he had done with the first, the ten sayings that he spoke to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire, on the day of the Assembly; and Yahweh gave them to me. ⁵ Upon my return, coming down from the mountain, I placed the tables in the ark which I made, and there they are as Yahweh commanded me.

⁶ The children of Israel left for the wells of Bene-jaakan, going through Moserah. Aaron died and was buried there, and his son Eleazar succeeded him. ⁷ From there, they went to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of brooks and springs. ⁸ It was then that Yahweh set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the Ark of the Covenant, to become his servants, to stand before the Lord, and to give blessings by calling on his name, as they do until this day. ⁹ For that reason, Levi has no share in the inheritance with his brothers; Yahweh is his inheritance, as Yahweh, your God, said to him.

¹⁰ I therefore stayed on the mountain for forty days and forty nights as the first time. Yahweh again listened to my prayer and gave up his plan to destroy you. ¹¹ And Yahweh said to me: "Rise up and lead this people that they may go and take possession of the land which I swore to their fathers to give them as an inheritance."

Serve and Love God

¹² So now, Israel, what is it that Yahweh, your God, asks of you but to fear him and follow all his ways? Love him and serve him with all your heart and with all your soul. ¹³ Observe the commandments of Yahweh and his laws which I command you today, and all will be well with you.

¹⁴ See: the heavens, those that are seen and those that are unseen, the earth and all that is in it, everything belongs to Yahweh, your God. ¹⁵ Nevertheless, it was on your fathers that Yahweh set his heart. He loved them, and after them, he chose their descendants – you – preferring you to all the peoples, as you can see this day.

¹⁶ Purify your hearts, then, and do not be defiant towards Yahweh because ¹⁷ Yahweh is the God of gods and the Lord of lords. He is the great God, the strong and terrible God. When he judges, he treats everyone

+ Here, the two commandments, which Jesus combined into one, are related.

Love God and serve him with all your heart and all your soul. A love which is the response to God's love: "Because the Lord bound himself to your fathers. He loved them, and then, he loved you." Pay attention to the sequence: God loves first and chooses; then we respond to his love and try to express it by our obedience. God's mercy comes first and as Paul will remind us, no one can boast of merits and rights before God (Rom 3:20).

Purify your hearts. This text says more precisely: "Circumcise your hearts" (see Gen 17).

The widow, the orphan, the stranger. Responding to God's love means loving those who are helpless. In that period, the needy were individuals in a society without well-defined social classes. But, in today's world, there are entire classes and nations in the situation of the widow, the orphan and the alien of those days.

Today, this love for the forsaken often means to be committed to the lower classes of society. God will render justice to them. If we do not know spontaneously how to achieve this justice with the means taught in the Gospel, God will bring justice in a more radical way.

equally; he does not let himself be bought by gifts. ¹⁸ He renders justice to the orphan and the widow, and loves the stranger, giving him bread and clothing. ¹⁹ Love the stranger then, because you yourselves were strangers in the land of Egypt. ²⁰ Fear Yahweh, your God, serve him, follow him and call on his name when you have to make an oath. ²¹ Praise him because he is your God, who has done those amazing things for you. ²² When you went down to Egypt, your ancestors were no more than seventy persons, but now, Yahweh, your God, has made you as many as the stars of heaven.

11 ¹ So, love Yahweh, your God, and observe all that he has commanded you: his laws, norms and commandments. ² You, with whom I am speaking, understand all this. Perhaps this may be more difficult for your children who have not known the teaching of Yahweh or seen his greatness and strength. ³ But you saw the signs and the marvels he did in Egypt against Pharaoh and all his land, ⁴ and what he did to the army of Egypt, to their horses and chariots, when he buried them in the waters of the Red Sea, destroying them as they pursued us.

⁵ Remember, too, all that Yahweh did for you in the desert, until you came to this place, ⁶ what he did to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, from the tribe of Reuben, when the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them with all their families, their tents and their followers, in the midst of all Israel. ⁷ You have seen with your eyes all these great wonders that Yahweh has done. ⁸ Therefore, observe all these commandments that I give you, that you may gather strength and take possession of the land which you are going over to possess. ⁹ And you will live long in the land which Yahweh swore to give to your fathers and to their descendants, a land flowing with milk and honey.

¹³ If you surely obey the commandments that I give you today, if you love Yahweh and serve me with all your heart and with all your soul, ¹⁴ I will give rain to your land in season, both in autumn and in spring, that you may harvest your wheat, wine and oil. ¹⁵ Your field will give you grass for your cattle, and you will eat until you are satisfied. ¹⁶ But if you turn aside, if you serve other gods and bow before them, ¹⁷ the anger of Yahweh will break out against you. He will close up the heavens and it will cease to rain; the land will not yield its fruit and you will suddenly perish in that beautiful land which Yahweh gives you.

¹⁸ Engrave these words of mine in your heart and in your soul, brand them on your hand as a sign, and keep them always before your eyes. ¹⁹ Teach them to your children. Speak of them when you are at home and when you travel, when you lie down and when you rise. ²⁰ Engrave them on your doorposts and on your city gates. ²¹ Then your days and the days of your children will be multiplied in the land which Yahweh swore to give to your fathers, and you will dwell in that land as long as the heavens are above the earth.

²² For if you observe the commandments that I command you to practise, if you love Yahweh and follow his ways, clinging to him.

■ "To you who saw the miracles, I say: Remember." The same lessons are repeated. Israel will continue safely in the land if future generations do not forget what the Lord did for their fathers. Thus, those who saw God's marvelous deeds have the obligation to teach them to their children.

Faith is not a doctrine, but rather the understanding of something experienced. The believer has been freed through his faith: some have been freed from alcoholism, others from selfishness, others see how their Christian community has transformed the people around them.

At whatever time, the way for parents to educate their children in the faith is to share their own religious experience with them and to show them how they found the living God. Faith is passed on from one person to another.

²³ Yahweh will destroy all those nations before you and you will seize the land from greater and more powerful nations.

²⁴ Every place where you set foot will be yours; your territory will be from the desert up to Lebanon and from the Euphrates River up to the Western Sea. ²⁵ No one will be able to stand against you. In all the land that you shall tread, Yahweh will make the peoples fear and be afraid when they hear of you, as he himself has said.

There will be one sanctuary

◆ ²⁶ See that on this day, I set before you a blessing and a curse. ²⁷ A blessing if you obey the commandments of Yahweh that I command you today; ²⁸ a curse if you disobey these commandments and turn aside from the way that I show you now, to follow strange gods which are not yours. ²⁹ When Yahweh, your God, has brought you into the land you are going to conquer, you shall set the blessing on Mount Gerizim, and the curse on Mount Ebal. ³⁰ (Those mountains are at the other side of the Jordan, behind the western road, in the land of the Canaanites who dwell in the Arabah, opposite Gilgal, near the oak of Moreh.) ³¹ Now you are going to cross the Jordan to take possession of the land which Yahweh gives you. You are to possess it and live in it, ³² and be careful to carry out all the laws and precepts which I now set before you.

12 ¹ These are the precepts, the norms and the laws that you shall endeavour to put into practice all the days of your life in the land which Yahweh, the God of your fathers, has given you.

² Totally destroy all the places where the peoples you are going to drive away had worshipped their gods. Do this in the high mountains as well as in the hills and under every green tree. ³ Destroy their altars, smash their pedestals, burn their sacred pillars, and break into pieces the images of their gods. Wipe out in those places even the name of their gods.

⁴ Do not build similar sanctuaries for Yahweh, ⁵ for he himself has already chosen a place among all the tribes to put his Name there and dwell in it. There you will go and look for Yahweh.

⁶ To that place you will bring your burnt offerings and your sacrifices, tithes and offerings. There you will present the offerings that you promised to God and those which you voluntarily offer, as well as the firstlings of your cattle and sheep.

⁷ There you shall eat in the presence of Yahweh and shall feast together with your families, enjoying everything you have reaped through the blessing of Yahweh. ⁸ You shall not do there as we do here. For now everyone does what seems best for him, ⁹ because we have not yet come to the place of rest, that is, the land which Yahweh is giving you as your inheritance.

¹⁰ When you cross the Jordan and settle in the land which Yahweh will give you, when he

◆ Here we have a reference to the Covenant held by Joshua (Joshua 8:30).

○ In chapter 12 we have the beginning of the laws which must govern Israel if they are to really become God's people.

The first law directs them to destroy the pagans' sacred places. These were places set on hilltops in the middle of woods. There a pole was placed between vertical stones.

The second prescription deals with having no other temple than the one in Jerusalem. Attempting to counter abuses coming from the multiplication of cultic places, the Jewish priests managed to achieve religious unity around the Jerusalem Temple. Without authority and control, it was impossible to prevent Yahweh's sanctuaries from becoming subject to many abuses and influences from pagan cults.

Why did God want only one Temple? Apparently for the same reasons that he wanted to make his promises to only one family of kings, David's family. This is because, first Israel and then the Church, must be a sign of unity in the world. If it is a fact that people can address God at any time and in any way their faith dictates to them, they do, nevertheless, have to respect God's will that one people alone serve him in his only House, his Church.

has delivered you from all your enemies, you will at last find rest. ¹¹ Then you shall bring to the place chosen by Yahweh as a dwelling place for his Name, everything which I commanded: the burnt offerings, the sacrifices, the tithes and the first-fruits of the work of your hand, and the selected offerings which you promised by vow to Yahweh: ¹² There you shall celebrate your banquets before Yahweh: you and your children, your servants as well as the Levites who live among you, since they have no portion or inheritance as you have.

+ ¹³ Be careful not to offer your holocaust in any place. ¹⁴ Only in the place chosen by Yahweh in the land of one of your tribes are you to offer your holocaust, and only there will you do all that I command you. ¹⁵ However, in all your cities you may slaughter and eat meat, as much as you like of the animals Yahweh has blessed you with. Both the clean and the unclean may eat of it, just as you would eat gazelle or deer. ¹⁶ Only you must not eat the blood but pour it out upon the earth like water.

¹⁷ You may not eat in your cities the tithes of your wheat, wine and oil, or the firstlings of your herd or your flock, or any of the things which you have offered to Yahweh either freely or by vow. ¹⁸ These you are to eat before Yahweh in the place Yahweh has chosen together with your children and your servants, and you will feast before Yahweh, your God, enjoying the fruit of your labor. ¹⁹ Be careful not to forget the Levite as long as you live.

²⁰ When Yahweh has extended your boundaries as he promised you, and you would like to eat meat, you may do so whenever you like. ²¹ If the place chosen by Yahweh for his dwelling is too far, then you may kill any of your herd or your flock, which Yahweh has given you, in the manner that I have prescribed for you. ²² You may eat it within your cities as much as you like, but you shall eat it just as the gazelle or the deer is eaten: all may equally eat of it – the clean and the unclean. ²³ Only take care not to eat the blood because the blood contains the life and you must not eat the life with the blood. ²⁴ Do not eat it but pour it as water is poured upon the land ²⁵ that all may go well with you and with your children after you, doing what is pleasing in the eyes of Yahweh.

²⁶ In turn, you shall bring with you the things you have consecrated and offered by vow to Yahweh and go to the place chosen by Yahweh. ²⁷ There you will sacrifice your holocausts, the flesh as well as the blood, on the altar of Yahweh, your God. Pour out the blood on the altar, and then, eat the flesh.

²⁹ Yahweh, your God, will destroy before you the nations you drive away. When you have destroyed them and dwell in their land, be careful that after having destroyed them, ³⁰ you are not ensnared into following their example. Do not look at their gods or ask about them by saying: "How did this nation serve their gods? We will do the same."

³¹ Neither shall you honor Yahweh, your God, with the same religious practices as those nations have, since in order to honor their gods, ³² they have done everything that Yahweh abhors, including burning their children in honor of their gods.

Do not be led astray

13 ¹ Do everything that I command you without adding or taking anything away from it.

² A prophet may perhaps appear among your people or someone who claims to have seen a vision in his sleep and foretells signs or marvelous things. ³ If these signs or these marvels happen, and he takes advantage of them to say: "Come and let us follow other gods (gods which are not ours), and let us serve them," ⁴ do not pay attention to the words

+ Chapter 12:13-19 establishes the distinction between killing animals to offer them in sacrifice, which was only allowed in the Jerusalem Temple, and killing them to use the meat, which can be done in any place.

From 12:29 to 13:19: a new warning against the danger of idolatry. You will expel the wicked from your midst (1:6). In 1 Cor 5:13, Paul will recall these words when he asks the Christian community to expel those who give bad example and who refuse to transform their lives. As was mentioned about Joshua 3, this command to kill those who cause idolatry comes from the certainty that the faith of Israel is the most precious in the world: God's chosen people cannot allow their faith to be contaminated by men's errors for any price or under any circumstance.

o A prophet may perform wonders: if it is to bring about separation from the Lord, he is a fraud. Does God want us to change our membership from one church to another in order to go where we think miracles are happening?

of this prophet or dreamer; because Yahweh, your God, is testing you to know if you really love him with all your heart and with all your soul.⁵ It is Yahweh, your God, you will follow and him will you fear. Obey his commandments and listen to his voice. Serve him and cling to him.

⁶ As for the prophet or dreamer, he must lie because he has spoken to draw you away from Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slavery. This prophet must die because he wanted you to stray from the path that Yahweh has commanded you to follow. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst.

⁷ If your brother, the child of your father, or if your son or daughter, or the woman you love or your close friend secretly tries to lure you, saying: "Come, let us serve other gods, gods whom neither you nor your fathers have known," the gods of either the neighboring nations that surround you along the boundaries of your land or those far away, do not pay attention to him or listen to him.⁸ Do not pity him, or pardon him or cover up for him,⁹ but denounce him. You shall deal him his death and your hand shall be the first raised against him, and then the hand of all the people.¹⁰ You shall kill him by stoning because he tried to draw you away from Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from that house of slavery.¹¹ All in Israel will hear of this and they will fear, and never dare to do the same thing.

¹² You may hear that in some of the cities that Yahweh will give you to dwell in,¹³ some evil people have appeared. You will perhaps hear that they have perverted their fellow residents and have invited them to serve new and strange gods.¹⁴ Then carefully inquire about them and try to discover the truth of the matter. If it is certain and you have confirmed that such a shameful thing has indeed been done,¹⁵ you shall kill by the sword all the inhabitants of that city. You shall curse the city and all that is in it, even the animals.¹⁶ Then you shall pile up in the center of the square all the plunder and set the city on fire with all the plunder so as to fulfill the curse of Yahweh. This city will forever be a heap of ruins, and will never be rebuilt again.

¹⁷ You shall not take hold of anything from this city, not even the smallest thing, in order to appease the wrath of Yahweh, and that he may have mercy on you. Then he will bless you and fulfill the promise he has sworn to your fathers¹⁸ if you listen to the voice of Yahweh, observing all his commandments that I command you today, and doing what is right in the sight of Yahweh, your God.

14¹ Yahweh holds you as his sons, so you will not cut yourselves or cut the hair on your forehead for the dead.² You are a people, holy and consecrated to Yahweh, your God. Yahweh has chosen you from among all the peoples on the face of the earth to be his very own people.

Animals "clean" and "unclean"

⁷ But of those that chew the cud or have a split hoof, you may not eat the following: camel, hare, and rock badger, because they do chew the cud but do not have a divided hoof—these are unclean for you. Neither shall you eat the meat⁸ of the pig because although it has a split hoof, it does not chew the cud. Regard it as unclean: do not eat their meat or touch their carcass.

⁹ Of all the animals that live in the water, you may eat the following: all that has fins and scales,¹⁰ but not those that do not have fins and scales. Consider them as unclean.¹¹ You may eat all clean birds.¹² But do not eat the following: eagle, vulture, osprey,¹³ buzzard, kite, the different kinds of falcons,¹⁴ all kinds of ravens, —¹⁵ ostrich, nighthawk, sea gull, and all the different kinds of hawk.¹⁶ eagle, owl and ibis, swan.¹⁷ pelican, purple gallinule, cormorant,¹⁸ stork, the different kinds of heron, hoopoe, and bat.¹⁹ Consider as unclean all winged insects. Do not eat them.²⁰ But you may eat all clean birds.

²¹ Do not eat any animal that you find dead. You may give it to the foreigner who lives in your city, or sell it to the stranger, for you are a people consecrated to Yahweh, your God.

Do not boil a kid in its mother's milk.

Tithes

○ In 14:22-29, we have the tithes, that is the tenth part of the crops to be offered to God. Deuhis Name, you shall eat the tithe of your wheat, your oil and your wine, and the firstlings of your herd and flock that you may learn to honor Yahweh, your God, all the days of your life.

²⁴ The journey may be too long for you to bring those tithes to the place Yahweh has chosen as a dwelling place for his Name. In that case, when Yahweh your God, blesses you, exchange them all for money. ²⁵ Take the money in your hand and go to the place chosen by Yahweh. ²⁶ There you shall buy whatever you like – oxen or sheep, or wine or strong drink – anything you like. And there you shall eat in the presence of Yahweh, and shall rejoice – you and your household. ²⁷ And do not forget the Levite who dwells in your cities, since he has nothing of his own and no inheritance as you have.

²⁸ Every three years, separate the tithes of all the year's harvest but store them in the city. ²⁹ Then the Levite among you who has no inheritance of his own, and the foreigner, the orphan and the widow who live in your cities may come and eat, and be satisfied. So Yahweh will bless all the works of your hands, all that you undertake.

The year of forgiveness

15 ¹ Every seven years you shall pardon debts. ² You shall do this in the following manner: the creditor shall pardon any debt of his neighbor or brother, and shall stop exacting it of him because Yahweh's pardon has been proclaimed. ³ You may demand that a foreigner pay back his debts but you shall pardon the debt of your brother. ⁴ However you should have no poor in your midst for Yahweh will give you prosperity in the land that you have conquered. ⁵ If you listen to the voice of Yahweh, your God, and obey all that he has commanded you, which I now remind you of, he will bless you as he promised. ⁶ You shall lend to many nations but you shall not borrow; you shall drive away many nations and they shall not have dominion over you.

The poor and enslaved

◆ ⁷ If there is anybody poor among your brothers, who lives in your cities in the land that Yahweh gives you, do not harden your heart or close your hand, ⁸ but be open-handed and lend him all that he needs.

⁹ Be careful that you do not harbor in your heart these perverse thoughts: "The seventh year, the year of pardon, is near," so you look coldly at your poor brother and lend him nothing. He may cry to Yahweh against you, and you will be guilty. ¹⁰ When you give anything, give willingly, and Yahweh, your God, will bless you for this in all your work and in all that you undertake.

¹¹ The poor will certainly never be absent from this land. Therefore I give you this commandment: you must be open-handed to your brother, to the needy and to the poor in your land.

¹² If your fellow Hebrew, a man or a woman, sells himself to you as a slave, he shall serve you for six years, and in the seventh, you shall set him free. ¹³ When you set him free, do not let him go empty-handed, ¹⁴ but give him something from your flock, from your store of wheat and wine, something from the good things that Yahweh has blessed you with.

¹⁵ Remember that you too were a slave in the land of Egypt, and Yahweh, your God, has given you freeteronomy makes this offering the foundation of a believer's faith. Elsewhere in the Bible, the author will emphasize that "the just man has compassion, he gives and lends; and in the end, he owns the land" while "the unjust man borrows and does not repay and in the end, he is thrown out of the land" (Psalm 37). The man who knows how to give does not squander: he is content with what he has and lacks nothing, while the man who refuses to give never has enough and never feels happy (Prv 11:24). See also 2 Cor 9:6.

The same spirit inspires chapter 15 concerning the sabbatical year (see Lv 25:1).

◆ It is painful for the author of the book to find that there are poor people on the land God gave to his children: did not God give all that was necessary for everyone? Yet, there are poor people and he asks believers to help them break out of this subhuman situation. It is not a question of giving them a piece of bread for today, but of loaning them what they need to re-establish themselves, to work the land of their fathers and

dom. Because of this, I give you this commandment.

¹⁶ But if your slave says: "I do not want to leave," because he loves you and your household and knows that he will be well off with you, ¹⁷ you shall then take an awl and thrust it through his ear into the door of your house, and he will serve you forever. You shall do likewise with your maidservant.

²⁰ You shall eat these every three years in the presence of Yahweh with all your family in the place Yahweh has chosen. ²¹ You shall not sacrifice an animal to Yahweh if it has any defect, if it is lame or blind. ²² but shall eat it in your house; the clean as well as the unclean may eat of it, as you would eat a gazelle or a deer. ²³ Only take care that you do not eat the blood, you shall pour it out on the ground like water.

Israel's three feasts

16 ¹ Observe the month of Abib and celebrate the Passover in honor of Yahweh since it was in this month that Yahweh, your God, brought you out of Egypt by night. ² On the Passover, you shall sacrifice oxen and sheep to Yahweh in the place he has chosen for his Name to dwell. ³ For the Passover supper, you are not to eat leavened bread, but for six days, you shall eat unleavened bread, the bread of affliction, because you left Egypt hastily. So you shall remember all the days of your life the day on which you left Egypt.

⁴ For seven days, no leaven shall be seen in your house or throughout your territory; nor shall any of the flesh you sacrificed on the evening of the first day be left for the following day.

Sacrifice the Passover in the evening, at sunset, at the time you came out of Egypt. ⁷ You shall roast it and eat it in the place chosen by Yahweh, your God. And then, in the morning you shall return to your house. ⁸ You shall eat unleavened bread for six days, and on the seventh, you shall celebrate a solemn assembly in honor of Yahweh and you shall not work.

⁹ You shall count seven weeks, beginning from the day you start cutting the standing wheat. ¹⁰ Then you shall celebrate the Feast of the Seven Weeks for Yahweh, your God, making a voluntary offering from your harvest in proportion to the way Yahweh, your God, blesses you.

¹¹ At the place Yahweh has chosen as the dwelling place for his Name, you shall feast, you and your children, your servants, the Levite who lives in your cities, the foreigner, the orphan and the widow who live among you. ¹² Remember that you were a slave in Egypt and be careful to put these precepts into practice.

¹³ Celebrate too the Feast of the Tents for seven days, after gathering the produce of your threshing floor and of your winepress. ¹⁴ Rejoice during this feast – you and your children, your servants, the Levite, the foreigner, the orphan and the widow who live in your city. ¹⁵ You shall feast for seven days in honor of Yahweh at the place chosen by him; because Yahweh will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, so that your joy may be complete.

¹⁶ Three times a year all your men shall to earn a living with dignity. The Israelites know that debts are cancelled every seven years. Even with that, they will loan what is necessary. We have to think that the factories which, today, build houses, and schools or spend money for the human promotion of their most marginalized personnel, are only fulfilling the requirements of the Bible.

- What refers to the feasts is very similar to what is read in Lv 23. Notice the insistence on the obligation of celebrating this feast "at the place which Yahweh has chosen," that is to say, in Jerusalem. Hence the pilgrimage of the Jews to Jerusalem, at least on the occasion of the Passover feast. Jesus himself will observe this law which applies to all males, from twelve years of age on (see Lk 2:41). In several passages of the Gospel we read: "Jesus went up to Jerusalem for the Feast" (John 2:13; 5:1).

present themselves before Yahweh, your God, in the place chosen by him: on the Feast of the Unleavened Bread, on the Feast of the Weeks, and on the Feast of the Tents. And you shall not present yourselves empty-handed¹⁷ but each one will offer in proportion to what he has, according to the blessing that Yahweh has bestowed upon you.

Regarding justice

¹⁸ Appoint judges and secretaries for your tribes in every city which Yahweh gives you, that they may judge the people according to justice.

²⁰ Justice! Seek justice if you want to live and inherit the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you.

17 ¹ You shall not sacrifice to Yahweh, your God, an ox or a sheep that has any blemish or defect because Yahweh abhors this.

² If there is among you, in any of the cities which Yahweh will give you, a man or a woman who does what is evil in the sight of Yahweh to the point of breaking his covenant,³ if they go to serve other gods and bow before them – to the sun, or the moon, or the stars of heaven – which I have forbidden,⁴ and this has been reported to you or you learn of it, you shall begin to investigate the matter well. If you have proved that this abomination has indeed been committed in Israel,⁵ you shall bring to the gates of the city that man or woman who committed the misdeed, and you shall stone him or her to death.⁶ But you will need the testimony of two or three witnesses to condemn a person to death. No one will be condemned by the accusation of only one witness.⁷ The hands of the witnesses shall throw the first stones to kill him or her. Afterwards all the people shall stone him. In this way, you will make the evil disappear from your midst.

⁸ If a very difficult case is presented to you which you cannot resolve in the city tribunal, inasmuch as it is a case of murder, legal dispute or a quarrel because of injuries, you shall go up to the place chosen by Yahweh, your God:⁹ you shall approach the Levite priests and the judge in office at that time. You shall consult them and they will point out to you the decision on the case.¹⁰ You shall agree with the decision that they have pointed out to you in that place chosen by Yahweh, and you shall try to act in accordance with what they have instructed you.¹¹ You shall follow the instructions they have given you and their verdict without turning aside either to the right or to the left from the decision they made for you.

¹² He who dares to act in another way and does not listen to the priest whom he meets there in the service of Yahweh, or to the judge, that man will die. You shall banish evil from Israel.¹³ So all the people upon knowing this shall fear and not act arrogantly again.

The kings

+ ¹⁴ When you come to the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you, when you have conquered it and live in it, you shall perhaps say: "I would like to have a king like all the neighboring nations."¹⁵ Then you have to appoint a king chosen by Yahweh from among your brothers. You shall not appoint a foreign king who is not a brother Israelite.

¹⁷ Neither shall he have many women lest they pervert his heart. And neither let him pile up gold and silver.

²⁰ So let him not become conceited nor look down on his brothers, nor turn aside from this commandment either to the right or to the left, so that he and his children may lengthen the days of their reign in the midst of Israel.

+ Here we have references to the three institutions acknowledged by the Jews: kings, priests and prophets.

17:14-20. The kings of Israel were negotiating with Egypt. In exchange for the horses they wished to purchase, they sent young Israelites there, who had to serve in the Pharaoh's armies.

The sons of Levi shall have no share in the inheritance. About the priests of the tribe of Levi, see the commentary on Nm 3 and 4.

The Priests of the tribe of Levi

18 ¹ The Levite priests, the whole tribe of Levi, will have no share or inheritance like the rest of the children of Israel do, but they shall live on the burnt offerings in honor of Yahweh, and on the things consecrated to him. ² The Levite shall have no share in the inheritance received by his brother because Yahweh is his inheritance as he has promised.

³ This will be the right of the priests from what is offered, whether ox or sheep: to the priest shall be given the shoulder, the jaws and the stomach. ⁴ You shall also give him the firstfruits of your wheat, your wine and your oil, as well as the first wool from the shearing of your sheep. ⁵ For Yahweh chose him from among all the tribes to be the servant of his Name, he and his children forever.

⁶ If a Levite comes from one of the cities of the territory of Israel where he resides, and he wishes to enter into the place chosen by Yahweh, ⁷ he shall officiate in the Name of Yahweh, his God, like all his Levite brothers who stand there with him in the presence of Yahweh. ⁸ He shall eat a portion equal to that of the others, besides what he has obtained from the sale of his family goods.

Prophets and "the" Prophet

■ ⁹ When you have entered into the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you, do not imitate the evil deeds of those people. ¹⁰ You must not have in your midst anyone who makes his child pass through the fire, or one who practises divination, or anyone who consults the stars, who is a sorcerer, ¹¹ or one who practises enchantments or who consults the spirits, no diviner or one who asks questions of the dead.

¹² For Yahweh abhors those who do these things, and it is precisely for this reason that he drives them away before you. ¹³ You must be entirely faithful to Yahweh, your God.

¹⁸ I shall raise up a prophet from their midst, one of their brothers, who will be like you. I will put my words into his mouth and he will tell them all that I command. ¹⁹ If someone does not listen to my words when the prophet speaks on my behalf, I myself will call him to account for it. ²⁰ But any prophet who tells in my name anything that I did not command, or speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die.

■ This text condemns magicians and fortune-tellers and then praises the true prophets.

God's people live by the word of God, but not only by the word found written in a book, but by what God says today through those people whom we call prophets. There are some who receive a special gift from the Spirit to guide people and nations toward the real goals which God proposes to us.

You must have no fortune-tellers among you. Human sacrifices are condemned and so are magic and spiritualism. We find fortune-tellers only among the pagans who do not trust in God: men try to know about their destiny through them; they want to snatch the secrets of the future from the hands of a God whom they consider to have evil intentions. On the contrary, the mission of the prophets is not to tell what will happen, but to indicate with courage what is the will of God and what we must reform (see Jer 28:1 and Ez 13:1).

I shall raise a prophet from their midst. This "prophet" means the whole series of prophets who will continue to address Israel, as can be seen at the end of the paragraph (20:22). Yet, for the future, Israel was expecting a prophet greater than all others, a prophet who would lead the entire people as well as Moses had done. When John the Baptist appeared, some asked: "Are you the prophet?" (John 1:21), and Christians understood that Christ was "the Prophet" (see Acts 3:22).

²¹ You will perhaps ask: "How are we going to know that a word does not come from Yahweh?" ²² If any prophet speaks in the name of Yahweh and if that which he says does not happen, you shall know that the word does not come from Yahweh. The prophet has spoken to boast and you shall not pay any attention to him.

◆ 19 ¹ When Yahweh, your God, has destroyed the nations whose land he will give you, when you have driven them away and you occupy their houses, ² you shall set aside three cities in the midst of the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you in possession. ³ You shall keep the way of entry into them free and open, and divide in three parts the territory that Yahweh, your God, gives you in possession: so that anyone who has killed someone may find refuge in those cities.

⁴ But who may find refuge there to save himself? The person who has accidentally wounded and killed his brother with whom he had had no quarrel before. ⁵ For example, if someone goes to the forest with a companion to cut firewood and as he wields the axe to cut a tree, the blade comes out of its handle, mortally wounding his companion, he can flee into one of those cities and so save himself. ⁶ It must not be allowed that the avenger of blood, because of his rage, should hunt the killer and overtake him and catch up with him because the road is very long, and kill him in turn, when in reality the latter is not guilty of murder, since he had had no previous quarrel with his companion.

⁷ For this reason, I command you to separate these three cities. ⁸ But perhaps Yahweh will extend your frontiers as he has sworn to your fathers, and give you all the land that he promised you, ⁹ on condition that you keep his commandments and do what I tell you today, that is, that you love Yahweh, your God, and follow his ways at all times. Then you shall add three more to these three cities, doubling the number of cities of refuge.

¹⁰ In that way, innocent blood shall not be shed in the midst of the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you as your inheritance, and you will not be guilty of this shedding of blood.

¹¹ But if a man, because of a feud with his neighbor, ambushes him and falls on him and wounds him to death, and if afterwards the aggressor flees into one of these cities, ¹² the heads of this city shall order that he be arrested there in the place of asylum. And he shall be put in the hands of the relatives of the victim that they may kill him. ¹³ Do not show pity to him, but purge the guilt of shedding innocent blood from the midst of Israel so that you may have prosperity.

¹⁴ In the inheritance you receive in the land which Yahweh, your God, will give as your possession, do not move the boundaries of your neighbour set by your ancestors.

¹⁵ A sole witness is not enough to condemn anyone, whatever be the crime or offence of which he is accused. Only by the testimony of two or three witnesses can a case be resolved.

¹⁸ The judges will examine the case in detail, and if it turns out that the witness had lied in falsely accusing his brother, ¹⁹ they shall impose on him the punishment which the lying witness tried to impose on his brother. So shall you uproot evil from your midst, ²⁰ because others, upon knowing it, shall fear and not do the same.

²¹ Do not feel sorry for him, but make him pay life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

War

20 ¹ When you go to war against your enemies and you see horses, chariots and an army more numerous than yours, then have no fear because Yahweh, your God, who brought you out of Egypt, is with you.

² When the hour of battle draws near, the

◆ The Israelites had a very strong sense of family solidarity and of revenge. When a person had killed another person, even unintentionally, the family of the dead person had to kill the killer.

Here we see how God acts to educate his people. He could not directly attack such a deeply-rooted mentality. By designating cities of refuge for the person who killed unintentionally, the right to take justice in one's own hands was at first limited, and with time it was going to disappear.

15: A single witness is not enough to condemn anyone. This principle is recalled in various parts of the New Testament as, for example, in the condemnation of Jesus.

priest shall advance to the head of the army and shall speak to the people saying: ³ "Listen, Israel, today you are to enter into battle against your enemies. Do not let your heart be discouraged, or afraid or troubled, and do not tremble before them. ⁴ for Yahweh, your God, is with you, to fight in your favour against your enemies and save you." ⁵ So the secretaries shall say to the people: "Is there anyone of you who has just built a new house and has not yet lived in it? Let him go and return home; lest he die in battle and another be the first to live in it. ⁶ Is there anyone among you who has planted a new vineyard and has not yet enjoyed its fruits? Let him go and return home, lest he die in the war and another enjoy its fruit. ⁷ Is there anyone who has made a promise to marry and has not yet been married? Let him go back to his home at once, lest he die in combat and another take the woman as his wife."

⁸ They shall also say: "Is there anyone who is afraid or weakhearted? Let him go home immediately, lest his fear discourage others." When they have finished speaking, commanders shall be put at the head of the people.

¹⁰ When you draw near to a city to lay siege to it, you shall first offer it peace. ¹¹ If it accepts your proposal and opens the gates to you, all the people found in it shall save their lives. They shall pay taxes to you and serve you.

¹⁵ This you shall do to all the cities which are very far from you and which are not in those countries which you will possess. ¹⁶ But in the cities which Yahweh gives you as an inheritance, you shall not leave anything that lives. ¹⁷ You must destroy them all according to the law of anathema—the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites—as Yahweh, your God, has commanded you. ¹⁸ that they may not teach you all those evil things which they have done to honor their gods, for by imitating them you shall sin against Yahweh, your God.

¹⁹ If, on attacking a city, you have to lay siege to it for a long time before capturing it, you shall not destroy the fruit trees around it nor cut them with your axe, that you may eat their fruit. Do not cut them, then. Are the trees of the field men that they should also be stricken? ²⁰ If there are trees in the field which are not fruit-bearing, but are for other uses, cut them down and make ladders and instruments out of them with which you may seize the city that offers you resistance.

Laws and rights

21 ¹ If the corpse of a slain man is found in the land which Yahweh, your God, will give you, and it is not known who killed him, ² your judges and leaders shall go out to measure the distance between the victim and the surrounding cities to ³ determine which city is nearest to the dead man.

⁴ And the leaders of that city shall take a calf that has never been used for work or borne a yoke. And they shall bring it down to a brook which flows the whole year round, to a place which has never been plowed or sown, and there they shall cut its throat. ⁵ The priests, descendants of Levi, shall be present for they were chosen by Yahweh to minister and give the blessings in his name, and they are those who decide on all lawsuits or criminal cases.

¹⁰ When you go to war against your enemies, and Yahweh, your God, delivers them over to you, ¹¹ if you see among the captives a beautiful woman, and you fall in love with her and desire to have her as your wife, ¹² you shall bring her to your house. First, she shall shave her head and clip her nails. ¹³ She shall take off the dress of a captive and stay in your house. And she will mourn for her father and mother for a month, after which you may have relations with her. So you shall be her husband and she your wife. ¹⁴ If in time she does not please you anymore, you shall set her free. You shall not sell her for money, nor make her your slave, since you have taken her by force.

¹⁵ When a man has two wives and prefers one to the other, supposing that both of them bear him children, and the firstborn is the child of the wife he loves less, ¹⁶ then on the day he divides the inheritance among his children, he cannot give the birthright of the firstborn to the child of the woman he prefers, at the expense of the true firstborn who is the child of the woman he loves less. ¹⁷ On the contrary, he should recognize the child of the woman he loves less as the firstborn and give him a double share of all his property. He is his firstborn, and to him belongs the right of the firstborn.

¹⁸ If a man has a stubborn and rebellious child who does not pay attention to what his father or mother commands, and does not listen to them when they call him, ¹⁹ his parents shall seize him and bring him before the leaders of the city, to the gate of judgment, ²⁰ and shall say to them: "This child of ours is stubborn and rebellious, he does not pay any attention to us; he is spoiled and a drunkard."

²¹ Then all the people shall stone him to death. In this way shall you banish evil from your midst, and all Israel upon knowing this shall fear.

²² If a man, guilty of any crime that deserves death, has been put to death by hanging him on a tree, ²³ his body must not remain hanging there through the night. But you shall bury him on the same day because the hanged man is a curse of God. So you shall not defile the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you as an inheritance.

Give back what you find

22 ¹ If you find the lost ox or sheep of your brother, do not pretend that you did not see it, but bring it back to its owner. ² If your brother does not live near you, or you do not know to whom the animal belongs, you shall keep it in your house until its owner comes looking for it. Then you shall return it to him.

⁵ A woman must not wear a man's clothing, nor a man the clothing of a woman, because whoever does such thing deserves the reprobation of Yahweh.

⁶ If you find along your way a bird's nest in a tree or on the ground, and the mother-bird is sitting upon the birdlings or upon the eggs, you shall not bring with you the mother-bird together with the young, ⁷ but you shall let the mother go and take only the young. Then you shall prosper and live long.

⁸ When you build a new house, you shall construct a small wall around the roof, lest someone should fall from it, and your house become stained with blood.

¹⁰ Do not plow with an ox and an ass together.

¹¹ Do not wear a garment woven from wool and linen together.

¹² Make for yourself tassels on the four corners of your cloak with which you cover yourself.

²⁰ But if what the man says is true, and the proof of her virginity is not found, ²¹ then you shall bring her to the door of her father's house and the people shall stone her to death for having committed an evil deed in Israel -- becoming a prostitute while still in her father's house. So shall you banish evil from your midst.

²² If a man is caught lying with a married woman, the two shall die; the adulterer and the adulteress. So shall you banish evil from Israel.

²³ If a young woman has been promised in marriage to a man, and another man meets her in the city and lies with her, ²⁴ they shall bring the two and stone them to death: the young woman because she did not cry out and ask for help when she was in the city, and the man because he dishonored the future wife of his neighbor. So shall you banish evil from your midst.

²⁸ If a man meets a young virgin who is not promised in marriage to another man, and that man violates her by force, and they are caught by surprise, ²⁹ the man who lay with her shall give to the father of the young woman fifty pieces of silver, and take her as his wife, because he has dishonored her, and he cannot send her away all his life.

Act worthily as a consecrated people

23 ¹ No man shall take for his wife the wife of his father or the woman with whom his father has lain.

² The man whose testicles are crushed and whose penis is cut shall not be admitted into the assembly of Yahweh. ³ Nor shall the half-breed be admitted into the assembly of Yahweh, even to the tenth generation. ⁴ The Ammonite or Moabite shall never be admitted into the assembly of Yahweh even after the tenth generation, ⁵ because when you came forth from Egypt, they did not go out to meet you with bread and water, but instead they hired against you Balaam, the son of Beor, from Pethor in Mesopotamia, to curse you. ⁶ But Yahweh, your God, did not listen to Balaam and turned the curse into a blessing because Yahweh loves you. ⁷ You shall never share your prosperity or happiness with these peoples.

⁹ From the third generation, their descendants can be admitted into the assembly of Yahweh.

¹⁰ When you set out against your enemies, you shall keep yourselves from every evil act. ¹¹ If there is among you a man who is not clean by reason of nocturnal emission, he shall go outside the camp and not return. ¹² When evening comes, he shall bathe himself and when the sun sets, he may enter the camp.

¹³ You shall have a place outside the camp for your natural necessities. ¹⁴ You shall bring a stick with your equipment with which you shall dig a hole, and then cover up the excrement with the unearthed soil. ¹⁵ Because Yahweh, your God, walks in the midst of the camp to protect you and give your enemy into your hands; therefore, your camp must be a thing clean and sacred, in which Yahweh will not see anything indecent; otherwise, he will turn away from you.

¹⁶ You shall not turn over to his master the slave who ran away from his house and sought refuge with you. ¹⁷ He shall stay with you among your household, in the place that he chooses in one of your cities, where it seems best for him. You shall not oppress him.

¹⁹ You shall not bring into the house of Yahweh, your God, a gift for prostitutes, or the wages of a dog, that is, a homosexual, to pay for the vow that you have made, for both of these are abominable in the eyes of Yahweh.

²⁰ You shall not lend with interest to your brothers, either in money or food, or in any other thing. ²¹ You can lend with interest to a foreigner, but not to your brother, so that Yahweh, your God, may bless you in all your undertakings in the land you are going to possess. ²² If you make any vow to Yahweh, you shall not be late in fulfilling it for Yahweh will surely require it of you and it would be charged as sin against you. ²³ If you abstain from making vows, you do not commit any sin. ²⁴ Fulfill your promises and, if you make any vow, you shall offer what you have promised to Yahweh.

²⁵ If you go into the vineyard of your neighbor, you may eat as many grapes as you wish, but you may not bring any away. ²⁶ If you pass through the wheat fields of your neighbor, you may pluck the ears with your hand, but you shall not put a sickle to your neighbor's standing wheat.

24 ¹If a man marries a woman, and then dislikes her because of some notable defect he discovers in her, he may write a certificate of divorce, give it to the woman, and send her out of his house.

²If afterwards she becomes the wife of another man ³and he also dislikes her and sends her out with a certificate of divorce; or, if this second man who took her to be his wife dies, ⁴the first husband who sent her away cannot take her back as wife, since she has been defiled. It is an abomination in the eyes of Yahweh for him to take her back. You shall not defile the land which Yahweh will give you for an inheritance.

+ ⁵If a man is newly married, he shall not go to war or be charged with other services. He shall be exempt from everything throughout the year, that he may stay in his house and be happy with his wife.

⁶Mill and grindstone shall not be taken as a pledge. Can life be taken as a pledge?

⁷If a man is caught kidnapping an Israelite, that is to say, one of his brothers, to sell him as a slave, the kidnapper must die. So shall you banish evil from the midst of your people.

⁸Be careful of contagious leprosy. Obey and put into practice what the Levite priests tell you to do; fulfill what I commanded them. ⁹Remember what Yahweh, your God, did to Miriam, when the people were on the way coming forth from Egypt.

¹⁰When you lend anything to your neighbor, you shall not go into his house to take anything as pledge.

¹¹Wait outside, and he shall come out of the house to give you the pledge.

¹²If you have taken as pledge the cloak of a poor man, you shall not keep it overnight, ¹³but shall return it to him when the sun goes down that he may sleep in his cloak. Then the poor shall bless you and you shall be righteous in the eyes of Yahweh, your God.

¹⁶The fathers shall not be put to death for the sin of their children, nor the children for the sin of their fathers. Everyone must pay for his own sin.

¹⁷Do not violate the right of the foreigner, or of the orphan, or take as pledge the clothing of a widow.

¹⁸Remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and Yahweh, your God, rescued you. Therefore, I command you to do this.

¹⁹When you harvest the wheat in your fields, if you drop a sheaf, do not return to pick it up, but let it be there

+ We have here a series of laws promoting more human relations. This is the extent of the prophets' preaching: in all aspects of social life to create among men an attitude of cooperation and kindness similar to the merciful attitude of God himself.

All of this was meant for a nation of farmers with a rather primitive economy and it would have to be adapted for our more organized society. To each of these prescriptions correspond, in the same order, many other aspects of a truly human legislation:

- Help to the newly married.

- Security in employment.
- The fight against prostitution and the exploitation of immigrants.
- The provision of a minimum recompense for those fired and for the families of strikers.
- Wages paid in due time.
- Suppression of measures of collective repression.

Then comes care for the abandoned. We cannot consider what we earn as exclusively ours. We have an obligation to observe the laws of social solidarity and to pay faithfully what they require.

for the foreigner, the orphan and the widow. So Yahweh will bless you in all your work.

²⁰ When you harvest your olives, do not go back to beat the trees another time, what is left shall be for the foreigner, the orphan and the widow.

25 ¹ When there is a dispute or contest between two men, they shall have recourse to the judges, that they may decide on the matter. They shall declare righteous he who is righteous, and condemn the guilty. ² If he deserves flogging, the judge shall make him fall down on the ground in his presence and shall have him flogged with the number of stripes in proportion to his sin. ³ You may give him forty stripes – not more – otherwise, when he is struck more than this, the punishment may be too much and your brother become dishonored in your eyes.

⁴ Do not muzzle an ox when it threshes the grain.

⁸ Then the judges shall call this man and speak to him. If he persists and says: "I do not want to take her for my wife," his sister-in-law shall go up to him and in the presence of the judges remove his sandal from his foot, spit in his face and say these words, "So shall it be done to the man who does not revive the name of his brother." ¹⁰ His house shall be called in Israel "the house of the barefooted one."

¹³ You shall not keep in your bag different weights, some large and others small, ¹⁴ nor shall you have in your house a large measure and a small one. ¹⁵ You shall have a full and exact weight, and an equally just and exact measure, that you may lengthen your days in the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you. ¹⁶ Because Yahweh hates him who does such things and all kinds of injustice.

¹⁷ Remember what Amalek did to you when you were on the road, coming out of Egypt. ¹⁸ He went out to meet you on the way and when you were weak and tired attacked from behind, all who were exhausted. He had no fear of God. ¹⁹ Therefore, when Yahweh, your God, after subduing all your enemies around you, has given you rest in the land which he gives you, you shall wipe out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens. Do not forget.

The Israelite proclaims his faith

26 ¹ When you come into the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you as an inheritance, when you possess it and dwell in it, ² you shall take the firstfruits of all your harvests, place them in a large basket and bring it to the place chosen by Yahweh, your God, as the dwelling place for his Name.

³ Present these to the priest who is in office, and say to him, "On this day, I give thanks to Yahweh, my God, because I have entered into the land he promised our fathers that he would give us." ⁴ Then the priest shall take

■ My father was an Aramean. This paragraph is like a profession of faith for the Israelites. They know they were chosen from among pagan Arameans and that God, after liberating them, had given them the prosperity they were enjoying. Likewise, the various formulations of the 'Creed' which the Church now uses, place at the very center the liberating work that God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, realizes for our benefit.

from your hands the large basket and place it before the altar of Yahweh, your God,⁵ and you shall say these words before Yahweh, "My father was a wandering Aramean. He went down to Egypt to find refuge there, though few in number; but in that country, he became a great and powerful nation.⁶ The Egyptians maltreated us, oppressed us and subjected us to harsh slavery.⁷ So we called to Yahweh, the God of our fathers, and Yahweh listened to us. He saw our humiliation, our hard labor and the oppression to which we were subjected.⁸ He brought us out of Egypt with a firm hand, manifesting his power with signs and awesome wonders.⁹ And he brought us here to give us this land flowing with milk and honey.¹⁰ So now I bring and offer the first fruits of the land which you, Yahweh, have given me."

¹¹ You shall place these before Yahweh, bow before him and worship Yahweh, your God. Afterwards, you and your household shall feast on all the good things Yahweh has given you and your family. The Levite and the foreigner who lives among you shall also feast with you.

¹² On the third year, the year of tithing, when you have finished separating the tithes from all your harvests and have given them to the Levite, the foreigner, the widow and the orphan, that they may eat within your very city until they are satisfied,¹³ you shall say in the presence of Yahweh,

"I have brought out of my house what belongs to Yahweh. I have given it to the Levite, the foreigner, the orphan and the widow according to the commandments that you have given me, without going against any of them or forgetting them.¹⁴ Of that tithe I have not eaten anything during my mourning. There is nothing unclean in it, I have offered nothing to idols. I have obeyed the voice of Yahweh, my God, and have done as he has commanded me.

¹⁵ From your sanctuary, from on high in the heavens, look down and bless your people Israel, as you bless the land which you have given us just as you had promised to our fathers, the land flowing with milk and honey."

¹⁷ Today you have called upon Yahweh so that he may be your God, and so you shall follow his ways, observing his norms, his commandments and his laws, and listening to his voice.

¹⁸ Today Yahweh has made this promise that you will be his very own people even as he had said to you, and you must obey all his commandments.¹⁹ He, for his part, shall give you honor, renown and glory, and set you high above all the nations he has made, and you will become a nation consecrated to Yahweh, your God, as he has told you.

Renewal of the Covenant

27 ¹ Moses and the elders of Israel gave this order to the people: "Observe all the commandments that I give you today.² When you cross the Jordan to go to the land which Yahweh, your God, will give you, set up large stones and plaster them with lime.³ Then you shall write upon them all the words of this Law at the time that you cross over, that you may enter the land which Yahweh, the God of your fathers, will give you as he has promised, a land flowing with milk and honey.

⁴ When you have crossed the Jordan, set up these stones on Mount Ebal as I command you today, and plaster them with lime.⁵ Set up there an altar in honor of Yahweh, built with unhewn stones.⁶ Build the altar to Yahweh with uncut stones and on this altar, offer burnt offerings to Yahweh, your God.⁷ There you shall also sacrifice peace offerings, and shall feast in the presence of Yahweh, your God.⁸ Write plainly upon these stones all the words of this Law."

⁹ Then Moses and the priests from the tribe of Levi said to the people of Israel: "Pay attention and listen, Israel. Today you have become the people of Yahweh, your God: ¹⁶ Listen, therefore, to his voice and put into practice the commandments and the norms that I give you today."

¹⁷ Cursed be he who moves the boundaries of his neighbor's inheritance. All the people shall respond: Amen!

¹⁸ Cursed be he who leads the blind astray from the way! All the people shall respond: Amen!

²⁰ Cursed be he who lies with the wife of his father and dishonors his father's bed! All the people shall respond: Amen!

²² Cursed be he who lies with his sister, whether the daughter of his father or mother! All the people shall respond: Amen!

²³ Cursed be he who lies with his mother-in-law! All the people shall say: Amen!

²⁴ Cursed be he who treacherously murders his neighbor! All the people shall say: Amen!

²⁵ Cursed be he who accepts a bribe to kill an innocent person! All the people shall say: Amen!

²⁶ Cursed be he who does not obey the words of this Law and does not put them into practice! And all the people shall say: Amen!

Blessings and curses

28 ¹ Well now, if you obey in truth the voice of Yahweh, your God, practising and observing all the commandments which I give you today, Yahweh, your God, shall raise you high above all the nations of the earth. ² Then all these blessings shall come upon you for having obeyed the voice of Yahweh, your God:

³ Blessed shall you be in the city and in the field. ⁴ Blessed shall be the fruit of your body and the fruit of your land, the young of your asses, the offspring of your cattle and sheep. ⁵ Blessed shall be your granaries and the place where you keep your produce. ⁶ Blessed shall you be in whatever you set out to do. ⁷ Yahweh will bring down your enemies who rise against you, and put them at your feet. By one way they shall come out against you but by seven ways they shall flee from you.

⁸ Yahweh will order his blessing to be with you in your granaries and in your undertakings. He shall bless you in the land which Yahweh, your God, gives you.

⁹ Yahweh shall make you a holy people, as he has sworn, if you keep his commandments and follow in his ways. ¹⁰ All the people of this land shall see that in truth you are called people of God and they will respect you.

¹¹ Yahweh shall fill you with all kinds of good things, increasing the fruit of your

We know that this "discourse of Moses" was, in fact, written during the last days of the kingdom of Judah. At that time, it was enough to recall history to see the many misfortunes which had taken place because the people had not lived according to the way the Lord had required. The blessings had not been many, nor had they lasted long. On the contrary, the most cruel situations described in this chapter, had been happening.

If you obey the voice of Yahweh, he will raise you above all the nations (28:1). The author is convinced that the people could follow all this and thus, find happiness. Yet, the conclusion is negative: in fact, Israel did not listen and will disobey to the extent of being lost. At the time when these pages were written, the prophet Jeremiah was much more pessimistic in saying that the First Covenant, with its promise of material happiness, was no longer valid. According to him it is as difficult for people to stop sinning as it is to change the color of their skin (Jer 13:23).

Thus, the actual law was very good, but Israel could not observe it until God had given believers a new heart (see Jer 31:31).

• We often ask a priest to bless or "baptize" a house, a boat, a piece of machinery, some new equipment. The word "to bless," that is to say good things, combines different meanings:

- To say thanks to God from whom everything comes.
- To refer to the good that God thinks about this or that new acquisition or sign of progress; to describe all the benefits that can be derived from this house, this sewing womb, the fruit of your livestock and the fruit of your land which Yahweh promised on oath to your fathers that he would give you.

¹³ Yahweh will set you at the head of the nations and not at the tail; you shall always be on top and never below, if you fulfill the commandments of Yahweh, your God, which I command you today. ¹⁴ observing them and putting them into practice, without turning aside either to the right or to the left to follow and worship other gods.

¹⁵ But if you do not obey the voice of Yahweh, your God, and do not take care to practise all his commandments and norms which I command you today, all these curses shall come upon you:

¹⁶ Cursed shall you be in the city and in the field. ¹⁷ Cursed shall your granary be, and cursed shall your storage houses be. ¹⁸ Cursed shall be the fruit of your body and the fruit of your land, the offspring of your cattle and the young of your sheep. ¹⁹ Cursed shall you be in everything you do, from beginning to end.

²⁰ Yahweh will send misfortune, destruction and fear upon everything that your hand touches until you are destroyed and perish quickly on account of the evil deeds you have done in forsaking Yahweh. ²¹ He shall make pestilence cling to you until you disappear from the land which you are entering today to make it yours.

²² Yahweh will punish you with tuberculosis, fever, inflammation, fiery heat, wheat-smug and mildew that shall pursue you until you die.

²³ The heavens above you shall be brass and the earth under you shall be iron. ²⁴ Instead of rain, Yahweh shall make ashes and powder fall from heaven until you are destroyed.

²⁶ Your dead bodies shall serve as food for all the birds of the air, and no one shall chase them away. ²⁷ Yahweh shall strike you with the boils and plagues of Egypt, with tumors, scurvy and itch, from which you cannot be healed.

²⁸ Yahweh shall punish you with madness and blindness and confusion of mind. ²⁹ In the same way that the blind grope in darkness, so shall you grope in broad daylight, and you shall not find your way. You shall always be oppressed and robbed, with no one to defend you.

³² Your sons and daughters shall be handed over to foreign nations and you shall yearn for them continually but you will be unable to do anything.

³³ A people unknown to you shall eat the fruit of your fields, the fruit of all your toil. And you shall never cease to be exploited and oppressed all your life. ³⁴ You shall be driven mad by what you see.

³⁵ Yahweh will strike you with the most malignant boils on the knees and legs, from which you cannot be healed, from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head.

³⁶ Yahweh will bring you and the king you have chosen to a nation which neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you shall serve other gods made of wood and stone.

⁴⁰ You shall have olive trees throughout all your territory, but they shall not give you even a drop of oil to anoint yourself, for the olives shall drop off and rot. ⁴¹ You shall have sons and daughters but they shall not be yours for they shall be taken into captivity. ⁴² All your trees and all the produce of your land shall be infested with insects.

machine, etc ... for the human and spiritual development of a person or a group.

- To ask the Lord that we may use things according to his will; since it is the only way for us to obtain the good that may be expected from them.

Yahweh will build you up ... Yahweh will fill you ... Yahweh will open up for you ... Naturally, all of this is realized through the good use we make of things: we do not expect miracles. But we do know that wonders can come through the poorest instruments.

⁴³ The foreigner who lives with you shall grow richer every day at your expense as you become poorer. ⁴⁴ He shall lend to you and you shall have to borrow; he shall always be the head and you the tail.

⁴⁵ All these curses shall fall upon you, pursue you and oppress you until all of you perish, for you did not listen to the voice of Yahweh, your God, or obey the commandments and the norms which he gave you. ⁴⁶ These shall be forever upon you and your descendants and shall be an awesome sign for all to see.

⁴⁹ Yahweh shall make a nation from afar come against you, as swift as the eagle flies, ⁵⁰ a nation whose language you do not understand, a cruel nation that does not show respect to the old or compassion to the young. ⁵¹ They shall consume the offspring of your livestock and the produce of your land so that you perish, leaving you with no wheat or wine or oil or the young of your cattle and sheep until they finish you off.

⁵² They shall besiege you in all your cities until the highest and most fortified walls in which you placed your trust fall down throughout your land. You shall remain besieged within your cities throughout the land which Yahweh, your God, will give you.

⁵³ You shall eat the fruit of your body, the flesh of your sons and daughters which Yahweh has given you, in the siege and anguish to which your enemy shall reduce you.

⁵⁴ The most refined man among your people shall look at his brother with distrust including his wife and the rest of his children who remain. ⁵⁵ Refusing to share with any of them the flesh of his children that he is eating, because nothing shall be left to him during the siege and the anguish to which your enemy shall reduce you in your cities.

⁵⁸ If you do not observe or put into practice the words of this Law which are written in this book and do not fear that glorious and terrible Name, Yahweh, your God, ⁵⁹ he will punish you, you and your descendants, with fearful plagues, severe and lasting plagues, malignant sicknesses and incurable diseases.

⁶⁰ He will make all the plagues of Egypt fall upon you, which you were afraid of, and these shall cling to you. ⁶¹ Even more, Yahweh shall order all the diseases and plagues which are not recorded in this book of the Law to be with you until you are wiped out. ⁶² For not having obeyed the voice of Yahweh, your God, only a few of you will remain although before you were as numerous as the stars of the heaven.

⁶³ So it shall happen, that in the same manner that it pleased Yahweh to do you good and to multiply you, it shall also please him to pursue and destroy you. You shall be plucked off the land you are entering to conquer.

⁶⁵ In those nations, you shall not have peace or rest for the sole of your foot. There Yahweh shall give you a cowardly heart, afraid and restless by day and by night. ⁶⁶ Your life shall be before you as a pendant that hangs on a thread, and you shall be in dread night and day. ⁶⁷ In the morning you shall say: "Would it were evening!" but in the evening you shall say: "Would it were morning!" because of the fear that makes your heart tremble when you behold what your eyes see.

⁶⁸ Yahweh shall bring you back to Egypt by land and by sea, in spite of what he said to you: "You shall not see it again." There you shall offer yourselves for sale to your enemies as slaves, but no man will buy you."

⁶⁹ These are the words of the Covenant which Yahweh commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the Covenant he made with them at Horeb.

Another conclusion

29 ¹ Moses summoned all the people of Israel and said to them: "You have seen all that Yahweh did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, to his servants and to all his land, ² the great plagues which you yourselves witnessed, the signs and the marvels. ³ But to this very day, Yahweh has not given you a heart to understand, or eyes to see, or ears to hear.

⁴Yahweh has made you wander in the desert for forty years, but your clothes did not wear out and neither did your sandals from so much journeying. ⁵You did not have bread to eat, or wine or fermented liquor to drink, so that with the manna I provided, you might know that I, Yahweh, am your God. ⁶And when we came to this place, Sihon, the king of Heshbon, and Og, the king of Bashan, set out to fight against us, but we defeated them ⁷and seized their lands, which we then gave as an inheritance and a possession to Reuben, Gad and to half of the tribe of Manasseh.

⁸So observe the conditions of this Covenant and put them into practice, that you may succeed in whatever you do. ⁹You are all here today in the presence of Yahweh, your God: your leaders, your elders, your secretaries, all the men of Israel, ¹⁰with your sons and daughters, and with your wives, together with the foreigner who lives in your field, who cuts the firewood or fetches water for you. ¹¹You are here in this place to enter into a sworn Covenant with Yahweh, your God. ¹²He makes this covenant with you to establish you as his people and to be your God, as he promised and swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

¹³And not only with you do I make this covenant and this oath today, ¹⁴but I make it both with those who are here with you today in the presence of Yahweh as well as with those who are not here.

¹⁵You know very well how we lived in the land of Egypt and how we crossed through other lands. ¹⁶You have seen the abominations and the loathsome idols they kept: of stone, wood, gold and silver.

¹⁷So may there be no man or woman, family or tribe among you whose heart turns away from Yahweh to go and serve the gods of those nations. May no poisonous and bitter plants sprout among you.

¹⁸If anyone, upon hearing the words of this sworn covenant, refuses to take them seriously and says to himself, "I shall have peace though I do whatever I want. The dry season comes but afterwards, it rains." ¹⁹Yahweh shall not pardon him. His rage and jealousy shall burn against this man, and all the curses written in this book await him. Yahweh shall wipe out his name from under the heavens, ²⁰and shall separate him from the tribes of Israel to his misfortune, according to all the curses expressed in this book of the Law and the Covenant.

²¹The future generations that shall be born after you and the foreigner who comes from a far land shall see the plagues of this land and the infirmities with which Yahweh has punished it, and they shall say: ²²"A land of sulphur, salt and burnt-out waste – unsown, with nothing growing on it, not even grass, like the destruction in Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, that Yahweh laid waste in his anger and rage."

²³All the nations shall ask: "Why has Yahweh dealt so with this nation? What is the cause of such anger?" ²⁴And they shall answer: "This happened because they abandoned the Covenant which Yahweh, the God of their fathers, made with them when he brought them out of Egypt, ²⁵because they went to serve other gods and worshipped them, gods that were not theirs and to whom Yahweh had not entrusted them.

²⁶Therefore Yahweh was angry with that land, bringing upon it all the curses written in this book. ²⁷Yahweh has pulled them out of their land with anger, rage and great indignation, and cast them into another land, as you can see today.

²⁸The secret things belong to Yahweh, our God, but we and our children forever are responsible for what he has made known to us, so we have to put into practice all the provisions of this Law!

30 ¹When these things come upon you according to this blessing and this curse that I have set before you, you will recall them among the nations where Yahweh, your God, has driven you. ²Then you will return to him, you and your children: you will listen to his voice with all your heart and with all your soul, obeying all that I command you today.

³So Yahweh, your God, will bring back the captives of your people, he will have pity on you, and will gather you again from all the nations where Yahweh has scattered you. ⁴Though you wandered without land at the other end of the earth, ⁵Yahweh will gather you even from there, and will take you once again to the land which your fathers possessed so that it may also be yours. He will make you happy and make you more numerous than your fathers.

My commands are not beyond your reach

◆ ⁶ Yahweh, your God, will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants that you may love Yahweh with all your heart and with all your soul, in order that you may live. ⁷ So Yahweh, your God, will inflict all these curses upon your enemies who persecuted you.

⁸ You shall again listen to Yahweh and put into practice all his commandments that I give you today. ⁹ Yahweh, your God, will make you abundantly prosperous in everything you do. He shall multiply your children and the offspring of your livestock: your land shall be fruitful and you shall have everything in abundance, for Yahweh will again be pleased to treat you well, as he did your fathers. ¹⁰ So shall you turn to Yahweh, your God, with all your heart and with all your soul, and observe his commandments and norms, in a word, everything written in this book of the Law.

¹¹ These commandments that I give you today are not beyond your strength nor are they beyond your reach. ¹² They are not in heaven that you should say: "Who will go up to heaven to get these commandments that we may hear them and put them into practice." ¹³ Neither are they at the other side of the sea for you to say: "Who will cross to the other side and bring them to us, that we may hear them and put them into practice."

¹⁴ On the contrary, my word is very near you; it is already in your mouth and in your heart, so that you can put it into practice.

Choose life

¹⁵ See, I set before you on this day life and good, evil and death. ¹⁶ I command you to love Yahweh, your God and follow his ways. Observe his commandments, his norms and his laws, and you will live and increase, and Yahweh will give you his blessing in the land you are going to possess. ¹⁷ But if your heart turns away and does not listen, if you are drawn away and bow before other gods to serve, ¹⁸ I declare on this day that you shall perish. You shall not last in the land you are going to occupy on the other side of the Jordan.

¹⁹ May the heavens and the earth listen and record what I have just said.

◆ These commands are not beyond your strength (11): obedience to the will of God is the most natural way for sincere men. The word is close to you so you may put it into practice (30: 14): yet, no one will put it into practice until he has received the "circumcision of the heart."

Yahweh will circumcise your hearts (verse 6), that is, he will make you pure and holy. See Ez 36:26-27.

Few pages in the Bible emphasize so much and in such a persuasive way, the love of the Lord, a jealous love coming from his desire to make men happy: Yahweh, your God, will circumcise your heart so that you may love him and live happily. Yahweh will again be pleased to treat you well.

◆ This text about the two ways is very famous, recalling the importance of our free decisions and God's respect for man's freedom (see also Sir 15:11).

Throughout Deuteronomy faithfulness to God is stated with the remembrance of his promises and his rewards here on earth. This should not surprise us. In those distant times the people of God had no understanding of another life nor of the authentic reward which rising and enjoying the vision of God after death can be for every one of us. They only focused on the present life and their national destiny which, to their eyes, were more important than the destiny of the individual. For them, God's justice had to be seen on earth in the present.

Later, the Gospel will not promise lands or houses, except in a figurative way (Mk 10:28). Prosperity will not be mentioned except for the final day when God will create the world anew (Acts 3:21 and Rv 21:3).

I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Therefore, choose life that you and your descendants may live, ²⁰ loving Yahweh, listening to his voice, and being one with him. In this is your life and length of days in the land which Yahweh swore to give to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob."

Joshua succeeds Moses

+31 ¹ Moses added these words which he spoke to all Israel, ² "I am now a hundred and twenty years old. I am no longer strong and Yahweh has told me that I shall not cross the Jordan River. ³ But Joshua shall be at your head, as Yahweh has said. He, your God, will go before you to destroy these nations before you, and you will drive them away.

⁴ Yahweh shall deal with these cities as he dealt with Sihon and Og, the Amorite kings, and their land, which he destroyed. ⁵ So when he has given over these nations to you, you shall do the same, according to what I have commanded you.

⁶ Be valiant and strong, do not fear or tremble before them for Yahweh, your God, is with you; he will not leave you or abandon you."

⁷ After this, Moses called Joshua and said to him in the presence of all Israel: "Be valiant and strong, you shall go with this people into the land which Yahweh swore to give to your fathers and you shall give it to them as their possession. ⁸ Yahweh shall go before you. He shall be with you; he shall not leave you or abandon you. Do not fear, then, or be discouraged."

⁹ Moses put this Law in writing and entrusted it to the priests, descendants of Levi, who carried the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh, as well as to all the leaders of Israel, ¹⁰ giving this order to them: "Every seven years, at the time fixed for the Year of Pardon, on the Feast of the Tents, ¹¹ when all Israel assembles to present themselves before Yahweh in the place chosen by him, you shall read this Law in the hearing of all Israel.

¹² Assemble the people – men, women and children, and the foreigner who lives in your cities – that they may listen to it, learn to fear Yahweh and take care to put into practice all the words of this Law. ¹³ Your children who do not know it yet shall hear it and learn to fear Yahweh, your God, all the days that they live in the land which you are going to conquer after crossing the Jordan."

¹⁴ Yahweh said to Moses: "The day of your death is already near. Call Joshua that the two of you may present yourselves to me in the Tent of Meeting, that I may give you my orders."

So Moses and Joshua went to present themselves in the Tent of Meeting. ¹⁵ Yahweh appeared to them in the Tent in a column of cloud; the column was at the entrance of the Tent. ¹⁶ And Yahweh said to Moses:

"Now you are going to rest with your fathers. Then, this people shall rebel and prostitute themselves to strange gods, the gods of the land which they are going to enter. They shall abandon me and break the Covenant I have made with them: ¹⁷ On that day, I shall be angry with them, I shall abandon them and hide my face from them. They will be devoured, and many evils and adversities will come upon them so that they will say: "Have not these evils come upon me because my God is not in our midst anymore?" ¹⁸ But on that day I shall hide my face from them on account of all the evil which they have done in going after the gods.

¹⁹ So, write this song and teach it to the children of Israel that they may remember it, for this song shall be my witness against the

+ The last chapters include several memories of Moses.

The hymn of chapter 32 is a song to the constant love of the Lord who guides all of Israel's history.

- Yahweh chooses Israel (v. 7-9).
- He leads Israel through the desert to the Promised Land (v. 10-14).
- Yahweh becomes Israel's enemy (22-30).
- The people, humbled and exiled, must rely on the compassion of Yahweh who, in the end, will liberate them and make them victorious over the wicked (v. 31-43).

He set up the boundaries for the people: after the number of the sons of God. The sons of God are the angels. They are in charge of the nations, since Israel alone belongs to Yahweh.

Like an eagle: This is an image of God looking after his people: no one will snatch them away from his protection.

Verse 15 summarizes Israel's rebellious attitude.

Israel grew up well-nourished. The prodigal son, after having received everything from his father, thinks that he will be freer by rebelling children of Israel. ²⁰For I shall bring them to the land which I swore to their fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey, but after they have eaten and are satisfied and have grown fat, they shall turn to other gods and pay homage to them while despising me and breaking my Covenant.

²¹And when these evils and calamities without number come upon them, this song shall bear witness against them, since their descendants will not forget it. I know very well the plans they are already making even before they have entered the land which I promised them. ²²On that day, Moses wrote this song and taught it to the children of Israel. ²³Then Moses told Joshua, son of Nun, "Be valiant and strong for you shall bring the children of Israel to the land which Yahweh promised to them. He shall be with you."

²⁴When he finished writing in a book all the words of this Law, ²⁵Moses gave this order to the Levites who carried the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh. ²⁶"Take the book of this Law. Place it by the side of the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh, your God. There it shall remain as a witness against you. ²⁷because I know how rebellious and stubborn you are. If today, as I live among you, you are rebellious against Yahweh, how much more shall you be after my death?"

²⁸Gather together around me all the leaders and secretaries of all the tribes. I am going to say these words in their hearing, and I shall ask heaven and earth to witness against you.

²⁹For I know that after my death, you shall do perverse things and shall stray from the way that I have pointed out to you. And misfortune shall come upon you in the future for doing what is evil in the eyes of Yahweh, provoking his anger with the work of your hands."

³⁰Then, before the whole assembly of Israel, Moses recited this song until the end.

Song of Moses

[32] ¹Listen, O heavens, as I speak; hear, earth, the words of my mouth.

²May my teaching come drenching as the rain, and my words, permeate gently as the dew: like abundant rain upon the grass, like a gentle shower on the tender crops.

³For I will proclaim the name of the Lord and declare the greatness of our God.

⁴He is the Rock, and perfect are all his works,

just are all his ways.

A faithful God he is, upright and just and unerring.

⁵Yet he has been treated perversely by his degenerate children – a deceitful and crooked generation.

⁶Is this how you repay the Lord, you foolish and senseless people? He is your father, your creator, who formed you and set you up.

⁷Recall the days of old, think of the years gone by:

your fathers will teach you about them, your elders will have you enlightened.

⁸When the Most High divided mankind and gave the nations their inheritance, he set up boundaries for the peoples after the number of the sons of God. ⁹But the Lord keeps for himself his portion Jacob, his chosen one.

¹⁰In the wilderness he found them, in a barren, howling wasteland; he shielded them and cared for them as the apple of his eye.

¹¹Like an eagle watching its nest, hovering over its young, supporting them on its spread wings and carrying them on its pinions, ¹²the Lord alone led them, without the aid of a foreign god.

¹³He made them ride on the heights and live on the produce of the earth.

He gave them honey to suck from the rock, olive oil from the hard stony crag.

¹⁴curds from the herd, milk from the flock, fattened lambs and goats and Bashan bulls, the finest wheat and the best grape wine.

¹⁵Israel grew up well nourished; the favored people developed and flourished.

But they abandoned God, their creator; they rejected the rock, their savior.

¹⁶They made him jealous with their strange gods; they angered him with their abominable deeds.

¹⁷They sacrificed to the demon, to gods they had not known, to newly arrived gods they feared but which their fathers never revered.

¹⁸They have disowned the Rock who fathered them;

they have forgotten the God who gave them birth.

¹⁹ The Lord saw this, and in his anger rejected his sons and daughters.

²⁰ He said, "I will hide my face from them and see what will become of them.

They are so perverse, so unfaithful!

²¹ They have made me jealous with their false gods and angered me with their idols.

I will, therefore, make them envious of a people which is not worthy of the soul.

I will provoke them to anger with an empty-headed nation.

²³ I will send them trouble upon trouble and spend all my arrows upon them;

²⁴ I will afflict them with famine, deadly diseases and pestilence.

I will send them wild beasts and venomous snakes.

²⁵ Their children will fall by the sword; terror shall reign within, destroying both young man and virgin, both the sucking child and the old man.

²⁶ I said I would scatter them afar and blot out their memory among mankind,

²⁷ but I feared the enemy's provocation, lest the adversary misunderstand and say: 'We have triumphed; the Lord has brought this about.'

²⁸ They are a senseless and undiscerning nation.

Had they wisdom, they would have known

²⁹ the meaning of this and the end awaiting them.

³⁰ For how could one or two men put to flight a thousand or ten thousand, unless their Rock had abandoned them, unless their Lord had given them up?

³¹ Our enemies must understand this. Their rock indeed is not like our Rock.

³² They are an offshoot of Sodom's vinestock, an outgrowth from the fields of Gomorrah;

their grapes are poison, their clusters bitter,

³³ their wine containing venom from the cruel fangs of deadly vipers.

³⁴ I have kept this in reserve and sealed up in my storehouse.

³⁵ Vengeance and recompense is mine. Their feet will slip in due time, their day of calamity is at hand, and swiftly their doom will come.

³⁶ The Lord will give justice to his people and have mercy on his servants, when he sees their strength failing and both slave and free are disappearing.

³⁷ He will say, "Where are their gods, the rock they thought could be their refuge, ³⁸ who ate the fat of their sacrifices and drank the wine of their libations?"

Let them rise up now and help you, let them give you protection!

³⁹ Learn this now – that I alone am He; there is no god beside me.

It is I who give both death and life; it is I who wound and heal as well and out of my hand no one can deliver.

⁴⁰ I raise my hand to heaven and swear: as truly as I live forever, ⁴¹ when I sharpen my glittering sword and my hand takes hold of it in judgment, I will deal out vengeance upon my foes and retribution upon those who hate me.

⁴³ Rejoice, O nations, with his people, for he will avenge his servants' blood, take vengeance on his adversaries, and perform the rite of expiation for his people and his land.

⁴⁴ Moses recited the words of this song in the hearing of the people, and Joshua, son of Nun, was with him.

⁴⁵ When Moses had finished reciting these words to all Israel, ⁴⁶ he said to them, "Be attentive to all these words which I command you today. Repeat them to your children so that they may take care to put all these laws into practice. ⁴⁷ It is no slight matter: on this depends your life, and by this, you shall lengthen your days in the land you are going to conquer after crossing the Jordan.

⁴⁸ Yahweh spoke to Moses on that same day and he said: "Go up to the mountains of Abarim in the land of Moab and climb Mount Nebo facing Jericho. From there you shall see the land of Canaan which I give to the children

Blessings of Moses

33 ¹This is the blessing that Moses gave to the children of Israel before he died. He said:

²"Yahweh has come from Sinai; he rises above the horizon of Seir for his people. He has come from Mount Paran; he has come to Meribah of Kadesh for them; his midday radiance has reached Ashdot.

³Yahweh loved those tribes and his hand protected his holy ones who lay prostrate at his feet, waiting for his instruction.

^{4,5}He came to Israel as king, and made himself the inheritance of the children of Israel when the leaders assembled and the tribes of Israel gathered together.

⁶Let Reuben live and not die, nor let his men be few.

⁷This is the blessing for Judah: "Listen, Yahweh, to the voice of Judah, and let him be with his people. Your hands will fight for him and will help him against his opponents."

⁸He said of Levi: "You have given, Oh Yahweh, your Thummim and Urim to him who loves you, whom you tested at Massah and reproached at Meribah. ⁹He who said to his parents 'I do not know you,' and disowned his brothers and sisters and children, they have observed your words and kept your Covenant.

¹⁰They teach Jacob your decrees, to Israel your Law. They offer you incense and make sacrifices on your altar. ¹¹Bless, O Yahweh, his generosity and accept his service. Strike the back of those who pursue him, that his enemies may not rise against him anymore."

¹²He said of Benjamin: "Beloved of Yahweh, put your trust in him who protects you from the hills on which is his sanctuary."

¹³He said to Joseph: "Your land has received the blessings of Yahweh, the dew from heaven and the waters that gush forth from the deep. ¹⁴the sun-ripened fruits and the liberal produce of the months, ¹⁵the best of the ancient mountains and the everlasting hills, the generous land and the abundant harvest. ¹⁶May the blessing of him who arose in the bush descend upon the head of Joseph, for he is the chosen one among his brothers. ¹⁷Joseph is his firstling bull, glory to him! His horns are those of a wild ox, with which he strikes all the people at the same time. See the multitudes of Ephraim, and the thousands of Manassah!"

¹⁸He said to Zebulun: "Rejoice, Zebulun, when you journey. Rejoice, Issachar, in your tents. ¹⁹They call the peoples to the sacred mountains, there they offer sacrifices together and enjoy the riches of the sea and the treasures of the sand."

²⁰He said of Gad: "Blessed be he who enlarges Gad. Like a lioness, he couches and tears the arm and head. ²¹He chose the best part, the part reserved for the leader. He led the people, for he has fulfilled the justice of Yahweh and his commandments to Israel."

²²He said of Dan: "Dan is a lion's cub that leaps forth from Bashan."

²³He said of Naphtali: "Naphtali is filled with favors, filled with the blessing of Yahweh. May your land reach to the south and to the sea!"

²⁴He said of Asher: "May Asher be blessed among the children. May he be preferred to his brothers and let him put his feet in oil. ²⁵May his fastening bars be iron and bronze. May you be strong as long as you live.

■ Moses' blessings resemble Jacob's in Gen 49. It is a poetic way of announcing the future destiny of the twelve tribes. It was written before David, when the tribe of Judah lived apart from the others (verse 7). The tribe of Joseph is the most important tribe.

• The book concludes with the death of Moses. There is something grandiose in this solitary end of the leader and founder of Israel. God had separated him from his brothers, when he shared his secrets with him and gave him his town authority. Moses alone had to bear the responsibility and the burden of Israel before God, to the point of becoming identified with Israel.

No prophet like Moses has appeared again (v. 10). All our faith is affirmed in the revelation of the only God to Moses and in the election of Israel under his leadership. However, this does not mean that revelation ceased nor that religion became static after Moses: no prophet has appeared though they continue to expect a prophet like him (18:18). This means that faith is not locked in the faithfulness to a book, even if such a book is the Bible. God's people continued to discover the ways of God and the contemporaries of Jesus had to see in him the expected 'Prophet.' But, our faith is also rooted in the feeling of the Church and, with the Church, we always discover the teaching of the Spirit.

²⁶ There is none like our God, O Israel, who walks above the heavens, riding above the clouds, and comes to help you in his zeal.

²⁸ Israel dwells in safety. The fountain of Jacob flows in the land of wheat and wine, and dew comes from heaven.

²⁹ Happy are you, O Israel! Who is like you, a people under the protection of Yahweh? He is the shield that protects you, the sword that gives you victory! Your enemies shall flee from you, but you, in the end, shall tread on their necks."

Moses' death

34 ¹ From the barren plains of Moab, Moses went up to Mount Nebo, to the summit of Pisgah, opposite Jericho. And Yahweh showed him all the Land: from Gilead to Dan, ² the whole of Naphtali, the land of Ephraim, and of Manasseh, the whole land of Judah, as far as the Western Sea, ³ the Negeb, the Plains, the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, as far as Zoar. ⁴ And Yahweh said to him: "This is the land about which I swore to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, promising it to their descendants. I have let you see it with your own eyes, but you shall not enter it."

⁶ They buried him in the valley in the land of Moab opposite Beth-peor; but to this very day, no one knows where his tomb is.

¹⁰ No prophet like Moses has appeared again. Yahweh conversed with him face to face. ¹¹ What signs and wonders he worked in Egypt against Pharaoh, against his people and all his land! ¹² What a powerful hand was his that worked these wonders in the sight of all Israel!

INTRODUCTION TO JOSHUA

Moses led the Israelites up to the plains of Moab beyond the Jordan, but they still had to enter into the Land promised to their ancestors.

In spite of Moses' strong leadership, Israel was not an organized nation, but remained a mere association of various tribes, families and towns united by their common venture. On careful reading of the Bible, it seems that many of the Israelites had not stayed with Moses in the oasis of Cades but had entered Palestine from the south even before Joshua did. Others had occupied the plateaus of Moab (Numbers 32).

Those who crossed the Jordan in Joshua's time, for the most part entered in a peaceful manner. With their tents and their sheep, they settled in the hills surrounding the fortified cities of the Canaanites. They left the plains to the Canaanites who were better organized there. They lived side by side with the Canaanite farmers and interacted with them. The inhabitants of Canaan were richer and superior in culture, so many among the Israelites adopted their practices and their gods, incurring thereby the risk of disappearing as a people.

Those who saved Israel were the more courageous ones who, together with Joshua, decided to conquer the country. We look with repugnance at the violence they committed. Yet, they did carry out God's design, using means proper to that time. The cities and the kings of Canaan (who were no more than local chieftains) were very disunited. So Joshua, carried out against them a series of raids and blows through which he raised the national consciousness of Israel. Then began the slow conquest of the country – an undertaking that would reach its happy conclusion only after two centuries and under David's leadership.

It is always the active minority that makes history. When we talk about the church and its inroads into the world, we refer especially to a minority of believers; the rest are not aware of their mission. In the same manner, we speak of emancipation movements when, in reality, very few consciously live with such expectations. Nevertheless, the militant minority moves the masses forward. This is the way it happened with Israel. When, five centuries after Joshua, the prophets put together the documents they had about the conquest and wrote the present book, they made no pretense to be narrating an exact and complete history. They limited themselves to recalling those exploits which had prepared and made possible the formation of the future nation. Let us then not be deceived when the book says that "all Israel" fought with Joshua, or when it seems to indicate that Joshua conquered all of Palestine by killing all its inhabitants. The book of Joshua narrates small things that make up a great history.

I will be with you

1 ¹After the death of Moses, Yahweh spoke to Joshua, the son of Nun and the minister of Moses, and said to him: ²"My servant Moses is dead; therefore, the hour has come for you to cross the Jordan River, and all the people shall go with you to the land which I give to the sons of Israel. ³I give them the whole territory, as far as you may conquer it, as I promised Moses. ⁴Your territory will extend from the mountain of Lebanon in the north, to the desert in the south, as far as the great Euphrates in the east and the Great Sea in the west.

⁵As long as you live, no one will be able to stand against you. I will be with you as I was with Moses. I will not leave you or abandon you. ⁶Be valiant and have courage for I will give this people the land I swore to their fathers I would give to them.

2. Dt 34. 3. Dt 11, 24. 5. Ex 3, 12.

o The person referred to here is Joshua, son of Nun, who succeeded Moses (Deut 34:9). The conquest of the Promised Land is narrated here as if Joshua had directed everything. In this way the image of a saviour ("Joshua," like "Jesus," means Yahweh-saves) who leads the People of God into their land and to their rest. Joshua prefigures Jesus, as we are told in the Letter to the Hebrews (4:8).

The phrase: "Yahweh said to Joshua," should not be taken literally. This merely means that, in taking such an initiative, Joshua fulfilled Yahweh's plan.

I will give you all the territory you conquer.

⁷ Therefore, be brave and faithfully fulfill the whole Law which Moses, my servant, gave you. Do not turn aside from it either to the right or to the left, and you shall succeed wherever you go.

⁸ Constantly read the book of this Law and meditate on it day and night that you may truly do what it says. So shall your plans be fulfilled and you shall succeed in everything. ⁹ It is I who command you: be strong, then, and be valiant. Do not tremble or be afraid, because Yahweh, your God, is with you wherever you go."

¹⁰ Joshua ordered the secretaries of the people: "Pass through the camp and give this command: 'Store up enough food for, in three days time, you shall cross the Jordan and enter the land which Yahweh, your God, will give you.'"

¹² To the people of the tribes of Reuben and Gad and to half of the tribe of Manasseh, Joshua said, ¹³ "Remember the command of Moses, the servant of Yahweh; Yahweh has provided you with a place of rest and has given you all this region. ¹⁴ The women and children, as well as the livestock, shall remain on this side of the Jordan, in the region which Moses gave you; but you who are valiant shall cross over, armed, ahead of your brothers and shall help them ¹⁵ until Yahweh gives them rest, as he has given you, that they may also conquer the land which Yahweh, our God, gives them. So you shall return to the region which Moses gave us and take possession of that land at the east of the Jordan."

¹⁶ They answered Joshua: "We will do all you have commanded us and go wherever you send us. Just as we have obeyed Moses, so shall we obey you in the same way. ¹⁷ May Yahweh, your God, be with you as he was with Moses. ¹⁸ He who contradicts your words and disobeys your orders shall die. But be valiant and courageous."

The history of Rahab

+2 ¹ Joshua sent two spies secretly from Shittim with the following order, "Go and look over the land well, specially the city of Jericho."

The spies went and as soon as they came to Jericho, they went to the house of the prostitute named Rahab. ² But someone told the king of Jericho: "Some Israelites have entered here to-night to spy on us." ³ So the king of Jericho sent word to Rahab: "Send those men out of your house because they came to spy on the land."

⁴ But the woman had hidden them, so she said: "It is true: they came to my house but I did not know where they came from. ⁵ And at night fall, shortly before the city gates were to be closed, they went out. I do not know where they went, but hurry and you will surely overtake them." ⁶ The woman had hidden them on the roof of the house, under the stalks of flax, which she kept there.

⁷ The pursuers went to search for them by the road leading to the valley of the Jordan, and as they went out, the city gates were closed.

⁸ Then the woman went up to where she had hidden the spies of Joshua, ⁹ and she said to them: "I know that Yahweh, your God, has given this land to you; we are frightened and the inhabitants of the land tremble before you."

¹⁰ We know how Yahweh dried up the waters of the Red Sea to let you cross when you came out of Egypt. We know what you did to the two kings of the Amorites who lived at the other side of the Jordan, to Sihon and Og, whom you destroyed by anathema.

¹¹ The news has frightened us, and every-

In this way we ought to expect God's benefits. He does not do the work for us: instead, he sees to it that we make the necessary effort. The land which Yahweh gives to the Israelites will belong to them once they conquer it.

Sometimes, religious people have the reputation of being unconcerned about social problems, and of not committing themselves to tasks involving the common good. It is true that the Gospel does not speak of earthly conquests, but biblical history shows that the Gospel could not have been understood deeply except by people who had fought to conquer their land and to forge their own identity, so as later to create their own culture. The Church knows by experience that evangelization cannot be divorced from human development.

+ A prostitute receives Joshua's spies. These, in turn, promise to spare her life and that of her entire household. The huge walls of Jericho had been destroyed a century earlier but new inhabitants had settled inside without bothering to repair them. We may imagine all this people assembled together in a house which was built from the debris of the same walls.

This minor incident has a symbolic value. The author of the book places on the lips of Rahab a profession of faith in Yahweh, the living God who will entrust the country to the Hebrew people. Because of this faith, Rahab will be saved.

Jewish tradition recognizes her as an ancestress of King David, and the Gospel mentions her name in the genealogy of Jesus (Matt 1:5).

Jordan before you. ¹² Now, choose twelve men from the twelve tribes of Israel, one from each tribe. ¹³ When the priests who carry the Ark of the Lord of all the earth put their feet into the water of the Jordan, the water coming from upstream shall stop flowing and stand in one single mass."

¹⁴ When the people set out from their camp to cross the Jordan, the priests who carried the Ark of the Covenant went before them. ¹⁵ There was much water in the Jordan that was overflowing its banks, at this time of the barley harvest. Nevertheless, when those who carried the Ark went down to the river and their feet touched the edge of the water, the water from upstream stopped flowing.

4 ¹ Once the whole nation had crossed, ² Yahweh said to Joshua: "Choose twelve men, one from each tribe, ³ and give them the following order: Take twelve stones from the riverbed of the Jordan, from the very place where the priests stood still. Bring them with you and put them where you will encamp tonight."

⁴ Joshua then called the twelve men he had chosen from the twelve tribes of Israel ⁵ and ordered them: "Walk to the Ark, up to the middle of the Jordan and take from there a stone for each tribe and carry it upon your shoulder. ⁶ They will remain with you as a sign of what happened, so that when your children ask you in the future: What do these stones mean for you? ⁷ you may answer: When the Ark of Yahweh crossed the Jordan, the water parted before it. So these stones shall serve as a memorial to the Israelites forever."

¹⁴ On that day, Yahweh exalted Joshua before all Israel, and henceforth, they respected him as they had respected Moses all the days of his life.

¹⁵ Yahweh said to Joshua: ¹⁶ "Command the priests who carry the Ark of the Divine Words to come up from the Jordan." ¹⁷ Joshua, therefore, ordered them to come up from the river. ¹⁸ And when these priests who carried the Ark of the Covenant of Yahweh came up from the middle of the Jordan, when their feet touched much knowledge of religion; yet every place in their land reminded them that God was the saviour of his people.

Joshua pitches his camp in Gilgal from where he organizes his assaults, and he returns wisely to Gilgal after each victory before the Canaanite forces can regroup.

It is evident that several accounts which are not entirely in accord with one another are combined here. Did they put twelve stones in the camp (4:3), or did they put them on the riverbed of the Jordan (4:9)? It really does not matter. At best, these stones were already near Gilgal even before Joshua and the Israelites; this was the sanctuary of a place devoted to pagan cult. But after the conquest, the priests wanted to give them a religious meaning in consonance with their faith, as we saw in Ex 12:15.

the banks, the water of the Jordan returned as abundant as on previous days and overflowed its banks.

²¹ Then Joshua said to the Israelites: "When your children ask you in the future what these stones mean, ²² then you shall tell them that the people of Israel crossed the Jordan without getting their feet wet, ²³ for Yahweh, our God, dried up the water of the Jordan before us just as he did in the Red Sea which he also dried up before us to let us cross. ²⁴ He did this so that the people of this land may know the power of Yahweh, our God, and that you yourselves may fear him forever."

The Israelites are circumcised at Gilgal

5 ¹ The kings of the Amorites on the west of the Jordan and all the kings of the Canaanites who lived in the neighboring lands of the Mediterranean Sea came to know how Yahweh dried up the bed of the Jordan before the Israelites until they had crossed. So they lost their courage and spirit to face the Israelites.

² At that time, Yahweh said to Joshua: "Make flint knives and celebrate a new circumcision for the sons of Israel." ³ Joshua obeyed the order of Yahweh and circumcised the Israelites at a place called the Hill of the Foreskins.

⁴ This is the reason why Joshua did this second circumcision: all the men of Israel who left Egypt were circumcised, but they died during their journey in the desert. ⁵ But all those born in the desert were not circumcised.

⁶ For the Israelites walked in the desert for forty years until the whole nation died – the whole generation who did not obey Yahweh – as Yahweh had sworn that they would not enter the land flowing with milk and honey which he promised to their fathers. ⁷ But it was their children, whom Joshua circumcised.

⁸ After circumcising all, they rested in the camp until they were healed. ⁹ Then Yahweh said to Joshua: "Today I have removed from you the shame of Egypt." So the place is called Gilgal up to this day.

¹⁰ The Israelites encamped in Gilgal where they celebrated the Passover on the evening of the fourteenth day of the month in the plains of Jericho. ¹¹ On the following day, they ate of the produce of the land: unleavened bread and roasted grain on that very day. ¹² And from that day on when they ate of the produce of the land, the manna ceased.

There was no more manna for the Israelites, and that year they ate of the fruit of the land of Canaan.

¹³ When Joshua was near Jericho, he lifted up his eyes and saw before him a man with a drawn sword in his hand. Joshua approached him and said: "Are you for us or for our enemies?" ¹⁴ And he answered: "No, I have come as the commander of the army of Yahweh." Joshua lay prostrate on the ground, worshipped him and said: "What does my Lord ask of his servant?" ¹⁵ The commander of the army of Yahweh said to him: "Take off your sandals from your feet: the place where you stand is holy." And Joshua did so.

The conquest of Jericho

6 ¹ The inhabitants of Jericho had closed the city and had fastened their bolts so that the Israelites could not enter. No one came in and no one went out. ² But Yahweh said to Joshua: "I will give you the city, its king and all its men of war.

23. Ex 14, 21. Gen 17, 10. 6. Num 32, 13. 13. Num 22, 23. 14. Ex 23, 20; Dn 12, 1; Rev 19, 11. 15. Ex 3, 5.

♦ At their first encampment, Joshua's men celebrated their first religious cult, proceeding to circumcision (see Gen 17:10). In Israel, this was the sign of one's entrance into the religious community. In order to insist on this obligation, the book notes that, upon entering the Holy Land, all the men were circumcised.

From that day on, they ate of the produce of the land (v. 11). See in Ex 16 the explanations concerning the manna and its legends.

This event indicates a new era. Until this time, the religion of the Israelites had been that of a nomadic people. Now begins a deep crisis which will last until King David's time, with the Israelites trying to adapt themselves to their new situation as farmers and city-dwellers and gradually evolving a kind of religion suitable for this new situation.

³ For this, you shall have to go around the city once every day for seven days. ⁴ Seven priests shall go before the Ark bearing the seven trumpets used in the time of the Jubilee. On the seventh day, they shall march around the city seven times, ⁵ and when they blow the trumpets all the people shall come up to attack, shouting their battle cry. At that moment, the walls of the city shall fall and everyone shall enter straight before him.

⁷ Then Joshua said to the people: "You shall march around the city and the vanguard of the army shall go before the Ark of Yahweh."

⁸ When Joshua finished speaking, the priests began to blow the seven trumpets they used to blow on the Feast of the Jubilee, and they went before the Ark of Yahweh. ⁹ The vanguard of the people went before the priests, and the rest of the people came after the Ark.

¹⁰ The trumpets blew continually. Joshua had given this order: "Do not shout or utter anything, nor let even a single word be heard, until the day comes when I say: Shout and cry out!"

¹¹ That day he had the Ark of Yahweh carried around the city once, then all returned to the camp where they spent the night. ¹² On the following day, Joshua rose early in the morning ¹³ and the priests took the Ark and those who blew the seven trumpets again went before the Ark. The vanguard went before them and the rest followed the Ark. Once again the trumpets blew.

¹⁴ For six days they marched, once a day around the city and then returned to the camp. ¹⁵ On the seventh day, the Israelites rose early at dawn and marched around Jericho in the same way as on the previous days. But on that day, they did it seven times.

¹⁷ The city and all that is in it shall be

o With the capture of Jericho, the conquest begins. Jericho is made "anathema," i.e., set apart for God. The people renounce all booty, entrust the spoils to Yahweh's treasury and kill all living beings instead of taking possession of the animals and reducing the people to slavery. This same word "anathema" will eventually be used to refer to someone who bears the curse of God (See Rom 9:3). This was a practice among a number of peoples. By destroying everything Canaanite, Israel safeguarded itself from adopting the culture and materialism of the Canaanites.

Sometimes the modern reader is scandalized: How could God order such a war? And how could Joshua think of pleasing God by ordering the killing of all the inhabitants including babies?

One should bear in mind when this conquest took place and when the book was written.

The conquest took place in the thirteenth century B.C. It is difficult for us to understand the mentality of such ancient times. In Canaan, babies were burned in offering to the pagan gods. In Assyria, prisoners were skinned alive. Israel conquered Palestine by force like any nomad people of the world. God was beginning to instruct his people. To start with, he could not expect that they had already been educated. The bloody victories were a step on the way to the shaping of a national conscience. In this sense, we cannot, in the name of peace, despise heroes of past wars.

Moreover, the present book was written in the seventh century B.C., in the small kingdom of Judah, which was surrounded by powerful neighbours with whom they tried to be at peace. Hence, the accounts of past victories and massacres were amplified (compare 2 Sam 12:31 written by contemporaries of the events, and 1 Chron 20:2, written four centuries later). The author wanted to show his contemporaries that they had nothing to fear, since God was with them. By imaginatively amplifying the Canaanite massacres in times past, he wanted to say to his compatriots: Do not entertain any pagan practices, but preserve the holy germ of Israel's faith. Using these bloody examples, the Scripture gives us a lesson: since the People of God has the unique hope of the world, no sacrifice will be too big to keep it intact. But we are not to imitate the fanaticism of these ancient times.

In like manner then, when we read: Yahweh ordered Joshua the anathema, we should not think this was a special intervention of God (See commentary on Gen 16). These words only mean that Joshua, influenced by the mentality of his own times, decided to declare and implement the anathema, and in so doing preserved Israel's faith from idolatry, a situation even more contradictory to God's plans. But they did this as a people who did not yet know the value of human life.

It is difficult to know what is true in this story: see footnote on Joshua 2:1.

given in anathema to Yahweh. Only Rahab the prostitute with all who may be with her in her house shall live, since she hid the spies we sent. ¹⁸ But for your part, be careful not to touch anything, big or small since everything shall be consecrated in anathema, do not take anything for yourself lest the curse be upon the camp of Israel and bring trouble upon it. ¹⁹ All the gold, silver, copper and iron are to be consecrated to Yahweh and shall go into the treasury of Yahweh."

²⁰ The people shouted and the trumpets blew. At this precise moment, the walls of the city fell. Then everyone went straight into the city to the place before him.

²¹ They seized Jericho. And with the sword in hand, they killed all the men and women, both young and old, as well as the oxen, sheep and asses, and they gave these as anathema or rather, sacrificed them to God.

²² Two men had been sent by Joshua to explore Jericho, and upon entering the city, were hidden by a prostitute. Then Joshua said to them: "Go into the house of the prostitute and bring her out with all her family as you had sworn to her."

²³ These young men then brought out the woman named Rahab, her father, her mother, her brothers and sisters with all her relatives to safety outside the camp of Israel. ²⁴ Afterwards, they burned the city and all that was in it. They saved only the silver, gold and the vessels of bronze and iron which they put with the precious things in the Sanctuary of Yahweh. ²⁵ Joshua saved the life of the prostitute and that of her family, and she lived in Israel.

¹ The Israelites did not keep the anathema. It happened that Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, appropriated for himself some of the things consecrated by anathema, and because of this, the anger of Yahweh burned against Israel.

² Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which was near Beth-aven, east of the city of Bethel. And he said to them: "Go up and explore the land." ³ The spies said to Joshua on their return: "It would not be necessary to mobilize the whole army: some two or three thousand men will be enough to conquer the land. It would be useless to tire the people for that nation is but few in number."

⁴ So about three thousand men attacked Ai but were repulsed by the city's defenders. ⁵ The people of Ai killed thirty-six men and pursued them outside the gate as far as Shebarim, defeating them on the slopes. Upon seeing this, all the people were disheartened.

It would have been better for us to remain on the other side of the Jordan. ⁸ Yahweh, my God, what can I say when I see Israel fleeing from their enemies? ⁹ The Canaanites and all the inhabitants of this land will know of this. They will unite to surround us and drive us out. And you, what are you going to do for the honor of your Name?"

¹⁰ Yahweh answered: "Stand up! Why are you prostrate on the ground? ¹¹ Israel sinned and has violated my covenant; Israelites have taken from what was set apart by anathema and have hidden stolen objects with their belongings. ¹² So Israel cannot face its enemies, but shall flee from them, since it has come to be an anathema. I will not be with you anymore unless you remove the curse from your midst. ¹³ Go then, and sanctify the people. Say to them: 'Cleanse yourselves for tomorrow. Yahweh, the God of Israel, says to you: Oh, Israel, the anathema is in your midst and you shall not face your enemies until you have removed the anathema from you. ¹⁴ Therefore in the morning you shall come near, grouped according to tribes. The tribe that Yahweh designates by lot shall present itself by families. And the family that Yahweh designates shall present itself by

+ All the spoils had been made "anathema," i.e., consecrated to God. Whether they were used or deposited in the treasury of the Sanctuary, they were offered to Yahweh. Achan had robbed God and, in the manner of speaking and thinking of ancient peoples, the stolen thing turned into a curse which clung to his own person and to his family. Perhaps this event households, and the household by individuals. All these will be done by lot. ¹⁵ He who turns out to be responsible for this offence shall be burned together with all his household goods for having violated the covenant of Yahweh and having done a detestable crime in Israel."

¹⁶ Joshua rose early in the morning and ordered the tribes of Israel to present themselves. ¹⁷ The lot fell on the tribe of Judah. Lots were drawn among the families, and the family of Zerah was left. Lots were drawn among the households of this family and the household of Zabdi was left. ¹⁸ And then lots were drawn among the members of this household which revealed that the guilty one was Achan, son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zareh, of the tribe of Judah.

¹⁹ Joshua then said to him: "My son, confess the truth before Yahweh, the God of Israel, and render him praise. Tell me what you have done without hiding anything." ²⁰ Achan answered: "It is true that I have sinned against Yahweh. This is what I have done: ²¹ I saw among the plunder a beautiful mantle from Shinar, two hundred shekels of silver and a bar of gold weighing fifty shekels. I was tempted so I took them. Then I hid them in the ground inside my tent with the silver underneath."

²⁴ Then Joshua took Achan together with the silver, the mantle and the gold, his sons as well as his daughters, his oxen, asses and sheep, his tent and all that he had. All Israel accompanied him and they brought them to the Valley of Achor. ²⁵ There Joshua said to him: "Since you brought us misfortune, may Yahweh bring this misfortune upon you today." Then all the people stoned him. ²⁶ And of those that were his, some were crushed and others were burned. They piled on him a great heap of stones that remains to this day. Then the Lord turned from his anger.

Henceforth the place was called the Valley of Achor.

Joshua conquers Ai

8 ¹ Then Yahweh said to Joshua: "Do not fear or be discouraged. March with all your warriors against the city of Ai. I will give into your hands its king and its people, the city and its territory. ² You shall deal with Ai as you have dealt with Jericho and its king. But you may take possession of the plunder and all the animals. So now, prepare an ambush behind the city."

⁹ So Joshua sent them out and they went to the place of ambush, between Bethel and Ai, to the west of the city, while Joshua slept that night in the midst of his people.

¹⁰ Very early in the morning, Joshua rose and mustered his army, and then marched at the head of the people, accompanied by the leaders. ¹¹ All the warriors who were with him went up and marched until they reached the front of the city. Then they encamped opposite the northern side of the city. The valley separated them from the city.

¹² (Then he took five thousand men whom he set in ambush between Bethel and Ai, to the west of the city.)

¹³ The people then set up their camp to the north of the city and their rearguard to the west. That night Joshua was in the valley.

Battle of Ai

¹⁴ When the king of Ai saw the situation, he made haste with all his people to attack Israel in the slope opposite the valley of Jordan, without knowing that the Israelites had prepared an ambush behind the city. ¹⁵ Joshua and the Israelites pretended that they were being defeated, and so fled to the road leading to the wilderness. ¹⁶ Then all the people of the city began to shout and left to pursue them. ¹⁷ No one remained to defend the city, and they left the city open.

¹⁸ Then Yahweh said to Joshua: "Stretch out toward Ai the javelin you have in your hand because I have given you this city." ¹⁹ So Joshua did this and at this sign, the warriors rose out of their places in the ambush and ran to the city. They entered and seized the city, and set it on fire.

²⁰ The men of Ai looked back and saw the smoke of the city rising up to heaven, and at the same time, the Israelites who were fleeing turned back upon them. ²¹ They lost their courage as they were trapped by the Israelites: ²² for on one side were Joshua and all the people of Israel, and on the other, those who had just set the city on fire.

The Israelites killed them until none were left to survive or to escape. ²³ Only the king of Ai was taken alive and they brought him to Joshua.

²⁴ The Israelites killed the inhabitants of Ai who went into the fields or who fled to the wilderness; they killed them all. Then they returned to the city and killed all by the sword. ²⁵ The total of those who fell that day was twelve thousand. ²⁶ Joshua did not give the order to stop the war until all the inhabitants of Ai had been killed in accordance with anathema. ²⁷ But the Israelites took for themselves the livestock and plunder as Yahweh had commanded.

²⁸ Joshua burned the city and left it in ruins. That place has remained as it was to this day. ²⁹ As for the king of Ai, Joshua had him hanged on a tree until the sun set. Then he had his body taken down; they cast it at the entrance of the city and raised over it a great heap of stones which can be seen to this day.

Joshua renews the Covenant in Shechem

■ ³⁰ Joshua then built an altar to Yahweh, the God of Israel, on Mount Ebal. ³¹ He fulfilled what Moses had commanded the children of Israel. And according to what is written in the book of the Law of Moses, that altar was made of uncut stones and was built without the use of an iron tool. On this altar, he offered burnt offerings and peace offerings to Yahweh. ³² There in the presence of the Israelites he wrote upon the stones a copy of the Law which Moses had written.

³³ All the people stood on both sides of the Ark, with their leaders, secretaries and judges. Opposite it were the priests and the Levites who carried the Ark of Yahweh. Israelites by birth and aliens were together. Half the people were in front of Mount Gerizim and the other half were near Mount Ebal according to Moses' commandment for the blessing of Israel.

³⁴ Joshua proceeded to read the words of blessing and curse, and all that is written in the book of the Law. ³⁵ He did not forget any word from all that was written by Moses. He read it with a loud voice before the assembly of all Israel, including women, children and foreigners who lived among them.

The ruse of the Gibeonites

9 ¹ The kings who lived west of the Jordan, on the mountain, on the plain and on the sea coast heard of these events. The Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites ² made a pact and came to an agreement to fight as one against Joshua and Israel.

³ The inhabitants of Gibeon came to know what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai. ⁴ and decided to deceive the Israelites. They prepared provisions for themselves, loaded some worn-out, torn and mended sacks and wine-skins on their asses. ⁵ put on worn-out and patched sandals and clothes. For their journey, they brought some dry bread, broken into pieces. ⁶ Then they went to Joshua, to the camp at Gilgal, and said to him: "We come from a far land to make a pact with you."

⁷ The Israelites answered: "Do you live near us? If so, then we cannot make a pact with

■ What is the meaning of this covenant celebrated in Shechem: the bible probably presents the ancient history of Israel in a fictitious form when it writes that the twelve tribes were together in Egypt, that they left together with Moses, and that all twelve tribes reached the Promised Land with him. At best, the whole history of the Exodus is that of a much smaller group who freed themselves with Moses' leadership and went through the decisive experience of an encounter with the Saving God.

Later, in the oasis of Kadesh, they encountered other Hebrew groups who had also been in Egypt and who accepted their faith (See commentary on the map of Exodus).

Subsequently, when they settled in Palestine, they allied themselves with other tribes from their own race who were already living in the midst of the Canaanites. It was then that Israel first became a people of twelve tribes. Among them, Ephraim and Manasseh were the predominant tribes. Later, however, in the south, the tribe of Judah developed. It was formed from diverse groups particularly the Calebites (Judges 1:12; Num 13:30) and the Kenites (Judges 1:16).

Finally, the Covenant at Shechem could have been the occasion when all of them accepted the faith and the commandments given by Moses.

you." ⁸ They answered Joshua: "We are your servants." And Joshua asked them: "Who are you? Where do you come from?" ⁹ They answered: "Your servants come from a very far country and through the greatness of Yahweh, your God, we came to know of his power and all that he did in Egypt ¹⁰ and with the two kings of the Amorites who reigned in the eastern part of the Jordan – Sihon, the king of Heshbon, and Og, the king of Bashan, who lived in Ashtaroth. ¹¹ The leaders and the rest of the inhabitants of our country told us: 'Take provisions for a long journey, go out to meet them and say to them: We are your servants; may you make a covenant with us.' ¹² Look at our bread which was warm when we took it from our houses to go and meet you, but see how dry it has become and how it has broken into pieces. ¹³ These wineskins that we filled up with wine were new, now they are ripped and worn-out. The clothes and sandals that we use have worn out because of the very long journey." ¹⁴ The Israelites shared with them their food without having asked Yahweh what must be done. ¹⁵ Joshua made a covenant with them without waiting for any answer from Yahweh. So he as well as the leaders of the community promised to let them live.

¹⁶ Three days later, the Israelites learned that these people lived near their own territory. ¹⁷ On hearing this, the Israelites set out and entered their cities: Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth and Kiriath-jearim. ¹⁸ They spared their lives because of what the leaders of the people had sworn to them by the name of Yahweh. ¹⁹ But all the people criticized their leaders. Then all the leaders said to them: "We have sworn by the name of Yahweh, therefore, we cannot kill them. ²⁰ But this we can do: we shall let them live so that the anger of Yahweh may not be upon us, ²¹ but they shall serve by cutting firewood and fetching water at the service of the community of Israel."

²² Then Joshua summoned the Gibeonites and told them about the decision of the leaders: "Why have you deceived us and said to us that you come from very far when in fact, you live right in our midst? ²³ Henceforth, you are cursed and shall always cut wood and fetch water for the House of my God." ²⁴ The Gibeonites answered: "We came to know that Yahweh had commanded Moses to destroy all the inhabitants of the land he gave you. We were afraid so we opted for this measure. ²⁵ And now, we are in your hands: do with us whatever seems good and just to you."

²⁶ Joshua fulfilled his promise and did not let the Israelites kill them. ²⁷ But from that day on, they cut firewood and fetched water for the whole community and for the altar of Yahweh in the place he would choose.

"The sun stood still"

10 ¹ Adonizedek king of Jerusalem came to know how Joshua had conquered and levelled Ai, doing to it and its king what he had done to Jericho and its king. He also knew how the Gibeonites had made peace with the Israelites and were living in their midst. ² He feared greatly for Gibeon was a very important city, a royal city greater than Ai and its men were very brave.

◆ The sun of Gibeon has caused enough worry to those who take everything they read in the Bible literally.

Some thought that at that moment the sun stood still in the sky. Later, when people learned that it is the earth that revolves around the sun, they thought the earth must have stopped turning. But this explanation is not acceptable either: for, had the earth suddenly stood still, the resulting momentum would have caused total destruction. Therefore, we have to remark that the Bible is citing in this case poetic literature, the "Book of the Just," and that the poets are talking with their imagination and not in the manner of historians or scientists. Hence, they may have wanted to say that it was a great day.

¹¹ As they were fleeing, Yahweh rained large hail stones on them and pursued them up to Azekah, and they were killed. There were more who died because of the hailstones than by the sword of the Israelites.

¹² On that day when Yahweh gave the Amorites over to them, Joshua addressed Yahweh and said in the sight of all Israel:

"Sun, stand still at Gibeon, and you, moon, in the valley of Ajalon."

¹³ And the sun stood still and the moon stopped until the people had taken revenge on their enemies; so it is written in the Book of the Lord. "The sun stood still in mid-heaven and did not hasten to set for almost a whole day. There has not been a day like this before or after in which Yahweh obeyed the order of a man. It was Yahweh who fought for Israel."

¹⁴ Then Joshua and all Israel returned to their camp at Gilgal.

¹⁹ Joshua and the Israelites destroyed and wiped them off. Only a few survivors were left who took refuge in the fortified cities while all Israel returned unscathed to the camp with Joshua. Henceforth, no one dared challenge them.

²⁰ Then Joshua ordered: "Open the entrance of the cave, take the five kings out and bring them to me." ²¹ They did this and brought the five kings before Joshua: the kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Lachish, Jarmuth and Eglon. ²² Joshua assembled all Israel and said to the captains of the troops: "Come here and wipe out on the necks of these kings."

So they came near and put their feet on the necks of the kings.

²³ Then Joshua said to them: "Do not be afraid or lose courage, be valiant and firm, for Yahweh will do so to all your enemies against whom you will fight."

²⁴ Joshua immediately put them to death by hanging them on five trees until evening.

²⁵ At nightfall, they took down the bodies of the kings and threw them into the same cave where they had hidden and closed it with great stones which remain there to this day.

Joshua conquers the southern part of Canaan

²⁶ On that same day Joshua seized Makdesh. He slew its king and its inhabitants. And he consecrated it and all that was in it in anathema to Yahweh, without sparing anyone. The king suffered the same fate as did the King of Jericho.

²⁷ Then Joshua and all Israel went to attack Libnah. ²⁸ Yahweh gave the city and its king to the Israelites, and they put to the sword all its inhabitants without sparing anyone. The king met the same fate as the king of Jericho.

²⁹ From Libnah Joshua went to Lachish, laid siege to it and attacked it. ³⁰ Yahweh also gave them this city and its king and inhabitants suffered the same fate as Libnah. ³¹ Then Hiram king of Gezer came to help Lachish but Joshua destroyed him together with all his people without leaving anyone alive.

³² From Lachish he then went to Eglon; he besieged it and conquered it on the same day.

³³ The king and the inhabitants of Eglon were also put to death by the sword. They consecrated the city in anathema as they did to Lachish.

³⁴ From Eglon they went to Hebron. Joshua conquered it together with ³⁵ all the towns which were subject to it, put to the sword its king and all its inhabitants, without letting anyone survive. He consecrated it in anathema as he had dealt with Eglon.

³⁶ Joshua and all Israel with him turned back to Debir and attacked it. He took it as well as the towns subject to it. ³⁷ He put to the sword its king and inhabitants, consecrating them in anathema, without sparing anyone. Debir and its king received the same punishment as Hebron and Libnah.

³⁸ In this way, Joshua conquered the whole region of the Mountains, the Negeb Desert, the Plains and the mountain slopes with their kings.

He did not let anyone survive but consecrated all living beings in anathema according to what Yahweh had commanded. ³⁹ Joshua destroyed them all from Kadesh-barnea to o In chapter 11, Joshua's campaign in the north of Palestine is described. There he captured Hazor which, with its 40,000 inhabitants, could be called a big city. We are given the impression that he conquered the entire country. Yet, chapters 13-19 show that each tribe had to conquer its section of the land in a series of individual operations.

Gaza and from Goshen to Gibeon. ⁴² Joshua defeated all these kings and seized all these lands in one single campaign because Yahweh fought for Israel.

⁴³ Then he and all Israel returned to their camp at Gilgal.

Conquest of the North

o11 ¹ When Jabin king of Hazor came to know all this, he sent ambassadors to Jobab king of Madon, to the king of Shimron, to the king of Achshaph, ² to the kings in the northern mountains, on the steppes to the south of Chinneroth in the plains, and in the heights of Dor on the west, ³ to the Canaanites in the east and the west, to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites and Jebusites in the mountains, and the Hivites at the foot of Mount Hermon in the region of Mizpah. ⁴ And they set out with their troops, a multitude as numerous as the sand of the sea, accompanied by a great number of horses and chariots ready for combat. ⁵ All these kings joined forces and encamped together at the spring of Merom to attack Israel.

⁶ Then Yahweh said to Joshua: "Do not be afraid, for tomorrow at this hour I will give them to you that you may sacrifice them to me. Cut the hocks of their horses and burn their chariots of war."

⁷ So Joshua and all the armed men with him went to Merom and attacked them by surprise. ⁸ Yahweh gave them into the hand of Israel; the Israelites destroyed and pursued them as far as Great Sidon and Misrephoth-maim and as far as Mizpah to the east, without leaving anyone alive. ⁹ Joshua also carried out what Yahweh had commanded – cutting the hocks of the horses and burning the chariots.

¹¹ He put to the sword all the inhabitants of that city, consecrating it in anathema. No one was left alive, and they immediately set the city on fire.

¹³ Israel set on fire all the cities except those lying on the slopes and on the heights; of these only Hazor was burned by Joshua.

¹⁴ The Israelites divided among themselves the plunder and the livestock of these cities, but they put to the sword the whole population without sparing anyone. ¹⁵ So what Yahweh had commanded Moses, and what Moses had entrusted to Joshua was completely fulfilled: Joshua did not neglect anything of what Yahweh had commanded Moses.

¹⁶ So Joshua conquered all this land: the mountains, the Negeb, Goshen, the plains, the steppes, and the mountains of Israel with its plains. ¹⁷ From the region of the mountain range that rises up to Seir, as far as Baalad in the valley of Lebanon, to the foot of Mount Hermon, he destroyed all their kings – vanquishing and killing them.

¹⁸ The war Joshua waged against these kings lasted a long time; ¹⁹ there was no city that made peace with the Israelites except the Hivites of Gibeon; all were conquered.

²¹ At that time, Joshua attacked and wiped out the Anakim from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab and from all the mountains of Judah and Israel. They and their cities were given in anathema.

12 ¹ These are the kings of the country whom the Israelites defeated, taking their land beyond the Jordan eastward, from the valley of Arnon to Mount Hermon, including all the lowland.

¹⁰ King of Jerusalem, King of Hebron.

¹¹ King of Jarmuth, King of Lachish.

¹² King of Eglon, King of Gezer.

¹³ King of Debir, King of Geder.

¹⁴ King of Hormah, King of Arad.

¹⁵ King of Libnah, King of Adullam.

¹⁶ King of Makkedah, King of Bethel.

¹⁷ King of Tappuah, King of Hopher.

¹⁸ King of Aphek, King of Sharon.

¹⁹ King of Madon, King of Hazor.

²⁰ King of Symeon, King of Achshaph.

²¹ King of Taanach, King of Megiddo.

²² King of Kedesh, King of Jokneam in Carmel.

²³ King of Dor on the hillsides of Dor. King of Goyim in Galilee, ²⁴ and King of Tirzah.

Total number of all these kings: thirty-one.

II. DIVISION OF THE LAND AMONG THE TRIBES

Joshua divides the country of Canaan

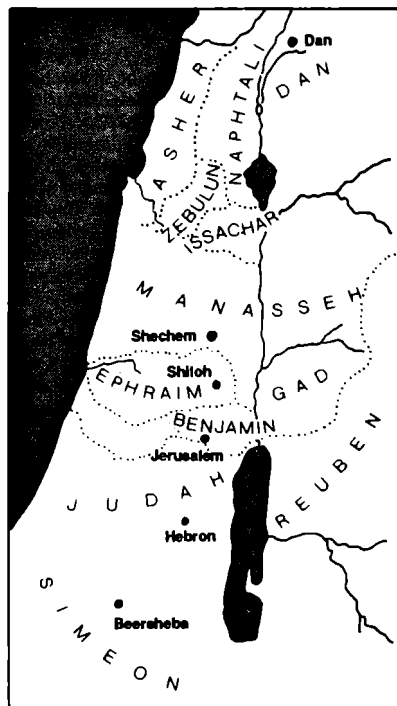

+13 ¹ Now Joshua had grown old and advanced in years. Yahweh said to him, "You are old now, yet much of the land is still unconquered, including:

² All the territory of the Philistines and the Geshurites. ³ All the land from the river east of Egypt, to the boundary of Ekron in the north that is considered Canaanite territory. (The five chief towns of the Philistines: Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath and Ekron; the Avvites also in the south.)

⁷ I myself will drive them all out before the Israelites. In the meantime, share out the land among the Israelites by drawing lots as I have commanded you. ⁸ The time has come to divide this land among the nine tribes and half the tribe of Manasseb: from the Jordan River to the Mediterranean Sea westward you shall give it to them; the Mediterranean will mark their boundary."

⁹ As for the other half tribe of Manasseh, they and the tribes of Reuben and Gad had already received the land given them by Moses

+ Joshua apportions the promised land among the twelve tribes.

Different peoples left together, as we read in Ex 12:38. In Palestine, others joined them (See Joshua 8:33). They did not belong to one race nor were they a closely-knit group; and they were certainly not yet an organized nation. Nevertheless, they were already a group of twelve on the east side of the Jordan River. Moses the servant of Yahweh had given them ⁹ the land as far as Aroer, which lies on the edge of the Arnon valley, with the city in the middle of that valley and all the high, flat land from Medeba to Dibon. ¹⁰ All the towns of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had reigned in Heshbon, were included, as far as the boundary of the Ammonites. ¹¹ Gilead and the territory of the Geshurites and Maacathites with all the highlands of Hermon and with the whole of Bashan as far as Salecah. ¹² In Bashan the whole kingdom of Og, who reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei and was the last survivor of the Rephaim. Moses had conquered these people and driven them out. ¹³ But the Israelites did not drive out the Geshurites or the Maacathites, and therefore Geshur and Maacah still live in the midst of Israel to this day.

¹⁴ To the tribe of Levi alone no land was given; Yahweh the God of Israel was their inheritance, as he had told them.

Land given to Reuben, Gad and Manasseh

¹⁵ Moses had given the tribe of Reuben a part of the land according to their clans. ¹⁶ The land they receive stretched from Aroer, on the edge of the Arnon Valley, including the town within the valley itself, and all the high, flat land up to Medeba, ¹⁷ and Heshbon and all the towns on the high, flat land: Dibon, Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon, ¹⁸ Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath, ¹⁹ Kiriathaim, Sibmah and Zereth-shahar in the highlands of Gôr; ²⁰ Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, Beth-jeshimoth. ²¹ All these towns and the whole kingdom of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon; he had been defeated by Moses, and with him the princes of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur,

Hur, and Reba, who had ruled the land for King Sihon who used to live in this country. ²² As for Balaam son of Beor, the seer, the Israelites had put him to the sword with others they had killed. ²³ Thus the land of the Reubenites stretched to the Jordan River. This was the inheritance of the tribe of Reuben according to their clans, with the towns and their outlying villages.

³² This was how Moses divided the land when he was in the plains of Moab, beyond the Jordan east of Jericho. ³³ But to the tribe of Levi, Moses had given no land; Yahweh the God of Israel is their inheritance, as he has told them.

tribes of unequal strength. Two of these tribes assumed a predominant role: Ephraim up north, and Judah down south.

Among nomads such as these, the members of each tribe claimed to be all descendants of the founder of their tribe, a prestigious man of the past whose name they bore. Inasmuch as the Israelites considered themselves descendants of Jacob-Israel, each of the twelve tribes considered itself as descending from one of the sons of their ancestor, Jacob, from whom they had received their name.

In reality, these were thirteen tribes in all and not twelve. A comparison of the list of Jacob's children in Gen 35:23 with that of the twelve tribes listed in the present book. The list shows agreement in the following names: Reuben, Simeon, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, Dan, Naphtali, Gad, Asher and Benjamin.

But the "sons of Joseph" formed two tribes. Ephraim and Manasseh (Joshua 16:4). So including the tribe of Levi, they reached to thirteen. But this last tribe was formed by families traditionally dedicated to religious cult and they did not have their own territory (Joshua 21:10). In this way the number twelve will be restored when Joshua divides the land.

They apportioned the land by casting lots. In this manner a lesson is imparted that the Promised Land is a gift from God (Psalm 16 uses the same imagery). Each tribe receives a portion which they did not choose and which they must now conquer in order to own. Each of us has received from God his share in life. He has to accept his share in the same way as the tribes accepted their "share of their inheritance." Then we must achieve our destiny with courage and confidence in God just as they did.

14 ¹The land of Canaan was divided among the Israelites by Eleazar the priest and by Joshua son of Nun and by the heads of the families of the tribes of Israel. They divided the land by drawing lots as Yahweh had commanded through Moses for nine. ²(Remember that Moses had given the two and a half tribes beyond the Jordan their own property; to the Levites, he had given no land, ³but the sons of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim.) The Levites were given no share of the land except certain towns to live in, with pasture lands nearby for their cattle and property. ⁴In dividing the land, the Israelites did as Yahweh had commanded Moses to do.

and given to Caleb

⁵When the sons of Judah came to Joshua Gilgal, Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, said to him, "You know what Yahweh said to Moses, the man of God, at Kadesh-barnea concerning you and me. ⁶I was forty years old when Moses, the servant of Yahweh, sent me from Kadesh-barnea to spy on this land, and I made an honest report about it to him. ⁷But the men who had gone with me discouraged the people, whereas I myself faithfully obeyed Yahweh my God. ⁸That day Moses made this promise to me, 'Because you have obeyed Yahweh my God, the land you set your foot upon shall be the land which you and your children will own forever.' From then till now, Yahweh has kept me alive in accordance with his promise. It is forty-five years since Yahweh made this promise to Moses (Israel was then journeying through the wilderness), and now I am eighty-five years old. ⁹Today I am still as strong as the day when Moses sent me out on the raid; ¹⁰whether fighting, for going and coming, I am as strong now as then. ¹¹Give me then the highlands that Yahweh promised me. You know that there are a race of giants called the Anakim and its towns are great and strong. But if Yahweh is with me, I shall drive them out as Yahweh said."

¹²Joshua blessed Caleb, son of Jephunneh, and gave him the city of Hebron as an inheritance. ¹³And hence Hebron down to the present day belongs to the descendants of Caleb son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, because he obeyed Yahweh the God of Israel. ¹⁴The name of Hebron in earlier times was Kiriath-arba. Arba had been the greatest man of the Anakim.

And the country had rest from war.

Boundaries of the tribe of Judah

15 ¹The land given to the tribe of Judah according to their clans was near the border of Edom from the wilderness of Zin to Kadesh southwestward. ²Their southern border began at the end of the Dead Sea; ³it went south from the Ascent of Akrabbim and crossed through Zin. It went south of Kadesh-barnea, passed Hezron, went up to Addar and from there turned toward Karka. ⁴Skirting Azmon, came out at the stream on the border of Egypt and ended at the Mediterranean.

⁵On the east, the border was formed by the Dead Sea as far as the mouth of the Jordan.

¹²The western border was the Big Sea itself. This was the border that enclosed the lands given to the clans of the tribe of Judah.

¹³Caleb son of Jephunneh was given part of the territory of Judah, as Yahweh had commanded Joshua to do. Joshua gave him Kiriath-arba, the chief city of the Anakim, which is now Hebron. ¹⁴Caleb drove the descendants of Anak out of it; the clans of Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmi. ¹⁵From there he marched up to attack the people living in Debir, the name of which was once Kiriath-sepher. ¹⁶Then Caleb said, "To the man who conquers and captures Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah as wife." ¹⁷Othniel, son of Kenaz, Caleb's brother conquered the city; Caleb gave him his daughter Achsah in marriage.¹⁸ When she came to her husband, he urged her to ask her father for a field. When she jumped down from her donkey, Caleb asked her, "What do you want?"¹⁹ She answered, "Grant me a favor; since you have sent me away to the wilderness of the Negeb, at least grant me some springs of water." So he gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

List of the cities of Judah

²⁰ This was the land given to the tribe of Judah according to their clans.

²¹ These are the furthestmost towns of the tribe of Judah, toward the boundary of Edom in the Negeb: Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur,²² Kinah, Dimon, Adadah,²³ Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan,²⁴ Ziph, Telem, Be-aloth,²⁵ Hazor-hadattah, Keriath-hezron (that is to say, Hazor),²⁶ Amam, Shema, Moladah,²⁷ Hazar-gad-dah, Heshmon, Beth-pelet,²⁸ Hazar-shual, Beer-sheba, Biziothiah,²⁹ Baalah, Iim, Ezem,³⁰ Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah,³¹ Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah,³² Lebaoth, Shilhim, En-rimmon. In all, twenty-nine towns, with their outlying villages.³³ In the lowlands there were fourteen towns with their villages: Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah,³⁴ Zanoah, Engannim, Tappuah, Enam,³⁵ Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah,³⁶ Shaaraim, Adithaim, Gederah.

⁴⁵ Ekron with its towns and villages near Ashdod.

⁴⁶ From Ekron to the sea,⁴⁷ Ashdod and Gaza with their towns and villages as far as the stream on the border of Egypt and the Mediterranean Sea.

⁵⁵ Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttaah,⁵⁶ Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah,⁵⁷ Kain, Gibeah, Timnah – ten towns with their villages.

⁵⁸ Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor,⁵⁹ Maarath,

Beth-anoth, Eltekon – six towns with their villages.

Tekoa, Ephrathah, which is now Bethlehem, Peor, Etam, Kulon, Tatam, Sores, Carem, Gallim, Bether, Manach – eleven towns with their villages.

⁶⁰ Kiriath-baal, which is now Kiriath-jearim, and Rabbah – two towns with their villages.

⁶¹ In the wilderness: Beth-arabah, Middin, Secacah,⁶² Nibshan, the City of Salt and Engedi – six towns with their villages.

⁶³ But the people of Judah could not drive out the Jebusites who lived in Jerusalem; the Jebusites lived there side by side with the sons of Judah, as they still do today.

The tribe of Ephraim

16 ¹ The land given by lot to the descendants of Joseph stretched from the Jordan opposite Jericho eastward. From Jericho onward the southern border climbed the highlands into the hill country as far as Bethel;² it left Bethel and Luz and went on toward the border of the Archites of Ataroth;³ then it went westward to the area of the Japhletites as far as the area of Lower Beth-horon. From there it went to Gezer, and reached the Mediterranean Sea.⁴ The tribes of Manasseh and Ephraim, descendants of Joseph, divided this inheritance among themselves.

⁵ The border of the tribe of Ephraim ran from Ataroth-addar as far as Upper Beth-horon,⁶ and it ended at the Mediterranean Sea. Michmethath was to the north. From there the border turned east towards Tanaath-shiloh and ran beyond it on the east to Janoah.⁷ Then it went down from Janoah to Ataroth and Naarah, touched Jericho and ended at the Jordan.⁸ From Tappuah the border went westward to the stream Kanah and ended at the Mediterranean Sea. This was the land given to the tribe of Ephraim according to their clans,⁹ as well as the towns set apart for the Ephraimites inside the territory of the descendants of Manasseh, all those towns and their villages.¹⁰ The Canaanites living in Gezer were not driven out; they have lived among the Ephraimites to the present day, but are submitted to obligatory works.

The tribe of Manasseh

17 ¹ A part of the land awarded to Manasseh, who was Joseph's firstborn son, was given to Machir, Manasseh's eldest son and father of Gilead. To him was given, as was fitting for a military hero, the country of Gilead and Bashan.² Land was also given to other families descended from Manasseh according to their clans: the families of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hepher, Shemida. These were the clans of the male descendants of Manasseh son of Joseph.

³ Zelophehad son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, only daughters, whose names are: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. ⁴ These daughters went to the priest Eleazar and to Joshua the son of Nun and to the leaders, and said, "Yahweh commanded Moses to give us some of the land among our brothers as our own." According to Yahweh's command, therefore, they were given land along with their male relatives.

¹⁴ The descendants of Joseph spoke to Joshua, "Why have you given us only one share of the land when there are so many of us because Yahweh blessed us?" ¹⁵ Joshua answered, "If your people are so many, go up to the forest and clear out a place for yourselves in the land of the Perizzites and the Rephaim, since the highlands of Ephraim are too small for you." ¹⁶ The descendants of Joseph answered, "The highlands are not enough for us, and, in the plain, the Canaanites have iron chariots, and so have those in Beth-shean and its surrounding towns, and those in the plain of Jezreel." ¹⁷ Joshua said to the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, "You are a numerous people and very powerful; you will not be left with only this share ¹⁸ for you will go up to the forest and clear it. All the land shall be yours, and you will drive out the Canaanites despite their iron chariots and great strength."

Joshua divides the rest of the land

18 ¹ After they had conquered the land, the whole community of Israel gathered at Shiloh, and the Tent of Meeting was set up there.

² Among the Israelites were seven tribes which had not yet been given their share of the land. ³ Then Joshua said to them, "How much longer will you wait before going in and taking possession of the land which Yahweh, the God of your fathers has given you? ⁴ Choose three men from each tribe. I will send them out to make a survey of the whole territory so that it can be divided. ⁵ They must divide the land into seven parts, because those of the tribe of Judah have already their territory to the south, and those of the tribe of Joseph have their territory to the north. ⁶ You are to survey the land in seven divisions and bring your findings to me here, so that I can cast lots for you before Yahweh our God. ⁷ The Levites have no share in the land with the rest of you; their share is to serve as priests of Yahweh and the tribes of Gad and Reuben and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their land beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses, Yahweh's servant, gave it to them."

⁸ To those who were to survey the country, Joshua gave this command before they started on their way: "Go, survey and map the whole country, and then come back to me. Here in Shiloh I will consult Yahweh for you by drawing lots." ⁹ So the men left and went all over the country, making a list of all the towns and how they were to be divided into seven parts. When they brought it back to Joshua in the camp at Shiloh, ¹⁰ he drew lots to consult Yahweh for them and divided the land among the Israelites according to their clans.

The tribe of Benjamin

¹ The first share of land went to the tribe of Benjamin according to their clans: their territory lay between that of the tribes of Judah and Joseph.

¹² The northern border began at the Jordan, climbed to the northern side of Jericho, rose through the hill country westward and ended at the wilderness of Beth-aven. ¹³ From there it continued toward the south side of Luz which is now called Bethel; then downward to Ata-roth-addar, on the mountain south of Lower Beth-horon. ¹⁴ The border then curved, and on the western side of this mountain turned southward and ended at Kiriath-baal, which is now called Kiriath-jearim, a city of the tribe of Judah. This was the western border.

¹⁵ The southern border ran from the edge of Kiriath-jearim toward Gasin, and to the spring of Nephtoa. ¹⁶ It continued to the foot of the mountain facing the Valley of Ben-hinnom, at the north end of Rephaim Valley. It then went south through the Valley of Hinnom, south of the mountainside of the Jebusites and reached En-rogel. ¹⁷ It then curved northward to En-shemesh coming out at the circles of stones facing the Ascent of Adumim, ¹⁸ then on to Cheteph in sight of the Arabah and down to the Arabah and ¹⁹ the stone of Bohan (Bohan was a son of Reuben) and from there passed north of the mountainside overlooking the Jordan Valley. The border ended at the bay of the Dead Sea, at the mouth of the Jordan. This was the southern border. ²⁰ The Jordan itself was the eastern border. Such was the land given to the tribe of Benjamin, with the borders defining it.

²¹ The towns of the tribe of Benjamin, according to their clans, were Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz; ²² Beth-arabah, Zemaram, Bethel; ²³ Avvim, Parah, Ophrah, ²⁴ Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, Geba: twelve towns and their surrounding villages. ²⁵ Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth; ²⁶ Mizpeh, Chephirah, Moza; ²⁷ Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah; ²⁸ Zela, Haeleph, Jerusalem, Gibeah and Kiriath: fourteen towns with their surrounding villages. This was the land given to the tribe of Benjamin, according to their clans.

The share of the other tribes

19 ¹ The second share of land went to the tribe of Simeon, according to their clans; their land was encircled by the land of the tribe of Judah. ² For they had Beer-sheba, Shema, Moladah; ³ Hazarshual, Balah, Ezem; ⁴ Eltolad, Bethul, Ezem; ⁴ Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah; ⁵ Ziglag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah; ⁶ Beth-lebaath and Sharuhin – thirteen towns and their surrounding villages; ⁷ Ain, Rimmon, Ether and Ashan – four towns and their surrounding villages. ⁸ Moreover, they were given all the villages lying outside these towns as far as Baalath-beer, Ramah of the Negeb. This was the land given to the tribe of Simeon according to their clans.

¹⁰ The third share of land went to the tribe of Zebulun according to their clans; their border reached as far as Sarid. ¹¹ From there the border climbed westward to Maraalah, touching Dabbesheth first and then the stream east of Jokneam. ¹² From Sarid it went eastward toward the sunrise to the border of Chisloth-tabor, then to Dobrath and to Japhia. ¹³ From there it continued eastward to Gathhepher and Ittah-kazin; it came out at Rimmon and turned toward Neah. ¹⁴ On the north the border bent toward Hannathon and ended at the valley of Iphtahel. ¹⁵ It included Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Iralah and Bethlehem – twelve towns with their surrounding villages. ¹⁶ This was the land received by the tribe of Zebulun according to their clans; these towns and their surrounding villages.

³² The sixth share of land went to the tribe of Naphtali according to their clans. ³³ Their border went from Heleph and the Oak of Zanaannim to Adami-negeb, to Jabneel as far as Lakkum, and ended at the Jordan. ³⁴ From there the border ran west to Aznoth-tabor and went on to Hukkok, touching Zebulun on the south, Asher on the west and the Jordan on the east. ³⁵ The fortified towns were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth. ³⁶ Adamah, Ramah, Hazor. ³⁷ Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor; ³⁸ Yiron, Migdalel, Horem, Beth-anath, Beth-shemesh: nineteen towns with their surrounding villages. ³⁹ This was the land given to the tribe of Naphtali according to their clans.

⁴⁷ But the territory of the tribe of Dan was too small for them; and therefore they went up and attacked Leshem and captured it and killed its people. Having seized the town they settled in it, and changed the name of Leshem to Dan after Dan their ancestor. ⁴⁸ This was the land of the tribe of Dan, according to their clans: these towns with their surrounding villages.

⁵¹ These are the shares of land which Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of each family divided among the tribes of Israel by drawing lots at Shiloh, in Yahweh's presence, at the door of the Tent of Meeting; and thus they finished dividing the land.

The cities of refuge

20 ¹ Yahweh said to Joshua, ² "Speak to the Israelites and say to them: Choose the cities of refuge about which I told you through Moses. ³ towns where a person who kills someone accidentally may find safety; they are to be your refuge from the dead person's relative who is looking for revenge.

⁴ The man who has killed may run away to one of these towns; he shall appear at the entrance to the town and explain his case to the elders of the place. They shall welcome him and assign him a place to live among them.

⁵ If the person who wants revenge follows him there, they are not to hand him over, since he has killed his neighbor accidentally and not out of hatred.

⁶ The man who has killed must remain in that town until he has received a public trial and until the death of the high priest then in office. Only then may the man who has killed go back to his own town and his own house, to the town from which he has escaped."

⁸ East of the Jordan, in the desert east of Jericho, they chose Bezer in the territory of Reuben, Ramoth-gilead in the territory of Gad, and Golan in Bashan in the territory of Manasseh. ⁹ These were the towns set aside for all the Israelites and for any foreigner living among them, where anyone who had killed a person accidentally could find safety from the dead person's relative looking for revenge, until he had been given a public trial.

The Levitical towns

21 ¹ The heads of families among the Levites came to Eleazar, the priest and to Joshua, son of Nun and the heads of families of all the tribes of Israel. ² At Shiloh in the land of Canaan, they said to them, "Yahweh commanded through Moses that we should be given towns to live in, with the pasture land around them for our cattle."

³ In accordance with Yahweh's command, the Israelites gave the Levites certain cities and pasture lands out of their own territories.

⁹ These are the towns of Judah and Simeon that Joshua gave ¹⁰ to the descendants of Aaron who were of the Kohathite clan of the Levites, the first to be given some cities.

³⁴ To the clans of Merari, the rest of the Levites, were given four towns with their pasture lands from the territory of Zebulun: ³⁵ Jokneam, Kartah, Rimmon and Nahalal. ³⁶ From the territory of Reuben, beyond the Jordan four towns: the city of refuge Bezer, Jahaz, ³⁷ Kedemoth and Mephaath, each with its pasture lands. ³⁸ From the tribe of Gad four towns: the city of refuge Ramoth-gilead, Mahanaim, ³⁹ Heshbon and Jazer, each with pasture lands. ⁴⁰ A total of twelve towns were given to the clan of Merari.

⁴¹ The towns thus given to the Levites from the Israelite inheritance were ⁴² forty-eight, with their pasture lands. All these towns, as well as the pasture land around them, were given to the Levites.

⁴³ So it was that Yahweh gave the Israelites all the land he had solemnly promised to give their ancestors. They took possession of it and began to live there. ⁴⁴ Yahweh gave them peace throughout their land just as he had promised their ancestors. Not one of their enemies was able to stand against them; Yahweh gave them victory over all their enemies ⁴⁵ and kept all the promises he had made to the people of Israel.

The question of the altar across the

Jordan

+ 22 ¹ Then Joshua summoned the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half tribe of Manasseh ² and said to them, ³ "You have observed all that Moses, the servant of Yahweh ordered you, and you have obeyed me constantly. You have never deserted your brothers over this long period of time; at every point you have obeyed the orders of Yahweh your God. ⁴ Now that Yahweh your God has granted your brothers the rest he promised; them, go back to your tents, to the land given into your possession by Moses the servant of Yahweh, beyond the Jordan.

⁵ But take care above all to keep the commandments of the Law which Moses, the servant of Yahweh gave you: love Yahweh your God, follow his paths always, keep his commandments, be faithful to him and serve him with all your heart and all your soul." ⁶ So Joshua blessed them and sent them away; they went home to their tents.

⁷ Moses had given territory in Bashan to one half of the tribe of Manasseh; because of this Joshua gave land to the other half of Manasseh among their brothers on the west bank of the Jordan. As Joshua sent them home to their tents he blessed them ⁸ and said to them, "You are going back to your tents with

+ At the time of Joshua, the Israelites had several places of worship. When this book was edited centuries later, it was no longer allowed to offer sacrifices in any place other than the Temple of Jerusalem. This present chapter was written to justify and excuse those who, in the past, had multiplied the sacred places. At the same time, it was meant to impart the following lesson: Israel must safeguard its religious unity.

great wealth, with cattle in plenty, with silver and gold, bronze and iron and great quantities of clothing; these are the spoils of your enemies that you shared with your brothers."

¹² At this news the children of Israel summoned the whole community at Shiloh, ready to make war on them.

¹⁶ "The whole community of Yahweh asks you: what do you mean by this treachery committed against the God of Israel? Why turn aside from Yahweh today, building yourselves an altar? You are sinning against Yahweh himself."

¹⁷ Was the sin at Peor not enough, the sin from which we are not cleansed even now, in spite of the plague that ravaged the whole community of Yahweh? ¹⁸ You have stopped following Yahweh today, and you have set yourselves in revolt against him today. Tomorrow his anger will be roused against the whole community of Israel.

¹⁹ Do you think your land is unclean? Then cross over into the territory of Yahweh, where his Holy Tent is and come to live among us. But do not rebel against Yahweh or set yourselves aside by building an altar to vie with the altar of Yahweh our God. ²⁰ When Achan, son of Zerah betrayed his trust in the matter of the anathema, did not Yahweh vent his anger on the whole community of Israel, although he was only one man? Did he not have to die for his sin?"

²² "Yahweh is the God of gods! Yahweh well knows, and let Israel know it too: Let Yahweh punish us immediately if there has been defiance or treachery on our part against Yahweh. ²³ Let Yahweh punish us if we have built an altar to turn away from Yahweh and offer holocaust and oblation and communion sacrifice on it. ²⁴ We made it to prevent what might happen one day when your children say to ours: 'What link have you with Yahweh the God of Israel?' ²⁵ Has not Yahweh set the boundary of the Jordan between us and you, you sons of Reuben and sons of Gad? You have no share in Yahweh.' Thus your children might make us turn aside from Yahweh."

³⁰ When Phinehas the priest; and the leaders of the community who were with him heard the answer of the sons of Gad and of Reuben and of Manasseh, they approved of them. ³¹ Then the priest Phinehas son of Eleazar said to the sons of Reuben and sons of Gad and sons of Manasseh, "Now we clearly see that Yahweh is among us, because you have not sinned against him; you have saved the children of Israel from the punishment of Yahweh."

³² The priest Phinehas son of Eleazar and the leaders left the Reubenites and the Gadites and returned from the land of Gilead to the land of Canaan, and they brought back this answer to the Israelites. ³³ The Israelites were pleased to hear this; they gave thanks to God and spoke no more of making war and ravaging the country where the sons of Reuben and of Gad had settled. ³⁴ The Reubenites and the Gadites named the altar: 'Witness.' "Because," they said, "it will be a witness between us that Yahweh is God."

Joshua's last discourse

23 ¹ It had been a long time since Yahweh gave peace to Israel in all its borders. ² Joshua who was now very old and burdened with age, summoned all Israel – their elders, leaders, secretaries and judges – and he said to them: "I am now very old. ³ You have seen all that Yahweh had done to all these nations for your sake and how he himself had fought for you. ⁴ See, I have distributed to you the territory of all these nations that we destroyed from the Jordan to the Great Sea, as well as those nations that still remain. ⁵ Yahweh, our God, will continue driving them back before you and will deprive them of their lands that you may take them as Yahweh has promised you."

¹² But if you separate from him and be one with the rest of these nations that still remain among you, if they come to be your relatives and you intermarry with them, ¹³ know very well that Yahweh shall no longer drive out these nations before you, but they shall be a snare and a trap for you, a scourge on your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until you perish from this beautiful land Yahweh, our God, has given you.

them has failed. ¹⁵ But just as all these promises of Yahweh in your favor have been fulfilled, so shall Yahweh bring all the evil he has threatened against you until you have been wiped out from this magnificent land he has given you, ¹⁶ if you break the covenant that Yahweh, our God, has given us. If you follow and serve other gods and bow before them, the wrath of Yahweh shall rise against you, and you shall suddenly perish from this fertile land he has given you."

The Covenant renewed at Shechem

♦24 ¹ Joshua summoned all the tribes of Israel in Shechem, and assembled the elders, leaders, judges and secretaries. And together they presented themselves before God.

² Addressing the people Joshua said to them: "Yahweh, the God of Israel, commands me to say to you: Your ancestors lived beyond the Euphrates River – Terah the father of Abraham and Nahor – serving other gods. ³ But I brought Abraham your father from beyond the Euphrates and led him through the whole land of Canaan. Then I gave him a son Isaac, that he might have numerous descendants. ⁴ And to Isaac, I gave two sons: Esau and Jacob. Esau received the mountains of Seir as his inheritance, while Jacob and his sons went down to Egypt.

⁵ Then I sent Moses and Aaron to punish Egypt in the way that you know, that you might leave. ⁶ Then I brought your fathers out of Egypt and you came to the sea. The Egyptians pursued you with chariots and horses as far as the Red Sea. ⁷ Then you cried to Yahweh, and he put immense darkness between you and the Egyptians. He made the sea go back on them and they were drowned. You have witnessed all the things he did in Egypt, and then you lived in the desert for a long time. ⁸ Then I brought you to the land of the Amorites who were on the east of the Jordan. You fought them but it was I who gave them into your hand; you destroyed them and you seized their lands.

♦ By the time Joshua will disappear, the presence of Israel in the hills and plains of Palestine will be well-established. They had asserted themselves by either peaceful infiltration or conquest. What is even more important, they were aware of their common destiny.

The twelve tribes gather together in Shechem, in Central Palestine, where the tribes of Joseph are established, stronger and more assiduously keeping the memory of Moses. Here the Covenant celebrated by Moses is renewed

(See Ex 24 and last chapters of Deuteronomy.)

After recalling the interventions made by Yahweh in favour of Israel, Joshua invites the assembly to choose Yahweh and to reject foreign gods. The law of the Covenant is committed to writing.

Remembrance of the Covenant of Shechem will keep alive the aspiration for unity and fidelity to Yahweh during those dark moments after Joshua's death, that is, during the period of the Judges.

⁹ Balak, the son of Zippor, king of Moab, declared war on Israel and commanded Balaam son of Beor to curse you.¹⁰ But I would not listen to him, so Balaam blessed you and I saved you from the hands of Balak.

¹¹ Then you crossed the Jordan and came to Jericho. And the landlords of Jericho fought against you: the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hittites, Girgashites, Hivites and Jebusites declared war on you, but I gave them to you.¹² The two Amorite kings fled from you because of the swarm of hornets that attacked them and not because of your sword and bow.

¹³ I gave you the lands which you have not filled, cities which you did not build but in which you now live. I gave you vineyards and olive groves which you did not plant but from which you now eat.

¹⁴ So fear Yahweh, and be sincere and faithful in serving him. Set aside those gods your fathers worshipped in Mesopotamia and Egypt. Serve only Yahweh.¹⁵ But if you do not want to serve Yahweh, make known this very day whom you shall serve – whether they be the gods your fathers served in Mesopotamia or the gods of the Amorites who formerly occupied the land in which you now live. As for me, I and my household will serve Yahweh."

¹⁶ The people answered: "May God not permit that we ever abandon Yahweh to serve other gods!¹⁷ For it was he who brought us and our fathers out of Egypt, the house of slavery. It was he who did those great wonders that we have seen: he protected us all on the way and through all the land where we passed,¹⁸ driving away before us all the nations especially the Amorites who lived in this land. So we shall also serve Yahweh: he is our God!"

¹⁹ Joshua asked the people: "Will you be able to serve Yahweh? He is a Holy God, a Jealous God who does not tolerate wickedness or faults.²⁰ If you abandon Yahweh to serve other gods, he will turn against you and just as he has done you so much good so shall he punish you and destroy you."²¹ The people replied: "No, may it not be as you say. We will serve Yahweh."²² Joshua said: "You yourselves are witnesses that you have chosen Yahweh to serve him." They answered: "We are witnesses."

²³ Joshua then said, "Remove now from your midst any other gods and serve with all your heart Yahweh, the God of Israel."²⁴ The people answered: "We will serve Yahweh, our God, and obey his commands."

²⁵ On that day at Shechem, Joshua made a covenant with the people and fixed laws and ordinances.²⁶ He also wrote down everything expressed in the book of the Law of God; he chose a great stone and put it under the oak tree in the sacred place of Yahweh.²⁷ Then Joshua said to the people: "This stone shall be a witness to all that Yahweh said to us, for it heard all these words. It shall be a witness against you, lest you deal falsely with Yahweh."

²⁸ Joshua immediately sent the people away and everyone returned to his land.

³³ Eleazar the son of Aaron also died and they buried him on the hill given to his son Phinehas on the mountains of Ephraim.

INTRODUCTION

After God's manifestation of himself to Moses on Sinai, the Book of Judges describes a world of lesser glory, where one must look closely to discover some glowing embers of what had been ignited. After the exceptional liberation of the Exodus, Judges teaches us that, in the present world, we can have no freedom apart from what we ourselves win. These teachings confirm our own experience. For though Christ brought us liberation, it still costs us much to sacrifice ourselves for something worthwhile. Likewise, even though our fathers won national independence for us, we still must struggle painfully for our right to exist.

At the start of the book, the Israelites have succeeded in occupying the poorest territories of Canaan and they look with envy at the rich plains where the pagans reside. Nevertheless settled in their encampments, they are turning into small farmers after centuries of following their flocks through pasture lands. This signifies a profound social transformation and, as happens in times of rapid change, a crisis in values of all sorts emerges.

The Book of Judges emphasizes first the temptation to idolatry. The Canaanite farmers had a very attractive religion which celebrated the forces of life and fecundity. They got together in rural festivities or in sacred forests, where they practised sacred prostitution rites while asking from their gods, the Baals, the blessings of rain and good harvests. It was difficult for the Israelites not to join their pagan neighbours in these celebrations..

Besides facing cultural and religious alienation, the Israelites were victimized by various oppressors and raiders who reduced them to misery.

THE SAVIOURS

In this situation, the Israelites, a people disorganized and divided into rival groups, followed chiefs who rose from the midst of the people. These chiefs were men from the countryside who sometimes won great victories (see chaps. 4-5)

They called these men Sofetim, a word that meant both chiefs and judges. Thus it happened that chiefs who never sat on a tribunal were called Judges. But perhaps the word "judges" should be understood in another sense: these men became instruments of God's justice.

The judges were not saints. Nevertheless, Israel recognized them as saviours that Yahweh, in his compassion, gave them. Indeed it was not a very religious thing to slay an enemy chief or to kill some Philistines. But, if we take into account the climate in which they lived, these men had shown courage and faith in the midst of much cowardice. In overcoming the passivity of their brothers they prepared for a new stage in their history.

The deeds of the Judges were joyfully recounted for many years and at times, transformed into legend. But, the writer who later combined all these stories in a single book found a unifying thread which threw light on delays in the conquest and on the stages of liberation. He noted this sequence of events:

o1 After the death of Joshua, the Israelites consulted Yahweh. "Who among us shall be the first to fight against the Canaanites?"² Yahweh answered: "The tribe of Judah shall go up first, and I will give the land into their hands."³ So the people of Judah said to their brothers from the tribe of Simeon, "Help us conquer the part of the land that is allotted to us, and then we will conquer with you the region that is yours." So they joined forces for the war.

⁸ The tribe of Judah attacked the city of Jerusalem, and after killing its inhabitants they burned the city. ⁹ Afterwards they went down from Jerusalem to attack the Canaanites who lived in the mountains, in the Negeb and in the plains. ¹⁰ They also attacked the Canaanites who were in Hebron (Hebron was also called Kiriath-arba at that time), and they defeated Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmi. ¹¹ From there they marched against the inhabitants of Debir, a city which was also called Kiriath-sepher. ¹² Then Caleb made this promise, "To the one who takes Kiriath-sepher, I will give my daughter Achsah as wife." ¹³ It was Othniel who took the city; he was the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, and Caleb gave him Achsah, his daughter, as wife.

¹⁴ When Achsah came to Othniel, she urged him to ask her father for a field. She delighted from her ass, and Caleb asked her, "What do you want?" ¹⁵ She answered, "What a gift this Negeb wilderness is! Give me also springs of water." And Caleb gave her the Upper Springs and the Lower Springs.

¹⁶ The descendants of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, also went up with the people of Judah from the city of palms to that part of the desert of Judah on the boundary of the Negeb near Arad, and they settled there with them.

²² The people of Joseph went up against Bethel with the help of Yahweh. ²³ They sent men out to spy in Bethel, formerly called Luz, ²⁴ and they met a man coming out of the city. They said to him, "Tell us how we can enter the city, and we will not kill you." ²⁵ He showed them the way. Then they entered and put the city to the sword, but set that man free together with his whole family. ²⁶ The man went to the land of the Hittites where he built a city which he named Luz which is its name to this day.

²⁷ However, the tribe of Manasseh did not drive out the people of Beth-shean and Taanach or the inhabitants of Dor, Ibleam and Megiddo. The Canaanites persisted in dwelling in these cities and in the towns that depended on them, and they kept their lands. ²⁸ But when the Israelites grew stronger, they exacted taxes from the Canaanites who stayed in their place. ²⁹ Neither did the tribe of Ephraim expel the Canaanites who lived in Gezer ³⁰ nor did the tribe of Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron and Nahalol. These

o The first chapter throws some light on the conquest. It was not as triumphal as it appears in the Book of Joshua, but slow and difficult. The Israelites did not obey the command to wipe out the pagans, though such a massacre would have protected their faith in the only God. On the contrary they had peaceful relations with them which set the stage for idolatry.

Compare verses 8 and 22: there is no certainty as to this data.

- The Israelites abandon Yahweh and fall into idolatry.
- Because of this, Yahweh delivers them into the hands of these enemies.
- The Israelites acknowledge their errors and call on Yahweh.
- Yahweh then raises up a saviour.

But once victory has been won, after a period of peace the people forsake their mission once again. In this present world, there is no definitive liberation.

Canaanites lived among them, but had to pay taxes to them.

¹¹ Those of Asher did not expel the people of Acco, Sidon, or those of Ahlab, or Achzib, Helbah, Aphik and Rehob.

¹⁴ The Amorites did not allow the descendants of Dan to come down to the plain, so the latter had to live in the mountains. ¹⁵ The Amorites also remained in Har-heres, Aijalon and Shaalbim, but when the tribe of Joseph grew stronger, they forced the Amorites to pay taxes. ¹⁶ The territory of the Amorites extended from the slope of Akkrabbim, and from Sela and upward.

+ 2 ¹ The Angel of Yahweh went up from Gilgal to Bochim where the Israelites were gathered, and he said to them, "I made you go up from Egypt and brought you to the land I had promised your fathers. I said to them, 'Never will I break my covenant with you,' ² but you shall not make any covenant with the Canaanites and shall destroy their altars." But you have not obeyed my command. Why did you not obey me? ³ Now, I will not drive out these nations before you. They shall be your oppressors and their gods shall be a trap for you."

⁶ When Joshua dismissed the Israelites, each one of them went to his inheritance to occupy the land. ⁷ The people served Yahweh during the lifetime of Joshua and of the leaders who outlived him, and who had witnessed all the great works of Yahweh for Israel. ⁸ Joshua, son of Nun, the servant of Moses, died at the age of hundred and ten years. ⁹ They buried him at the boundary of his inheritance in Timnath-heres, in the mountains of Ephraim, north of the mountain of Gaash. ¹⁰ That whole generation died and another one came, but they did not know Yahweh or what he had done for Israel.

Summary of the book: unfaithfulness and punishment

■ ¹¹ The Israelites treated Yahweh badly and they served the Baals instead. ¹² They abandoned Yahweh, the God of their fathers, who had brought them out of Egypt and served other gods, the gods of the neighbouring peoples. They bowed before those gods and offended Yahweh.

¹³ When Yahweh saw that they had abandoned him to serve Baal and Ashtaroth, ¹⁴ he got angry with his people, so he gave them into the hands of plunderers who left them in misery. He himself sold them to their enemies who completely surrounded the Israelites, so that these Israelites could no longer withstand them. ¹⁵ Whenever they felt strong for an offensive, Yahweh would turn against them and send evil upon them, as he had warned and sworn to them. And this caused much distress and anguish for the Israelites.

¹⁶ Yahweh raised up "judges" (or liberators) who saved the Israelites from their exploiters. ¹⁷ But neither did they obey those "judges" for they still prostituted themselves to other

+ The "Angel of Yahweh" goes up from Gilgal, the first Israelite sanctuary in Palestine beside the Jordan, to Bethel. We know that using the expression Angel of Yahweh is a way of naming Yahweh himself.

The sin consists in not having destroyed the culture and religion of the Canaanites. Let us think of these beginnings: the true faith is given to a few tribes who have neither chief nor organization, and who are surrounded by a more advanced but pagan culture. History teaches us that when a people changes its lifestyle, it also changes its form of religion.

Proof enough is seen in what happens today to a great part of humanity which passes from a rural, traditional civilization to an urban, industrial one. Many people are tempted to give up their religion and adopt a lifestyle where there is no room for the faith of their fathers.

Israel will go through several tests and disasters. Nevertheless, the miracle will be realized: faith in the only God will not be lost but proved.

gods and worshipped them. They soon left the way of their fathers who obeyed the commandments of Yahweh; they did not follow the way of their fathers.

¹⁸When Yahweh made a judge appear among his people, Yahweh was with him and saved them from their enemies. That lasted as long as the judge lived, for Yahweh was moved to pity by the lament of his people who were oppressed and persecuted. ¹⁹But when the judge died, they again became worse than their fathers – worshipping and serving other gods. They would not renounce their pagan practices and stubborn ways.

²⁰Yahweh was angry and he said, "These people broke the Covenant I had made with their fathers and they refused to obey me." ²¹Well now, neither shall I drive out before them any of the nations left when Joshua died. ²²And I shall test the Israelites through those nations, so I will know if they will finally follow my ways as their fathers did."

²³So Yahweh left those nations in their place and did not take the land immediately from them. This was also why he did not give them into the hands of Joshua.

3 ¹These are the nations that Yahweh left to live in order to test the Israelites through them, that is to say, all the Israelites who had not known any of the wars in Canaan. ²He let these people live so that the generation of the children of Israel who had not known war before might learn how to fight. ³These people were the five lords of the Philistines and all the Canaanites, the Sidonians and the Hivites of Mount Lebanon, from the mountain of Baal-hermon to as far as the entrance of Hamath.

⁴They remained to test Israel to see if they would observe the commandments that Yahweh had prescribed to their fathers through Moses. ⁵So the Israelites lived in the midst of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. ⁶The Israelites married the daughters of these people, gave their own daughters in marriage to the sons of these people and served their gods.

Othniel, Ehud and Shamgar

♦ ⁷The Israelites treated Yahweh badly; they forgot Yahweh, their God, and served the Baals and the Asheroths. ⁸Because of this, the anger of Yahweh burned against Israel and he left them at the hands of Cushan-rishathaim, king of Aram, to whom they were subject for eight years.

⁹Then the Israelites cried to Yah-

17. Dt 31, 16; Hos 1, 2

■ Here begins a second introduction to the book of Judges wherein, after recalling the death of Joshua (see Joshua 23:31), the real causes of the events that will transpire are given.

The first cause of Israel's disaster, when they cannot drive out the Canaanites, is their infidelity to Yahweh.

But the book also gives other explanations. God lets the enemy live:

- to put his people to the test (2:22);
- to train them in warfare (3:2);
- so that the country would not be transformed into a desert (Ex 23:29; Dt 7:22).

This text summarizes the lesson found throughout the entire book and which we already read in Dt. 4:1-31.

God always acts as an educator. Since Israel was still a very primitive people and could understand only what was seen and felt, God dealt with them through material rewards and punishment. Only centuries later, when Israel should have a more mature faith, would God make them understand that true rewards and punishments are not those of the present life.

They abandoned Yahweh to serve Baal. Baal (that means: Lord) referred to any Canaanite god, especially to him who let the rain fall. The Asheroths were goddesses, particularly of the soil and of fertility.

So Yahweh raised up liberators. The chiefs or leaders who exercised authority for a time were called "judges" because, at that time, to judge a people and to govern meant one and the same thing (see Introduction). In the present translation we shall often use the term commanders since this word expresses most accurately what those "judges" were.

Chapter 3 presents three of these Judges.

♦ They forgot Yahweh and served the Baals... and Yahweh abandoned them into weh, and he raised up from among them a liberator who saved them - Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. ¹⁰The spirit of Yahweh was upon him and he led Israel. When Othniel went to war, Yahweh gave Cushan-rishathaim, king of Aram, into Othniel's hands. ¹¹Othniel won over the king and the land had peace for forty years. Then Othniel, son of Kenaz, died.

¹²The Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of Yahweh, so he strengthened Eglon, king of Moab, so he could attack them; that was because they had treated Yahweh badly.

¹³Eglon joined the Ammonites and the Amalekites; they set out and marched together defeating Israel and taking the City of Palms. ¹⁴The Israelites became subject to Eglon, king of Moab, for eighteen years. ¹⁵But as they cried to Yahweh, he gave them a liberator - Ehud, a left-handed man, the son of Gera, from the tribe of Benjamin.

The Israelites entrusted to him a gift to bring to Eglon, king of Moab.

¹⁶So, Ehud made for himself a two-edged dagger, one cubit long, and strapped it on his right thigh under his clothes. ¹⁷He then went to present the gift to Eglon, king of Moab. Eglon was a very fat man.

¹⁸When Ehud finished offering the present, he dismissed the men who who had brought all the things. ¹⁹But when he arrived at the place of the Idols, near Gilgal, he went back to the king, and said to Eglon, "I have a secret message for you, O king. Eglon, king of Moab, then declared "Leave me alone!" And so everyone who was present left the room.

²⁰Then Ehud approached him while the king was seated alone on his private roof chamber where it was cool. Ehud said to him, "Lord, I have a warning from God for you." The king rose from his seat. ²¹Then Ehud with his left hand, took the dagger from his right thigh and thrust it into the king's belly. ²²The handle even went in with the blade and the fa closed over the blade, for Ehud did not draw the dagger out of his belly and the dirt came out. ²³Ehud jumped out through the window after having locked the doors of the roof behind him.

²⁴When he had gone, the servant came and saw that the doors of the upper room were locked. They thought, "He must be relieving himself in the cool room." ²⁵They waited for some time, but the doors of the roof room remained closed. Finally they took the keys and opened the doors: their lord lay on the floor dead.

²⁶Ehud had escaped while the servants waited for their king; he had passed through the place of the Idol and reached a safe place in Seirah. ²⁷When he arrived he had the trumpets sounded in the mountains of Ephraim and the Israelites went down the hands of the king of Aram. The Biblical text often plays with these words: he who serves a false god by his own will, will be a slave against his own will. Compare with 1 Sam. 7:3.

The spirit of Yahweh was on Othniel. See commentary 11:1.

Whereas Othniel and Ehud fought against the Edomites, the Moabites and Ammonites, raiders from the other side of the Jordan, Shamgar encountered the Philistines. The latter had arrived by sea on the Philistinian coast at the same time that the Israelites arrived from the desert. A people of superior civilization, who were well armed and organized, the Philistines occupied the "Five Departments" i.e.: the five cities of Gath, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Ekron and Gaza, with the surrounding territories.

They dominated the rich plain that bordered on the Mediterranean Sea, and their troops, time and again, harassed the Israelites who settled in the hills. Only King David would conquer them definitively but their name would survive: Palestine, name of the land of Israel comes from "Philistines".

from the mountains. ²⁸He stood before all of them and said, "Follow me, for Yahweh has given the people of Moab, our enemy, into our hands." They went down with him, barred the passages of the Jordan towards Moab and they let nobody pass.

²⁹They defeated Moab on that occasion, killing some ten thousand strong and brave men. Nobody was spared. ³⁰So on that day, Moab became subject to Israel, and the land remained peaceful for eighty years.

³¹Then Shamgar, the son of Anath, came; he killed six hundred Philistines with an oxgoad. He, too, saved Israel.

Deborah and Barak

4 ¹After Ehud died, the Israelites again treated Yahweh badly, ²so he left them in the power of Yabin, king of Canaan. Yabin reigned in Hazor, and the commander of his army was Sisera, who lived in Harosheth-ha-goiim.

³Then the Israelites cried to Yahweh, for Yabin had nine hundred chariots of war, and had kept the Israelites oppressed for twenty years.

⁴At that time, Deborah, a prophetess and wife of Lappidoth, became judge. ⁵"She used to sit under what was called the Palm of Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel, in the land of Ephraim. There she resolved the complaints that the Israelites presented to her. ⁶And she sent and called for Barak, the son of Abinoam, who was from the town of Kedesh of Naphtali.

She said to him, "This is the order of Yahweh: Go, gather the people on Mount Tabor and take with you ten thousand men from the tribes of Naphtali and Zebulun, ⁷for I am going to bring Sisera to you at the river Kishon with his chariots and men, and I will give him into your hands."

⁸Barak answered her, "If you will go, then I shall go, too; but if you do not go, I shall not go." ⁹Deborah answered, "I will go with you, but if you do it that way the honor of the victory will not be yours, for Sisera will be killed by a woman."

In this way Deborah went with Barak to Kedesh. ¹⁰Barak summoned those from Zebulun and Naphtali and ten thousand men followed him. Deborah also went up with him. ¹²When Sisera came to know that Barak had climbed Mount Tabor, ¹³he gathered all his chariots – nine hundred chariots of war in all – and all his men, and they set out from Harosheth-ha-goiim to the river Kishon.

¹⁴Then Deborah said to Barak, "Rise, for this is the day in which Yahweh shall give Sisera into your hands. Today, Yahweh has set out before you."

So, Barak went down from Mount Tabor with his ten thousand men. ¹⁵Yahweh made him win over Sisera and his chariots and all his army. Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled, ¹⁶while Barak pursued the chariots and the army to Harosheth-ha-goiim. All of Sisera's army perished. Nobody was spared.

5. Gen 35, 8

o Yabin, king of Canaan, was, in reality, king of the plain of Northern Canaan, called Jezrael. It was here that a great victory was won at the time of the Judges.

l A woman, Deborah, is judge of Israel, i.e., she administers justice in the name of Yahweh. This is an exceptional case among a people where men carry all the social and religious responsibilities. She sends for Barak from the north. He refuses to go alone, and seeks the cooperation of the tribes of Ephraim and Benjamin among whom Deborah is installed. Nor does he have enough trust in Yahweh to act unless Deborah is present at his side.

Barak will be the "technician" of victory, and nothing more, since he refused to commit him-

¹¹ At that moment, Heber the Kenite was encamped by the oak of Zaananim, near Kedesh, after separating from the other Kenite descendants of Hobab, Moses' father-in-law. ¹⁷ There Sisera took refuge, and came running to the tent of Yael, the wife of Heber the Kenite. Peace reigned between the Kenite tribe and the Canaanites of Yabin, king of Hazor.

¹⁸ Yael came out to meet Sisera and said to him, "Come this way, my lord, have no fear." Sisera entered and Yael hid him under a blanket. ¹⁹ He asked her for a little water to quench his thirst. The woman opened a skin of milk, gave him a drink, and covered him again with the blanket. ²⁰ And he said to her, "Stand at the entrance; and if anyone comes and asks you, tell him there is no one with you." ²¹ Sisera was very tired, so he slept. Then the woman took a hammer and a tent peg, went quietly to him and drove the peg into his temple till it was fixed into the ground. ²² When Barak arrived, Yael came out to meet him and said, "Come in, and I will show you the man you are looking for." He entered and saw Sisera dead with a tent-peg through his temple.

²³ On that day Yahweh humbled Yabin before the Israelites. ²⁴ The Israelites did not rest until they destroyed all the Canaanites.

Song of Deborah

+ 5 ¹ On that day, Deborah and Barak, the son of Abinoam, sang this song:

² In Israel the warriors let their hair loose, in Israel they presented voluntary offerings for the war. Blessed be Yahweh!

⁶ In the days of Shamgar the son of Anath, in the days of Yael, caravans ceased and travelers wandered through the byways. ⁷ There were no leaders in Israel until I, Deborah, awoke and arose as a mother of Israel.

⁸ They went after new gods, and war was upon them. There was hardly a shield or a spear for forty thousand men in Israel!

⁹ My heart is with the leaders of Israel, among the people who came willingly. Blessed be Yahweh!

¹² Wake up, Deborah, wake up! Wake up, wake up and begin to sing. Arise, Barak! And bring your songs, son of Abinoam.

¹⁵ The leaders of Issachar are with Deborah, Issachar is with Barak; the people rushed forth following their footsteps into the plain.

There were long talks among the clans of Reuben. ¹⁶ Why did you choose to remain in your folds listening to the flute among this flock? The clans of Reuben could not decide.

²⁰ From the heavens the stars fought, from their orbits they fought against Sisera. ²¹ The torrent Kishon dragged them away, the cold-self totally. The Bible held in higher regard Deborah, who has inspired the uprising.

+ The "Song of Deborah" is one of the more ancient pieces of Hebrew Literature. Composed a little after the events, it is a hymn to Yahweh the conqueror. This poem takes note of the individualism of the tribes with only three of them joining together to confront the Canaanites.

ment, the torrent Kishon. March on without fear, my soul!

²² Hoofs of horses shake the ground: the clapping, galloping of his horses. ²³ Cursed be the land, said the angel of Yahweh, cursed be it, cursed be its inhabitants, for it came not to the help of Yahweh, not like the heroes.

²⁴ Blessed among women be Yael, wife of the Kenite, among the women who kill in tents, blessed may you be! ²⁵ He asked for water, she gave him milk; in the cup of silver she served him cream.

²⁶ She put her hand to the peg and with her right hand took the hammer of a workman. She struck Sisera, crushed his head, pierced and shattered his temple. ²⁷ He collapsed at her feet, there he fell, and lay still.

²⁸ Sisera's mother looks out of the window, and she cries out behind the lattice: Why is his chariot late in coming? Why is his chariot delayed? ²⁹ The wisest of her women answers and says: ³⁰ Surely they are dividing the plunder — one captive, two captives for each warring; colored cloths for Sisera as booty, colored cloths twice adorned with raised embroidery and a scarf.

³¹ So may all your enemies perish, O Yahweh, but may your friends be like the brilliant sun!

And there was peace in the land for forty years.

6 ¹ The Israelites treated Yahweh badly, and Yahweh gave them into the hands of the Midianites for seven years, ² and the hand of the Midianites lay heavily on them.

Because of Midian, the Israelites made for themselves passages in the mountains, caves and shelters. ³ When the Israelites had sown,

Midian would come with Amalek and with the people of the East. They would come up against the Israelites, ⁴ encamp in the lands of the Israelites and destroy all the fields as far as the entrance to Gaza. They would leave no provisions of sheep or ox or ass, ⁵ for they would come up like locusts in number, bringing with them their livestock and their tents.
 They and their camels were many and they invaded and plundered the land. ⁶ In this way, Midian subdued Israel and brought upon it so great a misery that the Israelites cried to Yahweh.

⁷ When the Israelites cried to Yahweh because of Midian, ⁸ Yahweh sent them a prophet who said to them, "This is the word of Yahweh, the God of Israel: I led you up from Egypt and brought you out of the house of slavery. ⁹ I freed you from the hands of the Egyptians and from all your oppressors. I drove out before you the inhabitants of these lands, and gave their lands to you. ¹⁰ and I said to you, 'I am Yahweh, your God. Disregard the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell.' But you did not listen to me."

Call of Gideon

¹¹ The Angel of Yahweh came and sat under the sacred tree at Ophrah, which belonged to Joash, of the family of Abiezer. Gideon, the son of Jo-ash, was threshing the wheat in the winepress to hide it from the Midianites.

¹² The Angel of Yahweh said to him, "Yahweh be with you, valiant warrior." ¹³ Gideon answered,

11. Ex 3; Jer 1

■ Chapters 6-9 relate the story of Gideon and his son, Abimelech. The former is called Yahweh and acts as "Judge."
 In two successful campaigns he ensures the freedom of his people. After Gideon, Abime-leh rides on his father's fame in a bid to become king.

The Angel of Yahweh shows himself to Gideon in human form. This incident brings to mind
 1:28-36.

Where and when hope is diminished, Yahweh raises up a saviour. Gideon believes in Yahweh but lacks confidence: God could do evening in the past, but Gideon does not see him acting in the present.

6:15: We find this attitude of Gideon in other parts of the Bible. The mission which God entrusts to us always goes beyond our human strength (Ex 3:11; Jer 1:6).

Yahweh gives hope when he gives a task to be done; he does not promise to do things for us but he invites us to take action: by your valour, you will save Israel from the Midianites. Thus Yahweh looks to the man he chooses. Then the young farmer Gideon, inspired, conscientized, and moved by hope, will discover that he has sufficient capability to save his people.

Verses 25-31 tie up closely the liberating mission entrusted to Gideon with the public confession of his faith in Yahweh, thereby making him worthy of God's commitment to him.

Gideon agrees to commit himself but wants to have the assurance that it is indeed Yahweh who speaks. He, therefore, asks for a sign which Yahweh grants him. Gideon does not resemble others who ask for signs to gain time because they doubt or do not want to be convinced (see Mk. 8:11 and Lk. 1:18).

"Please, my lord, if Yahweh is with us, why is all this happening to us? Where are the wonders which our fathers recounted to us? Did they not say that Yahweh led them up from Egypt? Why has he abandoned us now and given us into the hands of the Midianites?"

¹⁴ Yahweh then turned to him and said, "Go and with your courage, save Israel from the Midianites. It is I who send you." ¹⁵ Gideon answered: "Pardon me, Lord, but how can I save Israel? My family is the lowliest in my tribe and I am the least in the family of my father."

¹⁶ Yahweh said to him, "I will be with you and you shall defeat the people of Midian with one single stroke." ¹⁷ Gideon said to him, "Please give me a sign that it is indeed you who speak." ¹⁸ Do not leave until I return with an offering and present it to you." Yahweh responded, "I am going to wait for you here."

¹⁹ Gideon went and prepared a young goat, took a measure of flour and baked unleavened bread. He put the broth in a pot and the meat in a basket, and went to present them to the Angel under the tree. ²⁰ Then the Angel of God said to him, "Take the meat and the bread; put them on this rock, and pour the broth over them." Gideon did so. ²¹ At that moment, the Angel of Yahweh extended the staff he was holding and touched the meat and the bread. Suddenly, fire blazed from the rock. The fire consumed the meat and the bread, and the Angel of Yahweh disappeared.

²² Gideon realized that he was the Angel of Yahweh and said, "Alas, O Lord Yahweh! I have seen the Angel of Yahweh face to face." ²³ But Yahweh said to him, "Peace be with you.

Do not fear for you shall not die."

²⁴ Gideon built an altar to Yahweh in that place and called it Yahweh-Peace. To this day, it is still in Ophrah of Abiezer.

²⁵ That same night Yahweh said to Gideon, "Take with you ten of your father's servants and a seven-year-old bull. Destroy your father's altar to Baal and cut the sacred pillar beside it. ²⁶ Then build an altar to Yahweh on this knoll and sacrifice the bull to me, burning it with the wood from the sacred pillar."

²⁷ So, Gideon, with the help of his ten servants, did what Yahweh had commanded. But because he feared his family and the people of the town, he did it by night.

²⁸ On the following day, the townspeople saw the altar of Baal broken into pieces and the sacred pillar cut off. They also saw that a bull had been sacrificed on the new altar. ²⁹ So they asked one another and as they investigated, found out that it was Gideon who did it, ³⁰ and they went to Joash and said, "Hand your son over to us for he must die; he destroyed the altar of Baal and cut down the sacred pillar." ³¹ But Joash said to the angry crowd, "Are you going to defend Baal and save him? If he is god, let him defend himself when someone destroys his altar."

³² On that day they gave Gideon the name Jerubbaal which means "Let Baal defend himself against Gideon for Gideon destroyed his altar."

sent messengers throughout the whole territory of Manasseh and they joined him. The people of Asher, Zebulun and Naphtali also went out to meet them.

³⁶ Gideon said to God, "If indeed you will save Israel by my hand, as you have said, grant me this favor. ³⁷ I am going to spread a fleece of wool on the threshing ground. If the dew falls only on the fleece while all the ground remains dry, then I shall know that you are to save Israel by my hand, as you have promised."

³⁸ So it was: Gideon rose at day-break, squeezed the fleece and wrung out the dew, filling a cup with water.

⁹ Gideon again spoke to God and said to him, "Don't get angry with me if I dare to speak to you again. Allow me to make another test with the fleece: let it be dry only on the fleece and let dew come on all the ground." ⁴⁰ That night, Yahweh did so. The fleece remained dry and dew covered all the ground.

7 ¹ Jerubaal, that is Gideon, rose early with all the people who were with him and they encamped beside the spring of Harod. The Midianite camp was farther north and extended from the hill of Moreb to the blains.

² Then Yahweh said to Gideon, "There are too many people with you. If I give the Midianites into their hands, the Israelites would think that they won over the Midianites by their own strength. ³ So summon your men and say to them that whoever is afraid may go home." So twenty-two thousand men returned and only ten thousand remained.

◆ ⁴ Yahweh said to Gideon, "There are still too many people. Take them down to the water and I myself will test them for you. If I say: This one shall go with you, he will go. And if I say: Not this one, he shall not go." ⁵ So Gideon brought them down to the water and Yahweh told him, "Those who lap the water like a dog, you shall place on one side. And those who kneel down to drink, you shall place at the other side."

⁹ That night Yahweh said to him, "Rise and go down to the camp, because I have given it into your hands." ¹⁰ But if you are afraid to go down alone, set out for the camp with your servant Purah, "and listen to what they say there. You shall be strengthened by it and then you shall attack the camp." He then went down with his servant Purah to the outposts of the guards of the camp.

¹² Midian, Amalek, and all the people of the East were in the valley, thick as locusts, and their camels were countless as the sand on the seashore. ¹³ Gideon approached just as a man was recounting his dream to his comrade. Gideon heard him say, "I had a dream: a big loaf of barley bread rolled down into the camp of Midian, until it came to a tent, bumped against it and overturned the tent." ¹⁴ His comrade answered him, "This cannot mean anything other than the sword of Gideon, son of Joash, the Israelite. God has given Midian and the whole camp into his hands." ¹⁵ When Gideon heard the dream and its interpretation, he bowed, returned to the camp of Israel and said, "Arise, for Yahweh has given the camp of Midian into your hands."

39. Gen 18, 30

3. Dt 20, 8; 1 Ma 3, 56

◆ There are too many people with you. These words of Yahweh help us believe that a small minority of militant people can bring about revolutionary change.

¹⁶ Gideon divided the three hundred men in three groups. Then he handed the trumpets to all and the empty pitchers with lighted torches inside. ¹⁷ He said to them, "Look at me, and do what I do. When I come to the outskirts of the camp, do as I do. ¹⁸ When I and those who are with me blow the trumpets then blow yours all around the camp and shout, "For Yahweh and for Gideon!"

¹⁹ With the hundred men with him, Gideon came to the Midianite camp just as the guards were changing shifts at the beginning of the midnight watch. ²⁰ Then the Israelites smashed the jars, took the torches in one hand, and blew the trumpets they were holding in the other hand. After blowing the trumpets, the three groups shouted, "For Yahweh and for Gideon!" ²¹ Everyone stood in his place around the camp while the Midianites ran, shouting as they fled. ²² As the three hundred Israelites went on blowing the trumpets, Yahweh made the Midianites in the camp kill one another. Those who managed to escape went as far as Beth-shittah toward Zererah, and as far as the border of Abel-meholah opposite Tabbath.

²³ Then the Israelites from the tribe of Naphtali, Asher and the whole of Manasseh came to help Gideon, and they pursued Midian. ²⁴ Gideon also sent messengers throughout all the mountains of Ephraim to say, "Come down to fight against Midian and block the passages as far as Beth-barah and along the Jordan." So, all the men of Ephraim came out and occupied the shallow waters as far as Beth-barah and along the Jordan. ²⁵ They took the two leaders of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb as prisoners. They killed Oreb at the rock of Oreb, and Zeeb at the winepress of Zeeb. They pursued Midian and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon at the other side of the Jordan.

Gideon's second campaign

8 ¹ The people of Ephraim said to Gideon, "Why didn't you call us when you went to fight against Midian?" They argued with him violently. ² He said to them, "What have I done in comparison with what you have done? Are not the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? ³ Yahweh has given the leaders of Midian - Oreb and Zeeb - into your hands. What have I been able to do in comparison with what you have done?" After hearing this, their anger lessened.

⁴ Gideon and his three hundred men came to the Jordan and crossed it. They were exhausted and hungry. ⁵ So he said to the people of Succoth, "Please give loaves of bread to the army that follows me, for they are exhausted and hungry, and I am still pursuing Zebah and Zalmunna, the kings of Midian."

⁶ But the elders of Succoth answered, "Have you by chance already restrained the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna? Why should we give bread to your army?" ⁷ Gideon answered them, "Well, when Yahweh has given Zebah and Zalmunna into my hands, I will skin your flesh with the thorns and thistles of the desert."

⁸ From there he went up to Penuel and made the same request. But they answered him: as those of Succoth had. ⁹ So Gideon said, "When I return victorious, I will tear down this tower."

¹³ After the battle, Gideon, the son of Joash, returned through the slope of Heres. ¹⁴ He caught a young man of the people of Succoth and questioned him. The young man wrote down for him the names of the seventy-seven leaders and elders of Succoth. ¹⁵ Gideon went to the people of Succoth and said to them: "Here are Zebah and Zalmunna about whom you mocked me by saying: Have you by chance already restrained the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna for us to give bread to your hungry troops?"

¹⁶ So he took the elders of the town and punished the people of Succoth with thorns and thistles of the desert.

¹⁷ He tore down the tower of Penuel and killed the inhabitants of the town. ¹⁸ Then he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, "What did the men whom you killed at Tabor look like?" They answered, "They looked like you, they looked like sons of kings." ¹⁹ Gideon answered, "They were my brothers, the sons of my mother. As Yahweh lives, if you had let them live, I would not kill you."

²⁰ He said to Yether, his eldest son, "Courage, kill them!" But the youth did not draw his sword; he did not dare do it for he was still very young. ²¹ So Zebah and Zalmunna said, "Rise and kill us yourself, for as the man is, so is his courage." Gideon arose and killed them, and took the ornaments off their camels' necks.

Gideon's error

◆ ²² The Israelites said to Gideon, "Since you have saved us from the Midianites, you shall be our king, and after you, your son and the descendants of your son."

²³ But Gideon answered, "I will not rule over Israel, nor my son, for Yahweh is our king!" ²⁴ Gideon added, "I will ask something from you. Let each of you give me an earring from your booty." Gideon said this for these Midianites wore gold earrings like all the Ishmaelites.

²⁵ They answered him, "That we will gladly do." Then Gideon spread out his cloak and every Israelite threw in an earring from his booty. ²⁶ The gold earrings reached a thousand and seven hundred pieces of gold; not counting the brooches, the rings, the expensive garments used by the kings of Midian, and the collars of the camels. ²⁷ With this money, Gideon made an idol and put it in his city of Ophrah. People from all Israel began to go to that place, turning away from Yahweh. That was the trap into which Gideon and his family fell.

²⁸ In spite of this, the Midianites were humbled in such a way that peace reigned in Israel for forty years during Gideon's lifetime. ²⁹ Gideon returned to Ophrah and remained in his house. ³⁰ He had seventy sons of his blood, for he had many wives. ³¹ A woman from the city of Shechem also bore him a son whom he named Abimelech.

³² Gideon the son of Joash died at a happy old age, and he was buried in the tomb of Joash his father, in Ophrah of Abiezer.

³³ After the death of Gideon, the Israelites again prostituted themselves to the Baals and took Baal-Berith as god. ³⁴ The Israelites no longer remembered Yahweh, their God, who had freed them from the hands of all the enemies who surrounded them. ³⁵ Neither were they grateful to the family of Jerubbaal-Gideon for all the good things he had done to Israel.

Abimelech

9 ¹ Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal, marched to Shechem where the brothers of his mother were, and he said to them and to the whole paternal family of his mother, "Please ask this to all the lords of Shechem: Which is better for you, that you be governed by all the

◆ The Israelites had to form a nation, and this stage would bring great progress after the anarchy created by disunited and disorganized tribes. For the first time in the Bible, the desire to have a king is hinted in 8:22-31.

Perhaps those who edited the present book in the last century of the kingdom of Jerusalem had been so created by their rulers that they dreamt of that time in the past when there had been neither kings nor administrators. They thought that Israel, being the people of God, had no need of permanent chiefs like the rest of the nations, that perhaps it would have been better had they lived day by day, trusting in Yahweh who would raise up a liberator whenever necessary.

That is why the Book of Judges remarks on Gideon's refusal to be their king: Yahweh has to be your King. Unfortunately, Gideon asked for gold instead of authority, and, by this, the hero destroyed everything he had done for his people.

All these saviours: Gideon, Barak, Jephthah and Samson are very disappointing – like many of those who now speak of liberating oppressed people. What lesson shall we draw from these bitter experiences which Scripture recalls? That political action is useless and that we should instead focus our efforts on prayer and catechetical work? Shall we leave to others the struggle for justice? But justice is inscribed in every page of the Bible.

Let us consider that most of these liberators did not enjoy a real family life nor were they properly educated by their parents. It was in their early years that they needed to be corrected, by a father who could give them example, and by a mother firm enough not to consent to their caprices. For no one becomes a mature person, firm and faithful to his duty unless he has been liberated from childhood by having to obey the just demands of others. That is why after those years of war and conquest, other times came for the Israelites when God educated the believers and their families through the teaching of wise men and the practice of the Law.

23. Ex 32, 2 24. 1 S 8, 7 5. 1 K 10, 1; 11, 1 seventy sons of Jerubaal, or by only one man? Remember that I am of the same blood as you are."

³ The brothers of his mother sent this message to all the lords of Shechem. The lords of Shechem took sides with Abimelech, saying "He is our brother." ⁴ So they gave him seventy pieces of silver from the temple of Baal-berith which Abimelech used to hire wicked mercenaries to set out with him. ⁵ Abimelech went with them to the house of his father in Ophrah, and on one stone killed all his brothers, the seventy sons of Jerubaal. Only Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubaal, was able to escape by hiding himself. ⁶ Then all the lords of Shechem and the whole council assembled together by the oak at the pillar in Shechem, and proclaimed Abimelech king.

⁷ This was told to Jotham who was at the top of Mount Gerizim. There he cried out to them, "Listen to me, lords of Shechem, that God may listen to you!"

⁹ The olive tree answered, 'Am I going to renounce the oil by which - thanks to me - gods and men are honored, to hold sway over the trees?'

¹⁰ The trees said to the fig tree: 'Come and reign over us.' ¹¹ The fig tree answered them, 'Am I going to renounce my sweetness and my delicious fruit, to hold sway over the trees?'

¹² The trees said to the vine: 'Come and reign over us.' ¹³ The vine answered, 'Am I going to renounce my juice which cheers gods and men to hold sway over the trees?'

¹⁴ Then the trees said to the bramble bush: 'Come, reign over us.' ¹⁵ The bramble bush answered the trees, 'If you come in sincerity to anoint me as your king, then come near and take shelter in my shade; but if not, let fire break out of the bramble bush to devour even the cedars of Lebanon.'

¹⁶ And now, tell me, have you acted rightly and truthfully in choosing Abimelech king? Have you treated Jerubaal and his family well and given him back what he deserves according to his merits?

¹⁷ For my father fought for you, risking his life to free you from the hands of Midian. ¹⁸ But now, you have risen against the family of my father. You have killed all his seventy sons with one stone, and have declared Abimelech, the son of his slave, as king over the lords of Shechem because he is your brother. ¹⁹ If you have acted rightly and truthfully toward Jerubaal and his family today, then may Abimelech rejoice in you and you in him. ²⁰ But if not, let fire break forth from Abimelech to devour the lords of Shechem and their council; and let fire break forth from their council to devour Abimelech."

²¹ Jotham fled to the safety of Beer, where he lived far from his brother Abimelech.

²² Abimelech ruled over Israel for three years. ²³ But Yahweh sent a spirit of discord between Abimelech and the lords of Shechem; and the lords of Shechem betrayed Abimelech. ²⁴ Yahweh did this so that the seventy sons of Jerubaal might be avenged. Their blood had to fall back upon their brother Abimelech who murdered them, and the lords of Shechem who helped him murder his brothers.

²⁶ Then Gaal, the son of Ebed, came with his brothers, and he won the confidence of the lords of Shechem. ²⁷ One day they went to the vineyards and gathered grapes and trod on them. Then they feasted in the temple of their god. While eating and drinking, they cursed Abimelech. ²⁸ Then Gaal, the son of Ebed, exclaimed, "Who is Abimelech for the Shechemites that we should serve him? He is only the son of Jerubaal, and Zebul is but his town captain. Let us serve the people of Hamor, the father of Shechem. Why should we serve Abimelech?"

²⁹ If only this people were in my hands, then I would remove Abimelech and say to him: Reinforce your army, come out and fight!"

³⁰ When Zebul, the city governor, was informed of the plan of Gaal, the son of Ebed, he was very angry. ³¹ He sent messengers to Abimelech in secret to say to him, "See, Gaal, the son of Ebed, has come with his brothers to Shechem and he is stirring up the city against you. ³² Therefore, arise, you and the men you have with you, and lay an ambush in the field. ³³ By early morning at sunrise, go and rush upon the city. When Gaal comes out against you with his men, you may do to him whatever you wish."

+ In 9:8-15, an ancient fable was inserted and placed in the mouth of Jotham whereby the authority of the kings was vehemently criticized:

it is the most useless persons, it claims, who are willing to reign. The story of Abimelech confirms this viewpoint.

³⁶ Gaal saw the troops and said to Zebul, "Look, people are coming down from the mountain tops." But Zebul answered him, "It is the shadow of the mountain that you see. You mistake it for men." ³⁷ Gaal said again, "Look, people are coming down from the center of the land, and another group is coming from the Diviners' Oak." ³⁸ Zebul then said, "Did you not say: Who is Abimelech that we should serve him? Are not these men those whom you despised? Go now and fight them."

³⁹ Gaal went out and led the people of Shechem in fighting Abimelech. ⁴⁰ Abimelech pursued Gaal who fled and many fell dead before reaching the gates. ⁴¹ Abimelech returned to Arumah, and Zebul drove out Gaal and his brothers, and did not let them live in Shechem.

Shechem destroyed

⁴² The following day, the people went out into the fields. Abimelech was informed about this, ⁴³ so he called his troops, divided them into three groups and laid an ambush in the fields. When he saw the people coming out of the city, he rose against them and killed them. ⁴⁴ Abimelech and the group with him attacked and took possession of the entrance to the city gates; other groups rushed upon those who were in the fields. ⁴⁵ Throughout that day, Abimelech attacked the city. He took it and killed all its inhabitants. Then he destroyed the city and sprinkled salt over it.

⁴⁶ When the inhabitants of the Tower of Shechem heard this, they went to the underground room of the temple of El-Berith. ⁴⁷ Abimelech was told that all the inhabitants of the Tower of Shechem were together, ⁴⁸ so he went up to Mount Zalmon with all his troops. Taking an ax, he cut down a branch of a tree, lifted it up and bore it on his shoulders. He then said to the troops with him, "You have seen what I have done, so do the same." ⁴⁹ So all his men cut the branches, then followed Abimelech. They piled the branches on top of the underground room and set them on fire over the people inside. So all the inhabitants of the Tower of Shechem – about a thousand men and women – died.

Death of Abimelech

⁵⁰ Abimelech went against Thebez, besieged it and took it. ⁵¹ But inside the city was a strong tower in which all the men and women, all the inhabitants of the city sought refuge. They locked it from within and went up to the roof of the tower. ⁵² Abimelech came to the tower to attack them; he approached the door, intending to set it on fire. ⁵³ But a woman threw a millstone upon his head and shattered his skull. ⁵⁴ He immediately called out to his young armour-bearer and said to him, "Draw your sword and kill me, lest they say of me: 'A woman killed him'." So his armour-bearer thrust him through, and he died. ⁵⁵ When the people of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, everyone returned to his home.

⁵⁶ In this way God repaid to Abimelech the evil he had done to his father when he murdered his seventy brothers. ⁵⁷ He also made the people of Shechem pay for all their wickedness. So the curse of Jotham, son of Jerubaal, was fulfilled.

Tola, Jair and Jephthah

10 ¹ After Abimelech, Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, appeared to save Israel. He was from the tribe of Issachar and lived at Shamir, in the mountains of Ephraim. ² He was judge of Israel for twenty-three years and when he died, he was buried in Shamir.

³ After him rose Jair of Gilead who was judge of Israel for twenty-two years. ⁴ He had thirty sons who rode on thirty asses, and had thirty cities which are still called the villages of Jair to this day, in the land of Gilead. ⁵ When Jair died, he was buried in Kamon.

54. 2 S 11, 21; 1 S 31, 4

■ Each tribe had its own problems. There rose up saviours in various places who, after a victory, were honoured as "Judges" for the rest of their lives: Gideon from Manasseh; Tola from Issachar; Jair from the country of Gilead.

One notices Yahweh's tireless and everforgiving love. As sins increase Yahweh says "I will not save you again"; and again God could no longer bear the sufferings of Israel. If we complain about God's inaction with regard to oppression and social injustice, it is because we are not able to see the sinfulness and responsibility of the oppressed people.

⁶ The Israelites again treated Yahweh badly; they served the Baals and the Ashtaroth, the gods of Aram and Sidon, the gods of Moab, the gods of the Ammonites and the gods of the Philistines. They abandoned Yahweh and no longer served him.⁷ The anger of Yahweh burned against Israel, so he gave them into the hands of the Philistines and the Ammonites.

⁸ For eighteen years, all the Israelites living on the other side of the Jordan in the Amorite land of Gilead were disturbed and oppressed.⁹ The Ammonites also crossed the Jordan to attack Judah, Benjamin and the people of Ephraim. Israel was in great distress.

¹⁰ In those years the Israelites called out to Yahweh saying, "We have sinned against you, for we have abandoned Yahweh, our God, to serve the Baals."¹¹ Yahweh said to the Israelites, "When the Egyptians, the Amorites, the Ammonites, the Philistines,¹² the Sidonians, Amalek and Midian oppressed you, and you cried out to me, did I not save you from their hands?"¹³ But in spite of this, you have abandoned me and served other gods. So I will not save you again.¹⁴ Go and cry out to the gods you have chosen: see if they will save you in the time of your distress."

today."¹⁶ Then they put away the strange gods and served Yahweh. And he could no longer endure the suffering of Israel.

¹⁷ The Ammonites assembled and went to encamp in Gilead. The Israelites also assembled and they encamped at Mizpah.¹⁸ There the people and the leaders of Gilead asked one another, "Who will lead us all to fight against the Ammonites? Whoever he is, we shall make him head of all the inhabitants of Gilead."

♦11 ¹ Jephthah the Gileadite was a valiant warrior. His mother was a prostitute, and his father was Gilead.² But Gilead's wife also bore him sons, and when they grew up, they drove Jephthah out saying, "You shall not share or inherit anything in the household of our father, for you are the son of another woman."³ Jephthah fled from his brothers and went to the region of Tob. There he joined a band of mercenaries who made their raids with him.⁴ The time came when the Ammonites declared war on Israel.⁵ So the elders of Gilead went to Jephthah in the land of Tob⁶ and said to him, "Come and lead our men in fighting the Ammonites."

⁷ Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead, "Didn't you drive me out of my father's house because you hated me? Why do you come to me now in your distress?"⁸ The elders answered him, "We come asking you to join us

2. Heb 11, 32

♦ Jephthah is one of the more controversial saviours found in the Bible. He is filled with rancour against his brothers who despise him. His war against the tribe of Ephraim does not bring glory to the people of Israel. Finally, his vow to sacrifice a member of his family is in line with the custom of the Canaanites who sacrificed their children very easily. Still we read: the Spirit of Yahweh was on Jephthah.

By the Spirit people of those times meant the superhuman strength from Yahweh which drives a man to accomplish extraordinary feats. The Spirit of Yahweh does not act merely in religious ceremonies, or through religious people, prophets or priests. It acts "renewing the face of the earth" (Ps. 104) through people who, very often, are neither believers nor blameless, but who have enough intelligence and courage to undertake the liberation needed in their times. Sometimes, the liberators of modern times are undeservingly looked upon as saints in spite of the fact that they do not always live by faith, or recognize Christ. It would be more accurate to compare them with the "judges" who, in spite of their limitations, served God's plans "moved by the Spirit of Yahweh."

in fighting the Ammonites; we want you to be head of the whole of Gilead." ⁹ Jephthah answered them, "If you ask me to return to fight the Ammonites and Yahweh grants me victory, I will be your head." ¹⁰ And they said to him, "May Yahweh listen to us! Woe to us if we do not carry out what we have just said!"

¹² Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites to say to him, "What happened between us that you come and attack me in my own country?" ¹³ The king answered the messengers, "When Israel went up out of Egypt, they seized my own country from the Arnon to the Yabbok and to the Jordan. So give it back willingly."

¹⁴ Jephthah again sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites, ¹⁵ saying "This is what Jephthah says: Israel has not seized the land of the Ammonites. ¹⁶ When they came up from Egypt, Israel went through the desert to the Sea of Reeds and came to Kadesh. ¹⁷ Then Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom and said to him, 'Let us pass through your country.' But the king of Edom did not listen. They also sent to the king of Moab, and he, too, refused. So Israel remained at Kadesh. ¹⁸ Then journeying through the desert, they went around the country of Edom and Moab, and came to the east of the land of Moab. They encamped on the other side of the Arnon, for the Arnon was the boundary of Moab. ¹⁹ Israel then sent messengers to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon, and said to him, 'Let us pass through your country and go to our place.' ²⁰ But Sihon did not trust Israel enough to let them pass through; he gathered all his men and encamped at Jahaz and attacked Israel. ²¹ Yahweh the God of Israel gave Sihon and all his people into the hands of Israel. Israel defeated them and conquered all the land of the Amorites who lived there. ²² So they conquered the whole territory of the Amorites from the Arnon to the Yabbok, and from the desert to the Jordan.

²³ Since Yahweh the God of Israel has taken this land from the Amorites for his people, Israel, can you now take it away from us? ²⁴ Do you not hold all that your god Chemosh has given you? In the same way, we hold all that Yahweh, our God, has given us. ²⁵ Will you do better than Balak, son of Zippor, the king of Moab? Was he able to attack Israel? ²⁶ For three hundred years, Israel has lived in Heshbon and the cities that depend on it. They have also lived in Aroer and in its villages and in all the cities on both sides of the Jordan. Why didn't you recover these within that time? ²⁷ I have not offended you, but you are treating me badly by attacking me. Let Yahweh, the Judge, decide today between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon."

²⁸ But the king of the Ammonites did not pay attention to Jephthah's message.

Jephthah's daughter

²⁹ The Spirit of Yahweh came upon Jephthah. He went through Gilead and Manasseh, passed through Mizpah of Gilead, and then entered the territory of the Ammonites.

³⁰ Jephthah made a vow to Yahweh: "If you make me victorious, ³¹ I shall sacrifice to you whoever first comes out of my house to meet me when I return from battle. He shall be for Yahweh and I shall offer him up through the fire."

³⁴ When Jephthah returned home to Mizpah, his daughter came out to meet him. She was so happy to see her father that she danced to the sound of her tambourine. She was an only child; besides her he had no other daughter or son.

³⁵ When Jephthah saw her, he tore his clothes and cried out, "My daughter, you have shattered my life; you have brought me misfortune. For I have made a foolish vow to Yahweh, and now I cannot take it back." ³⁶ She answered him, "Father, even if you have made such a foolish vow, you have to do to me just as you promised, for Yahweh has made you victorious. ³⁷ I only beg of you to give me two months to live with my companions in the mountains. There I shall lament because I will never marry." ³⁸ Jephthah said to her, "Go then." And he sent her away for two months. She and her companions went to the mountains and wept because she would never marry.

³⁹ At the end of two months, she returned to her father and he fulfilled the vow he had made. The young girl had never known a man. From this comes the Israelite custom ⁴⁰ that the daughters of Israel go out for four days annually to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite.

12 ¹ The men of Ephraim gathered, crossed the Jordan northward and said to Jephthah, "Why did you go and attack the Ammonites without asking us to march with you? For this we shall burn you inside your house." ² Jephthah answered them, "My people and I had a great struggle with the Ammonites. I asked help from you but you did not save me from their hands. ³ When I saw that no one had come to help me, I risked my own life and marched against the Ammonites, and Yahweh gave them into my hands. Why, then, have you come up today to fight me?"

ask him, "Are you an Ephraimite? If he responded, "No," ⁶ they would add, "Then say Shibboleth."

But then he would say, "Sibboleth" for an Ephraimite could not pronounce it correctly. So they would seize him and cut his throat by the shallow waters of the Jordan. Forty-two thousand men from Ephraim perished at that time.

⁷ Jephthah was judge in Israel for six years. Then he died and was buried in his city, Mizpah of Gilead. ⁸ After him, Ibzan of Bethlehem was judge in Israel. ⁹ He had thirty sons and thirty daughters. His thirty daughters were given in marriage outside his clan, but for his sons, he brought in thirty women. He was judge in Israel for seven years. ¹⁰ When Ibzan died, he was buried in Bethlehem.

¹¹ After him, Elon the Zebulunite became judge in Israel. He governed Israel for ten years. ¹² Then he died and was buried in Aijalon in the land of Zebulun.

¹³ After him, Abdon, the son of Hillel of Pirathon, was judge in Israel. ¹⁴ He had forty sons and thirty grandsons who rode on seventy asses. He was judge in Israel for eight years. ¹⁵ Then he died and was buried at Pirathon, in the mountains of Ephraim, in the mountain of the Amorites.

Samson's birth foretold

+ 13 ¹ The Israelites again treated Yahweh badly so he gave them into the hands of the Philistines for forty years.

² There was a man of Zorah of the tribe of Dan, called Manoah. His wife could not bear children. ³ The Angel of Yahweh appeared to this woman and said to her, "You have not borne children and have not given birth, but see, you are to conceive and give birth to a son. ⁴ Because of this, take care not to take wine or any alcoholic drink, or eat unclean foods from now + Here follow four episodes of the "stories" of Samson. Samson is no more than a man from the countryside who has extraordinary strength and fights on his own account against the Philistines. Legend attributes to him numerous feats.

Samson is said to have been miraculously born of a barren couple. This was in accordance with God's ways, as seen in the case of Abraham's son (Gen 18), and in the case of Samuel (1 Sam 1), and still later John the Baptist (Lk 1:5).

The child must be a Nazirite, i.e., consecrated to God, according to a very ancient rite in the Bible (Num 6:1). This consecration to God is the source of his strength.

on.⁵ for you shall bear a son who shall be a Nazirite of Yahweh from the womb of his mother. Never shall his hair be cut for he is consecrated to Yahweh. He shall begin the liberation of the Israelites from the Philistine oppression."

"The woman went to her husband and told him. "A messenger of God who bore the majesty of an angel spoke to me. I did not ask him where he came from nor did he tell me his name.

"But he said to me: 'You are to conceive and give birth to a son. Henceforth, you shall not drink wine or fermented drinks, nor eat anything unclean, for your son shall be a Nazirite of God from the womb of his mother until the day of his death.'"

"Manoah called upon Yahweh and said, "I pray you, Lord, that the man of God whom you have sent may come again to us and teach us how to bring up the boy who is to be born."

"Yahweh listened to Manoah and the Angel of Yahweh came to the woman as she was seated in the fields. Again Manoah, her husband, was not with her when the Angel came.

"The woman immediately ran to inform her husband and told him, "Look, the man who came to me the other day is here again." "Manoah rose and followed his wife. He came to the man and said to him, "Are you the man who has spoken to this woman?"

He answered, "I am." "Manoah said to him, "When your word is fulfilled, what rule and direction shall the boy follow?"

"The Angel of Yahweh answered Manoah, "He must abstain from all I have indicated to this woman. "He shall not taste anything that comes from the grape, nor drink wine or fermented drinks, nor eat anything unclean, and she shall observe everything I have commanded her.

"Manoah then said to the Angel of Yahweh, "Permit us to detain you and prepare a young goat for you. (Manoah did not know that the man was the Angel of Yahweh.) "But he said to Manoah, "Even if I did stay, I would not taste your food. But if you want to offer a burnt offering, offer it to Yahweh." "So Manoah said to the Angel of Yahweh, "What is your name, that we may honor you when your word comes true." "The Angel of Yahweh answered him, "Why do you ask my name? It is Wonderful." "Manoah then took the young goat and the cereal offering, and offered it upon the rock as a holocaust to Yahweh who does wonderful things.

"And something happened as Manoah and his wife looked on. A fire broke forth from the altar toward heaven, and the Angel of Yahweh ascended in the flame.

When Manoah and his wife saw this, they fell face downwards on the ground. "When the Angel of Yahweh vanished from the sight of Manoah and his wife, Manoah knew then that he was the Angel of Yahweh. "And he said to his wife, "We shall surely die for we have seen God." "She answered him, "If Yahweh had wanted to kill us, he would not have accepted the holocaust or the offering from our hand; he would not have made all these things happen or said what we have just heard."

"The woman gave birth to a son and named him Samson. The boy grew and Yahweh blessed him. "Then the Spirit of Yahweh began to move him when he was in Mahane Dan between Zorah and Eshtaol.

Stories of Samson

14¹ Samson went down to Timnah and saw a Philistine woman. ² He came up and said to his father and mother, "I have seen a Philistine woman at Timnah; get her for me that she may be my wife." ³ His father and mother said to him, "Is there no one among the daughters of your brothers and among all your people that you should go and take a wife from among those uncircumcised Philistines?"

Samson said to his father, "Get her for me, for I like her." ⁴ They did not know that this came from Yahweh who was seeking a quarrel with the Philistines; for at that time, the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

"Samson then went down to Timnah, and when he reached the vineyards at Timnah, a young lion came up roaring toward him. ⁶ The Spirit of Yahweh then seized Samson. With bare hands he tore the lion to pieces as he would have done with a young goat. ⁷ But he told neither his father or mother what he had done. ⁸ Then he went down and talked to the woman who pleased him.

After some time, he returned to take her. He went out of his way to look at the carcass of the lion. He found a swarm of bees and honey in the lion's carcass. ⁹ Samson scraped the honey into his hands and ate it as he walked.

When he reached his parents, he gave them honey and they ate it, too. But he did not tell them he had taken the honey from the lion's carcass.¹⁰ Then, Samson's father went down to the woman and Samson offered a banquet as was the custom among the young.¹¹ When he appeared, the Philistines assigned thirty of their men to go with him as his wedding companions.

¹² Samson said to them, "I am going to give you a riddle. If you can give me the right solution within seven days of the feast, I shall give you thirty tunics and thirty linen garments.¹³ But if you can't tell me the solution, you will give me thirty tunics and thirty linen garments." They answered, "Tell your riddle; we are listening."

¹⁴ He said to them, "From he who eats came what is eaten, and from the strong, sweetness came."¹⁵ After three days, they had not guessed the riddle. So on the fourth day, they said to Samson's wife, "Convince your husband to explain the riddle to us, or we will burn you and your father's family. Did you invite us to rob us?"

¹⁶ Samson's wife began to weep and she threw herself upon her husband saying, "You do not like me or love me anymore. You have given a riddle to the young men of my people, but you have not explained it to me." He said to her, "I have not explained it even to my parents, why should I explain it to you?"¹⁷ She cried before him for seven days while the feast lasted. On the seventh day, he explained it to her for he was bored with her crying. She then related it to her countrymen.

¹⁸ On the seventh day, before the married couple were to enter the wedding chamber, the people of the city said to Samson, "What is sweeter than honey? What is stronger than a lion?" He said to them, "If you had not plowed with my young cow, you would not have guessed my riddle."

¹⁹ Then the Spirit of Yahweh seized him. He went down to Ashkelon, killed thirty men, took their plunder and gave the linen garments to those who had guessed the riddle. Then, in great anger, he came up to his father's house.

²⁰ So Samson's wife was given to one of his wedding companions.

15 After some time, during wheat harvest, Samson went to visit his wife, bringing a young goat with him, and he said, "I want to be with my wife in our room." But her father would not let him in,² saying "I thought that you did not like her anymore, so I gave her to your companion. Why not take her younger sister for a wife?"³ Samson replied, "This time

I owe nothing to the Philistines even if I do them harm."

⁶ The Philistines asked, "Who did this?" And they answered, "Samson, the son-in-law of the man from Timnah, because this man took his wife and gave her to his companion." So they went up and burned her and her family.⁷ Samson said to them, "Since you did this, I will not rest until I have had my revenge on you."⁸ So he caused a great havoc upon them. Then he went down to live in a cave in the rock of Etam.

⁹ The Philistines went up to the mountains of Judah and raided Lehi.¹⁰ The men of Judah asked them, "Why have you come to attack us?" They answered, "We have come to capture Samson, and do to him what he did to us."

¹¹ Three thousand men of Judah went down to the cave at the rock of Etam and said to Samson, "Do you not know that the Philistines lord it over us? Now what have you done to us?" He answered, "What they did to me, I have done to them."¹² They said to him, "We have come down to tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines." Samson said to them, "Swear to me that you will not kill me."

¹³ They answered, "No, we only want to tie you up and hand you over to them, but we will not kill you." They bound him with two new ropes and brought him up from the rocks.

¹⁶ Samson then said, "With the jawbone of an ass, I dealt them a mighty blow; with the jawbone of an ass, I beat a thousand men."

¹⁷ When he finished speaking, he threw away the jawbone and that is why the place was called Ramath-lehi.¹⁸ Then he became terribly thirsty and called out to Yahweh saying, "You have given your servant this great victory. Now am I to die of thirst and fall into the hands of the uncircumcised?"

¹⁹ So Yahweh opened a hollow in the ground at Lehi and water gushed forth from it. Samson drank; his strength returned and he revived. For this, the name En-hakkore was given to the fountain which is still in Lehi to this day.

²⁰Samson became judge of Israel for twenty years during the time of the Philistines.

16 ¹When Samson went to Gaza, he saw a prostitute there and entered the place where she lived. ²When the men of Gaza were notified that Samson had come, they made the rounds and lay in wait for him at the city gates. They kept quiet all night, thinking, "We will wait for him until dawn and then we will kill him." ³But Samson slept until midnight. At midnight, he arose and took hold of the door panels of the city gates together with the doorcase, and pulled them up with the bar. He put them upon his shoulders and carried them to the hilltop opposite Hebron.

Samson and Delilah

■ ⁴After this, Samson fell in love with a woman in the valley of Sorek; she was called Delilah. ⁵The Philistine chiefs said to this woman, charm him and find out where he gets such strength and how we can defeat and tie him up. Each of us shall give you eleven hundred pieces of silver."

⁶So Delilah asked Samson, "Tell me, please, where do you get such strength and how can others tie you up to subdue you?" ⁷Samson answered her, "If they bind me with seven new and moist bowstrings, then I shall lose my strength and be as any other man."

¹⁰Then Delilah said to Samson, "You made a fool of me, and you lied to me. Tell me, how can they subdue you?" ¹¹Samson answered her, "If they bind me this time with seven newly-braided ropes which have never been used, then I shall lose my strength and be like any other man."

¹²So Delilah bound him with seven newly-braided ropes. But when she shouted, "Here come the Philistines!" he again snapped the ropes round his arms like thread. ¹³So Delilah said to him, "Until when will you deceive me and lie to me?" Tell me how they could subdue you." He answered her, "If you braid the seven locks of my hair in the warp of the loom and tighten it with a pin, then I shall lose my strength." ¹⁴She lulled him to sleep, and then braided the seven locks of his hair in the warp of the loom and tightened it with a pin. Then she cried, "Here come the Philistines!" Samson woke up and pulled the warp with the locks of his hair. And so, Delilah did not find out where his great strength came from.

¹⁵Delilah said to him for the third time, "You say that you love me, but your heart is not with me. Three times, you have deceived me and have not told me where your great strength comes." ¹⁶And as Delilah insisted and bothered him day after day with her questions, the time came when Samson felt he would die in disgust. ¹⁷So he told her the truth: "Never has my hair been cut for I am a Nazirite, consecrated to God from the womb of my mother. If my hair is cut, then I shall lose my strength and be like any other man.

Elsewhere in the Bible we read: "It is good to keep to oneself the King's secret", and "Do not throw your pearls before swine lest they trample on them and stretch themselves over you."

¹⁸ Delilah understood that he had told her the truth this time, so she called the Philistine chiefs and said, "Come, because Samson has revealed his secret to me." They came and gave her the money they promised. ¹⁹ Delilah lulled Samson to sleep upon her knees and called a man to cut the seven locks of his hair. And she could immediately subdue him for his strength had left him.

²⁰ When Delilah shouted "Samson, the Philistines!" he awoke and thought that he could still save himself as on other occasions. But he did not know that Yahweh was no longer with him. ²¹ So the Philistines seized him, gouged out his eyes, and brought him to Gaza. There they bound him with two bronze chains and made him turn the mill in the prison. ²² The hair on Samson's head, however, began to grow as soon as it was cut.

Death of Samson

²³ The Philistine chiefs assembled to offer a great sacrifice to their god Dagon and had a great feast, saying, "Our god has given Samson, our enemy, into our hands!"

²⁴ While they were celebrating, they said, "Bring out Samson that he may amuse us." They brought him out of prison and placed him between the columns, and he amused them.

²⁵ When they saw him, the people praised their god saying, "Our god has put our enemy into our hands, Samson who has destroyed our country and killed our men."

²⁶ Samson then said to the boy who held him by the hand, "Lead me where I can touch the pillars on which this house rests, so that I may lean on them." ²⁷ The house was full of men and women, all the Philistine chiefs were also there, and on the roof were about three thousand men and women watching Samson for amusement.

²⁸ Samson called on Yahweh and exclaimed, "Lord, Yahweh, please remember me and restore my strength only this once, so that I may avenge myself against the Philistines for my eyes."

³¹ His brothers and the whole family of his father went down to get him. They buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the tomb of his father Manoah. He had judged Israel for twenty years.

Story of Micah

◆17 ¹A man named Micah in the mountains of Ephraim one day ²said to his mother, "The eleven hundred pieces of silver taken from you and about which you

2. Lev 5, 1

◆ The Book of Judges concludes with two typical stories about the life of Israel at that time. After having extolled that epoch during which there was no need for kings (see 8:22), the author recognizes the evils that anarchy produced.

In Chr. 17-18, the absence of religious authority results in a situation where priests just do as they please. Let us bear in mind that, at that time, men of the tribe of Levi were dedicated to Yahweh's service (see Num 3).

In 18:27 we have one of those passages in the Bible where great indifference is shown regarding a savage massacre. The Israelites at that time did not know how to value human life, either that of an enemy or their own. Individuals did not count but only the people collectively. To them it was not more serious to wipe out a foreign people than to destroy a forest.

uttered a curse, well, it was I who took that silver. And now, I return it to you." ³ His mother answered, "May Yahweh bless my son!" So he returned the eleven hundred pieces of silver to his mother.

But his mother said to him, "I had consecrated this money to Yahweh with my own hand, so that with this money, my son could make a statue cast in metal. So I am giving back this silver to you."

⁴ He, however, returned the silver to his mother who set aside two hundred pieces for the silversmith, who made a statue cast in metal. ⁵ This was placed in the house of Micah, so that Micah had a House of God. He also made an ephod to consult Yahweh as they cast lots, and some small idols, and consecrated also one of his sons as his priest. ⁶ At that time, there was no king in Israel and each one did what seemed right to him.

⁷ A young Levite of Bethlehem in Judah, a descendant of Moses who lived there as a foreigner, ⁸ left Bethlehem one day and set out to see where he could live as a guest. He came to the house of Micah in the mountains of Ephraim, ⁹ and Micah asked him, "Where do you come from?" He answered, "I am a Levite and I come walking from Bethlehem; I come in search of a place where I can stay as a guest." ¹⁰ Micah said to him, "Stay in my house and be a father and priest to me; I shall give you ten pieces of silver a year, clothing and food." So the Levite went in to his house.

¹¹ The Levite agreed to stay in Micah's house and became like one of his sons. ¹² Micah consecrated the Levite, and this young man became his priest and remained in the house of Micah. ¹³ And Micah said, "Now I know that Yahweh will bestow favors on me for this Levite has become my priest."

18 ¹ At that time there was no king in Israel. The tribe of Dan was looking for a territory to dwell in, because until that day they had not received a share in the inheritance of the tribes of Israel. ² So the Danites sent five valiant men from Zorah and Eshtaol – all from the Danite tribe – to go around the land and explore it. They said to them, "Go and explore the country." These men came to the mountains of Ephraim near the house of Micah and spent the night there.

³ As they were near the house, they recognized the voice of the young Levite, so they went in. They asked him, "Who has brought you here? What are you doing in this place? Why are you here?" ⁴ He answered, "Such and such a thing Micah has done for me. He has hired me to become his priest." ⁵ They said to him, "Ask God so we may know whether the journey we undertake shall be successful or not." ⁶ The priest answered them, "Go in peace, the journey you make is under the eye of Yahweh."

⁷ The five men left and came to Laish. They saw that the inhabitants of that place were living in security according to the customs of the Sidonians – quiet and trusting people – with no one creating trouble. They lived far from the Sidonians and had no dealings with anyone else.

⁸ Upon their return to their brothers in Zorah and Eshtaol, ⁹ they were asked, "What news do you bring?" They answered, "Come on, let us go and attack them for the country we have seen is an excellent place. But why are you silent? Do not delay in setting out to conquer the land." ¹⁰ When you go, you shall meet a quiet people; the land is vast and God has given it into our hands, a place which does not lack anything."

¹⁴ Then the five men who had gone to explore the land addressed their brothers and said, "Do you not know that in one of these houses, there is an ephod used to consult Yahweh, some small idols and a statue cast in metal? Now you know what you have to do."

¹⁵ The troops made a detour and entered the house of the young Levite, the house of Micah. They greeted him ¹⁶ while the six hundred armed Danites stood at the threshold of the gate. ¹⁷ Then the five men who had earlier gone up to explore the land went up again, entered Micah's house ¹⁸ and took the statue, the ephod that is used to consult Yahweh and the small idols, while the priest stood at the gate with the six hundred armed men. The priest said to them, "What are you doing?" ¹⁹ They said to him, "Be quiet!" Put your hand on your mouth and come with us. You shall be a father and priest to us. Do you prefer to be a priest in the house of one individual or to be a priest for a tribe of Israel?"

²¹ The Danites went on their way, putting the women, children, livestock and precious objects in front of them. ²² They were already far from the house of Micah when the people of the neighbouring houses started shouting and set out to pursue them.²³ But the Danites turned around and said to Micah, "What is the matter with you that you shouted?"²⁴ He answered, "You have taken the gods which I had made, and my priest is going away with you. What else is left to me? And yet you still ask me: 'What is the matter with you?'"²⁵ The Danites answered him, "Be quiet now lest some ill-tempered men fall upon you, and kill you and your household."²⁶ So the Danites went their way, and Micah, seeing that they were stronger, returned home.

²⁷ As for them, they now had the gods which Micah had fashioned and the priest he had in his service, and they marched on against Laish, a quiet and trusting people. They put the inhabitants to the sword and burned the city.

²⁹ The Danites rebuilt the city and lived there, and they gave it the name Dan in memory of their ancestor Dan, son of Israel, though the city was formerly called Laish.³⁰ They set aside a place for the statue, and Jonathan – a descendant of Gershom, son of Moses – and his sons after him, became priests of the tribe of Dan until the people were driven out of the land.³¹ They set up the image Micah had made, and there it remained all the time the House of God was in Shiloh.

The crime at Gibeah o19 ¹ At that time there was still no king in Israel. A Levite who lived in the borders of the mountains of Ephraim took a woman from Bethlehem in Judah as concubine.² This woman deceived him and then returned to her father's house at Bethlehem in Judah. She remained there for about four months.³ Her husband set out to visit her and speak to her heart to make her return to his home. He brought with him a servant and two asses.

She welcomed him in the house of her father who was glad to see him.⁴ His father-in-law, the father of the girl, made him stay so he remained with him for three days. They ate, drank and spent the night there.⁵ On the fourth day, they rose early in the morning and the Levite prepared to leave. But the father of the young maiden said to his son-in-law, "Eat some bread first so you can regain your strength, then you can go."

⁶ The two sat and began to eat and drink together. Then the father-in-law said, "Please spend the night here and have a good time."

⁸ On the fifth day, he again rose early in the morning to go, but the father of the young maiden said to him, "Have more patience and stay until evening." So they ate together.⁹ But when the husband, his concubine and his servant stood up to leave, the father-in-law said to his son-in-law, "Look, it's already getting dark. Spend the night here and enjoy yourself. You can leave early tomorrow morning and be on your way home."¹⁰ But the Levite refused to spend the night there, so he got up, left and arrived opposite Jebush, or Jerusalem. He brought with him the two saddled asses, his concubine and his servant.

¹¹ It was very late when they came near Jebush. So the servant said to his master, "Let us not go any farther but go into the city of the Jebusites and spend the night there."¹² His master answered him, "Let us not go to a foreign city where there are no Israelites; we will go to Gibeah." And he added to his servant,¹³ "Come and let us go near one of those towns. We will spend the night in Gibeah or in Ramah."¹⁴ So they went their way, and at sunset they arrived opposite Gibeah of Benjamin.

¹⁵ They turned aside and went there to spend the night.¹⁶ Then, an old man came in from his work in the fields. He was a man from the mountains of Ephraim and lived as a visitor in Gibeah, for the people of that place were of the tribe of Benjamin.¹⁷ Looking to one side, the old man noticed the visitor in the city square and said to him, "Where do you come from and where are you going?"¹⁸ And he answered, "We are passing through, for we come from Bethlehem of Judah, and we are going up to the borders of the mountains of Ephraim where I come from. I went to Bethlehem of Judah and now I am returning home. But here no one has offered me his house."¹⁹ We have, however, straw and green fodder for our asses, and bread and wine for me, my wife and the young

o This misdeed resembles very much what is found in Gn 19 and what is said there in the footnote, with respect to the answer of the master of the house, is also relevant here. Verses 24-25 and 27-28 are a horrible testimony to what has been for centuries, the attitude of men towards women: total irresponsibility and contempt. Woman is no more than a love object or someone who does work that men find repugnant.

nan who accompanies us. We don't lack anything."

²⁰ The old man said to him, "Peace be with you. I shall provide you with all that you need. Just don't spend the night in the square." ²¹ He brought them to his house and gave fodder to the asses. The travelers washed their feet, then ate and drank.

²² As they were relaxing, the wicked men of the city went round the house, pounded on the door and said to the old man who owned the house, "Bring out the man you have welcomed into your house so we may amuse ourselves with him." ²³ The owner of the house went out to them and said, "No, my brothers, do not eat him badly. This man has come into my house, so do not do him evil. ²⁴ Here is my daughter, a virgin, and my companion's concubine. I can give her to you if you want. Ravish her and do with her what seems good to you, but not against this man." ²⁵ But those men would not listen to him. So the man took his concubine and brought her outside. They violated and maltreated her the whole night until morning. At dawn, they left her.

²⁹ When he arrived home, he took a knife and taking hold of his concubine, he divided her, limb by limb, into twelve pieces and sent them throughout the territory of Israel. ³⁰ He gave his messengers, this order: "Say this to the Israelites: Until today, have you seen anything like this since the Israelites came up from the land of Egypt? Think about it. Seek counsel and decide." Everyone who saw it said: Until today, never has this happened nor has anything like this been seen since the Israelites came up from the land of Egypt."

sheba, gathered as one man, including the land of Gilead, before Yahweh at Mizpah. ² The heads of all the people and of all the tribes of Israel came to the assembly of the people of God: four hundred thousand men on foot, all armed with swords.

³ The men of the tribe of Benjamin also knew that the Israelites had gone up to Mizpah.

The sons of Israel said, "Tell us how this crime happened." ⁴ The Levite, the husband of the murdered woman, addressed them and said, "I arrived at Gibeah in Benjamin with my concubine to spend the night there. ⁵ By night, the residents of Gibeah showed up and surrounded the house, intending to harm us. They were determined to kill me, and they abused my concubine in such a way that she died. ⁶ I then took her, cut her into pieces one piece to each territory of Israel, because what they have done is a shame for Israel. ⁷ Now that you are here, all sons of Israel, discuss among yourselves and make a decision now."

⁸ All the people rose as one man and said, "None of us shall return to his tent nor go to his house. ⁹ This is what we will do with the people of Gibeah: we will draw a lot ¹⁰ and will take from the tribes of Israel ten men for every hundred, a hundred for every thousand, and a thousand for every ten thousand. They shall gather provisions for the troops who will go to punish Gibeah in Benjamin for the crime its inhabitants have committed in Israel." ¹¹ So all the men of Israel united as one man against the city.

¹² The tribes of Israel sent messengers throughout the whole tribe of Benjamin and said to them: "What is this crime that has been committed among you? ¹³ Hand over those wicked men of Gibeah to us, that we may kill them and banish the evil from Israel." But the Benjaminites did not mind their Israelite brothers.

31. Jos 8, 4

For as long as there was no central authority, the king who would "judge", each family and tribe was obliged to defend and avenge its own members. There was no other way to protect the individual among a people who had no authorities. In this situation, a crime could cause war among the tribes, as happened in the example recounted here. The narration gives much emphasis to the war and to the destruction of Benjamin. We do not need to accept the figures as authentic.

A lesson is imparted here: in spite of all the sins and errors of Benjamin, not one of the twelve tribes which are Yahweh's inheritance, can disappear. In spite of the trials they bring upon themselves, a remnant will always be saved.

handed and able to sling a stone at a hair's breadth without missing.

¹⁷ The people of Israel also counted their men. Without counting Benjamin, there were four hundred thousand men, able to draw sword, all men of war. ¹⁸ So they set out and went up to Bethel where they asked God: "who among us shall go up first to fight the sons of Benjamin?" And Yahweh answered, "Judah shall go up first."

²³ The sons of Israel then went up to weep before Yahweh until evening, and asked Yahweh, saying, "Shall we fight again with the sons of our brother Benjamin?" Yahweh answered, "Go up against them."

²⁶ Then all the Israelites, all the people, went up to Bethel. There they sat weeping before Yahweh. They fasted the whole day until evening and presented burnt and peace offerings before Yahweh. ²⁷ For the Ark of the Covenant was there, ²⁸ with Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, as its minister. They asked: "Shall we come out again and fight the sons of our brother Benjamin, or not?" Yahweh replied, "Go up tomorrow, and I will give them into your hands."

²⁹ Israel set men in ambush around Gibeah.

³⁰ On the third day, the sons of Israel marched against Gibeah and positioned themselves in the battle line as on previous times. ³¹ The sons of Benjamin went out against them, but the Israelites cut off the way that led back to the city. The Benjaminites began as before to attack the men of Israel, killing about thirty men on the roads, going up to Bethel and to Gibeah. ³² So the Benjaminites thought: "We have defeated them again as before."

But the Israelites said to themselves: "Let us flee to draw them away from the city and cut off the roads." ³³ All the men of Israel moved from their camp and took up position at Baal-Tamar, while those who were in ambush rushed out of their place to the west of Gibeah. ³⁴ So ten thousand chosen men from all Israel came against Gibeah. The battle was fought hard, and the Benjaminites did not notice the calamity which was to come upon them.

³⁹ So the Israelites who pretended to escape returned when the Benjaminites had killed about thirty men and had thought: "Now they are defeated as in the first battle." ⁴⁰ The smoke signal was already rising from the city. When the Benjaminites looked behind, they saw that the whole city was on fire, with flames rising up to heaven. ⁴¹ When the Israelites faced them, the Benjaminites trembled before the calamity which had come upon them. ⁴² They retreated before the men of Israel and fled in the direction leading to the desert. But the Israelites who came out of the city overtook them and destroyed them. ⁴³ They surrounded the men of Benjamin, pursued them without rest and crushed them opposite Gibeah by the east.

⁴⁴ Eighteen thousand Benjaminites fell, all valiant men. ⁴⁵ The survivors retreated and fled towards the desert to the rock of Rimmon. About five thousand men, however, were killed on the way. They also pursued Benjamin as far as Gideon, killing two thousand men.

⁴⁶ On that day, twenty-five thousand sword-wielding Benjaminites died, all valiant men. Of those who fled to the desert to the rock of Rimmon, ⁴⁷ six hundred were able to escape. They remained there for four months. ⁴⁸ The troops of Israel turned against the towns of Benjamin and put them to the sword, the people as well as the livestock and everything in them. They also burned all the cities they found.

21 ¹ The men of Israel swore at Mizpah: "None of us shall give his daughter in marriage to any Benjaminite."

² The people went to Bethel. There they sat before Yahweh until evening, called on him and wept with great lamentation.

³ They said, "Yahweh, God of Israel, why has this misfortune happened to Israel, that one of its tribes has perished today?" ⁴ On the next day, the people rose early, built an altar there and offered holocausts and peace:

offerings. ⁵ The Israelites then asked, "Who among all the tribes of Israel did not come to the assembly of Yahweh?" For they had solemnly sworn that whoever would not come up to Mizpah before Yahweh shall die.

⁶ The sons of Israel had compassion on their brother Benjamin and they said, "Today a tribe of Israel has been cut off, ⁷ what shall we do to provide wives for those that remain, for we have sworn to Yahweh not to give them our daughters in marriage?"

⁸ Because of this they asked, "Did any tribe of Israel not come up to Mizpah before Yahweh?" And they found out that none from Yabesh of Gilead had come to the camp for the assembly. ⁹ They made the census and saw that here was no one from Yabesh of Gilead.

¹⁰ Then the community sent there twelve thousand of their valiant men with this order: "Go and put to the sword the inhabitants of Yabesh of Gilead, including women and children. ¹¹ This is what you shall do: kill every man and every woman who has had a relation with a man, but let the maidens live." ¹² So they did. They found four hundred young virgins among the inhabitants of Yabesh in Gilead who had not had any relations with man, and they brought them to the camp at Shiloh in the land of Canaan.

¹³ Then the community sent messengers to the Benjaminites who were at the rock of Rimmon to make peace with them. ¹⁴ and the Benjaminites returned. The Israelites gave them the women of Yabesh of Gilead they had spared, but they were not enough for all.

¹⁵ The people had compassion again on

Benjamin for Yahweh had let one of the tribes of Israel perish. ¹⁶ So the community elders said, "What can we do to provide wives for those that are left, for the women of Benjamin were killed?" ¹⁷ and they added, "How can the survival of Benjamin be assured that a tribe of Israel may not perish? ¹⁸ We cannot give them our daughters since we have made this oath: Cursed be he who gives a wife to Benjamin?"

¹⁹ But they said, "It is now the feast of Yahweh which is celebrated annually at Shiloh, north of Bethel, east of the road that goes up from Bethel to Shechem, and south of Lebonah." ²⁰ So they advised the Benjaminites: "Go and wait in ambush in the vineyards. ²¹ Be ready and when the maidens of Shiloh come dancing in groups, come out of the vineyards and each man seize a wife and go to the land of Benjamin."

²⁴ The Israelites then marched from there to their homes, every man to his tribe and family.

²⁵ At that time, there was no king in Israel and everyone did what seemed good to him.

INTRODUCTION

The Book of Samuel, now divided in two, marks the third stage of sacred history after Genesis and Exodus. Here we are made to discover THE WORK OF GOD IN MEN'S HEARTS and how they cooperate with God's rule.

Here are presented very simply the examples and failures of DAVID; his life, similar to that of any of us, seems to hold mystery. At the end, though, we find that God was present in everything that happened to him and that he established with them something that will not perish.

The importance of this book does not come from historical events of great magnitude. Certainly, there are some there, but the Bible is more concerned with the PERSONAL HISTORY of David than with his victories. This first king of Israel was the model of a believer since, being a man with great personality and of no ordinary intelligence, he also let himself be guided and INSPIRED BY GOD, and it was his main concern to serve him in everything.

In a way, here GOD HIDES HIMSELF. Nothing is said about revelations or grandiose manifestations of God. Only a word to the prophet Nathan which will be decisive for the future of the kingdom of David, in Jerusalem and over Palestine, will develop into the universal kingdom of God. Christ Jesus will be the SON OF DAVID.

Two personages precede David:

- SAMUEL, the last of the Judges who is also a prophet. This is the time during which the disunited Israelites feel the need to have a permanent authority: "We want a king, like the rest of the nations have," instead of depending solely on the inspired ones, the "judges" who are not always there when the people need them.
- SAUL, the first king chosen by God, but later rejected.

When the book opens, Israel is not yet master of the land of Canaan, but already the tribe have become used to a sedentary, country life after having been nomad herdsmen. Settled in the hills, they have often submitted to the incursions of the Philistines established in the fertile plain of the coast, in their cities of Gat, Azoto, Ascalon, Acaron.

The story of Hannah

1 There was a man from Ramah in the hill country of Ephraim, whose name was Elkanah. He was the son of Elihu of the family of Zuph. He had two wives: Hannah and Peninnah. Peninnah had children but Hannah had none.

³ Every year, Elkanah went to worship and to sacrifice to Yahweh at Shiloh. The priests there were the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas. Whenever Elkanah offered sacrifice, he gave portions to his wife, Peninnah and to all her sons and daughters. ⁵ To Hannah, however, he gave the more delightful portion because he loved her more, although she had no child. ⁶ Her rival used to tease Hannah for being barren every time they went to Yahweh's house. And Hannah would weep and refuse to eat. Once, Elkanah, her husband, asked her: "Hannah, why do you weep? Why aren't you eating? Why are you sad? Are you not better off with me than with many sons?"

⁹ After they had eaten and drunk in Shiloh, Hannah stood up not far from Eli, the priest who was seated beside the doorpost of Yahweh's House. ¹⁰ Deeply distressed and weeping bitterly, she prayed to Yahweh, ¹¹ and as he prayed, she made this vow. "O Yahweh of hosts, if only you will have compassion on your maidser-vant and give me a son, I will put him in your service for as long as he lives and no razor shall touch his head."

¹² As she was praying before Yahweh, Eli observed the movement of her lips. ¹³ Hannah was praying silently and, although she was moving her lips, she uttered no sound. Because of this, Eli thought Hannah was drunk. ¹⁴ He, therefore, said to her: "For how long will you be drunk? Let your drunkenness pass." ¹⁵ But Hannah answered: "No, my Lord, I am a woman in great distress, not drunk. I have never drunk wine or strong drink, but I am pouring out my soul before Yahweh. ¹⁶ Do not take me for a bad woman. I was so afflicted that I could not stop praying." ¹⁷ Then Eli said: "Go in peace and may the God of Israel grant you what you asked for." ¹⁸ Hannah said: "Let your maidservant deserve your kindness." Then she left the temple and went back to eat. She seemed a different woman and was no longer downcast.

¹⁹ Elkanah rose early in the morning and worshipped before Yahweh with his wives. Then they went back home to Ramah. When Elkanah slept with his wife, Hannah, Yahweh took compassion on her, ²⁰ and she became pregnant. She gave birth to a son and called him Samuel because she said: "I have asked Yahweh to give him to me."

2. 9, 1; Jdg 13, 2

5. Dt 12, 18

8. Rut 4, 15

o It all starts with an ordinary couple living a familiar drama in a hill town.

A woman, afflicted with sterility, complains to Yahweh - she is not resigned to a seemingly useless life. Yahweh listens to the afflicted and his answer always exceeds what they ask for. He not only gives Hannah a son, he also gives his people a prophet.

God likes to choose his servants precisely from those families who have no hope of having children. It is God who gives life to the dead and hope to those who have none. The same happens with the birth of Isaac and John the Baptist (Lk 1:5). In the book of Isaiah is a poem which starts with these words: "Shout out for joy, oh you who were barren!" (Is 54:1)

These pages depict for us the religious life of those days. The campaign tent which shelters the ark is at Shiloh. There is no temple yet in Israel, so pilgrims bring their animals; and the father as head of the family and priest of his household sacrifices the victims. Only after David's time will the priests of Levi's tribe be the exclusive intermediaries between Yahweh and his people.

The woman's inferior status also appears here. Elkanah loves Hannah as he loves his children, but as long as the menfolk are allowed

²⁴ When the child was nursed, Hannah took him with her along with a three-year-old bull, a measure of flour and a flask of wine, and she brought him to Yahweh's house at Shiloh. The child was still young.

²⁵ After they had slain the bull, they brought the child to Eli. ²⁶ Hannah exclaimed: "Oh, my Lord, look! I am the woman who was standing here in your presence, praying to Yahweh. ²⁷ I was praying for this child and Yahweh has granted me my petition. ²⁸ Therefore, I give him to Yahweh. As long as he lives, he is given to Yahweh."

And they worshipped Yahweh there.

Hannah's Prayer

2 ¹ And this is the song of Hannah:

"My heart exults in Yahweh,
I feel strong in my God.
I rejoice and laugh at my enemies for you came with power to save me.
² Yahweh alone is holy, no one is like you;
there is no Rock like our God.
³ Speak proudly no more;
no more arrogance on your lips.
for Yahweh is an all-knowing God,
he it is who weighs the deeds of all.
⁴ The bow of the mighty is broken but the weak are girded with strength.
⁵ The well-fed must labour for bread but the hungry need work no more.

to have several wives, couples will not exist the way God willed. (See Gen 2:24).

+ In her thanksgiving song Hannah makes herself the spokesperson of all the despised people of the world.

Yahweh is the God who saves the abandoned. He rejects those who put their trust in their arm and in their bow, in the food assured for their household, i.e., in themselves and their possessions. He manifests his glory in shifting the differences existing among men (as in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus, Lk 16:25). Yahweh brings to the grave and raises up. The song of Hannah has a prophetic vision. Like Hannah, we ought to be proud of our God, even more than of the material progress of our society which blesses the rich and the powerful.

This text condemns whoever seeks to advance in society and promotes his own welfare with the sole purpose of ensuring his family's future. He who sides with the weak will be saved. Whereas others feel ashamed of their poor background, as laborers or farmers or of the undeveloped condition of their country, the believer knows that the poor and the hungry contribute to the salvation of the world. Where everything is wanting, it is easier to discover the value of human persons, and to understand that no world is worthy of man except one where food and dignity are given to all.

⁶Yahweh is Lord of life and death;
 he brings down to the grave and raises up.

Yahweh makes poor and makes rich,
⁷he brings low and he exalts.
 He lifts up the lowly from the dust, ⁸and raises the poor from the ash heap;
 they will be called to the company of princes, and inherit a seat of honour.

The earth to its pillars belongs to Yahweh and on them he has set the world.
⁹He guards the steps of his faithful ones, but the wicked perish in darkness,
 none of them will succeed by his own strength.

¹⁰The enemies of Yahweh are shattered, against them he thunders in heaven.
 Yahweh rules over the whole world,
 he will raise his own king and exalts the might of his anointed."

¹¹ After that Elkanah went home to Ramah while the boy served Yahweh in the presence of Eli, the priest.

The story of Eli

force." ¹⁷ Thus the sin of Eli's sons was very great in the sight of Yahweh because they defiled the offering of Yahweh.

²¹ Yahweh blessed Hannah with three sons and two daughters while the boy Samuel grew in the presence of Yahweh.

²² Eli had grown very old. He heard all that his sons were doing to Israel; they even slept with the women who served at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.²³ He, therefore, asked them, "People are talking about your misdeeds. Why do you do such things?"²⁴ What the people of Yahweh are spreading abroad about you is not good news to me.²⁵ If a man sins against another man, God will mediate for him. But if he sins against Yahweh, who can intercede for him?" But the two would not listen to their father for Yahweh had already decided that they should die.

²⁶The boy Samuel, in the meantime, continued to grow in stature and in worth before Yahweh and the people.

²⁷One day, a man of God came to Eli and said to him, "This is Yahweh's word: I revealed myself to your ancestors when they were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt.²⁸ I chose them out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priests, to go up to my altar, to burn incense and to wear a priest's robe in my presence, and I gave them all the burnt offerings of Israel.²⁹ Why do you now look with greed on my sacrifice and the offerings that I myself ordered? Why do you listen to your sons more than to me and fatten yourselves on the choicest parts of every offering made by my people Israel?"³⁰ Therefore, Yahweh, the God of Israel declares: I promised that your family and that of your father should go on ministering before me forever; but now I shall no longer honour my word. Those who honour me I shall honour, those who despise me will be despised.³¹ The days are coming when I will break your strength and the strength of all your relatives. No one will live to a ripe old age.³² Then, in distress, you will be filled with envy, seeing how Israel prospers.³³ Those of your household that I do not reject from my service will be spared only to weep bitterly and live in grief; but the rest shall die by the sword.³⁴ What will happen to your sons Hophni and Phinehas shall be a sign to you: both of them shall die on the same day.³⁵ I will raise up for myself a faithful priest who shall be just, the one I love in heart and in mind. I will give him a lasting succession that will serve me and my anointed one forever.³⁶ And everyone that is left of your family shall ask a priest humbly for some money or a loaf of bread saying: Appoint me, I beg you, for a priestly function so that I may have something to eat."

God calls Samuel

3 ¹The boy Samuel ministered to Yahweh under Eli's care. The word of Yahweh was rare in those days and visions infrequent.

²One night, Eli, who was by then half blind, was lying down in his room. ³The lamp of God was still lighted and Samuel was lying down in the house of Yahweh where the ark of God was located. ⁴Then Yahweh called, "Samuel! Samuel!" Samuel answered, "I am here!"⁵ and ran to Eli saying, "I am here, for you called me." But Eli said, "I did not call. Lie down again." Samuel went back.

26. Lk 2, 52 30. Ps 18, 26 33. Lev 26, 16 35. Num 25, 12; 1 K 2, 26 5. Gen 22, 1

■ God's call to Samuel is personal and direct. This is not the lightning touch by which God definitively marks his great prophets and reveals to them something of his mystery as he does in the case of Isaiah or Paul. Nevertheless, the answer of the child Samuel prepares him for greater things.

How seriously Eli, in spite of his age and function, takes Samuel into account! He knows that spiritual maturity has nothing to do with physical age and he accepts God's reproaches relayed through this boy.

The Bible also underlines the responsibility of those who do not discipline their children. The father's duty to educate and correct his children, even by punishing, instead of leaving them to their own selves to do what they want, was taught in Israel. Parents must not shirk from their responsibility under the false pretext that if one becomes demanding towards his children, he will lose their affection. As the conscience of the child is not yet fully awake, the future liberty of the young person and the grown man has to be ensured through the discipline of a "Law." (See Sir 30; Gal 4 and commentary on Judg 8:22.)

The call of Samuel reminds us that every person has a vocation, i.e., that God calls him and destines him to accomplish his own irreplaceable task. In our society many people are looked upon merely as a work force and receive little appreciation. Since they have no duty or responsibility of which they can be proud, they rightly feel frustrated. They do not feel themselves "called" or needed for something big. So they lack one of the more important drives to build their own life. In directing his life, each one has to ask himself: "What does God want of me?"

* Then Yahweh called again, "Samuel!" and Samuel stood up and went to Eli saying, "I am here, for you called me." But Eli said, "I did not call you, my son. Go back and lie down."

⁷ Now Samuel did not yet know Yahweh and the word of Yahweh had not yet been revealed to him. ⁸ But Yahweh called Samuel for the third time. Samuel stood up and went to Eli saying, "I am here, for you called me." Then Eli realized that Yahweh was calling the boy *and he said to Samuel, "Go, lie down, and if he calls you again, say, 'Speak, Yahweh, for your servant hears.'" So Samuel went back and lay down.

¹⁰ Then Yahweh came and stood before Samuel, calling as he did before, "Samuel! Samuel!" And Samuel answered, "Speak, for your servant hears."¹¹ Then Yahweh said to Samuel, "Look, I am about to do something in Israel which will scare everyone who hears about it. ¹² On that day, I will punish Eli and fulfill all that I have spoken against his family from beginning to end. ¹³ You will tell him that I am about to punish his family forever, because he was aware that his sons were blaspheming God but he did not stop them. ¹⁴ Therefore, I swear that the sin of Eli's family shall never be atoned for by sacrifice or by any offering."

¹⁵ Samuel lay down until morning. Then he opened the doors of Yahweh's house. Samuel was afraid to tell the vision to Eli. ¹⁶ But Eli called him and said, "Samuel, my son." Samuel answered, "I am here." ¹⁷ Eli asked, "What did Yahweh tell you? Do not hide it from me. May God punish you if you hide anything from me." ¹⁸ So Samuel told him everything. Then Eli said, "It is Yahweh. Let him do what seems good to him."

¹⁹ Samuel grew and Yahweh was with him. Whatever Yahweh told him became true. ²⁰ All Israel, from Dan to Beersheba knew that Samuel had proven to be Yahweh's prophet. ²¹ Yahweh would appear at Shiloh; he revealed himself to Samuel at Shiloh through his word.

The Philistines capture the ark

♦4 ¹ At that time, the Philistines gathered for an attack on Israel, and Israel went out to battle against the Philistines. They encamped at Ebenezer, while the Philistines encamped at Aphek. ² The Philistines then drew up in battle formation. They attacked Israel and after a fierce struggle, Israel was defeated, leaving about four thousand men dead on the battlefield. ³ When the troops retreated to their camp, the elders of Israel asked, "Why has Yahweh allowed us to be defeated by the Philistines? Let us take the ark of God from Shiloh and bring it here so that Yahweh may be with us and save us from our enemies." ⁴ So the people sent messengers to Shiloh and also the ark of the covenant of Yahweh who is seated on the cherubim. Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, accompanied the ark.

⁵ As soon as the ark of Yahweh entered the camp, the Israelites began to cheer so loudly that the earth resounded. ⁶ The Philistines heard the shouting and asked, "What does this loud

♦ In their war against the Philistines, the Israelites seek the protection of Yahweh. They look for the Ark, thinking that, with this, Yahweh is obliged to grant them victory.

But God is not concerned with the sacred Ark, nor is he at the service of an irresponsible people. Instead, he wants to educate them by making them pay the price of their unfaithfulness. For this reason, God does not respond to them and the sacred Ark is lost.

shout in the camp of the Hebrews mean?" And they were told that the ark of Yahweh had been brought to the camp.

⁷ The Philistines were overcome with fear. They exclaimed, "A god has come into the camp. ⁸ Woe to us! For nothing like this has happened before. Woe to us! Who can save us from the power of these mighty gods? These are the gods who struck the Egyptians with all sorts of plagues and pestilence. ⁹ Take courage and conduct yourselves like men, O Philistines, lest you become slaves to the Hebrews the way they have been slaves to you. Be manly and fight."

¹⁰ So the Philistines fought and Israel was defeated. Everyone fled to his home. It was a disastrous defeat; thirty thousand foot soldiers of Israel were killed. ¹¹ The ark of God was captured and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were slain.

¹² A man from the tribe of Benjamin fled from the battle line and arrived that same day in Shiloh. His clothes were torn and his head was covered with dust. ¹³ When this man arrived, Eli was on his seat by the road, watching, for his heart trembled for what might happen to the ark of God. When the people heard the news the man brought, all the city cried out. ¹⁴ Eli heard their outcry and asked, "What is all this noise?" The man came to Eli at once and told him what happened. ¹⁵ Eli was by then ninety-eight years old and was already blind. ¹⁶ The man said to him, "I came from the battle, for I was able to flee from it." Then Eli asked him, "How did the battle go, my son?" ¹⁷ The newsbearer answered, "Israel fled before the Philistines. There has been a disaster for our men; your sons, Hophni and Phinehas, are among the dead and the ark of God has been taken." ¹⁸ As soon as the man mentioned the ark of God, Eli fell over backward from his seat by the side of the gate. He broke his neck and died for he was an old and heavy man. Eli judged Israel for forty years.

¹⁹ Eli's daughter-in-law, wife of Phinehas, was pregnant and was about to give birth. When she heard that the ark of God was taken and that both her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she gave birth prematurely. ²⁰ As she lay dying, the women attending her said to her, "Do not be afraid for you have given birth to a son." But she neither answered nor listened. ²¹ She then named the child Ichabod, saying: "The glory has departed from Israel!" ²² She referred to the seizure of the ark of God and to the death of her father-in-law and her husband.

5 ¹ After they had taken the ark of God, the Philistines carried it from Ebenezer to Ashdod. ² There they brought it into the temple of Dagon and set it up beside him. ³ Rising up early the following day, the people saw that Dagon had fallen face downward on the ground before the ark of Yahweh. So they picked up Dagon and put him back in his place. ⁴ But when they rose the following morning, the people saw Dagon on the ground again, face downward before the ark of Yahweh. His head and hands were broken off and lay at the threshold. Only the trunk of Dagon was left where he fell. ⁵ This is why the priests of Dagon and his worshippers do not tread on the threshold of his temple in Ashdod up to this day.

⁶ The hand of Yahweh was heavy upon the people of Ashdod. Yahweh afflicted the people of Ashdod and its vicinity with hemorrhoids. ⁷ Seeing this, the people of Ashdod said, "Let the ark of the God of Israel not remain with us. His hand is heavy on us and on Dagon, our god." ⁸ So they had all the chiefs of the Philistine cities gathered together to ask them, "What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?" They answered, "Let the ark of the God of Israel be brought to Gath." So they brought the ark of the God of Israel there. ⁹ But as soon as they had brought it to Gath, Yahweh raised his hand against the city, causing a very great panic. He afflicted the people there, both young and old, with hemorrhoids. ¹⁰ So they moved the ark of God to Ekron. But when the ark entered Ekron, the people there cried out, "They have brought us the ark of the God of Israel to slay us all." ¹¹ So they had the chief of the Philistine cities gathered together to tell them, "Send away the ark of the God of Israel. Let it return to its own place lest we all die." For there was great panic throughout the city because of God's heavy hand. ¹² Those who did not die were stricken with hemorrhoids and the cry of the city reached to heaven.

6 ¹ The ark of Yahweh was in the country of the Philistines for seven months. ² The Philistines called their priests and diviners and asked them, "What shall we do with the ark of Yahweh? Tell us how we shall send it, back to its place.”³ The priests and diviners answered, “If you send away the ark of the God of Israel, do not send it away empty. Instead, provide him with a guilt offering. Then you may be healed and you will know why God dealt with you so severely.”⁴ The chiefs then asked, “What guilt offering shall we provide him with?” The priests and diviners answered, “Make five golden figures of hemorrhoids and five golden figures of mice corresponding to the number of Philistine cities, for the same plague was on all of you and on your chiefs.

So you must make images of your hemorrhoids and images of your mice that ravage the land, and give glory to the God of Israel. Perhaps he will remove his hand from you, your gods and your land.” But do not harden your hearts as the Egyptians and Pharaoh did. After Yahweh had afflicted them, did they not have to let the people go?

Now, then, prepare a new cart and take two milking cows which have never carried a yoke. Yoke the cows to the cart but take their calves away from them.⁸ Then, take the ark of Yahweh and place it on the cart. Put in a box beside it the golden figures which you are providing him as a guilt offering. Then send it off and let it go its way.⁹ Then, watch. If it goes up on the way to its own land, through Beth-shemesh, then it is he who has done us this great harm. If not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that struck us, that all these things happened to us by chance.”

The people carried out these instructions. They took two milking cows and yoked them to the cart and shut their calves in their shed.¹¹ They then put the ark of Yahweh on the cart, along with the box with the golden mice and the images of their hemorrhoids.¹² The cows went straight in the direction of Beth-shemesh along the way; they turned neither to the right nor to the left. Meanwhile, the chiefs of the Philistine cities followed them as far as the border of Beth-shemesh.

The people of Beth-shemesh were harvesting their wheat in the valley when they saw the ark drawing near, and they rejoiced greatly.¹⁴ The cart arrived in Beth-shemesh in Joshua's field and stopped there. A big stone lay nearby, so the people split up the wood of the cart and offered the cows over the stone as a burnt offering to the Lord.¹⁵ Meanwhile, the Levites took down the ark of Yahweh and the box containing the golden figures, and they set these up on the big stone.

That day the people of Beth-shemesh offered burnt offerings and sacrifices to Yahweh. The five chiefs of the Philistine cities however, upon seeing what happened, immediately returned to Ekron.

These are the Philistine cities who gave golden figures of hemorrhoids as a guilt offering to Yahweh: Ashdod, Gaza, Ashkelon, Gath and Akron.¹⁶ Similarly, there were golden figures of mice corresponding in number to all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five leaders, counting fortified cities and unwallled villages. The big stone beside which the people set down the ark of Yahweh in the field of Joshua of Beth-shemesh, is a witness to this day.

Yahweh caused the death of seventy men of Beth-shemesh who had looked into the ark of Yahweh. On seeing this, the people mourned greatly.²⁰ The people of Beth-shemesh then said, “Who can stand before Yahweh, this holy God? And where can we send the ark away from us?”²¹ So they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kiriath-jearim with this word, “The Philistines have returned the ark of Yahweh. Come down and take it up with you.”

7 The people of Kiriath-jearim came for the ark of Yahweh. They took it and brought it into the house of Abinadab on the hill, and they consecrated his son, Eleazar, to take charge of it.

Samuel awakens Israel

A very long time passed from the day the ark was lodged at Kiriath-jearim. For some twenty years, all Israel mourned and longed for Yahweh.

Then Samuel told the Israelites, “If you mean to turn back to Yahweh in all sincerity, then get rid of the foreign gods and the Ashteroth that you have with you. When you have set your heart on Yahweh and serve no one but him, he will deliver you from the Philistines.”⁴ So the Israelites got rid of the Baals and the Ashteroth and began serving no one but Yahweh.

Then Samuel said, “Gather all Israel in Mizpah and I will pray to Yahweh on your behalf. ⁶ And so they gathered at Mizpah. They drew water and poured it before Yahweh. They fasted on that day and said, "We have sinned against Yahweh." It was Samuel who led this assembly of Israel and Mizpah.

⁷ When the Philistines heard that the people of Israel had gathered at Mizpah, the chiefs of the Philistine cities went up to Israel's land. The Israelites became afraid when they learned this ⁸ and they said to Samuel, "Pray without ceasing to Yahweh our God on our behalf so that he may save us from the Philistines." ⁹ Samuel then took a suckling lamb and offered it to Yahweh as a whole burnt offering, appealing to Him in behalf of the people. And Yahweh answered him.

¹⁰ At the very time Samuel was offering the sacrifice, the Philistines launched an attack against Israel. But Yahweh's voice thundered loudly in the midst of the Philistines; they were suddenly confused and discouraged before Israel. ¹¹ The Israelites left Mizpah, pursuing and slaying the Philistines to a point beyond Beth-car.

¹² Samuel, then, took a stone and set it up between Mizpah and Jeshanah and named it Ebenezer, for he said, "Unto this place Yahweh has helped us." ¹³ After this defeat, the Philistines did not dare enter the territory of Israel and Yahweh held them in check for as long as Samuel lived. ¹⁴ The Israelites recovered the cities from Ekron to Gath which the Philistines had seized from Israel. And there was peace, even between the Israelites and the Amorites.

¹⁵ Samuel was judge in Israel for the rest of his life. ¹⁶ Every year he went around to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpah and judged Israel in all these places. ¹⁷ After that he returned to Ramah for his home was there. There he judged Israel and there he built an altar to Yahweh.

The people ask for a king

8 ¹ When Samuel grew old, he made his sons judges over Israel. ² His elder son was Joel and the second was Abijah, and both of them were judges in Beersheba. ³ But they were not like their father; they had their vested interests, taking bribes and perverting justice.

⁴ Because of this, all the chiefs of Israel gathered together and went to Samuel in Ramah. ⁵ They said to him, "You are already old and your sons are not following your ways. Give us a king to rule over us as in all the other nations.

⁶ Samuel was very displeased with what they said, "Give us a king to rule us," and he prayed to Yahweh. ⁷ And Yahweh told him, "Give to this people all that they ask for. ⁸ They are not rejecting you but they have rejected me as their king. They are now doing to you what they did to me from the day I brought them out of Egypt until now, forsaking me and serving

+ A new situation arises in Israel. The people realize their weakness which leads to division and anarchy. The temporary authority of the "Judges" does not suffice; the twelve tribes must unite around a king.

Samuel is a defender of the past, and his warnings are inspired by his personal distrust. He does not recognize the advantage of a stronger and more centralized government. Instead, he clearly denounces the dangers of a strong authority.

Samuel rebukes the people for their lack of faith in Yahweh. Today we would be talking about their security problem. They prefer to entrust to another the duty of taking initiative and of being responsible for them. The same happens when democracy or agrarian reform are introduced, people miss either the dictator or the master who exploited them.

Wherever there is no personal initiative and individual responsibility, there political tyranny prevails. When individuals rely on the government for everything, there is general stagnation.

According to Samuel, theoretically the king will be God's representative and his people's servant. But in reality, he will serve his own ambitions and be the nation's oppressor. Already in that ancient time, dictators had enough knowledge of propaganda to convince people that they were indispensable (Lk 22:25).

other gods. ⁹ Nevertheless, listen to them, and give them a serious warning. Tell them how they will be treated by their king."

¹⁰ So Samuel answered those who were asking him for a king, ¹¹ and he told them all that Yahweh said to him. ¹² Look, these will be the demands of your king: he will take your sons and assign them to his chariots to be his horsemen or to run before his chariots. ¹³ Some he will assign as commanders over a thousand men and commanders over fifty. ¹⁴ He will take your sons to till his own ground and to reap his own harvest: to make his implements of war and the equipment for his chariots. He will take your daughters as well to prepare perfumes, to cook and to bake for him.

¹⁶ He will take a tenth portion of your grain and of your vineyards and give it to his officers and to his servants.

¹⁷ He will take your menservants and maidservants, the best of your cattle and your asses for his own work. ¹⁸ He will take the tenth of your flocks and you yourselves will become his slaves. ¹⁹ When these things happen, you will cry out because of the king whom you have chosen for yourselves. But by then, Yahweh will not answer you."

²⁰ The people paid no attention to all that Samuel said. They insisted, "No! We want a king to govern us as in all the other nations." ²¹ Our king shall govern us, lead us and go ahead of us in our battles." ²² Upon hearing all that his people said, Samuel repeated it to Yahweh. ²³ But Yahweh said to him, "Listen to them and give them a king." Samuel then said to the Israelites, "Go back, all of you, to your own cities."

The story of Saul

9 ¹ There was a man from the tribe of Benjamin whose name was Kish. He was the son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah, a valiant Benjaminite. ² Kish had a son named Saul, a handsome young man who had no equal among the Israelites, for he was a head taller than any of them.

³ It happened that the asses of Kish were lost. So he said to his son Saul, "Take one of the boys with you and go look for the asses." ⁴ They went all over the hill country of Ephraim and the land of Shalishah but did not find them. They passed through the land of Shaalim and the land of Benjamin, but the asses were nowhere to be found.

⁵ When they reached the land of Zuph, Saul said to his boy, "Let us go back, lest my father be more worried about us than about the asses." ⁶ But his servant said to him, "Look, there is a man of God in this city. He is a highly respected man. All that he says comes true. Let us see him for he may be able to help us find what we are looking for." ⁷ Saul replied, "But if we go, what can we bring him? We have no more bread in our sacks and we have no present to bring to the man of God. What do we have?" ⁸ The servant answered, "I still have with me a quarter silver coin. I will give it to the man of God to tell us our way." ⁹ (Formerly, people in Israel who went to consult God, would say, "Come, let us go to the seer," for they did not speak of prophets, but of seers.)

■ The continuation of ch. 8 is in 10:17. Here instead the story of Saul's vocation begins. Saul sets out to look for his father's mules and, on the way, encounters something he did not expect.

¹⁰ And Saul said to his boy, "Well said! Come, let us go." So they went to the city where the man of God was.

Samuel anoints Saul

◆ ¹¹ As they went up the hill to the city, they met young girls coming out to draw water and asked them, "Is the seer here?" ¹² The maidens answered, "The seer is straight ahead. He has just arrived because they have a sacrifice today on the high place." ¹³ As soon as you enter the city, you shall find him before he goes up to the high place to eat. The people will not eat until he comes because he must first bless the sacrifice and then, those who are invited may eat. Now go up; you will meet him immediately.

¹⁴ So they went up to the city and entered it, and saw Samuel coming out towards them on his way up to the high place.

¹⁵ The day before Saul came, Yahweh had already disclosed this to Samuel, ¹⁶ "Tomorrow, about this time, I will send you a man from the land of Benjamin and you shall anoint him to rule over my people Israel. He shall save my people from the hand of the Philistines for I have seen the affliction of my people and their cry has come to me."

¹⁷ So, when Samuel saw Saul, Yahweh told him, "Here is the man I spoke to you about! He shall rule over my people."

¹⁸ Saul approached Samuel in the gateway and said, "Tell me, where is the house of the seer?" ¹⁹ Samuel answered Saul, "I am the seer. Go up ahead of me to the high place, for today you shall eat with me. In the morning, before you leave, I will tell you all that is in your heart." ²⁰ As for your asses that were lost three days ago, do not worry about them for they have been found."

Samuel added, "For whom is the land of Israel? Isn't it for you and for all your father's kin?" ²¹ Saul answered, "I am a Benjaminite, from the least of the tribes of Israel, and my family is the lowliest of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin. Why do you speak to me in this way?"

²⁵ Then they went down from the high place and entered the city. On the terrace they prepared a bed for Saul where he lay down to sleep. ²⁶ Early the next morning, Samuel called to Saul, "Get up, for I must send you on your way." Saul got up and began to walk down the street with Samuel.

²⁷ As they were going down to the outskirts of the city, Samuel said to Saul, "Tell your servants to walk ahead. You stay here for a while and I shall give you a message from God."

16. Acts 9, 10

◆ The young Saul just like many other Israelites, goes to Samuel. For them the prophet is a seer, a diviner, and they go to him for some solution to their economic problems. We should not find this strange. For centuries, those who were addicted to the science of the stars also attended consultations concerning the future. Horoscopes were their way of earning a living. Afterwards, science departed from that superstition. Similarly, in the beginning, the prophet would transmit answers from God concerning everything. He attended to everyone's request for consultation and made his living from this. But Samuel first and the major prophets thereafter, knew that their mission was to guide the people on God's behalf.

Samuel anoints Saul with anointing oil. (See commentary on Lev 8).

10 ¹ Then Samuel took a vial of oil and poured it on Saul's head. And kissing Saul, Samuel said, "Yahweh has anointed you to rule over and to lead his people Israel. And this will be Yahweh's sign to you that he has anointed you." ² After we part today, you will meet two men by Rachel's tomb at Zelzah, in the territory of Benjamin. They will say to you: "The asses you were looking for have been found. But your father is now worried about you, and what may have happened to you." ³ When you go on to the oak of Tabor, you will meet three men going up to see God at Bethel. One will be carrying three kids; another, three loaves of bread; and another, a skin of wine. ⁴ They will greet you and give you two loaves of bread which you are to accept from them. ⁵ After that, you will come to Gibeath-elohim where the garrison of the Philistines is. At the entrance of the city, you will meet a band of prophets coming down from the high place, and a choir with harp, tambourine, flute and lyre going before them. They will be in a trance as the prophets used to be. ⁶ Then the Spirit of Yahweh will seize you. You shall prophesy with them and become another man.

⁷ Now when these signs are fulfilled, do whatever seems good to you for God is with you. ⁸ You shall go down to Gilgal ahead of me, and I shall join you there to offer burnt offerings and peace offerings. Wait there seven days until I come and tell you what you have to do."

⁹ As soon as Saul parted from Samuel, God transformed him into a different person and all the signs Samuel mentioned to Saul were fulfilled that day. ¹⁰ Upon entering Gibeah, a band of prophets met Saul; then the Spirit of God seized him and he began to prophesy with them.

¹⁴ Saul's uncle asked him and his boy, "Where did you go?" Saul answered, "To look for the asses. When we could not find them, we went to Samuel." ¹⁵ His uncle said, "Please, tell me what Samuel told you." ¹⁶ Saul replied, "He merely told us that the asses had been found." But Saul did not tell his uncle what Samuel had said about the kingship.

Saul is elected king

¹⁷ After that, Samuel called the people together before Yahweh at Mizpah. ¹⁸ He then spoke to the Israelites, "Thus says Yahweh, the God of Israel: I brought Israel out of Egypt and

12. 19, 20

o Here is the logical continuation of ch. 8; it is another account of Saul's election. This one does not contradict the previous chapter, since Samuel consecrated Saul secretly and, some time later, the drawing of lots publicly shows the man whom God has chosen.

The same event is narrated in the Bible by two men of contrary opinions. The first saw the institution of kings as a good thing and in accordance with God's plan (Chr 9-10); the second (Sam 8 and 10:17-19) saw it as a dangerous innovation which God merely tolerated. In bringing together these two accounts, the Bible helps us understand that no political party owns the truth and that usually those who defend contrary positions have each of them some part of the truth.

He is hidden among the baggage. Here begins the tragedy of Saul, king in spite of himself. The Israelites asked for a king because of external threats (the Philistines), but in their innermost self they rejected all authority. Saul himself did not feel cut out for governing. In spite of his courage, as seen in ch. 11, he was not one to risk himself. He was an obstinate man; attached to the ideas of his time (See ch. 25). Saul, a modest man, did not have the humility that God likes, which consists in undertaking new and great things without being afraid of possible failure.

Everybody shouted: Long live the King! We have witnessed several enthusiastic meetings such as this, which led to no positive result. As happens to many leaders, the next day Saul finds himself alone in the midst of a people who think

I delivered you from the hands of the Egyptians and all the kingdoms oppressing you.¹⁹ But you have this day rejected your God who saves you from all your calamities and your distress. You have said, 'No! Give us a king to rule over us.' So now present yourselves before Yahweh, grouping yourselves into tribes and clans."

²⁰ Then Samuel made all the tribes of Israel come near him and when they cast lots, the tribe of Benjamin was chosen.²¹ He made the families of the tribe of Benjamin come near him, and the family of the Matrites was chosen. He made the members of the family of Matrites come near him, and the lot fell to Saul, son of Kish. They looked for him but could not find him.²² So they asked Yahweh again, "Did the man come here?" Yahweh answered, "He has hidden himself among the baggage."²³ They ran to fetch him and when Saul stood among the people, they saw that he was a head taller than the others.²⁴ Samuel spoke and said, "Do you see the one Yahweh has chosen? There is none like him among all the people." And all the people shouted, "Long live the king!"

²⁵ Samuel then told the people the rights and duties of the king. He wrote all these in a book and presented it before Yahweh. Then Samuel sent all the people home.²⁶ Saul himself went home to Gibeah with these valiant men whose hearts God had touched.²⁷ Some evil people, however, remarked: "How can this man save us?" And they ignored Saul and brought him no gift.

Saul rescues the city of Jabesh

+11 ¹ One month later, Nahash the Ammonite went to Jabesh-gilead and surrounded the city. The people of Jabesh told Nahash, "Make an agreement with us and we will serve you."² Nahash answered, "I will make an agreement with you on this condition: I will pluck out the right eye of all of you, so that Israel will be left disgraced."³ The elders of Jabesh then told him, "Give us seven days so we may send messengers through all the territories of Israel. If none of them comes to save us, we will surrender to you."

⁴ So the messengers went to Gibeah of Saul, breaking the news to the people. And all the people wept aloud.

⁵ Just then Saul came from the field with his oxen. He asked, "What has happened to make the people weep?" And they told him what the men of Jabesh had said.⁶ At once, the spirit of God seized Saul and he was greatly angered.⁷ He took a yoke of oxen, cut them into pieces and gave them to the messengers to be taken through all the territories of Israel with this warning. "I will do the same with the oxen of anyone who does not come out after Saul and Samuel."

Then a holy fear came upon the people and they set out as one man.

⁸ When Saul inspected them at Bezek, the men of Israel were three hundred thousand; those of Judah, thirty thousand.⁹ And they sent the messengers with this answer to the people of Jabesh, "Tomorrow, by noontime, we shall come to you." When the messengers returned, the people of Jabesh were very comforted¹⁰ and they told Nahash, "Tomorrow we will surrender and you may do to us whatever you please."

¹¹ The following morning, Saul, that they have solved everything because an election has been carried out.

+ The account which was interrupted in chap. 10:16 is resumed here. The people of Jabesh are disposed to accept peace. Israel weeps and shouts, but Saul decides that this situation is unbearable. His courage obliges God to act.

Who are those who asked if Saul was going to reign? There is no political life without parties. From the beginning, Saul has his allies and his foes. But he must heed even more the "tribalism" of the Israelites, especially the rivalry between the northern tribes of Ephraim and Benjamin, and the tribe of Judah, in the south. As for the people of Jabesh, they will remain grateful to their saviour and will be faithful to him until after his death. (See 1 Sam 31:11).

Saul is a good and generous man who does not take revenge on his enemies. Yet when one is the highest authority, he easily isolates himself from others and becomes arrogant or pessimistic. Saul will refuse to listen to God and to his divided the people into three groups. They broke into the enemy camp early in the morning and slew the Ammonites until noontime. Those who could escape were scattered, each one running his own way.

¹² Then the people asked Samuel, "Who are these who said: Saul will never reign over us? Bring the men and we shall put them to death."¹³ But Saul said, "No man shall be put to death today, for this day Yahweh has saved Israel."

¹⁴ Samuel told the people, "Come, let us go to Gilgal and officially proclaim the king."¹⁵ So all the people went to Gilgal and there they proclaimed Saul king before Yahweh. They sacrificed peace offerings and Saul and all Israel celebrated.

Samuel gives way to Saul

12 ¹ Samuel spoke to the Israelites, "Listen. I have paid attention to all that you have told me and have given you a king. ² From now on, the king is here to lead you. As for me, I am old and my hair gray. My sons are with you. I have led you from my youth, and I have done so until this day. ³ Now, if you have complaints against me, I am here. Say it before Yahweh and his anointed. Whose ox have I taken? Whose ass have I stolen? Whom have I cheated? Whom have I oppressed? Have I taken a bribe from anyone? Testify against me and I will restore it to you."⁴ But they said, "You have not cheated or oppressed us; you have not stolen anything from anyone."

⁵ Then Samuel said, "Yahweh is witness against you, and his anointed is witness this day, that you have not found anything in my hand." And they answered, "He is witness."

⁶ Samuel then said to the people, "Yahweh is witness, he who sent Moses and Aaron and brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt. ⁷ Now, stand still, that I may confront you with all the deeds of Yahweh who saved you and your ancestors. ⁸ Jacob went to Egypt and the Egyptians oppressed your ancestors. Then they cried to Yahweh and he sent Moses and Aaron. They brought your ancestors out of Egypt and brought them to this land. ⁹ But they forgot Yahweh, their God and he delivered them into the hands of Sisera, commander of the army of Jabin, king of Hazor, into the hands of the Philistines, and into the hands of the king of Moab who fought against them. ¹⁰ Then your ancestors cried to Yahweh and said: 'We have sinned, forsaking Yahweh and serving the Baals and the Ashteroth. But now, deliver us out of the hands of our enemies and we will serve you.' ¹¹ And Yahweh sent Jerubbaal and Barak, Jephthah and Samuel, and delivered you out of the hands of your enemies from all sides, so that you lived in safety in your land.

¹² Now, when you saw that Nahash, the king of the Ammonites, attacked you, you said to me: 'No! Let a king rule over us' although Yahweh your God was your king. ¹³ Yet Yahweh has given you the king whom you have chosen, whom you have asked for. May you fear Yahweh and serve him! ¹⁴ May you listen to him and not go against his commandments! And both you and the king who reigns over you will be happy following Yahweh, your God. ¹⁵ But if you will not listen to Yahweh and if you break his commandments, his hand will be against you and your kingdom.

¹⁶ Now wait awhile that you may see the wonder which Yahweh will do before you. ¹⁷ Is it not wheat harvest today? I will call on relatives, and his jealousy will blind him, as in the case of David.

■ On his retirement, Samuel gives Saul and his successors a last lesson. He invites future kings and those given responsibility to examine themselves to see if they are totally disinterested in the discharge of their functions, or if they are using them for their vested interests. (See a similar discourse of Paul in Acts 20:33).

Samuel is also an example for those who should retire when they are no longer able to serve. He belonged to another time, that of the Judges, and there was no place for him in the monarchy which was set up. It was enough for him that he had prepared a successor.

Yahweh that he may send thunder and rain. So you shall know and see that you have gone very wrong in asking for another king."

¹⁸ So Samuel called on Yahweh who sent thunder and rain on that day. Then all the people greatly feared Yahweh and Samuel.

¹⁹ The people said to Samuel, "Pray to Yahweh, your God, for your servants so we may not die. For we have added to our sins this evil of asking for a king." ²⁰ Samuel told the people, "Fear not! You have done evil, but now you must not turn away from Yahweh. Serve him, instead, with all your heart. ²¹ Do not go after these useless and vain idols that are unable to save. ²² Yahweh will not cast away his people; his great Name has been pleased to make you his people. ²³ As for me, how can I commit the sin of ceasing to pray for you? I will continue to instruct you in the good and right way. ²⁴ Only fear Yahweh and serve him faithfully with all your heart, for you have seen the wonderful things he has done for you. ²⁵ But if you still persist in wickedness, both you and your king shall be swept away."

+13 ¹²...Saul chose three thousand men of Israel. Two thousand were with him in Michmash and in the hills of Bethel, and a thousand with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin. Saul sent the rest of the people away, every man to his home. ³ Jonathan killed the Philistine governor in Geba and the Philistines heard of this. Saul then blew the trumpet throughout the land, saying, "Let the Hebrews hear!" ⁴ And the news spread throughout Israel, "Saul has killed the Philistine governor and now Israel is at war with them." And they called everyone out to join Saul at Gilgal.

The "sin" of Saul

◆ ⁵ The Philistines gathered to fight with Israel – three thousand chariots, six thousand horsemen, and troops as many as the sand on the seashore. They went up and encamped in Michmash, East of Bethaven. ⁶ When the people of Israel saw that they were in trouble, they hid themselves in caves, in holes, in rocks, in tombs and in cisterns, ⁷ or crossed the fords of the Jordan River to the land of Gad and Gilead.

⁸ Saul was still at Gilgal and all the people with him were afraid. He waited seven days – the time appointed by Samuel. But Samuel did not arrive at Gilgal and the people were beginning to disperse. ⁹ So Saul said, "Bring me the burnt offering and the peace offerings as well." Saul then offered the burnt offering. ¹⁰ He had just finished offering when Samuel arrived. Saul went out to greet Samuel who threw him this question, "What have you done?" Saul answered him, "When I saw the people beginning to disperse because of your failure to arrive on time, and considering that the Philistines have mustered their forces at Michmash, ¹² I said to myself, 'The Philistines will launch their attack against Yahweh's blessings, and so I decided to offer the burnt offerings.'" ¹³ Samuel told Saul, "You have done a foolish thing by not obeying the command of Yahweh your

+ Saul did not think of leaving his town of Geba to construct a capital for the new state of Israel. But, gradually, he created a permanent army, instead of merely depending on volunteers who presented themselves whenever the people were in danger. (See 14:52) For years, he fought unceasingly to repel incursions of the Philistines.

◆ Not once, but on several occasions Saul vacillates between obedience to God and Samuel, and doing what appears to him more reasonable. (See also chap. 15) Finally, he prefers to act according to his own judgements.

Yahweh would have secured your rule over Israel. Yahweh demands more from him who will be the first king of his people, and with whom he wants to establish a lasting covenant! To receive from Yahweh promises which go beyond ordinary destiny, Saul has to show complete loyalty, even when it seems that God delays or is mistaken. In this, Abraham was proved, and in this, Saul failed.

In recounting the story of the kings and leaders of Israel, the Bible makes us understand that power is too heavy a burden for man. Authority and money fatally corrupt those whom God himself had elected but who seek and earn the approval of their contemporaries. (See Judges 8:22) To rule over others and, ever more, to direct the destiny of a nation is somehow to partake in God's authority. No one can measure up to such responsibilities if he cannot obey and listen to God more than to his subjects.

God who would have established your rule forever. ¹⁴But now your kingship will not last, for Yahweh has chosen someone else more pleasing to him, whom he has appointed to be commander over his people because you have not done what Yahweh commanded you." ¹⁵Samuel then left Gilgal for Gibeah of Benjamin.

Saul reviewed his men numbering some six hundred. ¹⁶While Saul and his son, Jonathan, stayed in Gebah of Benjamin with the men, the Philistines pitched camp in Michmash. ¹⁷Raiders came out of the Philistine camp in three companies – one company turned to Ophrah, to the land of Shual; ¹⁸the other, to Bethoron; and the third, to the border overlooking the valley of Zeboim, toward the wilderness.

¹⁹The Israelites had no smith anywhere in their land for the Philistines did not want the Hebrews to make their own swords or spears. ²⁰To have their ploughshare, mattock, axe or sickle sharpened, the Israelites had to go down to the Philistines ²¹who would charge them two thirds of a shekel for ploughshares and mattocks, and a third of a shekel for sharpening axes and setting goads. ²²And so, on the day of battle, the Israelites had neither sword nor spear. Only Saul and Jonathan had them.

²³Yet the Philistine raiders had moved on toward the pass of Michmash.

+14 ¹The same day, Jonathan, son of Saul, said to his armour-bearer, "Let us go over to the Philistine garrison on the other side. Jonathan did not inform his father about this. ²Saul was at that time on the outskirts of Gibeah, at Migron, under the pomegranate tree with about six hundred men. ³Also with Saul was Ahijah, son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod, son of Phinehas, son of Eli, priest of Yahweh in Shiloh, and he was wearing the ephod to consult Yahweh. Not even the soldiers knew that Jonathan had left them.

⁴The pass through which Jonathan planned to go to reach the Philistine garrison was flanked by a rocky crag on each side: one called Bozez, the other, Seneh. ⁵One of the crags was to the north in the direction of Michmash; the other to the south, in the direction of Giba.

⁶Jonathan said to his shield-bearer, "Let us go over to the garrison of those uncircumcised fellows. It may be that Yahweh will help us, for it is as easy for Yahweh to give victory with a few men as with many." ⁷His armour-bearer replied, "Do whatever you think best. As for me, I follow and obey you." ⁸Jonathan said, "Look, we will draw near and show ourselves to those men. ⁹When they see us, if they cry out: 'Stay there and we shall go over to you,' we shall stay quiet and go no further. ¹⁰But if they say: 'Come up to us,' we shall go up because that will be a sign that Yahweh has delivered them into our hands."

¹¹When the two were seen by the Philistines, the latter exclaimed, "Look! Hebrews coming out of their hiding places!" ¹²And they challenged Jonathan and his shield-bearer, "Come over here and we will teach you a lesson!" Jonathan then told his armour-bearer, "Follow me, for Yahweh has delivered them into the hands of Israel." ¹³Then Jonathan crawled up on feet and hands, his armour-bearer following him. The Philistines fell before Jonathan, and his armour-bearer finished them off. ¹⁴In that first slaying by Jonathan and his armour-bearer, about twenty men lost their lives within half a furlong. ¹⁵Panic struck in the camp and the countryside, sowing terror in the garrison. Even the band of raiders was disturbed. It was like an earthquake and they were filled with a holy terror.

¹⁶Saul's watchmen in Gibeah of Benjamin saw the commotion in the camp: the Philistines were running and scattering in all

+ Chapter 14 helps us understand the Israelites' situation. They occupy the mountain, but the Philistines who are better organized and better armed, lord it over the plains.

The incident of Saul's oath shows the very primitive level of religious knowledge at that time, as in the case of Jephtha (Judges 11:30):

- an oath with a death-threat
- importance given to the crime of one who "eats over the blood" (See verse 33: it was not the same as to "eat meat with blood" as in Lev 17:8).
- the practice of casting lots to get Yahweh's response.

directions. ¹⁷ Saul then told those who were around him, "Count our men and see who is missing." And they discovered that Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not with them. ¹⁸ Saul ordered Ahijah: "Bring the ephod," because Ahijah had taken it with him. ¹⁹ But while Saul was talking to the priest, the confusion in the Philistine camp increased. Saul then told the priest, "Withdraw your hand," ²⁰ and after consulting his men, he went with them to the camp. They saw that there was complete confusion and the soldiers were striking each other with their swords. ²¹ Moreover, the Hebrews who had joined the Philistines turned around and sided with the Israelites under Saul and Jonathan. ²² When the Israelites who were hiding in the hill country of Ephraim heard that the Philistines were fleeing, they came out from hiding and pursued them. ²³ And so Yahweh delivered Israel that day in a battle that extended beyond Beth-horon.

²⁴ On that day, however, as the Israelites became weary, Saul took an oath putting the people under the ban, "Cursed be the man who takes food before evening, before I have avenged myself on my enemies." Because of this oath, no one dared touch any food. ²⁵ As the men wandered into the forest, they saw honey on the ground and ²⁶ although it was freely dripping from the honeycomb, no one tasted it for fear of the oath. ²⁷ But Jonathan, who had not heard of this oath, dipped the tip of the rod he was holding in the honeycomb and put it to his lips. And he felt fortified. ²⁸ At this, someone said, "Though the people were tired your father bound them with this oath: Cursed be the man who takes food today." ²⁹ Then Jonathan said, "My father did you wrong. See how I feel fortified for having tasted a little of this honey." ³⁰ If only our men had freely eaten today of the spoil of their enemies, the Philistine would have suffered an even greater defeat."

³¹ Nevertheless they pursued the Philistines all the way from Michmash to Ajalon. Then the people, extremely worn out, ³² rushed to the spoils and took sheep, oxen, and calves and, after they had slaughtered them on the ground, they ate over the blood. ³³ Saul was told that the people were sinning against Yahweh by eating over the blood. He said, "You have acted like pagan people! Roll a large stone here in front of me." ³⁴ Then he added, "Go around and tell the people to bring their oxen or their sheep to me. Slaughter them here and eat, but do not offend Yahweh by eating over the blood." So that night, everyone brought what he had of the spoils and slaughtered it there. ³⁵ Then Saul built an altar to Yahweh – the first he ever built to Him.

³⁶ Then Saul said, "Let us attack the Philistines by night and finish them off by morning without leaving a single man alive." To this the people replied, "Do what you think is best." But the priest said, "We must consult Yahweh." ³⁷ So Saul asked, "Shall I attack the Philistines? Will you deliver them into the hands of Israel?" But God did not answer him that day. ³⁸ Saul said, "Call all the army officers here. We must find out who is responsible for the sin that has been committed today." ³⁹ I swear before Yahweh, who has just saved Israel, that he shall surely die even if it happens to be my son, Jonathan." No one answered Saul. ⁴⁰ He told the people, "Go, stand on one side while I and my son Jonathan, stand on the other." The people answered, "Do what you think is good." ⁴¹ Then Saul said, "O Yahweh, God of Israel, why did you not answer your servant this time? If it is my son, Jonathan, or I who have sinned, O Yahweh, God of Israel, let the casting of lot show Urim; if it is your people Israel who have sinned, let the casting of lot show Thummin." The casting of lot pointed to Jonathan and Saul, not to the people. ⁴² Saul then said, "Cast the lot between me and my son Jonathan." The lot singled out Jonathan.

⁴³ Saul then said to Jonathan, "Tell me what you have done." And Jonathan replied, "All I did was to taste a little honey from the tip of the rod that I dipped in the honeycomb! Am I to die for this?" Saul said, ⁴⁴ "May God strike me down if you are not put to death, Jonathan." ⁴⁵ But the people protested, "By no means shall Jonathan die, he who has brought this resounding victory to Israel! Not at all! By Yahweh's life not one hair of his head will fall, for he has won this war today with God's assistance." So the people rescued Jonathan from certain death. ⁴⁶ After that, Saul ceased to pursue the Philistines, and they withdrew to their own country.

⁴⁷ When Saul felt secure as king of Israel, he began to fight against all his surrounding enemies, Moab, the Ammonites, Edom, the kings of Zobah and the Philistines, routing his enemies wherever he went. ⁴⁸ He crushed the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of those who were plundering them.

⁴⁹ The sons of Saul were Jonathan, Ishvi and Malchishua; his two daughters were Merab, his firstborn, and Michal. ⁵⁰ His wife was Ahinoam, daughter of Ahimaaz. The general of his army was Abner, son of Ner who was Saul's uncle. ⁵¹ Kish was the father of Saul:

and Ner, the father of Abner, was the son of Abiel.

²² There was continual war between Saul and the Philistines during Saul's entire rule, so whenever he discovered a stray or brave man, he recruited him into his service.

Saul is rejected as king

15 ¹ Samuel told Saul, "Yahweh sent me to anoint you king over his people Israel. So now listen to what ² he has to say to you: I will punish Amalek for having stood in the way of the Israelites when they were leaving Egypt. ³ Now attack Amalek and destroy completely all that he has. Do not spare them - man, woman, infant or suckling, ox or sheep, camel or ass."

⁴ Saul called his men to Telaim and reviewed two hundred thousand foot soldiers and ten thousand men from Judah. ⁵ He went to the city of Amalek, set an ambush in the valley and ⁶ proceeded to warn the Kenites, "Leave the Amalekites! I do not want to punish you with them since you showed kindness to the people of Israel when they left Egypt." After the Kenites had left, ⁷ Saul inflicted a heavy defeat on the Amalekites, from Havilah to Shur, east of Egypt. ⁸ He took Agag, king of the Amalekites alive, but put the rest of the people to the sword. ⁹ Saul and his men spared Agag and the best of the sheep, oxen, fatlings and lambs and everything that was good, but destroyed all that was worthless.

¹⁰ Then Yahweh spoke to Samuel: "I feel sorry for having made Saul king because he has turned his back on me and has not kept my command." ¹¹ Samuel was troubled and cried to Yahweh all night. ¹² Early next morning, he went looking for Saul, but was told that Saul had set off for Carmel to erect a monument to Gilgal and then had gone on his way to Gilgal. ¹³ When finally they met, Saul greeted Samuel, "May Yahweh bless you," and added, "I have done what Yahweh told me to do."

¹⁴ Samuel then asked him, "Why do I still hear the bleating of sheep and the lowing of oxen?"

¹⁵ Saul replied, "We have brought them from the Amalekites, because the people spared the best sheep and oxen to sacrifice to Yahweh, your God. But the rest have been destroyed."

¹⁶ Samuel then told Saul, "Enough! Let me tell you what Yahweh said to me last night." Saul replied, "Please tell me." ¹⁷ So Samuel went on and said, "Though you had no confidence in yourself, you became chief of the tribes of Israel, for Yahweh wanted to anoint you king over Israel. ¹⁸ Now he has sent you with this command, 'Go. Completely crush the Amalekite offenders, engaging them in battle until they are destroyed.' ¹⁹ Why then did you not obey the voice of Yahweh and instead swoop down on the spoil, doing what was evil in his sight?" ²⁰ To this, Saul replied, "I have obeyed the voice of Yahweh and have carried out the mission for which he sent me. I have captured Agag, king of Amalek and completely destroyed the Amalekites. ²¹ If my men carried away the best sheep and oxen from among those to be destroyed, it was in order to sacrifice them to Yahweh, your God, in Gilgal."

²² Samuel then said,

"Does Yahweh take as much delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obedience to his command? Obedience is better than sacrifice, and submission, better than the fat of rams. ²³ Rebellion is like the sin of divination, and stubbornness, like holding onto idols. Since you have rejected the word of Yahweh, he too, has rejected you as king."

²⁴ Saul then told Samuel, "I have sinned in disobeying Yahweh's command and your instructions. I feared my own men and obeyed them instead. ²⁵ Please forgive my sin and return with me so I may worship Yahweh."

²⁶ Samuel refused and said, "I will not return with you because you have rejected the word of Yahweh and he has rejected you as king of Israel." ²⁷ As Samuel turned to leave, Saul held onto the end of his robe, which tore. ²⁸ Then Samuel said to Saul, "Yahweh has torn the kingdom of Israel from you this day and has given it to someone better than you. ²⁹ The Glory of Israel does not change or repent as man does."

³⁰ Saul then said, "I have sinned. But please honour me now before the elders of my people and before Israel. Return with me so that I may worship Yahweh, your God." ³¹ And Samuel returned with Saul who went to worship Yahweh.

³² Samuel said, "Bring me Agag, king of the Amalekites." Agag stood before him with a cheerful face, thinking that he was now out of danger. ³³ But Samuel told him, "As your sword has made women childless, so shall your mother be childless among women." Then Samuel dealt a mortal blow to Agag before Yahweh in Gilgal.

³⁴ Samuel left for Ramah while Saul went home to Gibeath of Saul. ³⁵ From that day Samuel did not see Saul again until he died, but he was grieving over Saul because Yahweh regretted having made him king over Israel.

Samuel anoints David

16 ¹Yahweh asked Samuel, "Until when will you be grieving over Saul if I am the one who rejected him as king of Israel? Fill your horn with oil and be on your way to Jesse the Bethlehemite for I have chosen my king from among his sons."

²Samuel asked, "How can I go? If Saul hears of this, he will kill me!" Yahweh replied, "Take a heifer with you and say, 'I have come to sacrifice to Yahweh.' ³Invite Jesse to the sacrifice and I will let you know what to do next. You shall anoint for me the one I point out to you."

⁴Samuel did what Yahweh commanded and left for Bethlehem. When he appeared, the elders of the city came to him asking, fearfully, "Do you bring us peace?" ⁵Samuel replied, "I come in peace and I am here to sacrifice to Yahweh. Cleanse yourselves and join me in the sacrifice." He also had Jesse and his sons cleansed and invited them to the sacrifice.

⁶As they came, Samuel looked at Eliab the older and thought, "This must be Yahweh's anointed." ⁷But Yahweh told Samuel, "Do not judge by his looks or his stature for I have rejected him. Yahweh does not judge as man judges; man sees the appearance; Yahweh sees the heart."

⁸Jesse called his son Abinadab and presented him to Samuel who said, "Yahweh, has not chosen this one either." ⁹Jesse presented Shammah and Samuel said, "Nor has Yahweh chosen this one." ¹⁰Jesse presented seven of his sons to Samuel who said, "Yahweh has chosen none of them." ¹¹But are all your sons here?" Jesse replied, "There is still the youngest, tending the flock just now." Samuel said to him, "Send for him and bring him to me; we shall not sit down to eat until he arrives." ¹²So Jesse sent for his youngest son and brought him to Samuel. He was a handsome lad, ruddy and with attractive eyes. And Yahweh spoke, "Go, anoint him for he is the one." ¹³Samuel then took the horn of oil and anointed him in his brothers' presence. From that day onwards, Yahweh's Spirit took hold of David. Then Samuel left for Ramah.

o ¹⁴The spirit of Yahweh had left Saul and an evil spirit sent by Yahweh tormented him. ¹⁵Saul's servants said to him, "We know that an evil spirit sent by God is tormenting you. ¹⁶If you so wish, your servants who stand

■ How long will you mourn for Saul? Sometimes, we remain grounded, immobile, longing for the past, when events in life are pushing us forward to change plans and forecasts.

Samuel goes to Bethlehem to meet the one whom God chose. Bethlehem is the city of David's family. There, Jesus will be born ten centuries later.

David, Jesse's son, is tending the flock when they send for him. He is a shepherd before he becomes king. In the Bible, the shepherd is the image of the perfect king who, rather than being an important man, has to attend to persons and serve them as the shepherd does his sheep. Jesus, King and Saviour, will introduce himself as the good Shepherd whom the prophets were dreaming of. (See Ez 34 and Jn 10)

Man sees the face; Yahweh, the heart. In the adolescent David, there is yet no evidence of the moral qualities, intelligence and courage which he will display as military chief and politician. Still, God knows whom he chooses. In order to bring his work to completion, God does not choose those who pretend to be greater than they are (See 1 Cor. 1:28).

In any human group, it is necessary to discover the values of each person and not allow oneself to be deceived by appearances. It is very important for Christian communities that those with responsibility know how "to look into the heart" of brothers and sisters, whether they be the quiet ones or those who show much zeal. Then it will not be long before they find the persons needed to animate the community, and can by-pass the ambitious ones.

before you will look for someone who can play the lyre so when the evil spirit from God comes over you, he will play and you will feel better."

¹⁹ So Saul sent messengers to Jesse and asked for his son David who tended the sheep.

²⁰ Jesse loaded an ass with bread, a wineskin and a kid and had David take all these to Saul.

17 ¹ The Philistines prepared their forces for battle and gathered together at Socoh, a territory of Judah. They encamped between Socoh and Azekah in Ephesdammim. ² Saul and the Israelites meantime, assembled and pitched camp in the valley of Elah, ready for their encounter with the Philistines. ³ The Philistines took their position on one hill while the Israelites took theirs on another hill, with a valley separating the two forces.

David and Goliath

⁸ He stood in front of the Israelite ranks and shouted, "Why have you come out in battle array? I am a Philistine and you are Saul's men! Choose a man from among yourselves who can challenge me. ⁹ If he fights better and kills me, we shall be subject to you; but if I overpower him and kill him, you shall be subject to us."

¹⁰ The Philistine added, "This is my challenge to the Israelite troops this day. Give me a man who can fight with me alone!" ¹¹ When they heard this challenge of the Philistine, Saul and his men were afraid and greatly terrified.

¹² Now, David was the son of Jesse, an Ephrathite of Bethlehem in Judah who had eight sons. Jesse was already old during Saul's reign but he had sent men to the army. ¹³ Three of his eldest sons had joined Saul in battle: Eliab, the firstborn, Abinadab, the second and Shammah, the third. ¹⁴ David was Jesse's youngest and, while the three eldest followed Saul, ¹⁵ he would alternate his goings and comings to the army with the care of his father's flock in Bethlehem.

An evil spirit from God (14). This is an ancient way of saying that God allowed Saul to suffer some psychological disorder.

◆ David's challenge delighted the Israelites down through the centuries and still delights us today as well. We should not be surprised therefore, that the redactors have elaborated with generous details David's fight with "the Philistine" who was later called Goliath.

Those who redacted these books were inspired by God; they understood that David's struggle with Goliath symbolized the struggle between good and evil.

You come to me with spear and sword; but I come against you in Yahweh's name. In the world, victory will not come to those who are load to the baggage keeper and rushed to the ranks to greet his brothers. ²³ While he was talking with them, Goliath, the Philistine champion of Gath, came up from the ranks of the Philistines and shouted out the same challenge as before, this time reaching David's ears.

²⁴ When the Israelites saw the man, they all fled from him terrified ²⁵ and one of them said, "Have you seen this man who comes up challenging Israel? Whoever succeeds in killing him will be richly rewarded by the king. He will give him his daughter in marriage and set his family free of every contribution."

²⁶ David asked those who were around him, "What will be the reward for the person who kills this Philistine and lifts this disgrace from Israel? And who is this uncircumcised Philistine who defies the armies of the living God?" ²⁷ The people answered him in the same way, "This will be the reward of whoever kills him."

²⁸ When he saw David talking to the men, his eldest brother Eliab was angry and said, "Why did you come here? With whom did you leave those few sheep in the desert? I know your pretensions: the only reason for which you came is to enjoy the sight of this battle."

²⁹ David asked, "What have I done this time? I was merely asking something!" ³⁰ Leaving his brother, David turned to another man and asked him the same question, and the people answered him the same way as before.

³¹ David's remarks spread around and reached Saul, who asked for him.

³² David said to Saul, "Let no one be discouraged on account of this Philistine for your servant will engage him in battle." ³³ Saul told David, "You cannot fight with this Philistine for you are still young whereas this man has been a warrior from his youth." ³⁴ But David said, "When I was tending my father's sheep, whenever a lion or bear came to snatch a lamb from the flock, ³⁵ I would run after it, kill it and rescue the victim from its mouth. If it attacked me, I would hold it by its beard and slay it. ³⁶ I have killed lions and bears and will do the same with this uncircumcised Philistine, for he has defied the armies of the living God." ³⁷ David continued, "Yahweh, who delivered me from the paws of lions and bears, will deliver me from the hands of the Philistine."

Saul then told David, "Go and may Yahweh be with you!"

⁴¹ The Philistine moved forward, closing in on David, his shield-bearer in front of him. ⁴² When he saw that David was only a lad, (he was of fresh complexion and handsome) he despised him ⁴³ and said, "Am I a dog that you should approach me with a stick?" Cursing David by his gods, stronger or more heavily armed. Such people insult God by their pride and self-confidence. And they will not last long if they insult the people of God, especially the lowly.

Victory will belong to the weak who trust in God's help. Here the winner is a young man who personifies those who remain young in heart and maintain a clear conscience.

Some invite David to protect himself with Saul's armour and arms. David understands that if he uses arms similar to those of the Philistine, he will not know how to use them and the latter will prevail over him. In the end, the Philistine dies, a victim of his own weapons.

David's fight can easily be compared to that of the Church. She leaves behind Saul's armour: when she looks for less organization, less worry over financing her works and buildings; when she frees herself from political support. In abandoning all these protections, she makes herself more free and younger. Like David, she goes to battle trusting "in the name of Yahweh, God of Israel's armies."

⁴⁴ he continued, "Come and I will give your flesh to the birds of the sky and the beasts of the field!"

⁴⁵ David answered the Philistine, "You have come against me with sword, spear and javelin, but I come against you with Yahweh, the God of the armies of Israel whom you have defiled. ⁴⁶ Yahweh will deliver you this day into my hands and I will strike you down and cut off your head. I will give the corpses of the Philistine army today to the birds of the sky and the wild beasts of the earth, and all the earth shall know that there is a God of Israel. ⁴⁷ All the people gathered here shall know that Yahweh saves not by sword or spear; the battle belongs to Yahweh, and he will deliver you into our hands."

When the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they scattered in all directions. ⁵² The men of Israel and Judah raised the battle cry and pursued the Philistines as far as Gath and the gates of Ekron. Wounded Philistines fell on the way from Shaaraim to Gath and Ekron. ⁵³ Returning from their pursuit of the Philistines, the Israelites plundered their camp. ⁵⁴ David took the head of the Philistine and brought it to Jerusalem but left the armour in his tent.

⁵⁵ When Saul saw David come out to oppose the Philistine, he asked his general, Abner, "Abner, whose son is that young man?" Abner answered, "I swear, O king, I do not know." ⁵⁶ The king said, "Ask whose son that lad is." ⁵⁷ So when David returned after killing the Philistine, Abner took him to Saul. ⁵⁸ Saul asked David, who stood before him holding the head of the Philistine, "Whose son are you, young man?" David answered, "I am the son of your servant, Jesse the Bethlehemite."

David, Saul and Jonathan

o18 ¹ When David had finished speaking with Saul, Jonathan felt a deep affection for David and began to love him as himself. ² Saul kept David with him from that day and did not allow him to return to his father's house. ³ Then Jonathan made an agreement with David because he loved him as himself. ⁴ Jonathan, taking off the robe he was wearing, gave it to David; he also gave him his own armour, sword, bow and belt.

Jonathan gets to like David. The Bible describes for us this deep and loyal friendship as a gift of God, surpassing the rivalry with Saul. He gave David his own mantle, his sword, his bow and belt . . . spontaneity, frankness.

Although David and Jonathan were not children but young men, we can apply to them these words of a poet: "Remember that this horrible world is yet solely maintained by the sweet complacency, continually opposed, always renewed, of poets and children.

Never become an important person! There is a conspiracy of personalities against childlikeness and it suffices to read the Gospel to be aware of this. God said: 'Become like children.' Yet those who have become important say repeatedly to betray infancy: 'Become like us.'

• After his victory, David is the renowned

⁸ Saul was very displeased with this song and said, "They have given tens of thousands to David but to me only thousands! By now he has everything but the kingdom!" ⁹ From then on, Saul became very distrustful of David.

¹⁰ The following day, an evil spirit from God seized Saul, causing him to rave in his house. David then played on the lyre as he used to do, while Saul had his spear in hand. ¹¹ Then Saul pointed it at David thinking, "I will nail David to the wall." But David escaped on two occasions.

¹⁷ Saul said to David, "You know my eldest daughter, Merab. I will give her to you as your wife; be brave and fight Yahweh's battles." For Saul thought, "Let the Philistines strike him instead of myself." ¹⁸ David answered Saul, "Who am I? And what is my father's family in Israel that I should be the king's son-in-law?" ¹⁹ Yet when it was time for Merab to be married to David, she was given instead to Adriel the Meholahite.

²⁰ Now, Saul's daughter, Michal, fell in love with David. When this came to Saul's knowledge, he was very pleased ²¹ for he thought, "I shall promise her to him and for her sake he will lose himself, and I will have the Philistines kill him." So, Saul said to David a second time, "You shall now be my son-in-law." ²² Then he commanded his servants to talk to David privately and say, "The king and all his servants like you. You should become the king's son-in-law!" ²³ Saul's servants repeated these words to David who replied, "Do you think it is a light thing for me to become the king's son-in-law, considering that I am a man with neither wealth nor fame?" ²⁴ When Saul's servants repeated to the king what David had said, ²⁵ Saul ordered them to tell David, "The king wants no marriage gift other than a hundred Philistine foreskins to take revenge on his enemies." For Saul wanted David to fall into the hands of the Philistines. ²⁶ Saul's servants told this to David and it seemed to him that he could easily become the king's son-in-law. Even before the appointed time was over, ²⁷ David and his men set out and killed two hundred Philistines. And they brought the king the foreskins so that David could become the king's son-in-law. So Saul had to give his daughter Michal to David to become his wife.

³⁰ Whenever the Philistine chiefs engaged David in battle, he succeeded more than any of Saul's officers, in earning great fame for himself.

+19 ¹ Saul told his son Jonathan and his servants of his intention to kill David. But Jonathan, who liked David very much, ² said to David, "My father Saul wants to kill you. Be on your guard tomorrow morning and hide yourself in a secret place. ³ I will go out and keep my father company in the countryside where you are and I will speak to him about you. If I find something, I will let you know." ⁴ Jonathan spoke well of David to his father Saul and said, "Let not the king sin against his servant David for he has not sinned against you. On the contrary, what he has done has benefited you." ⁵ He risked his life in killing the Philistine and Yahweh brought about a great victory for Israel. You yourself saw this and greatly rejoiced. Why then sin against innocent blood and kill David without cause?" ⁶ Saul heeded Jonathan's plea and swore, "As Yahweh lives, he shall not be put to death." ⁷ So Jonathan called David and told him all these things. He then brought him to Saul and David was back in Saul's service as before.

⁸ War broke out again and David set out to fight the Philistines. David crushed them so badly that they had to flee. ⁹ Then an evil spirit from Yahweh seized Saul as he sat in his house holding his spear while David was playing on the lyre. ¹⁰ Saul made an attempt to pin David to the wall with his spear. David, however, dodged the blow and the spear hit the wall instead. David fled and escaped.

man of the kingdom. But he immediately earns Saul's envy.

Saul feared David. The subsequent chapters show us how, as David rises in people's estimation Saul's mind is ravaged by jealousy. Saul is guilty, the book tells us, since he departed from his obedience to God. His fault is that of many rulers and his punishment is the same: he becomes a prisoner of his office which he cannot, or knows not how to, give up. He guesses that David is God's choice, but he cannot share power with him and does not see any solution but to kill him.

+ Chapters 19-25 are about the life of David!

¹¹ That night Saul sent messengers to David's house to keep an eye on him as he intended to kill him the following morning. ¹² But David's wife, Michal, told him, "If you do not run for your life tonight, tomorrow you will be killed." ¹³ So Michal let David down through the window, allowing him to escape.

¹⁴ Next Michal took the household idol, laid it in the bed and put a bundle of goat's hair on its head. She then covered this with a blanket. ¹⁵ When Saul sent messengers to capture David, Michal told them, "He is sick." ¹⁶ Saul sent messengers back to David and said, "Bring him up to me on his bed for me to kill him." ¹⁷ But when the messengers entered, they saw the household idol in the bed with the bundle of goat's hair at its head. ¹⁸ Saul, therefore, asked Michal, "Why did you deceive me and allow my enemy to escape?" Michal answered, "He threatened to kill me if I did not let him go!"

Saul and the prophets

■ ¹⁸ David had fled and was in safety. He went to Samuel at Ramah and related all that Saul had done to him. He and Samuel then went to live in Naioth. ¹⁹ Saul was told that David stayed at Naioth in Ramah, ²⁰ so he sent messengers to capture David. But when they saw the band of prophets prophesying (signifying that they had fallen into a trance) with Samuel leading them, the spirit of Yahweh came upon them and made them prophesy.

²¹ Upon hearing what happened, Saul sent more messengers who also began to prophesy. Saul sent more the third time and the same thing happened.

²² Then Saul himself went to Ramah and arrived at the deep well in Secu. He asked, "Where can I find Samuel and David?" The people answered, "They are at Naioth in Ramah." ²³ So Saul proceeded to Naioth in Ramah but the Spirit of Yahweh came upon him as well. And he walked along prophesying until he reached the entrance of Naioth in Ramah. ²⁴ He took off his clothes and prophesied in Samuel's presence. Then he fell down naked, remaining in that position all day and all night. Hence sprang the saying, "Is Saul also among the prophets?"

20 ¹ David fled from Naioth in Ramah and went to Jonathan to ask him, "What have I done? What am as a fugitive. He becomes chief of a band of not very desirable companions and will live with them in the marginal parts of the country.

David is no "saint," as we would actually imagine one. He is God's friend in the way people could be in a primitive society. In spite of his defects, he becomes an example of what God can do with a man who allows himself to be judged by him.

The Bible highlights David's magnificent soul and his generosity amidst a life with outlaws and everything that this implies. David is always conscious of his mission. He faces dangers without fear, acts as an educator of his companions and is a man with prophetic intuitions.

When God wants to entrust a great mission to someone he sets him apart from his usual environment for a time. Like Moses, David also goes into the desert.

■ Israel lives its faith with songs and dances, celebrating Yahweh's deeds. This is why they need those groups of prophets. Here, they are mentioned for the first time in the Bible. These men excited themselves to the point where they fell into a frenzy very similar to a state of hysteria. At that time, nevertheless, such manifestations were considered to be the work of the Spirit of Yahweh. In their beginnings, the prophets of Israel were not very different from the "prophets" of other neighbouring pagan peoples. Later in the Bible other prophets will appear who are very different, and are called by God in view of an exceptional mission. These prophets will retain only a semblance of that primitive religious frenzy.

It is good to compare these actions of the prophets with others manifested in the early Church (See Acts 21), and to read what Paul says with respect to the manifestation of the Spirit, in 1 Cor 12-14. No manifestation of the Spirit is solely the work of the Spirit of God. It depends also on the capabilities of those in whom the Spirit acts, just as the light of the sun takes on the colour of the glass through which it passes. In groups consisting of simple and uneducated people, the Spirit of God acted (and still acts) by arousing ecstatic manifestations which are also observed in other non-Christian religions. But these things strengthened them in their faith.

I guilty of? What sin have I committed against your father that he wants to kill me?" ² Jonathan, however, assured him, "No! You shall not die. My father does nothing small or great without informing me. Why should he hide this from me? No, this cannot be."

³ But David replied, "Your father knows very well that we are friends, so he thinks it is better not to tell you and grieve you. But I swear there is but one step between death and me!"

⁴ Then Jonathan told David, "What can I do for you?" ⁵ David answered, "Tomorrow is the new moon and I should be dining with the king. But let me hide myself in the open country until the evening of the third day. ⁶ If your father looks for me, say to him: 'David asked me to let him go over to Bethlehem because they have their yearly sacrifice there with the entire family.' ⁷ If he says, 'Good' then I am in no danger. But if he gets angry, then you can be certain that he wants to harm me. ⁸ Do this for me according to our agreement. But if I am guilty, kill me yourself. Why hand me over to your father to be killed?"

⁹ Jonathan answered, "Nonsense! If I knew that my father wanted to harm you, would I not warn you?"

¹⁰ David then asked him, "Who will tell me if your father answers you angrily?" ¹¹ Jonathan said, "Come, let us go into the open country." So they both left for the open country.

◆ ¹² Then Jonathan said to David, "Yahweh, the God of Israel, be our witness. About this time tomorrow or the following day, I shall be sounding out my father. If he is well-disposed toward you, I shall send you word. ¹³ But if my father intends to do you harm, may Yahweh punish me if I do not warn you. Surely Yahweh will be with you as he has been with my father.

¹⁶ never cut off your friendship with my family even when Yahweh takes vengeance on David's enemies and wipes them out from the face of the earth."

So Jonathan made a covenant with David.

¹⁷ And he made David swear once more because of the affection he felt for him for he loved David as himself.

¹⁸ Then Jonathan said, "Tomorrow is the new moon. Your absence will be noticed because your seat will be vacant. ¹⁹ On the third day it will be noticed all the more. So go and hide yourself where you hid before and stay beside the heap of stones there. ²⁰ I will shoot three arrows to the stone as if I were aiming at a target. ²¹ I will then send a lad with this instruction: 'Go, look for the arrows.' If I say to the lad: 'The arrows are on this side, pick them up', then you may come out for, I swear, you are not in danger. ²² But if I say to the lad: 'The arrows are beyond you,' leave, for Yahweh is sending you away. ²³ But as to our covenant, Yahweh is our witness forever."

²⁶ Saul did not say anything on that day, thinking that something may have happened and David was unclean. ²⁷ On the second day of the new moon, David's seat was still vacant and Saul asked his son Jonathan, "Why has the son of Jesse not come to table yesterday and today?" ²⁸ Jonathan answered, "David asked leave to go over to Bethlehem for he said, ²⁹ 'Our family is offering a sacrifice in the city and my brothers insisted that I be present. So please allow me to go and visit my brothers.' This is why he has not come to the king's table."

³⁰ Saul became very angry at Jonathan and told him, "You son of a perverse and rebellious woman! Do I not know that you prefer the son of Jesse to your shame and your mother's shame?" ³¹ For as long as the son of Jesse lives, you shall have no chance to rule. Send for him and bring him to me for he is doomed to die!"

³² Then Jonathan asked his father, "Why should he die? What has he done?" ³³ At this, Saul pointed his spear at him and Jonathan understood that his father intended to kill David. ³⁴ Jonathan rose angrily from the table and did not eat that second day of the month grieving for David, because of what his father said against him.

³⁶ The next morning, Jonathan went to the open country with a young man, according to what he and David had agreed on. ³⁶ He told the lad, "Run, fetch the arrows." While the lad was running, Jonathan shot an arrow that flew beyond the lad. ³⁷ When the lad reached the spot where Jonathan had shot the arrow, Jonathan called after him and said, "The arrow is beyond you!" ³⁸ Run quickly and do not waste time! The lad picked up the arrow and ran back to his master. ³⁹ The lad knew nothing of Jonathan and David's agreement.

⁴⁰ After that, Jonathan gave his weapons to the lad and commanded him to take them to the city. ⁴¹ When the lad had gone, David came out from behind the mound and lay on the ground. The two embraced each other and wept until David regained his composure. ⁴² Then Jonathan said to David, "Go in peace, for we shall stand by the oath we have made to one another in Yahweh's name when we said: Yahweh shall be between you and me and between your descendants and mine forever."

David and the priest Ahimelech

21 ¹ David went on his way while Jonathan returned home. ² David came to Nob to the priest Ahimelech. Ahimelech came to meet him and asked trembling, "Why are you alone?" ³ David replied, "The king sent me on a mission and strictly ordered me not to tell anyone about it. Because of this I have decided on a place where I shall meet my men. ⁴ What do you have here? Can you give me five loaves of bread or whatever you have?" ⁵ The priest answered David, "I do not have ordinary bread at hand, only holy bread. If your men have had no relations with women, I can give you that." ⁶ David answered, "Whenever we are on an expedition, we do not touch women. Even in an ordinary journey, our men are not unclean; all the more so today!" ⁷ So the priest gave him holy bread for there was no other bread. This was the Bread of Presence which had been replaced by fresh bread the day it was removed.

⁸ Yet one of Saul's men was in the temple. He was Doeg, the Edomite, and Saul's chief henchman.

⁹ David asked Ahimelech, "Do you have a spear or a sword with you? I did not take my arms with me because the king's order was urgent." ¹⁰ The priest replied, "I have here, wrapped in a piece of cloth behind the ephod, the sword of Goliath the Philistine whom you killed in the valley of Elah. You can take this if you wish, for I have nothing else here." David said, "There is none like it. Give it to me."

+ ¹¹ That same day, David fled far from Saul. He went to Achish, king of Gath. ¹² Achish's servants remarked, "O King, is this not David? Did the people not dance on his account and sing: Saul has slain his thousands and David his ten thousands?" ¹³ David o The loaves of presence represented the twelve tribes of Israel. They were offered every sabbath and remained on the altar for the entire week, signifying thereby the people's loyalty to Yahweh. Only the priests could eat of them (Lev 24:5-9).

Jesus refers to this text when his disciples do not observe the rules about the Sabbath (see Mk 2:13). Jesus wants to free us from the slavery of the "sacred," because man is more sacred than anything else.

In fact Jesus was emphasizing a point of far-reaching importance. For God, respect for the sacred bread is not as important as each one's fidelity to his assigned task. Believers have to understand that their daily tasks are made sacred by the simple fact that they are God's children and the Holy Spirit's dwelling-place. Doing laundry at home, working in a factory, carrying out a commitment to improve conditions in the community - these and all our tasks should be turned into a sacrifice to God (1 Pet 2:9).

+ David has to pretend madness. The Bible shows how this chosen one of Yahweh was humiliated before he could sit on his throne, thereby mysteriously foretelling Christ's humiliations. He loved us to the point of madness when he humbled himself to the extent of living in the condition of a servant and undergoing an ignominious and painful death on the cross (See Phil 2:7-9).

understood these words and began to fear Achish, king of Gath. ¹⁴ So he pretended to be mad, making marks on the doors of the gate as he let his spittle run down his beard. ¹⁵ At this Achish told his servants, "Look, it is a madman. Why did you bring him to me?" ¹⁶ Am I short of madmen that you have to bring this fellow to act foolishly in my presence? Will this fellow come into my house?"

David begins his wanderings

22 ¹ David left Gath and escaped to the cave of Adulam where his brothers and his father's family came down to him. ² Then those who had problems or debts or were embittered joined him there. Thus he became their chief; he had with him about four hundred men.

⁵ The prophet Gad said to David, "Do not stay in the refuge; go to the land of Judah." So David left and entered the forest of Hereth.

⁶ Saul heard that David and his men had been seen. Saul was in Gibeah at the time, sitting under the tamarisk tree on the High place, his spear in hand, while his servants were standing by. ⁷ Saul addressed them, "Listen, men of Benjamin! Will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields of vineyards? Will he make each one of you a commander over a thousand or over a hundred men that you should all be conspiring against me?" ⁸ Why, then, did no one tell me that my son made an agreement with the son of Jesse? No one among you had mercy on me and told me that my own son had stirred up my servant against me as is the case today."

⁹ At this, Doeg the Edomite, who was standing with the officers of Saul, spoke up. "I saw the son of Jesse come to Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, in Nob. ¹⁰ Ahimelech consulted Yahweh for him, provided him with food and gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine as well."

¹¹ On hearing this, the king sent for Ahimelech the priest, son of Ahitub, and all his family who were priests in Nob. They all came to the king. ¹² Then Saul said, "Listen, son of Ahitub." He replied, "Yes, my Lord." ¹³ Saul asked him, "Why did you conspire with the son of Jesse, giving him food and a sword and consulting Yahweh for him so that he could rebel against me as is the case today?" ¹⁴ Ahimelech answered the king, "Who among all your servants is as faithful as David, the king's son-in-law, captain of your bodyguard and honoured in your house?" ¹⁵ Is today the first time that I have consulted Yahweh for him? By no means! Let not the king accuse me or any member of my family of such a thing for I knew nothing at all about the entire matter."

¹⁶ But the king said, "You and your entire family shall die. Ahimelech." ¹⁷ And the king at once commanded the guards who were standing by, "Turn and kill the priests of Yahweh for having assisted David. They knew very well that David was a fugitive but they did not tell me anything at all." The king's servants, however, refused to lift their hands against the priests of Yahweh. ¹⁸ And so the king turned to Doeg and commanded him, "Turn and kill the priests." And so Doeg the Edomite drew near and killed the priests.

On that day he killed eighty-five persons who were wearing the linen ephod. ¹⁹ After that, Saul put Nob, the city of priests, to the sword, killing men and women, children and infants, oxen, asses and sheep.

²⁰ A son of Ahimelech, son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, escaped and fled to David. ²¹ Abiathar told David that Saul had killed the priests of Yahweh. ²² David said to him, "I knew that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul. So I am responsible for the death of all your family. ²³ Stay with me and do not be afraid for he who wants to kill you must also kill me. You will be safe with me."

How David consulted God

23 ¹ David received a report that the Philistines were attacking Keilah and

7. 8, 12

9. 21, 8

20. 15, 3

■ Chapter 22:2 does not hide the fact that those who went to David were those who found themselves in straits, in debt or embittered. The wars that made it possible for the people of God to live and progress were not the doings of pure saints. The same happens with struggle waged anywhere else in the world for the sake of justice.

In the best causes are found doubtful or corrupt elements. It will be fortunate if leaders have, like David, a very elevated sense of their mission and of solidarity with their people.

This text refers to the practice of consulting Yahweh by using the ephod, an object which lundering the threshing floors. ²He, therefore, consulted Yahweh and asked, "Shall I go and fight with these Philistines?" The answer was, "Go and attack the Philistines and rescue Keilah." ³But David's men protested and said, "Look, here in Judah we are in danger and afraid. What then if we go to Keilah and face the Philistines?"

⁴So David consulted Yahweh again and got this answer, "Go down to Keilah for I will deliver the Philistines into your hands." David went with his men to Keilah and fought with the Philistines, seizing their cattle and using a great slaughter among them, and scouring the inhabitants of the place.

⁵When Abiathar, son of Ahimelech, fled to David at Keilah, he took along the ephod. When Saul was told that David had come to Keilah he said, "God has delivered him into my hands for he has shut himself in by entering the city with gates and bars." ⁶He then called on the people to go down to Keilah and engage David and his men in battle. ⁷When David found out that Saul meant to harm him, he told the priest Abiathar to bring the ephod. ⁸Then he consulted Yahweh. "O Yahweh, God of Israel, listen to your servant for I have heard that Saul plans to come to Keilah and destroy the city on my account. ⁹Will Saul come down to fight me here?" ¹⁰Yahweh, God of Israel, speak to your servant." Yahweh answered, "He will come down." ¹¹Then David asked, "Will the men of Keilah hand me and my men over to him?" Yahweh answered, "They will hand you over to him." ¹²So David set out with his six hundred men. He left Keilah and wandered from one place to another. When Saul was informed that David had escaped from Keilah, he abandoned the expedition. ¹³Meanwhile David stayed in the strongholds in the hill country of the desert of Ziph. Saul, however, kept on searching for him but God did not deliver David into his hands.

¹⁴David knew that Saul had come out to kill him. And he remained at Horesh in the desert of Ziph. ¹⁵Saul's son, Jonathan, went to him and encouraged him in God's name with these words, ¹⁶"Have no fear, for my father Saul will not harm you. Even my father Saul knows that you shall be king over Israel and that I shall be second to you." ¹⁷The two made an agreement before Yahweh in Horesh, after which David remained there while Jonathan returned home.

¹⁸Some of the Ziphites went up to Saul at Gibeah and told him, "David is hiding among us in the strongholds, or at Horesh or on the hill of Hachilah, south of Jeshimon." ¹⁹Come down, therefore, O king, whenever it may please you and we shall deliver him into your hands."

²⁰Saul replied, "May Yahweh bless you for you have had mercy on me." ²¹Go and make sure where he has been and who has seen him there for I am told that he is very cunning.

²²Check all the places where he may be hiding and come back to me, and I will go with you. If he is in the region, I will search him out among all the villages of Judah."

²³So they went off to Ziph ahead of Saul. At this time, David and his men were in the desert of Maon, in the valley south of Jeshimon.

²⁴When David learned that Saul and his men were looking for him, he went down to a ravine in the desert of Maon. Saul heard of this and pursued David into the desert of Maon. ²⁵Saul moved along one side of the mountain, and David along the other. David was hurrying to escape Saul who with his forces was closing in on him and his men. ²⁶It was then that a messenger came to Saul and said, "Come quickly because the Philistines have invaded the land!" ²⁷Saul then left off pursuing David and went to face the Philistines. This is how that place came to be called the Ravine of Parting.

David spares Saul contained lots. This was an ancient practice, in ordinary use among the priests of Israel. Later, this practice fell into disuse when prophets ceased to make predictions (See chap. 9).

"For those who are holy, everything is holy," this superstitious practice was the means by which David had familiar dealings with Yahweh. Nowadays, in the same manner God makes himself known to people of little instruction in the faith through means that are often "hardly catholic." If they are better educated, God uses other means.

◆ David's respect for "the anointed one," of the Lord (since Saul had been anointed by Samuel), gives evidence of his faith.

Persons instructed in the Scriptures know that leaders share with God duties and power from his pursuit of the Philistines, he was told that David was in the desert of Engedi. ³ So Saul took three thousand picked men from all Israel and went in search of David and his men in the direction of the Wild Goat crags. ⁴ When he came to the sheepfolds along the way, he entered a cave to relieve himself.

⁵ Now David and his men were far back in the cave. David's men said to him, "This is the day which Yahweh spoke of, 'Look, I will deliver your enemy into your hands and you will do with him as you see fit.'" So David moved up and stealthily cut off an end of Saul's robe. ⁶ But afterward, David regretted having cut off an end of Saul's robe, ⁷ and he said to his men, "Let me not lay my hands on my master, for he is Yahweh's anointed." ⁸ With these words, David restrained his men and did not allow them to attack Saul. Saul then left the cave and went on his way.

⁹ Then David himself stepped out of the cave and called after Saul, "My master, the King!" When Saul looked back, David knelt and then bowed to the ground in homage and asked him, ¹⁰ "Why do you listen to those who say that I want to harm you?" ¹¹ Look, today you have seen that Yahweh delivered you into my hands in the cave, and I was told to kill you but I held myself back and I said: 'I will not lift my hands against my master who is Yahweh's anointed.' ¹² My father, look at this end of your robe which I am holding! I cut off the end of your robe but did not kill you. Now you may know that I mean you no harm or treason. I have done you no wrong and yet you are hunting me down to kill me. ¹³ May Yahweh be judge between you and me and may he exact justice from you in my case, but I shall do you no harm.

¹⁴ As the saying goes, 'From the wicked comes wickedness'; as for me, my hand shall not harm you. ¹⁵ But who is it you are after, O king of Israel? Are you pursuing a dead dog? A flea? ¹⁶ May Yahweh be judge between you and me. May he see and uphold my cause and deliver me from your hands."

¹⁷ After David had spoken these words, Saul asked, "Is that your voice, my son David?" He wept aloud ¹⁸ and said to David, "You are right and I am wrong, for you have repaid kindness for the harm I have inflicted on you. ¹⁹ This day you have shown your righteousness with me by not taking my life when Yahweh put me into your hands. ²⁰ For if a man finds his enemy, will he let him go unharmed? May Yahweh reward you for what you have done for me today. ²¹ Now I know for certain that you shall be king over Israel. ²² Now swear to me by Yahweh that you will not wipe out my descendants and erase the name of my family."

²³ David swore to this before Saul after which Saul went home while David and his men went up to the hiding place.

David and Abigail

o25 ¹ The day Samuel died, all Israel gathered together to mourn him; after which they buried him at his home in Ramah.

² Then David went down to the desert of Maon. A very rich man, owner of three thousand sheep and a thousand goats lived there and had his farm in Carmel.

7. 9. 16. 31.4. 2 S 1. 14 1. 28. 3

which exceed the capabilities and the rights of the human being. Though we have to replace evil or inefficient leaders, we have to respect their person and the fearful responsibility God has delivered into their hands.

God will do me justice. This is not the grudging complaint of a man who did not even try to defend himself but the certainty of one who, in fighting for what seems to him to be just, recognizes that God alone is the master of history. In particular cases, he renounces his rights as a way of showing his full confidence in God. This is what Jesus says in Mt 6:38-42.

o The incident we read here puts two men and two mentalities in opposition to one another: the person with possessions has no advantage over the other. This means that wealth has to be shared.

The role of the woman is highlighted. Her wisdom is able to ward off a disaster provoked by men. David is humble enough to see that his impulsive temperament leads him to violence and injustice.

⁴ When David heard in the desert that Nabal was shearing his sheep, ⁵ he sent ten young men to the farm with this instruction, 'Go to Nabal in Carmel and greet him for me in these words: Peace be with you and your family; peace be with all that is yours.' ⁷ I hear that you have shearers with you. Now when your shepherds were with us, we did not harm them; neither did they miss anything while they were in Carmel. ⁸ Ask your servants and they will tell. So be kind to my servants since we come on a festive day; please give them and your son David whatever you can."

¹⁸ Abigail hurriedly prepared two hundred loaves, two skins of wine, five dressed sheep, five measures of roasted grain, a hundred cakes of pressed raisins, and two hundred cakes of pressed figs and loaded them on asses. ¹⁹ Then she said to her servants, "Go on ahead and I shall follow you." But she told her husband nothing of this.

²⁰ As she rode on her ass down the mountain, David and his men were coming down from the other direction. When she met them, ²¹ David was reflecting, "It was useless guarding all that this fellow has in the desert. Although he lost nothing belonging to him, he has returned me evil for good. ²² May God do so to David and more if by morning I leave a single male alive among those who belong to him."

²³ On seeing David, Abigail quickly dismounted from the ass and threw herself on the ground before him. ²⁴ As she fell at his feet she said, "My Lord, let the blame be on me! Let your handmaid speak to you; listen to her words. ²⁵ Let not my Lord pay attention to this ill-mannered man, Nabal, for he is just what his name says: He is a fool. I, your handmaid, did not see the young men whom you sent.

²⁶ Now, my lord, as Yahweh lives and as you live, it is Yahweh who prevents you from shedding blood and avenging yourself. Let your enemies and those who seek to harm my lord become like Nabal! ²⁷ And now let this present which I have brought you, my lord, be given to the young men who follow you, ²⁸ and please forgive me.

Yahweh will certainly give you a lasting family because you are fighting the battles of Yahweh and no evil shall come upon you as long as you live. ²⁹ Should anyone make an attempt on your life, may the life of my lord be bound in the bundle of the living in the care of Yahweh, your God. May he hurl away the lives of your enemies as from the hollow of a sling.

³⁰ So when Yahweh fulfills his promises and appoints you as commander over Israel, ³¹ you shall have no reason to grieve or to feel any grief or regret for having unrightfully shed blood or taken revenge yourself. May Yahweh bless you, and you, my lord, remember your handmaid."

³² David then said to Abigail, "Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who sent you to meet me today! ³³ Blessed be your good judgment and may you yourself be blessed, for you have prevented me from shedding blood and avenging myself today! ³⁴ For as Yahweh, the God of Israel, lives, he has prevented me from hurting you. If you did not hurry to meet me, not a single male belonging to Nabal would have been alive by morning." ³⁵ David accepted what she had brought him and told her, "Go back home in peace. I have listened to you and granted your request."

³⁶ Abigail went back to Nabal and found him holding a feast, in his house.

He was joyful and very drunk so Abigail did not mention anything to him until the following day. ³⁷ When morning came and Nabal had slept it off, his wife spoke to him about all these things. On hearing it Nabal had a stroke and remained paralyzed. ³⁸ Ten days later, Yahweh let him die.

³⁹ When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed be Yahweh who has avenged the insult I received at the hand of Nabal and has prevented me from doing wrong. Yahweh himself has made Nabal's wrongdoings fall on his own head."

⁴⁰ David then sent his servants to Abigail in Carmel to propose marriage to her saying, "David has sent us to you to say that he wants you to be his wife." ⁴¹ Rising and bowing to the ground, Abigail answered, "May I be as a slave to wash the feet of my lord's servants." ⁴² She quickly rose and mounted an ass and attended by five of her servants, she left with David's messengers and became his wife.

+26 ¹ Ziphites came to Saul in Gibeath to tell him that David was hiding on the hill of Hachilah, east of Jeshimon. ² On hearing this, Saul went down with three thousand picked men of Israel to the desert of Ziph in search of David. ³ He encamped on the hill of Hachilah beside the road east of Jeshimon. ⁴ When David who was in the desert saw that Saul had come after him, he sent out spies who confirmed Saul's arrival. ⁵ David came to Saul's place of encampment and saw where Saul was resting with Abner, son of Ner, chief of his army. Saul was sleeping in the center and his men were around him.

⁶ David then asked Ahimelech, the Hittite and Abishai, son of Zeruiah and Joab's brother, "Who will go down into the camp with me to Saul?" Abishai answered, "I will go down with you." ⁷ So, that night, David and Abishai went into the camp and found Saul sleeping in the center, his spear thrust into the ground at his head, while Abner and the rest of the soldiers were sleeping around him. ⁸ Abishai said to David, "God has delivered your enemy into your hands this day. Let me nail him to the ground with one thrust of the spear; I will not repeat it." ⁹ But David answered Abishai, "Do not harm him. For who could harm Yahweh's anointed and not be punished?" ¹⁰ As Yahweh lives, only Yahweh may strike him; either he dies on the day appointed or is killed in battle. ¹¹ Don't let me harm Yahweh's anointed! Instead take the spear that is at his head and the water jug and let us be on our way."

body saw, nobody knew, nobody woke up. All remained asleep, for a deep sleep from Yahweh had fallen on them.

¹³ On the opposite slope David stood at a distance on top of the hill. ¹⁴ and called out to both Abner, son of Ner and the soldiers, "Why don't you answer, Abner?" Abner answered back, "Who are you to awake the king?" ¹⁵ David said to Abner, "Are you not a man? Who is like you in Israel? Why then did you not guard closely your lord the king? An ordinary man has broken into the camp and made an attempt on the life of the king your lord. ¹⁶ Is this the way you fulfill your duties? You deserve to die because you did not guard your lord, Yahweh's anointed. Now look for the king's spear and the water jug that were at his head."

¹⁷ Saul recognized David's voice and asked, "Is that your voice, David my son?" David answered, "It is my voice, my lord, O king!" ¹⁸ Why does my lord pursue me? What have I done? What am I guilty of? ¹⁹ Now, let my lord the king hear my words. If it is Yahweh who has incited you against me, may an offering appease him; but if men have done so, may they be cursed before Yahweh, for they have made me an exile to this day and have driven me from my share of the inheritance of Yahweh as if saying to me: 'Go and serve other gods.' ²⁰ Let not my blood flow to the ground far from the presence of Yahweh! For the king of Israel has come to seek out a flea as a man hunts a partridge in the mountains."

²¹ Then Saul said, "I have done wrong. Come back, David my son. I will not harm you anymore since you valued my life this day. I have acted like a fool and have made a great mistake." ²² David answered, "I have your spear with me, O king! Let one of your servants come over to fetch it. ²³ Yahweh rewards a righteous and loyal man. Today he delivered you into my hands but I refused to harm Yahweh's anointed. ²⁴ As I valued your life today, may Yahweh value my life and deliver me from all distress."

²⁵ Finally Saul told David, "Blessed are you, David my son! You shall succeed in everything you do." Then David went his way and Saul went home.

David among the Philistines

27 ¹ David thought, "Some day I shall die at the hand of Saul. It is better for me to escape to the land of the Philistines where I shall be beyond his reach and Saul will get tired of searching for me within the borders of Israel." ² So David went with his six hundred men to Achish, son of Maach, king of Gath. ³ He and his men lived with Achish in Gath; each one had his family with him and David had his two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail of Carmel, Nabal's widow. ⁴ When Saul was informed that David had fled to Gath, he no longer searched for him.

⁵ David said to Achish, "If I meet with your approval, let me have a place to live in one of the country towns. Why should your servant live in the royal city with you?" ⁶ That very day, Achish gave David Ziklag, which since then and up to the present time has belonged to the kings of Judah. ⁷ David lived one year and four months in the country of the Philistines.

⁸ David and his men raided the Geshurites, the Girzites and the Amalekites – all these lived in the land extending from Shur to the land of Egypt. ⁹ David would attack the land leaving neither man nor woman alive and carrying off their sheep, oxen, asses, camels and garments. Then he would come back to Achish. ¹⁰ Whenever Achish asked, "Whom did you raid this time?" David would answer, "The Negeb of Judah," or "The Negeb of the Irahmeelites," or "The Negeb of the Kenites." ¹¹ David left neither man nor woman alive. For he said, "If I brought them to Gath, they could talk against us and say: This is what David did." Such was his practice as long as he lived in the country of the Philistines. ¹² Achish trusted David and said to himself, "David is now hated by his own people. He shall be my servant forever."

Saul consults the witch of Endor

■ 28 ¹ In those days, the Philistines mustered their forces to fight against Israel, and Achish told David, "I want you to know that you and your men must join me to fight this battle." ² David answered, "Then you will see for yourself what your servant can do." Achish said to David, "I will make you my permanent bodyguard."

³ Now Samuel had died and when all Israel had mourned for him, they buried him in his own city, Ramah. Meanwhile, Saul had driven those who consult spirits of the dead and fortunetellers out of the land.

⁴ As the Philistines gathered together and encamped in Shunem, Saul also mustered the Israelite forces and encamped in Gilboa. ⁵ But on seeing the Philistine camp, Saul was afraid and his heart failed him. ⁶ Saul consulted Yahweh but Yahweh gave no answer whether in dreams or by the Urim or through prophets. ⁷ Then Saul said to his servants, "Find me a woman who consults the spirits of the dead, that I may go and consult her." His servants told him, "There is a medium at Endor."

⁸ Saul disguised himself, putting on other clothes, and left with two men. He arrived at night and said to the woman: "Tell my fortune through a ghost and call the spirit I shall name." ⁹ But the woman answered him, "Do you not know that Saul has driven medium and fortunetellers out of the land? Why do you set a trap for me to bring about my death?" ¹⁰ But Saul swore to her by Yahweh, "As Yahweh lives, you will not be in trouble for this."

¹² When the woman saw Samuel, she screamed and said to Saul, "Why

■ Nowhere else does Saul appear so human and so close to us. While David, trusting in Yahweh and loved by all, courts danger with the utmost serenity, Saul carries all by himself the burden of his anxiety. His opponent, Samuel, with whom he could at least discuss and quarrel no longer there. God himself does not speak, and the man remains alone facing hostile circumstances, tortured by his own doubts and anxieties.

Saul wanted to wrest from God a favourable response. He gets a death sentence from Samuel, and then leaves peacefully since what weighed on him was not so much the fear of death as the solitude which was his wage while he was in power. The man who "surpassed everyone in height from the shoulders upwards" has become like all the rest and depends on the assistance of a poor woman, a sinner according to God's law, but someone full of understanding.

have you deceived me? You are Saul!" ¹³ The king then told her, "Have no fear. What do you see?"

The woman said, "I see him rising from the ground. He is a god." ¹⁴ Saul asked her, "What does he look like?" She replied, "The one rising is an old man clothed in a mantle." Saul knew that it was Samuel. He knelt and bowed face to the ground in homage.

¹⁵ Samuel spoke to Saul, "Why did you disturb me by summoning me up?" Saul answered, "I am in great distress for the Philistines are waging war against me and God has abandoned me. He no longer answers me either through prophets or in dreams. Because of this I have called you to tell me what I should do."

¹⁶ Samuel said, "Why do you ask me, if Yahweh has abandoned you and turned against you? ¹⁷ Yahweh has done to you what he foretold through me. He has torn the kingdom from your hand and has given it to your neighbour, David. ¹⁸ Remember that you disobeyed Yahweh by not executing his fierce anger against Amalek; that is why Yahweh has done this to you today. ¹⁹ Now Yahweh will deliver Israel, together with you, into the hands of the Philistines. By tomorrow, you and your sons shall be with me when Yahweh delivers the army of Israel into the hands of the Philistines."

²⁰ Immediately Saul fell full length on the ground, terrified by what Samuel said. He had no strength left because he had not eaten anything all that day and night.

²¹ The woman drew close to Saul and, seeing how frightened he was, said to him, "Look, your maidservant has obeyed you and risked her life doing what you have asked her to do. ²² Now it is your turn to listen to me. Let me give you something to eat so you may have strength when you go on your way." ²³ Saul refused and said, "I will not eat." But on the insistence of his servants and the woman, he agreed, rose from the ground and sat on the bed. ²⁴ The woman had a fattened calf in the house which she immediately butchered. She also took some flour, kneaded it and baked unleavened bread, ²⁵ and set it before Saul and his servants. They then ate and left that night.

29 ¹ Now the Philistines mustered all their forces at Aphek; the Israelites were encamped beside the spring in Jezreel. ² While the Philistine rulers went ahead of their groups of thousands and hundreds, David and his men were marching at the rear with Achish. ³ The Philistine chiefs asked, "Who are these Hebrews?" Achish replied to the Philistine chiefs, "This is David, servant of Saul, king of Israel. He has been with me for over a year and since he fled to me up to the present day I have found no fault in him." ⁴ But the Philistine chiefs were angered at this and said to him, "Send that man back! Let him return to the place where you assigned him. He must not go down into battle with us lest during the battle he turn against us. How better could this fellow regain his master's favour than by bringing him the heads of our men?" ⁵ Is this not the David for whom they danced and sang: Saul has slain his thousands, but David his tens of thousands?"

⁶ So Achish called David and said to him, "As Yahweh lives, you are honest and I would like you to be with me in the camp for I have found nothing wrong in you since you came to me up to the present day. But you displease the lords. ⁷ So it is better for you to leave and go back quietly and do nothing to displease the Philistine lords." ⁸ David asked Achish, "But what have I done? Have I done anything since I entered your service until the present time that would bar me from joining the fight against the enemies of my lord the king?"

⁹ Achish replied to David, "I myself hold nothing against you, but the Philistine chiefs are determined not to allow you to join us in battle. ¹⁰ Now, therefore, get up early tomorrow morning and leave with the soldiers who came with you." ¹¹ So David and his men left early in the morning and returned to the land of the Philistines. The Philistines, in the meantime: went on to Jezreel.

The sack of Ziklag

◆ 30 ¹Before David and his men reached Ziklag on the third day, the Amalekites had raided the Negeb and Ziklag, storming it and burning it to the ground. ²They had taken captive the women and all who were in the city, young and old. They killed no one but carried them off when they left.

³When they reached the town, David and his men found it burned to the ground and their wives, sons and daughters taken captive. ⁴Then David and those with him wept aloud until they could weep no more. ⁵David's two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail, widow of Nabal of Carmel had also been taken captive. ⁶Now David was greatly distressed because the people were talking of stoning him: for they were embittered because of what had happened to their sons and daughters. But David found strength in Yahweh his God.

⁷David told Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, to bring him the ephod. So Abiathar brought the ephod to David ⁸who then consulted Yahweh, "Shall I go after these raiders? Can I overtake them?" The answer was, "Go after them for you shall surely overtake them and recover the captives."

⁹David set out with his six hundred men and they reached the brook of Besor. There, two hundred men stayed behind, for they were too exhausted to cross the brook, ¹⁰and David continued the chase with four hundred men.

¹¹They found an Egyptian in the open country and brought him to David. They gave him food, which he ate, and water to drink. ¹²They gave him a piece of fig cake and two pieces of raisin cake. The Egyptian ate and recovered his strength, for he had been three days and three nights without eating and drinking. ¹³David then questioned him, "To whom do you belong, and where do you come from?" He answered, "I am an Egyptian, slave of an Amalekite. My master abandoned me because I fell sick three days ago. ¹⁴We raided the Negeb of the Cherethites, the territory of Judah and the Negeb of Caleb and set Ziklag on fire." ¹⁵David then asked him, "Will you lead me to this raiding band?" He replied, "Swear to me by God that you will neither kill me nor deliver me into the hands of my master and I will lead you to this raiding band."

¹⁶So the Egyptian led David to the raiding band whom they found scattered all over the ground, eating, drinking, dancing and feasting with the spoils they had taken from the land of the Philistines and from the land of Judah. ¹⁷David fought them from early morning to the evening of the following day, allowing no one to escape except four hundred young men who mounted their camels and fled.

¹⁸David recovered everything the Amalekites had taken and rescued his two wives. ¹⁹Nothing and no one was missing, small or great, son or daughter, booty or anything the Amalekites had taken. David brought back everything. ²⁰He then gathered flocks and herds and the people drove them before him, saying, "These are David's spoils!"

²¹David reached the two hundred men who had been too tired to follow him, and were left behind at the Besor brook. These men came to meet David and those who were with him. David then drew near and greeted them. ²²But the malicious and worthless people among those who had accompanied David said, "Since they did not come with us, we shall not share the booty with them; let each of them take his wife and children and leave." ²³But David said, "My brothers, you shall not do that after what Yahweh has given us. He has protected us and delivered into our hands the band that raided us. ²⁴Who would agree to what you have said? The share of those who go down to battle and of those who remain with the baggage shall be the same; they shall share alike." ²⁵From that day to the present, this has been a statute and custom for Israel.

²⁶When David arrived in Ziklag, he sent part of the booty to the elders of Judah, to each of his friends, saying, "This is a gift to you from the booty of Yahweh's enemies: ²⁷to those in Bethel, in Ramoth-negeb, in Jattir, ²⁸in Aroer, in Sipmoth, in Eshtemoa, ²⁹in Raca, in the Jerahmeelite cities, in the Kenite cities, ³⁰in Hormah, in Borashan, ³¹in Athach, in Hebron, and in all the places where David and his men had stayed.

Death of Saul

31 ¹Now the Philistines fought against the Israelites who, in their flight, fell mortally wounded on Mount Gilboa. ²The Philistines overtook Saul and his sons and killed Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchishua, Saul's sons. ³The battle raged around Saul, and the archers wounded him badly.

⁴Then Saul commanded his armour-bearer, "Draw your sword and run me through lest these uncircumcised men come and kill me themselves, making fun of me." But his armour-bearer did not move because he was greatly terrified. So Saul drew his own sword and fell upon it. ⁵Seeing that Saul was dead, the armour-bearer also fell upon his sword and died with him. ⁶Thus, Saul, his three sons, his armour-bearer and all his men died together on the same day.

⁷When the Israelites on the other side of the valley and those beyond the Jordan saw that the men of Israel had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled. Then the Philistines came and occupied those cities.

⁸The following day, the Philistines came to strip the slain and found Saul and his three sons lying dead on Mount Gilboa. ⁹They cut off his head and stripped off his armour and then sent messengers throughout the Philistine lands to proclaim this good news in the temples of their idols and among the people. ¹⁰They put his armour in the temple of Ashtaroth and pinned his body on the wall of Bethshan. ¹¹When the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul, ¹²all their warriors set out, marched through the night and removed the bodies of Saul and his sons from the wall of Beth-

2 SAMUEL

INTRODUCTION

The books of Samuel are two parts of the same work. What has been said in the introduction to the first book holds true for the second.

In this second part, the deeds of King David are narrated to us. No history as sincere as this was ever written in ancient times – a story written by a man of God who could dig out David's real greatness. Great men are not always those who made the most impact during their life; nor are saints those who displayed greater piety or performed more miracles. Thus, what is exceptional about King David can be noted in a series of small things that perhaps seemed insignificant or even stupid to his contemporaries (See the differences between David and Joab – Joab the "achiever" and "effective" man). But these things did not pass unnoticed by him who narrated the story. After him, Israel understood that if they had had several understanding kings, only David provided them with some anticipated image of the true King, Christ.

To make easier our understanding of the events that follow, let us bear in mind that even before David, the tribe of Judah which settled in southern Palestine felt different from the tribes of Israel situated more to the north. Saul had more allies in the north; David instead was a Bethlehemite, from the tribe of Judah and found his support there.

David learns of Saul's death

1 It was thus that Saul died. As for David, he returned from the slaughter of the Amalekites. He was already two days in Ziklag ² when, on the third day, a man came from Saul's camp, with his clothes torn and dust strewn on his head. He went to David and fell to the ground in homage. ³ David asked him, "Where are you from?" And he answered, "I have escaped from the Israelite camp." ⁴ David then said, "Tell me what happened." And the man told him. "The soldiers fled from the battle but many of them fell and died. Saul and his son Jonathan – they too are dead.

⁵ Then David asked the young man who reported this, "How do you know that Saul and his son Jonathan are dead?"

⁶ The young man replied, "I happened to be on Mount Gilboa and I saw Saul leaning on his spear while chariots and horsemen were closing in on him. ⁷ He turned around and, seeing me, called me. ⁸ I said, "Here I am." He asked, "Who are you?" and I replied, "I am an Amalekite." ⁹ He

o The first reaction of David, upon hearing of Saul's death, shows his qualities. From then on, he champions national unity and will strive to reunite around him both allies and enemies of then said to me, "Come here and kill me for I feel dizzy though I am fully alive." ¹⁰ So I went over and killed him, knowing for certain that he could not survive this disaster. Then I removed the crown from his head and the armlet from his arm, both of which I have here to give you, my lord."

¹¹ At this, David took hold of his clothes and tore them and his men did the same. ¹² And they mourned, weeping and fasting until evening, for the death of Saul and his son Jonathan, for the people of Yahweh and for Israel.

¹³ David asked the young man who told him this, "Where are you from?" And he answered, "I am the son of an Amalekite immigrant." ¹⁴ David said, "Why were you not afraid to lay your hands on Yahweh's anointed and kill him?" ¹⁵ He then called one of his men and ordered him, "Come and strike him down." He struck down the Amalekite, and killed him.

¹⁶ David declared, "You are responsible for your own death for you condemned yourself when you said, 'I have killed Yahweh's anointed.'"

¹⁷ David sang this song of lamentation for Saul and his son Jonathan, and had it taught to the people of Judah. It is called "The Bow" ¹⁸ and is found in the Book of the Just.

¹⁹ "Your glory, O Israel, is slain upon your mountains!

How the mighty ones have fallen!

²⁰ Tell it not in Gath, proclaim it not in the streets of Ashkelon lest the Philistine women rejoice, lest foreign maidens exult.

²¹ Mountains of Gilboa, let neither dew nor rain visit you,
nor your waters rise!

For on you the shield of the valiant was defiled.

²² The shield of Saul was not anointed with oil; but from the blood of the slain,
from the fat of the warriors,
the bow of Jonathan did not turn back,
nor did the sword of Saul return unstained.

²³ Saul and Jonathan, beloved and cherished, neither in life nor in death were they parted;

swifter than eagles they were and stronger than lions.

²⁴ Women of Israel, weep over Saul who clothed you in precious scarlet, who decked your clothes with ornaments of gold.

²⁵ How the valiant have fallen!
In the midst of the battle Jonathan lies slain on your mountains.

²⁶ I grieve for you, my brother Jonathan;
how dear have you been to me!
Your love for me was wonderful,
even more than the love of women.

²⁷ How the valiant have fallen!
The weapons of war have perished!"

David is anointed King over Judah

2 ¹ After this, David consulted Yahweh, "Shall I go up to one of the cities of Judah?" Yahweh answered him, "Go!" Then David asked, "Where shall I go?" He answered, "To Hebron." ² So David went up to Hebron with his two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail the widow of Nabal of Carmel. ³ David also brought up his men with their families and they settled in the towns of Hebron. ⁴ Then the men of Judah came and there they anointed David king over the nation of Judah.

David learned that the men of Jabesh-gilead had buried Saul, ⁵ so he sent messengers to them with these words, "May Yahweh bless you for you have dealt kindly with Saul, your master, and have buried him. ⁶ May Yahweh show his love and fidelity to you! I, in turn, will be kind to you for having done this. ⁷ Now be brave and strong for although your master Saul is dead, the people of Judah have anointed me their king."

David is proclaimed king by the people of his own tribe of Judah. The north remains faithful to

⁸ Now Abner, son of Ner, Saul's general, had taken Ishbaal, son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim ⁹ where he made him king over Gilead, the Ashurites, Jezreel, Ephraim, Benjamin and the rest of Israel. ¹⁰ Ishbaal, Saul's son, was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and he reigned for two years. Only the people of Judah followed David. ¹¹ David was their king in Hebron and he ruled over them for seven years and six months.

Civil war

¹⁷ After a very fierce battle that day, Abner and the men of Israel were defeated by David's troops. ¹⁸ The three sons of Zeruiah-Joab, Abishai and Asahel were there. ¹⁹ Asahel, who ran as fast as a wild gazelle, pursued Abner, turning neither to the right nor to the left. ²⁰ Abner turned around and asked, "Is that you, Asahel?" He replied, "Yes, it is I." ²¹ Abner said to him, "Turn right or left, go after one of the young men and take his spoil." But Asahel refused to desist from following him, ²² so Abner again said, "Stop following me! I will surely strike you down and then, how could I face your brother Joab?" ²³ But Asahel would not heed, and Abner struck him in the belly with the butt of his spear which ran through him and came out his back. He fell and died on the spot and all who came to the place where Asahel fell dead, stopped there.

²⁴ Joab and Abishai, however, pursued Abner and, by sunset, arrived at the hill of Ammah which lies near Giah toward the desert of Gibeon. ²⁵ The Benjaminites then rallied around Abner, forming one band, and took their position on the hilltop. ²⁶ Then Abner called to Joab, "How long will you fight? Do you not realize that this will bring you more bitterness? When will you order your men to stop pursuing their brothers?" ²⁷ Joab replied, "As God lives, if you had not spoken, my men would have continued pursuing their brothers until morning." ²⁸ So Joab blew the trumpet and the men desisted from pursuing the Israelites and fighting them.

3 ¹ There was a long war between Saul's party and that of David, but David grew stronger while Saul's party grew weaker.

² Sons were born to David at Hebron: his firstborn, Amnon, of Ahinoam of Jezreel; ³ his second, Chileab, of Abigail, widow of Nabal of Carmel; the third, Absalom, son of Maacah the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur, ⁴ the Saul's son. With the purpose of uniting them, David seeks the sympathy of Saul's allies, and praises the people from the north who gave Saul burial.

David, the man of God, has two wives, and will later have still more. David was a man of his times. God demanded no more than they could understand.

■ David will have no success in educating his children. His biggest trials will come from them.

It is a consequence of polygamy: with many wives and many children, the children are not given from infancy the personal attention which would give them real formation. Amnon will violate Absalom's sister and will die for this offence. Absalom and Adonias will try to unseat their father. Some of David's sons had not yet been born at this time (see 1 Chron 14:3), especially Solomon, son of Bathsheba, and Nathan, whom Luke mentions as one of Jesus' ancestors (Lk 3:31).

fourth, Adonijah, the son of Haggith; the fifth, Shephatiah, the son of Abital; ⁵ and the sixth, Ithream, of David's wife Eglah. These were born to David in Hebron.

⁶ While war was going on between the party of Saul and that of David, Abner was strengthening his position in Saul's family. ⁷ Now Saul had had a concubine named Rizpah, daughter of Aiah on whose account Ishbaal chided Abner, "Why have you slept with my father's concubine?" ⁸ Abner was very angry because of Ishbaal's remark and exclaimed, "Am I a dog's head? Up to now I have been loyal to the family of Saul your father, to his brothers and friends, and have not delivered you into the hands of David, and you come accusing me because of this woman. ⁹ May God deal with me severely if I do not do for David what Yahweh swore to him – ¹⁰ to transfer the kingdom from the family of Saul to that of David and make him king of Israel and Judah to rule over all the land from Dan to Beer-sheba." ¹¹ Ishbaal could no longer say a word to Abner for he feared him.

¹² Abner then sent messengers to David at Hebron saying, "To whom does the land belong? Enter into an agreement with me and I shall help you obtain all Israel." ¹³ David replied, "I will make an agreement with you, but on one condition: you may appear before me when you bring me Saul's daughter, Michal."

¹⁷ Abner conferred with the elders of Israel and told them, "You have long wanted to have David as your king. ¹⁸ Well, make it come true; for Yahweh made a promise to David and said: By my servant David, I will save my people Israel from the Philistines and from all their enemies." ¹⁹ Abner also spoke to the people of Benjamin; then he went to tell David at Hebron the proposals of Israel and the Benjaminites.

Joab murders Abner

²⁰ When Abner came to David at Hebron, David prepared a feast for him and the twenty men who were with him. ²¹ Then Abner said to David, "I will now go and assemble all Israel for my master the king, that they may enter into an agreement with you, and that you may reign over all those you want to rule."

²⁶ Joab left David and sent messengers to go after Abner and they had him brought back from the cistern of Sirah. But David did not know of that. ²⁷ When Abner arrived at Hebron, Joab took him aside within the city gate as though to speak with him privately. There he stabbed him in the belly and he died. Joab did so in re-

◆ Sometimes, the Bible says that God intervenes to guide David and lead him to victory. This does not deny the fact that David is an intelligent and capable man, and is able to impose himself on Israel. God was not acting differently at that time than as he acts today. It is always man who writes history and, in so doing, writes it with light and shadow.

The new king strives to bring about a united and strong nation. This account shows us an attempt to achieve unity which fails because of the mean and vindictive attitude of David's military officers.

The story highlights three characteristics of a closed mind in a politician:

- he believes that those who belong to his party are good and those, in turn, who belong to the opposition are bad;
- later, he ascribes bad intentions to everything the opposition does;
- finally he eliminates them by any means.

venge for the murder of his brother, Asahel.

²⁸ Later on, David heard about this. Then he said, "I and my kingdom are innocent before Yahweh of the murder of Abner, son of Ner. ²⁹ May justice for his blood fall on Joab and on all his father's family, and may there be forever among them some member who has discharge, or is sick with leprosy, or who is only fit to hold a spindle, or who falls by the sword or hunger!"

³⁰ Joab and his brother Abishai slew Abner because he had killed their brother Asahel in the battle at Gibeon.

³³ The king began the mourning song for Abner, with these words, "Should Abner die as a fool dies? ³⁴ Your hands were not bound, your feet were not fettered; as one falls at the hands of the wicked, so you have fallen." And all the people again wept over him.

³⁵ Then the people tried to persuade David to take some food while it was still day, but David swore, "May God do so to me and more if I touch food before sundown!" ³⁶ The people needed this and it pleased them; in fact, they were pleased at whatever the king said. ³⁷ This day they realized, as did all the people of Israel, that the king had no part in the murder of Abner, son of Ner. ³⁸ Then the king said to his servants "Do you realize that a general and valiant warrior passed away today in Israel? ³⁹ Although I am the anointed king, today I feel helpless for these sons of Zeruiah are too hard on me. May Yahweh repay the one who did evil."

Ishbaal is murdered

4 ¹ When Ishbaal, Saul's son, heard that Abner had died at Hebron, he was stunned and the Israelites were disheartened. ² Saul's son had two men, captains of raiding bands: one was Baanah, the other Rechab, both sons of Rimmon, a Benjaminite from Beeroth. For Beeroth was still considered part of Benjamin; ³ the Beerothites fled to Gittaim and have remained there as immigrants to the present day.

⁴ (Jonathan, son of Saul, had a son whose feet were crippled. He was five years old when the news came from Jezreel about the death of Saul and Jonathan. His nurse took him up and fled so hastily that the boy fell and became lame. He was called Mephibaal.)

⁹ But David answered Rechab and his brother Baanah, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, "Let Yahweh hear, he who has saved me from all adversities. ¹⁰ When somebody reported Saul's death to me, thinking he was bringing me good news, I took hold of him and killed him at Ziklag, instead of giving him a reward. ¹¹ Will I do less when wicked men have murdered a just one in his own house and on his bed? Shall I not now demand his blood from your hands and sweep you away?"

¹² So David commanded his young men to kill them. They cut off their hands and feet and hung them beside the pool at Hebron. Then they took Ishbaal's head and buried it in Abner's tomb on Hebron.

Those from the north acknowledge him as king my people Israel and you shall be commander over Israel." ³ Before Yahweh, King David made an agreement with the elders of Israel who came to him at Hebron, and they anointed him king of Israel.

⁴ David was thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned for forty years: ⁵ he reigned over Judah, from Hebron, seven and a half years; and over Israel and Judah, from Jerusalem, for thirty-three years.

David captures Jerusalem

⁶ The king and his men set out for Jerusalem to fight the Jebusites who lived there. They said to David, "If you try to break in here, the blind and the lame will drive you away," which meant that David could not get in. ⁷ Yet David captured the fortress of Zion that became the "city of David."

⁸ That day David said, "Whoever wants to win over the Jebusites must go through the water shaft and attack these lame and blind who are David's enemies." From this came the saying, "The blind and the lame shall not enter the house." ⁹ David lived in the fortress, calling it the City of David, and proceeded to build the city around it from the Millo and inside as well. ¹⁰ And David grew more powerful, for Yahweh, the God of hosts, was with him.

¹¹ Hiram, King of Tyre, sent messengers to David with cedar trees, carpenters and masons to build a house for David. ¹² David then understood that Yahweh had made him king over Israel and had exalted his reign for the sake of his people Israel.

¹³ After David had come from Hebron he took more concubines and wives from Jerusalem, and more sons and daughters were born to him. ¹⁴ These are the names of those who were born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, ¹⁵ Ibhah, Elishua, Nepheg, Japhia, ¹⁶ Elishama, Eliada and Eliphelet.

¹⁷ When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king of Israel, they went to search for him. On hearing this, David went down to the stronghold. ¹⁸ When the Philistines overran the valley of Rephaim. ¹⁹ David consulted Yahweh, "Shall I attack the Philistines? Will you deliver them into my hands?" Yahweh answered David, "Go ahead for I will certainly deliver the Philistines into your hands." ²⁰ So David came to Baalperazim where he defeated them. He said, "Yahweh has scattered my enemies before me like a sudden bursting flood." That is why that place is called Baalperazim. ²¹ There the Philistines left their idols and David and his men picked them up.

²² The Philistines went up again and overran the valley of Rephaim. ²³ David consulted Yahweh who said, "Do not go up straight but circle around and attack them from behind when you are in front of the balsam trees. ²⁴ Once you hear a marching sound on top of the balsam trees, act quickly for Yahweh is going ahead of you to attack the Philistine army." ²⁵ David obeyed Yahweh's command and struck down the Philistines from Giba to as far as Gezer.

and the unity of all Israel is achieved. The tribes in the north were separated from those in the south by the district of Jerusalem, which was in the hands of the Canaanites. David conquers Jerusalem which becomes the capital of this united kingdom.

It is a definitive stage. When David conquers Jerusalem and makes it his capital, God turns it into the visible center of his presence among people.

From then on, the one and only temple of God will be in Jerusalem, and the true kings of the people of God will be those who rule in Jerusalem. Jerusalem will be the image of the church and Christians will know that, after the Jerusalem of Palestine, God has promised them another Jerusalem – that of heaven (See Apoc 20 and 21).

Jerusalem is the image of heaven and, at the same time, of the church on earth. Often, in the Bible, Jerusalem is called Zion, since this was the name of the more ancient part of Jerusalem. It was also called the "City of David."

In the Bible, the unity achieved between the northern and southern tribes is a visible sign that they are living in God's grace: all unfaithfulness toward God leads to a division among men, and all division among men is a sin against God.

† Then he and all the people with him in Baala-Judah set forth to bring up from there the ark of God on which rests the Name of Yahweh of hosts, he who rests on the cherubim. † They blaced the ark of God on a new cart and brought it out of the house of Abinadab on the hill. Uzzah and Ahio, sons of Abinadab, were guiding the cart † with the ark of Yahweh, with Ahio walking before it. † David and the Israelites were joyfully celebrating before Yahweh, singing and blaying on lyres, harps, tambourines, fastanets and cymbals.

† † When they came to the threshing floor of Nacon, the oxen stumbled and Uzzah stretched his hand to the ark of God to hold it. † Yahweh's anger burnt against Uzzah and God struck him there because of this mistake; Uzzah died there beside the ark of God. † David was angry because Yahweh had struck Uzzah, and that place was called Perez-Uzzah to the present day.

† David was afraid of Yahweh that day and said, "How can the ark of Yahweh come to me?" † So David refused to take the ark of Yahweh into the city of David but had it brought instead, to the house of Obededom the Gittite. † Yahweh's ark remained there for three months and Yahweh blessed Obededom and all his household.

† King David was told that Yahweh had blessed the family of Obededom and all that belonged to him because of the ark of God, so he went to bring up the ark of God from the house of Obededom to the city of David, rejoicing. † After those who carried the ark of Yahweh had walked

† + The Ark was very important to the Israelites. It contained the Law which Moses received from God on Mount Sinai. The Israelites imagined God to be present above the Ark whose golden cap served as a footstool for his feet. God wanted them to understand that he was with his people, in a friendly but demanding presence.

† But to whom did the Ark belong? It belonged to the twelve tribes and not to any one of them in particular. That is why it stayed in different locations: Shiloh, Gilgal, Bethel, depending on circumstances. And what is David's intention in bringing it to Jerusalem, his new capital? Will it be a political move to establish his own authority over Israel? Most surely. But it is also, and more so, a religious act.

† Until then, Israel was, as a whole, Yahweh's chosen one. God's firstborn. But no Israelite felt worthy of special attention from the God of their people. Now David knows that he is the chosen one of Yahweh, the "son of God," as the prophet Nathan says referring to David's descendants. That is why David aspires to have the Ark very close to him, and he wants God's presence in a temple that serves as a private chapel for his family.

† God certainly loves all people, but David is the first who lives by this truth in a very simple relationship with God. Later the prophets will understand that the promises made to David are for all of us who believe in Christ, his only son.

† In Israel only those of Levi's tribe, being especially consecrated to Yahweh, have the right to serve him and to approach sacred things. Abinadab and his sons have welcomed the Ark into their home. But they cannot touch the Ark without being affected by the awesome power emanating from the Holy God. It is said that Uzza was "punished." But this word conforms to the mentality of those people who confused sin with mistakes and disgrace.

Uzza's death was a sign that suited the thinking of the people at that time; it helped them to understand how great God is above all, yet, at the same time, that he is really present among his people.

David had the Ark brought to the house of Obededom. Why is it brought to the house of an alien? Because Yahweh will not ask for an accounting of this non-Israelite? Or because it is better that a foreigner suffer the risk of God's anger?

But if the Ark brings blessings on the one who welcomes it, its natural place is beside the King!

Luke's gospel discovers other imagery in this story. Like the Ark, and in a more wonderful way, the Virgin Mary carried for nine months God himself who, on becoming man, sealed the Covenant with all the peoples of the world. This is why some have given her the title, "Ark of the Covenant." Luke himself had this text before him when he was narrating the Virgin's visit to Elizabeth. (Pay attention to vv. 9 and 11 and compare with Lk 1:39-45 and 56-64.)

six paces, they sacrificed an ox and a fattened calf.

■ ¹⁴David whirled round dancing with all his heart before Yahweh, wearing a linen ephod, ¹⁵for he and all the Israelites brought up the ark of Yahweh, shouting joyfully and sounding the horn.

¹⁶As the ark of Yahweh entered the city of David, Michal, Saul's daughter, looked out of the window; and when she saw king David leaping and whirling round before Yahweh, she despised him in her heart.

¹⁷They brought in the ark of Yahweh and laid it in its place in the tent which David had pitched for it. Then David offered burnt and peace offerings before Yahweh. ¹⁸Once the offerings had been made, David blessed the people in the name of Yahweh of hosts, ¹⁹and distributed to each of the them, to each man and woman of the entire assembly of Israel, a loaf of bread, a portion of meat and a raisin cake. With this, all the people left for their homes.

²⁰When David returned to bless his household, Michal, Saul's daughter, met him and said, "How the king of Israel honoured himself today, exposing himself before his servants' maids as uncouth men do!" ²¹But David said to Michal, "I did that before Yahweh who chose me instead of your father and his family, making me commander over Israel, Yahweh's people. By Yahweh's life I swear that I will dance and whirl again before him. ²²I will humble myself still more: and you may look at me, but I will not be rejected by the maids you spoke about." ²³And Michal, Saul's daughter, had no child to the day she died.

The prophecy of Nathan

◆ ⁷ When the king had settled in his palace and Yahweh had rid him of all his surrounding enemies, ²he said to Jonathan the prophet,

14. 1 S 2, 18 17. 1 K 3, 4; 8, 63 2. 1 K 8, 1

■ Let us imagine the transfer of the Ark. It is a huge procession with thousands of people singing, dancing and playing music, with the king himself leading. Sacrifices beyond count are offered. It is a time of great joy, for the Lord is with his people. It is the triumphal entry of the Ark of the Covenant into its rightful place – in the capital of the country.

David whirled dancing before Yahweh. David understands very well that all this is very little to give thanks worthily to God. He does not care what others think of him, when he is showing his joy to the Lord; and so he sings and dances.

Michal despised David in her heart. Michal, Saul's daughter, understood nothing, being more concerned about "what people will say," than about praising God.

In this passage, a great king teaches us real greatness and brings to mind examples from daily life: a young man who having finished his studies goes back to his barrio, and remains as simple as he was before; a Christian who is not ashamed of his faith and practices it, whether people are looking or not.

◆ I live in a cedar house while the Ark of Yahweh is housed in a tent. David thinks that if the king has a palace, why should God not have one? But God, who is greater, thinks otherwise and makes this known to his prophet Nathan. He will be the one to make David's house. House in the Bible refers to both person and things belonging to someone. David's "house" is his family, his servants, his people.

I will provide a place for my people Israel. God chooses this moment for a decisive step in the development of his people. Israel was people of twelve tribes from Moses' time. Now, it will be a nation organized in their own land with a central and stable authority: the kings descending from David.

Now I shall make your name great as the name of great ones. Yahweh has accompanied David in all his undertakings; but now he makes use of him and his works to build something permanent for the salvation of humankind.

The same thing happened with Abraham (Gen 17:7).

The same thing happens with Peter (Mt 16:18).

The Kingdom of God from now on will be the kingdom of David.

I will raise up your son after you. (See Lu 1:32.)

God's promise points to Solomon, David's son and successor, and also to those who will come after. The promise was apparently broke

"Look, I live in a house of cedar but the ark of God is housed in a tent."

³ Nathan replied, "Do as it seems fit to you for Yahweh is with you."

⁴ But that very night, Yahweh's word came to Nathan. ⁵ "Go and tell my servant David, this is what Yahweh says: Are you able to build a house for me to live in? ⁶ I have not dwelt in a house since I brought the Israelites up from Egypt to the present day, but I went about with a tent for shelter. ⁷ As long as I walked with the Israelites, did I say anything to the chiefs of Israel whom I commanded to shepherd my people Israel? Did I say: Why have you not built me a house of cedar?"

⁸ Now you will tell my servant David, this is what Yahweh of hosts says: I took you from the pasture, from tending the sheep, to make you commander of my people Israel. ⁹ I have been with you wherever you went, cutting down all your enemies before you. Now I will make your name great as the name of the great ones on earth. ¹⁰ I will provide a place for my people Israel and plant them that they may live there in peace. They shall no longer be harassed, nor shall wicked men oppress them as before. ¹¹ From the time when I appointed judges over my people Israel until now you are the one to whom I give rest from all your enemies. Yahweh also tells you that he will build you a house.

¹² When the time comes for you to rest with your ancestors, I will raise up your son after you, the one born of you and I will make his reign secure. ¹³ He shall build a house for my name and I will firmly establish his kingdom forever. ¹⁴ I will be a father for him and he shall be my son. If he does wrong, I will punish him with the rod, as men do. ¹⁵ But I will not withdraw my kindness from him as I did to Saul when I removed him out of your way. ¹⁶ Your house and your reign shall last forever before me, and your throne shall be forever firm."

¹⁷ Nathan repeated these words and related this vision to David.

¹⁸ Then King David went in, sat before Yahweh and said, "Who am I, O Yahweh God, and who is my family that you have brought me so far? ¹⁹ Yet this was not enough for you, O Yahweh God, for you have also spoken of your servant's house for a long time to come. Is this the way men act, O Yahweh God? ²⁰ What more can David say to you? You know your servant, O Yahweh God! ²¹ You fulfill your promise and carry out your plan, as you do now in bringing about all these great things and revealing them to your servant. ²² Therefore you are great, O Yahweh God, for there is no one like you, nor is there a God other than you from all that we ourselves have heard. ²³ Is there on earth another nation like your people Israel, whom God has come to redeem, and to make his people? Indeed you made yourself when, after four centuries, the kingdom of David was destroyed. Nevertheless, it is Jesus, one of his descendants, who, much later, will fully realize what Nathan announced. Several times in the Gospel, Jesus will be called Son of David (Mk 12:35).

Jesus will also be king, although not in the manner of this world's rulers. He will realize fully in his person what was merely sketched in the person of David.

- the shepherd who gathers together the scattered sheep;
- the conqueror who gives his people the

- peace he has won;
- God's deputy among men.

The way God gets ahead of David and answers him, gives us two remarkable lessons:

- As in David's case, very often people want to offer God something. In reality we can never anticipate him; he gives his favours even before we have begun to serve him.
- Besides, what pleases God is not so much the temples which we build for him, but the spiritual temple which he wants to build in people themselves - a project which he will realize after many centuries through his Church.

renowned by doing for them great and awesome things, and bringing them out from Egypt, from their people and their gods.²⁴ You have set apart your people Israel to become your people forever; and you, Yahweh, have become their God.

²⁵ Now, O Yahweh God, keep forever the promise you made and have now revealed to me regarding myself and my family, ²⁶ that your name may be honoured forever and people may say, 'Yahweh of hosts is God over Israel.' The house of your servant David will be secure before you ²⁷ because you, O Yahweh of hosts, God of Israel, have made it known to your servant and have said to him: 'Your family will last forever.' This is why I have dared to address this prayer to you.

²⁸ So now, O Yahweh God, since you are the faithful God, and have promised me this good thing, ²⁹ please bless my descendants, that they may continue forever before you. For you, O Yahweh God, have spoken and, with your blessing, my family shall be blessed forever."

David's victories

o 8 ¹ After this, David defeated the Philistines, crushing them in such a way that they were no longer in control of the land. ² Then he defeated the Moabites. He had them measured with a line and laid down on the ground; two thirds of them were to be executed, and one third to be spared. And so the Moabites became David's servants and paid tribute to him.

³ David also defeated Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah, when he tried to take again the valley of the Euphrates. ⁴ David captured from him a thousand and seven horsemen and twenty thousand foot soldiers. He hamstringed all the chariot horses but left a sufficient number for a hundred chariots. ⁵ The Arameans of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah, but David won over twenty-two thousand of their men. ⁶ Then David set up governors in Aram of Damascus and the Arameans became David's servants, paying tribute to him.

Yahweh made David victorious wherever he went. ⁷ David took the golden shields carried by the servants of Hadadezer and brought them to Jerusalem; ⁸ he also took a great quantity of bronze from Betah and Berothai, cities of Hadadezer.

⁹ When Toi, king of Hamath heard that David had defeated the entire army of Hadadezer, ¹⁰ he sent his son Joram to king David to greet him and thank him for having fought against Hadadezer and defeating him. For the latter had often been at war with Toi. Joram brought with him articles of silver, gold and bronze ¹¹ which King David consecrated to Yahweh together with the silver and gold which he consecrated from all the nations he subdued; ¹² from Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, Amalek, as well as the booty of Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

■ ¹³ David became famous when he returned from an expedition where he killed eighteen thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt. ¹⁴ He set up governors in Edom and the Edomites became his servants. So Yahweh made David victorious wherever he went.

¹⁵ David reigned over all Israel, decreeing rules and administering justice to all his people. ¹⁶ Joab, son of Zeruiah, was commander of the army; Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, recorder; ¹⁷ Zadok, son of Ahitub and Ahimelech, son of Abiathar, priests; Seraiah, secretary; ¹⁸ and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was in charge of the Cherethites and the Pelethites. David's sons were priests.

o This chapter narrates David's victories with pride. These wars were the very basis for the existence of David's kingdom, and a necessary step in the long preparation of God's Kingdom. The Israelites will remember David as the victorious warrior-king and, at the same time, will look forward to the Messiah, the son of David, as the king of Peace who will conquer all enemies. (See Is 9:5 and Mich 5:1-4)

At that time, primitive instincts were so powerful that the humble and merciful David does not hesitate to execute his prisoners. The Bible praises him for having saved some.

The fact is that faith does not replace culture; and all of us, faithful though we be, depend on the moral ideas of our surroundings. We know that during many centuries of Christianity believers and saints, who were ready to give up their life for a sick brother, did not think of denouncing abuses which appear intolerable to us.

■ Neither Abraham nor Moses had secretaries or assistants: these wandered had no offices, not even an archives-bearing donkey. David forms the first nucleus of officials in the kingdom, and only with Solomon will sacred literature start.

David's sons were priests. At that time, two centuries after Moses, priesthood was not yet reserved to the Levites. Solomon himself will offer sacrifices and consecrate the Temple (1 K 8:64).

9 ¹ David asked, "Is there anyone left of the house of Saul to whom I can show kindness for the sake of Jonathan?" ² So they called a servant of Saul, named Ziba, and brought him to David who asked, "So you are Ziba?" He replied, "I am your servant." ³ Then the king asked him, "Is there still someone of the house of Saul to whom I can give God's favor?" Ziba answered the king, "A son of Jonathan whose feet are crippled still lives." ⁴ The king asked him, "Where is he?" And Ziba replied, "He is in the house of Machir, son of Ammiel, at Lodebar." ⁵ So King David sent for him and had him brought from the house of Machir, son of Ammiel, at Lodebar.

⁶ When Mepibaal, son of Jonathan, son of Saul arrived, he fell on the ground and paid homage to David who said, "Mepibaal!" He replied, "Your servant listens." ⁷ David then told him, "Do not be afraid. I will do you a favor for the sake of your father Jonathan and give you back all the land of Saul your father. Besides, you shall always eat at my table." ⁸ He bowed down and said, "What is your servant that you should show concern for a dead dog like myself?"

⁹ The King called Ziba, Saul's servant, and said to him, "I have turned over to your master's son everything that Saul and his family possessed. ¹⁰ You yourself, your sons and servants shall till the land for him and carry in the harvest so that your master's family may have food, although your master's son Mepibaal shall always eat at my table." Ziba, who had fifteen sons and twenty servants ¹¹ said to the king, "Your servant will do whatever my lord the king commands. Yet Mepibaal ate at my table like a king's son." ¹² Mepibaal had a young son named Mica; and all who lived in Ziba's house became Mepibaal's servants. ¹³ But Mepibaal lived in Jerusalem for he always ate at the king's table. He was lame in both feet.

10 ¹ When the king of the Ammonites died and Hanun his son reigned in his place, ² David said, "I will be kind to Hanun son of Nahash as his father was kind to me." So David sent his servants to comfort him over his father's death. When David's servants arrived in the land of the Ammonites, ³ the Ammonite chiefs told Hanun their lord, "Do you think that, by sending men with condolences, David is honouring your father? Has not David rather sent his servants to you to explore the city, spy on it and overthrow it?"

⁴ At this, Hanun seized David's servants, shaved off half their beard, cut away the lower halves of their garments even up to their hips and sent them away. ⁵ When this was reported to David, he sent messengers to meet these men who felt greatly ashamed and to tell them, "Stay at Jericho and return after your beards have grown."

⁹ When Joab saw that there were two battlefronts, one in front of him and the other behind, he selected picked men of Israel and arranged them in battle formation against the Syrians. ¹⁰ Then he entrusted the rest of his army to Abishai his brother and arranged them in battle formation against the Ammonites. ¹¹ And he said, "If the Syrians are too strong for me, you shall help me; but if the Ammonites are too strong for you, I will come to your assistance. ¹² Take courage! Let us act like men for the sake of our people and God's cities; and may Yahweh do what seems good to him."

¹³ Joab and the people who were with him launched the attack against the Arameans and put them to flight. ¹⁴ When the Ammonites saw the Arameans fleeing, they too fled before Abishai and entered the city. Then Joab returned from his battle against the Ammonites and came to Jerusalem.

¹⁵ When the Arameans saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they gathered together. ¹⁶ Hadadezer sent for the Syrians and had them brought from beyond the Euphrates. They came to Helam with Shobach the commander of Hadadezer's army, leading them. ¹⁷ This was reported to David who, in turn, gathered together all Israel and came to Helam after crossing the Jordan. The Arameans then arranged themselves in battle formation and fought against David. ¹⁸ but they fled before Israel. David had seven hundred of the men in chariots and forty thousand horsemen killed. Shobach, too, the commander of their army was slain and died there. ¹⁹ After having been defeated by Israel, all the kings who depended on Hadadezer made peace with Israel and became subject to them. So the Arameans no longer dared to help the Ammonites.

David and Bathsheba

11 ¹In the spring of that year, when kings usually set out to fight, David sent out Joab, his officers and all the Israelite troops. They slaughtered the Ammonites and attacked Rabbah, while David remained in Jerusalem.

²One afternoon, David got up from his siesta and took a walk on the roof of the royal house. From the rooftop, he saw a woman bathing, and the woman was very beautiful. ³David sent to inquire about the woman, and was told, "She is Bathsheba, daughter of Eliam and wife of Uriah, the Hittite." ⁴So David sent messengers to have her brought to him; and he had intercourse with her after she had cleansed herself after her monthly period. Then she returned to her house.

⁵As the woman saw she was with child, she sent word to David, "I am with child."

⁶David then sent a message to Joab, "Send me Uriah the Hittite." So Joab sent Uriah to David. ⁷When Uriah came, David asked him about Joab, how the people were and how the war was proceeding; ⁸then he told Uriah, "Go down to your house and wash your feet."

Uriah left the palace and the king had a portion from his table sent to him. ⁹Uriah, however, did not go down to his house but slept by the door of the king's palace with all the servants of his lord. ¹⁰David was told that Uriah did not go down to his house, and he said to him, "Have you not come from a journey? Why did you not go down to your house?"

¹¹Uriah replied, "The Ark, the Israelites and the Judahites are housed in tents while my lord Joab and the men are encamped in the open country. Shall I go to my house to eat and drink there and sleep with my wife? As you live, I will not do this!" ¹²So David said to Uriah, "Remain here today also and I will dismiss you tomorrow." Uriah therefore stayed in Jerusalem that day and the day after. ¹³David invited him to table and he ate and drank until he was drunk. When evening fell, however, he went to lie down on his couch with the guards of his lord instead of going down to his house.

¹⁴The next morning, David wrote Joab a letter to be taken by hand by Uriah, ¹⁵and in which was written, "Place Uriah in the front row where the fighting is very fierce and then withdrew from him so that he may be struck down and die." ¹⁶When Joab was attacking the City, he assigned Uriah to a place which he knew was being defended by strong warriors. ¹⁷In fact the defenders attacked the

+ David's "sin" helps us to reflect on the weakness and wickedness of which even God's friends are capable.

We observe David's defects in several places. He is impulsive and deceptive. He is not perfectly docile to God's will. But here (in ch. 11) everything contributes toward making his crime more odious:

- Uriah is a foreigner who came to serve the king.
- Uriah observes strictly the religious laws concerning war (to abstain from sexual relations), and he observes solidarity with his companions, while David abandons himself to passion far from danger.

David kills Uriah treacherously after having instructed him to bring the letter to Joab.

How could a book intended to preserve the memory of the model king dare to narrate this event with such frankness? It does not hide anything that makes David's crime more odious and wins greater sympathy for his victim. An official historian of another people would never have done this. Besides, at that time, the caprices of the king were not considered a sin or a crime. But the Bible wants us to be aware of our sins. The "saints" whom the Bible presents are sinful men who need a Saviour.

men of Joab. Some of David's soldiers and officers were killed; Uriah the Hittite also died.

¹⁸ Then Joab sent a messenger to tell David everything that had happened during the battle. ¹⁹ And he said to him, "When you have finished recounting to the king the outcome of the battle, ²⁰ perhaps he will get angry and ask you, 'Why did you go so near the city to fight? Did you not know they would shoot from the wall?' ²¹ Who killed Abimelech, son of Jerubesheth? Was it not a woman who dropped a millstone on him from the wall so that he died at Thebez? Why did you go so close to the wall?"; then you shall say, "Your servant Uriah the Hittite is also dead."

²² So the messenger went to tell David all that Joab instructed him. So he answered the king and explained, ²³ "These men had overcome us and pushed us in the field; then we drove them back to the entrance gate. ²⁴ But the archers aimed at your guard from the top of the wall, killing some of them. Your servant Uriah, the Hittite has also been killed."

12 ¹ So Yahweh sent the prophet Nathan to David. Nathan went to the king and said to him, ² "There were two men in a city: one was rich; the other, poor. ² The rich man had a lot of sheep and cattle, ³ but the poor man had only one little ewe lamb he had bought. He himself fed it and it grew up with him and his children. It shared his food, drank from his cup and slept on his lap. It was like a daughter to him. ⁴ Now a traveller came to the rich man but he would not take from his own flock or herd to prepare food for the traveller. Instead, he took the poor man's lamb and prepared that for his visitor."

⁵ David was furious because of this man and told Nathan, "As Yahweh lives, the man who has done this deserves death! ⁶ He must return the lamb fourfold for acting like this and showing no compassion."

⁷ Nathan said to David, "You are this man! It is Yahweh, God of Israel, who speaks: 'I anointed you king over Israel and saved you from Saul's hands; ⁸ I gave you your master's house and your master's wives; I also gave you the nation of Israel and Judah. But if this were not enough, I would have given you even more. ⁹ Why did you despise the word of Yahweh by doing what displeases him? You struck down Uriah the Hittite with the sword and took his wife for yourself. Yes, you killed him with the sword of the Ammonites. ¹⁰ Now the sword will never be far from your family because you have shown contempt for me and taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite for yourself.'

21. Jdg 9, 50

6. Ex 22, 1

■ David will be a model of the repentant sinner. Why did you despise the word of Yahweh? What has David done that God should choose him? Everything in his life has been the work of Yahweh's love. God chose a simple shepherd to make him king. Even more, he chose this "king" from a small nation, to establish the permanent kingdom. There are no excuses for David.

You did what displeases me. David easily forgets that Yahweh does not look for external ceremonies, but that he wants purity of heart and justice to the neighbour.

You killed Uriah and took his wife. God brings into broad daylight what David hid from everyone and from his own conscience.

David's attitude: he humbly acknowledges his sin and accepts the consequences of his fault. In the Bible, Psalm 51, a moving prayer of a repentant sinner is attributed to him.

God's attitude:

— God has forgiven your sin. God remains faithful and keeps his promises to David's descendants. More than that, Solomon, son of ¹¹ Thus says Yahweh: Your misfortune will rise from your own house! I will take your wives from you and give them to your neighbour who shall lie with them in broad daylight. ¹² What you did was done secretly, but what I do will be done before Israel in broad daylight."

◆ Yahweh struck the child that Uriah's wife bore to David and it became sick. ¹⁶ David entreated God for the child; he kept a strict fast and lay on the ground the whole night. ¹⁷ The elders of his house asked him to rise from the ground but he refused. Nor did he join them to eat. ¹⁸ On the seventh day, the child died. David's servants were afraid to tell him that the child was dead for they said, "When the child was still alive, we spoke to him but he would not listen to us. What will he do if we tell him the child is dead?"

¹⁹ When David saw his servants whispering to one another, he realized that the child was dead and asked them, "Is the child dead?" They replied, "He is dead." ²⁰ Then David rose from the ground, washed and anointed himself, and changed his clothes. He entered the house of Yahweh and worshipped.

After that, he went to his own house, asked for food and ate. ²¹ Then his servants asked him, "Why are you acting like this? You fasted and wept for the child while it was alive; but after it died, you got up and took food." ²² David answered, "While the child was still alive, I fasted and wept thinking: Who knows? Perhaps Yahweh will be kind to me and let my child live. ²³ But now that he is dead, why should I fast? Can I bring him back to life? I can go to him but he cannot return to me."

²⁴ David comforted his wife Bathsheba. He went in and slept with her and she bore a son whom he named Solomon. Yahweh loved him ²⁵ and made it known through Nathan the prophet, who named him Jedidiah on Yahweh's behalf.

²⁶ Joab fought against Rabbah of the Ammonites and conquered the King's City. ²⁷ Then he sent messengers to David and told him, "I have fought against Rabbah and conquered the city of waters. ²⁸ Gather then the rest of the people to attack and capture the city lest I myself do it and the city be called by my name." ²⁹ So David mustered the people, attacked and captured Rabbah. ³⁰ He took the crown of their god Milkom from his head, the weight of which was a talent of gold, and which had a precious stone embedded in it. This they put on David's head. He carried off an amount of booty ³¹ and brought away the people whom he set to labour with saws, iron picks and iron axes, making them work at the brick-kilns. David dealt like this with all the Ammonite cities, then he returned to Jerusalem with all the people.

Bethsheba and David, will be the beneficiary of the promises mentioned: God will let grace pass through where sin had passed.

Your misfortune will rise from your own house. In pardoning, God does not erase the consequences of the crime.

◆ The child born out of love between David and Bethsheba falls sick and dies. The king realizes that this is another sign for him to understand the gravity of his sin. But God is not vindictive nor does he bear grudges. His heart is not like that of men. He is "slow to anger and not one surpasses him in kindness."

Another child is born of the same woman, now his wife, the future king Solomon, whom God chooses to succeed David. In spite of his sin, God has not abandoned David.

Amnon and Tamar

o13 ¹ Now David's son, Absalom, had a beautiful sister named Tamar. It happened that Amnon, another of David's sons, loved her. ² Amnon was so obsessed that he became ill and, as Tamar was a virgin, he could not do anything. ³ Amnon had a friend named Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother. Jonadab, who was a very shrewd man, said to him, ⁴ "Oh son of the king, why do you look so haggard morning after morning? Will you not tell me?" Amnon replied, "I love Tamar, sister of my brother Absalom." ⁵ So Jonadab said to him, "Lie down on your bed and pretend to be ill; and when your father comes to see you, say to him, 'Let my sister Tamar come to give me bread to eat and let her prepare the food in my presence so that I may eat it from her hand.'" ⁶ So Amnon lay down and pretended to be ill; and when the king came to see him, he told the king, "Please let my sister Tamar come to make some cakes in my presence; I will eat from her hand."

⁷ So David sent for Tamar and said to her, "Go to your brother Amnon's house and prepare him some food." ⁸ Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house where he was lying down. She took dough, kneaded it, made and baked cakes before him. ⁹ But when she took the pan and set the cakes before him, he refused to eat and said, "Send everyone outside." After they had all left, ¹⁰ Amnon said to Tamar, "Bring the food into the bedroom and let me eat from your hand." Tamar took the cakes she had made and brought them to her brother Amnon in the bedroom. ¹¹ But when she brought them to him to eat, he grabbed her and said, "Come, lie with me, my sister." ¹² She answered him, "No, my brother, do not force me. No such thing is done in Israel. Do not commit this foolishness. ¹³ Where will I hide my shame? And you yourself would be regarded as a foolish man in Israel. So please, talk to the king for he will not keep me from you." ¹⁴ But he refused to listen to her and, being stronger than she, forced her and lay with her.

¹⁵ Afterwards, Amnon hated her with a hatred exceeding the love he had had for her; and he said to Tamar, "Get up and leave." ¹⁶ But she answered him, "No, my brother. Sending me away is a greater offense than what you did to me." But Amnon refused to listen. ¹⁷ He called his servant and said, "Get this woman out and bolt the door behind her." ¹⁸ (Now Tamar was wearing a long robe with sleeves like the virgin daughters of the king used to wear.) So the servant brought her out, bolting the door behind her. ¹⁹ Tamar then put ashes on her head and tore the long robe she was wearing. Laying her hand on her head, she went away crying aloud.

²⁰ Her brother Absalom spoke to her, "Has your brother Amnon been with you? Be calm and do not take this to heart for he is your brother." Desolate as she was, Tamar stayed in her brother Absalom's house.

²¹ When King David heard of these, he was very angry but he did not like to scold Amnon because he loved him as his first born. ²² Absalom, for his part, no longer spoke to Amnon. He hated him for having raped his sister Tamar.

²³ Two years later, when Absalom had celebrated the shearing of his flock at Baalhazor near Ephraim, he invited all the king's sons. ²⁴ He himself went to the king and said, "I have shearers; so please let the king and his servants accept my invitation." ²⁵ But the king answered Absalom, "No, my son, not all of us should go lest we be a burden to you." As Absalom urged him the king refused to go personally but gave him his blessing. ²⁶ Then Absalom said, "If you will not go, please let my brother Amnon come with us." The king replied, "Why should he go with you?" ²⁷ But Absalom insisted until the king allowed Amnon and all the king's sons to go with him. Absalom prepared a royal feast. ²⁸ Then he commanded his servants, "Watch until Amnon gets drunk and when I tell you, 'Strike Amnon,' kill him. Have no fear for I myself have given you this order. Be brave and determined." ²⁹ So Absalom's servants did to Amnon what he had commanded. On seeing this all the sons of the king hastily mounted their mules and fled.

³⁰ While they were on the way, a report reached David, "Absalom has slain all the king's sons, leaving no one alive." ³¹ At this, the king tore his garments and lay on the ground;

o Amnon's crime and assassination appear to be a repetition of David's sin in his own family a thing which hurts his feelings deeply.

Such incidents were common occurrences in any place in ancient times. Other religions of that time demanded cult and sacrifices; they did not talk, or scarcely talked of moral uprightness. On the contrary, from the beginning of the Bible one sees how Yahweh demands moral behavior and justice on the part of men. The people of the Bible are not always better than other peoples who do not know God, but they know better what sin is.

and all his servants around him also tore their garments. ³² But Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother, said, "Don't imagine that they have killed all your sons. Only Amnon is dead, for Absalom had decided to kill him from the day Amnon raped his sister Tamar. ³³ So let not my lord, the king believe that all his sons are dead: Amnon alone is dead."

³⁴ Meanwhile, Absalom had fled. Then the young watchman saw many people coming from the Horonaim road by the side of the mountain. ³⁵ Jonadab said to the king, "Was it not true what I said to you? It is your sons who are coming." ³⁶ As soon as he had spoken, the king's sons came, crying aloud; the king, too, and all his servants wept bitterly.

^{37,38} As for Absalom, he fled to Talmai, son of Ammihud, king of Geshur where he remained for three years. All this time King David mourned for his son. ³⁹ And when he had recovered from the death of Amnon he began to yearn for Absalom.

14 ¹ Now Joab, son of Zeruiah saw that the king was yearning for Absalom. ² So he sent a messenger to Tekoa to fetch a wise woman and he told her this, "Please pretend to be a mourner. Put on mourning garments and do not perfume yourself with oil that you may look like a woman who has been mourning for several days for the dead ³ and go to the king with this message." And Joab told her what to say.

⁴ When the woman of Tekoa appeared before the king, she fell on her face in homage and said, "Help me, O King!" ⁵ The king asked her, "What is wrong?" She answered, "Alas, I am a widow; my husband is dead. ⁶ I, your handmaid, had two sons who quarrelled with one another in the field. Since there was no one to part them, one struck the other and killed him. ⁷ Now the entire family demand that I give up the one who struck his brother. And they say: 'We will kill him and avenge his brother's death.' So they want to destroy the only heir and quench my remaining hope; with this they will leave my husband without name or posterity on the earth."

⁸ Then the king said to the woman, "Go home and I will give orders on your behalf." ⁹ But the woman of Tekoa said to the king, "Let me and my family be blamed, my lord the king, and let the king and his throne not be criticized for this." ¹⁰ The king said, "If anyone says anything to you, bring him to me and he shall never bother you again." ¹¹ Then she said, "Please let the king swear by Yahweh, his God, that the avenger of blood may not deepen my disgrace by killing my son." The King replied, "As Yahweh lives, not one hair of your son shall perish."

¹² Then the woman said, "Please allow me to say something to my lord the king." The king told her, "Speak." ¹³ And she went on, "Why do you yourself act against the people of God? In giving this decision, the king condemns himself for not having brought his banished son back home. ¹⁴ We are all mortals and as water spilt on the ground cannot be gathered up again, so God does not raise the dead. So let the king find a way to bring back his banished son. ¹⁵ Now, if I have come to talk about this to my lord the king, it is because the people scared me and I thought, 'I will speak to the king; perhaps he will listen to me. ¹⁶ If he agrees to help me when I tell him about the man who seeks to cut off both me and my son from the inheritance God gave us, ¹⁷ he will surely give the decision which will bring us peace. For my lord the king is like an angel of God in understanding everything. Yahweh your God be with you!'"

¹⁸ Then the king said to the woman, "Do not hide anything from me when I question you." The woman replied, "Let my lord the king speak." ¹⁹ The king asked, "Is Joab behind you in all this?" The woman answered, "As you surely live, my lord the king, all is as my lord the king says. It was your servant Joab who ordered me and taught me everything I had to say. ²⁰ Joab did this to disguise the purpose. But my lord is as wise as an angel of God, knowing all things that happen on earth."

²⁶ When he cut his hair (every year he cut his hair when it became too heavy for him), he weighed it, and it weighed two hundred shekels by the king's weight. ²⁷ There were born to Absalom three sons and a daughter named Tamar, a beautiful woman.

²⁸ For two years Absalom stayed in Jerusalem but the king did not receive him. ²⁹ Absalom called for Joab to send him to the king, but Joab refused to see him. He called for him a second time but Joab would not come. ³⁰ So Absalom said to his servants, "You know Joab's field which is next to mine, planted with barley. Go set it on fire." ³¹ Then Joab went to Absalom's house and asked him, "Why have your servants set my field on fire?" ³² Absalom replied, "Come over for I want to send you to the king with this message, 'Why did you let me return from Geshur? It would be better for me to be there yet.' Now I want to be received by the king. If I am guilty, let him send me to death!" ³³ Joab went to the king and brought him the message. So the king called for Absalom who appeared before the king, bowing down with his face to the ground. And the king embraced Absalom.

15 ¹ After this, Absalom got for himself a chariot and horses, as well as fifty men to run before him. ² Absalom used to rise early and stand beside the gateway. Whenever a man with a grievance came before the King's tribunal, Absalom would call to him and say, "From which city are you?" Should he say, "Your servant is from such and such a tribe in Israel," ³ Absalom would tell him, "Your cause is good and just but there is no one to hear you in behalf of the king."

⁴ Absalom added, "I wish I were judge in the land! Then every man with a grievance or cause could come to me and I would give him justice." ⁵ Whenever a man approached to pay him homage, he would stretch out his arms to hold and embrace him.

⁶ Absalom did this to all Israelites who came to the tribunal of the king, winning their hearts for himself.

⁷ After four years, Absalom said to the king, "Please allow me to go and fulfill the vow I have to pay to Yahweh in Hebron. ⁸ For while I lived at Geshur in Aram, I made this vow: 'If Yahweh will really bring me back to Jerusalem, I shall go there to worship him!'" ⁹ The king said to him, "Go in peace," and he left for Hebron.

Absalom's rebellion

¹¹ Two hundred men from Jerusalem had left with Absalom as invited guests. But nothing of his purpose dawned on them. ¹² While Absalom was offering the sacrifices, he sent for Ahitophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city Giloh. Meantime, the conspiracy grew strong and the number of people with Absalom kept increasing.

¹³ A messenger came to report to David that the Israelites were siding with Absalom. ¹⁴ Then David said to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem, "Let us flee for we cannot resist Absalom. Go quickly, lest he come hurriedly and overtake us. Surely he will put the city to the sword if he can bring us disgrace." ¹⁵ The king's servants answered him, "Your + God wanted the Israelites of the period before Christ to have an image of him in the person of David, their first king. Those happy and glorious days of the young ruler, beloved by all, were followed by days of sorrow for the old king. During those years the countenance of Christ appears more clearly through King David.

The sword shall never be far from your house. Nathan has announced the consequence of David's adultery. But in the trial, what emerges is only the humble loyalty of David who, without complaint, accepts Yahweh's will.

The manner in which David bears with the curses of Semei astonishes us. How much more puzzling it was to people of those times who could only understand revenge. David knows that God will never leave him; his present misfortune is like an invitation from Yahweh to have greater trust. He refuses to defend himself or to take revenge in order to attract Yahweh's mercy.

In Chapters 15-17, what happens to David is like an announcement of the image of the Messiah in his passion and resurrection. Even the details are suggestive:

15:12: a traitor from David's council... who hangs himself (see 17:23).

15:23: the crying, the river of Kidron.

15:30: the Mount of Olives.

15:32: the small group of followers on the hilltop.

16:9: the general wants to defend his king with the sword: David prohibits him.

16:13: the insults, the brief flight that ends with the death of the rebel.

servants are with you in whatever my lord the king decides."

¹⁹ Then the king said to their commander, Ittai, the Gittite, "Why are you also coming with us? Go back and stay with your king, for you are a foreigner, an exile from your home."

²⁰ Are you setting out when you have just arrived? Shall I make you wander about with us? Go back, take your brothers with you and may Yahweh show you kindness and faithfulness. ²¹ Ittai, however, answered the king, "As Yahweh lives, and as my lord the king lives, wherever my lord the king shall be, whether in life or in death, there also will your servant be."

²² Then David said to Ittai, "Go then, march on." So Ittai the Gittite passed on with all his men and all the children who were with him. ²³ Meanwhile, all those in the countryside wept aloud as all the people passed by. Then the king crossed the brook Kidron and all the people moved on to the desert.

²⁴ The priest Abiathar came with all the Levites bearing the ark of the Covenant of God. They set down the ark of God until the people had all gone out of the city; ²⁵ after which the king said to Zadok, "Carry the ark of God back into the city. If Yahweh looks kindly on me, he will bring me back and allow me to again see the ark and its lodging place. ²⁶ But if he says,

"I am not pleased with you," I am here; let him do to me what seems good to him."

²⁷ The king also said to the priest Zadok, "Go back to the city in peace and take with you your son Ahimaaz, and Jonathan, son of Abiathar. ²⁸ I will wait in the desert fords until you send word for me." ²⁹ So Zadok and Abiathar carried the ark of God back to Jerusalem and remained there.

³⁰ David himself went up the Mount of Olives, weeping. He was barefooted and had his head covered, and all the people who were with him had their heads covered and wept as they went.

Humiliation for David

³¹ When David was informed that Ahitophel was among the conspirators with Absalom, he said, "O Yahweh, turn the counsel of Ahitophel into folly."

³² When David reached the summit where God is worshipped, Hushai the Archite met him with his coat torn and dust strewn on his head. ³³ David said to him, "If you come with me, you will be a burden to me. ³⁴ It would be better for you to return to the city and say to Absalom, 'I will be your servant, O king! Just as I have been your father's servant in the past, I will now be your servant.' In that way you will be useful to me in thwarting the counsel of Ahitophel. ³⁵ The priests Zadok and Abiathar are there to help you. Report whatever you hear from the king's house. ³⁶ Both their sons are there, Ahimaaz, Zadok's son, and Jonathan, Abiathar's son, and you shall report to me through them everything you hear." ³⁷ So David's friend Hushai arrived in the city just as Absalom was entering Jerusalem.

16 ¹ When David had gone a little beyond the summit, Ziba the steward of Mepibaal met him with saddled asses laden with two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred bunches of raisins, a hundred summer fruits and a skin of wine. ² The king then asked Ziba, "Why have you brought these?" Ziba answered, "The asses are for the king's household to ride on. The bread and summer fruit are for your servants to eat while the wine is drink for those who faint in the desert."

³ Then the king asked him, "Where is your master's son?" Ziba replied, "He is staying in Jerusalem, for he said, 'Today the Israelites will give me back my father's kingdom!'" ⁴ To this, the king said, "Everything that belongs to Mepibaal is now yours." And Ziba said, "I pay homage to my lord the king. May I always find favour with you."

⁵ When King David came to Bahurim, a man from the clan of Saul's family named Shimei, son of Gera, came out cursing him. ⁶ He threw stones at David and his officers although the king's men and warriors flanked the king on the right and left. ⁷ Shimei said as he cursed, "Go away! Go away! You bloodthirsty good-for-nothing!" ⁸ Yahweh has brought down on your head all the blood of the family of Saul. You became king in his place, but God has now placed the kingdom in the hands of your son Absalom. Ruin has come upon you because you are a bloodthirsty man."

⁹ Then Abishai, son of Zeruiah, said to the king, "Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king? Let me go and cut his head off." ¹⁰ But the king said, "Why should I listen to you, sons of Zeruiah? If Yahweh has ordered him to curse me, who shall ask him why he acts like this?" ¹¹ Then David said to Abishai and his officers, "If my own son wants to kill me how much more this Benjaminite! Leave him alone and let him curse me if Yahweh has ordered him." ¹² Perhaps Yahweh will look on my affliction and turn to good things the curses heaped on me today." ¹³ So David and his men went their way while Shimei, following on the hillside opposite him continued to curse as he threw stones and flung dust at him. ¹⁴ The king, together with his men, arrived exhausted at the Jordan where he refreshed himself.

¹⁵ Now Absalom, accompanied by Ahito phel entered Jerusalem with all the Israelites. ¹⁶ When Hushai, the Archite, David's friend, appeared before Absalom and exclaimed, "Long live the king!" ¹⁷ Absalom said to Hushai, "Is this your loyalty to your friend? Why did you not go with your friend?" ¹⁸ Hushai said to Absalom, "No, I will be with the one Yahweh and this people and the Israelites have chosen, and with him I will remain. ¹⁹ Whom am I now to serve? Are you not his son? As I have served your father, so will I serve you."

²⁰ Then Absalom said to Ahitophel, "Have a meeting to decide what we shall do." ²¹ Ahitophel said to Absalom, "Go and be with the concubines your father has left to keep his house. When the Israelites hear that you have made yourself odious to your father, all those of your party will be strengthened." ²² So they pitched a tent for Absalom on the terrace and Absalom went in to his father's concubines in the sight of the Israelites. ²³ In those days, Ahitophel's counsel was deemed as sound as the oracle of God, and so it was deemed by both David and Absalom.

17 ¹ Ahitophel said to Absalom, "Let me choose twelve thousand men that I may set out and pursue David tonight. ² I will attack him while he is tired and discouraged and throw him into a panic. All those who are with him will flee so I will strike down only the king. ³ Then I will bring all the people back to you as a bride comes home to her husband. Seek the death of only one man and then all the people will be unharmed." ⁴ The advice pleased Absalom and all the elders of Israel.

⁵ Then Absalom said, "Call in Hushai the Archite to hear what he has to say." ⁶ When Hushai came before Absalom, Absalom asked him, "Ahitophel has given this advice. Shall we follow it? If not, you speak." ⁷ So Hushai said to Absalom, "This time, Ahitophel's advice is not good. ⁸ You know that your father and his men are warriors. When enraged, they are like a bear robbed of her cubs in the field. Besides, your father is expert enough in war not to spend the night with his men. ⁹ Right now he is hiding in one of the pits or in some other place. If only some of your men fall in the first attack, whoever hears of it will say, 'There has been a slaughter among the men who follow Absalom.' ¹⁰ Then even the valiant man whose heart is like that of a lion will utterly melt with fear for all Israel knows that your father is a warrior as are the men who are with him. ¹¹ My advice is for you to gather all the Israelites from Dan to Beersheba, as many as the sands of the sea, and go to battle in person.

¹² Then we shall find him wherever he is and fall on him as the dew falls on the ground. Neither he nor any of his men will be left alive.

¹³ If he withdraws into a city all Israel will bring ropes and drag it into the valley until not even a pebble of it remains." ¹⁴ Absalom and all the Israelites said, "The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahitophel." For Yahweh had decreed that the good counsel of Ahitophel be defeated, so that he might bring evil upon Absalom.

²⁴ David had already entered Mahanaim when Absalom crossed over the Jordan with all the Israelites. ²⁵ Absalom had put Amasa in charge of the army instead of Joab. Amasa was the son of Ithra, an Ishmaelite who had married Abigail the daughter of Nahash, Zeruiah's sister and Joab's mother. ²⁶ The Israelites and Absalom pitched camp in the land of Gilead.

18 ¹ David then mustered the men who were with him and set over them commanders of a thousand men and commanders of a hundred men. He sent forth the army of which one third was under the command of Joab; ² one third, under the command of Abishai, son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and one third, under the command of Ittai, the Gittite. Then the king said to the men, "I myself will go out with you." ³ But the men replied, "You shall not go out. They could not care less if we flee or if half of us die. But you are worth ten thousand of us and it is better if you are able to send us assistance from the city." ⁴ So the king said to them, "I will do whatever seems best to you." Then the king stood by the side of the gate while the entire army marched out by hundreds and by thousands. ⁵ The king ordered Joab, Abishai and Ittai, "Deal gently with the young man Absalom for my sake." All the army heard the king giving orders to all the commanders concerning Absalom.

Defeat and death of Absalom

■ ⁶ The army of David went out into the field against Israel. The battle was fought in the forest of Ephraim ⁷ where the Israelites were defeated by the men of David. The slaughter there on that day was great, numbering twenty thousand men. ⁸ The battle spread over the entire country and

■ This account, very lively and beautiful, is difficult to abridge.

The scene, doubtless, reminds us of the parable of the Prodigal Son. Even though the son left his father's house and did him much harm, the father does not lose hope. Moreover, so much love has he that he stands at the gates of the city waiting for word, like the father in the parable who was the first to see his son as he returned.

Joab is right from the political standpoint, but David is closer to God's thinking.

more people perished in the ravines of the forest than were killed by the sword that day.

¹⁸ During his lifetime Absalom had a memorial created for himself in the king's Valley for he said, "I have no son by whom my name may be remembered." He called the pillar after his own name and, to this day, it is called Absalom's monument.

¹⁹ Then Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, said, "Let me run and report to the king that Yahweh has delivered him from the power of his enemies." ²⁰ But Joab said to him, "You must not tell him today. This is not good news because the king's son is dead." ²¹ Joab then said to a Cushite, "Go tell the king what you have seen." The Cushite bowed before Joab and ran. ²² But Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, said again to Joab, "Come what may, let me also run behind the Cushite." Joab asked, "Why must you run, my son, seeing that you will have no reward for this news?" ²³ Ahimaaz insisted, "It does not matter. I will run." So Joab allowed him to go, and Ahimaaz ran by way of the plain, outrunning the Cushite.

David is told of Absalom's death

²⁴ David was sitting between the two gates. The watchman placed over the roof of the gate, on the wall, saw a man running alone. ²⁵ So he called out and reported to the king who said, "If he is alone, he brings good news." As he was drawing near, ²⁶ the watchman saw another man running. So he called to the gatekeeper and said, "Look, another man is running alone!" The king said, "He also brings good news." ²⁷ The watchman said, "The first man runs like Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok." The king replied, "He is a good man, so he comes with good news."

²⁹ The king asked him, "How is the young Absalom?" Ahimaaz answered, "When Joab sent your servant, I saw a great tumult but did not know what it was all about." ³⁰ So the king said, "Move away and stand here." He moved aside and stayed there.

³¹ The Cushite arrived and said, "Good news for my lord the king!"

Yahweh has done you justice today and saved you from all those who rebelled against you." ³²The king asked the Cushite, "How is the young Absalom?" The Cushite answered, "May the enemies of my lord the king and all who rebel against you end up like that young man."

19 ¹The king was greatly disturbed and, going up to the room over the gate, he wept and said, "O, my son Absalom! My son, my son Absalom! Would that I had died instead of you, O Absalom, my son, my son!"

²It was reported to Joab, "The king is weeping and mourning for Absalom." ³So the victory that day turned into mourning for all the people when they heard that the king was grieving over his son. ⁴The people quietly entered the city that day like those fleeing from battle in shame. ⁵The king covered his face and was crying aloud, "O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son!"

⁶Joab then came to the king's house and said, "You have today put to shame all your servants who saved your life, the lives of your sons and daughters, and of your wives and concubines. ⁷Yes, you love those who hate you and hate those who love you. For you have made it clear today that your commanders and guards mean nothing to you. I know that if Absalom were alive today and all of us, dead, you would be pleased. ⁸You must now show yourself and say a good word to your guards for, I swear by Yahweh, if you do not, no one will stay with you tonight, and this will be worse than all the evil that has happened to you from your youth to the present day."

⁹So the king took his seat at the gate and as the people were informed that the king was sitting at the gate, they came before him.

The people of Israel had fled, each man to his own home. ¹⁰Yet throughout all the tribes of Israel, the people were arguing. "The king who delivered us from the Philistines has had to flee because of Absalom. ¹¹We ourselves anointed Absalom to rule over us. But if he died in battle, what prevents us from bringing back the king?"

David returns to Jerusalem

¹²King David heard what the Israelites said. So he sent this message to the priests Zadok and Abiathar, "Say to the elders of Judah: 'Why should you be the last to bring the king back to his house?' ¹³You are relatives, of my own race. Why should you be the last to bring back the king?' ¹⁴Say also to Amasa, 'Are you not of my own family? I swear before God that I will make you general of my army in place of Joab.'

²⁰Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king, as he was about to cross the Jordan, and said to him, "Let not my lord hold me guilty or remember the wrong your servant did when my lord the king left Jerusalem. Let not the king remember this, ²¹for I confess that I have sinned; and therefore I have come today, the first from Joseph's tribes to welcome my lord the king."

²²Abishai the son of Zeruiah answered, "Shall not Shimei be put to death for having cursed Yahweh's anointed?" ²³But David said, "Far be it from me to listen to you, you sons of Zeruiah! This is bad advice; no one shall be put to death in Israel today. Do I not know that I am ruling again over Israel this day?" ²⁴So the king assured Shimei with an oath, "You shall not die."

²⁵Mepibaal, the son of Saul, came down from Jerusalem to meet the king. He had not ashed his feet, or trimmed his beard, or changed his clothes since the king departed. (When he arrived to meet the king, the king said to him, "Why did you not go with me, Mepibael?"²⁷ He answered, "My lord, O king! My steward deceived me. For I said to him, 'I will saddle an ass for me so that I may ride on it and go with the king,' since I am lame."²⁸ But he has ordered me to my lord the king. And yet my lord the king is like an angel of God. Do, therefore, what seems good to you."²⁹ My lord's family was doomed to die before my lord the king, but you counted your servant among those who eat at your table. What further right do I have to complain to the king?" The king said to him, "Why talk more? I have decided – you and Ziba shall divide the land." Mepibael answered, "Oh, let him take it all, since my lord the king has come home safely."

³⁰ Now, Barzillai the Gileadite had come down from Rogelim joining the king as he crossed over the Jordan. ³¹ Barzillai was a very old man of eighty, who, being a very wealthy man, had provided the king with food when he remained in Mahanaim. ³² The king said to Barzillai, "Come, join me and stay with me, and I will take care of you in Jerusalem."³³ But Barzillai said to the king, "How many more years will I live that I should go up with the king to Jerusalem?" ³⁴ Today, I am eighty years old and can discern neither what is pleasant nor what is not. Can your servant still taste what he eats or drinks; or listen to the voice of men and women singing? Why then should my servant be an added burden to my lord the king? ³⁵ Your servant will accompany the king at a little past the Jordan. Why should the king reward me for this? ³⁶ Please allow me to return to my own city where I may die and be buried near the graves of my father and mother. But let this my son Kimham, your servant, continue with my lord the king. You can do for him whatever it may please you."³⁷ The king answered, "Kimham will come with me, and I will give him whatever seems fit to you. Besides, I will do for you whatever you desire of me."³⁸ The king embraced and blessed Barzillai who then returned to his own home; and the people crossed over the Jordan with the king.

◆ ³⁹ The king went on to Gilgal accompanied by Kimham, together with the men of Judah and some Israelites. ⁴⁰ Then the Israelites came to the king and asked, "Why have our brothers, the men of Judah, grabbed you? They have brought the king and his entire family over the Jordan together with all your soldiers?" ⁴¹ The men of Judah answered the Israelites, "Because the king is our immediate relative. But why does this rouse your anger? Have we fed ourselves at the king's expense or received any gift from him?" ⁴² But the Israelites answered the men of Judah, "We have more rights over the king than you because we are ten tribes. Why did you disregard us? Were we not the first to have the king brought back?" But the men of Judah argued more vehemently than the Israelites.

Sheba rebels against David

20 ¹ There happened to be there a base fellow named Sheba, son of Bichri, a Benjaminite, who sounded the trumpet and said, "We have nothing to do with David. What can we expect from the son of Jesse? Go back, O Israelites, each man to his home!" ² So all the Israelites left David and followed Sheba the son of Bichri. The men of Judah, however, steadfastly followed their king from the Jordan to Jerusalem.

⁴ The king said to Amasa, "Assemble all the men of Judah within three days; then come here to me." ⁵ So Amasa left to summon the men of Judah but he failed to show up at the appointed time. ⁶ David then said to Abishai, "Sheba son of Bichri, will do us more harm than Absalom. Take my guards and pursue him lest he flee to any fortified city and bring us trouble." ⁷ So Abishai, with the men of Joab, the Cherethites, Pelethites and all the warriors, left Jerusalem to pursue Sheba, son of Bichri. ⁸ When they reached the big stone in Gibeon, Amasa came to meet them. Now Joab was wearing over his tunic a belt with a sheathed sword. The sword slipped out. ⁹ Joab said to Amasa, "How are you, my brother?" And he

◆ David's victory does not really solve the problem, which is unity among the tribes, since Jerusalem only took advantage of and worsened the existing division among the people. The people of Judah are resentful of Israel, forgetting that in their own tribe many assisted Absalom; thus they prevent David from becoming king over all and their victory is one more split in the recently gained unity.

Here the Bible reveals a kind of violence of which we are often unaware: the exclusion of others. We always give good reasons for excluding others or the other party. We forget that there is neither unity nor peace for as long as we held Amasa's beard with his right hand as if to embrace him. ¹⁰ Amasa did not notice the sword which he held until Joab stabbed him, shedding his entrails to the ground. Amasa died on the spot without need of a second thrust.

Then Joab and Abishai his brother pursued Sheba, son of Bichri. ¹¹ Meantime, one of Joab's men stood beside Amasa and said, "Let him who is for Joab and stands by David follow Joab." ¹² Amasa then lay bathed in his blood, lying on the highway; and all those who passed by, on seeing him, stopped. When the man saw the people stopping to look, he carried Amasa from the highway into the field and covered him with a garment. ¹³ When he was removed from the highway, the people followed Joab in pursuit of Sheba, son of Bichri.

¹⁴ Sheba passed through all the tribes of Israel and entered Abel of Bethmaacah with all the Bichrites who had assembled to follow him. ¹⁵ Joab's men came and attacked him in Abel of Beth-maacah. They set up a mound against the city, and all the men of Joab dug under the wall to throw it down.

¹⁶ Then a wise woman called out from the city, "Listen! Listen! Tell Joab to come here that I may speak to him." ¹⁷ As Joab approached, the woman asked, "Are you Joab?" He answered, "I am." ¹⁸ The woman continued, "They used to say in olden days to settle a matter, ¹⁹ 'Seek advice at Abel if you want to know the ancient customs of Israel.' And you want to destroy a city which is a mother of Israel. Why do you want to destroy a heritage of Yahweh?" ²⁰ Joab answered, "By no means do I want to destroy it! ²¹ But a man from the hill country of Ephraim, named Sheba, son of Bichri, has rebelled against King David. Only surrender him and I will withdraw from the city." So the woman said to Joab, "We shall throw his head over the wall to you." ²² The woman then gathered the inhabitants and spoke to them so persuasively that they beheaded Sheba, son of Bichri, and threw his head out to Joab who then sounded the trumpet for the people to depart from the city. Then everyone went home and Joab himself returned to the king in Jerusalem.

²³ Joab was in command of all the army of Israel while Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was in command of the Cherethites and the Pel-ethites. ²⁴ Adoram was in charge of the forced labour, and Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, was the recorder. Sheva was secretary, ²⁵ and Zadok and Abiathar were priests, ²⁶ and Ira the Jairite was David's priest.

The great famine

o 21 ¹ There was famine during the reign of David for three consecutive years and David consulted Yahweh. The answer was, "There is bloodguilt on Saul and his family because he put the Gibeonites to death."

² The Gibeonites were not of the people of Israel but descendants of the Amorites. Although the Israelites had sworn to spare them, Saul had attempted to wipe them out on behalf of the people of Israel and Judah. ³ So David called the Gibeonites and asked them, "What shall I do for you? And how shall I repay you that you may bless the people of Yahweh?" ⁴ The Gibeonites answered him, "Our quarrel with Saul and his family is not over silver or gold, nor is it our task to put any Israelite to death." The king asked again, "Tell me then what I can do for you;" ⁵ and they replied, "That man slaughtered us and planned our destruction so that we would no longer occupy any place in Israel. ⁶ Surrender seven of his sons to us so that we may hang them up before Yahweh at Gibeon on the mountain of Yahweh." To this, the king said, "I will surrender them."

⁷ David spared Mepibal, son of Jonathan, Saul's son, because of the oath David and Jonathan took before Yahweh. ⁸ But he took the two sons of Rizpah, daughter of Aiah whom she-ourselves impose it. Within the church itself everyone should be welcomed for what he is, different as he may be from others.

o This episode shows us the most inhuman religious prejudices existing at that time.

David consulted Yahweh... The answer was... We have already seen this practice of consulting God by means of the Urim and Thummim, i.e., by casting lots. It is possible that Yahweh guided them through these means since they believed that this was authorized by God. But this episode confirms that magic used to seek a response from God can lead to worse deviations: "those responsible for the famine are the descendants of Saul because he killed the Gibeonites..."

A disaster occurs and the people say it is God's punishment and, if it is a punishment, they have to find the one responsible. Possibly David himself shares the common belief: except that he uses his authority to save the son of his friend Jonathan.

We cannot say that this mentality has completely disappeared. If something goes wrong in society or in an institution, many search out whom to sacrifice before finding out if they themselves have a share in the fault.

bore to Saul – Armoni and Mepibaal; and the five sons of Merab, daughter of Saul, whom she bore to Adriel, son of Barzillai the Meholathite.⁹ He delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites who hanged them on the mountain of Yahweh where all seven perished together. They were put to death in the first days of harvest at the beginning of the barley harvest.

¹⁰ Then Rizpah, daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth and spread it for herself on the rock, from the beginning of harvest until rain fell on them from the heavens. She did not allow the birds of the air to come on them by day or the beasts of the field by night.¹¹ When David was told what Rizpah, Aiah's daughter and Saul's concubine, had done,¹² he asked the men of Jabesh-gilead for the bones of Saul and those of his son Jonathan. (They had taken them from the wall of Bethshan where the Philistines had nailed them when they killed Saul on Gilboa.)¹³ So David had brought up from there the bones of Saul and his son Jonathan, and also the bones of those who had been brought with them.¹⁴ All of them were buried in the land of Benjamin in Zela, in the tomb of Kish their father. When all that the king had commanded was done, God had pity on the land.

¹⁸ After this, there was more fighting with the Philistines at Gob; there Sibbecai the Hushathite, slew Saph, one of the descendants of the giants.¹⁹ There was another battle with the Philistines at Gob where Elhanan, son of Jaareoregim, the Bethlehemite, slew Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was the size of a weaver's beam.²⁰ In another encounter at Gath, there was a huge man with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, numbering twenty-four in all. He too was a descendant of the giants.²¹ When he taunted Israel, Jonathan, son of Shimei, David's brother, slew him.²² All four descendants of the giants fell by the hand of David and his guards.

David's song of praise

+22 ¹ David sang this song to Yahweh on the day Yahweh delivered him from his enemies and from Saul.² He said,

*The Lord is my rock, my rampart, my deliverer³ and my God,
the rock in whom I take refuge.
He is my shield, my salvation,
my stronghold and my refuge.*

⁴ I call on the Lord, who is worthy of praise;

he saves me from my enemies.

⁵ Torrents of destruction on a violent rampage rushed at me in their vicious rage.

⁶ *Caught as by the cords of the grave,
I was utterly helpless before the snares of death.*

⁷ But I called upon the Lord in my distress, to my God I cried for help;

and from his temple he heard my voice, my cry of grief reached his ears.

⁸ *Then the earth reeled and rocked;
the foundations of the heavens shook;
they trembled in his fury.*

⁹ From his nostrils rose smoke, from his mouth a devouring fire throwing off live embers.

¹⁰ He bent the heavens and came down with dark clouds under his feet.

¹¹ *He rode on a cherub and flew,
he was seen on the wings of the wind.*

¹² He dwelled in darkness in the midst of rain clouds.

¹³ Then from the brightness of his presence flared up fiery embers.

¹⁴ *From heaven the Lord thundered;
the voice of the Most High resounded.*

¹⁵ *Sending out a hail of arrows,
he scattered them;*

*flashing forth bolts of lightning,
he routed them.*

¹⁶ The beds of the seas lay uncovered as the foundations of the world were laid bare,

at your rebuke, O Yahweh, at the blast from your nostril's breath.

¹⁷ Reaching down from above, he drew me out of the deep water.

¹⁸ Too strong for me were my enemies, but he rescued me from my adversaries.

¹⁹ They have launched their attack in an opportune day but the Lord has been my stay.

²⁰ In the open he has set me free.
How great indeed is his love for me!

²¹ Yahweh rewarded me according to his justice, and also according to my righteousness.

²² For I have kept faithful to Yahweh's way and his commands are before me.

²³ With his ordinances all before me,
I have always followed his statutes.

²⁴ Before him I have done uprightly and kept myself from iniquity.

²⁵ Therefore Yahweh has given me recompense

according to my righteousness.

²⁶ To the faithful you show yourself faithful;

to the blameless you show yourself
blameless;

²⁷ to the pure you show yourself pure; but to the crooked you show yourself astute.

²⁸ For you raise up the humble and humiliate the arrogant.

²⁹ Yahweh, you are my lamp.

O my God, you brighten up my darkness.

³⁰ Yes, with you I can crush an armed band, and by my God I can leap over a wall.

³¹ This God - his way is perfect;

the word of the Lord is always fulfilled.

To those who seek refuge in him, he is a shield.

³² There is no other God but Yahweh;
there is no other rock but our God.

³³ This God is my stronghold and keeps my path unerring and safe.

³⁴ He has made my feet as swift as the hinds';

he has set me secure on the heights.

³⁵ He trains my hands for war and my arms to bend a bow of brass.

³⁶ You have given me your shield for protection, and your help has made me great.

³⁷ You have given wide room for my steps,

so that they never faltered.

³⁸ I have pursued my enemies and wiped them out,

I did not turn back till I had destroyed
them.

³⁹ Thrusting them through,
I did not give them time to rise as they fell under my feet.

⁴⁰ You have given me strength for the battle;
you have subdued my adversaries
beneath me;

⁴¹ you have put my enemies to flight and destroyed those who opposed me.

⁴² They cried for help, but no one came.
They cried to the Lord;
he did not answer them.

⁴³ I pulverized them as dust of the earth;
like mud in the streets I trampled them.

⁴⁴ You have delivered me from the people's assault and have made me head over the nations.

They came to serve me - people I had not known.

⁴⁵ At the sound of my voice, they rose to obey.

Foreigners approached me, cringing and fawning.

⁴⁶ But they succumbed or locked themselves in their fortresses.
⁴⁷ Yahweh lives! Praised be my rock!
Exalted be my saviour God -

⁴⁸ the God who grants me vengeance and subdues the peoples for me.

⁴⁹ He brings me out from my foes;
he exalts me above my adversaries;
he rescues me from men of violence.

⁵⁰ For this I will extol you, Yahweh, among the nations;

I will sing praise to your name.

⁵¹ You have given your king great victory;
you have shown your love forever to your anointed David, and to his descendants.

23 ¹ These are the last words of David:
The oracle of David, son of Jesse, the oracle of the man whom God has exalted, the anointed of the God of Jacob, the singer of the songs of Israel:

² "The Spirit of Yahweh speaks through me, his word is on my tongue.

³ The God of Israel has spoken, the Rock of Israel has said to me:
when one rules justly over men,
ruling in the fear of God,

⁴ he dawns on them like the morning light, like the sun shining forth on a cloudless morning.

making grass sprout from the ground after the rain.

⁵ Yes, is not my family like this before God?

He has made with me an eternal covenant, orderly and secure.

Will he not complete my salvation and fulfill my desire?

* But godless men are like thorns that are thrown away.

They cannot be held with one's hand⁷ but are uprooted with iron and spear shaft, and they are burned in fire."

David's champions

■ * These are the names of the warriors who were with David: the first of the Three was Josheb-basshebeth, a Tachemonite who wielded his spear against eight hundred whom he slew in a single encounter.

⁹ Next was Eleazar, son of Dodo, son of Ahohi, who was with David when they challenged the Philistines who were gathered there for battle. When he saw the retreat of the Israelites, ¹⁰ he fought and struck down the Philistines until his hand grew tired from holding the sword without pause. Yahweh brought about a great victory that day. The others returned after him, but only to strip the slain.

¹¹ Next was Shammah, son of Agee the Hararite. The Philistines gathered together at Lehi, where there was a plot of ground planted to barley, and the men fled from the Philistines. ¹² But Shammah stood in the middle of the plot to defend it and slew the Philistines. And Yahweh worked a great victory.

¹³ At about harvest time, three of the Thirty went down to David at the cave of Adullam while a band of Philistines was encamped in the valley of Rephaim. ¹⁴ David was in the stronghold while the Philistine garrison was at Bethlehem. ¹⁵ David longed for water and said, "Who will give me water to drink from the well of Bethlehem by the gate?" ¹⁶ At this, the three warriors broke through the Philistine camp, drew water out of the well of Bethlehem by the gate and brought it to David. But David refused to drink of it and poured it out as an offering to Yahweh. ¹⁷ He said, "By no means, should I do this. Shall I drink the blood of the men who risked their lives?" Therefore, he refused to drink it. These were the deeds of the three warriors.

²⁰ Benaiah son of Jehoiada, a warrior of Kabzeel, was a man of great achievements who killed the two sons of Ariel of Moab. He also went down into a pit on a snowy day and slew a lion. ²¹ He slew a handsome Egyptian who held a spear. Benaiah went against him with a staff, snatched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed him with his own spear. ²² Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, did these things and won a name beside the thirty warriors. ²³ He was popular among the Thirty but did not equal the Three. David put him in command of his bodyguard.

²⁴ Asahel brother of Joab, was one of the Thirty; Elhanan, son of Dodo of Bethlehem; ²⁵ Shammah of Harod, Elikah of Harod; ²⁶ Helez, the Paltite; Ira the son of Ikesh of Tekoa; ²⁷ Abiezor of Anathoth; Mebunnai, the Hushathite; ²⁸ Zalmon the Ahohite; Maharai of Netophah; ²⁹ Jeleb, the son of Baanah of Netophah; Ittai, the son of Ribai of Gibeath of the Benjaminites; ³⁰ Benaiah of Pirathon; Hiddai, of the brooks of Gash; ³¹ Abialbon, the Arbathite; Azmaveth of Bahurim; ³² Eliahba of Shaalbon; the sons of Jashen, Jonathan; ³³ Shammah, the Hararite; Ahiam, the son of Sharar, the Hararite, ³⁴ Eliphelet, the son of Ahasbai of Maacah; Eliam, the son of Ahithophel of Gilo; ³⁵ Hezro of Carmel; Paarai the Arbite; ³⁶ Igal, the son of Nathan of Zobah, Bani, the Gadite; ³⁷ Zelek the Ammonite; Naharai of Beeroth, the armour-bearer of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, ³⁸ Ira, the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite; ³⁹ Uriah, the Hittite – thirty-seven in all.

■ In dedicating this chapter to the memory of David's "valiant men" (See also commentary in Sam 22), the Bible gives them what they deserved. These men lived their faith and accomplished their human mission through fighting and killing their enemies – which seems to us to be very far from Gospel values. Yet David became king because of them, their sword, their strength and their courage. Without them, the kingdom of David would not have been realized, and neither would the "son of David," Christ, have come.

◆ The kingdom has grown very much in territories, animals and wealth. Israel is a numerous people and so David is tempted to count them and orders a census.

The census in itself is not bad. What is bad is

The census

•24¹ Again the anger of Yahweh blazed out against Israel. So he let David harm them in this way, "Count the people of Israel and Judah."² The king said to Joab and the commander of the army who were with him, "Go through all the tribes of Israel from Dan to Beersheba and count the people that I may know how many they are."

⁴ But the king's word prevailed so that Joab and the commanders of the army went out from the king's presence in order to count the people of Israel. ⁵ They crossed the Jordan and started with Aroer, the city in the middle of the valley, and went on toward Gad and to Jazer. ⁶ Then they proceeded to Gilead and to Kadesh in the land of the Hittites. They then went to Dan, and from Dan to Sidon, ⁷ and arrived at the fortress of Tyre and the cities of the Hivites and Canaanites. They went out through the Negeb of Judah at Beersheba and ⁸ after having gone through all the land, returned to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days. ⁹ Joab gave the total count of the people to the king: eight hundred thousand sword-wielding warriors in Israel and five hundred thousand men in Judah.

¹⁰ But after he had the people counted, David felt remorse and said to Yahweh, "I have sinned greatly in what I have done, but now, O Yahweh, I ask you to forgive my sin for I have acted foolishly."

¹¹ The following day, before David awoke, Yahweh's word had come to the prophet Gad, David's seer, ¹² "Go, and give David this message: I offer you three things and I will let one of them befall you according to your own choice." ¹³ So Gad went to David and asked him, "Do you want three years of famine in your land? Or do you want to be pursued for three months by your foes while you flee from them? Or do you want three days' pestilence in your land? Now, think and decide what answer I shall give him who sent me."

¹⁴ David answered Gad, "I am greatly troubled. Let me fall into the hands of Yahweh whose mercy is abundant; but let me not fall into the hands of men."

¹⁵ So Yahweh sent a pestilence on Israel from morning until the appointed time, causing the death of seventy thousand men from Dan to Beersheba. ¹⁶ When the angel stretched forth his hand toward Jerusalem to destroy it, Yahweh would punish no more and said to the angel who was causing destruction among to feel greater because one has so many people or soldiers, or to have an obsession for quantity, for numbers, forgetting the essential which is quality. David forgets that he is administrator and deputy of God in Israel: the sheep do not belong to him. In all levels of life, people like to count their animals, or recall their accomplishments. There are many ways of feeling oneself "owner" when, in reality, all belongs to God.

Here, the author presents the pestilence as God's intervention to punish the king. People of that time easily accepted an intervention of Yahweh to kill the Israelites even if they were not responsible for the sin of their king. It seems more accurate for us to say that God intervened by sending the prophet Gad a few days before the pestilence broke out, a pestilence which, of course, was not miraculous in nature. Thus he wanted to impart to David a lesson and a sign of the gravity of his sin, using a language he could understand.

See what is said about collective punishment in Joshua 7, and about the Angel of Yahweh in Gn 16.

the people, "It is enough, hold back your hand." The angel of Yahweh was already at the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite.

¹⁷ When David saw the angel striking the people, he spoke to Yahweh and said, "I have sinned and acted wickedly, but these are only the sheep; what have they done? Let your hand strike me and my father's family."

to the ground, and said, ²¹ "Why has my lord the king come to his servant?" David answered, "I will buy your threshing floor in order to build an altar to Yahweh so that the plague may end among the people." ²² Then Araunah said to David, "Let my lord the king take the threshing floor and offer the sacrifice that seems good to him: here you have my oxen for the burnt offering, the threshing sledges, and the oxen's yokes for the wood." ²³ All this, O king, Araunah gives to the king. May Yahweh your God hear you."

²⁴ But the king said to Araunah, "No, I will pay you for all this, for I will not offer to Yahweh my God something that costs me nothing." So David bought the threshing floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. ²⁵ David built there an altar to Yahweh and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. So Yahweh had mercy on the land and the plague ended in Israel.

INTRODUCTION TO 1st KINGS

The period of the Kings is the third stage in Israel's history. It follows the period of the Patriarchs (Abraham in 1750 B.C.) and that of the Exodus and the Conquest (Moses in 1250 B.C.)

David captured Jerusalem around 1000 B.C. After Solomon's death in 932 B.C. The Kingdom of David and his son Solomon would be divided. The northern part, called the Kingdom of Israel, would cease to exist as a nation two centuries later. The southern part, called the Kingdom of Judah, would last until the year 587 B.C., the year of the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, and of the Exile to Babylon.

This period covers a total of four centuries. These four centuries of the Kings are the most important in sacred history because they are the period during which God raised up the prophets from among his people.

David's last years

1 King David was already a very old man who could no longer keep warm even in very thick clothing. ² So his servants said to him, "Allow us to get for my lord king a virgin girl to attend the king and nurse him. She could sleep with you, my lord king, and make you feel warm." ³ And so they looked for a beautiful girl throughout the territory of Israel. They found Abishag the Shunamite, a very beautiful girl and brought her to the king ⁴ to become the king's nurse. She attended to him; but the king had no intimate relations with her.

⁵ Now Adonijah, son of Haggith, had in mind that he would be king and so provided himself with chariots and horsemen, and fifty men to run before him. ⁶ His father had never interfered by questioning his conduct, "Why have you done this or that?" He was a very handsome man born of Haggith after Absalom. ⁷ Adonijah conferred with Joab, son of Zuriyah, and with Abiathar, the priest. These two followed and assisted him; ⁸ but Zadok, the priest and Benaiah, son of Jehoiada; Nathan, the prophet; Shimei, Rei and David's warriors did not join Adonijah.

¹¹ Then Nathan spoke to Bathsheba, mother of Solomon, "Have you heard that Adonijah, son of Haggith, acts as a king unknown to David our lord? ¹² Let me then give you advice that could save both your life and your son Solomon's. ¹³ Go, see King David immediately and tell him this, 'Did you not, my lord king, swear

The greater part of the Bible was written in those four centuries. It was not only the major prophets who produced writings, e.g., Isaiah and Jeremiah, but groups of prophets of lesser importance wrote much of Israel's history: the greater part of the pages of Genesis and Exodus, the books of Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings.

We can say that the period of the Kings is the most important period in sacred history; it is also the time which we know with the greatest precision.

These four centuries would appear to be the time of the Kingdom of Israel's decadence if we paid attention only to its wealth and power. But during these four centuries, through trials, persecutions and difficulties of all kinds, Israel's faith matured to the point of reaching, in the great prophets, a sublimity and clarity which only Christ bring still farther.

The Book of Kings

In the beginning, the actual books of Kings formed a single book. This work is the fruit of the prophet's reflection and was edited during the Exile in Babylon.

It is a religious history; events which other historians would consider important are deliberately omitted: it hardly discusses the important reign of Omni and of Jeroboam II in Samaria. Its judgement on the Kings is remembered, making him responsible for the division. Only a few kings of Judah are praised for their loyalty to Yahweh.

We can easily note three parts:

- the grandeur of Solomon's reign and of the Temple.
- the history of the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah after their division;
- after the destruction of the Kingdom of Israel, the formation of the history of Judah until Jerusalem's destruction in 587.

The chapters referring to Elijah and Elisha form a unit apart: 1 K:17-19 and 2 K: 2-8.

to your servant that Solomon, my son, would reign after you and sit on your throne? Why then does Adonijah act as king?" ¹⁴Then, while you are still speaking with the king, I will come in and confirm what you say."

¹⁵So Bathsheba went to the king, right into his room. (Now the king was very old, and Abishag the Shunamite was attending to him). ¹⁶Bathsheba bowed in homage to the king who asked her, "What do you want?" ¹⁷She answered him, "My lord, you swore to your servant by Yahweh your God that Solomon, my son, would reign after you and sit on your throne. ¹⁸But now, Adonijah acts like a king without you knowing it, my lord king. ¹⁹He has sacrificed oxen, fattened calves and plenty of sheep, inviting all the king's sons, Abiathar, the priest, and Joab, commander of the army; but he did not invite Solomon your servant. ²⁰And now, my lord king, all Israel is waiting for your decision as to who shall reign as your successor. ²¹If this is not known when my lord the king passes away, I and my son Solomon will be numbered among the criminals."

²²While she was still speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet arrived ²³and was announced to the king. "Here is Nathan the prophet." When Nathan came in before the king, he bowed before him with his face to the ground, ²⁴and said, "My lord king, have you decided that Adonijah shall reign after you and sit on your throne?" ²⁵For indeed, today he has gone down to sacrifice oxen, fattened calves and plenty of sheep. He has invited all the king's sons, Joab, the commander of the army, and Abiathar, the priest. They are now eating and drinking with him and proclaiming, 'Long live King Adonijah!' ²⁶But he has not invited myself, your servant, Zadok the priest, Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, nor your servant Solomon. ²⁷Has my lord king decided this without having told us, your servants, who is to sit on your throne after you?"

David makes Solomon king

²⁸King David then answered, "Call Bathsheba to me." So she came to the king. As she stood before him, ²⁹the king swore an oath and said, "As Yahweh lives, he who has delivered me from all adversity, ³⁰so will I fulfill today the oath I swore to you by Yahweh, the God of Israel, when I said: 'Solomon, your son, shall reign after me; he shall sit on my throne in my place.'" ³¹Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the ground and paid homage to the king as she said, "May my lord King David live forever!"

³²King David then said, "Call Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada." So they came to the king ³³who said to them, "Take with you the servants of your lord and make my son Solomon ride on my own mule. Then bring him down to Gihon ³⁴and let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him there as king of Israel. Once this is done, sound the trumpet and proclaim, 'Long live King Solomon!' ³⁵Then he shall sit on my throne in your presence. From now on he will be king in my place for I have made him ruler of Israel and Judah."

³⁶Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, answered the king, "Amen! May Yahweh, the God of my lord king, confirm this. ³⁷As Yahweh has been with my lord king, may he also be with Solomon and make his reign even greater than that of my lord King David's."

³⁸So Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, together with the Cherethites and the Pelethites, went down and made Solomon ride on King David's mule to Gihon. ³⁹There Zadok the priest took the horn of oil that was in the Holy Tent and anointed Solomon. ⁴⁰They then sounded the trumpet and all the people shouted, "Long live King Solomon!" They all went up after him playing on pipes; and their shouts were so great that the noise seemed to split the earth.

⁴¹Adonijah and all his guests heard this as they finished feasting; on hearing the sound of the trumpet, Joab asked, "What is all this commotion in the city?" ⁴² While he was still speaking, Jonathan, the son of Abiathar the priest arrived and Adonijah asked, "Come in, for you are a worthy man and bring good news." ⁴³ Jonathan answered Adonijah, "Not at all, for our lord King David has made Solomon king. ⁴⁴ The king sent him with Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites and Pelethites who made him ride on the king's mule.

⁴⁵ Then Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anointed him king at Gihon. As they returned, all the city cheered; this is the noise that you have heard. ⁴⁶ Solomon already sits on the royal throne ⁴⁷ and the king's servants came to congratulate our lord King David, saying: 'May your God make the name of Solomon more famous than yours and his reign greater than yours.' At this, the king bowed in worship on his bed and said, ⁴⁸ "Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who has granted one of my offspring to sit on my throne this day when I can still see it."

⁵⁰ In his fear of Solomon, Adonijah went and held on to the horns of the altar. ⁵¹ This was reported to Solomon, "Adonijah is so afraid of King Solomon that he has held on to the horns of the altar, and he says, 'Let King Solomon swear to me today that he will not slay me with the sword'."

⁵² Solomon replied, "If he proves to be a worthy man, not a hair of his head shall perish. But if he acts like a wicked man, he shall die." ⁵³ So King Solomon sent for him and they brought him down from the altar. He came before King Solomon and paid him homage; after that, Solomon sent him home.

David's testament

2 ¹ When David was about to die, he charged his son Solomon with this instruction, ² "I am about to go the way of all creatures. Be strong and show yourself a man. ³ Keep the commandments of Yahweh your God and walk in his ways. Keep his statutes, his commands, his ordinances and declarations written in the law of Moses, that you may succeed in whatever you do and wherever you go. ⁴ If you do so, Yahweh will fulfill the promise he made to me: 'If your sons take care to walk before me faithfully with their whole heart and their whole soul, you shall always have one of your family on the throne of Israel.'

⁵ Now you know what Joab, the son of Zeruiah did to me — how he dealt with the two o The first two chapters relate the succession of King David.

David's life comes to an end in what seems to be extreme weakness from old age. Adonijah plans to impose himself as ruler as his elder brother Absalom had done. But Solomon, whom the prophet Nathan had designated to succeed David, and whom his mother Bathsheba supports, gains the throne.

Fulfill the laws of Yahweh your God. This is the wisdom of the prophets: if the king and his people fulfill these laws, they will be prosperous.

Joab...Shimei... (5 and 8) David had pardoned them; why did he now ask Solomon to kill them? This has nothing to do with David's holding grudges against them but with his being as superstitious as the people of his time. For them, the curse uttered by Shimei (2 Sam 16:6) or by anybody else remains suspended in the air and can suddenly fall on David's descendants. The most effective way to prevent the curse from harming them is to have it fall on Shimei himself and thus spare David's descendants. In the same way, the blood shed by Joab (2 Sam 3:28) cries to heaven, and it is better to eliminate him so that God's justice may fall on him and not on David's children.

Solomon will be the example of a man gifter by God with everything that could be desired. David, with his victories, left him a strong people. The economy was healthy and the people dynamic. Solomon the magnificent will squander everything, being in this matter, the figure of his people: heaped with favours by God, "he satiates himself, fattens himself like a bull and then resists God and spurns him" (1 K 32:15).

³⁶ Then the king sent for Shimei and told him, "Build yourself a house in Jerusalem and stay there, and do not leave the place to go anywhere. ³⁷ On the day you leave and cross the brook Kidron, you shall surely die and you shall be responsible for your own death."

³⁹ Three years later, two of Shimei's slaves ran away to Achish, son of Maacha, king of Gath. When it was reported to Shimei that his slaves were in Gath, ⁴⁰ he saddled an ass and went to Achish in Gath in search of his slaves.

⁴¹ When Solomon was informed that Shimei had left Jerusalem for Gath and returned, ⁴² the king sent for Shimei and said to him, "Did I not make you swear by Yahweh and warned you severely that, on the day you left to go anywhere you would surely die? And you answered me: 'What you say is good; I shall obey!' ⁴³ Why then did you not keep your oath to Yahweh and obey the command I gave you?" ⁴⁴ The king told Shimei, "Remember the evil you did to David my father. Now Yahweh will repay you for what you did. ⁴⁵ But King Solomon shall be blessed, and the throne of David shall stand firm before Yahweh forever." ⁴⁶ Then the king commanded Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, who went out and struck Shimei and killed him.

In this manner, the kingdom grew stronger in the hands of Solomon.

+ 3 ¹ Solomon entered into a marriage alliance with Pharaoh, king of Egypt. He took Pharaoh's daughter and brought her to the city of David until he had finished building his own palace, Yahweh's House and the wall around Jerusalem. ² Meantime, the people were sacrificing at the high places because the house for the Name of Yahweh had not yet been built.

³ This is why Solomon also sacrificed and burnt incense at the high places although he loved Yahweh and followed the commands of David his father.

Solomon's dream

◆ ⁴ The king used to sacrifice at Gibeon, the great high place; on the altar there he had offered a thousand burnt offerings. ⁵ It was in Gibeon, during the night, that Yahweh appeared to Solomon in a dream and said, "Ask what you want me to give you."

⁶ Solomon answered, "You have shown your servant David my father a great and steadfast love because he served you faithfully and was righteous and sincere towards you. You have given him proof of your steadfast love in making a son of his sit on his throne this day. ⁷ And now, O Yahweh my God, you have made your servant king in place of David my father although I am but a little child who does not know how to con-

+ The book shows Solomon in three activities which made a king famous:

- His wisdom, chaps. 3-5
- His constructions, chaps. 6-8
- His enterprises, chaps. 9-10

The story concludes in chap. 11 with God's judgement on the kingdom: divisions and reversals are underway.

We already know that Solomon had among his wives the daughter of Pharaoh: proof of the fame which the small country of Israel had in those years, since the daughters of Pharaoh were not given in marriage to just anyone.

It is said that he went to worship in the sanctuaries called High Places. This was to be prohibited later when the Temple of Jerusalem would be the only one acceptable to Yahweh. For the moment, there is no such rule, and Solomon goes to Gibeon where there is a very ancient sanctuary. He himself sacrifices the victims - a thing which, before long, will be the privilege of the priests of Levi's tribe.

◆ Solomon's "dream" is very famous. Perhaps this dream is only a parable by which the author of the book describes Solomon's disposition when he began his reign.

Ask what you want. This is God's offer to the young Solomon, his beloved one. It is God's offer to any young person who is faced with responsibilities for the first time. His life will not be a destiny imposed upon him; rather, one way or another, God will give him what he himself desires. What do you seek? (Jn 1:38)

You have shown great love to my father, David. The young king does not start from scratch. He owes everything he has to his ancestors, and everything he has from his ancestors came from God. Solomon knows that Yahweh committed himself to David forever: "I shall never reject your children."

Give me an understanding mind in governing your people. Solomon is concerned about carrying out his responsibilities and does not duct myself. ⁸ Meantime, your servant is in the midst of your people whom you have chosen — a people so great that they can neither be numbered nor counted.

⁹ Give me, therefore, an understanding mind in governing your people that I may discern between good and evil. For who is able to govern this multitude of people of yours?"

¹⁰ Yahweh was pleased that Solomon had made this request. ¹¹ And he told him. "Because you have requested this rather than long life or wealth or even vengeance on your enemies; indeed, because you have asked for yourself understanding to discern what is right, ¹² I shall grant you your request. I now give you a wise and discerning mind such as no one after you shall ever have.

¹³ I am also giving you what you have not asked for, both wealth and fame; and no king shall be your equal during your lifetime. ¹⁴ Moreover if you will walk in my ways, keeping my statutes and commands, as your father David did, I shall give you long life."

ings, and gave a feast for all his servants.

The judgement of Solomon

◆ ¹⁶ Then two harlots came to the king and stood before him. ¹⁷ One of the two women said, "Oh, my lord, this woman and I live in the same house, and I gave birth to a child while she was there with me. ¹⁸ Three days after my child was born, this woman also gave birth. We were alone, and there was no one in the house but the two of us. ¹⁹ Then this woman's son died during the night because she lay on him. ²⁰ So during the night, she got up, took my son from my side while I slept, laid it beside her and her dead son beside me. ²¹ When I got up in the morning to nurse my child, I saw it was dead. But when I looked at it closely in the morning, I saw that it was not my child."

²² The other woman said, "No, the living child is mine; the dead child is yours." To this, the first replied, "Not so, but the dead child is yours; the living child is mine." And they quarrelled this way in the king's presence.

²³ Then the king said, "One says: 'This is my son who is alive; your son is dead'; the other says: 'That is not so, your son is dead; my son is the live one'. ²⁴ And the king said, "Bring me a variant the people to be robbed of their expectations.

Nevertheless, Solomon has in mind other forms of "wisdom" that were appreciated in those days:

- to prepare for himself a long and quiet life, not to have problems or troubles, and to spare the sacrifices required by a noble life;
- wealth, enjoyment of life, "to be comfortable";
- the death of his enemies, i.e., strength that leads to victory, satisfaction of one's personal pride.

I now give you a discerning mind; besides, I am giving you what you have not asked for. This is the same teaching of Jesus in Mt. 6:33.

◆ Here, the well-known judgement of Solomon gives evidence of the wisdom he received for the good of his people.

Let us look closer into Solomon's conduct. He could have dismissed the two women, saying to himself "These people are not interesting. Let them settle their quarrel themselves." Solomon did not regard their condition as prostitutes, but sought a mother among them. So he invented a solution which was not provided by law.

His action shows that justice cannot be rendered through mere juridical texts. Those with responsibility must look at a person with the same understanding with which God probes the depth of everyone's heart.

sword." When they brought the king a sword, ²⁵ he gave this order, "Divide the child in two and give half to one, half to the other." ²⁶ Then the woman whose son was alive said to the king out of pity for her son, "Oh, my lord, give her the living child but spare its life." The other woman, however, said, "It shall be neither mine nor yours. Divide it!"

²⁷ Then the king spoke, "Give the living child to the first woman and spare its life. She is its mother."

²⁸ When all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had given, they marvelled at him, seeing that God's wisdom was in him to render justice.

Solomon's grandeur

4 ¹ King Solomon was king over all Israel ² and had the following for his high officials: Azariah, son of Zadok, was the priest; ³ Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, were secretaries; Jehoshaphat, son of Ahilud, was recorder; ⁴ Benaiah, son of Jehoiada, was general of the army; Zadok and Abiathar were priests; ⁵ Azariah, son of Nathan, was head of the officers; Zabud, son of Nathan, was priest and the king's personal adviser; ⁶ Abishar was in charge of the palace; and Adoniram, son of Abda was in charge of forced labour.

⁷ Solomon had twelve governors over all Israel who provided food for the king and his household; each one of them making provisions for one month during the year. ⁸ These were their names: Ben-hur, in the hill country of Ephraim; ⁹ Bendeker, in Makaz, Shaalbim, Beth-shemesh, and Elonbeth-hanan; ¹⁰ Ben-hesed, in Arubboth (to him belonged Socoh and all the land of Hepher); ¹¹ Ben-abinadab, in all of Naphath-dor (he had Taphath, daughter of Solomon, for his wife); ¹² Baana, son of Ahilud, in Taanach, Megiddo and all of Bethshean beside Zarethan below Jezreel, and from Beth-shean to Abelmeholah, as far as Jokmeam and beyond; ¹³ Ben-geber, in Ramoth-gilead (he had the villages of Jair, son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead, as also the region of Argob in Bashan, sixty big towns, walled and barred with brazen bars); ¹⁴ Ahinadab, son of Iddo, in Mahanaim; ¹⁵ Ahimaaz, in Naphtali (he had taken Basemath, daughter of Solomon, for his wife); ¹⁶ Baana, son of Hushai, in Asher and Bealoth; ¹⁷ Jehoshaphat, son of Paruah, in Issachar; ¹⁸ Shimei, son of Ela, in Benjamin; ¹⁹ Geber, son of Uri, in the land of Gilead, the country of Sihon king of the Amorites and of Og, king of Bashan. And there was also an attendant in the land of Judah.

²² Solomon's provision for one day was thirty cors of fine flour, sixty cors of meal, ²³ ten fat oxen, twenty pasture-fed cattle, a hundred sheep, besides harts, gazelles, roebucks, and fattened fowl. ²⁴ He ruled over all the region west of the Euphrates, from Tiphsah to Gaza and over all its kings, and he had peace on all frontiers. ²⁵ Judah and Israel lived in security, from Dan to Beersheba, and every man was safe under his vine and under his fig tree, for as long as Solomon lived.

²⁶ Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots and twelve thousand horsemen.

²⁷ All these governors supplied provisions for King Solomon and for all his guests at table, each one providing during his assigned month and seeing that nothing was lacking.

²⁸ They also brought barley and straw for the horses and swift studs wherever the king stayed, each one doing this during his appointed month.

²⁹ God gave Solomon great wisdom and understanding, and knowledge as vast as the sand on the shore, ³⁰ so that his wisdom surpassed that of all the people of the east and of the Egyptians. ³¹ He was wiser than any man: wiser than Ethan, the Ezrahite, and Heman, Calcol and Darda, sons of Mahol; and his fame spread among all the surrounding nations. ³² He composed three thousand proverbs and knew a thousand and five songs. ³³ He took his examples from all the trees, from the cedar in Lebanon to the hyssop that grows out of the wall; he spoke also of the beasts and birds, and reptiles and fish.

5 ¹ Now, Hiram King of Tyre sent his servants to Solomon when he heard that he had been anointed king in place of his father. For David had always been Hiram's friend. ² Solomon then sent this message to Hiram. ³ "You know that David my father could not build a temple for Yahweh his God because his enemies were at war with him until the time when Yahweh gave him victory over them. ⁴ But now Yahweh my God has given me peace on all sides and there is no enemy or calamity that afflicts us. ⁵ And so I intend to build a temple for Yahweh my God as Yahweh told David my father. 'Your son, whom I will set upon your throne, shall build the House for my Name.' ⁶ Now, therefore, give orders to have cedars of Lebanon cut for me. My servants will join yours and I will pay your servants the wages you set, for you know that none of us can cut timber like the Sidonians."

⁷ When Hiram heard the answer of Solomon, he was exceedingly glad and said, (Blessed be Yahweh this day who has given David a wise son to rule over this great people.) ⁸ Then Hiram sent a messenger to Solomon with these words, "I have heard the message you sent me and I am ready to do whatever you want concerning the cedar and cypress timber. ⁹ My servants shall have it sent down to the sea from Lebanon. I will make it into rafts and deliver them by sea to the place you choose. I will have the rafts broken up here and you can take the timber away. You, for your part, will provide food for my household." ¹⁰ So Hiram supplied Solomon with all the cedar and cypress timber that he wanted, ¹¹ while Solomon gave Hiram every year twenty thousand cors of wheat as food for his household, and twenty thousand cors of pure oil. ¹² Yahweh gave wisdom to Solomon as he had promised him, and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon who bound themselves by a treaty.

¹³ King Solomon conscripted thirty thousand men from all Israel for forced labour. ¹⁴ He sent them to Lebanon in relays of ten thousand a month, so that they would be in Lebanon for a month and at home for two months. Adoniram was in charge of the draft of labourers. ¹⁵ Solomon had seventy thousand carriers and eighty thousand stone cutters in the hill country, ¹⁶ in addition to three thousand three hundred overseers in charge of the people engaged in the work. ¹⁷ By order of the king, they quarried large and expensive stones to give the temple a foundation of hewn stones. ¹⁸ Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders, along with the Gēbalites did the hewing and prepared both timber and stone to build the temple.

Solomon builds the temple

6 ¹In the four hundred and eightieth year after the Israelites left the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month of Ziv, which is the second month, Solomon began to build the temple of Yahweh. ² The House which King Solomon built for Yahweh was sixty cubits long, twenty wide, and thirty high. ³ The vestibule fronting the Sanctuary was twenty cubits long from side to side, the width of the temple, and ten cubits deep in front of the House. ⁴ He made windows with recessed frames for the House.

⁵ Solomon had a structure built adjoining the walls all around the House and enclosing both Sanctuary and Inner Sanctuary. He also made lateral rooms all around. ⁶ The lowest story was five cubits wide; the middle, six cubits wide; and the third, seven cubits wide. Around the exterior of the temple, he made offsets on the wall so that the supporting beams need not be inserted into walls of the temple.

⁷ The House was built with stones prepared at the quarry so that no hammer, or axe,

• Wise in his judgement, wise in administering his territory, wise in composing proverbs, remains and psalms: from him comes the nucleus of the book of Proverbs. Later, whoever would write a book on Wisdom would attribute the work to Solomon: hence, in the Bible, Ecclesiastes, the Song of Solomon. Wisdom are attributed to Solomon though they were in fact written by other people.

Solomon brings writers together in his court to gather and write down the traditions of Israel which until this time were scattered or transmitted merely by word of mouth. This was the time when the most ancient books of the Bible were written. (See Introduction to Genesis).

+ Solomon's first construction is the House of Yahweh, that is, the Temple of Jerusalem, which will be counted among the wonders of ancient times.

The tent of the Ark in the desert had been the centre of worship as practised by nomadic tribes. From now on, the Temple, somehow similar to the Canaanite temples, would be the centre of an urban and sedentary culture. The sacrifices and feasts celebrated there are inspired by Canaanite cults. Israel takes a new step or any iron implement was heard in the temple during the construction.

¹¹ The word of Yahweh was directed to Solomon, ¹² "If you observe my statutes, obey my ordinances, keep all my commands and follow them, I will fulfill everything I said to David your father regarding this House. ¹³ There I will be in the midst of the Israelites and not forsake my people Israel."

■ ¹⁴ So, Solomon built the House and finished it. ¹⁵ He covered the interior walls of the temple with cedar boards; so that in the interior from the floor of the House to the rafters of the ceiling only wood could be seen. The floor also was covered with cypress boards. ¹⁶ Solomon covered twenty cubits of the rear of the House with cedar boards from floor to rafter to serve as an inner sanctuary — the Most Holy Place. ¹⁷ The front of the house, that is the Sanctuary, was forty cubits long. ¹⁸ In all the interior of the House, the cedar was carved in the form of gourds and open flowers; all was of cedar and no stone was to be seen.

²³ In the inner sanctuary, Solomon made two cherubim of olive wood, each ten cubits high. ²⁴ The length of the wings of each cherub was five cubits each, hence, ten cubits from tip to tip. ²⁵ Both cherubim had the same measurement and the same form. ²⁶ Both being ten cubits high. ²⁷ When the cherubim were put in the innermost part of the House their wings were so spread out that a wing of one touched one wall, while a wing of the other touched the other wall. Their other wings touched each other at the center of the House. ²⁸ The cherubim were also overlaid with gold.

forward in its culture, and worship is also adapted to a new situation.

Not God, but people need the Temple. (See 2 Sam 7:7)

- There is the sincere desire to honour Yahweh by giving him the most beautiful house of all. Hence, the Temple is always called in the Bible, the House of Yahweh. On the other hand, the people want to show their prosperity and they feel proud to have a temple that can compete with those of other people.
- There is also the desire to have something beautiful which can be a visible image of the Glory of the invisible God. For the Israelites, the Temple of Jerusalem was the pedestal of the invisible Temple where Yahweh is in his glory. He prohibited them from representing him by images of creatures; but at least the House could be adorned with gold and precious wood.
- Finally there is the concern to have God present to protect his people. Though Yahweh says that he has no temple but the entire universe (8:27), he wants to be present in the midst of his people (Dt 12:5). In Jerusalem, Yahweh is "in his holy dwelling" (Jer 25:30), to defend his people (Is 31:5).

Like Solomon, the Christian kings and authorities of past centuries wanted to adorn their churches with gold and silver; they believed that the House of God ought to be much more beautiful than their own. Let us respect their piety; but today we understand that the city of God is governed by criteria different from those of men. The richness of temples does not always help us to discover God's greatness.

■ The most sacred part of the Temple, the most Sacred Place, contained only the Ark with the stone slabs on which the covenant of Yahweh with his people had been confirmed. Before this room was the Holy Place where the sacred candlesticks burned and incense was kindled. Here, too, were placed the twelve loaves that were offered every week. (See 1 Sam 21:5). An entrance hall completed the house.

²⁹ Solomon had all the surrounding walls of the House carved with figures of cherubim, palm trees and open flowers both in the interior and exterior rooms. ³⁰ He also had the floor of the House, in both the interior and exterior rooms, overlaid with gold.

³⁶ As for the interior court, Solomon had it built with three courses of hewn stone and one course of cedar beams.

³⁷ In the month of Ziv of the fourth year, the foundation of Yahweh's House was laid. ³⁸ In the month of Bul, the eighth month of the seventh year, the House was finished, complete and according to all specifications. It took Solomon seven years to build it.

The palace and the temple

7 ¹ Solomon took thirteen years to build his own palace. ² He built the House of the Forest of Lebanon which measured one hundred cubits long, fifty cubits wide, and thirty cubits high. It was built on three rows of cedar pillars with cedar beams on the pillars.

It had a cedar ceiling above the beams that were on the forty-five pillars, fifteen in each row. ⁴ There were three window frames at either end, each window corresponding to another opposite it. ⁵ All the doorways and windows had square frames and each window corresponded to the one opposite it.

⁶ The Hall of Pillars measured fifty cubits long and thirty cubits wide. It had a porch in front with pillars and a canopy over them. ⁷ The hall of the Throne where Solomon was to pronounce judgment — the Hall of Judgment was finished with cedar from floor to rafters.

⁸ His own house, where he was to live, and which was in the other court behind the hall, was built in like manner. Solomon also made a house similar to this for Pharaoh's daughter whom he had taken in marriage.

⁹ All these were made of costly stones, hewn according to measure, sawed on their inner and outer faces even from the foundation to the coping, and from the court of Yahweh's House to the big court.

¹³ King Solomon sent for and brought from Tyre, Hiram ¹⁴ who was the son of a widow of Naphtali's tribe. His father was from Tyre and an artisan in bronze-work, and he himself was very knowledgeable and skilled in all kinds of bronze-work. Hiram came and did all the work that Solomon asked of him.

¹⁵ He cast two brazen pillars, both of which measured eighteen cubits high and had a circumference of twelve cubits. Both were hollow and measured four fingers in thickness.

¹⁶ He also made two capitals of molten bronze to set on the tops of the pillars, both measuring five cubits high. ¹⁷ He also made two pieces of network with a chainlike mesh for each of the capitals on top of the pillars. ¹⁸ Likewise, he made pomegranates arranged in two rows encircling each piece of network to cover each capital on top of the pillars. ¹⁹ The capitals on top of the pillars in the vestibule had a lotus design measuring four cubits. ²⁰ They were on the two pillars above the nodes and beside the network, encircled by two hundred pomegranates arranged in two rows.

²³ Hiram then cast the great round bowl called the "Sea" measuring ten cubits from one brim to the opposite; it was five cubits high and had a circumference of thirty cubits. ²⁴ Under

35. Gen 3, 24; Exk 10 and all around were wide and spacious courtyards where the people stood praying.

This arrangement of several rooms leading into the most sacred place is a common thing in many ancient religions. It teaches that man cannot approach God without the required preparation. Even though Yahweh remains in the midst of his people, his mystery continues to be inaccessible.

This arrangement reflects in some way what is in him himself, the true Temple of God. There is, in us, a very intimate place where God is present. (See Jn 14:23). When Jesus asks us to "meet the Father in secret" (Mt 6:6), it means not its brim, it was encircled with gourds, ten for each cubit, arranged in two rows and cast along with the Sea.²⁵ This rested on twelve oxen, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east, with their haunches towards the center.²⁶ It was a handbreadth in thickness, its brim resembling a cup or a lily flower, and had a capacity of two thousand baths.

The four legs of each stand had cast braces supporting a basin and had wreaths on each side.³⁴ These four braces, extending to the corners of each stand, were of one piece with the stand.

³⁵ On top of the stand was a round band half a cubit high, with supports and panels which were of one piece with the stand. This was topped by a crown one cubit high within which was a rounded opening, the way a pedestal is made, a cubit and a half deep. Its opening had carvings and its panels were square and not round.³⁶ On the surface of its supports, as also on its panels, and wherever there was space, were carvings of cherubim, lions and palm trees, with wreaths all around.³⁷ This was how the ten stands were made – all of them with the same cast, same measurement, and same form.

³⁸ Hiram also made ten brazen basins, each holding forty baths and measuring four cubits. There was a basin for each of the ten stands.³⁹ He placed five of the stands on the south side of the House, and five on the north side. The Sea he placed at the southeast corner of the temple.

⁴⁰ Hiram also made the bowls, shovels and basins, and thereby finished all the work that he had undertaken for King Solomon on Yahweh's House.⁴¹ Hence, two pillars, two bowls on the capitals at the top of the pillars,⁴² four hundred pomegranates for two networks, two rows of pomegranates for each network to cover the two bowls of the capitals at the top of the pillars,⁴³ ten stands, ten basins on the stands,⁴⁴ the Sea, and twelve oxen underneath the Sea.

8 ¹ Then Solomon assembled before him in Jerusalem the elders of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, as well as the leaders of the ancestral houses of the Israelites, to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh from the city of David, which is Zion.

The ark is brought into the temple

◆ ² All the Israelites assembled in the month of Ethanim, the seventh month.³ When all the elders of Israel arrived, the priests carried the ark of Yahweh⁴ and brought it up together with the Tent of Meeting and all the holy vessels that were in the tent. After the priests and Levites had brought them up,⁵ King Solomon with the en-only to pray in a place apart, but to seek within our own selves the Most Sacred Place where the Spirit communicates his way of being felt.

◆ On the day of the Temple's inauguration God makes his presence felt by means of the cloud. In the Exodus, this was the visible sign c tire congregation of Israel that had assembled before him and were with him before the Ark, sacrificed so many sheep and oxen that they could neither be counted nor numbered. ⁶ Then the priests laid the ark of the covenant of Yahweh in its place in the inner sanctuary of the House — the Most Holy Place — underneath the wings of the cherubim. ⁷ The cherubim had their wings spread out over the lace of the ark, providing a covering above the ark and its poles.

38. Ex 30, 17 40. Ex 27, 3 48. Ex 25, 23 50. Lev 10, 1 51. 2 S 8, 11 3. 2 S 6

⁸ The poles were so long that their ends were seen from the Holy Place in front of the inner sanctuary but not from the outside; and they remain there to this day. ⁹ There was nothing in the ark except the two tables of stone which Moses placed there at Horeb where Yahweh made a covenant with the Israelites when they came out of the land of Egypt. ¹⁰ And when the priests came out of the Holy Place, such a cloud filled Yahweh's House ¹¹ that the priests could not continue to minister. Indeed, the glory of Yahweh filled his house.

¹² Then Solomon said, "Yahweh has said that he would dwell in thick darkness. ¹³ So the house I have built you will be your house, a place for you to dwell in forever."

¹⁴ The king turned and blessed the entire assembly of Israel, as they stood, ¹⁵ saying, "Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who has fulfilled by his hand what he promised personally to David my father when he said, ¹⁶ 'Since the day I brought my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city in all the tribes of Israel in which to build a resting place for my Name, but now I have chosen Jerusalem for my Name to be there, as I chose David to be the king of my people Israel.' ¹⁷ Now David my father wanted to build a House for the Name of Yahweh, the God of Israel; ¹⁸ but Yahweh told David my father, 'You meant well to build a House for my Name. ¹⁹ Nevertheless, not you but your son who shall be born to you shall build this House for my Name.'"

²⁰ Yahweh has fulfilled his promise, for I have succeeded David my father and am sitting on the throne of Israel; and, as Yahweh promised, I have built this House for the Name of Yahweh, the God of Israel. ²¹ There I have provided a place for the Ark with the Covenant which Yahweh made with our fathers when he brought them out of the land of Egypt."

Solomon's prayer

o ²² Then Solomon stood before the altar of Yahweh in the presence of all the assembly of Israel. He raised his hands towards heaven ²³ and said, "O Yahweh, God of Israel, there is no God like you either in heaven or on earth! You keep your covenant and show loving-kindness to your servants who walk before you Yahweh's presence to Israel. (See Ex 14:19 and 40:34) Later the Israelites continued to be incident in this presence of God which protected them (Jer 7) from Jerusalem.

In the course of time, many indecent things occurred in the courtyards of the Temple: they even built up altars to idols and practised sacred prostitution according to pagan customs. (See 2 Kgs 23:4-7) Yet it is not said that Yahweh abandoned his Sanctuary where he remained out of idleness to his Covenant.

It was only in the last years of the Kingdom that the prophet Ezechiel had a vision where the cloud left the Temple: this meant that Yahweh would now live among his faithful ones exiled in Babylon (Ez 9:3).

Much later, the apostle John will see this cloud in the heavenly temple (Rv 15:8) after having seen it over the person of Jesus during his transfiguration.

o Yahweh has fulfilled his promise (20 and 25).

David had two promises from God. The first was that his son would build the Temple; the second, that his descendants would keep the throne of Israel.

It is worth noting how God, being the invisible God and Creator of the Universe, wants to be, in some way, in a definite place, Jerusalem; and among a definite people, David's descendants. This visible centre of divine presence is now the Church. The Kingdom of God is universal, yet the Church relates with Christ through a well-defined series of people: the bishops and the pope.

■ After making a request for his descendants, Solomon makes a request for his people. Let us underline some points:

Vindicate the righteous. The first petition is wholeheartedly. ²⁴ You have foretold this day to your servant David, my father, and this day you have fulfilled your promise. ²⁵ Now, O Yahweh, God of Israel, keep this other promise you made to David when you said, 'You shall always have someone from your family on the throne of Israel provided that your sons are careful to serve me as you have done.' ²⁶ Now, therefore, O God of Israel, confirm the promise you have given to David my father.

²⁷ But will God really live among men on earth? If neither heavens nor the highest heavens can contain you, how much less can this House which I built! ²⁸ Yet, listen to the prayer and supplication of your servant, O Yahweh my God; hearken to the cries and pleas which your servant directs to you this day. ²⁹ Watch over this House of which you have said, 'My name shall rest there.' Hear the prayer of your servant in this place.

³³ When your people Israel are defeated by the enemy for having sinned against you, and when they turned back to you and acknowledge their sins, praying and making supplications to you in this House; ³⁴ then hear from heaven and forgive your people Israel. Bring them back to the land which you gave to their fathers.

³⁵ When the heavens are shut and no rain falls because they have sinned against you, and they pray in this place, acknowledging and repenting of their sin because of their affliction, ³⁶ then listen from Heaven and forgive your servants, your people Israel, and teach them the way to live; and send rain on your land which you have given to your people as an inheritance.

³⁷ If there is famine in the land, or pestilence such as blight or mildew, locust or caterpillar; if their enemy attacks them in any of their cities; if they suffer from any plague or sickness; ³⁸ whatever be one or all of the prayers or supplications of the Israelites showing repentance as they raise their hands in the direction of this House, ³⁹ then listen from Heaven, your dwelling place, and forgive. Do to each, whose heart you know, according to his conduct (for you alone know the hearts of all men) ⁴⁰ so that they may fear you as long as they live in the land which you gave our fathers.

⁴¹ Likewise, when a foreigner who is not from your people Israel, comes from a far country because of your Name ⁴² (for they shall hear of your great Name, your mighty hand and outstretched arm), and prays in this House, ⁴³ hear from the heavens your dwelling place, and do for the for-in line with a custom of that period. (See Num 5:11). If the truth in some crime could not be established, the accused had to swear that he was innocent and that he would accept any punishment from God if he had perjured himself. The people were convinced that God would not leave the liar unpunished.

If no rain falls because they have sinned against you. Prayer is for people who are sinners and who know themselves to be such. They fear God's punishment but believe that God forgives; they believe that God cannot be won over by prayers and ceremonies but by repentance.

So that they may fear you (v. 40). In the Bible, to fear God means: to take him seriously and to respect him. But it is also true that, at that time, the perfect worship "in spirit and in truth" was not known (Jn 4:18), and people were afraid of God and his punishments.

When a foreigner comes from a far country. This prayer was written centuries later: when the missionary efforts of the Jews had already brought many pagans to their faith.

eigner whatever he asks you for, so that all the peoples of the earth may know your Name and fear you, as do your people Israel, and may know that your name rests on this House which I have built.

⁴⁴ If your people go to war wherever you send them, and they pray to Yahweh in the direction of the city which you have chosen and the House which I have built for your Name, ⁴⁵ then from Heaven hear their prayers and supplications and defend their cause.

⁴⁶ If they sin against you (and there is no man who does not sin), and, in your anger, you deliver them to an enemy who takes them captive into enemy territory, whether near or far off; ⁴⁷ yet if, in the land where they have been carried captive, they sincerely repent and plead with you and say, "We have sinned and have acted wrongly and wickedly"; ⁴⁸ if they do repent with sincerity while in the land of their captors and pray to you turning towards the land which you gave to their fathers, the city which you have chosen, and the House which I have built for your Name; ⁴⁹ then hear from heaven, your dwelling place, their prayer and supplication and defend their cause. ⁵⁰ Forgive your people who have sinned against you; forgive all their offenses, and make their captors have compassion on them. ⁵¹ (For they are your people —your heritage which you brought out of Egypt from the midst of the iron furnace).

⁵² Open your eyes to the pleadings of your servant and to those of your people Israel, and listen to them whenever they call on you. ⁵³ For you took them from among all the peoples of the earth to be your heritage, as you declared through Moses your servant when you brought our fathers out of Egypt, O Yahweh God."

weh be with our God day and night. May he deal with me and with his people Israel each day according to what is right; ⁶⁰ in this way all the peoples of the earth may know that Yahweh is God and there is no other. ⁶¹ As for you, let your heart be wholly true to Yahweh our God, following his laws and keeping his commands as at this time."

⁶⁵ So at this time Solomon, together with a large assembly of Israelites that gathered from the entrance of Hamath to the Brook of Egypt, celebrated the festival before Yahweh for seven days. ⁶⁶ On the eighth day, Solomon dismissed the people.

After bidding farewell to the king, they went home rejoicing and happy because of all the kindness that Yahweh had shown to his servant David and to his people Israel.

Solomon's activities

9 ¹ After Solomon had finished building Yahweh's House, the royal palace, and everything he wanted to build, ² Yahweh appeared to him a second time, as he had appeared to him at Gibeon. ³ Yahweh said to him, "I have heard the prayer and supplication you made before me. I have consecrated this House you have built, that my Name may be there forever. My eyes and my heart will be there forever. ⁴ As for you, if you will live in my presence, the way your father David did, with sincerity and uprightness, doing all that I have commanded you and keeping my decrees and laws, ⁵ I will affirm your kingship in Israel forever, as I promised your father David when I said, 'You shall always have someone from your family on the throne of Israel.'

⁶ But if you or your children refuse to follow me, disobey my commands and laws which I have set before you; if they serve and worship other gods, ⁷ then I will cut off Israel from the land which I have given them and I will remove from my sight this House I have consecrated for my Name. Israel will become a proverb and a byword among all peoples. ⁸ Everyone passing by this House reduced to a heap of stones will be astonished and jeer: 'Why has Yahweh done such a thing to this land and to this House?' ⁹ Then people will answer: 'Because they abandoned Yahweh their God who brought their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and they followed other gods, worshipping and serving them. That is why Yahweh has brought all this evil on them.'"

¹⁵ This is the account of the forced labour which King Solomon ordered for the building of Yahweh's House and his own palace, the Millo as well as the wall of Jerusalem; the cities of Hazor, Megiddo and Gezer. ¹⁶ (Pharaoh king of Egypt had captured and burnt Gezer, putting to death the Canaanites who dwelt there. Then he had given the city as dowry to his daughter, Solomon's wife.) ¹⁷ So Solomon rebuilt Gezer, Lower Beth-horon, ¹⁸ Baalath and Tamar in the desert, in the land of Judah; ¹⁹ all the store-cities that Solomon had, the cities for his chariots and those for his horsemen; and whatever Solomon wanted to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon and in all the land of his dominion.

mains so to this day. ²² Of the people of Israel, however, Solomon made no slaves. These were the soldiers, his officials, his commanders, his captains, his chariot commanders and horsemen.

²³ The overseers of Solomon's work in charge of those who were working, were five hundred and fifty. ²⁴ When Pharaoh's daughter went up from the city of David to her own house that Solomon had built for her, he began building the Millo.

²⁵ After Solomon had finished the House, he came three times a year to offer up burnt offerings and peace offerings on the altar which he built to Yahweh, burning incense before Yahweh. ²⁶ King Solomon built a fleet of ships at Ezion-geber, near Elath on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom. ²⁷ Hiram sent his servants, seamen who were familiar with the sea, to serve in the fleet together with the servants of Solomon. ²⁸ They sailed for Ophir and brought back to King Solomon gold amounting to four hundred and twenty talents.

The queen of Sheba visits Solomon

◆ 10 ¹ The queen of Sheba heard about Solomon's fame, and she came to test him with difficult questions. ² She arrived in Jerusalem with a vast retinue and with camels loaded with spices, an abundance of gold and precious stones. When she came to Solomon, she told him all that she had on her mind ³ and Solomon answered all her questions. There was nothing that the king could not explain to her. ⁴ And when the queen of Sheba had seen all the wisdom of Solomon, the palace he had built, ⁵ the food on his table, the residence of his officials, the attendance of his servants and their clothing, his cupbearers, and the burnt offerings which he offered at ◆ Solomon undertakes business. He acquires a fleet of Tarshish ships for long journeys and he sends them to get gold and perfume from Africa. He sells Egyptian chariots to the Hittites in the north, and to the Egyptians, Hittite horses. The fame of his wealth and his wisdom reaches the queen of Sheba in the south of Arabia.

In reality, Israel was a very small people between the two big empires of Egypt and Babylon. Incidentally, during the period of David and Solomon, these empires were peaceful and practically asleep. This was enough to allow the Israelites to think that they were the first country of the world, and they saw in Solomon the most magnificent king of all times.

The Queen of Sheba came to test him with difficult questions. The Bible does not give:

Yahweh's House, she was left breathless.

⁶ Then she said to the king, "All that I heard in my own land concerning you and your wisdom was true. ⁷ But I did not believe the reports until I came and had seen with my own eyes. And what did I see! I was told only half the story; for your wisdom and wealth surpass the report I had heard.

⁸ Fortunate are your wives! Fortunate are your servants who are ever in your presence and hear your wisdom! ⁹ Blessed be Yahweh your God who has looked kindly on you and has put you on the throne of Israel! Because of Yahweh's eternal love for Israel, he has made you king so that you may dispense justice and righteousness."

¹¹ Moreover, the fleet of Hiram, which brought gold from Ophir, also brought from Ophir a huge amount of almug wood and precious stones.

¹² The king used the almug wood to make supports for Yahweh's House and the royal palace, and also to make lyres and harps for the singers. Such almug wood has never again been brought or seen to the present day.

¹³ King Solomon, in turn, gave the queen of Sheba all that she desired and all that he in his generosity wanted to give her. Then she went back to her own land together with her servants.

¹⁴ Now the weight of gold that Solomon received in one year was six hundred and sixty-six gold talents, ¹⁵ not counting those brought by traders, merchants, the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land. ¹⁶ King Solomon made two hundred large shields of beaten gold, six hundred shekels of gold going into each shield. ¹⁷ And he made three hundred shields of beaten gold with three minas of gold in each shield. And the king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. ¹⁸ The king also made a huge ivory throne and overlaid it with the finest gold. ¹⁹ The throne had six steps, a rounded back, and on each side of the seat were arm rests with two lions standing beside the arm rests. ²⁰ The six steps had twelve lions, one on each end of a step. Nothing like this was ever made in any kingdom. ²¹ All of King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold and none of silver, for silver was not considered of much value in the days of Solomon.

²³ King Solomon surpassed all the kings of the earth in wealth and wisdom. ²⁴ And the whole world sought much importance to the commercial aspect of this visit which will only appear toward the end in the barter mentioned in verses 10 and 13.

22, 22, 49; Eek 27, 12

Solomon's meeting with the Queen of Sheba becomes an historical scene:

- The wise Solomon and his people discover the wealth and products of other countries. "So the world is bigger than we thought!" These contacts help the Israelites gain a broader religious vision. Yahweh is not only the God of a small nation but is sovereign over the wide universe.
- The Queen of Sheba is a wealthy woman, but she is not satisfied. There is no mention of her husband. She is attracted by the divine wisdom manifested in the king. "The Beloved of Yahweh" (2 Sam 12:29). Jesus will recall this visit in Mt. 12:42.

o For a while, the Israelites marvelled at Solomon's wealth and the numerous chariots and horses that made up his army. Some centuries later, they saw how little this power had benefited them and how much it had cost the country: the politics of fame and of grandiose works demanded the imposition of forced labor on the people. This was one of the causes of the kingdom's split at the death of Solomon. This is why, afterwards, they ceased to recall with pride the splendour of his kingdom and showed greater appreciation for justice.

The believer who truly desires the prosperity of his nation, cannot be dazzled by illusions of grandeur. The Church will always denounce the sin involved in military expenses or in expenses meant solely to acquire fame. Everyone knows the world's military budget far exceeds that audience with Solomon to hear the wisdom which God had put into his mind. ²⁵Everyone who came brought a present of articles of silver and gold, garments, myrrh, spices, horses and mules, so much every year.

²⁶Solomon gathered together chariots and horses — fourteen hundred chariots and twelve thousand horses which he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. ²⁷The king made silver as common as stone in Jerusalem, and cedar as plentiful as sycamore in the lowland. ²⁸Solomon imported his horses from Musri and Kue and the king's traders got them from Kue for a fixed price. ²⁹A chariot could be imported from Musri for six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse for a hundred and fifty. They were exported in the same way to all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria.

Solomon's wives

+ 11 ¹King Solomon loved many foreign women besides the daughter of Pharaoh. There were Moabite, Ammonite, Edomite, Sidonian and Hittite women ²from nations about which Yahweh had commanded the Israelites, "You shall not marry them; nor shall they marry you, lest they win over your heart to their gods." Solomon, however, was deeply attached to them and loved them. ³He had seven hundred wives of royal birth, and three hundred concubines, and they won his heart.

⁴In Solomon's old age, his wives led him astray to serve other gods and, unlike his father David, his heart was no longer wholly given to Yahweh his God. ⁵For he served Astarte the goddess of the Sidonians, and Milcom, the idol of the Ammonites. ⁶He did what displeased Yahweh and, unlike his father David, was unfaithful to him. ⁷Solomon even built a high place for Chemosh, the idol of Moab, on the mountain east of Jerusalem and also for Molech, the idol of the Ammonites. ⁸He did the same for all his foreign wives who burned incense and sacrificed to their gods.

⁹Yahweh became angry with Solomon because his heart had turned away from Yahweh, the God of Israel. ¹⁰Yahweh appeared twice to him and commanded him not to follow other gods. But he did not obey Yahweh's command. ¹¹Therefore, Yahweh said to Solomon, "Since this has been your choice and you have kept neither my Covenant nor the statutes I commanded you, I will take the which would suffice to industrialize all countries.

+ The Bible is not scandalized at Solomon's having several wives. At that time, to have many wives was an indication of a man's wealth. The Bible rebukes him for taking pagan wives. He increased the number of his foreign wives and at the same time entered into an alliance with these people who did not know God, imitating them in their materialism.

Luxury corrupts wisdom. Solomon makes a show of his manliness, unaware of the fact that his wives are ordering him around. They demand and obtain temples for their gods. While Solomon maintains the magnificent cult of the Temple, the altars he built for the gods of his wives show that, in his heart, he too entertains false gods, i.e., he values and desires things which are not among the most important in God's eyes.

The people thought that the king blessed by Yahweh had to be surrounded with luxury and honours. Yet later the prophets would recall that power, wealth and luxury mute the heart of a ruler (Dt 17: 14). All peoples in the course of history have had the same experience. Even in the Church, for centuries the faithful thought it fitting that their bishops and popes assume the appearance of nobles, and we are still paying the consequences of that error.

You have not kept my covenant. (v. 11) Solomon's real sin consists in directing his life and his nation without seeking God's will. He lives like any other king and works out his own ambitions, thinking it is enough to ask Yahweh's blessings.

kingdom from you and give it to your servant. ¹²Nevertheless, I will not do this during your lifetime for the sake of your father David; I will take it from your son ¹³and even so I will not take it all, but I will reserve one tribe for your son for the sake of David my servant, and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen."

Solomon's enemies

¹⁴And Yahweh raised up an adversary against Solomon. This was Hadad, the Edomite of the royal house in Edom. ¹⁵Indeed, when David defeated Edom, and Joab the commander of the army went up to bury the slain, he slew every male in Edom. ¹⁶Joab and the scoundrels remained in the place for six months until he had destroyed every male in Edom. However Hadad, then still only a boy, fled to Egypt together with some Edomites, his father's servants. ¹⁷They left Midian for Paran, then taking along with them some of the men from Paran, they went on to Egypt to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who gave Hadad a house, promised him food and gave him land. ¹⁸Hadad pleased Pharaoh, who gave him as wife the sister of Queen Tahpenes, his own wife. ¹⁹The sister of Tahpenes bore him a son, Genubath whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's house, and who lived there together with Pharaoh's sons.

²⁰And so when Hadad heard in Egypt that David had slept with his fathers, and that Joab the commander of the army was also dead, he fled to Pharaoh. "Let me go back to my own country." ²¹Pharaoh asked him, "What have I not done that you want to leave for your own country?" But he answered him, "Please, let me go." And he came back to his land. He ruled over Edom and hated Israel.

²²God raised up another adversary in the person of Rezon son of Eliada, who had fled from his master Hadadezer king of Zobah. ²³Rezon gathered men around him and became the leader of a marauding band. After David fought them and killed some of them, they went to live in Damascus where they made him king. ²⁴He was an adversary of Israel during Solomon's lifetime.

Ahijah foretells the division of the kingdom

■ ²⁵Jeroboam also rebelled against the king. He was the son of Nebat, an Ephraimite of Zeredah; his mother Zeruiah had been left a widow and he was one of Solomon's officials. ²⁶This was the reason for his rebellion. Solomon was building the Millo and closing up the breach of the City of David his father, ²⁷when he noticed that Jeroboam was a man of great personal worth and an able worker, so he put him in charge of all the forced labour of the tribes of Joseph.

²⁸Once, when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, the prophet Ahijah of Shiloh found him on the road. The two of them were alone in the open country ²⁹when Ahijah, who had a new garment on, clutched and tore it into twelve pieces. ³⁰He then said to Jeroboam, "Take ten pieces for yourself for this is the word of Yahweh, the God of Israel:

"I am about to tear the kingdom from Solomon's hands ³¹to give you ten tribes. Only one tribe shall be left to him for the sake of my servant David and Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of

■ Jeroboam also rebelled against the king. In the last years of Solomon, several of his opponents stir up rebellions. Now appears the man who will take the greater part of the country from Solomon's son and definitely divide the people.

In the poem of the Tower of Babel (Gen 11), the division of the peoples was presented as the consequence of and punishment for arrogant ambitions. It will be the same for the Kingdom of Israel.

I will give you ten tribes. Israel counts twelve tribes. In reality, one could speak of two. In the south, there is Judah with its neighbour, Simeon, a very small group. In the north, there is Israel, heading the other tribes of lesser importance. After David united them, Absalom, and others after him, stimulated the desire for autonomy in the north. Solomon's dictatorship, which weighed more heavily on the northern tribes, prepared for the separation.

The prophet Ahijah says that Yahweh will divide the kingdom to punish Solomon. This is a way of speaking. Everyone prepares his own punishment and the division comes directly from the errors and sins of the king.

Israel. ³³For Solomon has forsaken me and worshipped Ashtarte, the goddess of the Sidonians, Chemosh the god of Moab, and Milcom the god of the Ammonites. Unlike his father David, he has not walked in my ways to do what is right before me and to keep my commandments and decisions.

³⁴Nevertheless, it is not from him, that I will take the kingdom. I will let him reign during his lifetime for the sake of David my servant whom I chose and who kept my commandments and statutes. ³⁵But I will take the kingship from his son's hand and make you king over ten tribes. ³⁶One tribe will be left for his son so that my servant David may always have a lamp before me in Jerusalem, the city where I have chosen to put my Name. ³⁷I will let you reign, over all you wish; you shall be king of Israel. ³⁸Now, if you obey all that I command you, follow me and do what is right in my eyes; if you keep my commandments and my statutes, as my servant David did, I will be with you and establish your family for a long time, as I did for David. I will entrust Israel to you ³⁹whereas the family of David will be humbled for a time."

⁴⁰Solomon wanted to kill Jeroboam, but Jeroboam took refuge in Egypt, with Shish-ak king of Egypt, where he remained until the death of Solomon.

⁴¹Now the rest of the events of Solomon's reign, his deeds and his wisdom, are written in the book of the acts of Solomon. ⁴²Solomon reigned over all Israel in Jerusalem for forty years. ⁴³Then he rested with his fathers and was buried in the city of David; Rehoboam his son reigned in his place.

The political schism, or division

◆ 12 ¹Rehoboam went to Shechem because all Israel had gathered there to make him king. ²When Jeroboam, son of Nebat, heard of this in Egypt where he had fled from King Solomon and where he still remained, he returned from Egypt. They called for him, and he came with all the assembly of Israel.

³The people of Israel went to Rehoboam with this demand, ⁴"Your father made our yoke heavy. So now lighten the heavy yoke and the hard labour your father imposed on us and we will serve you." ⁵Rehoboam, answered them, "Leave now but come back on the third day." And so the people went their way.

⁶King Rehoboam sought advice from the elderly counsellors who served his father Solomon while he was still alive, and he asked them, "How would you advise me to answer this people?" ⁷To this they replied, "If you attend to this people today making yourself their servant and speak to them with good words, they will serve you forever." ⁸But Rehoboam disregarded the advice of the old counsellors and asked the opinion of the greenhorns who had grown up with him and were in his service. ⁹He asked them, "What do you say we should answer this people who tell me 'Lighten the yoke which your father imposed on us'?" ¹⁰The greenhorns who had grown up with him answered, "Since these people said to you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, but you should now lighten it for us', tell them this: 'My little finger is thicker than my father's waist.' ¹¹My father laid a heavy yoke on you, but I will make it heavier yet. My father chastised you with whips, but I will fix iron points to the lashes."

¹²On the third day, Jeroboam together with the people went back to Rehoboam just as the king said, for he had said to them, "Come back on the third day." ¹³Ignoring the advice given him by the elderly counsellors, the king answered the people harshly in the way the greenhorns had advised him. He said, "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will make it even heavier. My father chastised you with whips, but I will fix iron points to the lashes." ¹⁵The king did not listen to the people. It was, indeed, Yahweh who brought about this fateful event, fulfilling the word he had spoken to Jeroboam, son of Nebat, through Ahijah the Shilonite.

¹⁶All Israel realized that the king refused to listen to them, and they answered the same way, "What have we to do with David? Is the son of Jesse from our tribes? Let the son of David deal with his own and you, people of Israel, go back to your homes!" And so the Israelites left for their homes. Only the Israelites who dwelt in the cities of Judah let Rehoboam reign over them.

¹⁸Rehoboam sent Adoram, taskmaster of the forced labour, but the Israelites stoned him to death and King Rehoboam had to mount his chariot and flee to Jerusalem. ¹⁹So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to the present time.

²⁰As Jeroboam had returned and was with them at the assembly, having been called by them, they made him king of Israel. And so, with the exception of the tribe of Judah, no one followed the house of David.

²¹When Rehoboam came to Jerusalem, he called together all the people of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin, numbering a hundred and eighty thousand select warriors, to fight against the people of Israel in a bid to restore the kingship of Rehoboam, son of Solomon. ²²But the word of God was directed to Shemaiah, the man of God, ²³"Give Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and all the people of Judah and Benjamin, and the rest of the people, this message from Yahweh: ²⁴You shall not go up to fight against your kinsmen, the Israelites. Let every man return to his home for I am the author of this." When they heard this word they went back home according to what Yahweh had ordered.

²⁵Jeroboam fortified Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim and lived there. Then, he set out to fortify Penuel.

The religious division

²⁶Jeroboam thought, "The kingdom could return to the house of David. ²⁷Should this people go up to offer sacrifices in Yahweh's House at Jerusalem, their heart would turn again to their master, Rehoboam king of Judah. They would kill me and go back to him."

²⁸And so the king sought advice and made two golden calves. Then he said to the people, "You have been going up to Jerusalem long enough. Here are your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt." ²⁹He put one of these in Bethel, the other in Dan. ³⁰And so Jeroboam made the people sin; the people went as far as Dan to accompany one of them.

³¹Jeroboam also built temples on high places, appointing priests who were not from the Levites. ³²Jer-

o The twelve tribes are united by the same religion, but Jeroboam realizes that his authority will be weak as long as the Israelites go up to Jerusalem to offer their sacrifices there. He ensures political separation through a schism, that is, a religious separation. He has a calf made to represent Yahweh in spite of the prohibition against making a representation of the invisible God and reducing him to the level of an animal.

In narrating the deeds of the kings of Israel in the north, the Bible constantly repeats: "They followed and committed the sin of Jeroboam."

Thus Scriptures emphasized the need to remain united to the centre which God established in Jerusalem. It is not enough to think: "We serve the same God," "We serve in our own way."

Jeroboam is the model of other rulers who, much later, tried to establish national churches: in England, at the time of the Reformation; in France, after the Revolution; in China and socialist countries, after a communist revolution. Many Catholics were persecuted and died for remaining faithful to the only Church which ought to be Catholic, or universal.

oboam also appointed a feast on the fifteenth day of the eighth month in imitation of the feast in Judah, and he himself offered sacrifices on the altar. This he did in Bethel and sacrificed to the calves that he had made; there he placed priests for the high places he had made. ³³On the fifteenth day of the eighth month, the month which he had arbitrarily chosen, he ordained a feast for the Israelites and went up to the altar to burn incense.

Story of Judah's man of God

+13 ¹A man of God, came out of Judah following a command of Yahweh, and he arrived at Bethel while Jeroboam was standing by the altar to burn incense. ²The man shouted, cursing the altar, "O altar, altar, thus says Yahweh: There shall be born to the family of David a son by the name of Josiah. He shall sacrifice on you the priests of the high places who burn incense on you; and human bones shall be burned on you."

³And at once the man gave a sign. He said, "This is the proof that Yahweh has spoken. The altar shall be torn down and the ashes on it shall be poured out."

⁴When the king heard the man of God shouting and cursing the altar of Bethel, he stretched out his hand from the altar and said, "Arrest him!" ⁵Immediately the hand which he pointed out against the man dried up and he could not draw it back. The altar itself crumbled and the ashes poured out from it according to the sign that had been given.

⁶ And so the king said to the man of God, "Entreat now the favor of Yahweh your God and pray for me so that my hand may be restored." The man of God entreated Yahweh and the king's hand was restored as it was before.

⁷The king then said to the man of God, "Come home with me and refresh yourself. I will give you a reward." ⁸But the man of God answered the king, "Even if you give me half your house, I will not go in with you; nor will I eat or drink in this place, for this was commanded me by Yahweh. ⁹He precisely said to me: You shall neither eat bread nor drink water, nor return by the way you came." ¹⁰And the man did not return by the way he had come to Bethel, but he went another way.

¹¹Now there was an old prophet, living in Bethel, and his sons came to tell him what the man of God had done on that day in Bethel, and everything he had said to the king. ¹²Their father then asked them, "Which way did he go?", and they told him which way the man of God from Judah had taken. ¹³He then said to his sons, "Saddle the ass for me"; and they did so. ¹⁴He mounted the ass and went after the man of God whom he found sitting under the Oak.

He asked him, "Are you the man of God who came from Judah?" ¹⁵Come home with me and eat bread." ¹⁶The prophet from Judah answered, "I may neither return nor go in with you; nor will I eat or drink with you, ¹⁷for this was the command of Yahweh: You shall neither eat bread nor drink water there, nor shall you return by the way + Obedience is worth more than sacrifice. (1 Sam 15:22) Such was Yahweh's word when he renounced Saul in some similar circumstances.

The present text highlights various aspects of true obedience which pleases God very much:

- In the name of Yahweh. The prophet comes from Judah, in the name of religious unity, and condemns Jeroboam in Bethel where he has built an illicit sanctuary.
- His hand dried up. Jeroboam's authority is no match for him who carries out Yah-you come." ¹⁸ But the old prophet from Bethel said to him: "I am also a prophet as you are; and an angel told me on behalf of Yahweh: Bring him back with you into your house that he may eat bread and drink water." ¹⁹ The old prophet in fact, was lying. And so the man of God went back with him and ate and drank in his house.

²⁰ As they sat at table, the word of Yahweh came to the prophet who had brought him back. ²¹ And he said in a loud voice to the man of God who came from Judah, "Thus says Yahweh: You have disobeyed me and have not observed the command I gave you. ²² Instead, you have come back and eaten and drunk although I told you not to eat bread or drink water. Because of this, your body shall not be laid in the tomb of your fathers."

²³ After he had eaten and drunk, the old prophet who had brought him back saddled the ass for him and the prophet from Judah went away. ²⁴ But a lion met him on the road and killed him. His body was thrown on the road with the lion beside it. ²⁵ People who passed by saw the body thrown on the road with the lion standing by; and they reported this in the city where the old prophet lived.

²⁶ When the prophet heard of this, he said, "It is the man of God who disobeyed the word of Yahweh. Yahweh has delivered him to the lion which has torn and slain him just as Yahweh had told him." ²⁷ Then he said to his sons, "Saddle the ass for me." ²⁸ They saddled it and he went and found the body thrown on the road with the ass and the lion standing beside it. ²⁹ The lion had neither eaten the body nor torn the ass. And so the prophet took up the body of the man of God, laid it on the ass and brought it back to the city to mourn and to bury him. ³⁰ He laid the body in his own grave and they mourned over him with the lament, "Alas, my brother!"

³¹ After that the old prophet said to his sons, "When I die, bury me in the grave where the man of God is buried and lay my bones beside his bones."

³² For everything he said, at Yahweh's command, cursing the altar in Bethel and all the sanctuaries of the high places in the cities of Samaria will be fulfilled."

³³ After this, however, Jeroboam did not abstain from doing evil. Instead he made priests for the high places from among the people; he consecrated anyone who wanted to be a priest for the high places. ³⁴ And this became the sin of the family of Jeroboam for which it was to be cut off and destroyed from the face of the earth.

Ahijah's prophecy against Jeroboam

■ 14 ¹ At that time, Abijah, son of Jeroboam, fell ill. ² So the king told his wife. "Go, disguise yourself so that no one may recognize you as Jeroboam's wife. Go to Shiloh where you will find Ahijah the prophet who foretold that I would be king over this people. ³ Take with you ten loaves, a few cakes, and a jar of honey. Enter his house and he will tell you what shall happen to the child."

weh's order.

- You have disobeyed me. The prophet himself dies for having disobeyed Yahweh's first order: when his colleague tried to deceive him, he should have remained firm, knowing that God does not change his orders.

■ Ahijah's words announce the first coup d'état in the history of Israel. There will be many others and, each time, the relatives and sons of the one overthrown will be killed. Following this episode is the history of the two kingdoms during their first fifty years.

⁴Jeroboam's wife did as she was told and left for Shiloh. She entered the house of Ahijah who was now so old that he could not see.

⁵But Yahweh had told Ahijah, "Jeroboam's wife is coming to consult you about her sick son, and this is what you must tell her. Besides, she will be coming in disguise." ⁶And so when Ahijah heard the sound of her footsteps, as she entered the door, he said, "Come in, wife of Jeroboam. Why have you disguised yourself? I have been told to give you unpleasant news." ⁷Go, therefore, bring Jeroboam this message of Yahweh, the God of Israel: "I took the kingdom from David's family to give it to you. Yet you have not been like my servant David, who kept my commands and followed me with his whole heart, only doing what was pleasing to me. ⁸You have done worse than anyone before you. You made me angry with your strange gods and the images you have made; and you have forsaken me.

⁹Now, I shall bring disaster on the family of Jeroboam. I will cut off every male in Jeroboam's line, whether slave or freeman in Israel, and I will wipe out the descendants of Jeroboam just as they wipe out the dung till all is gone. ¹⁰He who dies in the city will be devoured by dogs; he who dies in the field, by the birds of the sky. So Yahweh has spoken!

¹¹Leave now, and go back home! As soon as you enter the city, the child will die. ¹²All Israel will mourn for him and bury him. He alone of Jeroboam's line will be buried, for in him alone has Yahweh, the God of Israel, found something good. ¹³Yahweh himself will raise up for himself a king of Israel; it is he who will destroy Jeroboam's family.

¹⁴Yahweh will strike Israel like a reed tossed about in the water and root them out from this good land which he gave to their ancestors. He will scatter them beyond the river Euphrates because they made him angry with the sacred poles they set up. ¹⁵Yahweh will scatter Israel because of the sins Jeroboam has committed and by which he dragged Israel into sin."

¹⁶So Jeroboam's wife went home. On her arrival at Tirzah and as soon as she crossed the threshold of her house, the child died. ¹⁷The child was buried and all Israel mourned over him just as Yahweh had prophesied through his servant the prophet Ahijah.

Rehoboam, king of Judah

¹⁸The rest of the acts of Jeroboam, his achievements in war and his reign, are recorded in the Book of Chronicles of the kings of Israel. ¹⁹Jeroboam reigned for twenty years. When he rested with his fathers, his son Nadab succeeded him as king.

²⁰As for Rehoboam, son of Solomon, he was forty-one when he began to reign over Judah. He reigned for seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which Yahweh chose, out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his Name there. His mother Naamah was an Ammonite.

²⁷The rest of the events of Rehoboam's reign including his deeds, are all written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah.

¹¹ There was incessant war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. ¹² Then Rehoboam rested with his fathers and was buried with his ancestors in the City of David. His mother Naamah was an Ammonite. His son Abijam succeeded him as king.

Abijam, king of Judah

[15] ¹ In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, son of Nebat, Abijam became king of Judah ² and reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Maacah, daughter of Abishalom. ³ He imitated all the sins his father had committed before him and, unlike his ancestor David, was not wholly faithful to Yahweh, his God. ⁴ Yet Yahweh had promised David that he would keep his camp burning in Jerusalem; he would raise his descendants after him and establish Jerusalem. ⁵ This was because David had pleased Yahweh and did not disobey any of his commands as long as he lived except in the case of Uriah the Hittite. ⁶⁻⁷ The rest of the events of Abijam's reign and everything he did are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah. ⁸ When Abijam rested with his fathers, he was buried in the city of David, and his son Asa reigned in his place.

Asa, king of Judah

Ben-hadad, son of Tabrimmon, son of Hezion, king of Syria who reigned in Damascus. ¹⁹ He sent him this message, "Let us together make a treaty just as my father and yours did. I am sending you silver and gold, so please break your treaty with Baasha, king of Israel that he may withdraw from my territory."

²⁰ Ben-hadad acceded to king Asa's request and sent his officers to harass the cities of Israel, capturing Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah, all the land of Chinneroth and the region of Naphtali. ²¹ On hearing this, Baasha stopped the fortification of Ramah and moved to Tirzah where he lived. ²² Then king Asa issued an order to all of Judah, excluding no one, to take away the stones and timber which Baasha had been using to fortify Ramah. With these materials, king Asa built Geba of Benjamin and Mizpah. ²³ The rest of Asa's reign, his bravery, his deeds and the cities which he built are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah. In his old age, Asa suffered from a foot disease. ²⁴ Asa then rested with his fathers and was buried in the City of David his ancestor. His son Jehoshaphat reigned in his place.

Nadab and Baasha, kings of Israel

²⁵ Nadab, son of Jeroboam, began to reign over Israel in the second year of Asa, king of Judah. ²⁶ He reigned over Israel for two years, doing what displeased Yahweh and dragging Israel into sin as his father had done.

²⁷ Baasha, son of Ahijah of the family of Issachar, plotted against him and struck him down at Gibbethon of the Philistines when Nadab and the Israelites were laying siege to this city. ²⁸ Baasha killed Nadab in the third year of Asa king of Judah and reigned in his place. ²⁹ As soon as he was king, he killed off the entire family of Jeroboam, leaving him no one alive but wiping them out according to the word which Yahweh had spoken through his servant Ahijah, the Shilonite. ³⁰ This happened because of Jeroboam who aroused the anger of Yahweh, the God of Israel by sinning and dragging Israel into sin.

³³ In the third year of Asa king of Judah, Baashah, son of Ahijah, began to reign over all Israel at Tirzah where he reigned for twenty-four years. ³⁴ He did what displeased Yahweh and sinned just as Jeroboam who dragged Israel into sin had done.

16 ¹Yahweh spoke to Jehu, son of Hanani, to condemn Baasha; he said, ²"I have raised you from the dust to make you rule over my people Israel, but you made me angry by going the way of Jeroboam and dragging my people Israel into sin. ³I will therefore sweep away Baasha and his family and deal with them as I did with Jeroboam, son of Nebat. ⁴Dogs will devour those of Baasha's line who die in the City, the birds of the air will feed on those who die in the country."

⁵The rest of the events of Baasha's reign, his deeds and achievements are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

⁶Baasha rested with his fathers and was buried at Tirzah while Elah, his son reigned in his place. ⁷Yahweh indeed spoke through the prophet Jehu, son of Hanani, to condemn Baasha and his family, not only for doing what displeased Yahweh, making him angry as Jeroboam had done, but also because he murdered the family of Jeroboam.

Elah, king of Israel

⁸In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah, Elah, son of Baasha, began to reign over Israel in Tirzah and was king for two years. ⁹But his servant Zimri, commander of half his chariots, plotted against him. While Elah was getting himself drunk in the house of Arza, governor of Tirzah, ¹⁰Zimri came in, struck him down and killed him. This happened in the twenty-seventh year of Asa, king of Judah. Then Zimri reigned in his place.

¹¹As soon as Zimri began to reign, he had the entire family of Baasha killed, leaving him not a single male relative or friend. ¹²Zimri wiped out the entire house of Baasha according to Yahweh's pronouncement against him as spoken by Jehu, the prophet. ¹³And this happened because of the sins which Baasha and his son had committed, dragging Israel into sin and making Yahweh angry with their idols. ¹⁴Now the rest of the events of Elah's reign and all his deeds are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Omri, king of Israel

¹⁵It happened in the twenty-seventh year of Asa, king of Judah, that Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah. ¹⁶For the army was besieging Gibbethon of the Philistines when Zimri plotted against Elah, and, on hearing that he killed the king, they proclaimed Omri, commander of the army, king of Israel. ¹⁷Omri went up with the Israelites from Gibbethon and attacked Tirzah. ¹⁸When Zimri saw that the city was to be captured, he went into the citadel of the royal palace where he was to die; he set the royal palace on fire, and he himself was burned. ¹⁹So he died because of the sins which he committed, doing what displeased Yahweh and going the way of Jeroboam and dragging Israel into sin. ²⁰The rest of the acts of Zimri and his plot are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

²¹The Israelites were then divided; half of them followed Tibni, son of Ginath to make him king; the other half followed Omri. ²²Those who followed Omri overcame those who followed Tibni, son of Ginath. And so, Tibni died and Omri became king. ²³In the thirty-first year of Asa, king of Judah, Omri began to reign over Israel. He reigned for twelve years, six years of which he reigned in Tirzah. ²⁴Then he bought the hill of Samaria from Shemer for two talents of silver. He built a city on the hill and called it Samaria, after Shemer, the owner of the hill.

²⁵Omri did what displeases Yahweh, even more than all those who preceded him. ²⁶He went the way off Jeroboam, son of Nebat, and dragged Israel into sin, thereby provoking the anger of Yahweh, the God of Israel, by their idols. ²⁷The rest of the acts of Omri and his bravery are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. ²⁸Then Omri rested with his fathers and was buried in Samaria while Ahab, his son, reigned in his place.

to live by the brook Cherith, east of the Jordan. ⁶ There the ravens brought him bread in the morning and meat in the evening; and he drank from the brook.

The widow of Zarephath

+ ⁷ After a while, the brook dried up because no rain had fallen in the land. ⁸ Then Yahweh spoke to Elijah, ⁹ "Go to Zarephath of the Sidonites and stay there. I have given word to a widow there to give you food." ¹⁰ So Elijah went to Zarephath. On reaching the gate of the town, he saw a widow gathering sticks. He called to her and said, "Bring me a little water in a vessel that I may drink."

¹¹ As she was going to bring it, he called after her and said, "Bring me also a piece of bread." ¹² But she answered, "As Yahweh your God lives, I have no bread left but only a handful of flour in a jar and a little oil in a jug. I am just now gathering some sticks so that I may go in and prepare something for myself and my son to eat – and die."

¹³ Elijah then said to her, "Do not be afraid. Go and do as you have said, but first make me a little cake of it and bring it to me; then make some for yourself and your son. ¹⁴ For this is the word of Yahweh, the God of Israel. 'The jar of meal shall not be emptied nor shall the jug of oil fail until the day when Yahweh sends rain to the earth.'"

¹⁵ So she went and did as Elijah told her; and she had food for herself, Elijah and her son from that day on. ¹⁶ The jar of flour was not emptied nor did the jug of oil fail in accordance with what Yahweh said through Elijah.

The widow's son raised to life

■ ¹⁷ After this, the son of this housewife became ill. And such was his illness that he stopped breathing. ¹⁸ She then said to Elijah, "What did you do, O man of God? Have you come to uncover past sins and cause my son's death?" ¹⁹ He answered, "Give me your son."

see James 5:17 where Elijah is presented as a model of faith.

There will be neither dew nor rain. Of course, drought is a natural event. But God, without directly intervening at every moment, arranges events. The faith of the believer is a force, like the physical laws of the universe, and when we ask of God the impossible, confident that he himself wants to give it, he is not without the means to make this happen.

The people consider the Baals as gods of rain and nature. The drought that comes will show them that Yahweh, God of hosts, is also God of creation.

Elijah begins his mission as a prophet by attacking the greatest disorder: failing to place God above all.

+ Go to Zarephath. The drought harms everybody, including Elijah who had asked God for this sign. But for the believer, the very plague is an opportunity to experience that the heavenly Father does not abandon him.

I have given word to a widow to give you food. The prophet will receive his food, and he will also get comfort from God through discovering this believing woman. the poor widow has something to give the great prophet, and this is a grace for both of them.

Bring me a little water is a first step. Bring me a piece of bread. Elijah tests her faith: "First you shall make me a little bread," and the widow gives him this. This widow is similar to the one whom Jesus praises in Mk 12:41.

The jar of meal will not be emptied. God rewards this kind of faith which goes to the extent of risking everything one possesses.

■ This is the first resurrection we encounter in the Bible.

God usually directs the world and his Church through the natural process of things, by the effect of the laws of nature which he himself established. But he also reserves to himself the right to make exceptions to these laws sometimes: the water changes into wine, the bread is multiplied.

Have you come to uncover past sins, man of God? The death of her only son is enough to arouse in the poor woman the unfounded fear of those who see God as an accuser who spies on people to punish them. She thinks that the ried him up to the upper room where he was staying and laid him on his own bed. ²¹Then he called on Yahweh, "O Yahweh, my God, are you afflicting even the widow with whom I am residing and letting her son die?" Then he stretched himself on the child three times and called on Yahweh, "O Yahweh, my God, let this child's breath return to him." ²²Yahweh listened to the pleading of Elijah and the child's breath returned to him, and he lived. ²³Elijah then took the child and brought him down from the upper room. He gave him to his mother and said, "See, your son is alive."

²⁴Then the woman said to Elijah, "Now I am certain that you are a man of God, and that your words really came from Yahweh."

18 ¹After several days (in the third year) Yahweh spoke to Elijah and said, "Go, show yourself to Ahab that I may let it rain on the earth." ²So Elijah went to show himself to Ahab.

³Now the famine in Samaria was severe. Ahab therefore called Obadiah who was in charge of the household. ⁴(Obadiah was a faithful servant of Yahweh and when Jezebel slew the prophets of Yahweh he himself took a hundred prophets and hid them by fifties in caves, feeding them with bread and water.) ⁵Then Ahab told Obadiah, "Go and check all the watersprings and the valleys through the land; look for grass so that the horses and mules may be kept alive and not perish." ⁶So Ahab and Obadiah divided the land between them and each of them went his own way.

⁷As Obadiah was going his way, Elijah met him. Recognizing Elijah, Obadiah fell on his face and said, "Is that you, my master Elijah?" "He answered him, "It is I. Go tell your master that I am here." ⁹But Obadiah replied, "What evil have I done that you expose me to Ahab's anger? Surely you want me to die." ¹⁰By Yahweh, your God, there is no people or nation where my master has not searched for you and if they said, 'Elijah is not here', he would make them take an oath that they had not found you. ¹¹Yet now as soon as I leave to inform Ahab of your presence, ¹²the Spirit of Yahweh will transport your goodness elsewhere, and when Ahab fails to find you, he will kill me. But I have served Yahweh from my youth. ¹³Do you not know that when Jezebel had the prophets of Yahweh killed, I hid a hundred of them in two caves and fed them with bread and water? ¹⁴Now if I notify Ahab of your presence, as you want me to do, he will surely kill me!"

¹⁵But Elijah said to him, "By Yahweh of hosts whom I serve, I will show myself to him today." ¹⁶So Obadiah went to give Ahab this message and Ahab came to meet Elijah.

The sacrifice at Carmel

◆ ¹⁷On seeing Elijah, Ahab said to him, "Is it you, the plague of Israel?" ¹⁸Elijah replied, "Who is troubling Israel? Isn't it you and your family who have disobeyed the commands of Yahweh and followed instead the prophet's presence has attracted Yahweh's attention to her house and that he is punishing her with this grief.

He stretched himself three times on the child. In this gesture of the prophet, who communicates life with his own breath, who would fail to recognize Christ who comes to unite himself closely with humanity to communicate to it the power of resurrection?

Yahweh heard Elijah's voice. Elijah is the man chosen to reverse a desperate situation and to upset all human foresight. Yahweh allows him to resuscitate the widow's son and, a little later on Mt. Carmel, he will let him resuscitate the faith of his people.

◆ The sacrifice on Mt. Carmel is one of God's great manifestations in the Old Testament. Yahweh takes the initiative to stir up an indifferent people.

Baal or Yahweh. The people do not see clearly the difference between the two. They consider them as two powers or persons endowed with different capabilities but equally useful. Yahweh is God of the race, a sure help in combat. While Baal is at the service of the peasant: through offerings and feasts, they ask him for rain.

For how long will you follow two ways at the same time? Elijah obliges the Israelites to make a decision. The believer should not have two masters:

- God or money (Mt 6:24)
- For Christ or against him (Mt 12:30).
- Cooperating member of the Church or part of a lukewarm audience whom God will one day vomit out of his mouth (Rv. 3:6).

The true God is the one who answers with Baals? ¹⁹ Now, therefore, give an order for the Israelites to gather before me at Mount Carmel, together with the four hundred and fifty prophets of Asherah who are sustained by Jezebel."

²⁰ So Ahab sent for all the people of Israel and gathered them together at Mount Carmel. ²¹ Then Elijah addressed the people and asked, "How long will you follow two ways at the same time? If Yahweh is God, follow him; but if Baal is God then follow him." The people remained silent.

²⁵ Then Elijah told the prophets of Baal, "Choose for yourselves one bull and prepare it first, for you are many. Then call on the name of your god lest you are left without fire!" ²⁶ So they took the bull and prepared it, and they called on the name of Baal, "Baal, answer us!" But there was no voice and no one answered them while they went on dancing on one foot around the altar they had built.

²⁷ By noontime, Elijah began to mock them, "Shout out louder. Baal is a busy god; or he may have gone out or perhaps he has gone on a trip, or he is sleeping and must be awakened."

²⁸ So they shouted louder gashing their skin with knives, as they are used to doing, until they bled. ²⁹ It was already past noon and they were still raving on until the time of the evening offering. But still there was no voice; no one answered or gave a sign of life.

³⁰ Then Elijah said to the people, "Draw closer to me", and the people drew closer to him. He then repaired the altar of Yahweh which had been thrown down. ³¹ He took twelve stones corresponding to the number of tribes of the sons of Jacob whom Yahweh had addressed saying, "Israel shall be your name." ³² With these stones, he built an altar to the Name of Yahweh and dug a trench around it that would contain about thirty liters. ³³ He then arranged the firewood, cut the bull in pieces and laid them on the wood. Then, he said, "Fill four jars with water and pour it on the burnt offering and on the firewood." ³⁴ He said, "Do it again"; and they did it fire. This will be the sign: the fire that destroys, purifies, transforms; the fire that effects the consecration of the sacrificial victims to God. Israel also needs to be transformed "by fire," and later with Jesus, we shall be baptized, or rather purified and renewed "through fire and the Holy Spirit." (See Lk 3:16).

They called on Baal but there was no response. We who read about Elijah's mockery of Baal, are we convinced that God answers and hears our prayer? God is not obliged to satisfy all our desires, but we have the obligation to ask him in such a way and with such perseverance that he will manifest proofs of his presence among us.

You are the one who brings them back to you. The fire, the miracle, the rain has no other purpose: Yahweh loves Israel and wants to awaken their love once more. He does not want to frighten them or make them marvel, but rather to make this people discover that God lives and is concerned about searching them out.

The victory of Carmel is Yahweh's victory. It is also Elijah's victory. God needs man and saves by means of man. We are shocked at the massacre that follows; but Elijah lived in a violent world where death was the normal lot of those conquered, and his thinking was in accordance with those times.

Besides, this brutal punishment teaches us: that to lose one's life is not as serious as to lose oneself serving false values, deceiving oneself and deceiving everyone.

again: "one more time," and they did it a third time. ³⁵ The water ran around the altar and filled the trench.

³⁶ When the time of the evening offering came, Elijah the prophet came near and said, "O Yahweh, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, let it be known today that you are God in Israel and that I am your servant, doing all these things at your command." ³⁷ Answer me, O Yahweh, answer me so that this people may know that you, O Yahweh, are God and that you have brought them back to you."

³⁸ Then the fire of Yahweh fell and consumed the burnt offering, together with the wood, the stones also, and the dust, the water also dried up in the trench.

³⁹ The people then fell on their faces and said, "Yahweh is God! Yahweh is God!" ⁴⁰ Then Elijah commanded them, "Seize the prophets of Baal and let none of them escape." And so they seized them. Then Elijah brought them down to the book Kidron and had them slaughtered there.

⁴¹ Elijah then said to Ahab, "Go up, eat and drink, for the sound of rain is rushing in." ⁴² So Ahab went up to eat and drink. Elijah, in the meantime, went to the top of Carmel, bowed to the ground and put his face between his knees. ⁴³ Then he said to his servant, "Go up and look in the direction of the sea." The man went up, looked, and said, "There is nothing." Then Elijah said, "Go again and do it seven times." ⁴⁴ At the seventh time, he perceived a little cloud, the size of a man's hand, rising out of the sea. Elijah told him, "Go, tell Ahab: Prepare your chariot and go down before the rain stops you." ⁴⁵ A little later the sky grew dark with clouds and wind and a strong rain fell. Ahab was weeping and riding on his way to Jezreel; ⁴⁶ as for Elijah, the hand of Yahweh was on him, and tucking his cloak in his belt, he ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel.

Elijah flees to Horeb

19 ¹ Ahab told Jezebel everything Elijah had done and how he had slain all the prophets with the sword. ² Jezebel then sent word to Elijah, "May I be cursed if by this time tomorrow I have not dealt with you as you dealt with them."

³ Elijah was scared and fled for his life. He reached Beer-sheba of Judah and left his servant there. ⁴ He himself disappeared into the desert going on a day's journey. Then he sat down under a broom tree and prayed to die, "That is enough, Yahweh, take away my life for I am worn out."

⁵ He lay down and went to sleep under the broom tree. Then an angel touched him and said, "Get up and eat." ⁶ Elijah looked and saw, at his

o Elijah was scared and fled for his life. Thus, the miracle does not miraculously solve the problems of faith. The conversion of the people will be a long and painful work.

We can see on the map how Elijah crossed the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah from north to south. Carmel is 250 kilometers from Beer-sheba, the last town before the desert, south of Judah.

The journey is too long for you. Elijah only looks for the entrance to the desert to save himself, but God brings him much farther. He is given a mysterious bread which recalls the manna of the Hebrews in the desert and foretells the eucharistic bread which Jesus will give for our spiritual journey (Jn 6:8).

He walked forty days and forty nights (See Ex 24:18). Elijah goes to encounter Yahweh. Jesus himself will go to the desert as a necessary proof and we, too, at certain moments need "to go to the desert" (sometimes God himself puts us in the desert: Hos 2:16). Elijah's lone journey announces the itinerary which those who seek God have to undertake. Howmuchsoever we need the support of our spouse, of our companions, of the Church, each one makes his own journey, and God calls him personally to seek this encounter with him.

head, a cake baked on hot stones and a jar of water. He ate and drank and went back to sleep. ⁷The angel of Yahweh came a second time to him, saying, "Get up and eat, for the journey is too long for you." ⁸He got up, ate and drank, and on the strength of that food, he travelled for forty days and forty nights to Horeb, the mount of God.

The encounter with God

■ ⁹On reaching the place, he came to the cave and stayed in it. Then the word of Yahweh came to him, "What are you doing here, Elijah?" ¹⁰He answered, "I am burning with jealous love for Yahweh, the God of Hosts, because the Israelites have forsaken your covenant, thrown down your altars, and slain your prophets with the sword. No one is left but myself and they are still trying to kill me as well." ¹¹Then Yahweh said, "Go up and stand on the mount, waiting for Yahweh." And Yahweh passed.

There was first a storm of wind, wild wind which rent the mountains and broke the rocks into pieces before Yahweh, but Yahweh was not in the wind. ¹²After the storm, an earthquake, but Yahweh was not in the earthquake. After the earthquake, a fire, but Yahweh was not in the fire. After the fire, the murmur of a gentle breeze. ¹³When Elijah perceived it, he covered his face with his cloak, went out and stood at the entrance of the cave.

Then he heard a voice addressing him again, "What are you doing here, Elijah?" ¹⁴He answered, "I am burning with jealous love for Yahweh, the God of hosts, because the Israelites have forsaken your covenant, thrown down your altars and slain your prophets with the sword. No one is left but myself, yet they still seek my life to take it away."

¹⁵Yahweh said to him, "Take the road back through the desert and go to Damascus for you must anoint Hazael as king of Syria; ¹⁶you shall also anoint Jehu, son of Minshi, as king over Israel; and Elisha, son of Shaphat, from Abelmehrah, you shall anoint a prophet in your place. ¹⁷Whoever escapes from the sword of Hazael will be slain by Jehu and whoever escapes from the sword of Jehu, ■ Thus Elijah arrives at Horeb: it is the other name of Sinai, where Yahweh revealed himself to Moses four centuries earlier.

Go up waiting for Yahweh. To him who is afire with a jealous love for God. God manifests his tenderness beyond all that man can imagine. Thus, Yahweh reveals himself in the gentle breeze more than in the hurricane or the earthquake.

What are you doing here, Elijah? First, God asks a question and obliges the prophet to discover the depth of his heart. But there is nothing in Elijah but his jealous love for Yahweh. Yahweh, in turn, reveals his infallible plans.

Hazael, Jehu, Elisha. Yahweh tells Elijah about the future of Israel with all its tragic truth: the Kingdom, gloriously begun with David and Solomon, is destined to disappear. This will be the result of the people's disobedience.

- Jezebel, king of Syria, is the enemy king who will conquer and humiliate Israel.
- Jehu will destroy Ahab's family and annihilate the worshippers of Baal.

- Elisha will transmit the menacing words of Yahweh.

Nevertheless, Israel will not totally disappear, for God reserves a Remnant, expressed in symbolic form by 7,000 men who have not knelt before Baal.

This revelation clarifies the mission of the prophets of the Bible. The majority of them, and the greatest among them, lived during the three centuries in which Israel passed from the glory of Solomon to the Exile. So the prophets:

- tried to hold back the infidelity of the chosen people who were heading to their ruin.
- called for inner conversion, that of the heart.
- taught the marvelous future which God had reserved for the "Remnant" of Israel after the destruction of their material kingdom in the land of Palestine.

Elisha will let him die. ¹⁸ Yet I will spare seven thousand in Israel who have not knelt before Baal and whose lips have not kissed him."

+ ¹⁹ So Elijah left. He found Elisha, son of Shaphat, who was ploughing a field of twelve acres and was at the end of the twelfth acre. Elijah passed by him and cast his cloak over him. ²⁰ Elisha left the oxen, ran after Elijah and said, "Let me say goodbye to my father and mother; then I will follow you." Elijah said to him, "Return if you want, don't worry about what I did." ²¹ However, Elisha took the yoke of oxen and slew them. He roasted their meat on the pieces of the yoke and gave it to his people who ate of it. After this, he followed Elijah and began ministering to him.

The siege of Samaria

20 ¹ Ben-hadad, king of Aram, gathered together his entire army. With him were thirty-two kings. With horses and chariots, he went to Samaria and besieged it. ² He then sent messengers into the city to Ahab, king of Israel, and said to him, "Thus says Ben-hadad: ³ Your silver and gold are mine and so are your fairest wives and children." ⁴ The king of Israel answered, "As you say, my master, O king, I am yours with all that I possess." ⁵ Again Benhadad sent messengers to say, "I sent this message to you: 'Hand over to me your silver and gold, along with your wives and children,' but now I will send my servants to you tomorrow about this time. They shall search your house and those of your officials and take with them whatever they want to take."

⁷ Then the king of Israel summoned all the elders of the land and said, "Look now and see how this man acts with evil intentions. He will send his officers to take my wives and children, and my silver and gold, although I agreed to deliver all to him." ⁸ The elders and the people said to him, "Pay no attention to him and do not agree to what he asks." ⁹ So the king of Israel told Ben-hadad's messengers, "Tell my master, the king, I will do everything you first demanded of me, but now it is too much." The messengers left and reported this to ¹⁰ Ben-hadad who then answered, "May I be cursed if enough dust remains of Samaria to give a handful to all the people who follow me." ¹¹ But the king of Israel answered, "Let not he who puts on his armour boast like one who takes it off." ¹² Ben-hadad was drinking with the kings in the booths when he heard this message. So he said to his officers, "Take your positions." And they took their positions against the city.

¹³ Then a prophet approached Ahab, king of Israel and said, "Have you seen this immense crowd? This is the word of Yahweh: I will deliver it into your hands today and you shall know that I am Yahweh." ¹⁴ Ahab asked, "Who is to win over him?" The prophet replied, "The guards of the governors of the districts, for this is Yahweh's order." Again the king asked, "Who shall begin the battle?" He replied, "You!"

¹⁵ And so the king of Israel mustered the guards of the governors of the districts, numbering two hundred and thirty-two. After that, he mustered all the Israelites, numbering seven thousand.

¹⁶ They set out at noon while Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the booths together with the thirty-two kings who helped him. ¹⁷ The guards of the governors of the districts went out first. Someone reported to Ben-hadad, "People are crying out from Samaria." ¹⁸ He said, "If they have come out for peace, take them alive; if for war, take them alive as well."

²² Then the prophet came again to the king of Israel and said to him, "Courage, be on your guard and ponder well your next action, for next year the king of Aram will come up against you."

+ Elijah passed by Elisha and cast his cloak over him. He calls him in the same way as Jesus will call his apostles: "Follow me." Perhaps Elijah interprets the answer, "Let me embrace my parents," as a hesitation on Elisha's part to leave everything and, for this reason, he answers him:

"Go back if you want, it was nothing of importance." But Elisha merely wanted to say goodbye to his relatives in a decent manner (See Lk 9:61). From now on, Elisha will be Elijah's disciple and his successor in Israel.

²³ The officers of the king of Aram said to him, "Their gods are gods of the hills; that is why they were stronger than us." ²⁴ Let us fight against them on the plain and we shall overcome them. But you have also to replace the princes by officers appointed by you. ²⁵ When you have gathered an army like the one you have lost, with the same amount of horses and chariots, we will fight on the plain, then we shall see who is stronger." Ben-hadad listened to their advice and did just that.

Victory over the Arameans

²⁶ In the spring, Benhadad mustered the Arameans and set out for Aphek to fight against Israel. ²⁷ The Israelites were also mustered and they set out against the Arameans. As they encamped, the Israelites looked like two little herds of goats, whereas the Arameans filled the countryside. ²⁸ A man of God approached the king of Israel and said to him, "Thus says Yahweh: Because the Arameans have said: 'Yahweh is a god of the hills but not of the valleys,' therefore I will deliver this immense crowd into your hands and you shall know that I am Yahweh." ²⁹ And they encamped facing each other for seven days.

On the seventh day, the battle was engaged and that day the Israelites killed a hundred thousand Aramean foot soldiers. ³⁰ As the rest fled into the city of Aphek, the wall fell on the twenty-seven thousand men that were left. Ben-hadad himself fled and entered an inner room in the city. ³¹ His officers said to him, "People say that the kings of Israel are merciful kings. Let us put sackcloth around our necks, perhaps he will spare your life."

³² So, putting sackcloth around their waists and ropes around their necks, they went to the king of Israel and said, "Your servant, Ben-hadad, pleads. Please, let me live." He then asked, "Is he still alive? He is my brother." ³³ They quickly took up his word and said, "Yes, Benhadad is your brother." The king of Israel then said, "Go, bring him here."

Ben-hadad came to him and he let Ben-hadad get into his chariot. ³⁴ Ben-hadad then said to him, "I will give back the cities which my father took from your father, and you may put up business establishments for yourself in Damascus just as my father did in Samaria." He then made an agreement with Ben-nadad and let him go.

³⁵ Now the word of Yahweh was directed to one of the fellow prophets, so he said to his companion, "Strike me, please." But his companion refused to strike him. ³⁶ So he said to him, "Since you have not obeyed the voice of Yahweh, once you leave me, a lion shall kill you." And, indeed, as soon as he had left, a lion found him and killed him.

³⁷ Then the fellow prophet found another man to whom he said, "Please, strike me." This man struck him, wounding him. ³⁸ Then this prophet left, disguising himself with a bandage over his eyes, and waited for the king along the road. ³⁹ When the king passed, he called to him and said, "O King! I, your servant, went into the thick of the battle when a soldier left the line and brought me a man, saying: 'Guard this man. Should he escape, your life shall be in exchange for his, or else you shall pay a talent of silver.'" ⁴⁰ While I was busy running around, my prisoner disappeared." The king of Israel said to him, "You yourself have said what your sentence shall be."

⁴¹ At once the man removed the bandage from his eyes and the king of Israel recognized him as one of the prophets. ⁴² Then the prophet told him, "Because you have released the man whom I have decreed to die, your life shall be in exchange for his and your people for his people." ⁴³ And the king of Israel went back home to Samaria, resentful and sad.

Naboth's vineyard

21 ¹ Now Naboth, a man from Jezreel, owned a vineyard just beside the palace of Ahab, king of Samaria. ² Ahab asked Naboth, "Give me your vineyard which is near my house that I may use it for a vegetable garden. I will give you a better vineyard in exchange. Or, if you prefer, I will pay you its price."

■ Naboth keeps his vineyard, more out of respect for the inheritance received from his fathers than for his personal convenience.

Declare a fast (v. 9). Surely Jezebel takes advantage of a calamity of that time, a drought or a pestilence. The elders of the city must assemble all the people for a solemn fast and an assembly, where they will find out "who attracted this punishment of God." The guilty one will have to be Naboth and, in this way, Jezebel will have him killed legally.

You kill and take possession at the same time. Ahab's crime is no worse than David's who had Uriah killed so that he could take his wife (2 Sam 12). Elijah goes to Ahab in the manner that Nathan had gone to rebuke David.

³ But Naboth said to Ahab, "Yah-zeh forbid that I give you the inheritance of my fathers."

⁴ So Ahab went home angry and sad because of what Naboth had told him, that he would not give him the inheritance of his fathers. So he lay down on his bed with his face turned toward the wall and refused to eat.

⁵ His wife Jezebel came to him and said, "Why are you so angry that you refuse to eat?" ⁶ He answered, "I spoke to Naboth the Jezreelite and asked him to sell me his vineyard or to exchange it for another better one but he answered: I will not give you my vineyard."

¹¹ The people, the elders and the important persons who lived in his city did as Jezebel had instructed him in the letters which she had sent to them. ¹² They declared a fast and put Naboth on trial. ¹³ The two worthless fellows came in and sat facing him, accusing Naboth before the people, 'Naboth cursed God and the king!' ¹⁴ So the people took him outside the city and stoned him to death. ¹⁵ They then sent word to Jezebel that Naboth had been stoned and was dead.

¹⁶ As soon as Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned and was dead, she told Ahab, "Now take possession of the vineyard of Naboth, the man of Jezreel who refused to sell it to you, for Naboth is now dead." ¹⁷ As soon as Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, he went down to the vineyard of Naboth and took possession of it.

¹⁸ Then Yahweh spoke to Elijah of Tishbe, ¹⁹ "Go down to meet Ahab, king of Israel, in Samaria. He is taking possession of the vineyard of Naboth. ²⁰ Say to him: 'Have you killed and taken possession at the same time?' Then give him this word of mine: 'Dogs shall lick your own blood. In the very place where the dogs licked the blood of Naboth, they will lick yours.'"

²¹ Ahab then said to Elijah, "Who better than my enemy could find me here and now!" Elijah answered, "I have come to you because you have done what Yahweh abhors. This is Yahweh's word: I will bring disgrace on you. ²² I will sweep you away and cut off every male of your family, from the smallest to the greatest. ²³ Your family will disappear like the families of Jeroboam and Baasa, because you offended me and dragged Israel into sin. ²⁴ There is another word of Yahweh to Jezebel: 'The dogs shall devour Jezebel within the territory of Jezreel.' ²⁵ If anyone of Ahab's line dies in the city, he shall be devoured by dogs; if in the green country, the birds of the air shall feed on him."

²⁸ On hearing these words, Ahab tore his clothes and put on sackcloth. He fasted as he lay in sackcloth and moved around despondently. ²⁸ Then Yahweh said to Elijah the Tishbite, "Have you seen how Ahab has humbled himself?" ²⁹ Because of this I will not bring about the disaster during his reign; during his son's reign disgrace will fall on his family."

◆ 22 ¹ There was no war between Aram and Israel for three years. ² But the third year, Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, came down to the king of Israel. ³ The king of Israel then talked to his officers, "Have you forgotten that Ramoth-gilead belongs to us? Yet we do nothing to take it back from the Arameans." ⁴ So he asked Jehoshaphat, "Will you come with me to conquer Ramoth-gilead?" Jehoshaphat answered the king of Israel, "I am with you, my people are with your people, and my horses with yours."

Micaiah and the false prophets

■ ⁵ Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, said to the king of Israel, "Let us consult Yahweh before setting out for war." ⁶ So the king of Israel gathered all the prophets, numbering about four hundred men, and asked them, "Shall I go to conquer Ramoth-gilead, or shall I hold back?" They replied, "Go, for Yahweh will deliver the city into your hands."

⁷ Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there no other prophet of Yahweh around here whom we might ask?" ⁸ The king of Israel answered, "There is still one whom we may ask for Yahweh's counsel; but I hate him, for he never prophesies good about me but only evil." Then Jehoshaphat said, "Don't speak in this manner." ⁹ So the king of Israel called an official and told him,

"Bring quickly Micaiah, son of Imlah."

¹⁰ Meantime, the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, were seated on their thrones, fully robed. They were both at the threshing floor by the entrance gate of Samaria where the prophets continued to prophesy before them. ¹¹ There was Zedekiah, son of Chenaanah who made for himself horns from iron and said, "Thus says Yahweh: 'With these horns you shall strike the Arameans until they are destroyed.'"

¹² All the prophets said the same, "Go to Ramoth-gilead and triumph. Yahweh will deliver it into the hands of the king."

¹³ The official who went to summon Micaiah said to him, "Look here, all the prophets agree to foretell a happy end to the king. You too agree to speak favourably." ¹⁴ But Micaiah replied, "As Yahweh lives, I will speak what Yahweh tells me to."

¹⁵ When he had come, the king asked him this, "Micaiah, shall we go to conquer Ramoth-gilead or shall we hold back?" Then Micaiah answered, "Go and triumph! Yahweh will give the city into the hands of the king!"

¹⁶ But the king said to him, "How many times shall I ask you to speak seriously to me and tell me the truth in the name of Yahweh?" ¹⁷ Then Micaiah said, "I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains like sheep without a

◆ In those times, war was something of a routine. A people could not exist without continually fighting with others. To fight, to kill and to die were but signs of life. (See 2 Sam 11:1).

For once, the kings of Israel and Judah are united, but the writer speaks very differently about the two.

■ This Micaiah is not to be confused with the other prophet Micaiah of Morasti (see Micah 1:1). The kings were sitting at the city gate. In those centuries, the entrance to the city was very often the gate of the wall surrounding the town. It was the place where the people gathered, as today in the plaza. There, the tribunal executed judgement and cases were heard; there, the elders spent hours conversing in their seats.

The present text wants to teach two things:

- God's word condemning Ahab's family is realized infallibly: the lies of the prophets, the strategy of the king and unforeseen events come together to accomplish what had been announced: the king will die and the dogs lick up his blood.
- The contradiction between true and false prophets.

The fellow prophets are consulted by the people about their future, and they support the shepherd. Then Yahweh said: These have no master, so let each return to his home in peace."

¹⁸ So the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy good about me, but only evil?"

²³ You must know that Yahweh has put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these prophets of yours because he wished to bring evil on you."

²⁴ Then Zedekiah, son of Chanaanah, approached Micaiah, struck him, and said, "How did the Spirit of Yahweh leave me to speak to you?" Micaiah replied, "You shall discover for yourself on the day you flee from house to house to hide."

²⁶ Then the king of Israel ordered, Seize Micaiah and take him back to

Amon, governor of the city and to Joash, the king's son. ²⁷ Give them this order: 'Throw this man in prison and feed him with scant fare of bread and water until I come in peace.'

²⁸ Then Micaiah said, "If you return in peace, then Yahweh has not spoken through me."

Death of the king of Israel

²⁹ So the king of Israel went up to Ramoth-gilead together with the king of Judah. ³⁰ The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "I will disguise myself before the battle, but you wear your robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself before the battle.

³¹ Now the king of Aram had commanded the thirty-two captains of his chariots, "Attack no one, big or small, but only the king of Israel." ³² When the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, they thought, "That surely is the king of Israel." So they turned to attack him. But when Jehoshaphat shouted his cry of war, ³³ the captains of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel and they no longer pursued him.

³⁴ In the meantime one of the Arameans drew his bow without knowing at whom he aimed and hit the king between the scale armour and the breastplate. The king then ordered the driver of his chariot, "Turn around and carry me out of the battle for I am in danger of the people. Their profession is difficult, for the prophet has to give an answer that pleases his client. Meantime, the Spirit of Yahweh, the only one who can with certainty disclose the future, speaks when he wants to and very often says what we do not wish to hear. That is why many prophets do not give God's answers.

I will speak what Yahweh tells me to. It is typical of the true prophet to face opposition.

I have seen Yahweh (v. 19). The vision of Micaiah tells us clearly that one should not trust in dreams and imaginings that come from his own spirit.

Neither ought one believe blindly those who pretend to be inspired, such as politicians, theorists, businessmen and all who promise to make us happy.

o This remark referring to Ahab makes one think that he died a natural death. One notes that all previous passages spoke only about the king of Israel, and mentioned Ahab only once in 22:20. Surely, this account referred in the beginning to Joram, son of Ahab (2 Kgs 9:14-16) and in him, Elijah's prophecy in 1 Kgs 21:21 was fulfilled.

wounded." ³⁵ The battle raged heavily on that day. Meanwhile, the king was propped up in his chariot facing the Arameans until the evening when he died. The blood from his wound flowed down the bottom of the chariot. ³⁶ At about sunset, a cry went through the army, "Everyone to his city, and everyone to his country! The king has died!"

³⁷ As he had died, the king was brought to Samaria and buried there. ³⁸ But they washed the chariot by the pool of Samaria. So the dogs licked up his blood, while the harlots bathed in it in accordance with the word spoken by Yahweh.

o ³⁹ The rest of the acts of Ahab, his deeds, the ivory house he built and the cities he restored are all written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel. ⁴⁰ So Ahab rested with his fathers and his son Ahaziah reigned in his place.

⁴¹ Jehoshaphat, son of Asa, began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab, king of Israel. ⁴² He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned for twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. ⁴³ He conducted himself like his father Asa, and did what pleased Yahweh without hesitation. Yet, he did not remove the high places where the people continued to sacrifice and burn incense. ⁴⁴ Jehoshaphat had peace with the king of Israel.

⁴⁷ There was no king in Edom but a governor ruled over it. ⁴⁸ Jehoshaphat had Tarshish ships go to Ophir for gold, but the venture failed when the ships were wrecked at Eziongeber. ⁴⁹ Then Ahaziah, son of Ahab, said to Jehoshaphat, "Let my servants go in the ships with your servants." Jehoshaphat, however, refused. ⁵⁰ When Jehoshaphat rested with his fathers; he was buried with them in the city of his ancestor, David, and his son Jehoram, reigned in his place.

⁵¹ Ahaziah, son of Ahab, began to reign over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah. He reigned over Israel for two years. ⁵² He did what displeased Yahweh, imitating the conduct of both his father and mother, as well as of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, who dragged Israel into sin. ⁵³ He served Baal and worshipped him, offending Yahweh, the God of Israel, in the same way his father had done.

INTRODUCTION TO 2ND KINGS

The second book of Kings continues to look at the progressive decay of the two kingdoms to the North and the South, Israel and Judah.

It would, however, be a mistake to believe that at first the nation prospered because it had good and just kings, David and Solomon, and that after them, the bad kings ruined everything, or that the Jewish people who were destroyed by the Chaldeans were more sinful than David's contemporaries.

When we read attentively, we realize that the author of the book does not judge the founders of the kingdom and their successors with the same severity. Was Jeroboam II, who restored prosperity and independence to Israel and brought peace for forty years, inferior to Solomon? Was he, perhaps, less of a believer? And yet, the first book of Kings delights in describing Solomon's luxury and greatness, rather material things, whereas the second book of Kings gives Jeroboam II only one paragraph, as if the fact of having a temple other than the one in Jerusalem was a priori a condemnation of all his achievements.

Kings

In this we must see God's way of teaching; at first he encourages his people with the possibility of achieving independence and prosperity, because these men live in the historical moment when this conquest must be accomplished. God does not show them all the negative aspects of what they are doing; he does not insist on Solomon's faults or the vanity of his luxury. But, later, God invites his people to observe with a critical eye, and while the great dream of Solomon's kingdom is vanishing, God teaches them to seek another more lasting and important conquest, that of the Reign of Justice.

1 After the death of Ahab, Moab rebelled against Israel. ² In Samaria, king Ahaziah fell through the window from the second floor of his house and was badly injured. So he sent messengers to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, "Ask him whether I shall survive this accident." ³ Then an angel of Yahweh said to Elijah of the town of Tishbe, "Arise, and go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria. You will say to them: Why have you come to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? Is it because there is no God in Israel?" ⁴ Now Yahweh himself gives you this answer: You shall not rise again from the bed where you lay down, but shall die there." So Elijah went.

⁵ Then the messengers returned to Ahaziah who wondered and asked, "How is it that you have returned so fast?" ⁶ They answered, "A man met us on the way, and he said to us: 'Return to the king who sent you and say to him in the name of Yahweh: Why do you send men to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? Is there no God in Israel? Because of this, you shall not rise again from the bed where you lay down, but shall die there.'"

⁹ Ahaziah sent a captain of fifty men who went up with his fifty men to get him. Elijah was seated at the top of the mountain. The captain said to him, "Man of God, the king commands you to come down." ¹⁰ Elijah answered the captain, "If I am a man of God, then may fire come down from heaven and devour you and your men." Fire came down from heaven and devoured them all. ¹¹ The king again sent to him another captain of fifty who went up and said to him, "Man of God, the king says that you are to come down at once." ¹² Elijah answered, "If I am a man of God, then may fire come down from heaven and devour you and your men." Fire came down from heaven and devoured them all.

¹³ The king sent a third captain with his fifty men. When his men came, he fell on his knees before Elijah and said to him, "Man of God, I beg you to pardon me as well as my fifty men; we are all your servants." ¹⁴ I have heard that fire came down from heaven twice and devoured the two captains with their fifty men. So now, do spare my life."

¹⁵ Then the angel of Yahweh said to Elijah, "Go down with him and do not be afraid." ¹⁶ So he stood up and went down with them to the king. And Elijah said to the king, "Listen to this word of Yahweh: Because you sent your messengers to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, you shall not rise again from the bed where you lay down but shall die there."

¹⁷ Ahaziah died according to what Yahweh had said through the mouth of Elijah, and since he had no sons, his brother Jehoram, reigned in his place in the second year of Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah. ¹⁸ Everything referring to Ahaziah and his deeds is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Elijah is taken up to heaven

2 ¹Yahweh took Elijah up to heaven in a whirlwind. It happened this way: Elijah and Elisha had left Gilgal, and Elijah said to Elisha, ²"I beg you to stay here, for Yahweh is sending me to Bethel." Elisha said, "I swear by Yahweh and by your life that I will never leave you." So they went down to Bethel together. ³The fellow prophets in Bethel went out to welcome Elisha and said to him, "Don't you know that today Yahweh will take your master away from you?" He answered them, "Yes, I also know it. So, be quiet."

⁴Elijah said to Elisha, "Please stay here, for Yahweh is only sending me to Jericho." Elisha answered, "I swear by Yahweh and by your life that I will never leave you." ⁵So they went on to Jericho.

The fellow prophets in Jericho approached Elisha and said to him, "Do you not know that Yahweh is to take your master away today?" Elisha answered, "Yes, I know it. Be quiet."

⁶Elijah said once more to Elisha, "Stay here, I beg you, for Yahweh is only sending me to the Jordan." But Elisha answered, "I swear by Yahweh and by your life that I will never leave you." And as they went on their way, ⁷fifty fellow prophets of Jericho followed them at a certain distance.

When Elijah and Elisha stood by the Jordan ⁸Elijah took his mantle, rolled it, and struck the water with it. The water parted to both sides and they crossed on dry ground through the river.

⁹After they had crossed, Elijah said to Elisha, "What shall I do for you before I am taken away from you? Ask me." Elisha said, "Grant that I may have the best of your spirit." ¹⁰Elijah answered, "Your request is most difficult. Yet if you see me while I am taken away from you, then you shall have it. But if not, you shall not have it."

¹¹As they were talking on the way, a chariot of fire with horses of fire stood between them, and Elijah was taken up to heaven in a whirlwind. ¹²Elisha saw him and cried out, "Father, my father, chariots of Israel and its horsemen!"

When Elisha lost sight of him, he took hold of his own clothes and tore them. ¹³He then picked up the mantle which had fallen from Elijah and re-o The end of Elijah is one final testimony to the living God who gives life to man.

Elijah, the solitary prophet, seems to live on high, far from human corruption. That is why God does not let him die like others do. This man of God will not be remembered as a dead man: nothing, not even death can overcome the one who burned with jealous love for Yahweh, his God and who fought for him alone.

Elijah was taken up to heaven in a whirlwind. When Scripture says that Elijah was taken up to heaven, we must not insist on the image of "going up" (as in the Ascension of Jesus). In those days, people believed that God lived on high, and God, who speaks to people of every age according to their own concepts, wanted Elijah to disappear visibly, as if taken up to heaven.

My father, chariot of Israel and its horsemen! Elisha's exclamation is made clear by Israel's past. Before their Canaanite enemies who had war chariots and horses, the Israelites poorly equipped, placed their trust in the Lord who was their only strength and who became for them the chariots and the horse at the same time. Elisha witnesses the disappearance of the man who was the living symbol of the presence and the power of God in the midst of Israel.

Elijah's strange disappearance will encourage the Jews who hope for the Lord's triumphant coming to begin the definitive kingdom. The conviction that Elijah will return at that time and prepare for the coming of the Lord arises among the Jews (see Sir 48:1 and Mal 3:32). See what Jesus says to that effect (Mk 9:12).

The Bible leaves us in the dark as to what happened to Elijah after his death. Thus, it prepares us for the announcement of Jesus' resurrection and the faith of the church in the assumption of Mary, his mother.

turned to the banks of the Jordan. ¹⁴ There he struck the water with the mantle, but it did not part. So he asked, "Where is Yahweh, the God of Elijah?" And as he struck the water again it parted. Elisha crossed over.

¹⁵ The fellow prophets of Jericho saw him from the other side, and said, "The spirit of Elijah rests upon Elisha." And as they came to him, they bowed to the ground before him saying, ¹⁶ "There are fifty valiant men here with us. Let them go in search of Elijah, for it may be that the spirit of Yahweh has left him in some mountain or valley." Elisha replied, "Do not send anyone." ¹⁷ But they insisted so much that Elisha let them go, and they sent fifty men to search for Elijah. ¹⁸ After three days they had not found him and they returned to Elisha, who had stayed in Jericho. He commented, "Did I not tell you not to go?"

¹⁹ The men of the city said to Elisha, "The location of this city is good, as my lord can see, but the water is bad, and so the land is unproductive." ²⁰ He said to them, "Bring me a new pot with salt in it." When they brought it to him, ²¹ Elisha went to the fountain and threw salt in it saying, "This is what Yahweh says: I have healed this water, never more will it cause death or sickness." ²² And the water has remained wholesome to this day, according to what Elisha said.

²³ From there, he went up to Bethel. He was on his way when some youths went out from the city and made fun of him saying, "Go up, baldhead! Go up, baldhead!" ²⁴ Elisha turned around, looked at them and cursed them in the name of Yahweh. At once, two she-bears came out of the forest and killed forty-two of them. ²⁵ From there Elisha set out for Mount Carmel, and from there he returned to Samaria.

3 ¹ Jehoram, son of Ahab, began to reign over Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and he reigned for twelve years. ² He did what was displeasing to Yahweh, but not as his father or mother had done, for he removed the statue of Baal which his father had made. ³ Nonetheless he clung to the sin of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, which had become the sin of Israel, and did not depart from it.

Expedition of Israel and Judah against Moab

⁶ At that time, King Jehoram set out from Samaria, to mobilize the whole of Israel. ⁷ He also sent word to Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, "The king of Moab has rebelled against me; will you come with me to fight against Moab?" Jehoshaphat answered him, "I will go with you, for you and I are one; my men and my horses are at your disposal." ⁸ Jehoram asked, "By which way shall we go up?" And he answered, "By the way of the desert of Edom."

⁹ The kings of Israel, of Judah and of Edom had been going around for seven days, and there was no water for the soldiers and for the animals that followed them. ¹⁰ Then the king of Israel said, "Yahweh has called us, three kings, to give us into the hands of Moab." ¹¹ Then Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there no prophet of Yahweh here, through whom we may consult Yahweh?" One of the servants of the king of Israel said, "Elisha, son of Shaphat, is here. It was he who poured water on the hands of Elijah." ¹² And Jehoshaphat agreed, "Indeed, God's word comes to him." So the king of Israel, the king of Edom and Jehoshaphat went down to Elisha.

¹³ Elisha said to the king of Israel, "What have I to do with you? Go see the prophets of your father or those of your mother." But the king of Israel asked him, "Has Yahweh per-

+ Of all the people in the Bible, Elisha appears as the man most gifted with the working of miracles, but he is not considered greater than others because of that. He lives among the sons of prophets, meaning fellow prophets. They are poor men, with a touch of fanaticism in their faith; they live in religious communities with their wives and children. They will help Elisha in his mission (see 1 Sam 19:18).

Elisha receives Elijah's spirit and continues his mission. Several of his miracles are related in the following chapters. Some may have been expanded or distorted by tradition for teaching purposes (as for example with the forty-two children).

haps called us three together to deliver us into the hands of Moab?" ¹⁴ Elisha replied, "Had not Jehoshaphat the king of Judah been before me, I swear by Yahweh God of Hosts whom I serve, that I would not attend to you nor look at you. ¹⁵ Now, bring me someone who plays the harp." As the musician played, the hand of Yahweh came upon Elisha ¹⁶ and he said, "This is the word of Yahweh: Dig trenches and more trenches in this valley, ¹⁷ for Yahweh says: You shall not see wind or rain, but the valley shall be filled with water, and you, your troops and your livestock will drink. ¹⁸ But this is an easy thing for Yahweh, for he shall give Moab into your hands. ¹⁹ You shall conquer all the fortified cities, cut down all fruit-bearing trees, close up all the springs of water, and scatter stones in all the plowed fields."

²⁰ In the morning, at the time of the offering, water came from the direction of Edom, and the whole country was flooded.

²¹ The Moabites had learned that the kings had come to attack them, so they gathered together all the men able to bear arms and positioned them at the border. ²² When they woke up in the morning, they saw the sun shining upon the water, and this appeared to them as if it was blood. ²³ So the Moabites said, "Look at the blood; the kings have surely turned against one another and killed each other. Let us now go and gather the booty!" ²⁴ But when they came to the camp the Israelites confronted, defeated and routed them. The Israelites pursued and entered Moab. ²⁵ They destroyed the cities of Moab, and each man threw stones on the fertile land, until it was covered. They closed up the springs of water and cut down fruit trees. Only Kir-hareseth was left with stones, but men armed with slings, surrounded the city and began harassing it.

²⁶ When the king of Moab saw that his enemies were winning, he gathered seven hundred warriors to break through the blockade, opposite the king of Edom. But they did not succeed. ²⁷ So he took his firstborn son who was to succeed him as king, and sacrificed him in the fire upon the wall. The fury that came upon the Israelites was great, so they withdrew from there and returned to their own land.

The widow's oil

4 ¹ The widow of one of the fellow prophets called Elisha saying, "You know that my husband feared God. But now his creditor has come to collect the payment. And as we could not pay, he wanted to take my two sons as slaves." ² Elisha said, "What can I do for you? Tell me what you have in your house?" She answered, "I have but a little oil for cleaning." ³ Elisha said to her, "Go and ask your neighbours for empty jars. ⁴ Get as much as you can; then go into your house with your sons and close the door. Pour oil into the vessels. And as they are filled, set them aside."

⁵ The woman went and locked herself in her house with her sons. They handed her the vessels and she filled them all. ⁶ She said to one of her sons, "Bring me another vessel," and he answered, "There is no more." Then the oil stopped flowing.

⁷ As she went back to tell this to the man of God, he said to her, "Go and sell the oil to pay for your debts; You and your sons can live on the money that is left."

The resurrection of the Shunamite's son

■ A series of Elisha's miracles begins here.

Miracles always teach us something about God. Elisha's miracles prove that Yahweh has entrusted him with power as a chief steward responsible for granting God's help to the weak. While the Gospel miracles invite us to see in Jesus, God himself made man who came to men, those who see in Jesus only someone with God's power to cure are mistaken: if this were so, Jesus would be no different from Elisha.

◆ All the elements of human tragedy are joined here: hope, happy life, death, the anguished heart of a mother who does not resign herself to the death of the son of her womb, her call of despair to the man of God.

We must meditate on the very moving resurrection at the hands of Elisha: mouth to mouth, eyes on eyes, hand in hand to communicate his warmth and restore life. It is an unusually concrete image of what Christ achieves in us when that town, he would go to her house to eat.

⁹ The woman said to her husband, "See, this man who constantly passes by our house is a holy man of God." ¹⁰ If you want, we can make a small upper room for him, and place a bed, a chair and a lamp in it. So when he comes, he may stay and rest."

¹² Then he said to Gehazi, his manservant, "Call the woman of the house." She came when called and stood before Elisha.

¹³ Elisha said to her, "You have taken all this trouble for us, what then can we do for you? Would you like me to say something to the king or the commander of the army for you?" But she answered, "I do not need anything in this land." ¹⁴ So Elisha said to Gehazi, "What can we do for her?" The young man answered, "She has no children and her husband is now old."

¹⁵ And so Elisha said to him, "Call her." The young man called her and as the woman stood by the door, ¹⁶ Elisha said, "By this time next year, you will hold a son in your arms." She answered, "No, my lord, O man of God, you are deceiving your maid-servant."

¹⁷ But the woman gave birth to a son precisely at the time Elisha had told her.

¹⁸ The boy grew. One day, when he had gone out to his father among the parvesters, he had a severe headache.

¹⁹ So the father ordered his servant, "Carry him to his mother." ²⁰ The servant brought him to his mother, and the boy sat on her lap till noon, when he died.

²¹ Then the mother went up and laid him on Elisha's bed and she left, closing the door. ²² Then she called her husband, "Send me an ass and one of the servants. I am going to the man of God, and will come back." ²³ He asked, "Why are you going to him? It is not the new moon yet nor the sabbath." But she said, "Do not worry."

²⁴ She saddled the ass, and said to her servant, "Lead on, and don't stop until I tell you." ²⁵ So she set off and arrived at Mount Carmel where the man of God was.

Elisha saw her from afar, so he said to his servant, "Here comes our Shunamite. ²⁶ Run to meet her and ask: Are you well? How is your husband? And your son?" She answered, "Everything is all right." ²⁷ She went to the man of God, and embraced his feet. Then Gehazi came to draw her away, but the man of God said to him, "Leave her, for her soul is in bitter distress, and Yahweh has not made known to me nor has he revealed to me the cause of her suffering."

²⁸ She said, "Did I ask my lord for a son? Why have you deceived me?"

²⁹ Elisha said to Gehazi, "Get ready, take my staff and go. If you meet anyone, do not stop to greet him; and if someone greets you, do not greet him in return. And as soon as you arrive, place my staff on the boy's face."

³⁰ But the boy's mother said, "I swear by Yahweh and by your life that I will not leave you." So Elisha arose and followed her.

³¹ Gehazi went on ahead and laid the staff on the boy's face, but the boy did not move or give any sign of life, so Gehazi returned to meet them and said, "The boy has not revived."

[¹⁶ Gen 18, 10 ¹⁷ Gen 21, 1; Ps 113, 9 ²⁰ 1 K 17, 17 ²⁹ Lk 10, 4; Ex 4, 17; 1 K 19, 19]

te "resurrects" us and fills us with life by his intimate touch. As St. Patrick, filled with enthusiasm in his missionary journeys, used to say:

"Christ ahead of me, Christ behind me; Christ at my left; Christ at my right; Christ in me. Christ over me."

³² Elisha came into the house, and found the dead boy lying on his bed.

³³ He entered, closed the door behind him, and prayed to Yahweh. ³⁴ Then he lay upon the boy, put his mouth upon the boy's mouth, his eyes upon his eyes, his hands upon the boy's hands, and warmth returned to the boy's body. ³⁵ Elisha came down and began walking about from one side to the other. Then he returned upstairs to stretch himself upon the boy, and the boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes.

³⁶ Elisha then called Gehazi and said, "Call the woman." And when she came, Elisha told her, "Take your son." ³⁷ She bowed at his feet, then she took her son and went out.

³⁸ Elisha returned to Gilgal. There was great scarcity of food in the region, and when the fellow prophets came to sit with Elisha, he said to his servant, "Take the big pot and prepare some broth for the fellow prophets."

³⁹ One of them went out into the field to gather herbs; he found a wild plant, from which he gathered poisonous fruits, enough to fill his cloak. When he came back, he cut them into pieces in the pot where the broth was being prepared, for he did not know what they were. ⁴⁰ Then the broth was served to the men to eat. But as soon as they tasted the soup, they cried out, "Man of God, this is pure poison!" So they did not eat any more. ⁴¹ Then Elisha said, "Bring me flour." And he put it into the pot. Then he said, "Serve these men and let them eat." And there was no longer anything bad in the pot.

The multiplication of loaves o ⁴² A man came from Baal-shalishad bringing bread and wheat to the man of God. These were the first twenty loaves made from the barley of the last harvest. Elisha told him, "Give the loaves to these men that they may eat."

⁴³ His servant said to him, "How am I to divide these loaves among one hundred men?" Elisha insisted, "Give them to the men that they may eat, for Yahweh says: They shall eat and have some left over." ⁴⁴ So the man set it before them; and they ate and had some left, as Yahweh had said.

Naaman healed of leprosy

+ 5 ¹ Naaman was the army commander of the king of Aram. This man was highly regarded and enjoyed the king's favour, for Yahweh had helped him lead the army of the Arameans to victory. But this valiant man was sick with leprosy.

² One day some Aramean soldiers raided the land of Israel and took a young girl captive who became a servant to the wife of Naaman. She said to her mistress, ³ "If my master would only present himself to the prophet in Samaria, he would surely cure him of his leprosy."

⁴ Naaman went to tell the king what the young Israelite maidservant had said. ⁵ The king of Aram said to him, "Go to the prophet, and I shall also send a letter to the king of Israel."

So Naaman went and took with him ten gold bars, six thousand pieces of silver and ten festal garments. ⁶ On his arrival, he delivered the letter to

36. 1 K 17, 23; Lk 8, 55. 42. Lev 23, 17. 43. Mt 14, 16. 44. Mt 14, 20. 6. Gen 30, 2; Dt 32, 39; 1 S 2, o We should compare this multiplication of loaves with the two multiplications at the hand of Jesus; they are related in very similar ways and, yet, each has a different meaning (see especially John 6).

+ Naaman's healing holds a special place among Elisha's miracles. Here, we can easily discover a prefigurement of Baptism which cleanses us from sin.

Even though Naaman is a famous general, it the king of Israel. It said, "I present my servant Naaman to you that you may heal him of his leprosy."

⁷ When the king had read the letter, he tore his clothes to show his indignation, "I am not God to give life or death. And the king of Aram sends me this man to be healed! You see he is just looking for an excuse for war."

⁸ Elisha, the man of God, came to know that the king of Israel had torn his clothes, so he sent this message to him: "Why have you torn your clothes? Let the man come to me, that he may know that there is a prophet in Israel."

⁹ So Naaman came with his horses and chariots, and stopped before the house of Elisha. ¹⁰ Elisha then sent a messenger to tell him, "Go to the river Jordan and wash seven times, and your flesh shall be as it was before, and you shall be cleansed."

¹¹ Naaman was angry, so he went away. He thought: "On my arrival, he should have come out to meet me personally, and then paused and prayed to Yahweh. And he should have touched with his hand the infected part of my body, and I would have been healed." ¹² Are the rivers of Damascus, Abana and Pharpar not better than all the rivers of the land of Israel? Could I not wash in the rivers of Damascus to be healed of my leprosy?"

¹³ His servants approached him as he was going, and they said to him, "Father, if the prophet had ordered you to do something difficult, would you not have done it? But how easy it is to take a bath as the prophet has ordered you to do!"

¹⁴ So Naaman went down to the Jordan where he washed himself seven times as Elisha had ordered. His skin became soft like that of a child and he was cleansed.

¹⁵ Then Naaman returned to the man of God with all his men. He entered and said to him, "Now I know that there is no other God in all the

10. Jn 9, 7

11. Mt 8, 3

can do nothing about his leprosy. He wants to be renewed, to leave his contaminated skin behind and hope is offered to him: such miracles take place in Israel.

The girl told her mistress. It all begins with the word of a girl, Naaman's servant. Similarly, any believer today has many opportunities to say something or to do something which will bring about a lot of good and to direct those who seek to be cured to "Israel," to the church. The Good News is not only communicated and spread through the work of the great apostles. In the Gospel (Lk 4:27) Jesus points to the healing of this foreigner in preference to all the lepers in Israel, as a proof that God cares for everyone and not only for those who are officially the faithful.

Elisha sent a messenger. To the prophet, the great general is no more than any other man. He receives no privileges, nor special attention through a private consultation. Since he did not even get down from his chariot, Elisha does not go out to greet him.

Go and wash. Naaman expected something "magic," a gesture or words filled with divine power. Yet, his healing will come through simple contact with the waters flowing through the land of God. Israel is a very small country, yet the riches of the Lord are hidden there.

If the prophet had ordered you to do something difficult, would you not have done it? People expect wonders: he only asks the simple following of a command. Jesus will proceed the same way (John 4:46). It is not important to achieve extraordinary things, but rather what God asks. We often miss his Kingdom because we want to make great efforts instead of doing the simple things that God asks.

Healing is a gift. The fabulous treasure Naaman brought with him is useless. The Lord is the one who gives, he does not charge nor does he want us to pay him. All he asks is that if we discover his merciful love, we love him in return for his love.

Only when I accompany my king to the temple of his god Rimmon. Now Naaman knows there is no other God than the God of Israel. But he cannot abandon the world in which he lives and where other gods are honoured. Elisha's answer shows that God understands the situation.

The same understanding toward men of good will who follow other religions is expressed in some texts of Genesis and Exodus which were world but the God of Israel. I ask you to accept these gifts from your servant."

¹⁶ But Elisha answered, "I swear by Yahweh whom I serve, I will accept nothing." And however much Naaman insisted, Elisha would not accept his gifts.

¹⁷ So Naaman told him, "Since you refuse, let me get some sacks of soil from your land – the amount that two mules can carry. I shall use it to build an altar to Yahweh, for I shall not offer sacrifices to any other god but him.

¹⁸ Only when my king goes to the temple of his god Rimmon, he leans on my arm, and I bow down with him; may Yahweh pardon me for this."

¹⁹ Elisha answered, "Go in peace." And Naaman went.

Naaman was already at a certain distance, ²⁰ when Gehazi, Elisha's servant, thought: "Imagine that my lord refused to take the gifts that Aramean brought! As Yahweh lives, I will run after him and get some of them!"

²¹ Gehazi went after Naaman and Naaman saw Gehazi running after him, so he jumped out of his chariot to greet him. ²² Gehazi said to him, "Pardon me, lord, my master sent me to say to you: Two young men from the community of the prophets have just come to me from the mountain of Ephraim, kindly give me a talent of silver and two new garments for them." Naaman replied, ²³ Please accept two talents of silver."

He insisted that Gehazi accept them, so he put the two talents of silver with two new garments in two sacks, and handed them over to two of his servants who carried them before Gehazi. ²⁴ When they reached Ophel, Gehazi took them from their hands and put them away in his house. Then he sent the two servants of Naaman away, and they left.

²⁵ When he appeared before his master, Elisha asked him, "Where have you been, Gehazi?" He answered, "Your servant has not been any place." ²⁶ Elisha replied, "Was not my spirit with you when a man jumped out of his chariot to meet you? Well, you have received silver and can now buy olive groves, vineyards, sheep, oxen and servants. ²⁷ But you and all your descendants shall be infected with the leprosy of Naaman forever." And Gehazi left his presence with leprosy, as white as snow.

6 ¹ Now the fellow prophets said to Elisha, "See, the place where we are gathered has become too small for us. ² Let us go to the Jordan, and let each of us get a log to build a shed where we can gather." Elisha answered, "Go." ³ Then one of them said to him, "Why do you not come along with us?" ⁴ So Elisha went with them. And when they arrived at the Jordan, they began to cut down the trees. ⁵ But as one of them was cutting a tree, his axehead fell into the river, and he exclaimed, "O my master, the iron piece that you have lent me!" The man of God asked him, ⁶ "Where did it fall?" And he showed Elisha the place. Elisha cut off a stick, threw it in there, and the iron piece floated! ⁷ Elisha said, "Get it." The man reached out his hand and took it.

precisely written by prophets of the same groups around Elisha (see Genesis 20:1-7 and Exodus 18:1-20).

Naaman represents a man of good will afflicted with an incurable disease, which is sin, and who comes to the church to ask for health.

He comes to the church from far away because he discovers that there is a hidden source of life in it. The water of baptism does not work by itself; its effectiveness comes from the fact that it is through it that we join the people to Christ, the church.

Elisha captures an armed band of Arameans

■ At that time when the king of Aram was raiding Israel, he convened a council with his officials, and told them, "Let us attack that people." ⁹ But the man of God sent a message to the king of Israel, "Guard this place for the Arameans shall go there." ¹⁰ So the king of Israel sent men to the place indicated by the man of God, and they kept watch there. And this happened several times. ¹¹ The king of Aram was worried because of these things, so he called his officials and told them, "Go and find out who is revealing plans to the king of Israel." ¹² One of his officials said, "None of us has betrayed you, my king, but Elisha, the prophet who is in Israel, makes known to his king even the words you say in your bedroom."

¹³ The king answered them, "Go then and find out where he lives, that I may send people to arrest him." When they told him that Elisha was in Dothan, ¹⁴ he sent chariots, horses and strong troops who arrived there by night and surrounded the city. ¹⁵ On the following day, when the servant of the man of God rose early in the morning, he went out and saw the Arameans surrounding the city with their chariots and horses. He said to Elisha, "O my master, what shall we do?" ¹⁶ He answered, "Do not fear, for those who are with us are more than those who are with them." ¹⁷ Elisha prayed and said, "Yahweh, open his eyes that he may see." Yahweh opened the eyes of the servant, and he saw the hill full of horses and chariots of fire around Elisha.

¹⁸ As the Arameans came down to him, Elisha again prayed to Yahweh, "Blind them." So Yahweh made them unable to see as Elisha had asked. ¹⁹ Elisha told them, "This is not the way nor is this the city. Follow me and I shall bring you to the man whom you seek." And he led them to Samaria. ²⁰ When they had entered Samaria, Elisha said, "Yahweh open their eyes that they may see", and they saw they were in Samaria.

²¹ When the king of Israel saw them, he said to Elisha, "My father, should I kill them?" ²² He answered, "If you do not kill those whom you have captured with your sword and your bow, how can you kill these men? Give them bread and water so they may eat and drink, and let them return to their master."

²³ So the king served them a grand banquet, and they ate and drank. Then he sent them away to their master.

18. Gen 19, 1; Wis 19, 17; Acts 13, 11

■ We single out this narrative, somewhat adorned by legends, which shows Elisha's intervention in the life of the nation. Elisha received the mission to change the king of Israel responsible for the religious infidelity of his people, as well as the kings of Aram. Joram and Benhadad mentioned here: they will shortly be murdered.

The prophets of Israel are messengers and entrusted by God with the salvation of Israel, and this salvation does not mean only that our souls go to heaven as many people believe, but rather that the entire life of a people must bring them to greater awareness and responsibility. The people of Israel could not mature (and neither can people now) without a long experience of violence, injustice and lies as well as the remedies to overcome these things.

Give them bread and water (v. 22): a prophetic gesture: overcome evil through good.

Open their eyes... Make them blind (v. 16, 18, 20). These words show the contrast between those who see the situation as God does and those who get lost in their own wisdom. How much time we waste, how often we are paralyzed by our own fears, instead of deciding to take risks and go ahead, in the trust that God cannot fail!

May Yahweh punish me if Elisha's head stays on him (v. 31). The king's words tell us that Elisha had encouraged resistance to the Arameans while the leaders did not dare to do so. But, if prophets get involved in politics, why are Christians so afraid to do so?

From that day on, the troops of Aram did not return any more to invade the territories of Israel.

Famine and the liberation of Samaria

²⁸ "What is the matter?" She answered, "That woman told me: give up your son that we may eat him today, and then we will eat my son tomorrow."

²⁹ So we cooked my son and ate him. But on the next day, when I said to her: Take your son that we may eat him, she had hidden him."

³⁰ When the king heard the words of the woman, he tore his clothes. He was upon the wall, and the people saw that he was wearing sackcloth under his tunic. ³¹ The king swore: "May the Lord punish me, if the head of Elisha, the son of Shaphat, remains on his shoulders today." And the king sent a guard to Elisha's house.

³² Elisha was seated in his house and the elders were sitting with him. Before the messenger's arrival, Elisha said to them, "Do you not know that this murderer has ordered someone to cut my head off? Well then, when the messenger comes, shut the door and do not let him in. Behind him, I hear the sound of his master's footsteps."

³³ He was still talking to them, when the king arrived. The king said, "If all this evil comes from Yahweh, why should I still trust him?"

7 ¹ But Elisha answered, "Listen to the word of Yahweh: Tomorrow at this same time, at the gate of Samaria, a measure of flour shall be sold for a piece of silver, and two measures of barley for a piece of silver, too." ² The shield bearer on whose arm the king leaned said to the man of God, "Even if Yahweh opens the windows of heaven for it to rain wheat, how could this thing be?" Elisha answered, "You shall see it with your own eyes, but you shall not eat of it."

³ Four men were at the city gates, outside, at the other side of the wall. They were lepers. And on that day, they said to one another, "Shall we sit here until we die? ⁴ If we decide to enter the city, there we shall die of hunger. But if we stay here, we die as well. So let us go over to the camp of the Arameans. If they spare our lives, then we live; and if they kill us, then let us die!"

⁵ They arose as it was getting dark to go to the camp of the Arameans. But when they reached the camp, they found no one there. ⁶ The Lord had let the Arameans hear the noise of chariots and horses, the sound of a great army. And they had thought: "The king of Israel has sent money to the kings of the Hittites and Moshrites to come and attack us."

⁷ So they fled away as it was getting dark to save themselves, abandoning their tents, their horses, and their asses, leaving the camp just as it was. ⁸ When these lepers reached the camp boundary, they went into a tent. They ate and drank; they took the silver, gold and clothes, and hid them there in the ground. They entered another tent and took whatever they found, and hid them in the same way.

⁹ Then they thought: "What we are doing is not good. Today is a day of good tidings, and if we keep silent until tomorrow, we shall be guilty. So let us go and tell this to the king's men."

¹² The king arose in the night and said to his officials, "The Arameans know that we are hungry. They have left their camp and have hidden in the field, waiting for us to come out of the city that they may take us alive and then get into the city." ¹³ One of the officials answered, "Let some men take five of the remaining horses, for at any rate, these are also bound to die of hunger, as are all the people of this city. Dispatch them and see." ¹⁴ So they took two chariots and their horses, and the king sent the horsemen after the Arameans. ¹⁵ They went as far as the Jordan, and all the way was littered with clothes and equipment which the Arameans had thrown away in their flight.

The messengers returned and told him to the king. ¹⁶ Then the people went out and plundered the camp of the Arameans. A measure of flour was sold for a piece of silver and a double measure of barley was also sold for a piece, as Elisha had said. ¹⁷ The king had appointed his shield bearer to keep watch at the city gates. But he was crushed right there by the crowd, so that he died, ¹⁸ just as Elisha had told him when the king had come down to see him.

For when Elisha had said to the king, "Tomorrow at this hour, at the gate of Samaria, two measures of barley as well as a measure of flour shall be sold for a shekel," ¹⁹ the shield bearer had said to the man of God, "Even if Yahweh opens the windows of heaven for it to rain down wheat, what you say will not happen." Then Elisha had told him, "You shall see it with your own eyes, but you shall not eat of it." ²⁰ So it happened. The people ran over him and crushed him at the city gates, and there he died.

8 ¹ Now Elisha had said to the woman whose son he had brought back to life, "Arise, and go with your family and go to live in another place, wherever it seems best for you, because Yahweh has called for a famine and it will come upon the land for seven years."

² The woman did what the man of God told her to do — she went with her family to the land of the Philistines and stayed there for seven years.

⁶ The king asked her about what had happened, and she recounted it to him. Then the king immediately sent a palace official with her, and said to him, "See to it that all her properties are returned to her with all the produce of her field from the day she left her land until now."

Elisha and Hazael of Damascus

⁷ Elisha went to Damascus. Ben-hadad, the king of Aram, was sick. When he was told that the man of God had come, ⁸ he said to Hazael, "Go to the man of God and consult Yahweh through him, that I may know if I shall recover from this sickness. But take with you a good gift."

⁹ So Hazael went to see Elisha, taking with him all the best he could find in Damascus forty camel loads of gifts. When he came before Elisha, he said to him, "Your son, Ben-hadad, the king of Aram, has sent me to ask you: Shall I recover from this sickness?"

¹⁰ Elisha answered, "Go and tell him that he shall recover. But Yahweh has shown me that he shall certainly die."

¹⁴ Hazael left Elisha and returned to his master who asked him, "What has Elisha said to you?" He answered, "He has told me that you shall surely live." ¹⁵ But on the following day, Hazael took a mantle, dipped it in water, and pressed it down on the king's face until he died. And so, Hazael succeeded him as king of Aram.

¹⁶ In the fifth year of Joram, the son of Ahab, king of Israel, Jehoram, son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah began to reign. ¹⁷ He was thirty-two years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. ¹⁸ He followed the footsteps of the kings of Israel and acted in everything like the family of Ahab. Because he had married the daughter of Ahab, he acted very badly with Yahweh. ¹⁹ However, Yahweh would not destroy Judah for the sake of his servant David, according to the promise he had made to keep his lamp burning forever, which referred to David's descendants.

²³ The rest of the deeds of Joram and his bravery are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁴ When Joram died, they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and his son Ahaziah succeeded him.

Ahaziah, king of Judah

²⁵ Ahaziah, son of Joram, king of Judah, began to reign in the twelfth year of Joram, son of Ahab, king of Israel. ²⁶ Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for a year in Jerusalem. His mother was Athaliah, daughter of Omri, king of Israel. ²⁷ He followed in the footsteps of Ahab and acted badly with Yahweh like those of the family of Ahab, since he was related to Ahab's family. ²⁸ He went with Joram, the son of Ahab, to make war against Hazael, the king of Aram, at Ramoth of Gilead. ²⁹ But the Arameans wounded Joram who returned from Ramoth to Jezreel to recover from his wounds. After a while, Ahaziah, the king of Judah, went to Jezreel to visit him as he was recuperating.

Jehu is anointed king of Israel

9 ¹ The prophet Elisha called one of the fellow prophets, and said to him, "Prepare to go to the city of Ramoth in Gilead taking this bottle of oil. ² Look there for Jehu, the son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi. Make him leave his companions, and lead him to a place apart from them. ³ There you shall take the bottle and pour the oil on his head, saying: 'Yahweh has anointed you king of Israel. Then open the door and flee without delay.' ⁴ So this young man went to Ramoth.

⁵ When he came, the commanders of the army were seated together, and he said, "I have to talk with you, commander." Jehu asked, "To which of us?" He answered, "To you, commander." ⁶ So Jehu arose and went into the house.

Then the young man poured the oil on Jehu's head, and said to him: "Yahweh, the God of Israel, has consecrated you king of the people of Israel. Thus says Yahweh: ⁷ You shall overthrow the kings of the family of Ahab, that I may avenge the blood of my servants, the prophets, whom Jezebel has murdered. ⁸ I shall destroy the family of Ahab and all their men shall perish. ⁹ The family of Ahab shall be like the family of Jeroboam and the family of Baasha. ¹⁰ And regarding Jezebel, no one shall bury her, for the dogs shall devour her in the field of Jezreel." Then the young man opened the door and fled.

¹¹ Jehu came out to join the officers of the king. They said to him, "What happened? Why did that fool call you?" Jehu answered, "You know that fellow and you also know why he came." ¹² They said, "We do not know anything. Tell us what he said to you." He answered, "I tell you exactly his words: Yahweh has consecrated you king of Israel."

¹³ Then all the commanders, the companions of Jehu, took their cloaks and put them on a wooden platform in the shape of a throne. And with blasts of trumpets, they proclaimed, "Jehu is king!"

Jehu said, "If it seems good to you, let no one come out of the city, lest they go and tell the news to the king in Jezreel." ¹⁶ Jehu then mounted his chariot and went to Jezreel, where Joram lay sick, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, had gone to visit him.

¹⁷ The watchman at the tower in Jezreel saw the retinue of Jehu as he came, and said, "I see a company." Joram said, "Take your horse and run to meet them, and ask them if they have any news."

¹⁸ So the man went out to meet them and said, "The king sent me to ask if you have any news." Jehu answered him, "Do not worry about the news. Turn around and follow me." And the watchman immediately reported, "The messenger reached them, but he has not returned."

¹⁹ They sent another messenger who came to them and said, "The king wants to know if you bring any news." And Jehu again answered, "Do not worry about the news, turn around and ride behind me." ²⁰ Again the watchman reported, "He has reached them, but has not returned. But the way of driving of him who comes resembles that of Jehu, son of Nimshi, for he drives like a madman."

²¹ Joram then said, "Harness the horses of my chariot." And Joram, the king of Israel, went out with Ahaziah, the king of Judah, each in his chariot, to meet Jehu. They met him in the field of Naboth of Jezreel.

Jehu murders Joram

²² When Joram saw Jehu, he asked, "Do you bring peace, Jehu?" Jehu answered, "Why do you ask for peace when the prostitution of your mother, Jezebel, and her many sorceries still continue?" ²³ So Joram turned his chariot around and fled, saying to Ahaziah, "Treachery, Ahaziah!"

²⁴ Jehu then drew his bow with all his strength and shot Joram in the back, so that the arrow pierced his heart. And Joram fell dead in his chariot.

²⁵ Jehu said to his shield bearer Bidkar, "Take the body and throw it in the field of Naboth of Jezreel; for remember, when we served together in the cavalry of his father, Ahab, Yahweh pronounced this sentence against him: ²⁶ I swear that in this field, I shall take vengeance on you, for the blood of Naboth and for the blood of his sons which I saw you shed yesterday. So take his body and throw it into the field according to the word of Yahweh."

²⁷ As for Ahaziah, the king of Judah, he fled in the direction of Beth-haggan. Jehu pursued him, crying out, "Kill him, too!" And they shot him in his chariot at the slope of Gur near Ibleam. He reached Megiddo, took refuge there and died. ²⁸ His servants carried his body in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him with his fathers in the city of David. ²⁹ Ahaziah had begun his reign in Judah in the eleventh year of Joram, son of Ahab.

Jezebel is killed

³⁰ Jehu entered the city of Jezreel. When Jezebel learned this, she painted her eyes, adorned her neck, and looked out of the window. ³¹ As Jehu entered the gates, she said to him, "Do you bring peace? Will you not have Zimri's luck after murdering your master?"

³⁴ Jehu entered Jezreel. After he had eaten and drunk, he gave these orders, "Take care of that cursed woman, and bury her for she was a king's daughter." ³⁵ They went to bury her, but they found no more than her hands and feet with the skull. ³⁶ When they told Jehu about it, he said, "This is what Elijah of Tishbe said in the name of Yahweh: In the field of Jezreel, the dogs shall eat Jezebel. ³⁷ Her body shall be as dung on the land, so that no one can say: This was Jezebel."

Ahab's family is wiped out

10 ¹ The seventy sons of Ahab lived in Samaria. So Jehu wrote letters and sent them to Samaria, to the leaders of the city, to the judges and to those who took care of the sons of Ahab, saying, ² "As soon as this letter comes to you who have the king's sons, chariots of war and horses, fortified cities and weapons, ³ select the best and most fit of your master's sons and make him sit on his father's throne; then prepare to defend the family of your lord."

⁴ They were in great fear, and they said, "If the two kings were not able to stand up to him, how then can we resist him?" ⁵ The palace chamberlain, the military commissioner of the city, the judges and the tutors sent this response to Jehu: "We are your servants, and we will do whatever you say. We will not proclaim anyone king; do whatever seems best to you."

⁶ Then he sent them a second letter which said, "If you are on my side and among those who obey me, take the heads of the sons of the king, your lord, and come to talk to me tomorrow at this time in Jezreel."

The king's sons were seventy and they were growing up in the houses of prominent families of the city.

⁷ As soon as this letter reached them, they seized the sons of the king, beheaded seventy of them and placed their heads in large baskets which they sent to Jezreel. ⁸ The messenger came to where Jehu was and said to him, "Here they send you the heads of the king's sons." He answered, "Lay them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate of Jezreel until tomorrow."

⁹ In the morning, Jehu went out and said to all the people, "Be fair, tell me: if I have conspired against my king and have killed him, -who then has beheaded all these?" ¹⁰ Know then that none of the words Yahweh has spoken against the family of Ahab shall be without effect. Everything he said through the mouth of his servant Elijah has been fulfilled."

¹¹ Jehu then killed all who remained loyal to Ahab in Jezreel - all his ministers, relatives, • Jehu will be only a good soldier. It seems that he was not even successful in his wars and lost the province to the east of the Jordan, the land of Gilead.

However, he was dedicated to the faith (see 10:22) and to the service of Yahweh and it was hoped that he would suppress all the influence of the foreign religions introduced by Jezebel, which he did do.

Jezebel dies: she is an example of a godless woman and a murderess of the servants of Yahweh (see Rv 2:20).

priests – without sparing anyone. ¹² Then he left for Samaria, and in Beth-eked of the Shepherds, ¹³ he met the brothers of Ahaziah, king of Judah. He asked them, "Who are you?" They answered, "We are the brothers of Ahaziah, and we go to greet the sons of the king and the sons of the queen." ¹⁴ Jehu said, "Take them alive." They took them alive and beheaded them all by the well of Beth-eked. They were forty-two men, and none was left alive.

¹⁵ Setting out from there, he met Jehonadab, son of Rechab, who came out to meet him. Jehu greeted him and said, "Would you be faithful to me as I am to you?" Jehonadab answered, "Yes." So Jehu said to him, "Give me your hand." He gave him his hand, and Jehu took him up with him into his chariot, and said, ¹⁶ "Come with me and see my zeal for Yahweh." And he had him ride in his chariot.

¹⁷ When Jehu came to Samaria, he killed all the survivors loyal to Ahab in that city, and he did not spare anyone. So the word Yahweh had said through the mouth of Elijah was fulfilled.

When they entered the temple of Baal, they were so many that they hardly touched the ground. ²² Then Jehu ordered those in charge of the vestments to bring out the sacred vestments reserved for the faithful of Baal and to distribute these to them. ²³ Jehu who was accompanied by Jehonadab, the son of Rechab, said insistently to the faithful of Baal, "Make sure that none of the faithful of Yahweh has entered with you, that there is no one here except all the true servants of Baal."

²⁴ But while they were making preparations for offering the holocausts, Jehu stationed eighty men outside, and said to them, "Whoever of you lets anyone escape of those who must die shall pay with his own life." ²⁵ And when the sacrifice was finished, Jehu gave this order to the soldiers and officers, "Go in and kill all of them, let none of them escape." So, they went in and put everyone to the sword, going as far as the sanctuary of the House of Baal. ²⁶ They pulled out the sacred pillar of the House of Baal and burned it. ²⁷ They destroyed the altar and pulled down the temple, which remains a garbage dump to this very day.

²⁸ This was how Jehu wiped out the name of Baal from Israel. ²⁹ But Jehu did not turn aside from the sins which Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had caused Israel to commit, for they kept the golden calves of Bethel and Dan. ³⁰ In spite of this, Yahweh said to Jehu, "Since you have acted well, doing what seems just to me, and have dealt with the family of Ahab according to my will, your sons until the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel." ³¹ But Jehu did not completely walk according to the Law of Yahweh, since he did not give up the sins into which Jeroboam had led Israel.

³⁴ Now the rest of the story of Jehu, all that he did and his bravery are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ³⁵ When Jehu died, they buried him in Samaria, and his son Jehoahaz reigned in his place. ³⁶ Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria for twenty-eight years.

Athaliah in Judah

+ 11 ¹ When Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son had died, she was determined to wipe out all the descendants of the king. ² But Jehosheba, the daughter of King Joram and sister of Ahaziah, took Joash, her nephew, and brought him

+ Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. When her son Ahaziah, the king of Judah dies, she thinks of taking over the kingdom by killing all her grandchildren. This would mean the end of David's descendants, or, the failure of Yahweh's promises. Joash escapes death under miraculous circumstances. Six years later, the head of the priests works out a plot with the help of the "people of the land," that is to say, the free men who enjoy full rights as citizens (verses 14, 18, 19...). These remain faithful to David's family.

History shows that on several occasions the people are the ones who preserve the faith when away from among the king's sons who were about to be killed, and put him and his wet nurse in the bedroom. So she hid him from Athaliah, so that the boy was saved. ³ And Joash remained hidden in the House of Yahweh for six years while Athaliah reigned over the land.

⁹ The commanders of the guards did what Jehoiada, the priest, had told them, and they showed up with all their men, those who were to go off duty on the sabbath as well as those who were to come on duty on that day.

¹⁰ Jehoiada entrusted to the officers the spears and shields of King David which were in the House of Yahweh.

¹¹ And then the guards stood from the southern corner of the house to the north, around the altar and the House of Yahweh.

¹³ When Athaliah heard the noise of the people, she approached the crowd surrounding the House of Yahweh. ¹⁴ The king was standing by the pillar, according to the custom, and the officers and the trumpeters were with him. The people were filled with joy and they were blowing trumpets. On seeing this, Athaliah tore her clothes and cried out, "Treason, treason!"

¹⁵ Jehoiada, the priest, commanded the officers, "Surround her and bring her out to the courtyard, and kill anyone who tries to defend her." He gave this order, because he thought, "She should not die in the House of Yahweh."

¹⁶ They brought her out, and when they reached the palace of the king by the horses' entrance, there they killed her.

¹⁷ Jehoiada made a covenant between Yahweh and the king and the people so they would be the people of Yahweh. ¹⁸ All the citizens went to the temple of Baal and destroyed it. They broke the altars and the images into pieces, and killed Mattan, the priest of Baal, before his altar.

Then Jehoiada, the priest, posted guards over the House of Yahweh.

¹⁹ He led the officers, the guards of the king, the Carites guards and the citizens, and they accompanied the king:

the authorities fail to do so. Thus, in the fourth century A.D., the errors of the Anus - who denied the divinity of Christ - were accepted by many bishops supported by the Roman emperor. It was the resistance of Christian people who assured the victory of the faith.

to the palace, passing through the Gate of the Guards. King Joash sat on the royal throne.²⁰ All the citizens were happy and the city was at peace. Now regarding Athaliah, she had died by the sword in the king's palace.

Reign of Joash in Judah

12 ¹ Jehoash was seven years old when he began his reign.² It was then the seventh year of Jehu, and he reigned for forty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.³ Jehoash did what was right in the eyes of Yahweh as long as the priest Jehoiada guided him.⁴ But he did not demolish the sanctuaries on the hillsides where people continued offering sacrifices and burning incense.

⁵ Jehoash said to the priest, "All the money from the sacred contributions which the people bring to offer in the House of Yahweh, the money in cash, that which is offered as personal assessment, and that which is freely and voluntarily given in the House of Yahweh — ⁶ all these you can receive. Let each one receive from the hand of his acquaintance, but you are to repair the House of Yahweh, when anything needs to be repaired."

⁷ By the twenty-third year of the reign of Joash, the priests had not yet carried out the repairs needed in the House of Yahweh.⁸ So the king summoned Jehoiada the priest and the other priests with him, and said to them, "Why have you not carried out the repairs of the House yet? From now on, you will no longer keep any money during your service, but shall set it aside for the repair of the House."⁹ The priests agreed that henceforth, they would not accept money from the people and would not be in charge of the repair of the House.¹⁰ So Jehoiada, the priest, had a box made with a hole in the cover. He placed this by the altar, to the right side of those entering the House of Yahweh, and the priests who were at the gates put in it all the money offered in the House of Yahweh.

¹¹ Whenever they saw that the box was full, a secretary of the king would come, and together with the high priest, they would take and count the money.¹² Then they would turn the amount over into the hands of those responsible for the work of the House, who would, in turn, pay with this money the carpenters and bricklayers doing the repairs.¹³ From this amount, they also bought the stones, wood and everything necessary for the repair of the House of Yahweh.¹⁴ But of this money given for the House of Yahweh, they did not make any silver cups, or cutting tools, or water jars, or trumpets, or any golden or silver objects,¹⁵ but all the money was used to pay those who were repairing the House of Yahweh.¹⁶ Accounts were not asked from those responsible for paying the labourers, since they acted with great honour.¹⁷ Only the money offered for the expiation of sins was for the priests.

²¹ Some of his officials plotted a conspiracy against him, and they killed him in Beth-Millo, as he was going to Silla.²² Jozacar, son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad, son of Shomer, struck him down, and he died. He was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and his son Amaziah reigned in his place.

Jehoahaz, king of Israel

13 ¹ In the twenty-third year of Joash, son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, began to rule over Israel from Samaria, its capital; he reigned for seventeen years.² He acted badly with Yahweh and persisted in the sins of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, which had become the sins of Israel, without turning away from them.³ So the anger of

■ The following six chapters relate the history of the kingdom of Israel and Judah from Joash to the destruction of the kingdom of Israel (the northern kingdom) in 721 B.C., a period of over a hundred years.

In Jerusalem the capital of Judah, there are only four kings, the first two rule forty years each.

In Israel, at first the sons of Jehu know many setbacks. Their third descendant, Jeroboam II, will achieve a period of prosperity thanks to his victories. Meanwhile, the powerful kings of Assyria are conquering everywhere and they will soon threaten Israel with their armies and their power.

Yahweh burned against Israel, and he delivered them into the hands of Hazael, king of Aram, and into the hands of Ben-hadad, son of Hazael, throughout that time.

Joash, king of Israel

¹⁰ In the thirty-seventh year of Joash, king of Judah, Joash, son of Jehoahaz, began to reign over Israel in Samaria, its capital; he reigned for sixteen years. ¹¹ He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh; he did not turn away from the sins which Jeroboam, son of Nebat, made Israel commit. ¹² The rest about Joash and all that he did, his bravery and how he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah; are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹³ When Joash slept with his fathers, he was buried in Samaria, together with the kings of Israel, and Jeroboam sat upon his throne.

Death of Elisha

¹⁴ When Elisha became very sick so that he was about to die, Joash, king of Israel, went down to him and went before him, saying, "My father! My father! Chariot and horses of Israel!" ¹⁵ Elisha said to him, "Take a bow and arrows." So he took a bow and arrows. ¹⁶ Elisha then said to the king, "Draw the bow," and the king drew the bow. Then Elisha put his hand on the king's hand ¹⁷ and said, "Open the window eastward." He opened it. Elisha then said, "Shoot!" And he shot. Elisha said, "Yahweh's arrow of victory, arrow of victory over Aram! You shall defeat Aram in Aphek until you utterly destroy them!" ¹⁸ And he added, "Take the arrows." And he took them. Elisha said to the king, "Strike the ground with them." He struck three times and stopped. ¹⁹ So the man of God became angry at him, and said to him, "You should have struck five or six times, then you would have struck down Aram completely. But now, you will strike down Aram only three times."

²⁰ Elisha died and they buried him. A little later, a detachment of Moabites conducted a raid as they used to do at the beginning of every year. ²¹ It happened that at that time, some people were burying a dead man when they saw the Moabites. So they quickly threw the body into the grave of Elisha, and then fled to safety. But as soon as the man's body touched the bones of Elisha, the man revived and stood on his feet.

²² Hazael, king of Aram, oppressed the Israelites throughout the reign of Jehoahaz. ²³ But Yahweh had pity and took compassion on them; he turned towards them because of his Covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and would not utterly destroy them, or cast them far from his face. ²⁴ Hazael, the king of Aram, died; and his son Ben-hadad reigned in his place. ²⁵ Then Joash, son of Jehoahaz, took again from Ben-hadad the cities which Hazael had taken from Jehoahaz. Joash defeated him thrice and recovered the cities of Israel.

Amaziah, king of Judah

14 ¹ Amaziah, son of Joash, king of Judah, began to reign in the second year of Joash, king of Israel. ² He was twenty-five years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jehoaddin of Jerusalem. ³ He did what was right in the eyes of Yahweh, yet not like his father David; rather he acted like his father Joash. ⁴ The Sanctuaries on the Hill-side still stood; there the people continued to offer sacrifices and to burn incense.

⁸ Then Amaziah sent messengers to Joash, son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, to say to him, "Come up and let us see which of us two is better."⁹ Joash, king of Israel, sent as an answer to Amaziah, king of Judah: "A thornbush of Lebanon sent this message to a cedar of Lebanon: Give me your daughter to be my son's wife. But the wild beasts of Lebanon passed by and trampled down the bush."¹⁰ You now feel very proud since you conquered the Edomites. Be content with your fame and be quiet in your own house lest disgrace befall you and the people of Judah."

¹¹ But Amaziah did not listen: so Joash, king of Israel, came and confronted him in Beth-shemesh of Judah.¹² Judah was defeated by Israel, and everyone of them fled to his home.¹³ Joash, king of Israel, took Amaziah, son of Ahaziah, as prisoner in Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem.

He made an opening two hundred metres wide in the wall of Jerusalem, from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate.¹⁴ He took all the gold and silver, all that he found in the House of Yahweh and in the treasuries of the king's house, and hostages as well, and then returned to Samaria.

¹⁵ Now the rest about Joash, about his bravery and how he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah, is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.¹⁶ When Joash laid down to rest with his fathers, they buried him in Samaria with his fathers, and his son Jeroboam reigned in his place.

¹⁷ Now about Amaziah: he lived fifteen more years after the death of Joash, king of Israel.¹⁸ The rest of the history of Amaziah is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.¹⁹ There were people who conspired against him in Jerusalem. So Amaziah took refuge in Lachish, but they pursued him and killed him in that city.²⁰ His body was brought from there in a chariot, and they buried him in Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.²¹ Then, all the people of Judah took Azariah who was sixteen years old, and proclaimed him king in place of his father Amaziah.²² He rebuilt Elath and restored it to Judah, after the king, his father, died.

Jeroboam II, king of Israel

²³ Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of Israel, began to reign in Samaria in the fifteenth year of the reign of Amaziah, king of Judah. He reigned for forty-one years.²⁴ and during his reign he acted badly towards Yahweh, for he did not turn away from the sins which Jeroboam, son of Nebat, made Israel commit.²⁵ He restored the border of Israel from the entrance of Hamath up to the Dead Sea, according to the word which Yahweh, the God of Israel, had said through the mouth of his servant, the prophet Jonah, the son of Amittai from Gath-hepher.²⁶ Yahweh had seen the extreme bitter misery of Israel; there was no one left, neither slave nor freeman, who would help Israel.²⁷ But Yahweh did not decide to wipe out the name of Israel under the heavens, so he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam, son of Joash.

²⁸ Now the rest regarding Jeroboam, all that he did and his bravery, how he fought and restored Hamath and Damascus back to Israel, is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.²⁹ When Jeroboam died, he was buried with the kings of Israel, and his son Zechariah reigned in his place.

Azariah, king of Judah

15 ¹ Azariah, son of Amaziah, king of Judah, began to reign in the twenty-seventh year of the reign of Jeroboam in Israel.² He was sixteen years old when he began his reign; he reigned for fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

⁶ Now the rest about Azariah and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of

◆ The Bible dedicates only this paragraph to Jeroboam II, King of Israel (783-743 B.C.), in spite of his having restored greatness and prosperity to the kingdom.

In Jeroboam's victories, the author sees only God's last favour for his humiliated people.

This prosperity, however, brings about the exploitation of the people. This is the time when the prophets Hosea and Amos announce – to everyone's disbelief – that this prosperity will be brief because it is not based on justice. At the death of Jeroboam, the kingdom of Samaria is coming to an end.

Religious division continues and the Israelites of the north, isolated from the religious center of Jerusalem, will not succeed in preserving their faith when confronted with pagan currents.

the Kings of Judah. ⁷ When Azariah died, they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and his son Jotham succeeded him.

The last kings of Israel

⁸ Zechariah, son of Jeroboam, began to reign over Israel in Samaria, its capital, in the thirty-eighth year of Azariah, king of Judah. For the six months that he stayed in power, ⁹ he acted badly towards Yahweh, as his fathers had done, for he did not turn away from the sins which Jeroboam, son of Nebat, made Israel commit.

¹⁰ Shallum, son of Jabesh, conspired against him, and struck him down at Ibleam. He killed him and reigned in his place.

¹¹ Now the rest regarding Zechariah is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ¹² In this way the promise Yahweh had made to Jehu was fulfilled: "Your sons until the fourth generation shall sit upon the throne of Israel." And so it was.

¹³ Shallum, son of Jabesh, began to reign in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah, king of Judah, and he reigned for a month in Samaria. ¹⁴ Then Menahem, son of Gadi, rebelled against him in Tirzah. He came to Samaria and killed Shallum in that city. Having killed Shallum, Menahem reigned in his place.

¹⁷ Menahem, son of Gadi, began to reign in the thirty-ninth year of Azariah, king of Judah. He reigned for ten years in Samaria, ¹⁸ and he too acted badly with Yahweh, for he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, son of Nebat, which he made Israel commit.

²¹ Now the rest regarding Menahem and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. ²² When Menahem died, his son Pekahiah succeeded him.

²³ Pekahiah, son of Menahem, began to reign over Israel in Samaria in the fiftieth year of Azariah, king of Judah. He reigned for two years, ²⁴ during which he acted badly towards Yahweh; he did not turn away from the sins which Jeroboam, son of Nebat, made Israel commit.

²⁶ The rest about Pekahiah and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

²⁷ In the fifty-second year of Azariah, king of Judah, Pekah, son of Remaliah, began to reign over Israel in Samaria, its capital. He reigned for twenty years, and he acted badly towards Yahweh, ²⁸ for he did not turn away from the sins which Jeroboam made Israel commit.

²⁹ In the time of Pekah, king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, came and seized Iyon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, the territory of Gilead and Galilee, and the whole land of Naphtali, and deported their inhabitants to Asshur. ³⁰ Then Hoshea, son of Elah, conspired against Pekah, son of Remaliah, killed him and reigned in his place. ³¹ The rest about Pekah and all that he did is written in the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Jotham, king of Judah

³² Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, began to reign in the second year of Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel. ³³ Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jerusha, daughter of Zadok.

³⁴ He did what pleased Yahweh, as his father had done. ³⁵ but he did not abolish the Sanctuaries on the high places where the people continued to offer sacrifices and burn incense.

He built the Upper Gate of the House of Yahweh. ³⁶ The rest about Jotham and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ³⁷ In those days, Yahweh began to send Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, against Judah. ³⁸ When Jotham died, they buried him with his fathers in the city of his ancestor David, and his son Ahaz succeeded him.

Ahaz, king of Judah

16 ¹ In the seventeenth year of the reign of Pekah, son of Remaliah, Ahaz the son of Jotham, king of Judah, began his reign.

² and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do what pleased Yahweh, his God, as his father David had done. ³ He walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and even sacrificed his son in the fire, according to the hateful practices of those nations which Yahweh had expelled from the land, so the children of Israel could occupy their place. ⁴ He offered sacrifices in the sanctuaries on the hills, on the slopes and under every green tree.

⁵ Then Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, came up to fight Jerusalem. They surrounded it, but could not conquer it. ⁶ At that time Rezin, king of Aram, recovered Elath for the Edomites, expelling the Jews from there. The Edomites then entered Elath and live there until now.

⁷ Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser, king of Asshur, to tell him, "I am your servant and your son. Come then and rescue me from the hands of the king of Aram and of the king of Israel, who wage war against me." ⁸ Ahaz took the silver and gold that was in the House of Yahweh and the treasures from the house of the king, and sent them as a gift to the king of Asshur. ⁹ The king of Asshur paid heed to him and went to attack Damascus; he seized that city and exiled its inhabitants to Kir, then he killed Rezin.

¹⁰ So King Ahaz went to Damascus to meet with Tiglath-pileser, king of Asshur. And when he saw the altar in Damascus, he sent Uriah, the priest, the measurement of that altar together with the design which he copied exactly in all its details.

¹¹ The priest Uriah built the altar according to the design the king had sent him from Damascus. He finished it before King Ahaz arrived from Damascus. ¹² When the king returned from Damascus, he saw the altar, approached it and went up to it. ¹³ He burned on that altar his holocausts and sacrifices. There he made his libation and shed the blood of his peace offerings. ¹⁴ He removed the altar of bronze that was before Yahweh, from the front of the House, from between the new altar and the House of Yahweh, and he placed it on the north side of his new altar.

King Ahaz ordered the priest Uriah, ¹⁵ "Upon this great altar you shall burn the morning holocaust and the evening sacrifice, the king's holocaust and his sacrifice, the holocausts of the people of the land, their sacrifices and libations. You shall shed upon it all the blood of the holocausts and sacrifices. As for the bronze altar, I will deal with it." ¹⁶ The priest Uriah did as the king had commanded him.

¹⁹ The rest regarding Ahaz and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁰ When Ahaz died, they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and his son Hezekiah succeeded him.

End of the kingdom of Israel in the north

[17] ¹ Hoshea, son of Elah, began to reign in Israel in the twelfth year of Ahaz, king of Judah. He reigned for nine years in the city of Samaria. ² and he acted badly towards Yahweh though not as bad as the previous kings of Israel.

³ Shalmaneser, king of Asshur, came with his army to attack Hoshea, who surrendered to him and began paying taxes to him. ⁴ But the king of Asshur discovered that Hoshea was plotting against him, for Hoshea had

■ Here we have the description of the fall of the northern kingdom. Samaria is captured in 721 B.C. The people are deported to the other extreme of the Assyrian empire, and residents from those remote provinces are brought to Samaria to mix with the people in the countryside. Such was the practice among the Assyrian conquerors: displacing and intermingling the people to prevent rebellion.

From that time on, the Samaritans, or the Israelites of the north, will be a racially and religiously mixed people, and so the Israelites of Judah will never consider them as their equals. Seven centuries later, in Jesus' time, the Samaritans will be neighbors to be avoided, because there are more suspicions than common memories.

Thus, the most important of the kingdoms coming from David and Solomon disappears two centuries after Solomon's death. Among the Jews, the hope will remain that when the Messiah comes he will reunite Judah and Israel and call all those who were scattered among the nations (see Ez 37:15).

sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, and did not pay him the taxes as he had done every year. Shalmaneser arrested him, and then put him in prison.

⁵ The army of the king of Asshur subjected the whole of Israel, and they came to Samaria and laid siege to it for three years. ⁶ In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria captured Samaria, exiled the Israelites to Asshur and made them settle in Halah, at the banks of Habor, the river of Gozan, as well as in the cities of the Medes.

Causes of the fall of Israel

+ ⁷ This happened because the children of Israel had sinned against Yahweh, their God, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, where they were subject to Pharaoh, but they had turned back to other gods. ⁸ They followed the customs of the nations which Yahweh had driven out before them.

⁹ The children of Israel introduced many innovations that offended Yahweh, their God. They built sanctuaries in all the cities, from the watch-towers to the fortified cities. ¹⁰ They placed images and sacred pillars on all the hills and under every green tree. ¹¹ There they burned incense in their sanctuaries on the hills like the nations Yahweh had dispossessed for them.

They did wicked things, provoking Yahweh to anger. ¹² They served their filthy idols in spite of what Yahweh had told them: "You must not do such a thing." ¹³ Yahweh warned Israel and Judah through the mouth of prophets and seers, saying: "Turn from your evil ways and keep my commandments and precepts according to the laws which I commanded your fathers and which I have sent to you by my servants, the prophets."

¹⁴ But they did not listen and refused as did their fathers who did not believe in Yahweh, their God. ¹⁵ They despised his statutes and the covenant he had made with their fathers, and the warnings he had given them. They went after worthless idols and they themselves became worthless, following the nations which surrounded

+ The kingdom of Israel disappeared when Samaria was conquered by the Assyrians. It was too small and isolated to resist its powerful neighbour. The Bible, however makes us discover the deep cause of this disaster: they had betrayed Yahweh their God.

For God never abandons the persons and the institutions he has entrusted with a mission. Israel had been chosen to serve Yahweh and since it did not serve, it had to be destroyed.

They served their filthy idols. Though the first meaning of idol was: image, idols are not images of Christ and his servants the saints, as short-sighted believers think. An idol is everything that takes the place of the only God in our heart and our lives. He is the living God and gives life to those who serve him. The filthy idols bring sickness and confusion to the society which serves them. Whether they be gadgets, elements of luxurious life, idols of blood and flesh, with them we are always left sad and unclean.

Yet the idols had another significance for Israel. They were a small people less advanced than the neighbouring nations. The idols were the symbol and the instrument of a foreign and alienating culture. With the Canaanite and Assyrian idols they imported the worship of sex, greed and violence. They forgot the problems of their own society and lost the thirst for justice that was their inheritance.

It is the same now when undeveloped people are enslaved by the idols of a Consumerist Society... When families are subdued to the "T.V. idiotizing box," religiously watching the advertising of greed, the erotic shows and what ever has been planned for them by the Consumerist Society, they become unable to build their own life in their own reality. Then the building of a nation in justice is no more than a beautiful dream.

They went after worthless idols and they became worthless (15). Jeremiah will also say: "They served foreign gods and so I will send them to foreign lands as slaves" (Jer 16:13); see also Jgs 3:7 and Rom 1:24.

them, in spite of what Yahweh had said, "Do not do as they do."

¹⁷ They sacrificed their sons and daughters in the fire, practiced divination and magic, and sold themselves to evil-doing in the sight of Yahweh and kindled his anger.

¹⁸ So Yahweh became indignant with Israel and cast them far away from his presence, leaving only the tribe of Judah.

¹⁹ But neither did Judah keep the commandments of Yahweh, their God; on the contrary they followed the customs practised in Israel. ²⁰ Because of this, Yahweh rejected the whole race of Israel. He humbled them and delivered them into the hands of plunderers until the day came when he drove them far away from his presence.

²¹ When he divided the kingdom of David, Israel chose Jeroboam, son of Nebat, as king; he made them commit a great sin by separating themselves from Yahweh. ²² The Israelites followed Jeroboam in his sins, and henceforth, did not turn away from them ²³ until Yahweh had removed Israel from his presence, as he had warned them through his servants, the prophets. So Israel was exiled from its land to the country of Asshur until this day.

The origin of the Samaritans

■ ²⁴ The king of Asshur brought in people of Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath and Sepharvaim, and he settled them in the cities of Samaria in place of the Israelites. These people occupied the country of Samaria and resided in its cities.

²⁵ When they settled there at the beginning, they did not worship Yahweh, so Yahweh sent lions which killed many of them. ²⁶ Then it was told to the king of Asshur, "The people you brought and sent to Samaria to settle in its cities do not know how Yahweh, the God of the land, should be honoured, so he has sent lions which are killing them."

²⁷ So the king of Asshur commanded, "Let one of the priests we have banished from Samaria return there. Let him go and live with those people and teach them how to honour the God of that land." ²⁸ So, one of the priests who had been banished from Samaria came back, and staying in Bethel, taught these people how they should honour Yahweh.

³² They worshipped Yahweh, but they appointed for themselves priests from among their people, who served Yahweh in the sanctuaries on the hills. ³³ They honoured Yahweh but at the same time, served their own gods, according to the customs of the nations where they had been banished. ³⁴ Until this very day, they still observe their old customs.

The Israelites who had remained in Samaria did not honour Yahweh nor did they follow the precepts and customs, the Law or the commandments which Yahweh had given to the children of Jacob to whom he had given the name Israel. ³⁵ Yahweh had made a covenant with them, commanding them, "Do not honour other gods or bow down before them, or serve them or offer them sacrifices." ³⁶ You shall honour Yahweh alone, who brought you out of the land of Egypt with the strength of his arm; before him you shall bow and to him alone shall you offer sacrifices. ³⁷ Keep the precepts, the ordinances, the Law and the commandments he wrote for you. Fulfill them all your days and do not adore strange gods. ³⁸ Do not forsake the covenant he made with you and do not adore strange gods, ³⁹ but adore only Yahweh, your God, and he shall free you from

■ The foreigners who are brought to Samaria meet with hardships which arouse religious restlessness in them: can the god of this land be angry with us because we do not offer sacrifices to him?

Answering the doubts of these basically religious people, though of a primitive culture, the author highlights the demands of faith:

- it is not enough to honor the Lord along with the other gods. He is the only One and he asks us to destroy all the gods we have made for ourselves
- it is not enough to offer sacrifices to the Lord: we must do his will.

the hand of all your enemies." ⁴⁰ But they did not pay attention; instead they followed their ancient customs.

Hezekiah, king of Judah

◆ 18 ¹ Hezekiah, son of Ahaz, began to reign in Judah in the third year of Hoshea, son of Elah, king of Israel.

² He was twenty-five years old then, and his reign in Jerusalem lasted for twenty-nine years. His mother was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah.

³ He did what was right in the eyes of Yahweh, like David, his ancestor.

⁴ He did away with the sanctuaries on the hills, demolished the standing stones and cut down the sacred pillars.

He also destroyed the bronze serpent that Moses had fashioned in the desert for, until that time, the Israelites were offering sacrifices to it and called it Nehushtan.

⁵ He trusted in Yahweh more than any of the kings of Judah who preceded or succeeded him and he never departed from him. ⁶ He kept the commandments Yahweh had given through Moses. ⁷ For that reason, Yahweh was with him; he succeeded in all his undertakings. He rebelled against the king of Assyria and was no longer subject to him. ⁸ He imposed his authority on the Philistines as far as Gaza, and seized their land from the watchtowers to the fortified cities.

⁹ In the fourth year of Hezekiah's reign which was the seventh year of Hoshea, son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, came against Samaria and besieged it. ¹⁰ At the end of three years, he conquered it. In the sixth year of Hezekiah, which was the ninth year of Hoshea, king of Israel, Samaria was conquered. ¹¹ The king of Assyria deported the Israelites to Assyria and settled them in Halah, on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

¹² This happened to them because they did not listen to the voice of Yah-

◆ Here begins the last part of the Book of Kings: the history of the kingdom of Judah. The fall of Samaria and the disappearance of the northern kingdom bring about a religious renewal in the south.

Hezekiah did what is right in the eyes of Yahweh. This is the time when the prophet Isaiah is present at the side of king Hezekiah (716-687 B.C.). Even if Hezekiah did not – by far – have the faith of David, he dedicated himself to promoting fidelity to the Lord.

He did away with the sanctuaries on the hills. Here we note the effort on the part of the kings of Judah to see to it that the only place of worship would be the Jerusalem Temple. In the many rural sanctuaries, people went to offer their sacrifices to Yahweh in ways that were usually mixed up with pagan practices. By highlighting the Jerusalem Temple's monopoly with its better educated priests and Levites looking after the purity of the faith, Hezekiah promotes religious reform.

As to the bronze serpent which Hezekiah destroyed, see Nm 21:3.

It is also true that many fugitive priests had come from the north during the last days of Samaria. Some of them had succeeded in maintaining faith in Yahweh and religious unity. They had brought along sacred books and kept many ancient traditions on Moses' and Israel's past. This contribution was going to be extremely important for the writing of the Bible and also for Josiah's reform a century later (2 Kgs 22).

In 701 B.C. Sennacherib besieges Jerusalem and Hezekiah has to pay a high price to keep him away.

Beginning with 18:7 to the end of chapter 19 we have the story of the miraculous liberation of Jerusalem. Actually there are two stories that may correspond to two liberations from two Assyrian invasions.

◆ In 701 the king of Assyria sends his generals from Lachish to demand Hezekiah's surrender. But he has to return to his country and cannot carry out his threats. This story is in 18:17-19 and it concludes in 19:36-37.

In 690 B.C. there is another intervention related in 19:9-35. This time "the angel of the weh, their God, and had broken his covenant; they did not listen to nor put into practice what Moses, the servant of Yahweh, had commanded them.

Sennacherib's invasion

¹³ In the fourteenth year of Hezekiah's reign, Sennacherib, king of Assyria, came up and invaded Judah; he laid siege to all the fortified cities and seized all of them. ¹⁴ Hezekiah, king of Judah, sent a message to Sennacherib who was in Lachish, "I have acted badly, stop your attack and I will do whatever you demand of me." The king of Assyria imposed on Hezekiah a contribution of three hundred talents of silver and thirty of gold.

¹⁷ From Lachish the king of Assyria sent his field commander with a large army to King Hezekiah in Jerusalem. They halted at the channel of the Upper Pool on the highway to the Fuller's Field. The field commander called for the king; and ¹⁸ Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, went out to him together with Sheb-nah the secretary and Joah, son of Asaph the recorder.

¹⁹ The field commander said to them, "Tell Hezekiah this message from the great king of Assyria: How can you be so confident? ²⁰ You thought that words are as good as wisdom and replace strength in time of war? On whom are you relying to rebel against me? ²¹ You rely on Egypt, a broken staff which pierces the palm of him who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, for all who rely on him. ²² Yes, you may say to me: 'We rely on Yahweh our God.' But isn't he the one whose altars and high places Hezekiah removed when he commanded Judah and Jerusalem: You shall worship before this altar?

²³ Come now, make a bargain with my master, the king. I will give you two thousand horses if you are able to supply riders. ²⁴ How could you repulse even, one of the least of my master's generals? And you rely on Egypt for chariots and horsemen!

Lord came out and killed one hundred eighty-five thousand soldiers in the camp." The famous pagan historian, Herodotus, relates the sudden destruction of this army by a plague epidemic. A most natural event! And yet, at the time when the Holy City is about to fall and when God's promises seem to fail, some mice are spreading the deadly virus: The biblical author makes no mistake in seeing this as a manifestation of God. Jerusalem was liberated as Isaiah had predicted.

These two chapters appear almost word for word in the book of Isaiah, chapters 36-37. And so here we only emphasize the story of the first liberation, and in Isaiah 37, the story of the second one.

Make peace with me and surrender (v. 31). The Assyrian king proposes peace with the condition that the people be deported. For the Jews this would mean the loss of their national and religious life by being dispersed in other lands. It would also mean that David's descendants would be deprived of power and according to the mentality of that time, that Yahweh was defeated by the gods of the conqueror. That is why God is going to do something.

These events invite us to trust in God's help. When God commits himself to act, he cannot fail if we do not get tired of hoping in him. Against all human hope, Jerusalem remains untouched. This is the image of a ruler whom people want to depose because of his honesty but who remains. Or the student who stays firm even though his friends mock his faith. Or the young people who remain pure in a culture without morality. Or the church reduced to a few faithful which is seemingly defeated by political forces and yet victorious.

²⁵ Do you think that I have come to attack and destroy this land without consulting Yahweh? He himself said to me: Go up to this land and conquer it!" ²⁶ Then Eliakim and Shebna and Joah said to the field commander, "Speak to your servants in Aramaic; we understand it. Do not speak to us in Hebrew in the hearing of these people on the walls."

²⁷ But the field commander said, "Do you think that my master sent me to speak these words only to your master and to you? Is it not also to the men on the walls who, with you, will have to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?"

Hezekiah is misleading you when he says that Yahweh will save you. ³³ Have the gods of the nations rescued their land from the hands of the king of Assyria? ³⁴ Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah? And have the gods delivered Samaria from my hand? ³⁵ Who among all the gods of these nations has been able to save his country from me? Do you think that Yahweh will deliver Jerusalem from my hand?"

³⁶ The people were like deaf men and remained silent since the king had commanded them not to answer him.

³⁷ Then Eliakim with Shebna and Joah came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and told him what the field commander had said.

19 ¹ When King Hezekiah heard it he tore his clothes, covered himself with sackcloth and went to the house of Yahweh. ² He sent Eliakim, Shebna and the elders among the priests, all wearing sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz.

³ And they said to Isaiah, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of distress, rebuke and disgrace, as when children come to the point of birth and there is no strength to deliver them. ⁴ Would that your God might hear the words of the field commander, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent. May Yahweh your God rebuke him for the words he said, insulting the living God. Therefore offer a prayer for the few of us that are left.'"

⁵ When King Hezekiah's officials came to Isaiah, ⁶ he said to them: "Tell your master this word of Yahweh: Do not fear because of the words you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have insulted me. Listen! ⁷ I will let him be frightened. Then he will return to his country, and there I will have him slain by the sword."

⁸ The field commander returned and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah for he had heard that the king had left Lachish. ⁹ This was because King Sennacherib had heard hat Tirhakah, the Cushite king of Egypt, was going out to fight him. . .

ienmacherib's letter to Hezekiah

¹⁰ Again Sennacherib sent messengers to Hezekiah with these words, "Say to Hezekiah, king of Judah that his God in whom he trusts may be deceiving him in saying that Jerusalem will not be given into the hands of the king of Assyria. ¹¹ Surely you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands they have destroyed! And will you be spared? ¹² Have the gods saved the nations that my fathers destroyed? Gozan and Haran, Rezeph and the sons of Eden who were in Telassar? ¹³ Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the kings of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena and Ivvah?"

¹⁴ Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers and when he had read it he went to the house of Yahweh where he unrolled the letter and prayed saying, "O Yahweh, God of hosts and God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim! You alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth: ¹⁵ give ear, Yahweh and hear! Open your eyes and see! Listen to all the words of Sennacherib who has sent men to insult the living God! ¹⁷ It is true, Yahweh, that he kings of Assyria have laid waste all the countries of the earth. ¹⁸ They have thrown their gods into the fire and destroyed them, for they were not true gods but gods made of wood and stone by human hands. ¹⁹ Now, O Yahweh our God, save us from his hand and let all the kingdoms of the earth know that you alone, Yahweh, are God."

Isaiah intervenes

²⁰ Then Isaiah, son of Amoz, sent word to Hezekiah: "You have called upon Yahweh and he has heard your prayer regarding Sennacherib, king of Assyria. ²¹ This is what Yahweh has spoken against him:

The Virgin Daughter of Zion despises and scorns you; the Daughter of Jerusalem shakes her head behind you.

²² Whom have you insulted and blasphemed?

Against whom have you raised your voice and lifted up your eyes in arrogance? Against the Holy One of Israel!

²³ Through your servants you have insulted Yahweh.

For you have said:
With the enormous number of my chariots,

I have ascended the heights of the mountains, the topmost recesses of Lebanon. I have cut down its tallest cedars and its choicest fir trees.

I have climbed the remotest heights of its border to the densest of its forests.

²⁴ I have dug wells and drunk waters;

I have dried up with the soles of my feet all the streams of Egypt.

²⁵ Have you not heard how I decreed it long ago, how I planned from days of old what now I have brought to pass?

Your ordained role was to lay waste fortified cities, to turn them into ruinous heaps.

²⁶ Shorn of power, their inhabitants have been dismayed and confounded;

they have been as the grass and green plants in the field, as the grass on the housetops, as corn blasted before it is grown up.

²⁷ I know whenever you rise or sit, whenever you go out or come in;

and I know your rage against me.

²⁸ Because of your rage against me and of your arrogance that I have heard of,

I will put my hook in your nose and my bridle in your mouth, and I will turn you back on the way by which you came.

³⁰ A remnant of the house of Judah shall take root below and produce fruit above. ³¹ For a remnant will come from Jerusalem and survivors from Mount Zion. The zeal of Yahweh of hosts will accomplish this. ³² That is why Yahweh has spoken concerning the king of Assyria. He shall not enter this city nor shoot his arrows. ³³ He shall not raise a shield to oppose it or build a siege ramp against it. He shall leave by the way he came and he shall not enter the city, word of Yahweh. ³⁴ I will protect this city and so save it for my own sake and for the sake of David, my servant. ³⁵ It happened that the angel of Yahweh went out that night and struck one hundred and eighty-five thousand men in the Assyrian camp. When the people rose early next morning there were all the corpses.

³⁶ So Sennacherib, king of Assyria, departed, returned home and lived in Nineveh. ³⁷ While he was worshipping in the temple of his god, Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer slew him with the sword and then escaped to the land of Ararat. And Esarhaddon, his son, succeeded him as king.

Hezekiah's illness

20 ¹ In those days Hezekiah fell mortally ill and the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, went to him with a message from Yahweh, "Put your house in order for you shall die; you shall not live."

² Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to Yahweh. ³ "Ah Yahweh! Remember how I have walked before you in truth and wholeheartedly, and have done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

⁴ Isaiah had still not reached the central courtyard when the word of Yahweh came to him. ⁵ "Go back and tell Hezekiah the ruler of my people what Yahweh, the God of his father David, says: 'I have heard your prayer and I have seen your tears. And now I will cure you. On the third day you will go up to the house of Yahweh. ⁶ See! I am adding fifteen years to your life and I will save you and this city from the power of the king of Assyria. I will defend it for my sake and for the sake of David my servant.'

ten steps."¹¹ The prophet Isaiah called on Yahweh, and Yahweh made the shadow go back ten steps, line by line, on the ten steps it had covered on the stairway.

¹² Isaiah then said, "Bring a fig cake to rub on the ulcer and let Hezekiah be cured!"

¹³ At that time Merodach-baladan, son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah after hearing that he was recovering from an illness. ¹⁴ Hezekiah rejoiced, so he showed the envoys his treasure house – the silver, the gold, the spices, the fragrant oils, his weapons and all that was in the treasury. There was nothing in this palace, or in all he possessed that Hezekiah did not show.

¹⁵ Then the prophet Isaiah went to the king and said, "What did these men say? Where did they come from?" The king answered, "They have come from a far country, from Babylon."

¹⁶ Isaiah said, "And what have they seen in your house?" The king answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing in my treasuries that I did not show them."

¹⁹ Some of your own sons who are born of your blood shall be taken away and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon."

²⁰ Hezekiah answered Isaiah, "What you say is a good word from Yahweh"; for he thought "What does it matter just so I have peace and security in my own lifetime?"

²¹ Now the rest regarding Hezekiah and all about his bravery, how he built the great reservoir and how it supplied water to the city is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²² When Hezekiah slept with his fathers, his son Manasseh reigned in his place.

Manasseh, king of Judah

+21 ¹ Manasseh was twelve years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for fifty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hephzibah.

35. Gen 19, 13; Ex 12, 23; 2 S 24, 16 36. Is 37, 37; Is 38 5. Ps 39, 13 8. Jdg 6, 17 20. Is 22, 11

+ The tragic experience of God's people continues. After Hezekiah and his reforms, his son Manasseh takes the opposite attitude.

Manasseh is a king without faith who, moreover, openly promotes idolatry and who persecutes Yahweh's people as Jezebel had done in Israel a century before. With his godless, crime-filled reign, Manasseh succeeds in destroying the hope placed in David's descendant by Hezekiah's reforms.

His reign lasted forty-five years, during which both faithful and prophets had to keep quiet or hide. The betrayal of Yahweh's Covenant was such that after Manasseh's death, the prophets made him responsible for the fall of Jerusalem.

² He treated Yahweh very badly, imitating the wretched practices of the people Yahweh had driven out from the land in order to give it to the Israelites. ³ He rebuilt the sanctuaries on the hills which had been destroyed by Hezekiah, his father. He built altars to the god Baal and made a sacred pillar similar to the one Ahab, king of Israel, had made. He knelt before all the stars of heaven and worshipped them. ⁴ He built altars in the courtyard of the House of Yahweh, about which Yahweh had said, "Jerusalem shall be the dwelling place of my Name."

⁵ He built altars for all the stars of heaven in the two courtyards of the House of Yahweh.

⁶ He sacrificed his son by fire. He practiced soothsaying and magic, he brought in seers and wizards, doing without ceasing what Yahweh condemned, and so provoking his anger.

⁷ He even put up the sacred pillar of the goddess Asherah in the House of Yahweh in spite of what Yahweh had said to David and to his son, Solomon: "I shall let my Name rest forever in this House, for I have chosen Jerusalem from among all the tribes of Israel. ⁸ I shall no longer let my Name wander out of the land I gave to your fathers, provided that you try to live according to all the Law I gave you through my servant Moses."

⁹ But they did not listen, and Manasseh led them to do things worse than those nations had done whom Yahweh had expelled before the Israelites. ¹⁰ So Yahweh spoke through the mouth of his servants, the prophets, saying,

¹¹ "Manasseh, king of Judah, has multiplied the wretched practices and has acted worse than the Amorites. He has made the people of Judah sin with his repugnant images.

¹² Therefore, I shall bring upon Jerusalem and upon Judah an evil so great that the ears of those who hear of it shall buzz. ¹³ Jerusalem and its kings shall suffer the fate of Samaria and of the family of Ahab. I will wipe Jerusalem as one wipes a plate to clean it, and then, turns it upside down. ¹⁴ I shall drive away the rest of my people and give them over into the hands of their enemies so that they shall become their prey and booty. ¹⁵ For they did what displeased me and made me angry from the day when their fathers came out of Egypt to this day."

¹⁶ Manasseh also shed innocent blood in such a quantity that it filled up Jerusalem from one end to the other, besides the sins which he made Judah commit. ¹⁷ The rest regarding Manasseh, all that he did and the sins he committed, is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah.

¹⁸ When Manasseh died, they buried him in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzza, and his son Amon reigned in his place.

¹⁹ Amon was twenty-two years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for two years in Jerusalem; his mother's name was Meshullemeth, daughter of Haruz, of the city of Jotbah. ²⁰ He treated Yahweh badly, as his father Manasseh had done. ²¹ He completely followed in the footsteps of his father — he served the idols his father had served and bowed down before them. ²² He abandoned Yahweh, the God of his fathers, and did not walk in the way of Yahweh.

²⁵ The rest regarding Amon and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁶ They buried him in his tomb, in the garden of Uzza, and his son Josiah reigned in his place.

The book of the Law discovered

22 ¹ Josiah was eight years old when he began to govern, and he reigned for thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jedidah, daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath. ² He did everything that was right in the eyes of Yahweh, and followed in the footsteps of David, his father, without turning aside either to the right or to the left.

■ Josiah followed the footsteps of David, his father. In the last days of the kingdom of Judah, a king "like David" is going to dedicate himself to renewal of the faith and Yahweh's Covenant, to the reconquest of his ancestors' territories.

Following the death of the persecuting kings, the faithful slowly awaken. In 622 B.C. the accidental discovery of the "Law" shakes up the kingdom.

I have found the book of the Law in the House of Yahweh. During the previous kingdoms, the sacred books had been forgotten or hidden. What was discovered was certainly most of Genesis, Exodus and Deuteronomy. This last book was mostly due to the Levites and the

³ In the eighteenth year of his reign, King Josiah sent his secretary Shaphan, son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam, to the House of Yahweh, saying, ⁴ "Go up to the high priest Hilkiah and give him the amount of money which the people offer for the House of Yahweh, and that which the gatekeepers have collected, and when these have been merged, ⁵ let them turn it over to those in charge of the House of Yahweh. ⁶ It shall be given to those carpenters and construction workers who do the repairs of the House. In the same way, they shall buy the wood and stones needed for the repair of the House. ⁷ But do not ask from them any account of the money, for they are honourable men."

⁸ When Hilkiah, the high priest, received the money, he said to Shaphan, the secretary, "I have found the Book of the Law in the House of Yahweh." And he entrusted the Book to Shaphan who read it. ⁹ Then Shaphan went to the king and said, "We have gathered the money in the House, and this has been turned over to the caretakers of the House to make the repairs."

¹⁰ And Shaphan added, "The priest Hilkiah has turned over a book to me." And Shaphan read the book to the king so that he might know it. ¹¹ When the king heard the contents of the book, he tore his clothes and ¹² commanded Hilkiah, Ahikam, Achbor the secretary Shaphan, and Asaiah, his minister, to do the following, ¹³ "Go and consult Yahweh about the threats of this book which you have found. Consult him for me, for the people and for the whole of Judah, since our fathers did not listen to what this book says nor to its ordinances. This is why Yahweh felt so angry with us."

¹⁵ She answered them, ¹⁶ "This is what Yahweh says: I shall bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants according to all the words of the book which the king of Judah has read, ¹⁷ for this people abandoned me and they have burned incense in honour of other gods. Because of all they have done, I am angry against this place, and the fire of my anger will not be quenched.

¹⁸ You shall deliver this answer to the king of Judah, who has sent you to consult Yahweh: Yahweh, the God of Israel says this – The warnings of this book shall not reach you, ¹⁹ for your heart has been touched and you have done penance in the presence of Yahweh when you heard what I have said against this place and its inhabitants, that this place shall be desolate and cursed. You have torn your garments and wept before me, and I have heard you, says Yahweh. ²⁰ Therefore, you shall join your fathers; you shall die and be buried in peace, without seeing any of the evils I shall send against this place."

Josiah's religious reform

23 ¹ The king summoned to his side all the leaders of Judah and Jerusalem. ² Then he went up to the House of Yahweh followed by all the people of Judah and Jerusalem. The priests with the prophets and all the people went with him, from the youngest to the oldest. When all were priests who had come from the north when Samaria fell. It insisted on fidelity to the Covenant, declaring without hesitation that it was a matter of life or death for the people of God.

We can see the impact of the sacred word. From then on, Josiah (who was then twenty-six years old) focuses on shaping his life, and that of his people, according to the demands of the Law. He realizes that the Lord's protection is the only thing that can save his people from the great powers. The description of all that had to be destroyed gives us an idea of the wave of paganism which had invaded everything in Manasse's days.

gathered, the book of the Law found in the House of Yahweh was read.

³ The king stood by the pillar; he made a covenant in the presence of Yahweh, promising to follow him, to keep his commandments and laws, and to respect his ordinances. He promised to keep this covenant according to what was written in the book with all his heart and with all his soul. And all the people promised with him.

⁴ Then the king commanded the high priest Hilkiah as well as the priests of lesser rank and all the gatekeepers to bring out all the objects which had been made for Baal, Asherah and for all the stars of heaven. He had them burned outside Jerusalem, in the idle land of Kidron, and had their ashes thrown on the public burial ground of the people.

⁷ The king demolished the house of the effeminate men who dedicated themselves to prostitution (as was done in the cult of Asherah). This was within the courtyards of the House of Yahweh, and in this house too the women wove veils for Asherah.

◆ ¹⁵ There was also the sanctuary of Bethel, with the altar which Jeroboam, king of ◆ Taking advantage of the decadence of the Assyrian empire, Josiah had just reconquered part of the land of Israel to the north which had become an Assyrian province a hundred years before. There too, he will destroy all the sanctuaries, idols and practices that offend Yahweh's demands.

For a few years the prophets believe that Yahweh's threats announcing the total destruction of Israel will not be fulfilled. In the reconquest, they even see a sign of the happy times when the Messiah will reunite Judah and Israel as one people with one covenant (Jer 31:31).

Israel, had made. In this place the people of Israel practiced a cult prohibited by Yahweh. The king destroyed it. He set the sanctuary on fire and burned the sacred pillar. ¹⁶ Looking around on all sides, Josiah saw the tombs on the mountain; he had the bones taken out of the tomb and burned on the altar. So the word of Yahweh was fulfilled which the man of God had proclaimed when Jeroboam was standing by the altar during a feast. Josiah noticed the tomb of this man of God, ¹⁷ and he said, "What is that monument that I see?" The people of the city said to him, "That is the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah to announce what you have just done with the altar of Bethel." ¹⁸ The king commanded, "Leave the tomb in peace, and let no one touch his bones." And his bones together with the bones of the prophet of Samaria were not touched.

¹⁹ Josiah also removed all the sanctuaries on the hills in the cities of Samaria. These sanctuaries had been made by the kings of Israel and they had provoked the anger of Yahweh. The king destroyed them and did to them as he had done to the temple of Bethel.

²⁰ He slaughtered upon the altars all the priests of the sanctuaries on the hills who were found there, and he burned human bones on the altars. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

²¹ The king gave this order to all the people, "Celebrate the Passover in honour of Yahweh, our God, as it is written in this Book of the Covenant."

²⁴ Josiah obeyed all the words of the Law written in the book which the priest Hilkiah had found in the House of Yahweh. He immediately did away with the mediums and seers, the small household gods and the idols, and all those loathsome things seen in the lands of Judah and Jerusalem.

²⁶ In spite of this, Yahweh did not turn from the fire of his anger. He was angry against Judah because of all the evils Manasseh had done. ²⁷ So Yahweh declared, "I shall also cast away Judah from my presence as I have cast Israel; I shall no longer take Jerusalem into consideration, though this is the city I have chosen and there is the House of which I have said: My Name dwells here."

²⁸ The rest regarding Josiah and all that he did is written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah. ²⁹ In those days, the Pharaoh Neco crossed the river Euphrates and went to join the king of Asshur. King Josiah set out to confront him, but Neco killed him in Megiddo when he saw him. ³⁰ Josiah's servants brought his body in a chariot from Megiddo to Jerusalem, and they buried him in his tomb. Then the people took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, to anoint him and make him king in place of his father.

Josiah's sons

³¹ Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned for three months in Jerusalem. His mother was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. ³² He did what displeases Yahweh, imitating his fathers. ³³ The Pharaoh Neco bound Jehoahaz in chains in Riblah, in the land of Hamath, since he did not want him to reign in Jerusalem. Then he imposed on the land a contribution of one hundred talents of silver and ten of gold. ³⁴ And he installed as king another son of Josiah, Eliakim, as the successor to his father, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But he took Jehoahaz away and brought him to Egypt, where Jehoahaz died.

³⁵ Jehoiakim gave the silver and gold to the Pharaoh to pay the contribution which the Pharaoh himself exacted from him, though a o Josiah, the reformist king, dies the victim of a political mistake. For centuries, Israel had been squeezed in between Egypt and Assyria (or Asshur). Assyria was the most brutal and cruel nation of those days. When Babylon began to destroy Assyrian power, the Pharaoh, worried by the dynamism of this new "great" power, wants to help the weakened Assyria, forgetting the old rivalry.

Josiah refused to allow it. Jewish consciousness longed for the destruction of "the cruel nation" (see Nahum's prophecies).

How could God allow the death of Josiah, the holy king of the reforms? It was such a stumbling block for Jewish consciousness that the author of this book prefers to say nothing about it. Much later, they will try to justify Josiah's tragic end by a mistake he made (2 Chr 35:21). His death will, in part, inspire the great prophecy of Zec 12:10 and, in the Bible, the name Megiddo becomes the symbol of a curse (Rv 16:16).

tax imposed on all the land. Everyone had to pay his quota according to what he possessed. So Jehoiakim collected from all the people the gold and silver demanded by the Pharaoh.

³⁶ Jehoiakim was thirty-five years old when he began his reign, and he reigned for eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zebidha, daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. ³⁷ He did what displeased Yahweh, imitating his fathers.

Nebuchadnezzar's invasion

24 ¹ In those days, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, invaded the land, and Jehoiakim became subject to him for three years, after which he rebelled.

² Yahweh then sent against Jehoiakim, bands of Chaldeans, Arameans, Moabites and Ammonites. They raided the land of Judah and destroyed it according to the word Yahweh had spoken through his servants, the prophets.

³ All this happened only because Yahweh had ordered it so. He willed to cast the people far away from his presence because of the sins of Manasseh, and all the evils he had done. ⁴ And also because of the innocent blood he had shed that filled Jerusalem. Because of all this, Yahweh would not pardon them.

⁷ The king of Egypt did not leave his own land again because the king of Babylon had conquered all that belonged to the king of Egypt, from the river of Egypt to the Euphrates River.

The first exile

+ ⁸ Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he succeeded his father, and he reigned for three months in Jerusalem. His mother was Nehushta, daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

⁹ Jehoiachin treated Yahweh badly, as his father had done.

¹⁴ Nebuchadnezzar brought into exile all the leaders and prominent men, the blacksmiths and locksmiths, all the men of valour fit for war. A total of ten thousand were exiled to Babylon. Only the poorest sector of the population was left. ¹⁵ Nebuchadnezzar also carried away Jehoiachin with his mother, his wives, the ministers of the palace, and the prominent men of the land.

¹⁶ So all the prominent people numbering seven thousand, the blacksmiths numbering a thousand, and all the men fit for war were deported to Babylon by the king of Babylon.

+ The destruction of the kingdom of Judah takes place in two stages:

598 B.C. Jehoiakim has just died. His son, Jehoiachin surrenders in the city under siege. First exile of the elite to Babylon. The Chaldeans (people of Babylon) force Zedekiah to be king.

- 587 B.C. Zedekiah rebels against the Chaldeans who come to destroy Jerusalem and its temple. Second exile to Babylon.

The Bible states that this destruction – as that of Samaria – would not have occurred, because God is faithful to his covenant, if there had not been such an accumulation of sins and rebellions. To the very last moments, everything could have been saved if Zedekiah had listened to the warnings of the prophet Jeremiah (Jer 38).

However, against all hope, the Jewish nation will rise from its ashes sixty years after its destruction. History shows us that the great

¹⁸ Zedekiah was twenty-one years old, and he reigned in Jerusalem for eleven years. His mother was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

¹⁹ He did what was evil in the eyes of Yahweh, as Jehoiakim had done. ²⁰ So the punishment of Yahweh fell on Jerusalem and Judah, until he cast them away far from his presence.

The Chaldeans conquer and destroy Jerusalem

25 ¹In the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched with his entire army and laid siege to Jerusalem. They camped outside the city and built siege works all around it. ² The city was under siege up to the eleventh year of Zedekiah.

³ On the ninth day of the fourth month famine became a serious problem in the city, and throughout the land there was no bread for the people. ⁴ When the city was opened by a breach in the wall, the Judean army fled through the gate between the two walls near the king's garden while the Chaldeans were still around the city and they fled towards the Arabah. ⁵ The Chaldeans followed in hot pursuit of King Zedekiah and caught up with him and captured him in the plains of Jericho. All his army deserted and scattered.

⁶ The Chaldeans seized the king and led him away to Riblah in the territory of Hamath and there the king of Babylon passed sentence on him.

⁷ There at Riblah the king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah in his presence. He then put out the eyes of Zedekiah, bound him with a double bronze chain and took him to Babylon.

¹⁴ They also took the pots, shovels, wick trimmers, the spoons and all the bronze articles used in the temple service. ¹⁵ The commander of the bodyguard took the basins, censers, sprinkling bowls, pots, lampstands, ladles and bowls – all that was made of gold or silver.

¹⁶ The two pillars, the Sea, the movable empires – the Hitties, the Assyrians, the Chaldeans – disappeared forever. We find their statues in museums and their archives recovered only after thirty centuries of complete oblivion. The people of Judah however, will go back to their land. Purified by their trials and encouraged by the prophets, they will return seeking a new Covenant, a more sincere and interior one, with their God. They come back from the exile under the guidance of Zerubbabel, a descendant of king Jehoiachin and Jesus' ancestor.

stands which King Solomon had made for the House of Yahweh – all this bronze was of immeasurable weight. ¹⁷ The pillars were each eighteen cubits high. Each had a thickness of four fingers and was hollow. On top of each pillar was a bronze capital five cubits high, and above and around the capital there was filigree work with pomegranates made of bronze.

¹⁸ The commander of the bodyguard took captive Seraiah, the chief priest and Zephaniah the next priest in rank, as well as three doorkeepers.

²² As for the remnant of the people whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had left behind, he appointed Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, as their governor.

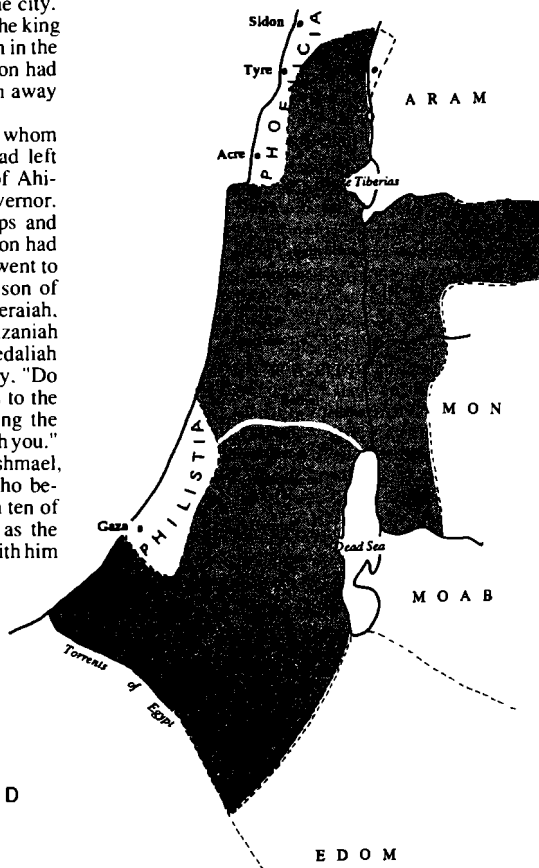

²³ When the commanders of the troops and their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah as governor, they went to him at Mizpah. These were Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, Johanan, son of Kareah, Seraiah, son of Tanhumeth, from Natophah, Jaazaniah the Macaathite, with their men. ²⁴ Gedaliah told them and their men most solemnly. "Do not be afraid of submitting yourselves to the Chaldeans. Live in the country obeying the king of Babylon, and all will be well with you."

²⁵ In the seventh month, however, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah son of Elishama, who belonged to the king's family, came with ten of his men and killed Gedaliah as well as the Judeans and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. ²⁶ Then all the people, from the greatest to the least, set out with the commanders of the troops and took refuge in Egypt, in fear of the Chaldeans.

²⁷ On the twenty-seventh day of the twelfth month in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Evil-merodach, king of Babylon, in the year he came to the throne pardoned Jehoiakim king of Judah and released him from prison. ²⁸ He spoke kindly to him, and gave him more honourable treatment than the other kings who were with him in Babylon. ²⁹ Jehoiakim put aside his prison's garment and for the rest of his life ate at the king's table.

³⁰ Day by day, for as long as he lived, he was maintained by the king of Babylon.

KINGDOM OF DAVID AND SOLOMON

1^o CHRONICLES

For those of us wishing to know the history of Israel, the Chronicles do not teach many new things; what is written here was already related in the books of Samuel and Kings. The difference lies in the way of selecting the events and in their presentation.

The author of Chronicles wanted to show that the future of the Jewish people depended on their faithfulness to the Law of Moses and to the prescriptions of worship.

In his time, the Jews were no longer an independent nation, but more or less an autonomous province of the Persian empire. There was a growing desire among them to become a "theocracy," that is to say, a kingdom of God, ruled in his name by the priests. They were trying to forget the Persian administrators who left them quite free and they were organizing national life around the Temple and the law of Moses. They were looking forward to the coming of "David's son" and they used to say: "If the Law were followed exactly throughout the country for one whole day, the Messiah would come."

This is why the author is almost exclusively interested in the history of the kings of Judah, David's descendants. While the author gives us a list of David's ancestors all the way back to Adam, he does not say a word about the kingdom of Israel where most of the chosen people lived because Israel separated from the kingdom of David. The author gives us many colourful details not found in the books of Samuel and Kings, but generally speaking, his story seems unreal and boring to us. Moreover, carried away by his enthusiastic faith, he delights in great numbers and, at times, he distorts reality to strengthen his point (compare 1 Kings 22:30 and 2 Chro 20:35; Sam 12:31 and 1 Chro 20:3).

How can we benefit from reading this book? On each page we will find the conviction that the believing people must have no other ambition but to fulfil the will of God; other victories will come as a gift. Moreover, it is a reminder that Christ's people, even though they do not have visible borders now and do not live in isolation among other people, must not lose their originality in order to blend with the masses. Believers will never totally resemble those who do not believe, nor will they think in exactly the same way. They have their own mission and are concerned about the visible unity of the church, around those whom God placed among them as his representatives.

Peoples and cities and their relationship with the "sons of Israel"

⁵ Sons of Japheth: Gomer, Magog, the Medes, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, Tiras.

⁶ Sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, Diphath, Togarmah. ⁷ Sons of Javan: Elisha, Tarshish, the Kittim, the Danites.

⁸ Sons of Ham: Cush, Misraim, Put, Canaan.

⁹ Sons of Cush: Seba, Havilah, Sabra, Raama, Sabteca, Sons of Raamah: Sheba, Dedan. ¹⁰ Cush became father of Nimrod, the first potentate on earth.

¹⁷ Sons of Shem: Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, Aram. Sons of Aram: Uz, Hul, Gether and Meshech.

¹⁸ Arpachshad became father of Shelah, and Shelah became father of Eber. ¹⁹ To Eber were born two sons; the first was called Peleg, because it was in his time the earth was divided, and his brother was called Joktan.

²⁰ Joktan became father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazamaveth, Jerah, ²¹ Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, ²² Ebal, Abimael, Sheba, ²³ Ophir, Havilah, Jobab: all these are sons of Joktan.

²⁴ Shem, Arpachshad, Shelah, ²⁵ Eber, Peleg, Reu, ²⁶ Serug, Nahor, Terah, ²⁷ Abram, that is Abraham.

Descendants of Abraham

²⁸ Sons of Abraham: Isaac and Ishmael. ²⁹ Sons of Ishmael: Nebaioth (his first born) then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, ³⁰ Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, Tema, ³¹ Jetur, Naphish and Kedemah.

³² Sons of Keturah, Abraham's concubine: Zimran, Jokshan, ³³ Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. Sons of Jokshan: Sheba and Dedan. Sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoth, Abida, Eldaah.

³⁴ Abraham was the father of Isaac who had two sons: Esau and Israel. ³⁵ The descendants of Esau were Eliphaz, Reuel, Jeush, Jilam and Korah. ³⁶The descendants of Eliphaz were: Teman, Omar, Zephi, Gatam, Kenaz, Timna and Amalek. ³⁷The descendants of Reuel were Zerah, Shammah, and Mizpah. ³⁸The sons of Seir were: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. ³⁹The clans descended from Lotan were Hori and Homam. Lotan's sister was named Timna. ⁴⁰The clans descended from Shobal were Alian, Manahath, Ebal, Shephi, and Onam. The descendants of Zibeon were Aiah and Anah. ⁴¹Anah had a son named Dishon, who was the ancestor of the clans of Hanuran, Eshban, Ithuran, and Cheran. ⁴²Ezer was the ancestor of the clans of Bilhan, Zavaan, and Jaakan.

⁴³Here are the kings who ruled in the land of Edom before an Israelite king ruled: Bela son of Bero; his city was called Dinhabah. ⁴⁴When Bela died, Jobab son of Zerah from Bozrah became king. ⁴⁵When Jobab died, Husham of the land of the Temanites became king. ⁴⁶When Husham died, Hadad son of Bedad became king; he defeated the Midianites in the country of Moab, and his city was called Avith. ⁴⁷When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah became king. ⁴⁸Samlah died and Saul of Rehoboth-han-nahar became king. ⁴⁹When Saul died, Baal-hanan son of Achbor became king. ⁵⁰When Baal-hanan died, Hadad became king. His city was called Palti; his wife's name was Mehetabel daughter of Matred, from Mezahab.

⁵¹After Hadad died, these were the chiefs of Edom: Chief of Timna, Chief of Ailah, Chief Jetheth, ⁵²Chief Dholibamah, Chief of Elah, Chief Pinon, ⁵³Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar, Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram.

The sons of Jacob and the descendants of Judah

¹These are the sons of Israel: Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah; Issachar and Zebulun; ²Dan, Joseph and Benjamin, Nephthali; Gad and Asher.

³Judah had five sons in all. The first three were born to him by Bath-shua the Canaanite woman. They were Er, Onan and Shelah. Er, Judah's first-born, was so evil that Yahweh put him to death. ⁴By his daughter-in-law Tamar, Judah had two more sons, Perez and Zerah. ⁵Perez had two sons, Hezron and Hamul. ⁶His brother Zerah had five sons: Zimri, Hetan, Heman, Calcol and Dara. ⁷One of them, Achur, son of Carmi — brought trouble upon the people of Israel by keeping a pot that had been devoted to God. ⁸Ethan had one son, Azariah.

⁹Hezron became the father of Jerahmeel, Ram, and Caleb. ¹⁰Ram was the father of Amminadab; Amminadab of Nahshan. ¹¹Nahshan, who was a prince of the tribe of Judah, was the father of Salmon; Salmon of Boaz; ¹²Boaz of Obed; Obed of Jesse. ¹³Jesse had seven sons: Eliab, the first-born, Abinadab, Shammah, ¹⁴Nethanel, Raddai, ¹⁵Ozem and David, the youngest. Jesse had two daughters: Zerwiah and Abigail. ¹⁶Zerwiah had three sons: Abishai, Joab and Asahel. ¹⁷Abigail married Jether the Ishmaelite. They had a son named Amasa.

¹⁸Caleb, son of Hezron, married Azubah and had a daughter named Jerioth. Jerioth had three sons: Jether, Shobab and Ardun. ¹⁹Azubah died, and Caleb married Ephrath, and they had a son named Hur. ²⁰Hur became father of Uri and grandfather of Bezalel.

²¹When Hezron was sixty years old he married Machir's daughter, the sister of Gilead. They had a son named Segub, who had a son named Jair. ²²Jair ruled twenty-three towns in the land of Gilead. ²³But the kingdoms of Geshur and Aram took from them the villages of Jair, that is Kenath and its towns, sixty towns in all. All this had belonged to the descendants of Machir, father of Gilead.

²⁴After Hezron's death, his son Caleb married Ephrathah, his father's widow. They had a son named Ashur, the father of Tekoa.

²⁵Jerahmeel, Hezron's eldest son, had five sons: Ram, his first-born, Bunah, Oren, Ozem and Ahijah. ²⁶Jerahmeel had another wife called Atarah; she was the mother of Onam.

²⁷Ram had three sons: Maaz, Jamin and Eker.

²⁸Onam was the father of Shammai and Jada; Shammai, of Nadab and Abishur. ²⁹Abishur's wife was called Abihail; she bore him Ahban and Molid. ³⁰Nadab had two sons, Seled and Appaim, but Seled died leaving no son. ³¹Appaim was the father of Ishi, who was the father of Sheshan, Sheshan was the father of Ahlai. ³²Jada, Shammai's brother, had two sons: Jether and Jonathan. Jether died leaving no sons. ³³Jonathan had two sons: Peleth and Zaza.

These were all descendants of Jerahmeel.

³⁴Sheshan had no sons, only daughters. ³⁵He had an Egyptian slave named Jarha to whom he gave his daughter in marriage. ³⁶They had a son named Attai. The ancestral line from Attai to Elishama is as follows: Attai, Nathan, ³⁷Zabab, Ephlal, Obed, ³⁸Jehu, Azariah, ³⁹Helez, Eleasah, ⁴⁰Sismai, Shallum, ⁴¹Jekamiah, and Elishama.

⁴²The first-born son of Caleb, Jerahmeel's brother, was named Mesha. Mesha was the father of Ziph, who was the father of Meresha. ⁴³Meresha was father of Hebron who had four sons: Korah, Tappuah, Rekem and Shema. ⁴⁴Shema became father of Raham and grandfather of Jorkeam. Rekem became father of Shammai ⁴⁵and grandfather of Maon. Maon became father of Bethzur.

⁴⁶Caleb had a concubine named Ephah who gave birth to Haran, Moza and Gazez. Haran also had a son named Gazez. ⁴⁷Jahdai had six sons: Regem, Jotham, Geshan, Pelet, Ephah and Shaaph. ⁴⁸Caleb had another concubine, Maacah, who gave birth to Sheber and Tirhanah. ⁴⁹Later she had two more sons: Shaaph, who founded the town of Madmannah, and Sheva, who founded the towns of Machbenah and Gibeia. The daughter of Caleb was Achsah.

⁵⁰The following were also descendants of Caleb. Hur was the first-born son of Ephrath. Hur's son Shobal was father of Kiriath-jearim; ⁵¹Salma, father of Bethlehem, and Haroeh, father of Beth-gader. ⁵²Shobal, the father of Kiriath-jearim was the father of the people of Haroah, that is half of the Manahathites, ⁵³and also the clans living in Kiriath-jearim: the Ithrites, Puthites, Shumathites and Mishraites. The people of the cities of Zorah and Eshtaol belonged to these clans.

⁵⁴Sons of Salma: Bethlehem, Netophath, Atroth Beth-Joab, and the Zorites, who were one of the clans in Manaheth. The Sofrites lived in the town of Jabez: the Tirathites, Shimeathites, and Sucathites. They were Cainites, descendants of Jamat, the Rechabites' ancestor.

The descendants of David

³These are the sons of David who were born to him while he was in Hebron: the first-born Amnon, whose mother was Ahinoam from Jezreel; second, Daniel, whose mother was Abigail from Carmel; ³third, Absalom, whose mother was Maacah, daughter of King Talmai of Geshur; fourth, Adonijah, whose mother was Haggith; ⁵fifth, Shephatiah, whose mother was Abital; sixth, Ithrean, whose mother was Eglah. ⁴ All six were born to him in Hebron, where he ruled for seven years and six months.

He ruled as king for thirty-three years in Jerusalem. ⁵ Many sons were born to him in Jerusalem. By his wife Bathsheba, daughter of Ammiel, he had four sons: Shimea, Shobab, Nathan and Solomon. Nine other sons were: ⁶ Ithar, Elishama, Eliphelet, ⁷ Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, ⁸ Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet.

⁹ All these were sons of David, besides other sons by the concubines. Tamar was their sister.

¹⁰ These are the descendants of King Solomon from father to son: Rehoboam, Abijah, Asa, Jehoshaphat, ¹¹ Joram, Ahaziah, Joash, ¹² Amaziah, Azariah, Jotham, ¹³ Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh, ¹⁴ Amon, and Josiah. ¹⁵ Josiah had four sons: Johanan, the first-born, Jehoiaikim second, Zedekiah third, and Shallum fourth. ¹⁶ The sons of Jehoiaikim were: Jeconiah and Zedekiah.

¹⁷ These are the descendants of King Jeconiah, who was taken captive by the Babylonians. Jeconiah had seven sons: Shealtiel, ¹⁸ Malchiram, Pedaiiah, She-nazzar, Jekamiah, Hoshama, and Nedabiah. ¹⁹ Pedaiiah had two sons: Zerubbabel and Shimei. Zerubbabel had two sons, Meshullam and Hananiah, and one daughter, Shelomith. ²⁰ Meshullam had five sons: Hashubah, Ohel, Berechiah, Hasadiah, and Jushab-besed. ²¹ Hananiah's two sons were Pelatish and Jeshiah. Jeshiah was the father of Rephaiah, who was the father of Aman, who was the father of Obadiah and grandfather of Shecaniah. ²² Shecaniah's son was Shemaiah and his five grandsons were: Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Nedariah, and Shaphat. ²³ Neariah's three sons were: Elieonai, Hizkiah and Azrikam. ²⁴ Elieonai's seven sons were: Hodaviah, Eliashib, Pelaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Delaiah, and Anani.

Heads of families of the twelve tribes

4 ¹ Some of the descendants of Judah are: Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobai. ² Shobai was the father of Reaiah, who was the father of Jahath, the father of Ahumai and Lahad: these people lived in Zorah.

³ These were the descendants of Hareph, the father of Elam: Jezreel, Ishma, and Idbash, whose sister was called Hazzeleponi. ⁴ Penuel became father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These are the descendants of Hur, the first-born of Ephraim, father of Bethlehem.

¹³ Kenaz had two sons, Othniel and Seraiah. Othniel also had two sons: Hathath and Meonothai. ¹⁴ who became the father of Ophrah. Seraiah became the father of Joab, the founder of Craftsman's Valley, where skilled workers lived.

¹⁵ Caleb, son of Jephunneh had three sons: Iru, Elah and Naam. Son of Elah: Kenaz.

¹⁶ The sons of Jchallelel were: Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel.

¹⁹ Hodiah married the sister of Naham. Their descendants formed the clan of Garm, which lived in the town of Keilah, and the clan of Maacath, which lived in the town of Eshtemoa.

²⁰ The sons of Shimon were: Amnon, Rinnah, Benhanan, and Tilon.

The sons of Ishi were: Zoheth and Ben-zoheth.

²¹ The descendants of Shelah son of Judah were: Er, father of Lecah; Laadah, father of Mareshah; and the clans of linen weavers of Beth-ashbea; ²² Jokim and the people who lived in Cozeba; Joash and Saraph who went to Moab to take wives before returning to Bethlehem (these are events of long ago.) ²³ They were potters and lived in the towns of Netaim and Gederah; they stayed with the king there, employed in his workshop.

²⁴ Simeon had five sons; Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerach, and Shaul. ²⁵ Shaul's son was Shallum, his grandson was Mibsam, and his great-grandson was Mishma. ²⁶ The sons of Mishma were: Hammuel, Zakur, Simi. ²⁷ Simi had sixteen sons and daughters, but his brothers did not have many children, and none of their families increased as the families of Judah did.

³⁴ Meshobab, Jarmelech, Joshua son of Amaziah, ³⁵ Joel, Jehu son of Joshubiah, son of Seraiah, son of Asiel, ³⁶ Elieonai, Jaakobah, Jeshohiah, Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah, ³⁷ Ziza, Ben-shiphi, Benal-lon, Ben-jedaiah, Ben-shimri, Ben-shemaiah, ³⁸ These men came with their clans and families; they grew in number and spread. ³⁹ As they searched for pasture for their flocks they travelled from the Gerar pass to the eastern end of the valley. ⁴⁰ where they found good, fat pasture; the land was broad, untroubled and peaceful.

Hamites had been living there before them. ⁴¹ But in the time of Hezekiah king of Judah this group of Simeon's tribe arrived there, overran their tents and the dwellings they found there. They wiped them out through an anathema still in force today and settled in their place, since there was pasture for their flocks.

5 ¹ Descendants of Reuben, first-born of Israel. He was indeed the first-born but, when he had relations with his father's concubine, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel. The group of Joseph, however did not keep this first-born right ²because Judah proved more powerful than his brothers (and from him proceeds the Ruler), but the first-born right belongs to the tribes of Joseph.

³Sons of Reuben, first-born of Israel: Hanoch, Palu, Hezron, Carmi.

⁴Sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, ⁵Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son, ⁶Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria carried off into exile. He was a prince of the Reubenites.

⁷His kinsmen, by clans, grouped according to their kinship: Jeiel, the chief, Zechariah, ⁸Bela son of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Joel.

⁹These lived in Aroer as far as Nebo and Baal-Mehon. ¹⁰These extended to the east toward the River Euphrates, reaching the desert, because their flocks had multiplied in the land of Galaad.

¹¹In the days of Saul they waged war against the Agarties who were defeated, and they occupied their homes east of Galaad.

¹²The sons of Gad lived opposite them, in the land of Bashan, as far as Salchah. ¹³First, Joel, and then Shaphan, Yami and Basat in Basan.

¹⁴The other families of the tribe were those of Michael, Mesullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia, and Eber.

¹⁵These are the descendants of Abihail, whose ancestors were traced back as follows: Abihail, Huri, Jaroah, Gilead, Michael, Jeshishai, Jahdo, Buz. ¹⁶Ahi son of Abdiel, and grandson of Guni, was head of these clans.

¹⁷They had settled in the territory of Gilead and Bashan, in the towns there and all over the pasture lands of Sharon. ¹⁸(All were listed in the family records in the days of king Jotham of Judah and King Jeroboam of Israel).

¹⁹The people of Reuben, Gad, and half tribe of Manasseh, were 44,760 valiant men, well-trained in the use of shields, swords, and bows. ²⁰They waged war against the Hagrite tribes of Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab, and as they put their trust in God and called on him for help, ²¹they were victorious over the Hagrites and all their allies. ²²They took with them from the Hagrites' livestock, 50,000 camels, 25,000 sheep, and 2,000 donkeys. ²³They took 100,000 prisoners of war, but many of the enemy had been killed for it was God's war. And they settled in what had been Hagrite territory until the exile.

²⁴The half tribe of Manasseh settled in the land between Bashan and Baal-hermon, Senir and Mount Hermon, and they were very numerous. ²⁵These are the heads of their clans: Ephraim, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel. These were famous warriors and leaders of their clans.

²⁶But they were unfaithful to the God of their ancestors and worshipped the gods of the peoples whom God had driven out of the land. ²⁷So the God of Israel brought against them the anger of Pul, king of Assyria, and of Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, who deported the tribes of Reuben, Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh. They were taken off to Halah near Habor and the river Gozan. They are still there today.

The ancestral line of the high priests

²⁸Sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

²⁹Sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

³⁰Sons of Amram: Aaron, Moses and Mary. Sons of Aaron: Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

³¹The descendants of Eleazar from one generation to the next are as follows: Phinehas, Abishua, Bukki, Uzzi, ³²Zerahiah, Meraioth, ³³Amariah, Ahitub, ³⁴Zadok, Ahimaaz, ³⁵Azariah, Johanan, ³⁶Azariah

(the one who served as priest in the Temple that Solomon built in Jerusalem), ³⁷Amariah, Ahitub, ³⁸Zadok, Shallum, ³⁹Hilkiah, Azariah, ⁴⁰Seraiah, Jehoazadac. ⁴¹Jehoazadac was deported when Yahweh, through King Nebuchadnezzar, sent into exile the people of Judah and Jerusalem.

The families of Levi

6 ¹Levi had three sons: Gershom, Kohath and Merari.

²These are the names of the sons of Gershom: Libni and Shimei.

³Sons of Kohath: Amran, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. ⁴Sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of Levi according to their ancestors.

⁵Descendants of Gershom from one generation to the next: Libni, Jahath, Zimmah, ⁶Joah, Iddo, Zerah, Jeathra.

⁷Descendants of Kohath from one generation to the next: Amminadab, Korah, Assir, ⁸Elkanah, Ebiasaph, Assir, ⁹Tahath, Uriel, Uzziash, Shaul. ¹⁰Elkanah had two sons, Amasai and Ahimoth. ¹¹Elkanah, son of Ahimoth, Zophai, Nahath, ¹²Eliab, Jeroham, Elkanah. ¹³The sons of Elkanah were: Samuel his first-born, and Abijah. Samuel had two sons: Joel, the first-born, and Abijah, the younger.

¹⁴Descendants of Merari from one generation to the next: Mahli, Libni, ¹⁵Shimei, Uziah, Shimea, Hagiah, Asaiah.

¹⁶These are the men David named to lead the singing in the Temple of Yahweh when the ark had come to rest there. ¹⁷They were responsible for the singing before the Holy Tent of the Tent of Meeting until Solomon had built the Temple of Yahweh in Jerusalem. They did their duties in accordance with the rules.

¹⁸These are the men who accomplished this ministry, and their sons:

Of the clan of Kohath: Herman, the leader of the first choir, was the son of Joel. His ancestral line went back to Jacob as follows: Herman, Joel, Samuel, ¹⁹Elkanah, Jeroham, Eliel, Toah, Zuph, ²⁰Elkanah, Mahath, Amasai, ²¹Elkanah, Joel, Azariah, Zephaniah, ²²Tahath, Assir, Ebiasaph, Korah, ²³Izhar, Kohath, Levi, Jacob.

³³Their brother Levites were in charge of the Holy Tent of the Temple of Yahweh. ³⁴Aaron and his descendants burnt the offerings on the altar for burnt offering and on the altar of incense. They were responsible for all the worship in the Most Holy Place and for the atonement for Israel's sins, according to the instructions of Moses, the servant of God.

³⁵This is the line of Aaron's descendants: Eleazar, Phinehas, Abishua, ³⁶Bukki, Uzzi, Zerahiah, ³⁷Meraioth, Amariah, Ahitub, ³⁸Zadok, Ahimaaz.

³⁹These are the places they lived in, according to the boundaries of their settlements.

⁴⁰To the sons of Aaron of the Kohath clan (to whom the first share of land was assigned) they gave Hebron in the land of Judah and the pasture lands nearby. ⁴¹The fields and villages of this town, however, had been given to Caleb, son of Jephunneh. ⁴²The following towns were given to the descendants of Aaron: Hebron, a city of refuge, Jattir, Libnah, Esh-temoa, ⁴³Hilen, Debir, ⁴⁴Ashan, and Bethm-She-mesh, with pasture lands near them. ⁴⁵In the territory of Benjamin they were given the following towns with their pasture lands: Geba, Alemeth, and Anathoth. A total of thirteen towns was given them for all their families to live in.

⁵⁰They received from the territories of Judah, Simeon and Benjamin the towns to which they gave names.

⁵⁶The clan of Gershon, family by family, were given the following towns with their pasture lands. In the territory of the half tribe of Manasseh: Golan in Bashan, and Ashtaroth. ⁵⁷In the territory of Issachar: Kedesh, Daberath, ⁵⁸Ramoth, and Anem. ⁵⁹In the territory of Asher: Mashal, Abdon, ⁶⁰Hukok, and Rehob. ⁶¹In the territory of Naphtali: Kedesh in Galilee, Hammon, and Kiriatshaim.

⁶²To the rest of the clan of Merari were given the following towns with their pasture lands. In the territory of Zebulun: Rimmon and Tabor. ⁶³In the territory of Reuben, beyond the Jordan River near Jericho: Bezer on the high, flat land, Jahzah, ⁶⁴Kedem-moth, and Mephath. ⁶⁵In the territory of Gad: Ramoth in Gilead, Mahanaim, ⁶⁶Heshbon, and Jazer.

Clans and families of the northern tribes

7 ¹Issachar had four sons: Tola, Puah, Jashub, and Shimron.

²Tola had six sons: Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeriel, Jah-mai, Ibsam, and Shemuel. They were heads of fam-ilies of the clan of Tola and famous warriors. In the time of David, the descendants numbered 22,600. Uzzi had one son, Izrahiah. ³Izrahiah had four sons: Michael, Obadiah, Joel, and Isshiah. All five of these were chiefs ⁴and they were obliged to enlist their troops: 36,000 men, for they had many wives and children. ⁵The family records of all the clans of Issa-char listed a total of 87,000 men able to give military service.

⁶Benjamin had three sons: Bela, Becher, and Je-diah.

⁷Bela had five sons: Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth and Iri. They were head of families in the clan and famous warriors. Their family records listed 22,034 men able to give military service. ⁸Becher had nine sons: Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jere-moth, Abijah, Anathoth, and Alemeth. ⁹Their family records listed 17,200 men able to give military service. ¹⁰Jediael had one son, Bilhan who had seven sons: Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tarshish, and Ahishahar. ¹¹They were heads of fam-ilies in the clan and famous warriors. ¹²Shuppin and Huppin also belonged to this tribe.

¹³Naphtali had four sons: Jahziel, Guni, Jezer, and Shallum. They were descendants of Bilhan.

¹⁴Manasseh had Asriel by his Aramean concu-bine. She gave birth also to Machir, father of Gilead. ¹⁵Gilead was the father of Ifer and Eleeg. The son of Ifer was Zelophehad. Zelophehad had only daugh-ters.

¹⁶Maacah, wife of Machir, gave birth to two sons, whom they named Peresh and Sheresh. Peresh had two sons: Ulam and Rakem. ¹⁷Ulam had a son named Bed-an. These were the descendants of Gilead, the son of Machir and grandson of Manas-seh. ¹⁸Gilead's sister Molecheth had three sons: Ishhod, Abiezer, and Mah-lah. ¹⁹Sherida had four sons: Ahian, Shechem, Likhi and Aniam.

²⁰These are the descendants of Ephraim from one generation to the next: Shuthelah, Bere, Tahath, Elea-dah, Tahath, Zabad, Shuthelah. Ephraim's two other sons, Ezer and Elead, ²¹were killed when they tried to steal the cattle belonging to the people of Gath. ²²Eph-raim, their father, mourned for them for a long time: and his brothers came to comfort him. ²³Then Eph-raim went to his wife, and she conceived and gave birth to a son whom she called Beriah, because of the trouble that had come to their family. ²⁴Beriah's daughter, Sheerah, built Lower and Upper Beth-horon and Uzzan-sheerah.

Ephraim also had a son named Rephah. The de-scendants of ²⁵Rephah were as follows: Resheph, Te-lah, Tahan, ²⁶Ladan, Ammihud, Elishama, ²⁷Nun, Joshua. ²⁸They had lands and settlements in Bethel and its towns, in Naasan to the east, in Gezez and its towns to the west, Schechem and its towns, as far as Ayyah and its towns. ²⁹Beth-shean, Taanach, Megid-do, Dor, each with its towns, were controlled by the descendants of Manasseh. In all these places lived the descendants of Joseph, son of Jacob.

³⁰Asher had four sons: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, and Beriah; and one daughter, Serah. ³¹Sons of Beriah: He-ber and Malchiel. Malchiel was the father of Birzath: ³²Heber had three sons: Japhlet, Shomer and Hothani; and one daughter Shura. ³³Japhlet had three sons: Pasah, Birnah and Ashvath. ³⁴Shomar, his brother, also had three sons: Rohgah, Hubbah and Aram. ³⁵His brother Hotham had four sons: Zophah, Imna, She-leah, and Amal. ³⁶The sons of Zophal were: Suah, Hamepher, Shual, Beri and Imrah. ³⁷Bezer, Hod, Shamra, Shilshah, Ithran and Beerah. ³⁸The sons of Ithram were Jephunneh, Pispah, Ara, ³⁹and the sons of: Ulla were descendants of Asher. They were heads of families, and famous warriors; Asher's descendants in-cluded 26,000 men able to give military service.

8 ¹Benjamin became father of Bela, his first-born, Ashbel second, Ahiram third, ²Nohah fourth, Rappa fifth. ³Bela had sons: Addar, Gera, Abihud, ⁴Abishua, Naaman and Ahoah, ⁵Gera, Shephuphan and Huram.

⁶These are the sons of Ehud. They were heads of families of the inhabitants of Geba and led them into exile at Manahath: ⁷Naaman, Ahijah and Gera. It was he who led them into exile, he became the father of Uz-zah and Ahihud.

⁸He became father of Shaharaim in the plains of Moab after he had dismissed his wives, Hushim and Baara. ⁹By his new wife he had sons: Jobab, Zibia, Meshah, Malcam, ¹⁰Jeuz, Sachia, Mirmah. These were his sons, heads of families.

¹¹By Hushim he had sons: Abitub and Elpaal. ¹²Sons of Elpaal: Eber, Misham and Shemed: it was he who built Ono and Lud with its outlying towns.

¹³Beriah and Shema. They were heads of families of the inhabitants of Aijaloz. ¹⁴Shashak was his brother.

Jeremoth, ¹⁵Zebadiah, Arad, Eder, ¹⁶Michael, Ishpah. Joha were sons of Beriah. ¹⁷Zebadiah Meshulam, Hizki, Haber, ¹⁸Ishmerai, Izliah, Jobab were sons of Elpaal. ¹⁹Jakim, Zichri, Zabdai, ²⁰Elioenai, Zillethai, Eliel, ²¹Adaiah, Beraiah, Shimran were sons of Shimei.

²²Ishpan, Eber, Eliel, ²³Abdon, Zichri, Hanan, ²⁴Hananiah, Elam, Anthothiah, ²⁵Iphdeiah, Penuel were sons of Shashak. ²⁶Shamsherai, Shehariah, Athaliah, ²⁷Jareshai, Elijah, Zichri were sons of Jeroham. ²⁸These were the heads of families, grouped according to their kinship. They lived in Jerusalem.

²⁹At Gibeon lived Abi-gibeon, whose wife was Maacah. ³⁰His first-born son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, ³¹Gedor, Ahio, Zecher, ³²and Mikloth who became father of Shimeah. These also, near their kinsmen, lived with their kinsmen in Jerusalem.

³³Ner was father of Kish, Kish father of Saul, Saul father of Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab and Eshbaal. ³⁴Son of Jonathan: Meribbaal. Meribbaal became father of Micah. ³⁵Sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tarea, Ahaz. ³⁶Ahaz became father of Jehoaddah, Jehoaddah father of Alemeth, Aznaveth and Zimri. Zimri became father of Moza, ³⁷Moza father of Binea. Raphah his son. Eleasah his son, Azel his son. ³⁸Azel had six sons, whose names were these: Azrikam, Bocheru, his firstborn, then Ishmael, Shehariah, Obadiah, Hanan. All these were sons of Azel. ³⁹Sons of Eshek his brother: Ulam, his firstborn, Eush second, Eliphelet third. ⁴⁰Ulam had sons, stout fighting men and bowmen. They had numerous sons and grandsons, a hundred and fifty of them.

All these were sons of Benjamin.

Inhabitants of Jerusalem after the exile

9 All the Israelites were classified in related groups, but they were listed in the Book of the Kings of Israel. As for those of Judah, they were deported to Babylon for their faithlessness. ²The first who came back to their towns and their estates were Israelites, priests, Levites and helpers. ³So in Jerusalem lived Judeans, Ben-jaminites, Ephraimites and Manassites.

⁴Uthai son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, one of the sons of Perez son of Judah. ⁵Of the Shilonites: Asaiah, the firstborn, and his sons. ⁶Of the sons of Zerah: Jeuel. Also their kinsmen: six hundred and ninety.

⁷Of the tribe of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshulam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hassenuah; ⁸Ibneiah son of Jeroham; Elah son of Uzzi, son of Michri; Mesulam son of Shephatiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah. ⁹They had nine hundred and fifty-six kinsmen, grouped according to their kinship. All these men were heads of family.

¹⁰Of the priests: Jedaiah, Jehoiairib, Jachin, ¹¹Azaiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, ruler of the house of God. ¹²Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, Maasai son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer. ¹³They had kinsmen, heads of families, one thousand seven hundred and sixty men who undertook the duties of the Temple of God.

¹⁴Of the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah of the sons of Merari, ¹⁵Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal, Mattaniah, son of Imma, son of Zichri, son of Asaph, ¹⁶Obadiah son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah son of Asa, son of Elkannah who lived in the villages of the Neophathites.

¹⁷The keepers of the gate: Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, Ahiman and their kinsmen. Shallum, was their head, ¹⁸and they still keep station at the royal gate, to the east. These were the gatekeepers of the camp of the Levites. ¹⁹Shallum son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, with his brother Korahites, of the same family, were responsible for the liturgical service; they were "keepers of the threshold for the Tent," for their fathers had guarded the entrance of the camp of Yahweh. ²⁰At one time, Phinehas son of Eleazar had ruled them and they served before Yahweh. ²¹Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was keeper of the gate at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. ²²All the keepers of the gate at the thresholds were picked men; there were two hundred and twelve of them and they were registered in their various villages. These were appointed by David and Samuel the seer because of their loyalty. ²³They and their sons had the guardianship of the gates of the House of Yahweh, the house of the Tent. ²⁴On the four sides stood the keepers of the gate, east, west, north, and south. ²⁵Their kinsmen in their villages would come to join them for a week from time to time, ²⁶since the four head gatekeepers themselves lived there permanently. Some of them were responsible for the chambers and treasuries of the house of God. ²⁷They spent the night in the precincts of the house of God, their duties being to guard it and open it.

³¹One of the Levites, Mattithiah the firstborn of Shallum the Korahite, was responsible for the offerings that were to be baked on the pan. ³²Some of their kinsmen the Kohathites were responsible for the loaves to be set out in rows sabbath by sabbath.

³³These are the cantors, heads of the levitical families. When free from service they lived in the Temple chambers, because they were on duty day and night.

³⁴These were the heads of the families of the Levites, grouped according to their families. These heads lived in Jerusalem.

The ancestors of Saul. His death.

³⁵In the city of Gibeon lived Abigibeon and Jeiel, whose wife was called Maacah. ³⁶His firstborn was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, ³⁷Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah. ³⁸Mikloth became father of Shimeam. Their descendants lived in Jerusalem near other families of their clans.

³⁹Ner became father of Kish, Kish father of Saul, Saul father of Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab and Eshbaal. ⁴⁰Jonathan's son Meribbaal, became father of Micah. ⁴¹Micah had four sons: Pithon, Melech, Tahrea and Ahoz. ⁴²Ahaz became father of Jarah, Jarah father of Alemeth, Azmaveth and Zimri; Zimri became father of Moza, ⁴³Moza father of Binea, whose son was ⁴⁴Rephaiah, whose son was Eleasah, whose son was Azel. Azel had six sons; their names were these: Azrikam, his firstborn, then Ishmael, Bocheru, Sheariah, Obadiah, Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

10 ¹The Philistines attacked Israel, and the Israelites fled or were killed on Mount Gilboa. ²The Philistines came up with Saul and killed Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul. ³The fighting grew heavy about Saul; he was hit by enemy arrows and badly wounded. ⁴Then Saul said to the young man carrying his weapon, "Draw your sword and kill me. I do not want these godless Philistines to come and gloat over me." But the young man was afraid and would not do it. So Saul took his own sword and threw himself on it. ⁵Then the young man threw himself on his sword too and died. ⁶And so Saul died, he and his three sons and all his own together.

⁷All the Israelites who were in the valley heard that the army had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead. So they abandoned their towns and ran away. The Philistines then came in and occupied them.

⁸When the Philistines came on the following day to strip the dead, they found Saul and his sons lying on Mount Gilboa. ⁹They stripped him and, taking his head and his armor, had them carried around the land of the Philistines to proclaim the good news to their idols and their people. ¹⁰They placed his armor in the temple of their god, but his head they hung in the temple of Dagon.

¹¹When all the people of Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, ¹²the valiant men went and took the bodies of Saul and his sons away and brought them to Jabesh. They buried their bones under the oak tree in Jabesh, and they fasted for seven days.

¹³Saul died because he had been unfaithful to Yahweh; he had disobeyed the commands of Yahweh; he had even consulted the spirits of the dead. ¹⁴As he had not consulted Yahweh, Yahweh put him to death and gave control of the kingdom to David son of Jesse.

David is anointed king

11 ¹All the people of Israel went to David at Hebron "Look, we are your own flesh and blood. ²Even when Saul was our king, you led Israel in battle; and Yahweh your God said to you, 'You are the man who shall be shepherd of my people Israel and shall be ruler over them.'" ³So all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and David made a covenant with them at Hebron in the presence of Yahweh, and he became king of Israel, just as Yahweh, and he became king of Israel, just as Yahweh had promised through Samuel.

⁴David with all the Israelites attacked Jerusalem (that is to say, Jebus); there lived the Jebusites. ⁵They said to David, "You will not get in here." But David captured the fortress of Zion, and it became the City of David. ⁶David said, "The first man to attack the Jebusites shall become leader and commander of the army." Joab son of Zeruiah attacked first and became commander. ⁷David went to live in the fortress, and because of this it was called the City of David. ⁸He then built a wall around the city, and the Millo as well as the surrounding wall, while Joab restored the rest of the city. ⁹David grew greater and greater, and Yahweh Sabaoth was with him.

David's champions

¹⁰These are the famous warriors of David, those who during his rule struggled with him and with all Israel, to make him king as Yahweh had promised. ¹¹This is the list of David's warriors: Jashobeam the Hachmonite, leader of the Thirty; one day he wielded his battle-axe against three hundred whom he killed at one time.

¹²After him there was Eleazar son of Dodo, the Ahohite, one of the three champions. ¹³He was with David at Pasdammim where the Philistines had gathered to attack. There was a field full of barley there. When the Israelites started to run away, ¹⁴Eleazar took a stand in the middle of the field, defended it and fought the Philistines. So Yahweh brought about a great victory.

²⁰Abishai, the brother of Joab, was leader of The Thirty. He fought with his spear against three hundred whom he killed, winning himself a name among The Thirty. ²¹He was the most famous of The Thirty and became their captain, but he was not as famous as The Three.

²²Benaiah son of Jehoiada, a hero from Kabzeel, did many brave deeds; he killed the two Ariels of Moab. One snowy day, he went down and killed the lion in a pit. ²³He also killed an Egyptian, a huge man; seven and a half feet tall. The Egyptian had a gigantic spear in his hand, but Benaiah attacked him with a club, snatched the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed the man with it. ²⁴Such were the deeds of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, winning him a name among the thirty leading soldiers. ²⁵He was famous among The Thirty, but he was not as famous as The Three. David put him in command of his bodyguard.

²⁶The other valiant warriors were: Asahel third brother of Joab. Elhanan son of Dodo, from Bethlehem. ²⁷Shammoth from Harod, Helez the Pelonite. ²⁸Ira son of Ikesh, from Tekoa. Abiezer from Anathoth. ²⁹Sibbecai from Hushah. Ilai from Ahoh. ³⁰Maharai from Netophah. Heled son of Baanah, from Netophah. ³¹Ithai son of Ribai, from Gibeath of Benjamin. Benaiah from Pirathon. ³²Hurai from the valleys near Gaash. Abiel from Bethaarabah. ³³Azmaveth from Baharum. Eliabba from Shaalbom. ³⁴Beneshashem from Gizon. Jonathan son of Shagee from Harar. ³⁵Ahiam son of Sachar, from Harar. Eliphelet son of Ur. ³⁶Hepher from Mecherah. Ahijah the Pelonite. ³⁷Hezro from Carmel. Naarai son of Ezbai. ³⁸Joel the brother of Nathan. Mibhar son of Hagri. ³⁹Zekek the Ammonite. Naharai from Beerot. armorbearer to Joab son of Zeruiah. ⁴⁰Ira from Jattir. Gareb from Jattir. ⁴¹Uriah the Hittite. Zabab son of Ahlai. ⁴²Adina son of Shiza (a leading member of the tribe of Reuben, with his own group of thirty soldiers). ⁴³Hanan son of Maachah. Josphaphat the Mithnite.

⁴⁴Uzzia from Ashteroth. Shama and Jeiel, sons of Hotham the Aroerite. ⁴⁵Jediael son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite. ⁴⁶Eliel the Mahavite. Jeribai and Joshaviah, sons of Elnaam. Ithmah the Moabite. ⁴⁷Eliel, Obed, and Jaasiel from Zoba.

David's early followers

12 ¹The following men came to David in Ziklag where he had gone to escape from King Saul. They were valiant and reliable warriors, members of the tribe of Benjamin, to which Saul belonged. ²They were archers who could use either the right or the left hand, both in slinging stones and in shooting arrows with the bow. ³They were Ahiezer the leader, and Joash, sons of Hashemur from Gibeath, Jeziel and Pelet, sons of Aznaveth, Berach and Jehu from Anathoth, ⁴Ismaiah from Gibeon, a famous soldier and one of the leaders of The Thirty; ⁵Jeremiah, Jahaziel, Johanan and Jozabad from Gederoh, ⁶Eluzai, Jerimoth, Bealiah, Shemariah, Shephatiah from Hariph, ⁷Elkanah, Eshiah, Azazel, Jozzer, Jashobeam, Korathites, ⁸Joelah, Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham from Gedor.

⁹Some Gadites also joined David's troops when he was at the desert fort. They were valiant fighting men and experts with shield and spear. They were as fierce-looking as lions and as quick as mountain deer. ¹⁰Ezer was the leader, Obadiah second, Eliab third, ¹¹Mishmannah fourth, Jeremiah fifth, ¹²Atai sixth, Eliel seventh, ¹³Johanan eighth, Elzabad ninth, ¹⁴Jeremiah tenth, Machbannai eleventh. ¹⁵These sons of Gad were troop commanders, each one in command of a unit, the junior officers placed over a hundred, and senior officers over a thousand. ¹⁶These are the men who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it overflowed its course, and scattered all the people who lived on its banks, both east and west.

¹⁷Those men from the tribes of Benjamin and Judah came to David at the fort. ¹⁸David went to meet them and said, "If you come to me as friends, to give me help, then I am ready to join you. But if it is to betray me to my enemies, when I have done no wrong, then may the God of our ancestors see and punish you."

¹⁹Then God's spirit took control of one of them, Amasai, leader of The Thirty, and he called out: "Yours we are, David! We are with you, son of Jesse! Peace to you, peace to him that helps you, for God is on your side."

David welcomed them and made them officers in his army.

²⁰Some people from the tribe of Manasseh went over to David's side as he was setting out with the Philistines to fight Saul. But David did not help the Philistines, because their chiefs, after consultation, sent him back to Ziklag. They were afraid he would betray them to his former master Saul. ²¹He was on his way to Ziklag when these Manassites joined him: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, Zilethai, commanders of thousands in Manasseh. ²²They were reinforcements for David and his troops, since they were all outstanding soldiers and became officers in the army. ²³Indeed new men joined David's forces almost every day, so that his camp grew into an enormous camp.

The warriors who assured David's kingship

²⁴These are the figures from the list of experienced warriors who joined David at Hebron to transfer Saul's kingship to him in accordance with the command of Yahweh:

²⁵Sons of Judah carrying shield and spear: 6,800 men equipped for battle. ²⁶Of the sons of Simeon: 7,100 well-trained men. ²⁷Of the sons of Levi: 4,600 in addition to Jehoiada, in command of the Aaronites, with 3,700 men; ²⁸Zadok, a young and able fighter and 22 commanders of his family.

²⁹Of the sons of Benjamin: 3,000 kinsmen of Saul, most of them hitherto in the service of the House of Saul. ³⁰Of the sons of Ephraim: 20,800 men famous in their families. ³¹Of the half tribe of Manasseh: 18,000 men assigned by name to go and proclaim David king. ³²Of the sons of Issachar, expert in knowing the times when Israel should take action, and the way to do it: 200 leaders and all their kinsmen under their command.

³³Of Zebulun: 50,000 men fit for service, ready to fight with weapons of every kind. ³⁴Of Naphtali: 1,000 commanders, and with them 37,000 men armed with shield and spear. ³⁵Of the Danites: 28,600 men ready for battle. ³⁶Of Asher: 40,000 men fit for service, ready for battle. ³⁷From Transjordan: 120,000 men of Reuben, Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh, with weapons of every kind.

³⁸All these warriors, ready for battle, came to Hebron willingly to proclaim David king over all Israel; and the rest of Israel, too, were all of one mind in making David king. ³⁹For three days they stayed there, eating and drinking with David, for their kinsmen had sent food for them. ⁴⁰Moreover from as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali their neighbors brought provisions, by donkey and camel, mule and ox — flour cakes, fig cakes, bunches of raisins, wine, oil, quantities of oxen and sheep; for there was joy in Israel.

The ark is brought to Jerusalem

13 ¹David consulted with the commanders of thousands, of hundreds, and with all the leaders.

²To the whole assembly of Israel David said, "If you agree and if Yahweh our God wills it so, we will send messengers to the rest of our brothers throughout the territories of Israel, and also to the priests and Levites in their towns and nearby lands, and tell them to gather here with us. ³We will then go and get the ark of our God, for in the time of Saul we neglected it."

⁴They agreed to this, for in the eyes of all the people it was the right thing to do. ⁵So David gathered all the people together from the Shihor of Egypt to the Pass of Hamath to bring the ark of God from Kirith-jearim. ⁶Then David and all Israel went up to Baalah, to Kirith-jearim in Judah, to bring up the ark of God which bears the name of Yahweh who is seated on the Cherub. ⁷At Abinadab's house they placed the ark of God on a new cart. Uzziah and Ahio were leading the cart. ⁸David and all Israel danced before God with all their might, singing to the accompaniment of lyres, harps, tambourines, cymbals, and trumpets. ⁹When they came to the threshing floor of the Javelin, the oxen stumbled, and Uzzah stretched out his hand and took hold of the ark. ¹⁰Then the anger of Yahweh blazed out against Uzzah, and he killed him because he had laid his hand on the ark, and he died there in the presence of God. ¹¹David was disturbed that Yahweh had punished Uzzah in anger, and so that place has been called Perez-uzzah ever since.

¹²David went in fear of God that day and said, "How can I bring the ark of God to my home?" ¹³So David did not take the ark home to the City of David, but took it to the house of a man named Obed-edom of Gath. ¹⁴The ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom, in his house, for three months, and Yahweh blessed the family of Obed-edom and everything that belonged to him.

14 ¹Hiram, king of Tyre, sent messengers to David with cedar wood and stonemasons and carpenters to build him a palace. ²David then knew that Yahweh had established him as king over Israel, and that for the sake of his people Israel his kingdom was being made prosperous.

³At Jerusalem David took more wives and fathered more sons and daughters. ⁴These are the names of the children born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, ⁵Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet, ⁶Nogab, Nepheg, Japhia, ⁷Elishama, Beeliada, Eliph-elet.

⁸When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king of all Israel, they all marched up to capture him. On hearing this, David went out to meet them. ⁹When the Philistines arrived, they began plundering the Valley of the Rephaim. ¹⁰David consulted Yahweh, "Shall I attack the Philistines? Will you turn them over to me?" Yahweh answered him, "Attack! I will turn them over to you." ¹¹The Philistines went up to Baal-perazim and there David defeated them. David said, "God has broken through them just as water breaks through a dam." For this reason that place was called Baal Perazim. ¹²They had left their gods behind them there, and David ordered them to be burned.

¹³Again the Philistines started plundering in the valley. ¹⁴David again consulted God, and God answered, "Do not attack them from the front; go around and get ready to attack them from the other side, near the balsam trees. ¹⁵When you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, launch your attack, for God is going out ahead of you to defeat the army of the Philistines." ¹⁶David did as God had ordered, and they defeated the Philistine army from Gibeon as far as Gezer.

¹⁷David became famous everywhere, and Yahweh made every nation afraid of him.

15 ¹David put up buildings for himself in the City of David and prepared a place for the ark of God, and he put up a tent for it. ²Then he said, "Only the Levites shall move the ark of God, since Yahweh has chosen them to carry the ark and to serve him always."

³Then David gathered all Israel together in Jerusalem to bring the ark of God up to the place he had prepared for it. ⁴David called together the sons of Aaron and the sons of Levi: ⁵of the sons of Kohath, Uriel the chief and his hundred and twenty kinsmen; ⁶of the sons of Merari, Asaiah and his two hundred and twenty kinsmen; ⁷of the sons of Gershon, Joel and his hundred and thirty kinsmen; ⁸of the sons of Elizaphan, Shemaiah and his two hundred kinsmen; ⁹of the sons of Hebron, Eliel and eighty kinsmen; ¹⁰of the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab and his hundred and twelve kinsmen.

¹¹David called in the priests Zadok and Abiathar, and the Levites Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel and Amminadab. ¹²He told them, "You are the heads of families of the Levites. Purify yourselves, you and your brothers, and bring the ark of Yahweh, the God of Israel, up to the place I have prepared for it. ¹³The first time you were not there to carry it and Yahweh our God punished us for not consulting him as we should have done."

¹⁴So the priests and the Levites purified themselves to bring up the ark of Yahweh, the God of Israel, ¹⁵and the Levites carried the ark of God with the poles on their shoulders, as Moses had ordered according to the command of Yahweh.

¹⁶David then told the leaders of the Levites to assign duties for some Levites to sing and play a joyful tune with their various musical instruments: harps and lyres and cymbals. ¹⁷The Levites then appointed Heman son of Joel, Asaph son of Berechiah, one of his brothers, Ethan son of Kushaiah, one of their Merarite kinsmen; ¹⁸and with them, next in rank, their kinsmen as keepers of the gate: Zechariah son of Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphlehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel. ¹⁹Heman, Asaph and Ethan the cantors, were to clash the cymbals of bronze; ²⁰Zechariah, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah and Benaiah were to play the keyed harp. ²¹Mattithiah, Eliphlehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel and Azaziah, giving the beat, were to play the octave lyre. ²²Chenaniah was chosen to be in charge of the transportation, because he was very skillful at doing these things. ²³Berechiah and Elkanah were to be gatekeepers to the ark. ²⁴The priests Shebaniah, Josphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah and Eliezer were to sound the trumpet before the ark of God. Obed-edom and Jehiah were to be gatekeepers to the ark.

²⁵So David, with the leaders of Israel and the commanders of thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh from Obed-edom's house with great rejoicing. ²⁶And while God was securing the Levites who carried the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven sheep. ²⁷David was wearing a robe of fine linen, like all the Levites who carried the ark, as well as the cantors and Chenaniah, the officer in charge of its transportation. David also wore the linen. ²⁸Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh with shouts of joy to the sound of the horn, trumpets, and cymbals, making music with harp and lyre. ²⁹Now as the ark of the covenant of Yahweh entered the City of David, Michal the daughter of Saul was watching from the window and saw King David dancing and leaping with joy and she despised him.

16 ¹They brought the ark of God in and put it inside the tent that David had prepared for it; and they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings to God. ²And when David had finished offering the sacrifices, he blessed the people in the name of Yahweh. ³He then distributed to all the Israelites, men and women, a loaf of bread each, a piece of roasted meat, and a raisin cake.

David organizes the levitical cult

⁴David appointed some of the Levites to minister before the ark of Yahweh, to commemorate, thank and praise Yahweh, the God of Israel: ⁵first Asaph, second Zechariah, then Uzziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel. These were to play the harp and the lyre, while Asaph was to clash the cymbals. ⁶The priests Benaiah and Jahaziel were to keep sounding the trumpet before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh. ⁷That day, David entrusted this song of praise to Asaph and his brethren:

⁸ Give thanks to Yahweh, call upon his name, proclaim his deeds to the peoples.

⁹ Sing to him, sing his praise; tell of all his marvels.

¹⁰ Glory in his holy name, let the hearts that seek Yahweh rejoice!

¹¹ Seek Yahweh and his strength, seek his face untiringly;

¹² Recall the wondrous deeds he has done, his miracles, the judgments from his mouth.

¹³ Descendants of Israel his servant, sons of Jacob his chosen one,

¹⁴ he is Yahweh our God; he rules over all the earth. ¹⁵ He remembers his covenant forever, his promises for many generations, ¹⁶ the covenant he made with Abraham, his promise to Isaac.

¹⁷ That he gave as law to Jacob, an everlasting covenant for Israel.

¹⁸ For he said, "I give you a land Canaan, your own possession."

²⁰ They wandered from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another.

²¹ But he let no one oppress them, and punished kings for their sake:

²² "Do not touch my anointed ones, do not harm my prophets."

²³ Sing to Yahweh, all the earth. Proclaim his salvation day after day.

²⁴ Tell his glory among the nations and his wonders to every people.

²⁵ Yahweh is great, and highly to be praised, more fearsome than all gods.

²⁶ Nothingness are all the gods of the nations, Yahweh himself made the heavens;

³⁰ Be quiet before him, all the earth! Firm has he made the world, not to be moved.

³¹ Let the heavens be glad, and the earth rejoice! Say among the nations, "Yahweh is King!"

³² Let the sea thunder and all that it holds, let the fields exult and all that is in them, ³³ let all the trees cry out for joy, and rejoice before Yahweh, for he comes to rule the earth.

³⁴ Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good, his love endures forever.

³⁵ Say, "Save us, O God, our Saviour gather us and deliver us from among the nations, that we may give thanks to your holy name and glory in praising you."

³⁶ Blessed be Yahweh the God of Israel from all eternity and forever! And let all the people say, "Amen! Alleluia!"

³⁹ He left Zadok the priest and the priests, his kinsmen, before the Holy Tent of Yahweh at the High place in Gibeon ⁴⁰ to offer burnt offerings to Yahweh regularly, morning and evening, on the altar for burnt offerings and to carry out all that is written in the Law of Yahweh laid down for Israel. ⁴¹ With them were Heman and Jeduthun and the rest of those who were chosen and assigned by name to give praise to God. "For his love is everlasting." ⁴² With them were Heman and Jeduthun who were to sound the trumpets, cymbals and musical instruments accompanying the hymns to God. The sons of Jeduthun were given charge of the gate.

⁴³ Then all went away, each to his own house, and David returned to bless his household.

The prophecy of Nathan

17 ¹ Once David was living in his palace, he said to the prophet Nathan, "Here am I living in a house of cedar, while the ark of Yahweh's covenant dwells beneath a tent cloth." ² Nathan said to David, "Do all that is in your mind, for God is with you."

³ But that very night Yahweh said to Nathan, ⁴ "Go and tell my servant David, 'Yahweh says this: You yourself are not to build a temple for me to live in. ⁵ I have never lived in a temple from the day I brought Israel out until today, but went from tent to tent, from one shelter to another. ⁶ In all my journeying with the whole of Israel, did I say to any one of the rulers of Israel whom I had appointed as shepherds of my people: Why do you not build me a temple of cedar wood?"

⁷ This you must say to my servant David: This is the word of Yahweh Sabaoth: I took you from following the sheep, to be leader of my people Israel. ⁸ I have been with you wherever you have gone, and I have defeated all your enemies as you advanced. I will make your name as great as the name of the greatest on earth. ⁹ I will provide a place for my people Israel; I will plant them there and they shall live in that place and never be disturbed again; nor shall the wicked ever again oppress them, as they did ¹⁰ in the days when I appointed judges over my people Israel. For now I will subdue all their enemies. Moreover I tell you that I will build you a house. ¹¹ And when your days are ended and you must die and be buried with your ancestors, I will raise up your offspring after you, one of your own sons, and I will make his kingdom strong. ¹² He will build a temple for me and I will make his throne firm forever. ¹³ I will be a father to him and he a son to me. I will not withdraw my support from him, as I withdrew it from Saul. ¹⁴ I will put him in charge of my people and his kingdom shall be established forever."

¹⁵ Nathan told David accordingly all these words and this vision.

David's prayer

¹⁶ King David then went in and, seated before Yahweh, said: "I am not worthy of what you have already done for me, Yahweh God, nor is my family. ¹⁷ Yet in your eyes, O God, this is still not enough. For you have made a promise for my descendants reaching into the distant future and you have looked on me as a great man. ¹⁸ What more can I say to you? For you know your servant David. ¹⁹ You yourself have done this because you have looked kindly on your servant and you wanted to show your own greatness.

²⁰ O Yahweh, there is none like you, no God except you alone, that we have ever heard of. ²¹ Is there another people on the earth like your people Israel, whom you rescued from slavery in Egypt to make them your own people, giving yourself a name for great and terrible things by driving nations out before you people whom you rescued from Egypt?

²² You made your people Israel your own people forever; and you, Yahweh, have become their God. ²³ Now, Yahweh, let the promise you have made to me and to my descendants be always kept. ²⁴ May this promise hold good and your name be exalted forever; may they say, 'Yahweh Sabaoth, the God of Israel, is God for Israel.' And let my descendants be established before you forever.

²⁵ O my God, you have just made known to me that you will build me a house; because of this I have to offer this prayer in your presence. ²⁶ Yes, Yahweh, you are God indeed, and you have made this kind promise to me. ²⁷ Be pleased, then, to bless my house so that they may remain forever in your favor You, Yahweh, are the one who blesses, and your blessing will rest on them forever."

The wars of David

18 ¹ After this, David defeated the Philistines and subdued them, taking Gath and its outlying villages. ² He also defeated the Moabites; the Moabites became subject to David, paying him taxes.

⁷ David took the golden shields of the guards of Hadadezer and brought them to Jerusalem. ⁸ From Tibhath and from Cun, towns belonging to Hadadezer, David took a great quantity of bronze; with this Solomon would make the bronze-Sea and the bronze pillars and furnishings.

⁹ When Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had defeated the entire army of Hadadezer, king of Zobah, ¹⁰ he sent his son Hadoram to King David to greet him and to congratulate him on fighting and defeating Hadadezer, since Hadadezer was the enemy of Tou. Hadoram brought articles of every kind in gold, silver and bronze. ¹¹ Which King David also consecrated to Yahweh together with the silver and gold he had taken from all the nations: Edom, Moab, Ammonites, Philistines, Amalek.

¹⁴ David ruled over all Israel, administering law and justice to all his people. ¹⁵ Joab son of Zeruiah was in command of the army; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was recorder; ¹⁶ Zadok son of Ahitub and Abiathar son of Ahimelech were priests; Shavsha was secretary; ¹⁷ Benaiah son of Jehoiada was in command of the Cherethites and Pelethites; David's sons were the chief assistants of the King.

19 ¹ Afterwards Nahash, king of the Ammonites, died and his son Hanun became king. ² David thought, "I will show kindness to Hanun, son of Nahash, since his father was kind to me." And David sent messengers with his condolences on his father's death. But when David's servants reached Hanun in the land of the Ammonites to present these condolences, ³ the Ammonite leaders said to Hanun, "Do you think David means to honor your father when he sends you messengers of sympathy? On the contrary he has sent them here as spies to explore the land, so that he can conquer it." ⁴ Hanun had David's servants seized, shaved their beards, cut their clothes half-way up to the hips and sent them away. ⁵ As soon as David was told what had happened to these men, he sent someone to meet them, for the men were too ashamed to return home. And he said, "Stay in Jericho, until your beards have grown again, and come back then."

⁶ The Ammonites saw that they had made David their enemy and so Hanun and the Ammonites sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and charioteers from the Arameans of Upper Mesopotamia, of Maacah and of Zobah. ⁷ They hired thirty-two thousand chariots; also the king of Maacah with his army. These came and encamped before Medeba, while the Ammonites came out from all their cities and got ready to fight. ⁸ When David heard this, he sent Joab with the whole army and the warriors. ⁹ The Ammonites marched out and took up their positions at the entrance to the town, but the kings who had come remained in the open country. ¹⁰ Joab, seeing that he had to fight on two fronts, to his front and to his rear, chose the best fighters of the Israelites and drew them up in line facing the Arameans. ¹¹ He placed the rest of the troops under the command of his brother Abishai, to face the Ammonites. He said to him, ¹² "If the Arameans prove too strong for me, you shall come to my help; if the Ammonites prove too strong for you, I will come to yours. ¹³ Take courage and fight hard for the sake of our people and the towns of our God. And may Yahweh do as he thinks right."

¹⁴ Joab and the force with him advanced to attack the Arameans, who fled before him. ¹⁵ When the Ammonites saw that the Arameans were running away, they too fled before Abishai, Joab's brother, and withdrew into their town. Then Joab came back to Jerusalem.

20 ¹ At the turn of the year, the time when kings go to war, Joab set out with the army to invade the land of the Ammonites and went to lay siege to Rabbah. David, however, remained in Jerusalem. Joab attacked Rabbah and destroyed it. ² David took the gold crown from the head of the Ammonite idol Milcom; they found that it weighed about seventy five pounds. In it was set a precious stone which made an ornament for David's head. He carried off a great quantity of loot from the town. ³ He brought away its population and set them to work with saws, iron picks, and axes. David treated all the Ammonite towns in the:

⁴After this, war broke out again with the Philistines at Gezer. This was when Sibbecai of Hushah killed Sippai, a descendant of the Rephaim. The Philistines were defeated. ⁵War with the Philistines broke out again, and Elhanan son of Jair killed Lahmi, the ruler of Goliath of Gath, the shaft of whose spear was as thick as a weaver's beam. ⁶There was another giant at Gath, where there was a giant with six fingers in each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in all. He too was a descendant of Rephaim. ⁷He defied Israel and Jonathan, son of David's brother Shimea, killed him.

⁸These men were descended from Rephaim of Gath and they were killed by David and his guards.

21 ¹Satan wanted to bring trouble on the people of Israel and so he made David take a census of the Israelites. ²David said to Joab and to the senior army officers, "Go, and take a census of Israel, from Beer-sheba to Dan, then come back that I may know their number." ³Joab said, "May Yahweh multiply the people a hundred times! My lord king, are they not all our servants? Why do you want to do this? Will you bring guilt upon Israel?"

⁴But the king enforced his order on Joab, and Joab went away, traveling through the whole country of Israel before he returned to Jerusalem. ⁵Joab gave David the figures for the census of the people: the whole of Israel numbered one million, one hundred thousand men capable of drawing sword, and Judah our hundred and seventy thousand capable of drawing sword. ⁶But Joab disapproved of the king's command, and, because of this he had not taken any census of Levi or of Benjamin.

⁷God looked with displeasure on what had been done and so he began to punish Israel. ⁸Then David said to God, "I have sinned greatly by doing this. But now I beg you to forgive me for this fault. I have been very foolish." ⁹Then Yahweh spoke to Gad, David's prophet. ¹⁰"Go and say to David, 'Yahweh says this: I offer you three things; choose one of them for me to do to you.'" ¹¹So Gad went to David and said, "Yahweh says this, 'Take your choice: ¹²three years of famine, three months running away from the armies of your enemies, or three days of Yahweh's own word, and epidemic in your land, with Yahweh's destroying angel bringing death throughout Israel.' Now decide how I am to answer him who sends me." ³David said to Gad, "This is a hard choice, but let me rather fall into the power of Yahweh, since his mercy is very great; and not into the power of men."

¹⁴So Yahweh sent an epidemic on Israel, and seven thousand men of the Israelites died. ¹⁵God sent the angel to Jerusalem to destroy it, but as he was about to destroy it, Yahweh looked and changed his mind; and he said to the destroying angel, "Enough! Now withdraw your hand." The angel of Yahweh was standing beside the threshing floor of Oman the Jebusite. ¹⁶David saw the angel of Yahweh standing between the heavens and earth with a naked sword in his hand, ready to destroy Jerusalem. Then David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell on their faces. ¹⁷And David prayed to God, "Was it not I who sinned, by ordering this wicked census? But these, say your flock, what have they done? Yahweh my God, let your hand be heavy on me and on my family; but let your people escape the plague."

¹⁸The angel of Yahweh then said to Gad, "David must go up and build an altar to Yahweh on the threshing floor of Oman the Jebusite." ¹⁹So David obeyed the command which Gad had spoken in the name of Yahweh. ²⁰Now Oman, as he turned, had seen the angel and had hidden, with his four sons.

Oman was threshing wheat ²¹when David came to him. When Oman looked up and saw David coming, he left the threshing floor and with his face to the ground did homage to David. ²²Then David said to Oman, "Sell me your threshing floor, to build an altar to Yahweh. Let me have it at its full price, that the plague may be turned away from the people." ²³"Take it," Oman said to David, "and let my lord the king do as he thinks right. Look, I will give you the oxen for burnt offerings, the threshing sled for the wood and the wheat for the grain offering; I give them all."

²⁴But King David said to Oman, "No, I must buy it from you at the full price: I will not take for Yahweh what is yours, or offer burnt offerings that cost me nothing." ²⁵So David gave Oman six hundred gold coins for the threshing place.

²⁶David built an altar there to Yahweh and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. He called on Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him with fire from heaven on the altar for burnt offerings ²⁷and ordered the angel to put his sword away. ²⁸Then David saw that Yahweh had answered him on the threshing floor of Oman the Jebusite, so he kept on offering sacrifices there. ²⁹The Holy Tent of Yahweh that Moses had made in the wilderness and the altar for burnt offerings were at that time at the High place at Gibeon, ³⁰but David had not been able to go there before God to consult him, so fearful was he of the sword of the angel of Yahweh.

22 ¹Then David said, "Here is where the Temple of Yahweh God will be; and this is where the people of Israel are to offer burnt offerings.

Preparations for the building of the temple

²David gave orders to gather all the strangers living in the land of Israel and he set stonecutters to prepare stone blocks for building the Temple of God. ³David furthermore stored up great quantities of iron to make nails for the wooden gates and for clamps, and more bronze than could be weighed; ⁴logs of cedar too, beyond the number, the Sidonians and Tyrians having brought cedar logs to David in great quantities.

⁵Then David said, "My son Solomon is young and inexperienced, and the Temple to be built for Yahweh must be of great splendor, and famous for its magnificence in every country. I will make preparations for him." And so, before he died, David laid away large amounts of the materials needed. ⁶He then sent for his son Solomon and instructed him to build a Temple for Yahweh, the God of Israel. ⁷"My son, my heart was set on building a temple for the name of Yahweh my God. ⁸But Yahweh told me, 'You have shed much blood and fought great battles; it is not for you to build a temple for my name, since you have shed so much blood on the earth in my presence.' ⁹But now a son is born to you. He shall be a man of peace, and I will give him peace from all the enemies that surround him; for Solomon is his name, and in his days I will give Israel peace and quiet. ¹⁰He shall build a temple for my name; he shall be a son to me and I a father to him. His dynasty will rule Israel forever. ¹¹Now, my son, may Yahweh be with you and give you success in building a temple for Yahweh your God, as he has said concerning you. ¹²Yet may he give you insight and wisdom so that you may govern Israel according to his Law. ¹³Success will be yours if you carefully observe the statutes and the ordinances that Yahweh has prescribed to Moses for Israel. Be strong and stand fast, be fearless, be confident. ¹⁴ Poor as I am, I have set aside for the Temple of Yahweh four thousand tons of gold, and nearly forty thousand tons of silver and more bronze and iron than can be weighed; I have stored up wood and stone too, to which you must add more. ¹⁵ You will have many workmen, stonecutters, masons, carpenters, skilled artisans of every kind, ¹⁶ while your supply of gold and silver, bronze and iron, will be unlimited. Set to work, then, and may Yahweh be with you!"

¹⁷ David then commanded all the Israelite leaders to help his son Solomon. ¹⁸ "Is not Yahweh your God with you? He has given you peace on all sides, since he has let me conquer all the people who lived in this land, and the land has been subdued for Yahweh and for his people. ¹⁹ So now devote heart and soul to the search for Yahweh your God. Begin to build the sanctuary of Yahweh your God, so that the ark of the covenant of Yahweh and the holy things of God may be brought to the Temple that is built for the name of Yahweh."

The work of the Levites

23 ¹ When David was very old, he made his son Solomon king over Israel. ² He then gathered all the Israelite leaders together, with the priests and Levites.

³ A census was taken of those Levites thirty years old or older. The total was thirty-eight thousand; ⁴ twenty-four thousand of these were responsible for the services of the house of Yahweh; six thousand were scribes and judges; ⁵ four thousand were keepers of the gate; four thousand praised Yahweh on the instruments David had made for that purpose.

⁶ Then David divided the Levites into three groups, according to their clans: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

¹² Sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, Uzziel; four in all. ¹³ Sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron and his descendants were set apart to be in charge of the sacred objects forever, to burn incense in the presence of Yahweh, to serve him and to bless the people in his name forever. ¹⁴ As for Moses, the man of God, his sons were included among the Levites. ¹⁵ Sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer. ¹⁶ Sons of Gershom: Shebuel, the first. ¹⁷ Eliezer had sons: Rehabiah, the first. Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very numerous.

¹⁸ Sons of Izhar: Shelomith, the first. ¹⁹ Sons of Hebron: Jeriah first, Amariah second, Jahaziel third, Jekameam fourth. ²⁰ Sons of Uzziel: Micah first, Isshiah second.

²⁴ These were the sons of Levi by their families, the heads of families, and those registered by name, individually; whoever was twenty years old or older had his duty in the service of the Temple of Yahweh.

²⁵ For David had said, "Yahweh, the God of Israel, has given peace to his people, and he dwells in Jerusalem forever. ²⁶ The Levites are no longer required to carry the Holy Tent or anything used in its service."

²⁷ According to the last words of David, the Levites who had been registered were of twenty years and older. ²⁸ Their duty is to assist the sons of Aaron with the service of the Temple of Yahweh, in the courts and chambers, to purify everything that is sacred; their duty is to serve the Temple of God. ²⁹ They are also responsible for the loaves set out in rows, and for the flour for the grain offering, the wafers of unleavened bread, the cakes baked on the griddle or mixed, and they are to weigh and measure the Temple offerings. ³⁰ They have to be present every morning to give glory and praise to Yahweh, and also in the evening. ³¹ And at every burnt offering to Yahweh on the sabbath, New Moon or solemn feast, in such numbers as are prescribed. They must always be present before Yahweh. ³² In serving the Temple of Yahweh they observe the ritual of the Tent of Meeting, the ritual of the sanctuary and the ritual of their brethren, the sons of Aaron.

The classification of the Priests

24 ¹ These are the groups to which the descendants of Aaron belong. Sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, Ithamar. ² Nadab and Abihu died in their father's lifetime leaving no children, so Eleazar and Ithamar became priests. ³ David divided them into groups with the help of Zadok, one of Eleazar's sons, and Ahimelech, one of the sons of Ithamar, and made a register of them according to their duties. ⁴ The sons of Eleazar were found to have more leading men than the sons of Ithamar: accordingly, from the heads of families of the sons of Eleazar they made sixteen groups, and from those of the sons of Ithamar, eight. ⁵ They divided them, both parties, by lot: there were Temple officials and spiritual leaders among the sons of Eleazar, as well as among the sons of Ithamar. ⁶ One of the Levites, the scribe Shemaiah son of Nethanel, recorded them in the presence of the king, his officers, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech son of Abiathar and the heads of the priestly and levitical families. They took turns in drawing lots for each family of the sons of Eleazar and for the sons of Ithamar.

¹⁹ These men were registered according to their various duties, to enter the Temple of Yahweh according to the regulations that Yahweh, the God of Israel, had given through Haran, their ancestor.

²⁰ As regards the rest of the sons of Levi:

Sons of Amram: Shubael. Sons of Shubael: Jehdeiah. ²¹ For Rehabiah, the sons of Rehabiah: the eldest, Isshiah. ²² Izharites: Shelomoth; sons of Shelomoth: Jahath. ²³ Sons of Hebron: Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth. ²⁴ Sons of Uzziel: Micah; sons of Micah: Shamir, the brother of Micah: Isshiah; sons of Micah: Isshiah, Zechariah. ²⁵ Sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. Sons of Jaaziah: his son; ²⁷ sons of Merari: for Jaaziah his son: Shoham, Zaccur, Ithri: ²⁸ for Mahli: Eleazar who had no sons; ²⁹ for Kish: the sons of Kish: Jerahmeel. ³⁰ Sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, Jerimoth.

³¹ These were the sons of Levi by their families. The head of each family and one of his younger brothers drew lots for their assignments, just as their relatives, the priests descended from Aaron, had done. King David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of families of the priests and of the Levites were witnesses.

The cantors

25 ¹ For the liturgy, David and the senior army officers set apart the sons of Asaph, of Heman and of Jeduthun, who prophesied playing lyre and harp and cymbal, and a list was made of those with these duties to perform.

² Sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, Asharelah; the sons of Asaph were under the direction of Asaph who prophesied whenever the king commanded.

⁴ For Heman: sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romantiez, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, Mahazioth. ⁵ All these were sons of Heman, the king's seer; these sounded the trumpet when Yahweh's word came. God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters; ⁶ all of them sang in the Temple of Yahweh under their father's direction to the sound of cymbal, harp and lyre, for the liturgy in the house of Yahweh at the king's direction.

⁷ All of these, whether of Asaph, Jeduthun or Heman, who were trained in singing to Yahweh, all of them skilled men, were altogether two hundred and eighty-eight. ⁸ They drew lots to determine the assignment of duties of each of them whether they were young or old, experts or beginners. ⁹ The first lot fell to Asaphite, Joseph. The second was Gedaliah, he and his sons and brothers were twelve. ¹⁰ The third was Zaccur, he and his sons and brothers were twelve.

¹¹ The fourth was Izri, he and his sons and brothers were twelve. ¹² The fifth was Nethaniah, he and his sons and brothers were twelve. ¹³ The sixth was Bukkiah, he and his sons and brothers were twelve.

The keepers of the gate

26 ¹ These are the assignments of work for the Levites who served as Temple guards. For the Korahites: Meshelemiah son of Kore, one of the sons of Ebiasaph. ² Meshelemiah had sons: Zechariah the first-born, Jedaiel the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, ³ Elam the fifth, Jochanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh.

⁴ Obbededom had sons: Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sacar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth, ⁵ Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai the eighth; God had indeed blessed him. ⁶ Shemaiah had sons who were important men in their clan because of their great ability. ⁷ Sons of Shemaiah: Othni, Rephael, Obed, Elzabad and his brothers, Elihu and Semachia, brave men. ⁸ All these were sons of Obbededom. These and their sons and brothers were highly qualified for this work. For Obbededom, sixty-two.

⁹ Meshelemiah had sons and brothers: eighteen brave men.

¹⁰ Hosah, son of Merari, had sons: Shimri was the first, for although he was not the first-born his father had made him the chief. ¹¹ Hilkiyah was the second, Tefaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth. Altogether thirteen members of Hosah's family were Temple guards.

¹² The Temple guards were divided into groups, according to their families, and they were assigned duties in the Temple, just as the other Levites were.

²¹ The sons of Ladan, sons of Gershon, through Ladan had the Jehielites for heads of the families of Ladan the Gershonite. ²² The Jehielites, Zetham and Joel his brother, were responsible for the treasuries of the Temple of Yahweh.

²³ As regards the Amramites, Izharites, Hebronites, and Uzzielites:

²⁴ Shebuel son of Gershon, son of Moses, was the officer responsible for the treasuries. ²⁵ His kinsmen through Eliezer: Rehabiah his son, Jeshaiiah his son, Joram his son, Zichri his son, Shelomoth his son.

²⁶ This Shelomoth and his kinsmen were in charge of all the gifts dedicated to Yahweh by King David and by the heads of families as officers of thousands, of hundreds, or as other senior officers. ²⁷ There was a part of the loot they captured in battle and dedicated for use in the Temple ²⁸ and also the things that Samuel and the seer Saul son of Kish, Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah had dedicated. All that had been dedicated was under the responsibility of Shelomoth and his kinsmen.

²⁹ For the Izharites: Chananiah and his sons were in charge of Israel's civil affairs as officials and judges.

³⁰ For the Hebronites: Hashabiah and his kinsmen, one thousand seven hundred fighting men, were appointed as overseers of all Israel west of Jordan, for all the service of Yahweh and the service of the king. ³¹ For the Hebronites: Jerijah the chief. In the fortieth year of David's reign, the family line of the Hebronite families was investigated and fighting men were found belonging to them at Jazer in Gilead. ³² King David appointed two thousand seven hundred fighting men, kinsmen to Jerijah and heads of families, as overseers of the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half tribe of Manasseh for all the service of Yahweh and the sacrifices of the king.

Military and civil organization

27 ¹ Census of the sons of Israel; The heads of families, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and other officers who served the king in all that referred to the divisions of twenty-four thousand men each, that were on duty for a month, each month of the year. ² For the first month Jashobeam, son of Zabdiel, ³ son of Perez, and chief of all the officers of the division had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ⁴ For the second month Dodai, the Ahohite had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ⁵ For the third month Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the chief priest, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ⁶ Benaiah who was champion of The Thirty, was overseer for The Thirty and for his division. Ammizabad was his son. ⁷ For the fourth month was Asahel, the brother of Joab; his son Zebadiah succeeded him. He had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ⁸ For the fifth month, Shamuth the Izrahite had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ⁹ For the sixth month, Ira son of Ikesh of Tekoa had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹⁰ For the seventh month, Helez the Pelonite, an Ephraimite, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹¹ For the eighth month, Sibbecai of Hushah, a Zerahite, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹² For the ninth month, Abiezer of Anathoth, a Benjaminite, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹³ For the tenth month, Maharai of Netophah, a Zerahite, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹⁴ For the eleventh month, Benaiah of Pirathon, an Ephraimite, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹⁵ For the twelfth month, Heldai from Netophah, of Othniel, had charge of a division of twenty-four thousand men. ¹⁶ Overseers for the tribes of Israel: Eliezer son of Zichri was chief officer for the Reubenites, Shephatiah, son of Maacha for the Simeonites, ¹⁷ Hashabiah, son of Kemuel for the Levites, Zadok for the Aaronites, ¹⁸ Elihu, one of David's brothers, for the Judaeans, Omri son of Michael for the Issacharites, ¹⁹ Ishmaiah, son of Obadiah for the Zebulunites, Jeremiah, son of Azriel for the Naphthalites, ²⁰ Hoshea, son of Azaziah for the Ephraimites, Joel, son of Pedaiah for the half tribe of Manasseh, ²¹ Iddo, son of Zechariah for the half tribe of Manasseh in Gad, Jaasiel, son of Abner for the Benjaminites, ²² Azazel, son of Jeroham for the Danites. These were the officials for the tribes of Israel.

²³ David took no census of those who were twenty years old and under, since Yahweh had promised to make Israel as numerous as the stars of heaven.

²⁴ Joab, son of Zeruiah began a census, but he did not finish it for God punished Israel because of this census. The final figures were never recorded in the official records of King David.

²⁵ This is the list of those who administered the king's property. Overseers for the king's storerooms: Azmaveh son of Adiel. Commissioner for the stores in provincial towns, villages, castles: Jonathan son of Uziah. ²⁶ For the agricultural workers employed on the land: Ezri son of Chelub. ²⁷ For the vineyards: Shimei of Ramah. For those in the vineyards who looked after the wine cellars: Zabdi of Shepham. ²⁸ For the olives and sycamores in the lowlands: Baalhanan of Geder. For the stores of oil: Joash. ²⁹ For cattle in pasture at Sharon: Shitrai of Sharon. For cattle in the valleys: Shaphat son of Adlai. ³⁰ For camels: Obil, the Ishmaelite. For donkeys: Jehdeiah of Meranoth. ³¹ For flocks: Jaziz, the Hagrite. All these were overseers for King David's property.

³² Jonathan, David's uncle, was a skillful adviser and a scholar. ³³ Ahithophel was the king's counselor. Hushai the Archite was Friend of the King. ³⁴ Jehoiada, son of Benaiah, and Abiathar succeeded Ahithophel. Joab was commander of the king's armies.

David's instructions for the temple

28 ¹ David held a meeting in Jerusalem of all the officials of Israel, the overseers for the tribes, and the officials in the royal service, the commanders of thousands, the commanders of hundreds, the overseers for all the property and livestock of the king and his sons, together with the palace officials, leading soldiers, and important men. ² Then King David got up and said:

"My brothers and my people, listen to me. I had set my heart on building a settled home for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, as a footstool for our God. I have made preparations for building, ³ but God has said to me, 'You are not to build a temple for my name, for you have been a man of war and have shed blood.'

⁴ Yahweh, the God of Israel, chose me and my descendants to rule Israel forever. He chose Judah for leader, my family within the tribe of Judah, and of my father's sons myself. He was pleased to make me king of all Israel. ⁵ Of all my sons — he has chosen my son Solomon to sit on the throne of Yahweh over Israel. ⁶ He said to me, 'Solomon your son is the man to build my Temple and my courts, for I have chosen him to be a son to me and I will be a father to him. ⁷ I will make his kingdom last forever if he continues to obey carefully all my laws and commands as he does now.'

⁸ So now in the sight of all Israel and of the assembly of Yahweh, and in the hearing of our God, I tell you to observe and meditate on all the commandments of Yahweh your God, so that you may possess this prosperous land and leave it to your children after you as an inheritance forever.

⁹ And you, Solomon my son, know the God of your father, serve him with an undivided heart and a willing mind; for Yahweh knows all our thoughts and desires. If you seek him, he will let you find him; but if you turn away from him, he will abandon you forever. ¹⁰ Realize at this moment that Yahweh has chosen you to build a house for him as sanctuary. Be strong and set to work."

¹¹ David gave his son Solomon the plans for the vestibule, the buildings, the treasures, the upper rooms, the inner apartments and the room where the mercy Seat would be. ¹² He also gave him a description of all he had in mind for the courts of Yahweh's House, all the surrounding apartments, the treasures of Yahweh's House and the treasures of votive offerings;

¹³also of the orders of priests and Levites, the liturgical duties in Yahweh's House. ¹⁴He instructed him about how much silver and gold was to be used for making the utensils. ¹⁵The bullion for the golden lampstands and their lamps, the gold bullion for the silver lampstand, for the lampstand and its lamps according to the requirements for each lampstand, ¹⁶gold bullion for the tables on which the rows of bread were set, for each of these tables, the silver for the silver tables, ¹⁷the forks, the sprinkling bowls, basins of pure gold, the gold bullion for the bowls, for each of the bowls, ¹⁸the bullion of refined gold for the altar of incense. He gave him the plans for the chariot, for the golden cherubim with wings outspread covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh - ¹⁹all this in accordance with the plan drawn according to the instructions which Yahweh himself gave him to carry out.

²⁰Then David said to his son Solomon, "Be strong, stand firm; be fearless, be determined and set to work, because Yahweh God, my God, is with you. He will not fail you or abandon you before you have finished all the work to be done for the House of Yahweh. ²¹Here are the orders of priests and Levites for all the duties of the House of God; every willing man of any aptitude will help you in all this work; the officials and all the people are entirely at your command."

29 ¹Then King David said to the whole assembly, "Solomon my son, whom Yahweh has chosen, is still young and the work is great; this palace is not for men but for Yahweh God. ²With all my means, I have provided for the house of my God, adding gold to gold, silver to silver, bronze to bronze, iron to iron, wood to wood, onyx, inlaid stones, colored and striped stones, precious stones of every kind, masses of alabaster. ³What is more, the gold and silver that I have in my own treasury I give out of love for the house of God, above what I have provided already for the Holy House - ⁴115 tons of the finest gold, gold of Ophir, 265 tons of pure silver for plating the walls of the buildings. ⁵Whatever gold you have, whatever silver, or workmanship of the craftsman's hand, will each of you offer it to Yahweh today?"

⁶Then the heads of families, the officials for the tribes of Israel, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and those who managed the king's affairs, ⁷gave for the service of the house of God 190 tons of gold, 380 tons of silver, 675 tons of bronze, and 3,750 tons of iron. ⁸Those who had precious stones brought them to Jehiel, the Gershonite for the treasury of Yahweh's House. ⁹The people rejoiced at what had been given so readily, since their gifts to Yahweh had been made wholeheartedly. King David too was filled with joy. ¹⁰In sight of the whole assembly David blessed Yahweh and said:

"May you be blessed, Yahweh God of Israel our ancestor, forever and ever! ¹¹Yours, Yahweh, is the greatness, the power, splendor, length of days, glory, for all that is in the heavens and on the earth is yours.

Yours is the sovereignty forever, O Yahweh; you are supreme ruler over all. ¹²Riches and honor go before you, you are ruler of all, in your hand lie strength and power; You are the one who gives greatness and strength to all.

¹³At this time, our God, we give you thanks, we praise the splendor of your name. ¹⁴For who am I and what is my people to have received all that we give you back now? All comes from you; what we have received from your own hand we have given to you. ¹⁵For we are strangers before you, settlers only, as all our ancestors were; our days on earth pass like a shadow, and there is no hope beyond.

¹⁶Yahweh, our God, all this wealth that we have brought together to build a house for your holy Name, comes from your hand, all is yours. ¹⁷O my God, I know that you examine the heart and delight in honesty, and in honesty of heart I have willingly given all this; and now with joy I have seen your people here offer their gifts willingly. ¹⁸O Yahweh, God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, keep such thoughts in the hearts and minds of your people forever, and direct their hearts toward you. ¹⁹Give Solomon my son a heart determined to keep your commandments, your decrees, your statutes; may he practice them all, and build this palace I have prepared for you."

²⁰Then David said to the whole assembly, "Bless now Yahweh your God!" And the whole assembly blessed Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and went on their knees to give honor to Yahweh and to the king. ²¹The following day, the Israelites offered sacrifices and burnt offerings to Yahweh: a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, a thousand lambs with their wine offerings, as well as many sacrifices for the whole of Israel. ²²They ate and drank that day in Yahweh's presence with great joy. Then they made Solomon, son of David, their second king and anointed him to rule over them in the name of Yahweh, and anointed Zadok as priest. ²³Solomon sat on the throne of Yahweh, in place of David his father. He prospered, and all Israel obeyed him. ²⁴All the officials, all the champions, and even all the sons of King David, swore fidelity to King Solomon. ²⁵Yahweh exalted Solomon greatly in the eyes of all Israel, and gave him a glorious reign such as had not been enjoyed by any king over Israel before him.

²⁶David son of Jesse had reigned over the whole of Israel. ²⁷His reign over Israel had lasted forty years; he had reigned in Hebron for seven years, and in Jerusalem for thirty-three. ²⁸He died at a good old age, with his fill of days, of riches, of honor. Then his son Solomon succeeded him. ²⁹The history of King David, from first to last, can be found in the records of Samuel, the prophet, the records of Nathan the prophet, and the records of Gad, the prophet. ³⁰These records tell how he ruled, how powerful he was, and all the things that happened to him, to Israel, and to the surrounding kingdoms.

2 CHRONICLES

Solomon's gift of wisdom

1 Solomon, son of David, took firm control of the Kingdom of Israel. Yahweh, his God, was with him and exalted him greatly. 2 Solomon then spoke to all Israel, to commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to all the princes of Israel, the heads of families. 3 Then Solomon, and with him the whole assembly, went to the High place at Gibeon, where God's Tent of Meeting was, which Moses, the servant of God, had made in the wilderness; 4 David, however, had brought the ark of God from Kiriat-jearim to the place he had prepared for it, having set up a tent for it in Jerusalem. 5 The bronze altar that Bezalel, son of Uri, son of Hur, had made stood there in front of the Holy Tent of Yahweh; Solomon, with the assembly, came to this altar, looking for Yahweh's presence. 6 Solomon went up to the bronze altar that was by the Tent of Meeting, and offered a thousand burnt offerings on it.

7 That night, God appeared to Solomon and said, "Ask what you would like me to give you." 8 Solomon replied to God, "You showed great kindness to David my father; and you have made me king in his place. 9 Yahweh God, the promise you made to David my father has now been fulfilled, since you have made me king over a people who are so many that they cannot be counted. 10 Therefore now give me wisdom and knowledge to act as leader of this people, for who could govern a people so great as yours?"

11 God said to Solomon, "Since that is what you want, you have asked, not for riches, treasure, honor, the lives of your enemies, or even for a long life, but for wisdom and knowledge to govern my people of whom I have made you king; 12 therefore wisdom and knowledge are granted you. I give you riches too, and treasures, and honor such as none of the kings had that were before you, nor shall any have that come after you."

13 Solomon left the High place and the Tent of Meeting at Gibeon and returned to Jerusalem. 14 Solomon built up a force of chariots and horses; he had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horses; these he stationed in the chariot towns and with the king in Jerusalem. 15 During his reign, silver and gold became as common in Jerusalem as stone, while cedar wood was as plentiful as the ordinary sycamore trees in the foothills of Judah. 16 Solomon's horses were imported from Cilicia; the king's agents took delivery of them from Cilicia at a fixed rate. 17 They imported chariots from Egypt for 600 pieces of silver each, and horses for 150 each. These men acted in the same way for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Aram. 18 Solomon decided to build a house for Yahweh's Name and a palace for himself.

Solomon and Huram

2 1 He put 70,000 men to work transporting materials, 80,000 to quarry in the hill country, and 3,600 supervisors in charge of them. 2 Solomon then sent this message to Hiram king of Tyre, "Deal with
